return for us. It is unusual for m to wait upon their servants, but Christ was among His disciples as on served. See John 13: 4, 5. This di nishes the joy with which they shall b ceived into the other world by the Jesus, who has gone before to prepa them, and has told them that His f will honor them (John 12: 26). 38.
second or third watch." The Jew adopted the Roman custom of d the night into four watches. The watch was from 6 to 9, the second 9 to 12, the third from 12 to 3, the
from 3 to 6.

39. "Had known what hour." The holder's ignorance of the time wh thief would come is the reason w does not watch. He cannot alway awake, so he has to go to sleep robbed. But our ignorance is the for wakefulness, because we can kee itually awake all through life. The holder watches to prevent, but we t in that for which the watch is
"Would have watched." "In the E State punishes, but leaves the prev and detection of theft and robbery individual interested. Hence the man is necessary and important where." 40. "Be ye therefore ready ways ready so he will never be tak awares. Watchfulness insure rea readiness insures safety. Indif marks the way to sin and despa scriptural preparation includes repe and conversion. "Cometh; when ye not." See 1 Thess. 5: 2; 2 Pet. 3: should resist the temptation to drowsiness. Nothing is much wor a sleepy religion (Rev. 3: 16).

41. The faithful servant rewarde 41-44). 41. "Peter said." "This was the one who afterward most the admonition (Matt. 26: 74), and had a manner forgot it. Those wh in most danger are often slowest t
By words of warning." "Unto us, to all." Is meant for us as thine or for all men?

42. "Faithful and wise steward."
steward was a middle person betw master and slave, and had the car whole household. It was a post fidence in which faithfulness was r
As the steward to the rest of the s so should the apostles stand wit ence to other believers. Faithfu before wise because the true wisdo heart comes from faithfulness:
make ruler." That one would be r had previously proven himself faith wise, who attended to his duties his master's absence with the same that he did when he was presen give ment." As God's stewards w be ready to give out to others places at our disposal.

43. "Blessed." He is blessed deed; he rejoices because he is the faithful performance of his d his lord, and he is blessed with promotion. "Shall find so doing see here what Christ means by w
"not gazing up into the heavens but the faithful performance of d
"Over all." So each saint own God's possessions, even now (1 Co 22). "The reward is both outward ward; more glories and blessing and larger capacities for usefuln enjoyment." To him that hath given.

44. The profligate servant punis 45-48). 45. "Say in his heart." H of being faithful, the servant plan wickedness and to actually sin, a different "portion" will be ed him upon his Lord's return.
His coming." The fact that Chri ing is delayed causes the love of wax cold (2 Pet. 3: 3, 4). "To drink." Self-indulgence is a very sin. "To be drunken." This was a common and terribly destructi Christ's time, but it is the sam
46. "When he looketh not." T will come suddenly and call ever an account. "In sunder." Tha most terrible method of executi
inals, anciently. "With the unb Read Rev. 21: 8. This verse s awful doom of the ungodly. T forms of punishment are used to punishment that will come to pentant sinner.

47. "Which knew." Either from received information, or because the revelation was with God will hold us accountable no what we know, but for what have known by putting forth a fort. "Be beaten." This is a re the Jewish custom of beating ties. "Many stripes." Shall b and justly punished. Those many privileges, who are often who have clear gospel light, a not repent, shall be far more punished than others. Exceptio and punishment (Luke 10: 13; 17; 2 Pet. 2: 21). 48. "That k
That knew not fully, for there thing as absolute moral ignoran 1: 20; 2: 14, 15). The reference those who had comparatively hi edge.

Safe Blowers Cause $60,000

The fire that destroyed the A plant at Janesville, Wis., wa by burglars blowing open
The loss by fire was $60,000; $15,000. There was no mone safe.

Miners Fall 2000 Feet.

The collapse of a cage in th
son mine, at Johannesburg, Africa, precipitated forty-three 2000 feet to the bottom.

To a Friend in Bermuda.

Of all fair creatures, I'd like to say,
One that appeals to me
Is the rollicking, frolicking green moray,
That wriggles beneath the sea.

You'll bring me one about twelve feet long,
With its melting eyes of gray,
And I'll sing you a grateful song
Of the beautiful, green moray.

Its whiskers one would be all too good
For use that man live on hay;
If you can, procure him you certainly should
Such a beautiful green moray.

Should his whiskers be red and his tail be white,
His belly a navy blue,
And his body resemble the stars at night,
I'll be deeply obliged to you.

I hope you won't deem that I ask too much,
For life is still young and gay;
But I surely would like to be placed in touch
With a beautiful green moray.

—Samuel Dechant.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL LADY

By GEORGE BEARDSLEY.

Copyright, 1901, by Daily Story Publishing Company.

In Vista there was no political paper in Nebraska—long before Jack went into politics—the editor of the Platteville Weekly News to "size things up for himself the people by holding a beauty test. "Who is the most beautiful lady in Vista county?" was his editorial and local leader every week for months. He also sandwiched in between the Pill Ad. and the discovering announcement that lots of cobs would be taken in subscription. Every issue of the News from September 1 to 30 contained a copy of the Ballot:

Platteville Weekly News.	:
MOST BEAUTIFUL LADY	:
CONTEST.	:
One Vote For	:
	:
The Most Beautiful Lady	:
in Vista Co., Neb.	:

"I would vote this ticket as often as he had copies of it cut from the paper. A new subscriber got to five votes out of hand.
The lady would be awarded a solid gold watch and chain."
The balloting opened without much excitement. At the end of the first week the score stood:

Marjorie Traylor	7
Katherine Ormsby	6
Maggie Heyward	6
Jessie Biggelowe	1

That Marjorie Traylor led was no surprise. The guess was general that no one could keep up the pace.
Only Miss Heyward, some were unkind enough to suspect that her pupils would be constrained by policy to change their votes her way—just as they took her the biggest red strawberries. At the bottom of the list was a modest. The fair Jessie was known as "some country girl with rich folks," people surmised.

The battle raged on the fray. "Vote for the most beautiful lady. Cut out the ballot on page 3." Subscribe for the News and cast five votes for the most beautiful lady in Vista county."
A load of cobs will be taken at this office on subscription." The editor made no sign of this as ever. Every issue of the paper except the patent insides contained the offer in black face. But it looked as though the people thought more of their cobs than they did of their newspaper.

The second and third week the ballot remained with no change in order of the favorites. The highest now had 31 votes. Jessie Biggelowe gained one vote each week, and

"Vote for the most beautiful lady."

Jessie's smile broadened to a regular ha! ha! The wag, Ernest Somerville, who was voting for the mysterious Jessie. But Editor Jack declared he didn't know; the ballot came through the mails.

Meanwhile the editor called for
"A load of cobs on subscription."
At the end of nine weeks the balloting stood as follows: Miss Heyward, 87; Miss Ormsby, 74; Miss Traylor,
85; Miss Alice Bracken, 40; Miss Biggelowe, 9. Jessie, the unknown dark horse pace, but, as Ernest Somerville complacent over the school leader's fine lead—said, "Jessie couldn't win now if all the other nags were pulled."

"Cut out the ballot and keep the ball rolling," sang the editor. "Three weeks more tell the tale. Pay your subscription and vote for your favorite! Step up to the News office and vote like a man!" Meanwhile, for him—Prosperity. He had beefsteak every day for dinner. And after dinner he smoked a cigar—seemed like Sunday the week around. But still the desire of his heart was cobs.
Readers at a distance used to open the paper with the standing family

"Kill that corn-cob notice, Jimmie!"

joke, "Well, wonder if the News man's got his cobs yet."

At length the final week of the contest rolled around. Katherine led the list with 88; Miss Heyward, 87 (the school and Somerville stood by her loyally); Marjorie, 85. All the betting was on these three. It seemed plain no one else would be in the race at the finish. The last days saw much quiet activity among the young men about town. Each exerted himself to the utmost to throw the scale for his favorite. Left-over copies of the News went off like seats for a prize fight.
New subscriptions poured in, sometimes two, three a day. Editor Jack felt so prosperous that he was almost tempted to the reckless extravagance of going out and paying cash for a load of cobs. Winter was on in full blast now and splitting goods boxes for kindling disagreed with the editorial humor. But he controlled himself, and only put a double head on the notice for cobs—"Cobs on Subscription!"

Saturday morning, the last day of the contest, Jack sat at the editorial table making the final count of the ballots just before going to press. The door of the sanctum opened slowly, and a burly countryman, with light hair and a very red face, stepped inside.

"You the editor?" said he.

"Yes, sir, that's me."

"Well, my name's Slavin—Bill Slavin—from fourteen miles 'tother side the river. Used to live in town, before you come." His eye was on the piles of ballots. "Hear as how you want some cobs on subscription," he said.

Jack started up, but went on counting "Ye—es," he said, with business reserve, "I could use a load—twenty-seven, thirty-six, forty-one," the cobs at last! they threw him clear out of count.

"Couldn't use more'n one load, I reckon," said the countryman, shuf-fling his feet.

"Heavens, yes, twenty loads," cried Jack, thinking what a time he had had of getting any.

"Done!" says Slavin, on the instant.
Jack looked up wild-eyed. "Send me the paper for twenty years," went on the farmer, coolly. "Start deliver the cobs Monday. How's the votin'?"

Jack began to see the light. He finished the count, read the votes of the first three, Miss Heyward leading with 89.

"That there Miss Heyward's the schoolma'am, ain't it? I remember her, 'fore your time." Jack recalled the story he'd heard of how Maggie Heyward had thrashed a bully years ago, and Slavin sounded like the name.

"How 'bout the tail enders?" said
Slavin, carelessly.

Jack read them off, bringing up the rear with Miss Jessie Biggelowe, eleven.

"Um-m-hum," assented the farmer, blushing like a sugar-beet. "Now if you don't mind, jest cast a even hundred fer Miss Jessie—an' I guess she's a winner out, eh? What's that, who is she? Say, what's this here 'lection fer, anyhow? She's first money, that's who she is, gol-durn; an' some day, if I don't make any mistake, she's goin' to be Mrs. Bill Slavin—gol-durned if she ain't! Good-day to you."

The editor ran the fingers of both hands through his hair, walked over and spit on the stove. Then he went back to the table and wrote this headline in tremendous letters: EXTRA!
EXTRA! Then he shouted into the back room: "Kill that corn-cob notice, Jimmie!"

And that day's paper as a sensation maker, stands alone in the history of Vista county journalism.

ACTOR'S IDEA OF HAPPY DEATH.

Mansfield Tells How One Thespian Got Revenge on a Manager.

Richard Mansfield was discussing the subject of vengeance.

"Vengeance, as a rule," he said,
"should be left to the gods. I can't help sympathizing, though, with the vengeance that a stage villain took on his manager last year in the West.

"The villain was supposed, at the end of the fifth act, to plunge a knife in his heart, and to die very hard, rolling and kicking all over the stage.

"When his cue came he did plunge in the knife, but then, instead of dying he lay down on the floor, crossed his legs and burst into loud, long laughter, the dagger still sticking, mind you, in his breast.

"The audience was amazed and stu-pefied at such unreasonable conduct.
The actors on the stage could not go on, for they were amazed and stupefied, too. The manager nearly beside himself, hissed from the wings in a loud whisper:

"'You fool, what are you laughing at? This is your death scene.'

"'Death scene?' said the recumbent villain. 'Yes, I know it is, and with such a salary as you give me, death comes as a happy release.'"

HIS IDEA OF PLYMOUTH ROCK.

Small Pupil in Doubt as to Whether It Was a Hen or a Rooster.

"During one of my visits through the country districts," said the professor, "I happened to reach a small village where they were to have a flag raising at the schoolhouse. After the banner had been flung to the breeze, there was an exhibition of drawings which the pupils had made, and of the work they had done during the year.

"The teacher recited to them, 'The Landing of the Pilgrims,' and after she had finished she requested each pupil to try and draw from his or her imagination a picture of Plymouth Rock.

"Most of them went to work at once, but one little fellow hesitated, and at length raised his hand.

"'Well, Willie, what is it?' asked the teacher.

"'Please ma'am, do you want us to draw a hen or a rooster?'"

Rule of the Game.

They were playing a little social game of poker in the parlor, the young gentleman acting as instructor to the ladies.

"It is not your turn to bet now,
Miss Primleigh," he remarked; "you have the advantage of not having to bet until the others have all said."

"Why so?" she inquired.

"Because you have the age on us," he responded.

She was his bitterest enemy from that time on.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Two Pictures.

I.

An old farmhouse with meadows wide
And sweet with clover on each side;
A bright-eyed boy, who looks from out
The door with woodbine wreathed about,
And wishes his one thought all day:
"Oh! if I could but fly away
From this dull spot the world to see,
How happy, happy, happy,
How happy I should be."

II.

Amid the city's constant din,
A man who round the world has been,
Who, 'mid the tumult and the throng,
Is thinking, thinking all day long:
"Oh! could I only tread once more
The field path to the farmhouse door,
The old, green meadow could I see,
How happy, happy, happy,
How happy I should be."

—Universalist Leader.

Brave Answer.

"John Henry, why did you go to bed with your clothes on last night?" asked Mrs. Gibbins.

"Because it was cold," bravely answered John Henry, who couldn't remember anything at all about having gone to bed, but who was quick witted.—Buffalo Express.

Not on the Mouth.

Nell—He has been very attentive to me and last night he tried to kiss me.

Belle—Well, it's all right to be attentive, but that was overdoing it.

Nell—Oh, no; he underdid it. He only succeeded in kissing me on the chin.

May Adopt Metric System.

A petition in support of the bill for the adoption of the metric weights and measures, which will be introduced in the House of Lords by Lord Bel-haven and seconded by Lord Kelvin, is being extensively signed throughout the British kingdom.

Fight on American Lumber.

As a means of keeping American lumber out of Canada, lumbermen of the Canadian Northwest have agreed to reduce the price $1 per 1,000 feet, providing that the railroads would also reduce rates from 40 cents a hundred to 33 cents.

HOW UTE CHARMED A GRIZLY.

Indian Found Bear Susceptible to the Powers of Argument.

"The most interesting story I ever heard came from the lips of old 'Buckskin Charley,' chief of the Southern Utes," said J. P. Altberger of Philadelphia.

"As told by a white man the narrative is tame, indeed, lacking the dramatic action and eloquence of the red warrior. It was about a meeting with a big grizzly bear in the mountains of Colorado. Charley was out looking for deer. He was equipped with an old-fashioned, single-barrel, muzzle-loading rifle, which put him at a terrible disadvantage, when he was suddenly confronted by one of the biggest specimens of the grizzly he ever saw.

"'I jumped behind big tree very quick,' he said, 'and Mr. Bear came close, rearing up on his hind legs. I was scared to shoot, only having one barrel. Then I commenced to talk. I said: 'Mr. Bear, I am your friend. I come out after deer. I hope you go away and so I kill deer and leave big piece of meat for you.' Then the bear seemed to get friendly and he dropped on his legs to the ground, much as to say he'd like a piece of deer, and then he run off into the mountains."—
Washington Post.

GRASS TO HOLD CANAL BANKS.

Experiments Made by the Engineers in Charge of Ditch at Suez.

It has been discovered by the engineers who are occupied with the maintenance of the Suez canal that the best of all methods of protecting the banks from crumbling and decay is provided by the natural growth of reeds which fringe the channel for some distance below Ismailia on the African side, and some rather interesting attempts have been lately made to plant new beds in other parts of the canal.

It is stated that the local species of reed with which the experiment has been so far made will not live in salt or very brackish water in the early stages of its growth, though it will bear transplanting later, and that at present the serviceableness of the natural means of protection is consequently limited.

Where the water is sufficiently free from brine, however, the network of roots is found to put a facing on the loose soil of the banks more successful and permanent than a wall of brick or stone, and it would probably not be difficult to discover and establish some coarse sedge or other plant of the sea marshes.—Country Life.

AT HOME ON THE SCAFFOLD.

Bashful Contractor Not Fitted for Public Speaking Gives Odd Excuse.

Elmer E. Johnston, executive commissioner of the Washington World's fair exhibit is attracting a great deal of favorable attention in St. Louis.
Recently Mr. Johnston gave the St.
Louis people some strong advice against extortion, and the other day he told a reporter a little story.

"Seeing all these buildings up," he said, "reminds me of a hospital dedication that I attended last October.
We had the builder of the hospital there and we called on him to make a speech. He was a big, ruddy chap, timid and embarrassed. He got up, bowed awkwardly and began:

"'Ladies and gentlemen, I guess I am better fitted for the scaffold than for public speaking.'"

Overstepping the Limit.

When Meredith P. Gentry was defeated for the governorship of Tennessee by Andrew Johnson, afterward president, he was much chagrined, principally, he said, because he "had been run over by that great calf," as he contemptuously designated Johnson. Gentry's melancholy over the result of the election increased as time passed and he went into a decline.
So some of his friends visited him in order to cheer him up and, as was the custom in those days, emptied several demijohns of whisky during the evening. It was very late before they thought of retiring and then Gentry announced that, as there was a clergyman present (Parson Brownlow), he would request him to offer up a prayer before the company went to bed. Brother Brownlow, whose specialty was exhortation, began to pray.
He included everything in his petition and at last said: "and O Lord, if in thy infinite mercy it be possible, have mercy also upon Andrew Johnson." Gentry was on his feet in an instant. "Stop, Mr. Brownlow, stop!"
he exclaimed. "You will exhaust the fount of infinite mercy."

Lack of Cuss Words in Japan.

The poor, benighted heathen cannot swear
In Japan;
They possess no ardent cuss words over there
In Japan.
When the wind blows off their hats,
When their darlings prove untrue,
When they slip and crack their slats,
O I wonder what they do
In Japan?

Does the hammer never fall upon a thumb
In Japan?
Do insistent bill collectors never come
In Japan?
When they think they've got downstairs
And the bottom's far away,
If the Jap man never swears,
O I wonder what they say,
In Japan?

Do they never miss the last car out at at night
In Japan?
Do they never hit the sidewalk when they light,
In Japan?
When they put in all their cash
And are therefore brought to grief
When the market goes to smash,
How do they obtain relief,
In Japan?

Do the people never chance to step on tacks
In Japan?
Do they never get their fingers caught in cracks,
In Japan?
When they don new clothes and find
At the office, far away,
That they've left their keys behind,
O I wonder what they say,
In Japan?

Good Hit Was Wasted

Queer situations come to pass now and then in baseball which puzzle players, umpire and spectators alike for the moment and one of the queerest happened in the Eastern League in a game between Providence and Bro-cton. Tommy Bannon, one of those base runners inclined to do the unexpected on the bases, was at the bat for Brocton and Patsy Flaherty of the same team was on second base. Bannon cut loose with all his might at a straight ball, and the next instant the leather was shrieking in line flight toward center field. The center fielder was seen to put up his hands for the ball, which was going straight at him. The sun was in the center fielder's eyes and he slightly misjudged the ball, which sailed just over his head. But as he had his hands all set for the whizzing pellet, some thought he had caught the ball. Bannon saw that the ball had not been caught and with head down tore around the bases, kicking up clouds of dust en route. He was reposing on third base by the time the ball was fielded in.

The captain of the Providence team, as soon as things had quieted down a bit, ran up to Umpire Hunt, meantime getting the ball and tagging Bannon, and made the claim that Bannon was out.

"No, that don't go," exclaimed the umpire. "Bannon touched all the bases all right."

The Providence captain reiterated his contention, and again Hunt declared the man safe.

"But," protested the Providence man, "what is Flaherty doing on second base?"

The umpire looked, and, sure enough there was Flaherty on second base, and the man who had batted after him a base ahead of him—an absurd situation. Flaherty had thought the ball was caught, and had stuck to his base, and Bannon, without noticing him, in the excitement, had run past him. There was nothing for the umpire to do but call Bannon out.

The next time Bannon came to bat there was nobody on base, and a bleacherite sang out in earsplitting tones the following timely advice:

"Now, then, Tommy, soak it, and this time run as far as you like!"

The Speed of Storks

No living thing, not even a scared jack-rabbit, can travel with the speed displayed by such birds as the stork and the northern bluethroat. Not only do these birds fly with a speed which can hardly be conceived, but they keep up their rapid flight for one or two thousand miles at a stretch without apparently tiring.

Evidence has been collected recently which shows that the bluethroat flies from Central Africa to the shores of the North Sea, a distance of 1,600 miles, in less than a day and a night, and making it, moreover, in one uninterrupted flight.

The storks, which spend their summers in Austria-Hungary and their winters in India and Central Africa, are also marvelous travelers, and make their journeys twice a year in one unbroken flight each time.

From Budapest in Hungary, to La-hore in India, is about 2,400 miles in an air line, and the storks make the journey in twenty-four hours, thus traveling at the rate of 100 miles an hour for the whole distance. The storks which spend the summer in Central Europe and the winter in Central Africa travel with the same rapidity.

Slatin Pasha, an Austrian in the service of the Khedive, and now governor of the Central African province of Darfur, was for many years a captive in the hands of the Mahdi and the Khalifa when the dervishes killed Gordon and established their empire, now overthrown, in the Soudan. One day, at Omdurman, he saw a stork with a metal band attached to one of its hind legs. He caught the bird and found engraved upon the band the name of an old friend in Austria.

He wrote a note to his friend and tied it to the metal band. When the stork returned to Austria for the summer the friend saw the letter, caught the stork and read the message, which was the first certain assurance that the outside world received that Slatin was still alive.

This stork, as proved by the dates, made the journey from Omdurman to the Austrian country place, a distance of nearly 3,000 miles, at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour.

Didn't Know the Name

Mlle. Duval, until recently head of the French department of Smith college, spent one summer in a tiny country town in New England. She was very much worried as the days passed because she did not receive an expected letter from France. Every morning and every evening she would inquire of the postmaster if there were a letter for Mlle. Duval, and each time he would shake his head solemnly after he had shuffled through a package of mail. After two weeks had passed she became almost desperate with worry, and sat down to write a letter to France, asking what was the trouble. She mailed her letter that evening and asked the usual question. As usual, the postmaster shook his head. Then a sudden thought struck her. "Have you any uncalled for letters?" she asked.

"Oh, yes; yes, indeed!" said the postmaster, pompously; "but they ain't any of 'em yourn." Then he launched into a little discourse on uncalled for letters and concluded with,
"Why, sometimes I have a letter for a week before it is called for. I've got one now I've had for two weeks, and there ain't nobody asked for it. As near as I can make out, it's addressed to Millie Devil."

"It's mine," declared Mlle. Duval, but it took her fully fifteen minutes to convince the postmaster that Mlle.
was an abbreviation for mademoiselle and that the name "Duval" may easily appear to be something else, if not written carefully.

The Face of Death

The bit of toil, set hard between the teeth,
Gave suddenly, and seemed to yield, as if
The iron hand that drove repented it.
"Now in the name of Him who gave thee power
To make me beast of burden to thy rein, Give answer, Life!" I cried. "What freak hast thou?
Why play'st thou with me, mocking me withal?
Thou masked thing that darest not show thy face!
I know that thou must drive, and I must run;
I know that thou art master, and I slave;
I know that though I weary to my heart
Of thee, yet must I urge me on and on,
A harnessed creature, lashed unto the end."
But while I flung these bitter, brawling words
Into the very ears and brain of Life,
And waited, quivering, for the hissing whip,
Behold, a wonder did befall; for lo,
The too familiar harness loosed, and down
From every gall and smart dropped silently;
And, as I turned, there in the dusk one stood,
And drew the mask from off my driver's brows.
Then all the sons of morning sang to me
Within my soul, for, as my soul doth live,
The face I saw was the dear face of Death.
Oh, blinding beautiful it is to see!
Half angel and half lover, and all mine.
And heavenly sweet the commune that we have,
Drawn arm to arm and heart to heart at last—
One traveler—along a shining road;
God in the burning bush beside the way.
—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, in the February Century.

TOLD OF THE STATESMEN.

Proof That Lawmakers Can at Times Be Humorous.

Representative William Sulzer of New York was standing in the member's lobby in rapt contemplation of the oil portraits of former speakers.
Speaker Cannon came along.

"Hello, William," he said.

"How are you, Uncle Joe?" Sulzer effervesced. "Uncle Joe, you are the best looking man I ever saw."

"I am glad you think so, William," Cannon replied, without the quiver of an eyelash.

"Yes, sir, you are also the smartest and the shrewdest and the kindest and most successful man I ever knew."

"Well," observed Cannon, "it has taken you a long time to find that out, William; but I am glad you have seen light at last."

"Furthermore, Uncle Joe," continued Sulzer, "you are the best man I ever knew. You are good, absolutely good. I often wonder when I sit in the house and watch you, why it is that angel Gabriel does not float down through the glass roof some morning and carry you away to the fields of everlasting bliss."

"Well, William," said Cannon, "I have wondered about that myself at times, but, under the rules of the house of representatives, such action would require unanimous consent, and, William, somebody would be sure to object."

Senator Scott of West Virginia was making an earnest plea for an increase of pension for a man who lost both eyes in the war. He said that a man who had had both legs amputated received $100 a month.

"It is nothing but justice," declaimed Mr. Scott. "I merely desire to put the eyeless man on the same plane with the legless."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

If it's necessary to lie in a man's favor do it while he is alive instead of hiring a marble-cutter to do it after he is dead.

THE UNION.

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf

SPECIAL OFFER.

The Yellow Jacket, published bi-weekly at Moravian Falls, N. C., is an extremely bright, readable paper. We will send the UNION and YELLOW JACKET for one year for $1 in advance. This is a combination that ought to get every good man in Chilton county on our list, and is only open for a short time. tf

At the meeting of the populist executive committee of Chilton county on March 15, 1904, the following resolution was adopted by the committee:

"Be it resolved, That we, the people's party executive committee of Chilton county, do hereby indorse the UNION, a paper published in Clanton, Ala., as our official organ tf

OUR CLUBBING LIST.

The Union and Yellow Jacket, both for one year $1.00
The Union and Weekly Montgomery Advertiser 1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution 1.50
tf

Several hundred subscribers will get this paper with a big red cross on it. It means that you owe us a dollar and we owe it to some other fellows. Some small fellow will make a big kick about this red cross and will stop his paper, and some clever fellows will come in and pay up like a white man always does, and tell us they had just forgotten all about it. tf

DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?

IMPORTANT

THE PEOPLE'S PRIMARY WILL BE HELD ON TUESDAY, JULY 26th, 1904.

EDITORIAL.

OUR NEW JUDGE.

Judge T. Scott Sayre took charge of the fifteenth judicial circuit on Monday last and opened his first court in Montgomery county. He will be in Chilton and hold the regular non-jury civil term the third Monday in July. The extra court session announced by Judge Richardson has been rescinded by Judge Sayre, as he thinks it would put Chilton county to needless expense.

NEW SCHOOL DISTRICTS.

It would be well for all of our readers to study the address of the board which has been readjusting the county. It gives them full information about electing district trustees, etc. The board has worked hard; it has not been an easy task. There are sixty-four rival schools provided for, and the three incorporated towns of Clanton, Jemison and Thorsby make 67 districts in the county.

GOVERNOR CUNNINGHAM.

In a personal interview with Lieutenant and Acting Governor Cunningham last Friday he spoke quite freely of his intentions as to running the office during his tenure; all appointments will be made by him except of those who would form part of Governor Jelks' official family; in such cases Governor Jelks will be consulted as to his preference. Governor Cunningham also spoke quite strongly of his desire to break up the "lynching habit," and said he would do all in his power to enforce the laws of Alabama. This was in reference to the Baldwin county affair, and the lynching which occurred in Autauga county last Saturday will no doubt spur him to renewed effort. It is to be hoped that the governor will be successful (and if properly backed up by the circuit judges he will be) in wiping this black blot from the record of our state. He is a very able man and covers every inch of the gubernatorial chair.

JOHN J. LETCHER.

In introducing Mr. Letcher last week as a candidate for tax collector we omitted to state that he has been a resident and taxpayer of this county since 1870 and was also a confederate soldier during the war between the states, was wounded three times, one of his hands being now disabled by a wound received at that time. He was a candidate four years ago for this same office and lost the nomination by a small margin.

ROBERT M. SMITH.

Mr. Smith, who is a candidate for treasurer, has been a resident of this county for many years and is fully competent by education, having been a school teacher in former years. He is well fixed as regards this world's goods, and to judge by the careful way in which he cares for his own money, would make a good custodian of the people's cash. He ran for sheriff four years ago, but owing to the lateness of his entry and sickness he was defeated, but he did not sour on the party on that account, but still votes the people's and republican tickets.

SAM W. COLLINS.

This young man, who is a candidate for circuit clerk, was born and reared in Chilton county, and is a son of Sank Collins, of Collins Chapel, who we all know and respect. Sam was educated in the public school and Concord High school and Blount college, with a course in Massey's business college. He took a first grade teacher's license when he was sixteen years old and has taught school at Davis and Lomax, in this county, so his competency is well assured. His parentage is a guarantee of the soundness of his political principles and his moral and religious upbringing.

L. A. CALLOWAY.

This gentleman was born in Coosa county, but has lived in Chilton since he was five years old; has a good common school education and a course at Massey's Business college at Montgomery; enlisted as a volunteer in the war with Spain, and saw active service in Cuba; was raised from private to quartermaster sergeant, which speaks well for his service record. He says: "I have always aligned myself with the people's party of this county." Is now and has been for some time past postmaster at Rushton P. O. No doubt would make a good clerk.

ANDREW J. WILSON.

This candidate for treasurer was born in Chilton county about forty-seven years ago; was raised on the farm and has always followed that vocation. A couple of months since he was the victim of a runaway accident and fractured his ankle in two places; is now walking on crutches and does not know when he will be rid of them, if ever. He has never offered for office before and has always voted the people's party and republican tickets, and feels competent to fill the office to the satisfaction of the public, if successful in obtaining the nomination

The following was handed to THE UNION for publication by Frank Goodgame, who says the agreement represents the majority of the Thorsby faction of the republicans of this county, commonly called the "black and tans:"

"We, the undersigned members of the republican executive committee of Chilton county, agree to go into the people's primary. We have republican candidates who have announced for office subject to the action of said primary, and we recommend that all republicans go into said primary and vote for their choice. We further agree to indorse and support the nominations made in said primary.

J. F. Goodgame, W. H. Goodgame, D. N. Riggins, J. M. Wilson, C. L. Glasscock, A. J. Glass, T. C. Abbott, W. R. Crofford, W. J. Atcheson, W. F. Foshee, Secar Harris, chairman.

The following letter explains itself, but the editor of THE UNION wishes to say in this connection to any of the people of Chilton county who wish to get up a "rural route," he will be glad to assist them in any way that lies in his power; also to help Congressman Bowie in his very laudable desire.

"Anniston, Ala., May 2, 1904.

"Editor Union, Clanton, Ala.

"Dear Sir: We have now fifty-six rural delivery routes in the fourth congressional district of Alabama already established and between thirty and forty petitions pending.

It is my ambition to have one hundred routes established if possible by January 1st. It is difficult to overstate the great importance of this service to our rural communities, and it is of almost as much if not quite as much importance to the towns from which the service originates.

"I have been making an earnest effort to have a special agent in my district to investigate the pending petitions, and I now inclose you a copy of a letter from the fourth assistant postmaster general, which explains the delay. From this letter I infer that some time during the summer I can safely rely upon a special agent.

"They claim that preference is given as far as practicable to priority of filing. In order to get this service extended to communities which do not now have it and which have no petitions pending, requests should be sent in to me as soon as possible. I will furnish any one desiring the same with all necessary blanks and information and will file the petitions promptly in the order in which they are received.

"I shall make an earnest effort to have a special agent in my district in the summer to remain there until his work is finished, but in any event it will be of advantage to any community desiring this service to forward petitions just as soon as possible. With just a little more help I can have the one hundred routes established by the 1st of next January. Can we not put our shoulders to the wheel and get it done?

"Yours very truly,
"SYDNEY J. BOWIE"

"Postoffice Department. Fourth Assistant Postmaster General. Washington, D. C., April 18, 1904.

"Hon. Sydney J. Bowie, House of Representatives.

"Sir: Replying to your letter of the 4th inst from Anniston, Ala., urging that the pending petitions for rural free delivery service in your district be investigated, you are advised that the department is expediting this work as rapidly as possible consistent with good service. As you are aware petitions are being taken up in their order of filing. The oldest petition in your district was filed October, 1903, and there are still pending in Alabama and other states in the southern division a considerable number of petitions filed previous to that time. It is hoped that work may be taken up in your district early in the coming summer. Very respectfully, (Signed) "J. L. BRISTOW,

"Fourth Assist. Postmaster Gen."

JEMISON.

Please allow me a few words. I see by the last UNION that there are plenty of candidates for the people's primary, but that's all right; they are all good men, but can't all be nominated, of course. But we'll try and select the best or rather the most popular ones. And then what? Well, we will elect them in November by the largest majority yet. I'm surprised to not see Professor J. H. Anderson's announcement last week. How about you, Professor? Where are you at? Let us hear from you. Success to THE UNION and the people's party in the county, and the republican party in the state and nation.

A CITIZEN.

Clanton, Ala., May 3, 1904.

Dear Editor—Please allow me space in your paper. I wish to say to my friends of Chilton county and of the community: My thanks to you all are unexpressible for your kindness and help in my misfortune. I have always said that good friends were better than money, and I still say so. When I got home and found that all we had was burnt to ashes I was like a lost man; I did not know which way to go, nor what steps to take. But thinking the matter over I decided that where there's a will there's a way provided, and I found it so. The Good Book says for us to help one another, and when we help one another the Lord is sure to help us. My heartfelt thanks and best wishes to all. Yours respectfully, J. A. CULP, JR.

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

All are invited to attend the commencement exercises at 10 a. m. Thursday, May 12th. Prof. H. J. Willingham, of Wetumpka, will deliver an address. The final examinations will begin next Monday.

H. T. WALLACE, Principal.

IN MEMORIAM.

James R. Viars was born in Kentucky in 1842, his father moved with him to Ohio when he was about two years old. In 1877 he returned south and married and settled in this state. He joined the Masons in 1886 and was noted for his zeal and fidelity to the order the remainder of his life. He died March 30th, 1904, at his home near Clear Creek, Ala., and was buried with Masonic honors the next day at Providence church. He was a Royal Arch Mason.

RESOLUTIONS.

1. That we bow to the will of God in this dispensation of His providence and faithfully trust Him for our brother's eternal life.

2. That we tender our fraternal sympathy and assurance to the bereaved family.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this lodge and a copy be sent to the family.

4. That we respectfully ask the county papers to publish these facts and resolutions.

WM. T. WILSON,
I. WINDSOR,
J. L. RUFFIN,
Committee.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

The regular first Sunday services were held by the pastor, Rev. A. C. Swindall, who preached to a very large congregation in the morning. There was an extra service in the afternoon at 3:30 for the Odd Fellows' lodge, who thus celebrated their 85th anniversary of the founding of their order. The lodge marched to the church in full regalia and the church was packed to the doors with their friends and relatives, who heard a very eloquent discourse, which well repaid them for coming out. At the close of the morning service a short, informal conference of the church was held and the pastor and Brother W. I. Mullins were elected to represent the church at the southern Baptist convention, which will meet in Nashville next week, and a purse of $15 was made up and presented to Pastor Swindall, in order that he might make the trip with comfort to himself.

Announcements.

FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. ALEX G. DAKE.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

SAM W. COLLINS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

L. A. CALLOWAY.

FOR TREASURER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ROBERT M. SMITH.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ANDREW J. WILSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904 W. C. ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

H. A. J. HARRIS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904. ENOCH H. ADAMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. BICE.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th, 1904 GEORGE W. EDWARDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary July 26, 1904. L. B. POUNDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904 T. G. MILLING.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26, 1904.

S. E. WALDRUP,
(Better known as "Squire" Waldrup.)

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26th, 1904. JOSEPH H. THOMAS.

I hereby annouce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

BENJAMIN H. WELLS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904. W. F. DESHAZO.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN J. LETCHER.

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. J. W. MOORE.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for commissioner from the fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

MOSES ROBINSON.

SINGING.

The fifth annual session of the Salem Singing society will be held at Salem church on the fourth Sunday in May. Everybody is invited. Come with your baskets and books.

T. L. ROBINSON, Chairman.
L. A. CALLOWAY, Secretary.
tf

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St, THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St,

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes

FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. . . Alabama

ANOTHER GREAT BARGAIN SALE

I have just bought the Moore Stock of goods at a very low price and it must be sold to make room for more.

All Calicoes at 5c as long as the last, and other goods in proportion

Also, will give away three Plates with each $5 Cash sale, and in addition to this will sell for $5.50 Cash one barrel of DeSoto Flour best patent, with every $10.00 Cash sale of other goods than flour.

The above offer good until April 5, 1904

WILL OPEN A STOCK OF MILLINERY MARCH 10th

L. H. REYNOLDS

JEMISON, ALA.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND FERTILIZERS

FOR SALE.

Troy Special & Mule Brand

"Are the Best on Earth"

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, - - - - Alabama

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.

Blank Book Makers and Lithographers
County and Office Supplies a Specialty

Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street

Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail orders promptly

COUNTY OFFICIALS

Judson Strock
W. M. Wilson, E. G. Robinson, J. M. Potts
Watts Moore
Ed Smitherman.

STATE AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT
1st Term—1st Monday in April
2nd Term—3rd Monday in July 3rd Term—1st Monday in November
T. Scott Sayre
Solicitor—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka
Court Reporter—E. B. Deason, Clanton

CHANCERY COURT
1st Term—2nd Monday in March
2nd Term—2nd Monday in September
Register—Hon. R. B. Kelley, Ashville
Clerk—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton

COUNTY COURT
1st Monday in each month.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT
1st Monday February, 1st Monday
1st Monday June, 2nd Monday
1st Monday August, 1st Monday

COUNTY OFFICERS
Judge of Probate—S. M. Adams
Register—Alex G. Dake
Treasurer—J. M. Morgan
Sheriff—J. O. Middleton
Tax Assessor—A. C. Mims
Tax Collector—T. J. Hubbard

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS
1st District—W. H. Conway
2nd District—Alex Glasscock
3rd District—W. A. Green
4th District—R. C. Riggins

SUPT. OF EDUCATION
J. W. Moore, Clanton

STATE SENATOR
W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE
L. H. Reynolds, Jemison

COUNTY CHURCHES

Pastors and clerks are cordially asked to hand the editor any news regarding churches which they would like published. Also if there are any changes in these notices please send correct

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.
Clanton—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor; Jno. Jr., clerk, Plantersville Jemison—Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor; Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
Thorsby—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor; Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
Verbena—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday Pratt, clerk, Verbena.
Rushton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.
Liberty Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th Sunday. V. J. Gragg, clerk.
Mt. Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, Samons, clerk, Jemison.
Providence—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd Sunday. T. N. Parrish, clerk.
Providence Chapel—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 1st Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.
Bear Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand. W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
Mt. Olive—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd Sunday. W. B. Jones, clerk.
Mt. Creek Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 1st Sunday. J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
Mt. Zion—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st Sunday. M. F. Wagoner, clerk.
Mt. Moriah—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pastor; Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
Mt. Pleasant—Rev. P. G. Maness, pastor; Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
Mt. Vernon—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Rogers, clerk, Jemison.
Mt. Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.
Verbena—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
Wetumpka—Rev. S. Smitherman, pastor; Barnes, clerk, British.
Zion—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Lackey, clerk, Randolph.
Carmel—Rev. W. J. Rudder; W. M. Roebuck, clerk.
Union—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd Sunday. H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
Hebron Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand. J. H. Wilson, clerk.
Pleasant Hill—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd Sunday. George Trawick, clerk.
Hebron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor; Billingsley, clerk.
Jemison—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd Sunday; G. W. Hill, clerk.
Liberty—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd Sunday. Henry Smith, clerk.
Pleasant Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sunday. M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
Bethel Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 4th Sunday; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
Mt. Olive Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, 4th Sunday. R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
Bethel Grove—Rev. G. W. Freeman; H. C. Latham, clerk.
Hebron Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone, 4th Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.
Union—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemison.
Union—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd Sunday. Robinson, clerk, Clanton.
Pleasant Rest—Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor; Deason, clerk, Rushton.
Mt. Pleasant—Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd Sunday. J. Billingsley, clerk
Mt. Olive—Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sunday.

THE BIG STORE,

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

oods, Clothing, Hats, Sho
FURNITURE,
INS AND BURIAL NECESSITIE
W. I. MULLINS,
n. . . Alaban

ANOTHER GREAT BARGAIN SALE

ve just bought the Moor of goods at a very low pri must be sold to make ro re.

Calicoes at 5c as long as the
and other goods in proportio

ll give away three Plates with ev sale, and in addition to this will 0 Cash one barrel of DeSoto Fl nt, with every $10.00 Cash sal ods than flour.

The above offer good until April 5, 1904

OPEN A STOCK OF MILLINE
MARCH 10th

H. REYNOLDS,
JEMISON, ALA.

R L MERCHANDISE A FERTILIZERS
FOR SALE.
Special & Mule Bra
Are the Best on Earth
. C. JONES,
- - - Alab

ATCH PRINTING C
k Book Makers and Lithographers ty and Office Supplies a Specialty.
timates.
nis Ave., BIRMINGHAM,

L AME,
st Street
ngham, Ala.

Practical Watchm
and Optician
Eyes Correct
Fitted
Mail orders promptly

Y OFFICIALS

—Judson Strock.
—W. M. Wilson, E. G. Rol
I. Mullins, J. M. Potts.
—J. Watts Moore.
—Ed Smitherman.

TS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.
Term—1st Monday in April.
er Term—3rd Monday in July.
Term—1st Monday in Novem

—T. Scott Sayre.
or—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
—E. B. Deason, Clanton.

HANCERY COURT.
Term—2nd Monday in March.
erm—2nd Monday in Septem

ellor—Hon. R. B. Kelley, An
r—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

COUNTY COURT.
Monday in each month.

MMISSIONERS' COURT.
onday February, 1st Monday
t Monday June, 2nd Monday
Monday August, 1st Monday

COUNTY OFFICERS.
of Probate—S. M. Adams.
rer—Alex G. Dake.
—J. M. Morgan.
or—J. O. Middleton. ssessor—A. C. Mims. ollector—T. J. Hubbard.

NTY COMMISSIONERS.
District—W. H. Conway.
District—Alex Glasscock.
District—W. A. Green.
District—R. C. Riggins.

PT OF EDUCATION.
W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.
W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.
J. H. Reynolds, Jemison.

NTY CHURCHES

s and clerks are cordially ask
d the editor any news regard churches which they would lished. Also if there are any these notices please send cor

SSIONARY BAPTISTS.

—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor.
es, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
alem—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas
. Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
on—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor;
Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
y—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday.
ett, clerk, Verbena.
n—Rev. A. ust Swindall, 1st
d Sundays. W. I. Mullins, off
Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th
V. J. Gragg, clerk.
Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard,
J. Samons, clerk, Jemison.
d—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd
T. N. Parrish, clerk.
Chapel—Rev. W. J. Arm
st Sunday. J. W. Littleton,

ut Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand,
W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd
W. B. Jones, clerk.
Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
ay. J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st
M. F. Wagoner, clerk.
—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pas
J. Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
er—Rev. P. G. Maness, pas
H. Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
odgers, clerk, Jemison.
Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd
W. M. Wood, clerk.
nia—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd
H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
ill—Rev. S. Smitherman, pas
Barnes, clerk, British.
y—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
ney, clerk, Randolph.
Carmel—Rev. W. J. Rud
er: W. M. Roebuck, clerk,

Zion—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
. H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand,
W. H. Wilson, clerk.
nia—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd
George Trawick, clerk.
dron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas
Billingsley, clerk.
lem—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
y. G. W. Hill, clerk.
pe—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd
Henry Smith, clerk.
Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason,
M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
Grove—Rev. J. H. Thom
nday: D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard,
R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
t Grove—Rev. G. W. Free
er: H. C. Latham, clerk,

Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone,
r. J. J. McDowell, clerk.
nce—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt.
y. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemi-

nce—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
Riley Robinson, clerk, Clan-

Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor;
inson, clerk, Rushton.
Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd
W. J. Billingsley, clerk.
Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sunday. J. Deason, clerk, Adams.
Thorsby—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Robert Jones, clerk, Thorsby.
Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor; R. S. Chandler, clerk, Jemison.
Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2d Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.
Verbena—Rev. J. W. Partridge, 1st Sunday. T. J. Bland, clerk.
Valley Creek—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; J. W. Mitchell, clerk, Plantersville.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS.

Bethel—Elder J. W. Howell, pastor; Saturday before the second Sunday; J. T. Abernathy, clerk, Verbena.

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Clanton Circuit—Rev. D. B. H. Jeffcoat, Pastor.
Clanton—2nd and 4th Sundays.
Fairview—3rd Sunday.
Isabelle—3rd Sunday, 3 p. m.
Jemison—1st Sunday.
Lime Springs—Saturday before 2nd Sunday.
Mount Moriah—Saturday before 1st Sunday.
New Prospect—Saturday before 3rd Sunday.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

Clanton Circuit, Rev. T. F. Davis, Pastor.
Thorsby—1st Sunday.
Walnut Grove—2nd Sunday, morning.
Unity—2nd Sunday, evening.
Shady Grove—3rd Sunday.
Mount Pisgah—4th Sunday, morning.
Enterprise—4th Sunday, evening.

CONGREGATIONAL.

South Calera—Rev. J. R. Crowson second Sunday. W. L. Shaw, clerk, Calera.
Lomax—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 4th Sunday. F. E. Riggs, clerk, Lomax.
Mountain Springs—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 3rd Sunday. W. J. Headley, clerk, Clanton.
Shady Grove—Rev. A. C. Wells, 1st Sunday. Mrs. A. Baker, clerk, Verbena.
Union—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 1st Sunday. Miss A. Lake, clerk, Lightwood.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Highland School House—Rev. M. F. Lett, 3rd Sunday and Saturday before. T. L. Adams, clerk.
Enterprise—Rev. M. F. Lett, 4th Sunday. T. F. Patterson, clerk.

NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN.

St. Olafs, Thorsby—Rev. H. Engh, pastor. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

Concordia, Thorsby—Rev. J. E. Hedberg. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. Mr. Carroll, pastor, 2d Sunday. Song service every 2d and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

MASONIC.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday, Clanton.
Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 250—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.
Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 423—First Saturday, Clanton.
Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 567—First Saturday, Billingsley.
Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.
Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 411—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.
Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 473—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.
Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

of the

BRITISH AMERICA ASSURANCE CO.

Of Toronto, Canada.

1st January, 1904.

UNITED STATES BRANCH.

Assets.

Government bonds	$223,650.00
State and municipal bonds	511,473.19
Cash on hand and deposit	169,720.71
Stocks and bonds	305,793.00
Premiums in course of col.	204,834.79
Interest due and accrued.	11,833.20
	$1,427,304.89

Liabilities.

Reserve premium fund (N. Y. Standard)	$849,771.77
Reserve for unpaid losses	100,786.14
	$950,557.91
Surplus in United States.	$476,746.98
Total income in United States for 1903	$1,547,736.84
Total losses paid in U. S. from 1874 to 1903, inclusive	$14,674,843.26

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

LOCAL ITEMS.

H. O. Bean was a welcome visitor Saturday.

H. A. J. Harris was in town Saturday and had his daughter, Miss Teressie with him, the first time she has been out of the house for fourteen months.

Ex-Sheriff Kilgore was a welcome caller Saturday.

Go and buy one of those fine 'Smith and Mayer" buggies at W. I. Mullins'.

W. S. Adams was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

B. F. Massey was in Clanton Saturday.

G. W. Thomas was in town Monday.

A large stock of fine watches at Upchurch's drug store.

William Moore, of Cooper, was a pleasant visitor Monday, and we hope his health will improve soon

W. C. Robinson was in Clanton Monday.

L. A. Calloway, of Rushton, was a welcome caller Monday.

Steel ranges, stoves and the celebrated "Iron King" for sale at W. I. Mullins'.

T. J. Hubbard was in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Glasscock were in Clanton Monday.

A. J. Wilson was a welcome visitor Monday.

Why don't you try "Oxolo" at Upchurch's drug store?

L. B. Pounds was in Clanton Monday.

Ben Wells was in town Monday.

Jesse Hayes was in Clanton Tuesday.

R. A. Thomas, our Clanton barber, brought in another nice lot of fish Tuesday, fresh from the Coosa.

R. J. Williams was a welcome visitor Tuesday.

J. M. Maddox and W. R. Taylor were in Clanton Tuesday.

H. I. Honeycutt spent Wednesday in town.

Ed Smitherman is quite sick with fever, which was aggravated by a serious fall he had last week.

Sheriff Morgan spent last Friday in Montgomery.

George Mims, of Collins Chapel, was in Clanton Wednesday.

Squire Milford, of Kincheon, was in town Wednesday.

Governor Cunningham has appointed Walter A. Pinson notary public at Mountain Creek.

Ernest Hopkins is farming near Clanton this summer; trying to build himself up physically. Hope he will succeed in both efforts.

Miss Gertrude Prescott will return home to Verbena this week from West End, where she has been teaching.

Professor Robert Jones, of Stanton, the "Childs postle," is visiting Clanton this week.

Messrs. Goodgame, Headley, Driver and Johnson went out this week in the employ of the American Portrait Company.

Several of our good Baptist ladies contemplate attending the Southern Baptist convention at Nashville next week.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

R. L. Cooley, Miss Ellen Moore.
W. N. Jones, Miss Ida Busby.
W. B. Harville, Miss Ruby Letcher.

UNIVERSITY ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS AT THE COUNTY SEAT.

Young men and women contemplating entering the state university next September will have an opportunity to take the written examinations for entrance to the freshman class near their homes. An examination for this purpose will be conducted by the county superintendent of education at the county seat on Saturday, May 21st, 1904, beginning at 9 a. m. This arrangement permits students to take the entrance examination soon after the close of their studies in school, and without the necessity of a trip to Tuscaloosa. All young persons expecting to take this examination should report at once to the county superintendent. tf

OVERDOSE OF MORPHINE.

B. Y. McMorries Takes Drug to Alleviate Pain—Will Recover.

B. Y. McMorries, bookkeeper for Greene & Co., who took an overdose of morphine early yesterday afternoon, is resting easy and will recover. Mr. McMorries has been ill for several days, and it is thougnt by his employers and others that he took the drug to alleviate pain, not being aware of the quantity he was taking.

He was found in a room on the second floor of the building used by the undertaking establishment about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an unconscious condition. Physicians were immediately summoned and they worked with him until assured that he was out of danger.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

NOTICE.

Clanton, Ala., May 3, 1904.

We, the school redistricting board of Chilton county, have this day completed the work of laying out the county into school districts. We have exerted our best efforts and energies, with the best information that we could gather from the several communities in the county, to so locate these districts that in each one there can be a good school; provided the people will come together and put forth the proper efforts and use the advantages which this change has given them. It is of vital importance that each and every one should know at an early date the district in which he or she is placed, and this they may know with very little trouble, for, as the law provides, we have written out a description of each district, giving the name and number of each, and submitted the same to the probate judge, to be recorded in his office. The law requires the QUALIFIED VOTERS in each district to MEET on the FIRST SATURDAY in JULY, 1904, and there ELECT three district trustees, and these trustees MUST on the 1st day of AUGUST, 1904, take the enumeration of the children between the ages of seven and twenty-one in their district and REPORT the same to the county superintendent. Hence it is very needful that you should know your district; otherwise you will lose your appropriation for the next two years. The poll tax paid in each school district will be used for that district only, so you should know your district, so you can give the tax collector the NAME and NUMBER of it when you pay the poll tax. If you fail to do this the collector will not know to which district to apply the money. We earnestly trust and insist that every parent will put forth energy and determination to inform themselves on these vital points and to make stronger efforts and greater sacrifices than ever before to educate their children, who are to be our future men and women. It would be well for all persons interested to clip the above information for future reference.

Very respectfully,
ALEX GLASSCOCK,
Chairman;
R. F. SIMS,
J. W. MOORE,
Secretary;
Redistricting Board.

BEAT 3.

April 30, 1904.

Editor Union—I ask space in your paper to say a few words about politics. Since Rev. J. H. Thomas declared himself a candidate for the office of tax collector, I hear a lot of people speak of his qualifications as tax collector. They all seem to think that he is fully qualified to fill the office and most of them are highly in favor of him as tax collector, while there are a few that object to him from the fact that he is a preacher, and they say "if we elect him we will ruin him as a preacher," and they have no good reasons for saying so; they are judging the future by the past, but we should not judge a good man by the way some selfish, fickleminded man has acted in the past. I do not believe that J. H. Thomas being tax collector would prevent him from preaching, for I believe if a man is called of God to preach the gospel that he will preach it, politics or no politics. And again, I can not see why that collecting the tax of Chilton county would require any more of J. H. Thomas' time than making a living on a farm would require; and nine-tenths of the men who I hear objecting to him because he is a preacher are folks who do not attend preaching once in six months, and some of the most objective ones live within a reasonable distance of the church where their membership is, and have not seen inside of its walls in eighteen months, and it don't look to me like that they care very much for preachers. It's only prejudice. In conclusion, I will say that I know Brother Thomas well and like him as a preacher and a neighbor, and shall give him my full support in the primary July 26th. Success to THE UNION.

A SUBSCRIBER.

J. A. HONEYCUTT KILLED.

J. A. Honeycutt, son of Marion Honeycutt, of Jemison, was shot and instantly killed by Station Agent John K. Hubbard at Boyles station, on the L. and N. railroad, on last Wednesday. Two shots were fired into him, one in the abdomen and one in the lungs. Immediately after the shooting Hubbard surrendered to the authorities and was locked up, but has since been released on bail. His account of the tragedy follows. Honeycutt is dead and can't tell his side of the story:

"The trouble between the two men is said to have arisen over some information given to a constable by Hubbard concerning the length of time Honeycutt had been employed in the vicinity of Boyles. It appears that the officer was seeking information for the purpose of collecting road tax and asked Honeycutt how long he had lived in that precinct. Honeycutt is said to have replied: 'Only a few days.'

"The constable then went to Mr. Hubbard, the agent of the Louisville and Nashville, and asked him how long Honeycutt had been working there. Not knowing the object of the inquiry, Hubbard replied: 'Something like two months.'

"Shortly after noon yesterday Honeycutt appeared at the office of Mr. Hubbard, and is said to have told Hubbard: 'This is a pretty way you have of telling lies on me.' Hubbard laughed and asked for an explanation.

"Witnesses say that Honeycutt insisted on his remark, and when asked for an explanation, said: 'I will explain myself,' and with that struck Hubbard in the face. Hubbard fell against the stove and was cut on the bridge of the nose. He fell again and was bruised on the head. Hubbard, it is said, then reached for a drawer in which he kept his pistol, but failed to secure the weapon.

"Honeycutt knocked him down again and began choking him. Hubbard then struggled until he reached the drawer, and securing the pistol, fired twice. Honeycutt fell and died immediately."

Honeycutt was buried in Jemison Friday. He leaves a widow and eight children and was very highly esteemed in Jemison by all his neighbors.

..My Specialty..

SHOES made of Leather.
SHOES that are Reliable.
SHOES made to Wear.
NOT a Cheap Shoddy Shoe.

Dry Goods, Groceries, Flour and Feed Stuffs, Tobacco and Snuff.

Every Department Full and Complete.

J. W. SMITH.

Former Post-office Building. Clanton, Alabama

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address
I. E. SARBER CO.
Thorsby, Alabama.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

2011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE

WALLACE C. EDLER, General Agent, Clanton Alabama.

CHILTON COUNTY BRANCH

PRESIDENT — ALEX G. DAKE, Clanton
SEC.-TREAS. — JUDSON STROCK, Clanton

Insure, Farmers Dwellings, outbuildings and contents, and Live stock against Loss by Fire, Wind and Lightning—the cheapest, safest and most sensible method of Insurance known to man.

AGENTS MUST HAVE A COMMISSION SIGNED BY GENERAL AGENT
Full particulars furnished on application to
WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

Gelder's Restaurant,

Good Meals at Reasonable Prices.

110 North 20th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

HARDWARE.

For everything in Hardware come to the Hardware Store.

Harness and Saddles

We offer you good material in this line for as little money as you will find anywhere, aud will sell you any piece or part of harness you may need. Saddle blankets, stirrups and leathers, girths, halters, saddle pads, buggy and wagon whips, buggy top nuts, whip sockets, horse clips, terrets, rings etc.

Carpenter and Farming Tools.

The result of buying sorry tools is money wasted and a displeased customer, therefore we carry a good grade. Disston & Simmons saws, Stanley planes, levels, adzes, axes, level glasses and all tools generally used.

Wagon Material.

Full supply on hand at all times of tires, hubs, rims, spokes shafts, irons and rods and all repair parts.

Stoves.

There are none better than the Rural Jewel and Steel Ranges, made of good heavy material and furnish the most heat for the least fuel.

Clocks and Lamps.

We can certainly please you, for nothing better and more ornamental was ever shown in Clanton.

See our line glassware, steel enamelled ware, crockery and cutlery before you buy.

Our feed cutters, corn shellers and disc harrows will prove profitable if tried.

Call on us when in town.

SPEIGENER & JONES

Hardware Store

CLANTON, ALABAMA.

THE MINISTRY OF MEMORY.

O memory, dip thy finger-tip
In some cool well of distant youth,
And touch the doubter's drying lip
With but one drop of love and truth.

O fallen in the desert lands,
A traveller by mistaken ways,
Behold, among the trembling sands,
The crystal spring of earlier days!

In Bin Seventy-seven

BY ALBERT W. TOLMAN.

Two hundred feet in length and almost half as much in width, the elevator rose a hundred and fifty feet in air. Through two large doors in the ends ran railroad-tracks, leading through the base of the building. Near the wooden one-story office, snuggling close to its immense neighbor, a dizzy ladder of steel rounds, riveted to the side of the elevator, led straight up to the roof.

To the north stretched the business portion of the city; to the south the glittering harbor unrolled its broad expanse. Hundreds of cars stood in the adjoining freight-yard; and at the docks below three long, black ocean liners, with funnels banded red and white, snored drowsily through their steam-pipes, while into their yawning holds the grain was poured by the exhaustless spouts.

Archie Braithwait was a student at a business college in the city. His spare time was largely spent in getting an idea of the different industries of the place.

On Wednesday and Saturday afternoons he had no recitations, and to these half-days he looked forward with much pleasure. He had already visited the electric-light plants, the potteries, a shoe-factory and the rolling mills.

The elevator came next on his schedule. Every morning, when he went down to his work, he saw across a half-mile of lower roofs the colossal structure against the eastern sky.

Suggestive of great transactions, it fascinated the young man, and it was with considerable satisfaction that at last, one Saturday afternoon, he found himself in the shadow of the building, with a pass from the superintendent giving him the freedom of the plant.

Before entering the elevator he stood for a few minutes, taking in the details outside. The huge steel ships, stretching their ponderous length so peacefully in the muddy docks; the high, sharp bows, with their columns of white draft marks; the sailors swung on dangling stages, painting the iron sides; the shouts of the stevedores—all combined to make the scene fascinating.

But time was passing. Braithwait turned reluctantly from the wharves, and passing through fearless flocks of pigeons and English sparrows, plump from feasting on the spilled kernels, entered the door of the elevator.

The next two hours were of absorbing interest. He explored the place from top to bottom, until he understood what was done to the grain from the time it was taken from the cars until it was loaded on the steamers.

Few men were in sight, and no one asked him for his pass. Everybody was too busy to be curious, and apparently took it for granted that any stranger in the building had good reason for being there.

It was cold in the building. Sudden drafts swooped down from unexpected quarters. The air was filled with a fine powder, which strewed the floors. Dusty electric bulbs lighted the semi-darkness. Speaking-tubes ran here and there.

There was a sound of rushing grain; the floors shook with the rumble of machinery. By pressing a button or pulling a lever all those gigantic processes could be modified or checked.

In the course of his explorations Braithwait came to the "spout-floor," pierced with numerous large, round holes. Here great movable spouts of iron conveyed the grain from the garners above into the bins beneath the holes, which were fitted with hinged iron covers. Some of the covers were thrown entirely back; others, lifted to an angle of more than sixty degrees, were held up by sticks. The student moved gingerly among them, for he had no inclination to test the depth of the black cavities. Far down the long, dusty room, more than a hundred and fifty feet distant, two men were busy shifting the spouts; but they paid no attention to him.

At the very end of the floor was an opening, with stick-propped cover, and painted on the boards beside it, in black, dust-covered figures, its number, "77."

Braithwait wondered if this bin was full enough to allow him to see the top of the grain it contained. He stooped down to peer within. Utter blackness met his gaze. How it happened he cannot tell to this day, but as he rose his foot slid along the slippery floor, and he shot downward into the pit.

As he passed through the opening he made an ineffectual grasp at its edge, but instead struck the stick that held the cover up. Down it came, and while he still hung suspended in mid-air all light from above was blotted out, and he was left in total darkness.

The terrible sensation of falling that unknown distance he will never forget. How far beneath him was the grain? It might be ten, twenty, thirty, forty feet. Perhaps the bin contained no grain at all, in which event he would fall sixty feet before his bones were shattered on the hard timbers. These ideas passed like lightning through his brain. Then with a shock the motion ceased. He had fallen head first, but turned a half-somersault on his way down, alighting up to his knees in a yielding substance that broke the shock of his fall. He found afterward that the distance could not have been more than twenty feet, but the total strangeness of the place, and the terrible uncertainty as to when and where he would bring up, made it seem three times as great.

Braithwait's first feeling was one of thankfulness that none of his bones were broken. With his thumb and forefinger he tried the substance into which he had fallen. The kernels were small and elliptical, and he knew that he was in a bin of wheat. It was absolutely dark; not the faintest glimmer from any source relieved the Egyptian blackness. The air was dry and free from dust and the odor of the grain was not unpleasant. The young man did not realize at first he was in a position of any peril. He felt annoyed, and angry with himself for being so careless. But it was useless to stand idle, blaming himself for something that had passed. The thing was to get back to the floor, but how?

Might there not be a ladder on the side of the bin? Braithwait felt his way round the walls, but discovered none. The investigation showed him that his prison was square, with a side of about fifteen feet. He could feel the timbers quiver with the vibration from the machinery. Deadened sounds came to him from without. He heard the muffled whistle of a locomotive in the adjoining freight-yard. Could he make noise enough to attract the notice of the workers on the floor above?

For two or three minutes he shouted at the top of his lungs, filling the bin with clamorous echoes, but the closed trap kept the men from hearing him. Then with sickening force came a sense of his peril that left him weak and faint. What if they should begin to draw off the wheat before he could get out? He would surely be smothered in the sinking mass.

The thought roused him like a knife-stab. Round and round the bin he hurried, slumping deep in the grain with every step, feeling in vain along the smooth walls for something to which he might cling. With clenched fists he hammered on the wood, hoping that some one would hear the sound and understand his danger. But his blows, drowned by the reverberation of the machinery, were no more audible outside than the steps of a fly on a window-pane.

Terror seized him. He felt himself in the grasp of a great automatic monster. To that heartless mechanism he was no more than one of the innumerable grains which it was its function to store and deliver at the bidding of its masters.

He was standing near the middle of the bin when the thing he dreaded happened. Beneath his feet came a shifting, sliding motion, and the surface sank a little, just the slightest bit; but he could not have been more appalled had the solid ground been suddenly torn from under him. They were drawing off the wheat through the opening at the bottom! Before he knew it, he had sunk above his ankles. He leaped away from the treacherous center, and crowded himself back into one of the corners.

Whenever a compartment filled with particles is emptied through an orifice below, the substance falls from the top: down through the entire mass and directly above the aperture sink a core, which is constantly fed at the summit by particles from the sides sliding into the cavity.

If one has ever watched in an hour glass some grain larger than the others hang for a time on the edge of the vortex until the supporting grains fall away from under it and it rolls down the slope to disappear in the central quicksand, one will understand the peril that threatened Braithwait. Once let him be dragged within the influence of the suction, and nothing could save him from being buried alive in the smothering grain.

The student never thought harder or faster than he did during the next few seconds. All was quiet in the bin save for the soft sliding of the myriad kernels toward the invisible depression in the center. He realized clearly the only course which held out the least hope of safety.

Throwing off his overcoat, he tossed it aside in the blackness. Then with hands and feet he began to scoop the grain away from his corner and push it toward the center. The cavity thus made gave him a brief respite, until the sinking of its wall set him digging desperately again.

Thus he fought and struggled in the blackness, until utter fatigue overcame him. His muscles ached almost to numbness. His breath came short. He was drenched with perspiration. But there was no cessation in the movement of the grain. Slowly it gained upon him as he made his losing fight. The horror of the death that impended goaded him to extreme efforts, but his diminished strength could not cope with the steady sinking of the wheat. Oh, if they would only close the spout below!

The catastrophe, long averted, came at last. The edge crumbled beneath his feet; he slipped, staggered, fell! Down the steep slope he rolled, madly trying to check his progress by thrusting his arms and legs into the yielding mass; but to no avail. His hands grasped only the sliding kernels.

In a moment he was above the central vortex. Wild with terror, he put forth the most desperate efforts to climb the sides of the pit. Again and again he seemed to be in a fair way to regain the top; but each time, after he had crept up a little distance, the grain would slip beneath him, carrying him back to the bottom. The moment came at last when he could not free his ankles from the clutch of the grain. Down he sank in the quagmire, lower—lower—lower! A resistless power beneath seemed to be grasping his feet in a clutch that neither increased nor loosened. There was something terrible about its sameness.

Now the grain reached his knees, now it was half way up his thighs, now he was buried to the waist. Higher and higher it crept, until it was close unde rhis armpits. In a very short time it would be over his head, and he would die horribly under the choking kernels.

But help came to Braithwait just as all hope was leaving him. Heavy steps shuffled along the floor overhead. The sinking man realized that it was his last opportunity, and cry after cry burst from his lips.

His shouts were heard. The steps halted for a moment, then the cover above was flung suddenly back, admitting the first light that had reached the prisoner's eyes since he had fallen, through the opening and the trap had clanged shut. A red face, with bristling dusty-white mustache, peered into the blackness of the bin.

The wheat was sliding over Braithwaith's shoulders as he uttered one last hoarse, inarticulate cry. The man above could see nothing, but he understood; and his quick understanding was the sinking student's salvation.

Braithwait heard him run along the floor to a speaking-tube, and guessed that the order to stop the flow of wheat was being given. Then all at once the motion beneath his feet ceased, and he knew that he was saved.

A rope ladder was lowered into the bin, and two men, with a lantern and shovels, soon released the student from what had almost been a living tomb. It was half an hour before his strength came back enough to allow him to climb to the floor above; and to this day, he never sees an elevator without recalling his fight for life in bin seventy-seven.—Youth's Companion.

Smugglers of London Clothes.

"That case in Boston a few days ago," said a Nassau street tailor, "about several expensive suits of Easter clothing being found in the hold of a Liverpool liner, waiting until the steward who was going to smuggle them to American customers could get them ashore, is part of a game played ever week here in New York. We have an association that has been trying to stop it for years, but we haven't made much headway. The trouble with the Boston man was, probably, that he was new at the game. You can't catch the old hands on the New York liners like that. Of course, the well known Boston lawyers to whom the three suits were addressed did not know anything about them. Do you suppose they would have owned up if they did? They won't pay for them either. Those suits are a dead loss to the London tailor. But you can gamble that the man who brought them over will be out of the smuggling business after this.

"Every spring and every winter agents of fashionable London tailors stop at the uptown hotels and make a display of their samples. They know their old customers, but every new one has to have a bang-up introduction. It's like the sidedoor business of a saloon on Sundays. There are hundreds of men in New York who order their clothes in London every year who have never crossed the pond. They are measured here, and their clothes are delivered to New York tailors who stand in with the foreigners. The customer gets his clothes at this tailor's, free of duty. How, he doesn't know. But he has to pay the New York tailor for making the alterations. After all, he gets little out of the deal but the London cut, styles six months in advance of New York, and a suit or overcoat that doesn't fit. But they will do it."—New York Press.

"Green Dutchman" One Honest Man.

Gottlieb Wittier, who forty years ago found a box containing $62,000 in gold and government bonds, stolen from the United States paymaster, and which he immediately returned to General Fremont, is dead.

For forty years he conducted one of the largest contracting enterprises in Missouri. During the civil war he was engaged by the United States Government in the construction of forts along the Mississippi River, and while building a fort in South St. Louis a tin box was unearthed. Mr. Witter found it where it had been thrown aside by the workmen. A lock on the side aroused his curiosity, and he pried open the lid. Covered with brown paper was a pile of gold and Government bonds.

Mr. Wittler at once drove to Gen. Fremont's headquarters at Eighth street and Chouteau avenue.

As he walked from the office an officer remarked: "That green Dutchman could have kept this money."

To this Gen. Fremont replied: "I wish we had a few more of such green Dutch in this country. He is one honest man."—St. Louis Chronicle.

Quaint and Curious

When a Russian dies he is buried with a paper in his hands. On this is written his Christian name, as well as a prayer.

In the window of a Dunmow (England) hostelry appears the notice: "The Encyclopedia Britannica at your service within."

The nine-year-old son of Professor Wiener, of Harvard University, is said to be a master of several dead languages, higher mathematics and sciences.

There is often to be seen in the streets of Cork, Ireland, a respectable looking man, accompanied by a tame goose, which follows him through the busiest thoroughfares.

"Don't bury me on Thursday," were the dying words of John Penn, an English member of Parliament. "There is a little girl opposite who is going to be married on that day, and it would be grewsome."

During a prolonged attack of hiccoughs Thomas McDonald, of Plymouth, Pa., was the victim of a peculiar injury. The paroxysms became so violent that two of his ribs snapped and were seriously fractured.

The two oldest secret trade processes now in existence are considered to be the manufacture of Chinese red, or vermilion, and that method of inlaying the hardest steel with gold and silver which seems to have been practiced at Damascus ages ago, and is known only to the Syrian smiths and their pupils to this day.

Master Hallie Elco, of North Star, Mich., eleven years old, is perhaps the largest boy of his age in the State. He is larger than either of his parents, since he weighs 246½ pounds, while his father weighs 217 pounds and his mother 150. Master Elco stands five feet three inches high, has a breast measurement of forty-five inches and a belt measure of forty-seven inches.

Russian Bear Story.

There are two kinds of bears in Russia. Here is a true story of one: Two girls, ages five and thirteen, were attacked by a huge bea, and the younger was carried off, while the elder, terror-stricken, fled home a d gave the alarm. For three days the inhabitants of three villages sought in vain for the lost child. Finally a cordon was drawn around an extensive tract of forest, and the searchers closing in, discovered the bear and her booty in a dense thicket. The child was perfectly unharmed, and reclined in a deep, mossy couch made for her by the bear. She had gotten over her first fright and had subsisted fairly well on nuts and other forest fruits brought her by the gentle monster. The freakish but kindly disposed animal was summarily killed by the villagers.—New York Press.

Trees Survive Baltimore Fire.

In the burned district there are two trees which, though having been subjected to a heat which melted iron and caused strong buildings to crumble and fall, are still standing, and are apparently uninjured. One is on Frederick street, near Baltimore street, just opposite the site of the Odeon Theatre, and the other is in the rear of the ruins of the Southern Electric Company's place on Fayette street, near Calvert street. The tree on Frederick street is in remarkably good condition, and does not in the least show the effects of fire, although the heat at that point must have been intense, as not a building in that section was left standing. The limbs and branches of the other tree were burned to some extent, and it was almost completely buried beneath a great pile of debris.—Baltimore American.

Russia's Big Problem.

The transportation problem before Russia is more difficult than the public realizes. Assuming the problem is to move 100,000 troops, mobilized along the Siberian road, between Irkutsk and St. Petersburg, the distance from St. Petersburg to the seat of war is 6000 miles. It is safe, therefore, to assume there is an average train haul of 3000 miles for this movement. Applying the haul to this country, it means moving 100,000 troops and supplies from Salt Lake City to Southern Florida on a single track, lightly constructed road, with short passing tracks, limited water supply and all the limited facilities that go with such a road with light tonnage.—The Railway World.

Eliminated the "Almond Eye."

Prince Micchi, grandson of the Emperor of Japan and heir presumptive to the throne, is a strong, healthy youngster of three years and is the first baby in the royal house who has been allowed to have his hair grow like a European or American child. Soon after his birth a slight surgical operation was performed at the outer part of his eyelids, the result being that the little fellow's visual organs have not any of the "almond eye" shape peculiar to his race. Prince Micchi's wedding is already under consideration, three tiny ladies being especially regarded as possibilities.

SCIENCE NOTES.

Thunder clouds sometimes reach a thickness of eight miles, with the varying strata of damp mist and frozen snow and ice particles.

The most prized of the singing insects of Japan is a black beetle called "susumushi," or "insect bell." Its singing resembles the dainty sound of a sweet-toned bell.

The heat lost by radiation from bare pipes containing steam at one hundred pounds pressure has been estimated by Prof. S. P. Thompson to be that of about two tons of coal a year for each ten square feet of pipe surface.

Carbon monoxeid has been recently found to play a more important part in poisoning by tobacco smoke than nicotine. This poisonous gas forms a considerable part of the smoke, and, as much of the smoke from cigarettes is inhaled, it is thought to explain the harmfulness of this use of tobacco.

A new system of wireless telegraphy is based on a detector of electric waves described by W. Schloemilch, a German. The detector depends on the property that when electric waves fall on a polarized electrolytic cell placed in circuit with a source of current of slightly higher electromotive force the current in the circuit is increased from some cause.

Westrumite, the invention of Herr van Westrum, is a mixture of oil, which may be diluted as desired, and sprinkled over a road with an ordinary watering cart. The water evaporates, leaving the westrumite as a moist film, which absolutely prevents the arising of dust. Tested in London on a dry roadway where every vehicle raised clouds of dust, the material so effected the surface that several automobiles at highest speed raised no dust whatever.

The camera records of human emotions obtained at Geneva by Dr. E. Magnin and M. Edward Flegenheimer, are of remarkable artistic and scientific value. The experiments have been made upon a very susceptible hypnotic subject, who has been influenced by both musical and oral suggestion, and the entire range of human passions—joy, anger, fear, sadness, gluttony, greed, etc.—have been recorded in about five hundred photographs of the woman under the various forms of suggestion. The intensity of the expressions is said to have been rarely equaled by the great artists.

Fox Farm a Failure.

A gentleman by the name of Skillings of Bangor recently started a new industry on an island off the coast between Machias and Jonesport, Me. This was fox raising. He believed that there was money to be made in raising foxes for their hides and so leased what is known as Triton island some distance off the coast. Having secured the island he went west and bought about sixty of the finest furred and most hardy foxes he could find, paying for some of them as high as $500 apiece. These he placed on the island last fall and started his fox farm with every prospect that his novel plan would be a success.

Of course, the island being some distance from the land it was impossible for the foxes to get off and so fences were not necessary. This winter came with its cold weather and gradually the water between Triton island and the main land closed slowly in until finally the wide passage was covered with thick ice which could support a man or a team, for that matter.

All this had been going on so quietly that Mr. Skillings had quite failed to think of what this rapidly forming ice might mean to his new industry, and one morning he awoke to find that every fox owned had escaped from the island to the main land and had taken to the heavy growth of timber which covers much of this section of the coast. Mr. Skillings instituted searches and scoured the surrounding country, but he has not succeeded in recovering one of the animals. The 60 foxes, many of which were extremely valuable, aggregated an amount of many thousand of dollars and the loss gives every indication of being a total one.—Portland Express.

An Exhorbitant Dentist.

High prices often prevail in frontier towns, and those who live in new settlements become accustomed to the charges and think little about it. A man who recently returned from the Klondike tells a good story.

"People get used to paying big money for trifles," he said, "and two dollars for a box of sardines or five dollars for a pound of bad coffee came to be regarded as reasonable prices. But once I had the surprise of hearing an unexpectedly low price named. It was like this: I had a jumping toothache—was nearly wild with it—and went to a shanty where I was told there was a dentist. A rough-looking fellow told me that he was the dentist and I asked him to draw my tooth. He looked me over, got his forceps fastened on my tooth, and yanked it out after a couple of hard twists.

"How much?" I asked.

"Well, two dollars, I guess," said the dentist.

I paid him, although my jaw still ached badly.

"That's the cheapest thing I've seen round here," I remarked, as I gave him the money.

"Well," he said, "I thought I'd make it low, because on account of the bad light I pulled the wrong tooth.

I had to go the next day and have the bad tooth out, and he made matters square by charging me ten dollars.—New York Tribune.

According to a Philade... ian, in a generation or t... will average the same st... ropeans. It is only their ... are short, he says, and ... from their habit of sitting ... ed position on the floor ... customs are being adopted ... thinks the little brown ma... lengthen out. Of course ... brother physicians pooh-p... tion. They point out that ... almost unknown among Hi... on the whole, are rather l...

Japan's war office is flo... plications from men of e... condition of life for permi... to the front. They come ... expired soldiers and boys ... to enlist in the army in ... manner. The ages of the ... range from 14 to 70. Ma... following the Samouri c... their applications with ... blood and several are w... in blood. The authorities ... that 500,000 volunteers w... obtainable.

The warrant under w... Bunyan was apprehended ... in jail at Bedford for six ... ing the reign of Charles ... at auction in London ... for $1,525. The warrant ... signed by thirteen justi... peace, baronets and seve... charged the tinker with ... law by preaching and ... erwise than "according to ... or practice of the Church ... land."

Suicide of lovers in Japan ... heart-death, passion-death ... death. When a youth and ... would die together, being ... marriage by stern parents ... themselves fast together ... with the girl's long crepe ... and leap into a deep lake ... way of committing "heart ... for the lovers to make a ... for themselves, write letters ... parents and mix sometimes ... with their rice wine, and ... forever.

Four Americans and three ... make up the supreme ... Philippines. The chief ... lano, is fifty-seven years ... two years he was justice ... torial supreme court at ... sociate Justice Florentino ... sixty, a specialist in ... Two of his sons are now in ... States, studying at Wa... tice Victorino Maya was ... like his two native asso... nila lawyer.

Habitual drunkards after ... in Montreal, Quebec, ... the option of paying a ... ing imprisonment or taki... cure. At present there ... two under treatment, ... homes and twelve at the ... patient is expected to ... doses of the prescribed m... day, and is warned not ... intoxicating liquors during ... trial.

A project is on foot in ... for restoring the sphinx ... great pyramid of Ghizeh ... nal condition. Thick lay... completely cover the hea... monument, while the lowe... obscured by accumulations ... It is proposed to clear all ... mulations away and to clea... completely.

Mrs. Charles King, of C... ti, Tex., owns more land ... er woman in the world. ... was a famous cattle bree... left her 1,300,000 acres in ... dalgo, Starr and Cameron ... and there are now about ... on her ranges. The vast ... be kept intact until her ... child comes of age.

The French government ... proposes to establish a w... in every village where the ... ulation is large enough ... women being prevented ... cial customs from consu... physicians. In Algiers a ... has already been opened ...

The Chicago Journal ha... chased by John C. Eastm... manager of Hearst's Ame... its inauguration. The Jou... oldest daily newspaper in ... ing been established in ...

Electric Lighting.

The use of electric light... York State alone has in... 2000 per cent. in ten y... use of electricity for po... creased in the decade alm... cent.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLE... LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY mak... senior partner of the firm of ... Co., doing business in the ... County and State aforesaid, ... firm will pay the sum of ONE ... LARS for each and every ... that cannot be cured by the ... CATARRH CURE. FRANK ...

Sworn to before me and sub... presence, this 6th ... ber, A. D., 1886. A. W. ...

{SEAL.}

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken ... acts directly on the blood and ... faces of the system. Send for ... free. F. J. CHENEY & Co...

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for ...

Has Spent Lifetime in ...

Reverend Dr. Edwin R... pastor of the Greenland, N... gational Church for fifty ... and is still healthy and s... work of the ministry. He ... enty-three years old.

RU-NA, A VALUA... WRIT...

the Ailments Peculiar to the ... ex Are Due to Catarrh of the Pelvic Organs.

... Ikemball, M. D., 534 Vir... ..., N. Y., is a graduate ... of Buffalo, class 1884, ... in the practice of medi... that city since then. She writes ...:

"My conviction, supported by ... is that Peruna is a ... preparation for all ca... nnections. I have taken ... of Peruna myself and ... fine. I shall continue to ..." —Rachael J. Kemball, M.D.

... cured thousands of cases of ... ness. As a rule, however, be... is resorted to several other ... been tried in vain. A great ... patients have taken local ... submitted themselves to surgical ... and taken all sorts of doctor's ... at any result.

... of so many failures is the ... diseases peculiar to the female ... sex are not common... ly recognized as be... ing caused by ca... tarrh. These organs ... mucous membranes. Any mu... ane is subject to catarrh.

... one organ is exactly the same ... of any other organ. What will ... of the head will also cure ca... ... pelvic organs. Peruna cures ... simply because it cures the ca...

... the women afflicted with pelvic ...

... year 1893 the people of the ... tates drank 3,623,913,194 gal... timulants, for which they ... 1,633,379, breaking all the ... previous years.

E & HANDLEY ... RDWARE CO.

... MINGHAM, ALA.

... are Headquarters for

... ACHINERY ... OF ALL KINDS

... for Catalogue and Prices.

See the

... AL SHINGLE ... MACHINE

... BEATS THEM ALL"

... E to WOMEN

... e Trial Box and book of in... s absolutely Free and Post... ugh to prove the value of ... ne Toilet Antiseptic

Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water — non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution — lasts longer — goes further — has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.

...mula of a noted Boston physician, ... with great success as a Vaginal ... Leucorrhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal ... Sore Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, ...oreness of mucus membrane.

... treatment of female ills Paxtine is ...le. Used as a Vaginal Wash wo... ... the world to produce its equal for ...ness. It is a revelation in cleansing ...ng power; it kills all germs which ...lammation and discharges.

...ing druggists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. ...yours does not, send to us for it. Don't ...stitute — there is nothing like Paxtine. ...for the Free Box of Paxtine to-day.

...ON CO., 7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.

NCE NOTES.

rus sometimes reach a miles, with the vary-and frozen

ne singing in-ic called its sing ound of a from here

one hundred estimated by to be that of ar for each recently important part in smoke than nic-forms a con-smoke, and, as from cigarettes is to explain the of tobacco

wireless telegraphy
electric waves
Slaby-Arco, a Ger-depends on the waves fall coil placed current of force the from

Farm a Palace.

of Skiff-started a new find off the coast he Long Island. Mr. believed to be made in their brides and so
known as Triton Island. off the coast. Having island he went west and acres of the finest furred foxes he could find.
me of them as high as These he placed on the
and started his fox project that has on a hand being some dis-land it was impossible to fence off and so fences scarcely less than
and were erected between every two where every kind the material that several the pool raised

Item of foreign crops
Geneva by Dr. E.
Experiment Station, and scienexperiments have susceptible been made and from the
the
the

KILLING AT BLOCTON

John Harsook Fatally Wounded by A. H. Watson—Boy Wounded.

John Harsook was shot and fatally wounded by A. H. Watson, mine boss, at Blocton, Monday afternoon, and a boy named Roberts was dangerously wounded. Harsook died later and Watson is in jail. Watson and Roberts were engaged in a difficulty and began to fight. Both men were having it rough and tumble when Watson pulled his gun and began to shoot at the boy, one shot taking effect in his arm. Harsook, who was standing near by, as soon as he heard the shooting, began to run. He was not engaged in the difficulty at all and is said not to have been concerned in the previous misunderstanding that led to the trouble. There is said to have been bad blood existing between Watson and Harsook, however. According to common report, as soon as Harsook started to run Watson shot at him, one of the bullets causing the fatal wound.

The Second Time.

Early Tuesday morning the Birmingham novelty works was destroyed by fire. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss on the building and machinery, as well as immense piles of lumber, amounts to $25,000. No insurance was carried. Seven other buildings were burned as the fire spread. No alarm was turned in to the fire department until the fire was almost beyond control. One year ago the same concern was burned out on the same spot. The total loss reaches $30,000.

Quarreled About a Girl.

Sunday Erskin Walker was shot and instantly killed by Bud Edmonds at the Hinds cotton gin near New Hope. They quarreled about a girl and in the fight Edmonds pulled a pistol and shot Walker through the heart. Edmonds has not been captured. He is a son of Trion Edmonds, a well known planter.

Secretary Hester's New Orleans cotton exchange statement covers the monthly movement to the close of April. Compared with last year it shows a decrease for the month in round figures of 191,000 bales, compared with year before last a decrease of 73,000 and with 1901 a decrease of 201,000. Northern spinners took during April 64,015 bales, against 144,117 last year. Foreign exports for the eight months of the season have been 5,537,960 bales, showing a decrease under last season of 670,065 and a decrease under the same period year before last.

Selma will during May be the place of meeting of three conventions. The first will be that of the Alabama Underwriters' Association, the next the forty-fourth annual conclave of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Alabama, which will meet on Wednesday, May 11th. The last will be of the Red Men, which will be held on the 17th, 18th and 19th.

W. F. Fullington, owner and manager of the Queen City Lumber Company at Gadsden, has just completed a large stave and heading mill at a cost of $12,000, and which will work thirty-five men. The plant has been completed and placed in operation.

At Blossburg, Ala., some thieves entered the station office of the Southern railway and rifled the safe of $70.24 cash and several pay checks. They then attempted to rob the safe of the Tennessee company, but failed.

In Talladega county's second primary the majorities are: Probate judge, G. J. Sorrell, 171; tax collector, Max Adams, 472; treasurer, J. E. Knox, 237; superintendent of education, J. P. Oliver 789.

H. G. Donald and W. H. Slaughter, Alabama candidates for admission to the naval academy, have successfully passed their mental examinations.

The Alabama Bankers' Association will hold its annual meeting in Montgomery May 11th and 12th. An elaborate program for the entertaining of the visitors has been arranged.

Henry county's books have been examined and reported upon. There was a slight discrepancy in the accounts of two officers, but these were promptly adjusted.

J. L. Watters fell into a pit of scalding hot water at Ensley and his feet and lower limbs were badly scalded. He is foreman of labor at the furnaces.

Gadsden is to have another new furnace. It will be erected by the Alabama Consolidated company alongside the new one recently completed.

Owing to the failure of the water supply of the Alabama Steel and Wire Company's rod mill the plant has been forced to close for a few days.

The sugar production of Mexico is estimated at about 100,000 tons, and that of molasses at about 50,000 tons.

Anniston has a new broom factory.

The greatness of little things finds frequent illustration in railroad operation, comments a writer in the Engineering Review. A case has just been discovered where nine years ago an error of five cents was made in the computation of a rate-sheet between two given points. It was found upon investigation that as a result of this error the two railroads operating between the two points have lost upward of $17,000 during that time.

UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT

By the Japanese to Bottle Up Port Arthur.

Another attempt was made by the Japanese to block the entrance to Port Arthur. This attempt was on a much grander scale than any heretofore made. It is reported that twelve ships of 3,000 tons each had been prepared by the Japanese, but for some unknown reason two of them never attempted to approach the entrance.

It is said that two Japanese torpedo boats were sunk, the remainder withdrawing in a damaged condition. Eight fireships were sunk and very few of their crews were saved. Most of them were killed. The Russians made several prisoners.

The vatican has received a report from the apostolic vicarite of Korea, who says that he has been obliged to withdraw all missionaries from the northern part of Korea, as the Japanese feared they might exercise an influence favorable to Russia.

The Japanese, knowing the Russians would intercept wireless messages, tried a trick to deceive and worry them. For several nights in succession they sent wireless telegraphy orders to prepare for a landing of fireships and attack by submarine boats.

It is rumored the Russian plans of mobilization have been sold through the treachery of an official at Warsaw. New plans have been laid and the Russian government has sent an agent to Germany, Italy and France to buy vessels.

The Russian official report says from 3,000 to 4,000 were killed at the capture of New Chwang.

Russia has ordered a large number of ambulance dogs.

The Red Cross.

A plan for the general reorganization of the Red Cross is submitted to representatives of the parties to the controversy in that organization. The plan contemplates the issuance of a new charter by congress which shall vest the control of the affairs of the organization in a central governing body of eighteen persons. Of these six are to be appointed by the president, who is also to designate the presiding officer. For the present the remaining twelve members are to be chosen by the general association, the understanding being that representatives of both elements would be chosen.

No One Responsible.

The board of inquiry held that the explosion on the Missouri was caused by an inexplicable combustion of oxygen with certain gases formed by the incomplete combustion of powder. The officers and crew are completely exonerated from any blame and the board recommends that no further proceedings be had. The form of powder used is to be changed.

Our Exports.

Exports of manufactures still promise to exceed in the fiscal year 1904 those of any preceding year. The nine months' figures of the fiscal year, just announced by the department of commerce and labor, show a total of seventeen million dollars greater than the corresponding months of the fiscal year 1900, in which the exports of manufactures reached their highest figures.

President Roosevelt has again given Dr. W. D. Crum a recess appointment as collector at Charleston, S. C.

FOURTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama (Chilton County Branch).

In the four years ending February 3, 1904, that this association has been in existence in this county, it has levied sixteen assessments to pay 24 losses, viz.: Lightning, 1; wind, 3; fire, 20. The TOTAL of the sixteen assessments was $2.24 3-4 per hundred, being an average YEARLY assessment of 56 1-5 cents on each hundred dollars of insurance, which is a fraction over one-half of one per cent per annum.

ALEX G. DAKE,
President Chilton Co. Branch.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 26th day of February, 1904.

S. M. ADAMS,
Judge of Probate.

4t

JUDSON STROCK'S LETTER.

Johnson grass, sorghum, groundpeas, chufas and a general line of seeds.

Baseballs, marbles, corquet sets, also violins, guitars and mandolins. Our balls are guaranteed.

Shoes! Well, our shoes talk for themselves. We handle only one brand, "Red Seal," and our prices are very reasonable.

P. S.—We will be glad to compare prices with any one.

Yours very truly,
JUDSON STROCK.

tf Clanton, Ala.

Who could forebode that Japan would develop so much naval ability in a generation? It is hardly longer than that since she dropped her junk system, obsolescent through countless ages, old as the Pandects of Mann or Noah's Ark. Now on Neptune's fields she copes with the proudest and lays them low.

IN MEMORIAM OF J. A. HONEYCUTT,

Who was born April 6th, 1868, and died April 27th, 1904. He was born and reared in this community. In 1887 he was married to Miss Arminda Sims, of one of the best known families of the county. Mrs. Honeycutt and their six children survive him. For many years he has been a trusted employe of the railroads and at the time of his death was foreman of an extra gang on the Louisville and Nashville railroad at Boyles, Ala.

His Death

was caused in contending for a principle pertaining to himself and crew. A man had been meddling with him and his men so as to disorganize his forces. When he called to remonstrate with the offender some hot words passed between them; then they began a physical contest in which Mr. Honeycutt was getting the better, when his opponent reached for a pistol and shot him twice with fatal results.

His Remains

were met at the train next morning by a large number of sorrowing relatives and friends and were carried to his residence to await interment at 3 p. m.

His Funeral.

The Masons and Odd Fellows met at their respective halls, then came together and marched to the residence to escort the body to the Baptist church, of which he was a member, where the most solemn exercises were conducted by his pastor, Rev. I. Windsor, to one of the largest assemblies ever witnessed in this place.

This unusually large concourse of people attests his popularity at his home. In addition to every available member of the local lodges of Masons and Odd Fellows there were quite a number of Royal Arch Masons from the Clanton lodge, of which he was also an honored member. His body was accompanied to the cemetery by almost the entire assembly, led by his brethren of the three lodges, and deposited in the grave with Masonic and Odd Fellow ceremonies and honors. Whereas we recognized Brother Honeycutt a loyal citizen, agreeable neighbor, faithful friend, indulgent father, affectionate husband, humble Christian and zealous Mason, in all of which capacities he manifested a large warm-heartedness and whole-souled fidelity; therefore, be it

Resolved, first, That we bow in humble submission to God's decrees, and in our sorrows, surrounded by the dark, mystic veil, we, through faith, say, "Thy will be done."

Second, That we extend our fraternal sympathy, interest and assurance to our brother's family in their inestimable loss and deepest affliction.

Third, That this report be spread upon the minutes of the lodge and a copy be sent to the family.

Fourth, That we respectfully request the Union and the Banner to publish these resolutions.

J. L. RUFFIN,
D. L. LANGSTON,
J. WINDSOR,
Committee.

MAPLE SPRINGS.

Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely. We have on the roll about seventy-five scholars. Rev. J. L. Hand filled his regular appointment here Saturday and Sunday, preaching an excellent sermon from the cxix Psalm to a large congregation. The singing at Brother E. D. Hands' was much enjoyed by all present. So have another singing, Mr. Hand, and we'll come again. There are a lot of candidates out on our ticket, and we think they are all good men. This is my first time, but I hope to come again. WHO DO YOU RECKON.

LOMAX.

Health of our community is good except for a few cases of whooping cough. Farmers are about through planting and are getting very good stands of cotton, but would be glad to see a good rain, with warm weather following it. Mrs. Nettie Aldridge and M. H. Bussey, of Clanton, visited our burg Saturday and Sunday. It is a question with our people here as to who will be our next probate judge, Dake or Reynolds. Success to THE UNION and its readers.

OBSERVER.

J. B. Downs buys Crossties for cash, also is licensed to buy up Court Certificates. Call on him when you have anything in that line to sell. tf

Dr. Rainsford revealed in a few words the worst evil of modern "financeering" when, speaking of the Metropolitan as a convenient illustration, he said to the New Rochelle People's Forum: "New York has been asleep while vast fortunes in franchises which ought to go to the coffers of the city have been diverted to the pockets of individuals. Great properties which are capable of paying vast dividends are watered so that they pay the most frugal returns, and as a result the employes are expected to work long hours for small wages."

King Christian of Denmark celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday in excellent health.

NOTICE TO DELINQUENT TAX-PAYERS.

The State of Alabama
Chilton County

The tax collector of Chilton county has filed in my office a list of delinquent taxpayers and of real estate upon which taxes are due. The persons named below or owners unknown are reported as delinquent, and the following real estate is reported as assessed to them, to-wit:

BEAT NO. 1.

Owner unknown: E 1-2 of ne 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 16, tp 23, r 15. Tax and costs, $2.00.

H. M. Wilson: E 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, tp 24, r 15. Tax and costs, $2.74.

R. M. Aycock or Owner Unknown: Sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 29, t 23, r 12 Tax and costs, $2.30.

BEAT NO. 2

John Shaw or Owner Unknown: Ne 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 24, r 13. Tax and costs, $3.08.

BEAT NO. 4.

Estate of Hugh L. Gardner, Sam. Will John, guardian: Se 1-4 of nw 1-4 and w 1-2 of se 1-4 and e 1-2 of sw 1-4, less 12 acres, sec 22, t 21, r 12. Tax and costs, $8.75.

J. W. Jones: 1 1-2 acres in ne corner of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; 17 1-2 acres in nw corner of se 1-4 of nw 1-4, sec 36, t 22, r 15; sw 1-4 of se 1-4 and se 1-4 of sw 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 24, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4 and sw 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 18, t 22, r 16; sw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 17, t 22, r 16; s 1-2 of se 1-4 sec 32, t 22, r 16; nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of sw 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; n 1-2 of nw 1-4, sec 32, t 22, r 16; nw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 of nw 1-4 and sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 22, r 15; se 1-4 of se 1-4, less 10 acres, sec 22, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 2, t 21, r 15; n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 27, t 22, r 15. Tax and costs, $52.16.

Mag-etic Ore Co.: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 35, t 23, r 15. Tax and costs, $2.27

Owner Unknown: W 1-2 of sw 1-4 sec 21, t 22, r 15. Tax and costs, $3.27.

BEAT NO. 5.

J. R. McAtee: Nw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 12, t 20, r 16. Tax and costs, $3.01.

BEAT NO. 7.

Mrs. M. E. Dunlap: S 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 27, t 21, r 12. Tax and costs, $2.24

Allen P. Howison or Owner Unknown: Nw 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 15, t 23, r 12. Tax and costs, $2.65.

BEAT NO. 8.

N. C. Weaver: Se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and ne 1-4 of se 1-4, and n 1-2 of nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 24, t 20, r 12. Tax and costs, $4.71.

BEAT NO. 9.

J. W. Martin: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 4, t 23, r 14; ne 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 5, t 23, r 14. Tax and costs, $3.46.

A. L. Wambem or Owner Unknown: N 1-2 of se 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 31, t 23, r 14. Tax and costs, $2.72.

This is to notify you to appear before the probate court of said county at the next term thereof, commencing Monday, the 9th day of May, 1904, then and there to show cause, if any you have, why a decree for the sale of said real estate should not be made for the payment of the taxes assessed against you, and for fees and costs. After the decree is granted in each of the above cases, additional costs in the way of tax commissioner's fees will be added and collected.

This 4th day of April, 1904.

S. M. ADAMS
Judge of Probate.

tf

SUMMER NORMAL SCHOOL.

A summer normal school will open May 16th for the benefit of all who expect to take the state examination in July, and any others who wish to take any special work. From the fact that every teacher will be required to stand an examination on agriculture next January, special attention will be given to that subject. Those who desire can get instructions in expression and physical culture also. Good board can be had with private families at reasonable rates. For further information address

H. T. WALLACE,
Principal High School, Clanton, Ala

tf

PHILADELPHIA UNDERWRITERS,
Composed of Insurance Company of North America and the Fire Association of Philadelphia, Pa.

Cash capital	$ 3,500,000.00
Total assets Jan. 1, 1904.	17,636,517.61
Surplus as to policy holders	6,874,213.35

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

If You Want To Please Your Wife

Buy her a Bottle of

DR. TICHENOR'S ANTISEPTIC

To use when the Children get Hurt or have Colic.

Nothing "Just as good" in such

A most complete Stock of General Merchandise, Dress Goods,

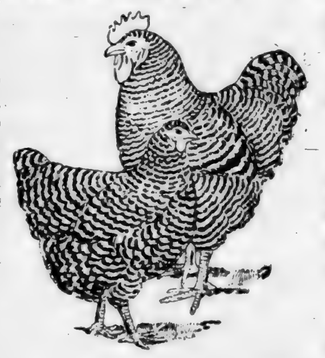
The Millinery Department

Is complete in every detail and is in charge of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara of St. Louis

P. D. WILSON

CLANTON, ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN POULTRY YARDS



WE have as good CHICKENS as there are in the Barred Plymouth Rock

And you may have them for fresh eggs for 50c. If you want them shipped add 10c for packing.

Give us a trial and we can

MRS. W. M.
Maplesville, Ala.

IT IS A FACT

That nothing but the mind can make money without Advertising.

We want your advertising.

We Have Perfected Arrangements Whereby We Can Offer That Practical and Instructive Newspaper

THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER

Known throughout the State of Alabama for the full line of State News contained in each issue, will be furnished in connection with Our Paper at a Remarkably Low Price.

Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Financial Page. Best State News.

For Village, Suburban Residents, and in fact for all generally engaged in agricultural pursuits, or family reading, the Weekly Advertiser will be found well nigh indispensable. It is pure, bright and practical all the way through, and meets the requirements of the entire family. It is a favorite throughout the South, and no one should be without it.

Our Great Special Offer:

The Weekly Union one year -
Weekly Advertiser one year -

Both for $1.25.

LOST

Bull yearling, color, yellow and white pied, mixed Durham and Holstein breed. When last heard from just west of Clanton, had a small bell on a rope collar, no marks. Liberal reward paid for return of this animal or for information that leads to his recovery.

D. C. HONEYCUTT
tf Thorsby, Ala

T

VOL. II.

...ENTZ'S BODY FOUND

...ered in the Mountains Near Big Stone Gap, Va.

...APPEARED LAST OCTOBER

...ng Man Went Out Riding Alone ... Squatters Were Enemies and ... Never Again Seen Alive—Mountaineers Offered to Release Him For ... Ransom a Few Weeks Ago.

...one Gap, Va. There was a great ... that Edward L. Wentz, son ... millionaire mine owner, of Pe... who disappeared on Oct... and whose body was found ... few days ago, was helped ... mountaineers for months and not ... few weeks before the body was ...ed. It is now known that the ...t where the body was found ...arched over scores of times by ...ll army of men organized for ...t for the missing man by his ...

...al clues point strongly to mur... ...d new significance is attached ... offer made by an unknown ...ner several months ago to re... Wentz if a ransom of $25,000 ...id. At the time this man's of... ...s scoffed at, but he was followed ...e mountains by detectives, who ...t of him after trailing him for ...twelve hours.

...of Wentz's front teeth are ..., supposedly shot away. There ...eral holes in his clothes, which, ...thought, were made by bullets. ...olver was found about twenty ...ay from the body. Three of ...mbers were empty. ...holes in the clothing seem to ...hat at least three bullets were ...to Wentz's body, and that an ...nocked out his teeth. The opin... the miners here is that Wentz ...rried off to the mountains by ...emies and held there a close ...r until a few months ago, when ...shot and his body taken here ...t and thrown where it would ...d.

...g Wentz had aroused bitte... ...among many of the mountain... When his family came into pos... ...of 150,000 acres and started ex... ...mining operations, scores of ...s who had squatted here and ...efused to move away or to pay ... Wentz was determined in mak... ...em bend to his will, and often... ...he rode past a cabin to see one or ...unt mountaineers sitting outside ...ifles on their knees. Shortly be... Wentz's disappearance last fall ...eling against him grew intense, ...d of moonshiners was broken ...th the loss of two lives, and ...ow the mountaineers came to ... Wentz for this.

...nts were made to him in person ...rough the mail, but he paid no ...to them. He was told by friends ... the country folk that if he gave ... his enemies among the moun... ...s an opportunity he would be ...down without hesitation, but ... laughed at all such statements. ...ent on traveling about the moun... without guard and armed only ... small revolver.

...growing belief that he was car... ...off captive into the mountains ... from observation of his clothes, ...show that they were worn this ...ual service, and not by the ele... There is every evidence that ...ung man's clothes were worn un... ...short time ago, and the condition ...body indicates that death oc... In the last four or five weeks. ... said that Dave Raleigh will re... ...a reward of $5000 for finding the ... In all, $100,000 was offered for ...ation that would lead to the find... Wentz.

...ERNMENT OF CANAL ZONE.

Commission to Have Legislative Authority.

...shington, D. C.—President Roose... ...ssued an executive order, ad... ...ed to Secretary Taft, placing the ...ruction of the Panama Canal un... ...he direction of the War Depart... ...and giving detailed instructions ...e government of the canal zone. ... order first recites the provisions ...he treaty with Panama, the ...er act and the recent act placing ...overnment of the canal under di... ...n of the President. It also re... ...o the payments made to the Pan... Republic and the French Canal ...any, which vested in the United ...e complete title to the land and ...rty, of which possession had al... been taken.

... order appoints Major-General ...ge W. Davis, U. S. A., retired, a ...ber of the commission, to be Gov... of the canal zone, and charges ...with the execution of the laws ...in.

Sharp Fight in Tibet.

...dispatch from the British camp... Pass, Tibet, says that a stiff fight ...ve the Tibetans from their posi... two miles below the pass lasted ...ix hours. The Tibetans, number... ...500, held the position with great ...tity, and lost nearly 200 men be... they were expelled. The British ...s were Captain Bethune and three ... killed and twenty-one men ...ded. A snowstorm prevailed dur... the fight.

Forest Fires in Michigan.

...eat damage resulted from forest ... in the upper peninsula of Michi... loggers and homesteaders being ...ufferers.

ou Want To ase Your Wife

Buy her a Bottle of

DR. TICHENOR
ANTISEPTIC

se when the Children
Hurt or have Colic.

Nothing "Just as good" in such c host complete Stock of General Merc

dise, Dress Goods,
Millinery
rtment

Is complete in every detail and is in
of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara
of St. Louis

P. D. WILS

ALABAMA.

LAWN POULTRY YA

WE have as good CHICK
as there are in the Barred Plymouth R
And you may have
fresh eggs for 50c.
want them shipped
add 10c for packing.

Give us a trial and we can

MRS. W. N
Maplesville, A

IS A FAC

hat nothing but the mint n make money without dvertising.

want your advertis

ave Perfected Arrangements Where Practical and Instructive Newspa

THE WEEKLY
ADVERTISER

n throughout the State of A for the full line of State N ined in each issue, will be d in connection with Our P on at a Remarkably Low Pr

Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Finan cial Page. Best State News.

age, Suburban Residents, and in fact for all ged in agricultural pursuits, or family li Advertiser will be found well nigh indispen re, bright and practical all the way through he requirements of the entire family. It is p hout the South, and no one should be with

Our Great Special Offer:
Weekly Union one year -
kly Advertiser one year -
Both for $1.25.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA. MAY 12, 1904. NO. 7.

WENTZ'S BODY FOUND

ered in the Mountains Near Big Stone Gap, Va.

SAPPEARED LAST OCTOBER

ung Man Went Out Riding Alone ne Squatters Were Enemies and Never Again Seen Alive—Moun- eer Offered to Release Him For 000 Ransom a Few Weeks Ago.

Stone Gap, Va.—There is a grow- ief that Edward L. Wentz, son millionaire mine owner, of Phil- a, who disappeared on October , and whose body was found few days ago, was held prisoner ountaineers for months and mur- a few weeks before the body was ered. It is now known that the pot where the body was found earched over scores of times by ail army of men organized for unt for the missing man by his eral clues point strongly to mur- nd new significance is attached offer made by an unknown ineer several months ago to re- Wentz if a ransom of $25,000 aid. At the time this man's of- s scoffed at, but he was followed he mountains by detectives, who ght of him after trailing him for twelve hours.

e of Wentz's front teeth are ng, supposedly shot away. There veral holes in his clothes, which, thought, were made by bullets. evolver was found about twenty away from the body. Three of ambers were empty.

holes in the clothing seem to that at least three bullets were into Wentz's body, and that an- knocked out his teeth. The opin- f the miners here is that Wentz arried off to the mountains by nemies and held there a close er until a few months ago, when s shot and his body taken here ght and thrown where it would und.

ng Wentz had aroused bitter en- among many of the mountain- When his family came into pos- n of 150,000 acres and started ex- e mining operations, scores of les who had squatted here and refused to move away or to pay Wentz was determined in mak- em bend to his will, and often- he rode past a cabin to see one or aunt mountaineers sitting outside rifles on their knees. Shortly be- Wentz's disappearance last fall eling against him grew intense, nd of moonshiners was broken with the loss of two lives, and how the mountaineers came to e Wentz for this.

reats were made to him in person through the mail, but he paid no to them. He was told by friends e country folk that if he gave f his enemies among the moun- ers an opportunity he would be down without hesitation, but s laughed at all such statements. went on traveling about the moun- without guard and armed only small revolver.

growing belief that he was car- off captive into the mountains s from observation of his clothes, show that they were worn thin ual service, and not by the ele- s. There is every evidence that oung man's clothes were worn un- short time ago, and the condition e body indicates that death oc- d in the last four or five weeks.

is said that Dave Raleigh will re- a reward of $5000 for finding the In all, $100,000 was offered for mation that would lead to the find- f Wentz.

ERNMENT OF CANAL ZONE.

l Commission to Have Legislative Authority.

shington, D. C.—President Roose- issued an executive order, ad- sed to Secretary Taft, placing the truction of the Panama Canal un- the direction of the War Depart- and giving detailed instructions the government of the canal zone. e order first recites the provisions the treaty with Panama, the ner act and the recent act placing government of the canal under di- on of the President. It also re- to the payments made to the Pan- Republic and the French Canal pany, which vested in the United es complete title to the land and perty of which possession had al- been taken.

e order appoints Major-General ge W. Davis, U. S. A., retired, a ber of the commission, to be Gov- r of the canal zone, and charges with the execution of the laws ein.

Sharp Fight in Tibet.

dispatch from the British camp, o Pass, Tibet, says that a stiff fight drive the Tibetans from their posi- s two miles below the pass lasted six hours. The Tibetans, number- 1500, held the position with great ity, and lost nearly 200 men be- they were expelled. The British es were Captain Bethune and three killed and twenty-one men nded. A snowstorm prevailed dur- the fight.

Forest Fires in Michigan.

reat damage resulted from forest s in the upper peninsula of Michi- loggers and homesteaders being sufferers.

HENRY M. STANLEY DEAD

Noted African Explorer Passes Away at His Home in London.

Succumbs to Pleurisy and Heart Trouble—His Great Work Opening Darkest Africa—Served as a Confederate.

London.—Sir Henry M. Stanley, the noted African explorer, who had been ill with pleurisy, complicated with heart trouble, for some time, died at his home No. 2 Richmond Terrace.

Sir Henry Morton Stanley, G. C. B., D. C. L. and LL. D., the man who found Livingstone, who led the expedition which relieved Emin Pasha and brought him out of a hostile country through the forests of the Congo to civilization, was a Welshman by birth.

His name was originally John Rowlands. He was reared in a poorhouse, near St. Asaph, began life as a cabin boy, and got to New Orleans, where he was adopted by a merchant, whose name he took.

He served in the Confederate Army and as ensign on the ironclad Ticonderoga. After the war he went as a newspaper correspondent to Turkey.

In 1869 James Gordon Bennett started him off for Africa to find Dr. David Livingstone, the explorer and missionary, of whom nothing had been heard for two years. He reached Zanzibar in January, 1871, organized his search expedition and started for the inland in March, with 192 native followers.

He found Livingstone at Ujiji, on the shore of Lake Tanganyika, in the following November, furnished him with supplies, explored the lake with him, and then left him just as Livingstone started out on his last expedition, in which he died.

Stanley got back to England in March, 1872, and found himself famous. The British Association entertained him, Queen Victoria sent him a gold and diamond snuff box, and the Royal Geographical Society dined him.

In 1873 he was sent to Africa again and explored Lake Victoria Nyanza after great hardships. He descended the Congo in a memorable trip of eight months and got back to civilization on a Portuguese man-of-war. He received the cross of the Legion of Honor after that.

Then, in succession, he explored the Congo, and founded the present Congo Free State, and Stanley Pool on the Upper Congo is named after him. His last great work was the relief of Emin Pasha.

Several notable books of travel and exploration were written by him. After his return in triumph from the rescue of Emin Pasha he married Miss Dorothy Tennant, the eldest daughter of Sir George Tennant and an artist of note.

He was elected to Parliament from the Lambeth division of London and took a prominent part there. He was sixty-three years old.

DROWNED TO SAVE HER BOY.

Woman Gives Her Own Life For Her Infant Son.

Norfolk, Va.—Rather than see her two-year-old boy drown, Mrs. Kate Dorman sacrificed her life. Mrs. Dorman, with her sisters, Mrs. Kuhn and Mrs. Landweher and Earl Dorman, two years old, were driving over Lynn Haven River, near Norfolk, in a carriage drawn by a mule. While on the bridge the animal became unmanageable and backed the vehicle and its occupants into the river. John Williams, a negro, was fishing in a boat some distance away. He heard the screams of the women and rowed to the scene. After a struggle he saved Mrs. Kuhn and Mrs. Landweher and was in the act of saving Mrs. Dorman, when she begged the negro to save her boy. This was accomplished, but when the boat returned Mrs. Dorman had gone down.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Steel Worker Slipped Into Hopper of Red Hot Metal.

Chicago.—On his way home to dinner Hans Anderson, an employe of the Illinois Steel Company, at South Chicago, made a mis-step while walking on the edge of a hopper of boiling metal. He slipped, but clung to the edge while his feet burned off; then, his strength gone, he slipped with a shriek to his death in the seething mass below. In a few moments his body was literally consumed.

The tragedy occurred at midnight, and is considered one of the most terrible of all the instances of violent death that have been known among the steel workers at South Chicago.

BANKER SHOOTS 2 MERCHANTS.

One a Relative, With Whom He Had Quarreled—Slayer a State Leader.

Luling, Texas.—S. M. Nixon, a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee and a wealthy banker, shot and killed Robert W. Malone and Colonel John Veasey, both wealthy merchants of this place. The double tragedy occurred at an hour when few people were on the street. The affair has caused intense excitement owing to the political and business prominence of the men concerned. Nixon and Malone were related by marriage. They had a quarrel about four years ago over a business matter and had been bitter enemies ever since, so the tragedy was not entirely unexpected.

Gold From China.

The steamer China arrived at San Francisco, Cal., bringing $3,334,350 in gold yen from Japan.

MINOR EVENTS OF THE WEEK

WASHINGTON ITEMS.

United States Attorney Grigsby, of Nome district, Alaska, has resigned under charges.

Investigation of the Post Office Department will be continued during the summer.

A $5000 silver service given by the State for the battleship South Dakota has been received at the Bureau of Equipment of the Navy Department.

Postmaster-General Payne has returned from his sea voyage, improved in health.

Wendell Phillips Stafford, of Vermont, has been appointed a Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt were entertained at dinner by Secretary and Mrs. Cortelyou.

The Senate in executive session confirmed the nomination of Jeter C. Pritchard, of North Carolina, to be United States Judge for the Fourth Judicial District.

OUR ADOPTED ISLANDS.

J. G. Brioso, member of the Executive Council, and Robert Todd, Mayor of San Juan, have been elected delegates at the Republican convention to represent the island at the Republican National convention. Party dissensions were bitter and caused disturbances during the session. Santiago Viva and P. J. Besosa will go as substitutes.

DOMESTIC.

Shortly after taking office Police Commissioner Woodville, at New Orleans, La., furnished the police with a complete list of the gambling houses in the city and ordered them to arrest the proprietors.

Harris E. Dexter, fourteen years old, of Randolph, Mass., who confessed to killing his ten-year-old brother, was found not guilty of causing the death.

Proprietors of shows along the Pike in the St. Louis Fair hope to obtain permission to open their places on Sunday.

May day strikes and lockouts involving thousands of workmen were reported throughout the country.

Henry Bilz, of Lake View, N. J., went down a ninety-foot rope into the Passaic Falls chasm to rescue a small fox terrier that some heartless person had thrown over the rocks.

Dr. August Greth of San Francisco, took an eight-mile trip across country toward San Jose in his new airship. A broken valve in the motor brought the voyage to an end.

While Mrs. Fleming Frohman was putting her baby to bed at Huntsville, Ala., her husband killed her and then inflicted fatal wounds upon himself.

Judge Gaynor discharged the ball players who were arrested in Brooklyn to test the Sunday law and going outside of his decision scored the police and described Sunday ball playing and golf as innocent and healthful amusements.

District Attorney Jerome declared that the Western Union directors were morally responsible for the continuance of poolselling, so long as the telegraph company continued to sell the racing news to poolrooms.

Arrangements were completed for the payment of the $10,000,000 due to the Republic of Panama for the canal concession.

It was announced at Ithaca that charges against Supreme Court Justice Warren B. Hooker would be heard on May 24.

It was reported in Salt Lake City that the Executive Board of the United Mine Workers, at a meeting in Indianapolis, had decided to call off the coal strike in the Western fields.

Whitelaw Reid was elected Chancellor and St. Clair McKelway Vice-Chancellor by the Regents of the University of the State of New York.

Rhode Island Republicans in State convention elected National delegates, and strongly indorsed President Roosevelt, pledging him support.

A jury in Rock Rapids, Iowa, found Charles Rocker guilty of the murder of August Schroeder, at Doon, Iowa, June 30, 1901, and fixed the penalty at death.

"Bob" Taylor, a criminal with police records in Indiana, Colorado and California, killed two men and wounded Sheriff Denholm before allowing himself to be taken prisoner, at Tacoma, Wash.

Four lives were lost in the burning of the Bryan House, a three-story brick structure, in Lansing Mich. The dead are: Jerome C. Stiles, Grand Rapids; John Holland, Ransom Bingman and James Ray, Lansing.

Mrs. Edith J. Hollis, indicted for the murder of her husband, Delaware T. Hollis, of Camden, Del., November 11, was acquitted, the jury rendering a verdict of "not guilty by reason of insanity."

FOREIGN.

The American schooner Irene, which cleared from Key West three months ago for Nicaragua, has been captured by the Cuban revenue cutter Atrana while fishing for sponges close to the north coast of Pinar del Rio.

Reinforcements of 1500 men will be sent from Berlin to German Southwest Africa, with two batteries of field guns. Military authorities think that the suppression of the rebellion may require a year.

Berlin was surprised by the appearance of the Kaiser on horseback in Unter den Linden, his first visit to the capital since his return from the Mediterranean.

Tests of four Russian submarine boats at Port Arthur were reported successful.

THEY SAVED THE BANK

Maryland Villagers Rallied and Drove Off a Robber Gang.

The Quaker Settlement of Sandy Springs Assembled at the Call of a Second Paul Revere—Burglars Foiled.

Sandy Springs, Md.—Five masked and heavily armed men made a desperate attempt to loot the vault of the Sandy Springs Savings Bank at 1 a. m. Their plans were carried out in true Western style. After the first explosion, which partly wrecked the big steel vault, in which there was nearly $200,000 in cash, a hastily organized vigilance committee of citizens appeared on the scene and the robbers fled, covering their retreat by a fusillade of revolver and rifle shots. The vigilance committee replied with revolvers and shot guns and the running fight continued through the main streets of the little town, and several miles out in the country, where the desperadoes scattered and escaped.

Within the past two years several unsuccessful attempts have been made to rob the savings bank. It is generally known that the institution is wealthy, and that large sums of money are constantly kept on hand. Sandy Springs is a Quaker settlement, and the farmers and even their hired hands are thrifty.

Last week three strangers came to town and put up at the best hotel. They were plentifully supplied with money and spent it freely, but for one reason or another Sandy Springs was not favorably impressed. It was noticed that the strangers very frequently had money changed in the savings bank and that they seemed to be extremely interested in the vaults and in the architecture of the building. Last Saturday they left town.

On the night of the attempt at robbery, T. L. Thomas, the Secretary of the bank, was walking toward his home, about a mile outside of Sandy Springs. He came across five men, three of them carrying satchels, and all of them masked, walking in the direction of the bank.

The men did not see Mr. Thomas, and he immediately left the main road and took a short cut back to the town, where he hurried up and down the street like a twentieth century Paul Revere, arousing the citizens and urging them to make for the savings bank with all the heavy artillery they could get together on such short notice.

Sandy Springs is not a very big place, and it was not very long before scantily clad men and boys, some of them armed and some of them not, were hurrying from their homes and making on the run for the savings bank building.

But before any of them reached it there was a terrific explosion which shattered the windows of the houses on Main street near the bank.

One of the excited vigilantes fired his shotgun at long range and this started a fusillade which lasted fully half an hour. The five bank robbers replied with rifles and revolvers as they retreated toward the open country, and the main street in the morning looked as if it had been gone over with a furrow.

Not a citizen was even touched by a bullet, however, and the robbers were not hurt, either. At any rate, they got away.

When the bank vault was examined, it was found that a charge of nitroglycerine had been inserted in holes drilled around the lock. The door was partly wrecked, but the hinges and lock held, and before the burglars had time to fire a second charge, the vigilance committee arrived on the scene.

Sandy Springs, which, in addition to being a Quaker settlement, is operated on the community of interest plan, was made the subject of a lengthy report by the Bureau of Labor several years ago. It was pointed out as a model settlement of its kind. The Friends in Sandy Springs treat their laborers well, provide them with homes, pay them well, and see that they save a fair proportion of their wages.

OLD RANGE FIGHT BREAKS OUT.

Cowboys Burn a Sheep Herders' Camp and Kill 3000 Sheep.

Laramie, Wyo.—A clash between the cattlemen and sheepmen took place thirty miles south of here, in which the cowboys succeeded in capturing fifteen sheep herders and killing 3000 head of sheep. The captured herders were tied to trees, where they remained all night. Their camp and equipment were burned.

The trouble is the old one of the range, the passage of a large band of sheep, killing the grass, and the cattlemen demand that no sheep be permitted to graze on the range. Further trouble is expected, as the sheepmen say that they will refuse to be run out. All parties are armed.

General's Daughter a Suicide.

"There will be no to-morrow this time," said Edith Sutherland, thirty-two years old, to her mother, who found her in her room at their home in Washington, D. C., suffering from an overdose of laudanum, self administered. The young woman died early next morning. Miss Sutherland was the daughter of the late General Sutherland, Surgeon-General of the army. She had been ill for a long time.

British Steamer Ashore.

The British steamship Craikneuk, from Matanzas with 4000 tons of sugar, ran ashore in a storm on Brigantine Shoals.

COLLEGE PRANKS

Lead to Serious Consequences at East Lake.

The custom of rocking college boys who pay social visits to the young ladies of East Lake came very near resulting seriously on Monday for a student named Palmer and young John Williams.

It seems that Mrs. W. A. Williams, the mother of John Williams, is the only real sufferer, having fainted when she saw her son pursuing Palmer with a gun.

It seems that young Palmer was on the way to see a young lady, when a crowd of East Lake boys began rocking him. Palmer, not taking to his feet as was expected, attacked the crowd and severely thrashed the brother of John Williams. It is charged that John Williams procured a gun and went to the campus in search of the student who whipped his brother. It seems that Mrs. Williams followed him to the campus, begging him not to do anything rash. Seeing him determined, she gave way, and it is reported that she fainted on the road and was carried home. Williams made a demonstration at Palmer and a warrant was issued for his arrest. It is charged that he covered young Palmer with a pistol, but for some reason did not fire.

BITTEN BY A DOG

John Looney, of Hartselle, Died of Hydrophobia.

Mr. John Looney, who lived one mile from Hartselle, died Sunday night of hydrophobia. He had no idea what his trouble was until about two hours before his death. The telling him seemed to hasten the end, for he was in his right mind very little after being told. His paroxysms were so severe that he had to be bound down. About six weeks ago he was bitten by a dog. A most complete diagnosis was made before the physicians would pronounce upon the disease. The sight of water would throw the man into a fit, and in the latter part of his sufferings even the thought of water had the same effect.

Killed on His Birthday.

While out hunting with a party of friends near Short Creek, Mack Hibbs was accidentally shot and killed by a shotgun in the hands of Eugene Street, one of his best friends. Mr. Hibbs was celebrating his twenty-fifth birthday. Street, who is 15 years of age, was walking in front of Mr. Hibbs, with his gun on his shoulder. The weapon was cocked and young Street stumbled in some way, causing the gun to go off, the shot entering Mr. Hibbs' breast a few inches above the heart. He died instantly.

The Southeastern Tariff Association has rerated Birmingham on a second-class insurance basis.

Suicide of Chinaman.

Charley Wing, the Chinaman who attempted to commit suicide by hanging in Mobile Friday afternoon died as a result of his injuries. Wing is reported to be one of the wealthiest Chinamen in the south and had large interests in Mobile.

The condition of Philip Cosminsky, city editor of the Mobile Herald, who was severely beaten by relatives of Chief of Police Case, against whom Mr. Cosminsky had filed charges, is said to be precarious. Duncan J. and R. J. Case, son and nephew of the chief, have been arrested on the charge of assault to murder. Suit has been entered against Duncan Case by Mr. Cosminsky's attorney for $20,000 civil damages.

The steel plant of the Alabama Steel and Wire company at Gadsden will be making steel in a few more weeks. The plumbers and steam fitters are busy making all connections for the start. Several of the open hearth furnaces have been dried out.

Plans are being drawn for a handsome new opera house in Decatur to replace the one destroyed by fire a few weeks ago. The new opera house will seat about 1,200 people, and it will be thoroughly modern. The cost will be about $20,000.

The carnival at Birmingham last week netted the orphans a little over $1,000.

Jefferson county will vote on June 20th on the questions of levying a special tax of 10 cents on the $100 for school purposes and on a bond issue for the enlarging of the court house.

The comptroller of the currency has declared a final dividend of 74.6 per cent in favor of creditors of the Eufaula National bank.

A deed has just been filed in Jefferson county for a piece of ground in Bessemer containing only twelve square feet

M. M. Kuffner, of Piper, has been appointed assistant state mine inspector by Acting Governor Cunningham.

A boiler at the Gate City rolling mill exploded Tuesday. A slight fire succeeding was the only damage.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

A. C. Smith. J. O. Middleton.
Smith & Middleton,
Attorneys-at-Law.
Practice in All Courts.
Office 4th St., Opposite Court House
CLANTON.

Physicians.

Dr. V. O. Campbelle,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office over Roper's Store.
CLANTON.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins,
Physician and Surgeon,
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office with Hopkins Drug Co.
CLANTON.

W. F. Middleton, M.D.,
Phsician and Surgeon,
CLANTON.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

Dentists.

Dr. A. B. Horn,
Dentist.
Office over Strock's Store.
CLANTON.

Office Days in the Following Towns.

Jemison—Wednesday and Thursday before the 2nd Sunday.

Thorsby—Wednesday and Thursday before the 3d Sunday Dr. Stabler's Office

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 8 to 12 a. m.
1 to 5 p. m. CLANTON

Louisville & Nashville RAILROAD.

THE DIRECT LINE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST, NORTH AND NORTHWEST

In Effect November 1, 1903.

No. 9 D'ly Ex't 8'day A M	No. 3 D'ly P M	Read Down Leave	Read Up Ar.	No. 2 D'ly P M	No. 10 D'ly Ex't 8'day P M
6 10	3 50	Birmingham	11 10	7 15
6 53	4 19	Helena	11 30	6 34
7 32	5 01	Calera	10 46	5 50
7 56	5 28	Jemison	10 24	5 28
8 05	5 37	Thorsby	10 16	5 15
8 11	5 44	Lomax	10 10	5 08
8 19	5 51	CLANTON	10 02	5 01
8 32	6 05	Cooper	9 45	4 47
8 37	6 11	Verbena	9 39	4 41
8 44	6 19	Mt. Creek	9 30	4 30
9 24	6 51	Elmore	8 51	3 56
9 50	7 25	Montgomery	8 25	3 30

Drawing Room, Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars.

For rates and further information address G. Higgins, agent L. and N. R. R., Clanton, Ala.

B. A. THOMAS
THE WHITE BARBER
Razor Honing a Specialty
CLANTON, - ALABAMA

FOR SALE.
760 acres of land, partly improved; also two sets mill rocks and fixtures. Alfred Popwell, Clanton, Alabama.

. I will ope

ws, and from your

.lands' caress.

eyes, and mine shall veil,
.t to seek or chide;
.d within your will I lie
.e seaweed in the tide.
Margaret Fuller, in the Century.

Bob's Marriage.

(By Helen Forrest Graves.)

The depot clock was pointing to the hour of five, the huge, fire-throated locomotive in the covered space beyond, was giving several premonitory shrieks as a signal that it was ready to start; there was the inevitable rush of people in peril of being too late, the commotion of checking baggage, and lifting toddling little children on board, and still the "young person" so anxiously expected by Robert Morrison did not arrive.

He walked hurriedly up and down the floor, ever and anon comparing his watch with the clock on the wall, and eagerly scanning the faces of all the newcomers, but in vain.

"Please buy a bouquet, sir? Only five cents?"

The voice was very sweet; the face that belonged to it sweeter yet. But Mr. Morrison was too much perturbed to heed them.

"No, no—don't bother me," he said, petulantly. "Conductor, is this the last train that stops at Olive Hill?"

"The last train, sir. Anything wrong, sir?"

"Confound it—yes—everything's wrong! I was to bring up a waitress for my sister, and the creature hasn't come."

"She was to have met you here, sir?"

"Yes—at a quarter to five."

"Happens very often, sir," said the conductor. "Can't put any dependence at all on that class of women."

And away he bristled. Mr. Robert Morrison was about to follow, muttering discontentedly to himself, when a light hand fell on his arm. He turned round, and, to his surprise, encountered the timid blue eyes of the bouquet seller.

"Pardon me, sir," she said, in an accent unmistakably foreign, "but the domestic you expected has disappointed you?"

"Yes."

"If you would take me—I can wait well at table; I would make myself generally useful to madam, your sister. Oh, sir, I am so tired of trying to sell flowers."

"But you have no recommendation?"

"How should I, sir? I am a stranger in your country. My name is Desiree Fontaine."

Mr. Morrison was sorely puzzled how to act. This little Desiree's face was not only pretty, but it was innocent looking. To be sure it was rather an unprecedented manner of engaging a girl, but what was he to do? Mrs. Ferrars expected him to bring her a waitress; there was to be a state dinner party on the morrow, and he scarcely knew what was best to do.

As he meditated, tugging at his mustache, the train gave its parting shriek. There was no further time for deliberation.

"Come on, then," he cried, making a rush for the hindermost car. "I'll risk it, by Jupiter!"

Desiree followed him, light and swift as a young fawn, and the next minute they were in motion. There was no receding now.

"Well, I've been and gone and done it," said Mr. Morrison to himself, as he glanced furtively at the girl who sat beside him. "What will Lizzie say? But what was a fellow to do, under all the circumstances? Besides, if she is half as smart as she is pretty, she'll do well enough. As for making off with the spoons, and the cake baskets, she hasn't got that kind of a face. We can but give the poor thing a trial, at all events."

Mr. Morrison, blundering masculine creature though he was, was quite right about Desiree Fontaine's face. It was pure and innocent as a child's, shadowed with crispy little rings of golden-brown hair, and dimpled round the mouth; while the blue eyes, large, and soft, and shy, were modestly averted. Her dress was plain, even to shabbiness, and in one hand, well-shaped though sun-browned, she held the two or three little bouquets she had been unable to dispose of in the depot.

"What wages do you want, Desiree?" said Mr. Morrison, abruptly breaking the silence that was beginning to be a little awkward.

Desiree grew scarlet as the carnation in the center of her biggest bouquet.

"I never took wages before," she siad, a little impulsively.

"But you will have to now, I suppose."

"What you choose to give me?"

"Twelve dollars a month?"

"Yes—anything!"

Bob felt a little awkward. Desiree Fontaine was not in the least like the Hibernian damsels he had that morning haggled with at the crowded intelligence office.

"I don't want to be inquisitive," he said, "but——"

"You want to know who I am," interrupted Desiree. "I am French—I came to this country because my relatives were all dead. I have an uncle here to whom I wrote that I would come to the country. I hoped that he would meet me at the landing of the steamer, but he was not there. I have sought for him in vain. I can only fear that he must be dead."

"But you speak English well."

"Do I?" Desiree's face brightened. "I was at an English school near Paris for four years."

"I should think that you might get a place as a teacher."

Desiree shook her head.

"I have tried. I answered advertisements for a governess—then for a seamtress, but nobody would take me, for I knew no one and had no recommendations. I have been here selling bouquets for a week, but I earned so little—oh, so little! Sometimes I went to bed without my supper because I had not a penny to buy it!"

Bob was silent. Somehow his heart ached for this poor young creature with the dove-like blue eyes, and the fresh pink and white complexion.

"I hope Lizzie will have the good sense to like her," he thought; "but there's no accounting for the freaks of women."

It was nearly dark when they reached Olive Hill; quite so when the carriage that had been sent to the station to meet the train, deposited them at Mrs. Foulke Ferrars' door.

"Did you bring me a girl, Bob?" was his sister's first question, hurled at him through the darkness.

"Yes, I did."

Bob triumphantly produced Desiree. Mrs. Ferrars eyed her keenly, seemed not displeased with her youth and blushes, asked one or two kind questions, and then delivered her over to the care of the housekeeper, a grim old Scotch widow.

"Where did you get her, Bob?—at the French intelligence office?"

"Oh, I picked her up," said Bob, evasively.

"Did she have a good recommendation?"

"First-rate," was the reckless answer.

"Written?"

"No, verbal."

"Where did she live last?"

But Bob at this point went off into ecstasies over the first tooth of his niece, a small morsel of humanity some eight or nine months old. Mrs. Foulke Ferrars fell at once into the trap, and Desiree's "references" were forgotten.

The French girl proved a quick, handy waitress, ready to learn, and singularly graceful. Everybody liked her, and Bob best of all.

"Upon my word, Bob," said Mr. Ferrars, one day, when the dessert was placed upon the table, and Desiree had withdrawn, "you do nothing but stare at the little Parisienne! I do believe you are falling in love with her!"

"Nonsense," said Mrs. Ferrars, glancing quickly up. "Bob is far too sensible for such a piece of Quixotism as that."

"I do not know that it would be Quixotism," said Bob, stoutly. "She's certainly pretty."

"She is not a lady!"

"But I maintain that she is a lady!"

"What absurdity, Bob!"

"Well, then, will you be good enough to tell me what constitutes a lady."

"Birth—education—refinement."

"Desiree is educated and refined."

"She is only a servant."

"I maintain that she is a lady for all that!"

Bob clung so resolutely to his view of the subject that Mrs. Ferrars took the first opportunity to tell her husband confidentially that she thought she should send Desiree away.

"What for?" ejaculated Foulke Ferrars, open-mouthed.

"Oh, dear!" said his wife, petulantly; "men are so stupid. Don't you see that Bob is falling in love with her?"

"That's rather hard on the poor girl, isn't it, to punish her for Bob's folly?"

Mrs. Foulke Ferrars' face grew rigid.

"I shall discharge her," she said. "A servant has no business to be prettier and more attractive than others of her caste, and I saw Bob talking to her last night in the garden."

So when Mr. Robert Morrison came home from the city the next night, a tall, freckle-faced young man, a neprew of the Scotch housekeeper, was waiting on the table, and he looked in vain for the light-footed blue-eyed French girl.

"Where is Desiree?" was his first question.

"I have discharged her."

Bob's brow grew dark, but Mrs. Ferrars met his eye with bold defiance.

"What was this for?" he asked, sternly.

"Bob, you know you were getting too fond of her. I have some regard for the poor girl's character, if you have none."

"Desiree Fontaine is a girl amply able to take care of her own character. You have done a cruel and unfeeling thing, Lizzie."

"I suppose I can turn away a servant when I please."

"Where has she gone?"

"I do not know nor care."

"And consequently you imagined that I should not be able to discover her whereabouts. You will find that your precautions have been in vain."

That was all that was said on the subject, and Mrs. Ferrars began after a day or two to hope that her brother had forgotten his penchant for the pretty waitress.

Just a fortnight after that there was another dinner party, and the freckle-faced young man waited. Bob did not come up until the last train, and arrived in time for dessert, with its red and golden wines, peaches and temples of tinted ice. With him came another guest, unexpectedly detained, M. Fabilion, the French banker, in whose honor Mrs. Ferrars' dinner had been specially given.

He was a dignified, white-haired old man, whose wealth had made him neither arrogant nor assuming.

"You must pardon my want of punctuality," said the old gentleman, with his graceful foreign bow to the lady of the house, as she welcomed him to a seat at her own right hand, "but I have this day had a great and unexpected pleasure."

"Indeed?" cried Mrs. Foulke Ferrars, all smiles.

"A niece, my only surviving relative, has been restored to me. We have strangely been kept apart by that fate which you Americans call circumstance. She came here in the steamer ten months ago; I expected her in that steamer, but not until this last trip. She could not find me, my poor niece; she knew not even my name, which had been changed to meet the conditions of an eccentric bequest. Ah, the poor girl! it is a romance, upon my word."

"And why did you not bring Mademoiselle Fabilion with you? We should have been so happy," began Mrs. Ferrars.

"Pardon, madam," interrupted the banker, "she is 'mademoiselle' no longer. She was this morning married to one who has disinterestedly wooed and won her in her humblest estate."

Mrs. Ferrars was a little disappointed. She had already begun to for plans for Bob's benefit.

"I am married, too," observed Bob, as it were, incidentally.

"You, Bob! And to whom?" shrieked his sister.

"To Desiree Fontaine!"

Mrs. Ferrars, pale as death, was just about to open her lips with a torrent of reproaches, when the old French banker suavely interposed.

"This is a riddle—an enigma of which I alone chance to possess the clew. Prepare yourself, madam—allow me to greet you as a relative!—Desiree Fontaine is my niece—Mr. Robert Morrison, who married her this morning before a happy accident made us acquainted with our relationship, is consequently my nepaew."

And M. Fabillon went on to tell the astonished guests how the clergyman who had performed the ceremony was an old friend of his own, and recognized the bride's name as that of the niece for whom his friend had searched so long and so vainly.

"And you may imagine my gratification," said M. Fabillon, with the courteous foreign bow again, "when I learned that the husband of my Desiree's choice was Mr. Ferrars' brother-in-law."

Mrs. Foulke Ferrars grew red and white; she hardly knew what to say, and the few hurried congratulations that she finally stammered forth were indistinct and confused enough, while Bob sat by, maliciously enjoying her embarrassment.

Mr. Morrison took the next train back to town; he had only come up to witness the denouement of this little life romance, and was impatient, bridegroom-like, to return to Desiree.

But as he made his adieu, he whispered roguishly in his sister's ear:

"Now what do you think about what constitutes a lady?"

"Now what do you think about what constitutes a lady?"

And Mrs. Ferrars answered, blushing:

"Do have a little mercy, Bob? How was I to know that my waitress was the great French banker's niece?"

"I knew that she was a precious jewel," answered the young husband, enthusiastically.

Nor did Mrs. Foulke Ferrars contradict him this time.—New York Weekly.

The Man of the Moment.

When they saw him coming along—case in hand—they rushed to the door and called and beckoned and made frantic gestures.

As soon as he was within the house they almost dragged him upstairs and into the bedroom, where she lay, gasping, and so very, very pale.

"What do you think?" three of them cried at once.

He was painfully shocked and distressed.

"I think she is a very sick woman," he said.

They waited a second, and then one said:

"What shall we do first?"

He looked surprised.

"I should call a doctor," he said, emphatically.

At that they all screamed at once: "But aren't you a doctor?"

He started violently and stared at them in amazement. "No, I'm a piano tuner," he replied.—Town Topics.

Johannesburg, South Africa, is renaming its streets on the American system by numbers.

Instead of Iron.

In Iceland horses are shod with sheep's horn; in the Soudan a kind of sock made of camel's skin is used for the purpose. A German not long ago invented a horseshoe of paper, prepared by saturating with oil, turpentine, and other ingredients. Thin layers of such paper are glued to the hoof till the requisite thickness is attained; and the shoes thus made are durable and impenetrable by moisture.

Railroad travel in Brazil is discontinued on Sundays.

A SERMON FOR SUNDAY

AN ELOQUENT DISCOURSE ENTITLED, "JONAH'S SEA EXPERIENCES."

The Rev. Dr. John R. Mackay Shows How Human Effort and Human Influence Wither Quickly Under Sarcasm—Jonah Has Suffered in This Way.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y.—The Rev. Dr. John R. MacKay, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, preached Sunday morning on "The Significance of Jonah's Sea Experience." The text was from Jonah i:12. Dr. MacKay said:

One of the surest ways to ruin any cause is to be able successfully to heap ridicule upon it. Make it ridiculous and you have ruined it. As soon as it becomes the butt of common talk and the standing joke for the funny column of the newspaper its power is gone, its influence sealed. And so soon as an individual becomes the centre of a community's jokes and sneers his influence is gone. Human effort and influence wither more quickly under sarcasm and ridicule than in any other way. In this way many a good cause and many a good person has suffered at the hands of persons who have never seriously tried to understand the cause or the person. In this way many a great human heart has been placed upon its Calvary and made to bleed and suffer the keenest agony. In this way many a noble, sincere, sensitive soul is going through its Gethsemane or is being nailed to its cross on this very Sabbath day.

This is how I believe the work and life of Jonah have suffered. Unthinkingly, unfeelingly, sarcastically, people have associated Jonah with a whale, and a joke being the easiest and cheapest way of showing wisdom they have exhausted all their wisdom there.

We cannot keep too often reminding ourselves that we shall continue to miss the true meaning of the Bible and most of its great teaching unless we remember that every incident mentioned in the Old Testament gives not only the story of some person, with all the local coloring surrounding him as a man and an individual, but also and more important, that there is a great world truth to be revealed, and this individual, with his local coloring, has been chosen as the medium through which to reveal and teach that truth. And, therefore, the great Bible difficulties, with so many, have arisen because they have been satisfied to centre all their thought and interest on the individual and his local details, and in this way have missed the great truth intended to be taught—a truth so great that were it grasped it would then become a key by which to open up and understand the incident itself.

This is how Jonah has suffered at our hands. And our task is now in a few words to take another look at Jonah—to try and see him in the light of the great truth intended to be taught and see if thereby we can the better understand the story itself.

Bethink yourselves back into the earlier stages and gradual growth of the human race. To them as to us there came problems to be solved. We have the benefit of their efforts and can profit by them in our problems. But the further back we go the less and less did they have to help them solve their problems. Yet they felt the full force of each one and had to make an effort of some sort to solve it. The problem was not always the same. Sometimes it was social, sometimes it was physical, sometimes it was national, sometimes it was intellectual, sometimes it was moral. If it took a religious phase it was either national or moral or intellectual. Men felt the presence of God impinging upon them. They have forced themselves to formulate certain conceptions about Him. Then they found that certain of their experiences did not agree with these conceptions of God. And there their difficulties arose. This is the meaning of the book of Jonah. Whoever wrote the book felt the difficulty of a great intellectual and national problem. This led him to take the story of the Prophet Jonah, that, having thrown it into a parabolic form, he might the better through it explain to the people what he thought was God's own solution of this particular problem.

What, then, was that difficulty, that problem? The people of Israel believed that the love and sympathy of God were confined to themselves. His care, His favor, His blessings were for them and them alone. God was their God and all the rest of the world was outside. There was but one human family that had a divine relationship, and that was Jewish. Quite true, there were other nations, and they had to live, but they had to live without God. He did not belong to them, they had no claim upon Him. That was the real traditional Jewish feeling.

But a few people were growing up who had a newer and truer conception of God, and a broader outlook upon man. One of them felt he would like to relieve this narrow, limited, wrong conception of God. This led him to write the book, and in doing so he took Jonah as the representative of the old narrow Jewish idea, and showed how Jonah's ideas became broadened, and thus taught the broad, full love of God for all men—taught not only the clemency of God, but also that He loves all men. There, then, is the national problem, to teach that God is God of all men and loves them; and the intellectual problem, to teach the Jewish people and all other people that God is everywhere. Let us see, then, how this double sided problem was solved and satisfactorily illustrated in Jonah's experiences—that God is everywhere and that God loves all men.

Jonah did not believe this. God was not everywhere as Jehovah. This Jonah had been taught and this he believed. This was the very atmosphere in which he lived and moved and had his being. This was his babyhood's lisping, his boyhood's teaching and his manhood's patriotism. But one day there broke into his mind a new thought: "Why should not God care for the people in that other city just as well as He does for the people in this city? Why should Jerusalem be any more favored than Nineveh? The people are not Jews, but why should God not care for them just as well as if they were Jews? Why should there not be a brotherhood of mankind stronger than all the limits of national and family prejudice? Why not?" That thought came to Jonah like a voice which seemed to say to him, "Then, Jonah, why don't you go and tell them about God? Why don't you go and tell them they may have God's favor as well as other people?" This thought so burned itself into Jonah's mind and heart that he felt it must be God's will also to bless other people beside Jews. But Jonah being a dyed-in-the-wool Jew could not tolerate that. He therefore said, "Now, if I get out of the country for a while this thought will leave me, for God is not everywhere to press it upon me as He is in Israel." He did not care very much where he went if only he could get away from that voice. The voice troubled him. He felt that voice was calling him to do something he was sure was right, but he did not wish to do it. This is the sphere in which we so often are Jonahs. That voice we have always heard, and like Jonah we have tried to stifle it. Yea, we get just as angry with God and our friends when they dare to keep suggesting it to us; we do not want to hear about the right when we don't want to do it. Jonah, therefore, fled. He did not care where. That ship going to Tarshish was opportune. It made him decide that the safest place for him would be at sea. God was never known to have spoken to a Jew on the sea. And so now Jonah felt he would be safe from God and that voice. That is why he so rapidly and peacefully got asleep.

Now that is just why a storm was necessary. Jonah had to learn, and through him all men had to learn, that God is present as much on sea as upon land—on an ocean greyhound as on a Tarshish merchantman. And Jonah learned it. And Jonah accepted it. At once he admitted, "I have done wrong, cast me into the sea." And the storm ceased. The lesson had been learned, and through Jonah the Israelites learned that God is everywhere, and no man can get away from Him. That a fish should pick him up and cast him ashore is a mere incident of the parable. It is simply that part of the story which teaches that if a man repents God will receive him and care for him and give him another chance. It is the divine exposition of man's "other chance"—a chance to redeem his past and go forward to do God's will—go forward to accomplish the particular form of service for which his life has been endowed and prepared.

To have learned that God is everywhere was also to learn that since God is God there can be no limit to His divine love—that God has love and blessing for all people and every person. So that in Jonah being cast into the sea, it was not a punishment, but one method of a fuller revelation of the care and love of God for those who became willing to obey Him. Our sorrow is not a punishment, but a method for a higher and fuller revelation of God's love and blessing. There is often a little tinge of atheism in our thought about Christian trouble or sorrow. It does not seem right to speak of any Christian sorrow as something allowed of God and overruled to a higher purpose. All Christian sorrow, as well as all Christian experiences are but different methods of God's own through which He gives higher and fuller revelations of His love and blessing, and develops His people to better fitness for service. And this is what Jonah learned, and having learned it he went at once to that city of Nineveh and delivered the message God had given him to deliver. He tells the Ninevites all he knows about the love of God. He tells them also all about the pure and righteous demands of God, and that if they persist in living their awful lives of selfishness and sin destruction must come to them as it must come to all men who persist in sinning.

The city did repent and God did bless the people. And in this way Jonah learned that the very blessings he had himself received and his people had received were not for themselves alone, but also for others—Nineveh and every other Nineveh that needed the knowledge of the love and righteousness of God. It is this that makes this parable of Jonah so like the parables of Jesus—illustrations of the love of God and of what God expects from those who already have been blessed.

And this second thought was just as vividly taught as the first one. After preaching for about five weeks in Nineveh, Jonah thought God was showing too much favor to this city. He was granting it too many blessings. This he regarded as a very painful reflection upon Jewish traditions, and this he resented. At the close of a day's preaching he went out into the country to think it all out and have a real satisfactory grumble about it all by himself. He sat down near to a large, big leaved gourd, whose refreshing shade, as the sun moved around, kept its burning rays from harming him. Next morning he went back to the same place, but the gourd had withered during the night. Jonah got angry, and in his indignation pitied the gourd thus destroyed so soon. But as he cooled off and his reason and his heart again asserted themselves, that voice seemed again to speak within him, "Jonah, what a foolish, unreasonable creature you are! Here you pity this gourd, and yet you find fault with and upbraid God because He has shown His pitying love and blessing toward these people of Nineveh—are not sinful, sorrowing human beings of more value than a gourd?" That was enough for Jonah. He was satisfied God did care for the people of Nineveh, and that it was Godlike to do so; yea, and what was more important, that His love and blessing were to be made known to them through the people already blessed. That is the teaching of the book of Jonah; that is the lesson Jonah learned, that he must offer God missionary service as well as worship, that he must offer God service as well as love, that to carry the message of God's love to his fellow men is to worship God.

Do you know, I think that is what God still asks? And yet, and yet, I sometimes think we rebel against the thought of it quite as much as Jonah did. That is why I have been led to bring this study of Jonah this morning. If we are not going to help the people of our Nineveh, who is going to do it? Like Jonah, we spend enough upon ourselves; we do not deny ourselves a single thing we set our hearts upon—social parties, theatres, entertainment, home comforts, bodily comforts, travel by land and sea. And these have all their own place—but we must not forget the people in Nineveh. In addition to our own care for ourselves and our worship, we have one other responsibility—the people in Nineveh. For them I speak this morning. We may take to sea as Jonah did, but it is not a very profitable business. Much better respond to the Lord gladly. True, we do not say with Jonah that God is not everywhere, or that His love is not for every creature—that is the very essence of our creed, but we may say with Jonah, Let some one else help Nineveh, I don't want to do it; if Nineveh can't take care of itself and some one must help them, let some one else do so. This is not what we are going to say to-day. We are going to say, rather, tell us where our Nineveh is, tell us how we can best help at this particular time and we will do it! My answer is, this home mission offering is our Nineveh.

Why should we? Because it is Godlike. God Himself is our supreme example. Because it is good for us to give—we feel our brotherhood better and the joy of giving becomes ours. Because new American communities need our help to fill them with hope, and by church privileges inspire them with those same God-given principles and truths that have made New England and New York, that have made ourselves and given us our prosperous environment. For God's sake, for our own sake, for America's sake, this is our opportunity. We want these people to know the same God we know and to speak to Him as confidently as we do and call Him "Father." When these people come together on Sundays we want them to be able to say with us "Our Father." When they gather their little, white-robed children around them at the even hour, we want them, children and parents together, to say "Our Father." When they come to lay any of these little ones out on the hillside and place upon the marker the words "Our Darling," we want them also confidingly to say, "My Father." And when they themselves come to the edge of the deep waters and wonder what ferryboat is to bear them across their Jordan we want them trustfully, lovingly, to be able to put their hands outward and upward and say, "My Father." That is out Nineveh. Will you help? Help us unto Him!

"I'll Not Forget to Keep You."

She was only a poor, sick, old woman, but a royal soul dwelt within her homely body. The deaconess found her, after climbing a long, dark stairway, in a poor little room, dark, but neat and clean. On a tiny table lay an open Bible, and opposite the bed hung a picture of the Good Sherherd.

"Ay, my dear lady," she said, when the deaconess spoke of the picture, "many a time I lie here all alone looking at Him and at the little lamb He carries so tenderly, and sometimes He seems to look at me so kindly that I can almost hear Him saying, 'I'll not forget to keep you.'" The deaconess went away feeling stronger for the simple expression of faith.

True greatness lies not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall.

THE SUNDAY S

INTERNATIONAL LESSON C FOR MAY 15

Subject: The Prodigal Son, L 24—Golden Text, Hosea ory Verses, 17-19—Commo Day's Lesson.

I. Leaving home (vs. 11 tain man." The simple beginning of the most be parables. The man is G God the Father. "Two Jews. The idea that the sents the Jews and the ties is foreign to the pa acter the two sons may sentative of mankind, to examples of two great tion from God: the el self-righteousness, the by his unrighteousness.

12. "The younger" ly wicked persons, sc and sinners. He thoughtless, careless, confident, and could "Give me." It has East for sons portion of the father's lifetime.

13. "Not many days upon his course and lost This shadows forth the national and (2) indiv "Gathered all together astray from God when his journey." He was er's government and de erty. As soon as the re grace is taken off, we journey the prodigal to sinner in his departure went into a "far country and virtue. "Wasted h sinners waste the gifts G The worldly life is always It wastes body and soul time, talents and all that valuable. Sinners was t Sabbaths, their religious heavenly inheritance and return. "With riotous 30 we see how low he mind and soul were debased.

II. In distress (vs. 14-16 He did not stop until his gone. His passions reign sents the sinner who has t mercy, favor and love of G wilfully rejected the salvation. It seems that he spent all very enjoyment of sin is brief. "A mine." The soul living at a dis God, and shut out from inter Him, will very soon feel its own tiness. A mighty famine will f want." Real want is soul w prodigal now felt the effects o pated course. The steps dow "apostasy, profligacy, penalty." 24: 34. The soul has many cra the pleasures, riches and hono world can never satisfy it.

15. "Joined himself to a citiz same wicked life that before sented by riotous living is here ed by servile living, for sinners fect slaves. The devil is the that country; he is both in city try. Sinners join themselves t go at his bidding (John 8: 34; a pendent upon him for their li feed swine." This was doubly and especially so to a Jew. "Th tion at the end of a course of s represented." Shame, contempt tress are wedded to sin, and ca divorced.

16. "With the husks." The h not the pods of some other fruit fruit of the carob tree, used fo swine." He was driven to the of trying to satisfy his hunger food that was fit only for swin ners endeavor to satisfy the earthly and sensual delights gave unto him." Those who called his friends now deserted had taken his money and then aside. Satan's agents do the sa The saloonkeeper will rob a m money, health and character, kick him out of the back door t

III. The decision to return 17. "He came to himself." Sin the reason. A state of sin is folly and madness, but the mad the heart (Eccl. 9: 3).

18. "I will arise." He had left his own free will and he must the same way. God compels n do right. "And go." Following ion there must be an effort put returning to God there is someth "I have sinned." The first thing to make a full confession of John 1: 9; Job 33: 27, 28). Aga on." Against God. "And before He had also sinned against father. It is ever a token of th of repentance when one views sins committed against others as sions against God.

IV. The return and the welcom 21). 20. "He arose." He immed all of these things that he had upon. "Great way off." He s slowly, in rags, in disgrace, ou about his welcome. "His father The father was ever watching f turn. So God knows when we ward Him. Sin has made the great, but as soon as the lost one return the Father has Compassion ran, etc." This represents the with which God receives return ners. The running to welcome co to the seeking in our Lord's ou bles. 21. "I have sinned." He m confession personal; he abases This is always the result of true ance. "No more worthy." All t tents feel their unworthiness. conscious that they deserve not death, and their only hope is in t of Christ.

V. Forgiveness and rejoicing (v 22. "But the father." The father wait until he had finished his In this we see the great affect father and his willingness to forg to his servants." The father's and he instantly issues orders t his return. "Bring forth quickly Let us show at once by your act the wanderer is fully forgiven stated. "Put a ring on his hand. of affection and that he was a There is no license given here the body, as some have vainly show. The true standard for s ing is given by Paul and Peter 9. 10; I Pet. 3: 3, 4). 23. "Be me joyful and happy. The Bible children of God license to show When Christ restores the wander is general rejoicing and he is tru treated as a son. The best that G given him, and the past is entirel out. 24. "Was dead." Lost to given up to all evil. "Is alive again was special cause for rejoicing would not be partaker of this joy.

Composer Dvorak Dies in Pr

At Prague, Bohemia, Dr. A Dvorak, the noted composer, of the Conservatory of Music at and formerly director of the N Conservatory of Music, died plexy. He was sixty-two years

What is considered to be the diamond in the world was o property of the emperor of Da is valued at $70,000. The larg mond ever seen weighed abou carats, and is owned by a sy of dealers. Its value complete be about 25 million dollars, b now being cut up.

WHERE WAS FL

* * *

The Lady From H Wanted to Kn

HERE was once a relic of the glacial age in Boston who was discovered by a hardy explorer from the wilds of Chicago and nt here to preside over his department. The relic was male sex, and her sex attitude exceedingly chilly reflection on the blithesome solicitors whose it was to get her signature to contracts for their various you what sh who was a hero pets Ar "I am bound to get an ol contract from that old lady nation depends on it. I am now to t a fellow who cares enough t tled their wills on the old lady all in vain. But they did not d the depth of misery in the last days I home, sat down and thought ht. he asked himself of an uncertain in?"

minutes he sat still while the volved. Then his eyes r proper answer to that noble his head ladies of an uncertain age interested in cats," was the put it to himself. "I will tell story If anything, could be expect t a slight thaw in the icy at which surrounds her? has such a softening, such a influence as humor? I will d lady a funny cat story." e problem solved he acquired thought was an amusing story rat, and thus equipped again s card to the feminine adver nager from Boston. Artfully d the conversation into the di of felines, and at the proper he began his great experiment. ife of a friend of mine who Jersey City," he began, "had arest pet a handsome tabby s called Flossy. The tabby a great old age, and finally, in course of time, became de his sad event happened in the me, and it was therefore im to provide Flossy a fitting in the frozen earth. My wife, in her dilemma, appealed sband. Every morning on his s office in the city my friend from the Jersey shore on the

' said his wife, 'I am anxious sy shall have a proper burial. rap the remains neatly in a nd when you cross the river ning you can commit them to tainly,' said my friend. The as neatly wrapped in brown d he carried it in one hand left the house. While waiting the ferryboat to start he got versation with a friend, who interesting that when he got oat on the New York side he at he still had Flossy in his n.

never mind,' he said to him- keep Flossy here at the office, n I go home to-night I'll take and drop her into the river.' dingly he dismissed Flossy s mind entirely and plunged day's work."

dvertising solicitor, who was e story, was glad to note that me he had reached this point arrative he had succeeded in the close attention not only of from Boston, but as well that our or five clerks and steno in the room. They had all work and were listening eag is story. Already he saw suc d, and with that as an inspir told the rest of the story with animation and enthusiasm. ed the old lady from Boston in the eye and went on.

evening came he picked up still wrapped in her brown roud, and took a car from his wn to the ferryboat. At the it happened, he met again the ith whom he had talked dur trip across the river in the They exchanged salutations, lf unconsciously, he noticed friend also carried a brown rcel in one hand.

wo men walked into the cabin down together on the plush seats which ran along one side oom. Between was a vacant which they laid their respect dles.

alk between them was on the s for a rise in Metropolitan subject on which my friend's as especially well posted. And friend held an interest of sev sand dollars in the stock, it is understand why he was deeply d in what he could learn of its e.

y rate he listened so closely to that presently the boat land he dock in Jersey City, and he with a shock to remember that ngain forgotten to decently in ay. But he picked up his bun the vacant seat and went on milling at the curious train of tances which had resulted in ring Flossy on his hands. Hav ell developed sense of humor, nd felt no anger at fate for him such a trick. It was mere d joke on himself. That was

THE SUNDAY SC

INTERNATIONAL LESSON CO FOR MAY 15.

Subject: The Prodigal Son, Lu 24—Golden Text, Hosea vi. ory Verses, 17-19—Commo Day's Lesson.

I. Leaving home (vs. 11-13). "A certain man." The simple, unpre ginning of the most beautiful parables. The man is here th God the Father. "Two sons." Jews. The idea that the elder sents the Jews and the younger tiles is foreign to the parable, acter the two sons may be said sentative of mankind, for we hav examples of two great phases, tion from God: the elder is s righteousness, the younger ly his unrighteousness.

12. "The younger." He repres ly wicked persons, such as the and sinners. He also repre thoughtless, careless youth. Ha confident, and could easily be "Give me." It has been a custo East for sons to demand and re portion of the inheritance father's lifetime.

13. "Not many days." He had upon his course and hastened to This shadows forth the rapidity national and (2) individual de "Gathered all together." Sinners astray from God venture their all his journey." He was weary of God's government and desired gra erty. As soon as the bridle of re straint is taken off, we are soon g journey the prodigal took repre sinner in his departure from G went into a "far country," far fr and virtue. "Wasted his substa sinners waste the gifts God has g The worldly life is always a was It wastes body and soul, life and time, talents and all that is pre valuable. Sinners waste their E Satisfy the cheer religious training heavenly inheritance and get no return. "With riotous living." 30 we see how low he fell. H mind and soul were debased.

II. In destitution (vs. 14-16). 14. S He did not stop until his last d gone. His resources reached. Th son—the sinner who has thrown mercy, favor and love of God, wilfully rejected the salvation o It seems that he spent all very s enjoyment of sin is brief. "A migh me." The soul living at a distan God, and shut out from intercou Him, will very soon feel its own w tiness. A mighty famine will follo want." Real want is soul was prodigal now felt the effects of i pated course. The steps downwar "apostasy, profligacy, penalty." 24: 34. The soul has many crav the pleasures, riches and honors world can never satisfy it.

15. "Joined himself to a citizen same wicked life that before wa sented by riotous living is here re ed by servile living, for sinners a fect slaves. The devil is the c that country; he is both in city a try. Sinners join themselves to go at his bidding (John 8: 34), and pendent upon him for their livin feed swine." This was doubly de and especially so to a Jew. "The tion at the end of a course of sin represented!" Shame, contempt tress are wedded to sin, and can n divorced.

16. "With the husks." The hu not the pods of some other fruit, fruit of the carob tree, used for swine." He was driven to the e of trying to satisfy his hunger w food that was fit only for swine. ners endeavor to satisfy the s earthly and sensual delights. gave unto him." Those whom called his friends now deserted hi had taken his money and then t aside. Satan's agents do the same. The saloonkeeper will rob a man money, health and character, an kick him out of the back door to

III. The decision to return (vs. 17. "He came to himself." Sin de the reason. A state of sin is a folly and madness, but the madne the heart (Eccl. 9: 3).

18. "I will arise." He had left h his own free will and he must re the same way. God compels no do right. "And go." Following t ion there must be an effort put fo returning to God there is something "I have sinned." The first thing to make a full confession of our John 1: 9; Job 33: 27, 28). Again en." Against God. "And before He had also sinned against his father. It is ever a token of the of repentance when one views s sins committed against others as tr sions against God.

IV. The return and the welcome 20). 20. "He arose." He immedia all of those things that he had upon. "Great way off." He was slowly, in rags, in disgrace, que about his welcome. "His father sa The father was ever watching for turn. So God knows when we st ward Him. Sin has made the g great, but as soon as the lost one r return the Father has Compassion, ran, etc." This represents the re with which God receives returni ners. The running to welcome corr to the seeking in our Lord's othe bles. 21. "I have sinned." He ma confession personal; he abases This is always the result of true ance. "No more worthy." All tr tents feel their unworthiness. T conscious that they deserve noth death, and their only hope is in th of Christ.

V. Forgiveness and rejoicing (vs. 22. "But the father." The father wait until he had finished his con In this we see the great affection father and his willingness to forgive to his servants." The father's joy and he instantly issues orders to c his return. "Bring forth quickly." Let us show at once by your actio the wanderer is fully forgiven an stated. "Put a ring on his hand." of affection and that he was a fre There is no license given here to the body, as some have vainly show. The true standard for such ing is given by Paul and Peter (1 9, 15; 1 Pet. 3: 3, 4). 23. "Be merry joyful and happy. The Bible gi children of God license to shout When Christ restores the wandere is general rejoicing and he is unm treated as a son. The best that God given him, and the past is entirely out. 24. "Was dead." Lost to a given up to all evil. "Is alive again was special cause for rejoicing. would not be partaker of this joy.

Composer Dvorak Dies in Pra

At Prague, Bohemia, Dr. A Dvorak, the noted composer, of the Conservatory of Music at P and formerly director of the New Conservatory of Music, died o Plexy. He was sixty-two years o

What is considered to be the diamond in the world was onc property of the emperor of Delhi is valued at $70,000. The larges mond ever seen weighed about carats, and is owned by a syn of dealers. Its value complete be about 25 million dollars, but now being cut up.

WHERE WAS FLOSSY?

★ ★ ★

The Lady From Boston Wanted to Know.

HERE was once a relic of the glacial age in Boston who was discovered by a hardy explorer from the wilds of Chicago and ont here to preside over his ing department. The relic was male sex, and her icy attitude exceedingly chilly effect on the blithesome solicitors whose it was to get her signature to ing contracts for their various ell you what," said one of the who was a most persevering l. I am bound to get an ad- contract from that old lady. ation depends on it. I am me now to think of a scheme." low solicitors smiled. They ried their wiles on the old lady, in vain. But they did not do to the depth of intellect pos- by the man they laughed at. t home sat down and thought ght

?" he asked himself, "are maid- s of an uncertain age chiefly d in?"

e nut-like he sat still while the revolved. Then, like an inspir- he proper answer to that riddle to his head en ladies of an uncertain age dly interested in cats," was the put it to himself. "I will tell r story

If anything, could be expect- art a slight thaw in the icy at- e which surrounds her? e has such a softening, such a ing influence as humor? I will old lady a funny cat story."

he problem solved he acquired thought was an amusing story cat, and thus equipped again his card to the feminine adver- anager from Boston. Artfully ed the conversation into the di- of felines, and at the proper he began his great experiment. wife of a friend of mine who Jersey City," he began, "had dearest pet a handsome tabby was called Flossy. The tabby a great old age, and finally, in course of time, became de- This sad event happened in the time, and it was therefore im- to provide Flossy a fitting e in the frozen earth. My wife, in her dilemma, appealed husband. Every morning on his his office in the city my friend from the Jersey shore on the

," said his wife, 'I am anxious ssy shall have a proper burial. wrap the remains neatly in a nd when you cross the river rning you can commit them to dy,' said my friend. The was neatly wrapped in brown nd he carried it in one hand e left the house. While wait- the ferryboat to start he got versation with a friend, who so interesting that when he got boat on the New York side he hat he still had Flossy in his on.

never mind,' he said to him- ll keep Flossy here at the office. en I go home to-night I'll take g and drop her into the river.'

dingly he dismissed Flossy s mind entirely and plunged day's work."

dvertising solicitor, who was he story, was glad to note that time he had reached this point narrative he had succeeded in the close attention not only of from Boston, but as well that four or five clerks and steno- s in the room. They had all ir work and were listening eag- his story. Already he saw suc- ead, and with that as an inspir- told the rest of the story with l animation and enthusiasm. ed the old lady from Boston t in the eye and went on.

n evening came he picked up still wrapped in her brown hroud, and took a car from his own to the ferryboat. At the it happened, he met again the with whom he had talked dur- trip across the river in the g. They exchanged salutations, alf unconsciously, he noticed friend also carried a brown arcel in one hand.

two men walked into the cabin t down together on the plush seats which ran along one side room. Between was a vacant which they laid their respect- odies.

talk between them was on the ts for a rise in Metropolitan subject on which my friend's was especially well posted. And friend held an interest of sev- usand dollars in the stock, it is understand why he was deeply ed in what he could learn of its ts.

any rate he listened so closely to ry that presently the boat land- the dock in Jersey City, and he with a shock to remember that again forgotten to decently in- sy. But he picked up his bun- m the vacant seat and went on smiling at the curious train of stances which had resulted in ring Flossy on his hands. Hav- well developed sense of humor, end felt no anger at fate for him such a trick. It was mere- ood joke on himself. That was Wild Dogs in Pennsylvania.

A pack of wild dogs almost as savage as wolves has been discovered in the wilds of Wyoming County, Pennsylvania.

These wild curs are believed to be the offspring of two dogs once owned by a hermit who lived in the wilds. When the old man was taken in charge by the poor overseer the dogs remained in the woods.

They were even then wolf-like in their habits and haunts, and the wild canines now infesting the "slushings" are doubtless the offspring of these. Hunters will endeavor to exterminate the pack before they become more numerous. Wild dogs are known to have attacked men, so that the territory in which they live holds new terrors for those who find it necessary to go into that section.—Washington Times.

At School in the Philippines.

Tom Bieler recently went from Kansas to the Philippines. At Bahol he visited a village school.

"When I stepped into the schoolroom," says Bieler, "all the children jumped up on their feet and said 'Good afternoon.' I asked the teacher if it was recess, but he said it wasn't. The pupils talked loud and ran around the room where they pleased. When one of them read he would holler as loud as he could. While I was in the room a dog and a goat came in, but no one paid any attention to them. The teacher said a dog fight in the room would cause them to quit anything and watch the fight."—Eureka (Kan.) Messenger.

Here's a New One.

A new swindle is being worked by a pair of strangers in Southern Michigan, according to the Auburn (Ind.) Dispatch. A stranger appears on the road apparently searching for a lost valuable diamond ring, but leaves after getting some responsible person interested, offering $100 for the return of the ring. Soon after his departure a tramp appears and picks up what appears to be the missing ring. The person who has been offered $100 reward for its return sees an opportunity to make a stake by giving the tramp a liberal sum for it, but fails to find the owner. He then consults a diamond expert and learns that the sparkler is worth about fifteen cents.

The Water Hat.

The Berlin fire brigade is experimenting with a device called a water hat. It consists of the addition to the ordinary helmit of a circular hose which sprays water at an angle of forty-five degrees in a downward direction. The pipe which leads to this hose is to be attached to the nozzle of an ordinary fire hose.

When in use the fireman is protected as far as his head and face are concerned, by a curtain of water, which besides its coolness, gives him pure air to breathe, even in the midst of a dense smoke, as it acts as a condensing medium and also as a filterer.—New York Tribune.

The Iron Sands of Java.

A curious sight on the coast of Java is a long stretch of shore, about twenty-nine miles in length, where the sand is filled with particles of magnetic iron. In some places it is said that the surface sand contains eighty per cent. of iron. It can be smelted, and a company has been formed to exploit the deposits.

THE MILE A MINUTE MAN

WHY HIS HAIR MAY GROW GRAY IN A SINGLE NIGHT.

His Life May Pay for a Lapse of Judgment, But He Never Loses His Nerve—Caution Is Not Always Winner.

"For my part, I believe the reason for the recent epidemic of wrecks," said a commercial traveler in the smoking compartment of a Pullman car, "is due to the fact that the nerves of the engineers are brought to such a high tension after a number of bad accidents that they lose control of themselves."

"That's just where you are wrong," quietly said a gray-haired man with a tanned, weather-beaten face, who sat near the window smoking a cigar. "I think you will all credit me with knowing what I am talking about, as I have been a railroad engineer for the last 30 years; have run all kinds of engines, from a mine dummy to a hundred-ton passenger engine with a seven-foo wheel, and have railroaded on all the principal lines in the United States.

"The great majority of people seem to have the idea that the engineer of a fast train is always in fear of runins and collisions, and that he is under such a nervous strain that he sometimes has to be lifted from the cab when he reaches the end of his run. That isn't so. An engineer has too many duties, such as watching his signals, keeping water in his engine, and seeing that he is on his schedule time, to have much time to worry himself about accidents that are likely to happen. As long as he pays the proper attention to his own train he knows that is al he can do, and that if anything goes wrong it is beyond his control. So he doesn't take up any of his time worrying. Accidents will happen, no matter how much care is taken to prevent them, and sometimes there can't be found any reason for them, but you may be sure that they are never caused through the engineer losing his nerve.

"If an engineer were under half the strain most people suppose him to be he wouldn't last a dozen trips, but you will find that men live to grow old at engineering, just the same as at any other work—that is, if they are suited to the business and have no bad luck. As a rule they are men of good, strong nerves and with little imagination. Of course, I don't mean that all engineers are alike. There are good and ordinary and fast and slow engineers. And it is a curious fact that it is not always the slow, cautious man who gets along with the fewest accidents.

"One of the fastest engineers I ever knew was one of the safest, and yet he would come safely through after taking chances that would have made another man's hair stand on end. One thing he did I'll remember all my life. I was firing for him at the time and I thought that this was the last of us. We came into the station hauling an accommodation train, with the engine running on one side—that is, the gear on one side had broken down and he had disconnected it, taken off the side rods, and tied up the piston. All the power thus had to come from the good side. This doesn't interfere with an engine's speed—at least going down hill—but of course she is much more likely to give way in that condition than when she is in good order.

"The station was at the top of a steep grade and we were coming down. Our train had just five minutes to get to the next station, at the bottom of the hill, four and a half miles below, and side track for an express coming from the opposite direction.

"Well, the engineer wanted to make the run, but the conductor got off the train and said that he didn't want to commit suicide. If the engineer was bound to kill himself he would have to do it alone, said the conductor, but he finally was persuaded to get aboard, and away we went. Never before or since have I had such a ride. From the way we flew down that grade I thought we would never reach the bottom except in a pile. But we reached the side track safely, after all, and pulled into it just in time to miss the express, for it came through a moment later as fast as it could travel, as its engineer made a dash for the grade, and it didn't miss the rear end of our hind coach six inches as it was drawn into the siding.

"Yet that engineer is still running, and he has had fewer accidents than many a slower and more careful man.

"There is always a certain amount of excitement in the life of an engineer, but it gets to be just the same as any other work a man is doing year in and year out. I sometimes see pictures in magazines showing the engineer in a confab with his fireman. His train all the time supposed to be traveling at a gait of a mile a minute. You will never see anything like that in real life. An engineer always must have his hand on the throttle and his eyes glued straight ahead. The fraction of a second sometimes will make all the difference in the world, for you are likely to find a signal set against you at the most unexpected places, and it is strictly necessary that you see it just as soon as you can.

"While going along with an express as fast as the engine could turn a wheel the other day I came suddenly upon a brakeman waving a red flag. I threw on the air and then reversed the engine, for I could tell by the way the brakeman was waving that we were close on his train. Well, we came to a stop not an engine's length from the engine of a way train that had crossed on my track to get some cars out of a siding, and hadn't time to get out of my way. The brakeman had had hard work to get up the track far enough to give me the warning, so that I would have room to stop in. If I had been having one of those chats that you see in the pictures there would have been a grand smash-up, and I wouldn't be talking to you now.

"Some years ago when Robert Garrett was vice-president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, he came to Grafton, West Va., with a number of friends in a train made up of private cars bound west. He wanted to reach Parkersburg, the end of the next division, as fast as it was possible to run there. This division—104 miles long—was the roughest on the whole road, which was saying a good deal at that time. In the 104 miles there were 24 tunnels and 48 bridges, and the road went up hill and down through the whole distance. Some of the grades were over 120 feet to the mile and five miles long, not to speak of the sharp curves. Of course, fast time was almost out of the question.

"George Robinet, one of the fastest engineers on the road, had charge of the special train. The first stop was to be Clarksburg, 22 1-2 miles away. George took his train as fast as he could up the hills, and when he reached the top he would simply let it drop down the other side. He reached Clarksburg in 22 minutes with a party of thoroughly scared passengers. When the train stopped at the station Mr. Garrett came forward to the engine and thanked Robinet for his fine run, but said that he had changed his mind about being in a hury to reach Parkersburg, and ordered him to proceed at a reduced gait. The fast run ended right there, and may be it was a good thing it did, for if he had kept on at such speed the train probably would have landed at the bottom of a ravine.

"Afterward, while Robinet was running a fast rain on the Baltimore and Ohio, between Baltimore and Philadelphia, his engine jumped from the rails when it was going over the bridge crossing the Susquehanna river at Havre de Grace, Md. Nobody to this day knows what caused the engine to leave the track. It was one of the things for which there is no explanation.

"This bridge is fully 150 feet above the surface of the water, and has no sides at one part of it. There is just the under framework, with the crossties and rails laid on top. The train was going fairly fast at the time, and after leaving the rails the engine bumped along the cross-ties for a hundred feet before coming to a stop, the guard rail being the only thing that saved the whole train from going over into the river. A glance out of a car window at this point is enough to make a person dizzy, so you can imagine the effect this had on Robinet. The experience caused his hair to turn snow white in a single day. But even that didn't make him lose his nerve, and to this day he is running one of the fastest trains over the same division."—New York Sunday Times.

A KINGDOM OF GODS.

No Less Than 8,000,000 Worshipped by the Japanese.

Japan cannot yet be said to be a Christian country, remarked the Rev. George Mannington, in an address at the Congregational church, New Malden, though there is a great deal that is Christian in it, and large numbers of the people are really Christians. But Christianity is certainly not the chief religion; Buddhism occupies that place, says the London Daily News.

Buddhism, he continued, is a very dreary sort of a religion, for it teaches that the chief purpose of man ought to be to deny himself his desires until he has none left; then he will be rewarded by losing his existence in nothingness. And yet Buddhism teaches much that is good. It says you must be truthful, pure, honest and sober, and you must not kill; you must put away covetousness, deceit, anger, pride, suspicion, ingratitude and cruelty to animals; you must reverence your parents, obey your elders and be ever calm, resigned and forgiving. The people believe that those who fail in these duties will be born again in the form of animals and pass through great sufferings. But those who fulfil them will be born again in a higher state than before. But while much of this teaching is excellent, the Buddhist worship is idolatrous.

The people prostrate themselves before idols, one of which, made of wood, is supposed to heal people of their ailments. If a man has a bad arm, for instance, he goes and rubs his right hand on the arm of the idol, and then with the same hand rubs his own arm, believing that healing virtue is communicated from the idol.

Another religion of the Japanese is called Shintoism. This teaches the worship of the sun goddess and her descendants, the Japanese emperors, or mikados, as they are called. Then, again, departed heroes and learned men are worshipped. So, also, are the ancestors of the people, as in China. Little tablets recording the names of the deceased are hung up in the homes, and the Japanese children are taught to pray to them. And in most of the homes may be found some of all what are known as the seven household gods—the gods of riches, food, contentment, long life, love, learning and fame. It is said that there are no less than eight millions of gods worshipped by the Japanese.

Praying is made very easy. In the streets are tall posts with prayers printed on them, and with a small wheel attached. Anyone passing by can give the wheel a turn, and that counts as a prayer. The people in the second largest of the 3850 islands of which the empire is composed worship the bear, and reverence the sun, moon, fire, wind and water.

HOW FLOODS ARE FOUGHT.

WESTERNERS COMBINE EFFORTS AGAINST A COMMON ENEMY.

Banks Built of Earth in Bogs—Many Devices Resorted to for the Purpose of Diverting the Rush of Water—Weaving a Big Mattress.

The great floods which have proved so disastrous in Michigan, Indiana, Illionis and other parts of the West are largely due to the formation of the country. Any one who has traveled through the middle West knows that for miles and miles the railroad lines are built over prairie and other land which does not contain a piece of stone the size of a hen's egg. The southern part of Indiana and Illinois, as well as Michigan, also contain large areas of lowland swamps or marshes in the United States. Consequently the beds of many of the rivers are composed of loose material, which is easily washed out, and the natural banks offer but little resistance to the flood currents. This is shown by the fact that in many places the sides of the channels are carried away, making great gaps through which the water flows, inundating farm land and forming inland lakes.

Therefore, high water in the Western river means far more to the people in the vicinity than in New England, for example, where so many of the streams flow over the beds which have been hollowed out of the rock in some instances, and where the sides of the channels are so strongly protected by nature that no artificial work is needed. Only those who have seen the effect of a flood in the West realize the ravages which it can cause and for this reason the residents in the vicinity of a water course which is liable to break its bank, organize themselves into a sort of committee of the whole to look out for breaks and to make repairs. When the water has reached a height where it is considered dangerous, the alarm is given and every man able to handle shovel hastens to the weak spot. If the stream is a large one, flat boats are often used to aid in protecting the banks. If stone of any kind can be procured, they are loaded with this material, hauled to the scene of operations, where the volunteer workmen remove the material and crudely fashion it into breast works, as they might be called, along the top of the bank. Sometimes the stone is placed in masses of brush wood cut from the nearest trees, in order to hold it together more firmly, but as already stated, the middle West is a country where stone cannot always be obtained, so the custom which is followed by the levee protectors in the South, of using sand bags, is in vogue to a considerable extent. Anything in the shape of a bag which will hold sand, flour sacks, cement bags etc., are filled from the nearest sand pit, although sometimes even this cannot be procured and ordinary dirt is substituted. This sort of protection, however, will resist the force of the flood current about as effectually as the sand bag forts have protected garrisons from the musketry of the enemy. They can be filled so easily that a few men can load a boat with them in a comparatively short time and built in walls three or four feet high they have often prevented a very serious break in an embankment.

The ordinary shovel is also a very effective weapon in flood fighting in the West, and the residents of the low lands are experts in throwing up walls of earth when their fields and gardens are in danger of being overflowed. Many a disaster of this kind has been only averted by hundreds of men working not only all day but all night, relieving each other in shifts, raising the natural wall confining the stream as rapidly as the waters have increased in height. In cases of emergency convicts are also pressed into service, working side by side with the free men.

The Western rivers have a trick of eating underneath the bank, and sometimes have broken from their bounds in this way before the watchers realized that any serious damage was being done. Here timber work comes in very handy if it can be built strongly enough to keep from being washed away. If the stream is not too deep, planking can be driven into the bottom and packed up with sand bags, brushwood and any other "filling" which is convenient, while it is also re-enforced by beams extending from the earth bank, their shore ends being firmly imbedded in the bank. These crude coffer dams, as they might be called, are often used to keep back the water while the embankment itself is being raised and strengthened. The pile driver is also a great aid in fighting the floods in this part of the country, and as on the Mississippi, a number of floating pile drivers are kept on the larger streams. When there is danger of a break they are taken to the spot and a row of tree trunks or branches, or possibly rails from the nearest fence, if no other timber is available, are driven into the bottom of the water course in an oblique direction from the shore if not parallel with it. This serves to divert the force while it does not directly restrain the flood water, and in many instances has prevented widespread disaster.

The use of artificial embankments, or levees, is becoming more and more extensive in the West, owing to the treacherous nature of the streams, and some of those which have been built in Southern Indiana are among the longest in the United States, with the exception of the works which confine the Mis... the Western le... earthwork, some ... idly constructed. O... fective kinds is what ... mattress levee. It tak... from the manner in which ... A great mat, or mattress, is ... ufactured by weaving bran... trees together. Some of these ... are 50 feet in length when built. T... are sunk to the bottom of the ... the edge at the shore, and extending ... to a point near the highwater mark. They are held down by being weighted with some stone or other heavy material. The mattress keeps the stone from sinking into the soft bottom, and if built strongly enough they will protect a shore of even quicksand from being washed away.—Philadelphia Record.

UNCLE SAM'S CIGARS.

Plight of a Man Who Tried to Get the Best of the Customs.

Among the men, cigars and cigarettes cause much trouble. The regulations permit a person to bring in for his own consumption fifty cigars or three hundred cigarettes, the ruling of the department being that for customs purposes fifty cigars equal that many cigarettes. Travelers are always arriving who do not know the regulations or who try to evade them. Nine times out of ten the traveler whose conscience wants to make it a personal matter with the inspector, and acts as if he thought thrashing the official would get his cigars in free. Then he cools down a little and offers to pay the duty on all over fifty and take them all. There he strikes a new cause of rage. The smallest number of cigars that can be imported is three thousand. All under that and over fifty are seized. The inspector endeavors to explain that he did not make the law, and is responsible only for its execution as he finds it; but that seldom works, and the traveller goes away breathing fire, and mad with desire for vengeance.

A man came in from Havana recently with a box of cigars out of which he had smoked fifteen. There were eighty-five left. The inspector who examined his baggage told him he could have only fifty. The man declared that it was an outrage, and intimated that he believed it to be perpetrated for the inspector's personal amusement.

"Who gets the rest?" he demanded.

"They are seized for the government, was the reply.

Thereupon it was evident to the man that the outrage was for the benefit as well as the amusement of the inspector.

"I don't suppose you smoke?" he sneered.

"Not on duty," suavely replied the inspector.

"Well, you won't smoke these off duty," cried the man, and began to break them up.

"Hold on;" said the inspector, "you mustn't do that."

"Why not?" demanded the man. "They are my cigars."

"No, they are not," replied the inspector," they belong to the government."

No words could fit the situation, and the man went away. A little later he charged into the office of the law division, prepared to tear down the Custom House. He wanted to know, and he wanted his information quickly.

"Not my cigars, heh? Well, they hadn't been brought in yet."

"Oh, yes, they had they were considerably inside the three mile limit when you had them on the pier."

A little argument cooled him off, and he finally said:

"Well, I'll take my fifty, and you can have the rest."

"You haven't got fifty now," said the official.

"Haven't got fifty?" he screamed. "I'd like to know why I haven't. You said all along I could have fifty."

"Yes, but you broke them up."

"I didn't do any such thing. I broke up the extra thirty-five."

"Oh, no; those are Uncle Sam's. You were breaking up your own. But I don't think you destroyed them all. There are about fifteen still left for you."

And he had to do the best he could to seem content with fifteen. All of which shows again how foolish it is to kick against the pricks. Most men do it, however, and sometimes they beat Uncle Sam out of his cigars. There have been instances where men so situated pitched the whole supply overboard in their rage.—From "Hide and Seek With the Customs" in the Century.

A Green Hand.

President Hill of the Great Northern tells a story illustrative of the way in which American workingmen cherish the standards of their handicraft. He believes this zeal in upholding ideals of what constitutes good work permeates all classes.

With one of the section gangs of the Great Northern a raw recruit was set to work cutting weeds and cleaning up the right of way. The new man worked hard, but, of course, was subjected to critical attention on the part of the rest of the gang.

The division superintendent happened that way, talked to the foreman.

"Pat, how's the new man?" was asked.

"Oh, he's all roight on straight worruk," was the reply, "but when it comes to trimmin' up 'round a telegraph pole he aint in it, at all, at all."—Philadelphia Post.

...NION.

...ery Thursday at Clan... county, Alabama.

...s C. Edler, Ed. and Pub

...scription price, in advance, per ..., $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf

SPECIAL OFFER.

The Yellow Jacket, published biweekly at Moravian Falls, N. C., is an extremely bright, readable paper. We will send the UNION and YELLOW JACKET for one year for $1 in advance. This is a combination that ought to get every good man in Chilton county on our list, and is only open for a short time. tf

At the meeting of the populist exexutive committee of Chilton county on March 15, 1904, the following resolution was adopted by the committee:

"Be it resolved, That we, the people's party executive committee of Chilton county, do hereby indorse the UNION, a paper published in Clanton, Ala., as our official organ tf

OUR CLUBBING LIST.

The Union and Yellow Jacket, both for one year $1.00
The Union and Weekly Montgomery Advertiser 1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution 1.50
tf

Several hundred subscribers will get this paper with a big red cross on it. It means that you owe us a dollar and we owe it to some other fellows. Some small fellow will make a big kick about this red cross and will stop his paper, and some clever fellows will come in and pay up like a white man always does, and tell us they had just forgotten all about it. tf

DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?

IMPORTANT

THE PEOPLE'S PRIMARY WILL BE HELD ON TUESDAY, JULY 26th, 1904.

EDITORIAL.

THE SITUATION.

The regular republican delegation from this county to the state convention at Birmingham on May 10th was acknowledged and seated by the STATE COMMITTEE, and participated in the temporary organization of the convention. Postmaster Hutchins, of Huntsville, was elected temporary chairman and appointed a committee of nine on credentials for the permanent organization, headed by O. R. Hundley, of Huntsville. This committee repudiated the action of the state committee and ousted the regular republican delegates and put in their place the delegates nominated by the bolting faction that met at Thorsby last February. The convention was of, by and for office holders, and in actions, if not in words, said: "No others need apply." The republicans of Chilton county will "bide their time." Their opportunity will come, for the domination of true republicans by federal office holders can not continue forever.

There were federal officials "galore" there, collectors, marshals and postmasters of all classes, mostly the lower class.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Some letters are laid over to be printed next week, so "possess your souls with patience."

A. C. MIMS.

In connection with Mr. Mims' announcement for probate judge, THE UNION gives his own words, as they cover the ground fully: "I wish to say to the voters and people generally of Chilton county that I feel myself under lasting obligations to them for their hearty support in the past and for their kindness to me while traveling among them in the discharge of the duties of my office of tax assessor, and if they should see proper to elect me to the office that I now seek I assure them that I will in the future, as in the past, do all that I can for the interest of all the people, feeling myself the servant of the people. Of course the duties of my present office will prevent me from canvassing among the people of the county, and indeed I do not think it necessary, as all the people know me, and know my manner of doing business."

Yours very sincerely,
A. C. MIMS.

T. J. HUBBARD.

It is scarcely worth while to introduce Mr. Hubbard to the voters of Chilton. He is well known and liked by all the people, and has made one of the best tax collectors the county has ever had. He is always ready to make his final settlement with the county and state long before the law will permit, and has ever been one of the first to make settlements with the state auditor. He is always courteous in his treatment of the people, making no distinction. Mr. Hubbard has been asked by many to make the race again and we are glad to see that the gentlemen who bring him out put their names to their act, and don t use the expression "friends" and not give any name to the "friends." He has made a good officer, and with these words we pass it to the people to decide.

MOSES A. KILLGORE.

The many friends of Mr. Killgore will find his announcement in this issue as a candidate for tax collector He is well known in our county, as he has been an active worker in politics for years. He voted his last democratic ticket in 1886, helped to organize the people's party and has voted with that party and the republicans ever since. He says: "I believe in 'equal rights to all and special privileges to none,' a government 'of the people, by the people and for the people,' and a high protective tariff."

R. P. KENDRICK.

Mr. Kendrick, who announces in this issue, as a candidate for commissioner from the third district, is a resident of beat 8 and a well known and respected citizen. We take the liberty to quote from a letter written by one of his nearest neighbors, Secar Harris, Esq., of Pletcher. Mr. Harris says: "Mr. Kendrick is a successful farmer and a deacon in the Baptist church, and is highly thought of in the community where he lives, and has always voted the populist ticket."

The movement to form rifle clubs in our various States deserves encouragement. Our modern rifles are as different as might well be imagined from those which were used by Daniel Boone and Davy Crockett, but the best traditions of American marksmanship ought to be upheld.

The Philadelphia Press is leading an admirable movement which has the backing of many of the clergymen of the State against the immoral and fraudulent features of the average county fair as it exists in that commonwealth. Other States need similar reform in the same field.

An Iowa woman is charged with sending poisoned candy by mail to a woman in South Dakota, who died from eating it. Now it has been discovered that the Iowa woman cannot be extradited for trial in South Dakota because she was not present in that State when the crime was committed. Great is the law!

It's an old and true saying that "there's nothing new under the sun." The art of land surveying owes its origin to the fact that the Egyptians were unable to keep permanent monuments on land which was overflowed every year by the Nile. Under such circumstances it became necessary to have some means of reidentifying the various pieces of land. The instruments and mathematical methods of astronomy, with suitable modifications, were used by the Egyptians for the purpose.

"After all," as the brilliant and melancholy Rufus Choate said, "a book is the only immortality;" and sometimes when a book is attacked and even denounced, its destiny of fame is only confirmed; as the vivacious and cheery pope, Pio Nono, when asked by a too daring author to help on his latest publication, suggested that he could only aid it by putting it in the "Index Expurgatorius." Yet if a book is to be left unread at last, the fault must ultimately rest on the author, even as the brilliant Lady Eastlake complained, when she wrote of modern English novelists, "Things are written now to be read once, and no more; that is, they are read as often as they deserve. A book in old times took five years to write, and was read five hundred times by five hundred people. Now it is written in three months, and read once by five hundred thousand people. That's the proper proportion."

LOMAX.

Rain is needed.

The farmers are chopping cotton.

J. S. Jackson, of Shelby county, visited his father, W. A. Jackson, at this place last week.

Mrs. W. W. Jones is on the sick list this week.

We hear that A. E. Teel is down with the measles.

Money goes like a race horse and comes like a snail, which is a reason why you should save all you can by patronizing the Jackson-Robinson store at Lomax.

Spring time has struck the country. It makes it bright and gay. The birds are singing sweet, throughout the live long day. The woods and fields are blooming with blossoms rich and rare. 'Tis spring time in the country, with trees no longer bare.

OBSERVER

Stanton, Ala., May 7, 1904.

Editor Union—I am not a politician, neither do I presume to dictate to the people's party or any other party. However, I employ this method of recording what I know of a good man. Mr. Thomas G. Milling, of beat 8, who is a candidate for tax assessor of Chilton county. I have known Brother Milling a number of years and have found him to be an enterprising, conscientious gentleman, a self-made man, worthy the confidence of the best citizens. Mr. Milling has served as deputy assessor in beat 8 for a good many years and has given entire satisfaction, thereby proving his ability to fill the position, the nomination to which he seeks at the hands of the people. Perhaps no other man in Chilton better understands the valuation of property. His party would do itself an honor by giving him the indorsement in July. Yours very truly,

ROBERT JONES.

TAX COLLECTOR'S SALE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County:

By virtue of decrees rendered by the probate court at the May term of said court, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder for cash, before the court house door, in Clanton, in said county, within the legal hours of sale, on the following described real estate, for the taxes and costs due thereon for the year 1903, to-wit:

FRIDAY, JUNE 10TH, 1904,

BEAT NO. 1.

Owner unknown: E 1-2 of ne 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 16, tp 23, r 15. Tax and costs $3.73.

H. M. Wilson: E 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, tp 24, r 15. Tax and costs, $4 47

BEAT NO. 2

John Shaw or Owner Unknown: Ne 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 24, r 13. Tax and costs, $3.69.

BEAT NO. 4.

J. W. Jones: 1 1-2 acres in ne corner of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; 17 1-2 acres in nw corner of se 1-4 of nw 1-4, sec 36, t 22, r 15; sw 1-4 of se 1-4 and se 1-4 of sw 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 24, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4 and sw 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 18, t 22, r 16; sw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 17, t 22, 16; s 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 32, t 22, r 16: nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of sw 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; n 1-2 of nw 1-4, sec 32, t 22, r 16; nw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 of nw 1-4 and sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 22, r 15; se 1-4 of se 1-4, less 10 acres, sec 22, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 2, t 21, r 15; n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 27, t 22, r 15. Tax and costs, $62.22.

Magnetic Ore Co.: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 35, t 23, r 15. Tax and costs, $4.

BEAT NO. 5.

J. R. McAfee: Nw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 12, t 20, r 16. Tax and costs, $4.67.

BEAT NO. 8.

N. C. Weaver: Se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and ne 1-4 of se 1-4, and n 1-2 of nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 24, t 20, r 12. Tax and costs, $7.14.

BEAT NO. 9.

J. W. Martin: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4 sec. 5, t 23, r 14. Tax and costs, $3.39.

This 9th day of May, 1904.

T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

SUMMER NORMAL SCHOOL.

A summer normal school will open May 16th for the benefit of all who expect to take the state examination in July, and any others who wish to take any special work. From the fact that every teacher will be required to stand an examination on agriculture next January, special attention will be given to that subject. Those who desire can get instructions in expression and physical culture also. Good board can be had with private families at reasonable rates. For further information address

H. T. WALLACE,
Principal High School, Clanton, Ala.
tf

The steel plant of the Alabama Steel and Wire company at Gadsden will be making steel in a few more weeks. The plumbers and steam fitters are busy making all connections for the start. Several of the open hearth furnaces have been dried out.

J. B. Downs buys Crossties for cash, also is licensed to buy up Court Certificates. Call on him when you have anything in that line to sell. tf

Announcements.

FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. ALEX G. DAKE.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary uly 26, 1904.

A. C. MIMS.

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

SAM W. COLLINS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

L. A. CALLOWAY.

FOR TREASURER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ROBERT M. SMITH.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ANDREW J. WILSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904 W. C. ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

H. A. J. HARRIS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904.

ENOCH H. ADAMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. BICE.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th, 1904 GEORGE W. EDWARDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary July 26, 1904. L. B. POUNDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904 T. G. MILLING.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26, 1904.

S. E. WALDRUP.
(Better known as "Squire" Waldrup.)

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26th, 1904. JOSEPH H. THOMAS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

BENJAMIN H. WELLS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904. W. F. DESHAZO.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN J. LETCHER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. MOSES A. KILLGORE.

We, the undersigned friends of T. J. HUBBARD, do hereby announce him as a candidate for re-election to the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904; R. J. Williams, H. W. Varden, C. L. Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hugh Henry, J. L. Thomas, J. L. Smith

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. J. W. MOORE.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE,

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Sh...
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITI...

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. ... Alab...

GENERAL MERCHANDISE
FERTILIZERS
FOR SALE.

Troy Special & Mule Br...
"Are the Best on Earth"

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, - - - Ala...

DISPATCH PRINTING ...

Blank Book Makers and Lithographe...
County and Office Supplies a Specia...

Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave., -:- BIRMINGHAM

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watch... and Optician
Eyes Corre...
Fitted ...
Mail orders prompt...

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for commissioner from the fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

MOSES ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

R. P. KENDRICK.

SINGING.

The fifth annual session of the Salem Singing society will be held at Salem church on the fourth Sunday in May. Everybody is invited. Come with your baskets and books.

T. L. ROBINSON, Chairman.
L. A. CALLOWAY, Secretary.
tf

John Findlay Wallace, of Chicago, general manager of the Illinois Central railroad, has accepted the appointment of chief engineer in charge of the construction of the Panama canal. Mr. Wallace will receive a salary of $25,000 a year. Mr. Wallace will take up his work with the commission on June 1st.

Many believe that E. L. Wentz, the young Kentucky millionaire, who has been missing for months, but whose body was found Sunday, committed suicide. Two arrests have been made, however, charging murder.

Professor Landacre, the eminent zoologist, says the prominent nerves are composed of fibers which connect with the five primary sense organs. Some people's most prominent nerve connects only with the sense of touch.

The Rev. Mr. Conwell, of Boston, says the only reason a young man goes to church nowadays is because his best girl is there. The church that "gits thar fust" with the most girls will therefore have the congregation.

A Boston hotel proprietor has hit upon a clever and polite system for preventing the mysterious disappearance of tableware. As a compliment he would mark all dishes with the initials of his patrons. He might extend the innovation to napkins and towels.

At Buffalo, the internati... tion of the Young Men's C... sociation of North Ameri... Wednesday. The conven... the fiftieth anniversary o... international convention i... It has brought about 1,400... representing 600 city assoc... student associations, 200 ... sociations and a large num... cellaneous associations.

"He came to his death b... dental discharge of his ... is the verdict of the cor... which for nearly two days... investigating the circumst... conditions surrounding th... Edward L. Wentz. His b... lieves the young man was...

At the last regular sitt... Mississippi supreme court ... brated Whit Owens case w... and the famous prisoner ... been four times before th... court on murder charges ... serve a life sentence in t... tiary.

An Illinois Central train ... ed one mile north of Middl... engine was turned over o... William Hadaway, of Wa... Miss., was killed. The f... mail clerk were hurt.

Meridian, Miss., will soo... other manufacturing enter... factory, which will be es... an early date with a capi... $10,000.

Secretary Shaw has ord... call on the depository ban... them to transfer to the tr... before May 25th approxi... 000,000.

It is reported that the ... inet resigned in consequ... sure by the emperor, w... them of neglecting their ...

The new Meridian co... now under construction, ... ing rapidly. The compan... ized at $30,000.

Russia has charged Ja... ing on a Red Cross train...

Georgia estimates her p... 5,000 car loads.

Last week Mississippi ... killings.

The new prune trust h... the boarding house victim... lier view of huge combina... tal.

...Y OFFICIALS

...Judson Strock.
...W. M. Wilson, R. G. Rob...
...Mullins, J. M. Potts.
...Watts Moore.
...Ed Smitherman.

...TS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.
...Term—1st Monday in April.
... Term—3rd Monday in July.
...erm—1st Monday in Novem...
...—T. Scott Sayre
...—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
...E. B. Deason, Clanton.

CHANCERY COURT
... Term—2nd Monday in March
... Term—2nd Monday in Septem...
...ellor—Hon. R. B. Kelley, An...
...r—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

COUNTY COURT
...Monday in each month.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT
...Monday February, 1st Monday; ... 1st Monday June, 2nd Monday ... 3rd Monday August, 1st Monday ...er.

COUNTY OFFICERS
...of Probate—S. M. Adams.
...urer—Alex G. Dake.
...—J. M. Morgan.
...tor—J. O. Middleton.
...Assessor—A. C. Mims.
...Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS
...District—W. H. Conway.
... District—Alex Glasscock.
... District—W. A. Green.
... District—R. C. Riggins.

SUPT. OF EDUCATION.
...J. W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.
...W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.
...L. H. Reynolds, Jemison.

...UNTY CHURCHES

...rs and clerks are cordially ask... ...nd the editor any news regard... ...r churches which they would ...blished. Also if there are any ... these notices please send cor...

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.
...—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor.
...nes, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
...Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas...
...C. Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
...son—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor; ... Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
...ny—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday. ...luett, clerk, Verbena.
...n—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st ...rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, ...

...Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th ... V. J. Gragg, clerk.
... Hill—Rev J. M. Gothard, ... J. Samons, clerk, Jemison.
...rd—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd ... T. N. Parrish, clerk.
...s Chapel—Rev. W. J. Arm... 1st Sunday. J. W. Littleton, ...

...nut Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand, ... J. W. Dennis, clerk. Coopers. ...h—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd ... W. B. Jones, clerk.
... Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish, ...day. J. M. Huckabee, clerk. ...h—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st ... M. F. Wagoner, clerk.
...n—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pas... J. Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
...zer—Rev. P. G. Maness, pas... H. Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
...on—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; ... Rodgers, clerk, Jemison.
... Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd ... W. M. Wood, clerk.
...donia—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd ... H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
... Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, pas... Z. Barnes, clerk, British.
...erry—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; ...eazey, clerk, Randolph.
... Carmel—Rev. W. J. Rud... ...astor; W. M. Rochuck, clerk, ...

... Zion—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, ... D. H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
... Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand, ... W. H. Wilson, clerk.
...donia—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd ... George Trawick, clerk.
...Cedron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas... W. Billingsley, clerk.
...Salem—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, ...day; G. W. Hill, clerk.
...Hope—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd ... Henry Smith, clerk.
...ms' Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason, ... I. M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
...ant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thom... ...Sunday; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
...ant Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, ... W. R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
...ant Grove—Rev. G. W. Free... ...astor; H. C. Latham, clerk, ...

... Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone, ...day. J. J. McDowell, clerk. ...dence—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, ...day. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemi...

...dence—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, ... Riley Robinson, clerk, Clan...
...—Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor; ...obinson, clerk, Rushton.
...—Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd ... W. J. Billingsley, clerk.
...—Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sun...

HE BIG STORE,

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

ods, Clothing, Hats, Sh
FURNITURE,
E AND BURIAL NECESSITI
W. I. MULLINS,
Alaba

L MERCHANDISE A FERTILIZERS
FOR SALE.
Special & Mule Bra
Are the Best on Earth
C. JONES,
Alab

TCH PRINTING C
Book Makers and Lithographer
y and Office Supplies a Specialt nates.
is Ave., BIRMINGHAM,

AME,
Practical Watch
and Optician
Eyes Corre
Fitted
Street
gham, Ala.
Mail orders promptly

TY OFFICIALS

—Judson Strock.
—W. M. Wilson, E. G. Rol-
I. Mullins, J. M. Potts.
—J. Watts Moore.
—Ed Smitherman.

RTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.

s Term—1st Monday in April.
er Term—3rd Monday in July,
Term—1st Monday in Novem-

—T. Scott Sayre.
itor—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
—E. B. Deason, Clanton.

CHANCERY COURT.

g Term—2nd Monday in March,
Term—2nd Monday in Septem-

cellor—Hon. R. B. Kelley, An-

ster—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan-

COUNTY COURT.

Monday in each month.

OMMISSIONERS' COURT.

Monday February, 1st Monday
1st Monday June, 2nd Monday
nd Monday August, 1st Monday
ber.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

e of Probate—S. M. Adams.
surer—Alex G. Dake.
ff—J. M. Morgan.
itor—J. O. Middleton.
Assessor—A. C. Mims.
Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

OUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

District—W. H. Conway.
nd District—Alex Glasscock.
d District—W. A. Green.
th District—R. C. Riggins.

SUPT. OF EDUCATION.

J. W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.

W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.

L. H. Reynolds, Jemison.

UNTY CHURCHES

tors and clerks are cordially ask-end the editor any news regard-eir churches which they would ublished. Also if there are any in these notices please send corn.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

ine—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor.
Jones, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas-
C. Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
kson—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor;
Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
bany—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday.
Huett, clerk, Verbena.
nton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins,

e Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th
y. V. J. Gragg, clerk.
ler Hill—Rev J. M. Gothard,
J. Samons, clerk, Jemison.
cord—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd
y. T. N. Parrish, clerk.
ins Chapel—Rev. W. J. Arm-1st Sunday. J. W. Littleton,

nut Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand,
J. W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
nth—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd
y. W. B. Jones, clerk.
s Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
nday. J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
nth—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st
y. M. F. Wagoner, clerk.
an—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pas-W. J. Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
neer—Rev. P. G. Maness, pas-R. H. Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
lson—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
Rodgers, clerk, Jemison.
ty Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd
y: W. M. Wood, clerk.
edonia—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd
y. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
n Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, pas-H. Z. Barnes, clerk, British.
berry—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Veazey, clerk, Randolph.
nt Carmel—Rev. W. J. Rudpastor; W. M. Roebuck, clerk,
.

nt Zion—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, D. H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
le Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand,
W. H. Wilson, clerk.
edonia—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd
y; George Trawick, clerk.
Cedron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas-
W. Billingsley, clerk.
Salem—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
nday; G. W. Hill, clerk.
Hope—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd
y. Henry Smith, clerk.
ims' Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason,
I. M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
sant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thom-Sunday; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
sant Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, W. R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
sant Grove—Rev. G. W. Free-pastor; H. C. Latham, clerk,
.
lar Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone,
nday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.
idence—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, nday. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemiidence—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,

Riley Robinson, clerk, Clan-

—Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor;
Robinson, clerk, Rushton.
ah—Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd
; W. J. Billingsley, clerk.
n—Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sunday. J. Deason, clerk, Adams.
Thorsby—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Robert Jones, clerk, Thorsby.
Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor; R. S. Chandler, clerk, Jemison.
Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2d Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.
Verbena—Rev. J. W. Partridge, 1st Sunday. T. J. Bland, clerk.
Valley Creek—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; J. W. Mitchell, clerk, Plantersville.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS.

Bethel—Elder J. W. Howell, pastor; Saturday before the second Sunday; J. T. Abernathy, clerk, Verbena.

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Clanton Circuit—Rev. D. B. H. Jeffcoat, Pastor.
Clanton—2nd and 4th Sundays.
Fairview—3rd Sunday.
Isabelle—3rd Sunday, 3 p. m.
Jemison—1st Sunday.
Lime Springs—Saturday before 2nd Sunday.
Mount Moriah—Saturday before 1st Sunday.
New Prospect—Saturday before 3rd Sunday.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

Clanton Circuit, Rev. T. F. Davis, Pastor.
Thorsby—1st Sunday.
Walnut Grove—2nd Sunday, morning.
Unity—2nd Sunday, evening.
Shady Grove—3rd Sunday.
Mount Pisgah—4th Sunday, morning.
Enterprise—4th Sunday, evening.

CONGREGATIONAL.

South Calera—Rev. J. R. Crowson second Sunday. W. L. Shaw, clerk, Calera.
Lomax—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 4th Sunday. F. E. Riggs, clerk, Lomax.
Mountain Springs—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 3rd Sunday. W. J. Headley, clerk, Clanton.
Shady Grove—Rev. A. C. Wells, 1st Sunday. Mrs. A. Baker, clerk, Verbena.
Union—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 1st Sunday. Miss A. Lake, clerk, Lightwood.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Highland School House—Rev. M. F. Lett, 3rd Sunday and Saturday before. T. L. Adams, clerk.
Enterprise—Rev. M. F. Lett, 4th Sunday. T. F. Patterson, clerk.

NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN.

St. Olafs, Thorsby—Rev. H. Engb, pastor. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

Concordia, Thorsby—Rev. J. E. Hedberg. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. Mr. Carroll, pastor, 2d Sunday. Song service every 2d and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

MASONIC.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday, Clanton.
Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 250—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.
Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 423—First Saturday, Clanton.
Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 567—First Saturday Billingsley.
Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.
Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 411—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.
Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 473—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.
Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

of the

BRITISH AMERICA ASSURANCE CO.

Of Toronto, Canada.

1st January, 1904.

UNITED STATES BRANCH.

Assets.

Government bonds	$223,650.00
State and municipal bonds	511,473.19
Cash on hand and deposit	169,720.71
Stocks and bonds	305,793.00
Premiums in course of col.	204,834.79
Interest due and accrued.	11,833.20
	$1,427,304.89

Liabilities.

Reserve premium fund (N. Y. Standard) .	$849,771.77
Reserve for unpaid losses	100,786.14
	$950,557.91
Surplus in United States . .	$476,746.98
Total income in United States for 1903	$1,547,736.84
Total losses paid in U. S. from 1874 to 1903, inclusive	$14,674,843.26

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Enoch Adams was in Clanton Saturday.

Mrs. A. Horn and daughter, of Thorsby, were in town Saturday.

J. W. Culp paid us a welcome visit Saturday.

Lee Vickers, Joe Logan, B. F. and P. J. Massey andRobert Littlejohn went to the Coosa river Friday on a fishing trip. The fish were not biting, so they had "fisherman's luck," but enjoyed themselves, being a companionable party.

Go and buy one of those "Smith & Mayer" buggies at W. I. Mullins'.

Lum Smith was in Clanton Saturday.

C. D. Foshee, of Billingsley, was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Moses A. Killgore was in Clanton Saturday.

Elbert Littlejohn was in town Saturday.

W. A. Huckabee, of Cooper, was a pleasant caller Saturday.

A large stock of fine watches at Upchurch's drug store.

J. M. Gray, of Energy, was a welcome visitor Saturday.

J. F. Hayes and T. W. Atchley were in Clanton Saturday.

W. H. Conway was in town Saturday.

J. Ans Baker spent Saturday in town.

R. H. Bean was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

J. E. Littlejohn, Sr., was a welcome caller Saturday.

Rev. B. H. Vickers was in Clanton Saturday.

Steel Ranges, Stoves and the celebrated "Iron King" at W. I. Mullins'.

R. J. Downs, of Cooper, was a pleasant caller Saturday.

W. L. House spent Saturday in town.

J. O. Wesson was in Clanton Saturday.

Why don't you buy "Oxolo" at Upchurch's drug store?

Robert Jones, the "child's apostle," was a pleasant caller Saturday.

J. W. G. Kicker has been quite ill, but is now convalescing and we are glad to say will soon be out.

Squire Milford was in Clanton Wednesday.

C. N. and J. N. Dennis were in town Wednesday.

R. M. Smith, who is candidate for treasurer, has had quite a sharp attack of rheumatism.

A. C. Mims was in Clanton Wednesday.

L. A. Calloway, of Rushton, was in town Wednesday and says his candidacy is progressing favorably.

Scott Caverno, of Thorsby, was in Clanton Wednesday.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Frank Goodgame is quite sick.

Alderman W. M. Wilson and Captain Middleton went to Birmingham Wednesday.

D. C. Honeycutt, of Thorsby, has recovered his yearling that he advertised in THE UNION. It pays to put our notices in a paper that is read by the people.

John Vaughan, of Maplesville, who was convicted a year ago for killing a negro at that place, and who was entenced to eighteen months' imprisonment, has been paroled by Governo Cunningham.

W. C. Robinson was in Clanton Wednesday.

William Mims has been appointed postmaster at Burwell, vice W. N Pierce, dead.

Clint Veazey was in Clanton Thursday and got the Union so he could get posted.

Walter Gray went to Birmingham today

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

W. A. Riddle and Miss Florence Lelia Atkinson. B. D. Thompson and Miss Eliza Goodgame. Robert L. Varner and Miss Sadie Z. Brown.

COLORED.

Louis Price and Sallie Anderson.

JUDSON STROCK'S LETTER.

Johnson grass, sorghum, groundpeas, chufas and a general line of seeds.

Baseballs, marbles, corquet sets, also violins, guitars and mandolins. Our balls are guaranteed.

Shoes! Well, our shoes talk for themselves. We handle only one brand, "Red Seal," and our prices are very reasonable.

P. S.—We will be glad to compare prices with any one.

Yours very truly,
JUDSON STROCK.
tf Clanton, Ala.

FOURTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama (Chilton County Branch).

In the four years ending February 8, 1904, that this association has been in existence in this county, it has levied sixteen assessments to pay 24 losses, viz.: Lightning, 1; wind, 3; fire, 20. The TOTAL of the sixteen assessments was $2.24 3-4 per hundred, being an average YEARLY assessment of 56 1-5 cents on each hundred dollars of insurance, which is a fraction over one-half of one per cent per annum.

ALEX G. DAKE,
President Chilton Co. Branch.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 26th day of February, 1904.

S. M. ADAMS,
Judge of Probate.

RIDDLE-ATKINSON.

Mr. W. A. Riddle and Miss Florence Lelia Atkinson were married at the court house in Clanton on Wednesday by Judge Adams. The groom is a flagman on the Louisville and Nashville railroad and is a very popular young man. The bride is a daughter of Allen Atkinson, of Jemison, and is held in high esteem by all her friends and acquaintances. The young couple will reside in Birmingham and THE UNION wishes them health, wealth and happiness.

LONESOME VALLEY.

People are all smiles in this community. We had a nice rain Saturday and anticipate a large crop of 10-cent cotton.

A large congregation attended Bethel Sunday to hear Rev. J. W. Cox preach an excellent sermon.

J. B. White is busy these nights catching lightning bugs to cross with his bees as they can furnish their own light and work nights as well as days, so look out for a large crop of honey.

B. H. Wells, candidate for tax collector, is busy electioneering.

H. M. Shaver and J. R. Scott spent Sunday with their best girls. There are rumors of a wedding soon.

J. H. Middleton and T. L. Kicker are turning out a quantity of fine lumber at their new mill.

B. H. Wells and R. A. Hancock ran a fox squirrel up a tree last week and shot it, and they say that it weighed four pounds to the quarter.

Success to THE UNION and its readers.

YOUNG SPROUT.

It was hoped and thought by the people of Alabama that the day of dishonest elections was passed, but complaint from portions of the state go to prove that the recent elections were far from fair and honest.—Dadeville Spot Cash

Clanton, Ala., May 9, 1904

Editor Union:

A few words through your columns to the people of Chilton county. I notice a letter in last week's banner over the signature of "Democrat," in which he said: "Let us organize and learn the history of the two great parties, that of Jefferson and Jackson on the one hand, and Roosevelt on the other." He also said, "Let us put forth every effort to bring Chilton county into line with the other counties of this great state." Now, in reply to the part of his letter where he refers to Jefferson and Jackson democracy, I want to say that the nearest thing to Jefferson and Jackson democracy is the republican party, and as to bringing Chilton county into line with the other counties of this great state, I wonder if "Democrat" wants to bring Chilton into line with Dallas county when it is said Dallas has negro jurors on every panel. Now, Mr. "Democrat," what about Grant, Lincoln, Harrison and McKinley? Most of you say they were good men and made good presidents, but you now they are all dead, and when President Roosevelt is dead and out of your way, some of you will say that he made a good president, and then it will be the next republican president that will be the bad fellow. What about Grover Cleveland that lined with Fred Douglass, and who, when he was governor of New York state, signed a bill providing for mixed schools? And again, what about John T. Morgan? It is in black and white that he voted for Fred Douglass for marshal of the District of Columbia. Well, it is like democracy on dress parade said when he was out hunting for an issue, and failed to find it, he then decided to use the negro for an issue. He said he thanked God for the negro, for he could always make an issue out of him. So I want to say to "Democrat" drop your whip. We are ready to meet you on that issue; not only that, but any other.

MOSES A. KILLGORE.

A delinquent subscriber was dying and the editor dropped in to see him. "How do you feel?" asked the pencil pusher. "All looks bright before me," gasped the subscriber. "I thought so," said the editor. "You'll see the blaze in about ten minutes.—Dadeville Spot Cash.

Clanton, Ala., May 9, 1904.

Editor Union:

Will you allow me space in your columns to say a few words to the people in the various school districts in regard to the selection of their district trustees. You should be very careful to elect men who have the spirit of education at heart—men whom you know will push and strive to build up and maintain a good school in the district. You have them, and for the good of your children and community, morally and religiously, as well as intellectually, do elect them.

Very respectfully,
J. W. MOORE,
County Superintendent.

PHILADELPHIA UNDERWRITERS,
Composed of Insurance Company of North America and the Fire Association of Philadelphia, Pa.

Cash capital	$ 3,500,000.00
Total assets Jan. 1, 1904.	17,636,517.61
Surplus as to policy holders	6,374,212.35

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

At Buffalo, the international tion of the Young Men's Chr sociation of North America
Wednesday. The convention the fiftieth anniversary of international convention in
It has brought about 1,400 representing 600 city associa student associations, 200 ra sociations and a large numb cellaneous associations.

"He came to his death by dental discharge of his ow is the verdict of the coron which for nearly two days investigating the circumstan conditions surrounding the Edward L. Wentz. His fa lieves the young man was

At the last regular sittin Mississippi supreme court brated Whit Owens case wa and the famous prisoner been four times before the court on murder charges serve a life sentence in th
tiary.

An Illinois Central train w ed one mile north of Middlebo engine was turned over and William Hadaway, of Wate
Miss., was killed. The fire mail clerk were hurt.

Meridian, Miss., will soon other manufacturing enterpr factory, which will be estab
an early date with a capital $10,000.

Secretary Shaw has order
call on the depository banks them to transfer to the treas
before May 25th approximat 000,000.

It is reported that the Ko
inet resigned in consequenc sure by the emperor, who them of neglecting their d

The new Meridian cotto now under construction, is ing rapidly. The company ized at $30,000.

Russia has charged Japa
ing on a Red Cross train.

Georgia estimates her pea
5,000 car loads.

Last week Mississippi h killings.

The new prune trust has the boarding house victims lier view of huge combinat ital.

MMISSIONER.
nce myself as a canissioner from the Chilton county, sub-n of the PEOPLE'S 1904
OSES ROBINSON.

nce myself as a can-
ISSIONER from the T of Chilton county, ion of the PEOPLE'S 1904
R. P. KENDRICK.

NGING.
al session of the Suety will be held a
the fourth Sunday in is invited. Come s and books.
INSON, Chairman.
AY, Secretary
tf

Wallace, of Chicago, of the Illinois Cen-accepted the ap-f engineer in charge
n of the Panama ca-will receive a salary
r. Mr. Wallace will k with the commis-hat E. L. Wentz, the millionaire, who has months, but whose Sunday, committed

sts have been made,
murder

cre, the eminent zoo-prominent nerves are s which connect with sense organs. Some minent nerve connects se of touch.

Conwell, of Boston, on a young man goes ys is because his best he church that "gits
the most girls will congregation.

l proprietor has hit nd polite system for mysterious disappear-
e. As a compliment
ll dishes with the inins. He might extend napkins and towels.

..My Specialty.

SHOES made of Leather.
SHOES that are Reliable.
SHOES made to Wear.
NOT a Cheap Shoddy Shoe.

Dry Goods, Groceries, Flour and Feed Stuffs, Tobacco and Snuff.

Every Department Full and Complete.

J. W. SMITH.

Former Post-office Building. Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address
I. E. SARBER CO.
Thorsby, Alabama.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
2011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE
WALLACE C. EDLER, General Agent, Clanton Alabama.
CHILTON COUNTY BRANCH

PRESIDENT — ALEX G. DAKE, Clanton
SEC.-TREAS. — JUDSON STROCK, Clanton

Insure, Farmers Dwellings, outbuildings and contents, and Live stock against Loss by Fire, Wind and Lightning;—the cheapest, safest and most sensible method of Insurance known to man.

AGENTS MUST HAVE A COMMISSION SIGNED BY GENERAL AGENT
Full particulars furnished on application to
WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

Gelder's Restaurant,
Good Meals at Reasonable Prices.
110 North 20th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

HARDWARE.

For everything in Hardware come to the Hardware Store.

Harness and Saddles.

We offer you good material in this line for as little money as you will find anywhere, and will sell you any piece or part of harness you may need. Saddle blankets, stirrups and leathers, girths, halters, saddle pads, buggy and wagon whips, buggy top nuts, whip sockets, horse clips, terrets, rings etc.

Carpenter and Farming Tools.

The result of buying sorry tools is money wasted and a displeased customer, therefore we carry a good grade. Disston & Simmons saws, Stanley planes, levels, adzes, axes, level glasses and all tools generally used.

Wagon Material.

Full supply on hand at all times of tires, hubs, rims, spokes shafts, irons and rods and all repair parts.

Stoves.

There are none better than the Rural Jewel and Steel Ranges, made of good heavy material and furnish the most heat for the least fuel.

Clocks and Lamps.

We can certainly please you, for nothing better and more ornamental was ever shown in Clanton.

See our line glassware, steel enamelled ware, crockery and cutlery before you buy.

Our feed cutters, corn shellers and disc harrows will prove profitable if tried.

Call on us when in town.

SPEIGENER & JONES
Hardware Store
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

THE RAT.

A Tale of the "Third Degree.

By J. RAMSEY REESE.

The chief of the detectives sat alone in Mulberry street. From behind the green swinging door which led from his private office to the assembly room and the Rogues' Gallery he could hear a rumble of voices while the detective sergeants talked over the crooks who had been "stood up" at roll call for identification and future remembering. The system of memories at Police Headquarters is primary, but undeniably effective.

He could even distinguish the click of the brass catches as some one searching through the "gallery" unloosened panel after panel of the hinged wall photograph album. The chief's brows were contracted and he pulled at his beard. He had not been head of the Central Office for many months, and, besides, he was alone and might allow himself momentary relaxation of feature forbidden him in the presence of his subordinates, who must be impressed with an official front.

It was annoying—worse than annoying—it was dangerous. The murder was a week old, and already the newspapers were in full cry over the inefficiency of the department. He knew that the Detective Bureau was expected to "make good." And "making good" meant making arrests. If the situation had not been a desperate one he would not have ordered the bringing in The Rat the night before. Warren and Murphy had taken him in McTurk's, with the Sing Sing cell chalk tint still in his face. He had not been out six weeks, and he was very drunk. And so the Rat had been taken, and the chief of the detectives had sent across the street to say that reporters might call at four and be told how the mystery had been solved. He sighed heavily as he reflected, for the Detective Bureau was more to be desired than a precinct. And he had been long enough in uniform to relish the privilege of wearing citizens' clothes, to say nothing of having his picture printed in the newspapers a great many times, with astute remarks upon crime which he frequently distributed, neatly typewritten.

He looked at his watch. It was half after three. Then he leaned forward in his chair and touched an electric desk button. A uniform sergeant responded. The chief nodded. "Harry" he said, "bring in The Rat."

The green door opened and closed, and opened again as The Rat entered. He slouched half way across the room, and, turning, glared at the chief, who said "Good morning" affably enough and pointed to a chair placed so that the light from the courtyard would strike the face of its occupant fairly.

His appearance did not belie his title—this man—The Rat. He was a sharp featured, stunted creature, with thin hair tha grew far down upon his neck and clustered about his eyes, which were set strangely close together. His mouth lacked the curve of expression, without which no mouth is human; and the upper lips was so short that it gave one the impression of being continually drawn back in an ugly sneer. Not a pleasant spectacle to dwell upon was The Rat.

The chief looked at him hungrily. "If I could only make him stand for it," he thought, "it would be the prettiest sort of a story. He looks the part. The papers would print diagrams of his head, and sent women reporters to write about inherited criminal instinct. It would square me for six months." This is what the chief thought. What he said was, "So you've come back to us, eh"

The Rat swore. "Cut that out," said the chief, pleasantly. "You're sober now. We're only holding you till you tell us where you were Tuesday night. That's all. They found 'Dutch' Gallagher over on Crystal Square early Wednesday morning. There was a knife and a red handkerchief, Rat. These!" With a quick movement the chief whipped the knife and handkerchief from the top drawer of his desk and held them towards the prisoner. But The Rat was emotionless. He looked at the detective and the objects he held in his hand. There was no surprise or fright, only hatred in his gaze.

The chief leaned over the desk. His voice was soft and almost appealing. It came from between his lips that were well-nigh locked, and he touched The Rat's arm. "It's silk with a bloodstain."

The prisoner swore again—comprehensively. "I ain't afraid of your third degree," he snarled, "Bring it along. I know it's coming. They told me all about it up the river. There's a greengoods man up there in tier 7, named Burke. He works in the bakehouse because he ain't no good on the store piles. He's got one side of his face stove in, and three fingers twisted together where two of your wardmen give him the jitsu turn. You hired a stoolpidgeon to squeal on him, and because he wouldn't split on a pal, you done him." The man's voice rose to half a scream. "You done him," he howled, "just as you'll do me."

"Don't be a fool," said the chief gently. There were beads of perspiration on his brow. He would have liked to beat in the face of the sodden creature in front of him. But instead he purred to him. "This was different, Rat," he said wheedlingly. "Gallagher was drunk. You know he was always ugly when he was drunk. There was fight. He was going to kill you, and you killed him. You killed him—in self-defence. You understand—in self-defence."

The Rat leered openly. "Doyers street f'r you," he chuckled with a cunning look. "Doyers street and the long pipe dreams."

The chief threw himself back in his chair, disgustedly. The electric fan whirred upon the shelf above his head, fluttering the loose desk papers, and twisting awry the coarse red locks about The Rat's forehead. Otherwise it was very still, and it was also very warm. They had taken the bracelets of the prisoner, and he sat twiddling his greasy felt hat between uncertain thumbs. The chief chewed an unlighted cigar and walked to the open window. As he stood gazing gloomily down into the gray courtyard, there came the sudden flourishing notes of a street piano, playing to the urchins from Mott street on the strip of asphalt beyond. He could hear the echo of the happy children's voices while they flocked to the music box. He knew just how it looked, although the dirty brick wall hid it from him.

There was the smiling-faced Italian girl with the tambourine, gathering the nickels from the idlers strung precariously along the iron basement railing, watching the dancing. Even the nurses from St. Barnabas's Home next door were peeping appreciatively out of the downstairs windows. The piano was finishing the final bars of the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," left over from the last stopping place on Elizabeth street. The chief wondered why.

Then here was a quick pause as the man at the crank turned the change stop, and a gay waltz tune floated over the brick wall into the courtyard. By the shrill little cries of delight that followed it, the chief knew the children were dancing. He turned away from the window dejectedly. The piano rasped upon his nerves. As he turned he saw the Rat sitting upon the edge of the chair, his head raised towards the sound of the playing, and swaying to the echoing rhythm. The chief stared for an instant and then slid softly into his seat behind the desk, as the street piano rippled:

"There's just one girl in the world for me.
Only one girl has my sym-pa-thee.
She's not so very pretty, nor yet of high degree,
But there's just one girl in this world for me."

The Rat was mumbling to himself and smiling as if he were remembering something pleasant. His lips were curled back to the gums, and his enjoyment was not edifying, and when his gaze wandered past that of the chief, the head of the Detective Bureau knew that it penetrated the gray cartridge paper of the wall behind him, and knew, too, that The Rat's mood was far flung. The man was still jerking his head with the staccato tempo of the piano.

"Coney. Coney and two camp-stools on the deck by the dago fidlers both ways," he muttered. He said it aloud, but it was as if he were talking to himself. The chief's hand moved towards the electric push-button and then paused irresolute. The outpouring notes of the street piano trickled like cool water through the room closeness.

"Coney in the summertime," repeated The Rat vacuously. "It's God's own country. Coney f'r me of a Sunday afternoon wit' the sunshine and the trolleys jamful 'S the limit, what!" He swelled out his sparrow chest proudly towards the playing: "'S the limit," he chuckled. "Wit' a shine and a new celluroid rim on and nickel stogie in yer transom, yer on f'r yer money, and yer it. Say, I've danced in Stauch's wit' Mame."

The Rat's voice softened almost imperceptibly, but the chief caught the change and gripped the sides of his chair, breathing irregularly as if afraid to break the spell.

"There was a job of dishwashin' at the Tivoli; six plunks comin' reg'lar every week wit' now and then a small pik in the pool room over the Volks Garden. I was wearin' real clothes and I made good. It was me swell front what won out wit' Mame. I wasn't pretty, but me front sent me home in a canter. And Mame wasn't no chowder party pal. She'd a mem'ry overnight and a good eye f'r a white man. And the man what says she was struck on 'Dutch" Gallagher's a liar.

"There's just one girl in this world for me," rippled the piano from outside, with a final burst of treble. Then the music ceased suddenly with the hollow knock the lid of a box makes when it is let fall. And at the sound, The Rat's head drooped upon his breast again.

The chief's right hand crept slowly to the pencil tray and scrawled a few words upon a piece of paper which he gently tore from a yellow pad. "Keep the Guiney playing. Don't let him stop," the pencil traced. He looked furtively at The Rat. The little man's head was still sunken upon his soiled waistcoat, and he did not notice when the other tiptoed to the green door and thrusting a hand out beyond, tiptoed back again to the desk, waiting. The renewed tinkle of the piano floated into the courtyard, and the detective smiled as he distinguished the tune. It was the refrain of a sentimental ballad, which made the audience at Tony Castor's applaud wet-eyed. The chief had watched them do it more than once. So he stared at the shrunken man before him expectantly.

Seems to me it sounded like the birds at play,
Darling,
Sue, dear, don't believe I'm chaffing.
Bless your heart, I love you in the same old way."

Slowly The Rat raised him from his lethargy. His bent shoulders quivered, and he was no longer the huddled heap in the chair, inert and limp. Up went his head as he listened—up, until his gaze met that of the chief.

"Look here," he said hoarsely. "He let her starve. He let her starve on the top floor of a Cannon street tenement. I wasn't wise to it up the river. I wasn't wise to it. I kept hammering away on a Sing Sing stone pile, thinkin' he was lookin' after her. Why, I believed him square. It was stripes and the stone pile f'r me, and f'r him the Bowery of a Sat'rday night wit' the easy come-ons ready waitin' on the pavement.

"He come ter see me in the Tombs before they took me up. 'I'll look after Mame, s'elp me,' he said. And wit' that I horsed the deputies in the smokin' car and give me pedigree in the warden's office like the real thing. I thought 'Dutch' was right. The calendar ain't turning like no roulette wheel up at Sing Sing. But it went a heap faster wit' the letters from 'Dutch' what give Mame's love at the end. Mame didn't write. She wasn't no scholar. And how was I to know that 'Dutch' was lyin'?"

The Rat halted waveringly. But the piano refrain sent him plunging on. "They took me good conduct time off and I got me ticket of leave. And I was f'r the home route wit' a new suit of paper clothes and me stone-pile cush in 'em. I hadn't let 'em know I was comin'. I wanted to surprise Mame. It was dark w'en I got ter Cannon street: I meets Sweeney, the janitor, on the top of the stoop, after rushin' the can. 'Fifth floor?" I asks, thinkin' maybe Mame had moved. Sweeney eyes me and says, 'Wot're you haudin' me?' 'Mame Gilligan, you mutt,' I says, and pushin' past him made as if ter go upstairs.

"Sweeney crossed himself, and wit' that I knowed there was somethin' gone wrong. It struck me cold before he spoke, and I've never felt warm since—but once." The Rat's yellow teeth rasped against one another like a terrier worrying a bone. He went on thickly.

"'Didn't they put you next?' says Sweeney. 'Next ter what?' I asks. 'Mame Gilligan's dead in Bellevue these six months' he says."

The Rat put one hand to his head painfully. "When Sweeney says that somethin' busted in here," he said. "I've been gone a bit in me nut ever since, but not too much gone f'r findin' 'Dutch' Gallagher. Why, a dog wouldn't have treated Mame the way he'd done it. She'd been starved. The ambulance doctor what come when Sweeney found her senseless in the hall said she hadn't ben eatin' enough f'r weeks. 'Dutch' had left her. She'd hocked everything she had except the ring I'd bought her. They buried her wit' that on. He'd been writin' to me and sendin' me Mame's love after she was dead, and he knowed it. I'd been doin' the time f'r both of us, and he'd let Mame starve."

Calmly The Rat's hand went out to where the knife lay upon the desk by the stained handkerchief. The chief did not stop him. His breath was coming and going in little puffs, and his mouth was trembling at the corners, as if he were trying to be very calm and found it hard work. The Rat took up the knife as he might have grasped a friendly old pipe. He crocked his fingers about the handle and weighed the blade in his grasp. It was all mechanically, jerkily done.

"He was dealin' faro in a brace game on Fourteenth street," he said. "I waited f'r him that night. And when I seen him leave I followed him. When he got to Chrystie street I was wit' him, but he didn't know it. I sneaked up them stairs behind him quiet as death, and when I turned around at the top landin' ter look by the gaslight if anyone was followin', I seen Mame walkin' up after me and pointin' toward 'Dutch' on ahead, and I knewed then I was doin' what was right."

The Rat's voice wavered for the moment. His lips parted drily, and he licked them with a swollen tongue. It was as if he were going on. Then, of a sudden, there came the hollow sound of the street piano stop, as the Italian at the crank changed tunes. The chief started to his feet with a smothered curse. In through the open window crept the music:

"Break the news to mother.
Just tell her that I love her.
Just say to her I—"

Like one startled from an awful dream, The Rat shivered and rolled his eyes in a quick effort to find their true focus. His stare fell upon the face of the eager watcher, and then upon his own hands with the open knife. Outside, the street piano wailed industriously. The detective met his rush with the heavy nickel butt of the telephone receiver fair upon the forehead.

From behind the green swinging doors rushed two in uniform. They looked from the unconscious man to the chief, who was tugging at his beard—with his arms crossed. "And the papers will say we gave him the 'Third Degree,'" he said smiling vaguely.

To a little group in the room came the incessant vox humana of the street hurdy-gurdy.

"Take him out," said the chief shortly. "He'll be all right in an hour." And for God's sake stop that piano."—New York Post.

WOMAN REVOLUTIONIZED ARCHITECTURE.

"Build me a veranda with a house attachment," said a rich Georgian to his Northern architect, "that's what I want." These few words in the brusque vernacular of the business man tersely express the wishes of most Southern house builders of the present day.

Ten years ago the ubiquitous Southern veranda, though often of great length (especially in the old fashioned white columned houses when it often became a colonnade extending around three sides of a parallelogram), was usually narrow. Some one, somewhere, built a square veranda the size of an average room. The chances are it was a woman architect and contractor of her own summer bungalow. Women, as designers of houses, are celebrated for their disregard of precedent; their independence (if this is the proper word) in the fact of it. Without the slightest compunction a woman will knock any architectural rule of three into a cocked hat if it happens to be in her way. Some one saw the square veranda, liked it and copied it. In a few years' time it was a fad. In the South verandas are necessary. The idea of a square veranda, roomy, furnished with all the luxurious accessories of modren life, "open air parlors," as some one has happily styled them, supplied an actual demand. Unlike most fads, this one had common sense behind it and as a result has been influential in revolutionizing building styles that have obtained for centuries.—Architects and Builders Magazine.

MISS LOWE'S LIFE WORK.

In a little rural village known as Tooting, in the neighborhood of London, dwells an elderly woman whose days have not all been passed amid such peaceful and uneventful surroundings. This interesting individual is Miss Lowe, the only surviving ed, is Miss Lowe, the only surviving child of Sir Hudson Lowe, governor of St. Helana at the time that Napoleon was banished to that island. Miss Lowe was born at St. Helena during the reign of George III., and has devoted many years to a vindication of the charges made against her father in his treatment of the exiled emperor of France. She has in her possession important papers of her father's, and it was the careful examination of these documents that gave Dr. Rose the data upon which to base his reply to Lord Rosebery's estimate of Sir Hudson Lowe's treatment of his famous prisoner. A daughter of one of Sir Hundson Lowe's subordinates at St. Helena has supplemented Dr. Rose's material with extracts from notes and journals left by her father, and it is Miss Lowe's expectation that through the efforts of these interested friends her father's name may be vindicated and a true and impartial account given to the world of the manner in which he performed the arduous task that was assigned to him as guardian of the banished French ruler. For many years Miss Lowe has been in receipt of a pension from the British government, and is the oldest pensioner on the civil service list.

AN AFTERNOON TEA.

Mrs. Winfield S. Durbin, wife of the Governor of Indiana, has evolved a plan for entertaining her large circle of friends that is worth copying. Mrs. Durbin sends out invitations for a series of buffet high teas on Mondays. She invites fifty friends to each tea and in this manner entertains 200. For these occasions she has with her two or three friends from out of town and she decorates her parlors with a quantity of artistically arranged roses and ferns, or any flower she pleases. The guests are served first with delicious chicken salad and sandwiches on Royal Dresden plates, and coffee is served with this. Then Nestlerode, with a cap of whipped cream, is served in stem glasses on beautiful Chinese medallion plates. Macaroons are served with the cream. This form of entertainment is within the reach of hostesses of the most limited incomes and yet it is considered worth while by a woman who represents the highest official position in the State.—What to Eat.

A BRILLIANT WOMAN.

The recent appointment of Miss L. Tomn to the lectureship in modern economic history at the London School of Economics and Political Science is the more interesting in that it was made by the Senate of the University of London. Miss Tomn's career has been a brilliant one; for, while she was at Girton College, she took, in 1894, first class honors in two triposes—history and law. Her previous education was obtained at Truro High School, for she is Cornish, and between school and college she spent three years in Germany, France and Italy. On leaving Cambridge Miss Tomn read law with Sir Frederick Pollock, and had the advantage of working for a time in a solicitor's office. She gained a research studentship at the London School of Economics, and edited a French book on the Referendum. Miss Tomn has also done a considerable amount of literary work, writing for several of the more important reviews and journals.

SHE'S A COLUMBIA PROFESSOR.

Miss Margaret Maltby, head of the department of physics at Barnard, is the first woman appointed to a professorship by the trustees of Columbia College. She is a graduate of Oberlin College, where she took the degrees of bachelor of arts and master of arts. She then took the degree of bachelor of science in physics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. After that she went to the University of Gottingen, where she took her doctorate in two years, and gave a year to research work under Nernst, the physicist. One year she spent as private assistant to President Kohlrausch, at the Physikalisch-Technische Reich sanstalt at Charlottenburg. After her year there Miss Maltby spent a year at Clark University.

A WOMAN TEA TASTER.

As an expert tea taster Miss Minnie C. Albro of Minneapolis has won success. She is employed by a large wholesale and retail house as an expert tea taster and tea blender and is probably the only woman engaged in that line of work in the country. She can tell at once, upon tasting a tea, what country it comes from, what variety it is, and also how fine a grade. She can tell whether a tea of a given country has been grown upon a mountain or in a valley, since there is a distinct difference in flavor. With between fifty and sixty different kinds and grades of tea to handle constantly she knows at a glance where each belongs.

A PITIFUL EX-EMPRESS.

Empress Eugenie, once the chief figure of the second empire in France, now passes her old age unnoticed in the seclusion of her English home. Three rooms in the house are kept as shrines. Relics of the first Napoleon fill the one; belongings sacred to the memory of Eugenie's husband are kept in another; the playthings of the prince imperial and the trappings of the horse from which he fell to die, together with the childish things of eternal importance to mothers, are the occupants of a third large apartment in the Farnborough home.

JET HATS.

Jets make a very handsome hat trimming. They wear a long time and, though a good quality of jet is not cheap, it is a good investment. One of the handsomest of spring toques is covered with dangling jets. It is a round toque, all laid in many folds; and along the lines of the folds there is an abundance of jet. The tiny jet danglers look very pretty indeed. And, to finish the hat, there are jet balls at the side, each ball hanging from a sliky cord. Three or four balls hang so low as to almost touch the ear.

GOWNS OF ONE TONE.

Gowns all of a tone are coming in this year. There are ever so many blue dresses that are blue from beginning to end. Dress material, lace, ribbons, belt and stocks are all blue. And there are countless tan dresses with no other coloring than the tan. Tan linen, tan batiste, tan lawn, tan crape or tan gowns of any kind are trimmed with lace of a slightly deeper tone, and finished up with tan ribbons, to be removed and freshened once or twice a year.

FADS AND FANCIES.

Gooseberries are favorites in fruit trimming for hats.

Chiffon boas in delicate colorings for evening wear are fringed with silk tassels.

Gilt and diminutive tassels adorn stock collars and barthas.

Among the latest patterns in gold braid are the Greek key, basket, shell and floral designs.

Waterproof parasols, available for rain or shine, are the latest novelty.

Parasols of moire antique have been introduced in Paris.

Straw passementerie similar to that used for dress trimming is employed for parasol decorations.

As an accompaniment to the tailored suit the crush leather belt takes the lead.

For bag handles, straps and braids have replaced the stiff leather handle of the previous season.

Gold filigree buttons are much used for trimming purposes.

Rhinestone hearts are much worn here and in Paris.

Shaped veils have made their appearance. They are cut circular and fit over the hat perfectly.

Canvas galloons in Oriental patterns most effectively trim gowns of light weight wool fabrics.

Dainty toques of peach color straw braid are draped with lace in corresponding tint.

Linen tailored suits are being fashioned in Paris not alone from white linen, but also from flax, pale blue, lavendar, pale mauve, sulphur and light pink.

For making 1,000 cigarettes in a Japanese factory a girl gets 8 sen, equal to four cents.

PEARLS OF THOU

It takes less sense to find all than to be fair with

No life overflows with room only for its own

There is nothing w the art of living for

When the universe riddle it becomes a

The honest man his virtue. He refuses utation.

A man doesn't ar ness to his wife by the world.

"A light heart mi visage. A light h Is not felt. A man o ored in his blood th Foes. A cat-footed ant foe. A vigo body is like a fine light."

If we always comm truth that I bulb of the Cathe stage of a Hotte no that th ship between we should ask high appearance deavor to and look

AN EXPERT PIC

He Rode in a Brougha Fashionable V

The old man, an Detectives Comm L division recorded ing to six months' reputed to be one o and, in his heyday, th ful, pickpocket in Lo proceeds of his profe drive in a brougham.

Read is in his seventies elegantly dressed alway able white beard, and g he was sometimes mista of the realm. When h deception was the greate voice was clear and cult

He was once a master West End, but for many y netted large sums in cons his mania for collecting o purses. He was an earnes fashionable bazaars, weddi er ceremonies and function by crowds of wealthy wome detectives said, another of was to follow bishops at services.

To all these affairs it was to drive up in his brougha in the rare cases when upon him, he possibly es strong evidence of respect possession of a private car believed that to that end ways made his own clothes were perfectly provided for His covert coat could be hanging over his wrist, yet ed was it with slits tha would be gliding through of it all the time in and o people's pockets.

The departure of the boats in the holiday season tracted him. He was a m siderable education, and so his gift of assumed dignity even when caught almost he would escape the conse the aid of his plausible tong in a large measure due to h backs of outside seats o omnibuses had to be altere News.

Shrove Tuesday Wedding

Shrove Tuesday weddin land are exceedingly co sometimes among the poo are celebrated in strange cir es. There is a story of a y ant girl being aroused ou the night of Shrove Tues married before midnight to do Irish Australasian whom never seen, though he was her parents, who made the turned out a happy marri young people usually take philosophically, believing parents know best how to happy. This anecdote is Tipperary girl: "Biddy," a friend, "are ye goin' off thi "Musha, I don't know that, dy, "but they're sittin' o stairs"—meaning that ma was in progress. Another lates to a number of weddi place in a Munster church Tuesday. "An' where's yer Joe?" one swain was asked Mick, I couldn't tell ye; bu she's up there amonst the and ribbons in the front row He learned who she was names were called out.

Interesting Map.

A map of America and which was respon naming of the new wor cus Vespucci, instead of co lumbia, in honor of Chris lumbus, will be one of the relics exhibited at the W from the Vatican. The map at the town of St. Die Martin Waldseemuller, and cently found by Prof. F. paring a map of the world then known, Waldseemuller across a letter from Am pucci to his patron, Lorenz ici, dated 1501, in which he the newly discovered conti seemuller marked this prac known terra firma America first heard of it through Vespucci. The latter probably knew that the new land called by his name, and it was fault that Columbus did the honor due for making discovery.—Pittsburg Gazette.

HAIR GROWTH
Promoted by Shampoos of Cuticura SOAP
light dressings
UTICURA, the Skin Cure and
est of emollients.
treatment at once
falling hair, removes
scales, and dandruff,
ys hair parasites,
irritated, itching suf-
timulates the hair fol-
oosens the scalp skin,
s the roots with energy
urishment and makes grow upon a sweet,
me, healthy scalp,
ll else fails.
Complete External and Internal
for every Humor from Pimples to om Infancy to Age, consisting of
A Soap, Ointment, and Pills, may
of all Druggists for One Dollar.
out the world. Cuticura Soap, 25c., Oint-olvent, 50c., (in form of Chocolate Coated ria, of 60). Depots: London, 27 Charterouse, 5 Rue de la Paix, Paris; 137 Columbus Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors
"How to Preserve, Purify and Beautify n, Hair and Hands."

Golden Rule
f Agriculture:
d to your land and your crop good. Plenty of
otash
rtilizer spells quality
antity in the har
Write us and
ll send you,
y next mail,
ney winning
KALI WORKS,
—92 Nassau St.
W
—22½ So. Broad St.

E to WOMEN
Trial Box and book of in-absolutely Free and Postugh to prove the value of
e Toilet Antiseptic
Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water — non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution — lasts longer — goes further — has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.
ula of a noted Boston physician, with great success as a Vaginal eucorrhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal ore Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, eness of mucus membrane.
eatment of female ills Paxtine is Used as a Vaginal Wash w e world to produce its equal for s. It is a revelation in cleansing power; it kills all germs which mation and discharges.
druggists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. rs does not, send to us for it. Don't ngle—there is nothing like Paxtine. the Free Box of Paxtine to-day. CO., 7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.
Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Am. 20, 1904.

adHorses For Specific Ophthalmia Moon Blindness & other ry Co., Iowa City, Ia., have a sure cure

E. E. FO
BIR
BUYS
The Larges
the
PIANOS GO
People F
South
The S Original Price
$250
300
325
350
400
500
Pianos
Apollonette
Amerola
Pianola
Cecilian
Apollo
Regina Mu
your own pa
Reproduc
in player from a distan get a piano
interest.
Don't forget have not mind that price in exch balance on ea want a piano
next two years yourself of Special Lo
For it will according to Write us guarantee ev
E. E.
PIA BIRM
AL
The word to be deriv owes its lish public Dun, a fa
the time o to have be agement and so suc
debts that ial, and w
pay. It gr to say. "W $50 particulars
The Destroys ruts or sca
gold wate delicate t of slate he Alabastine
belled, of
"Hints o
Ideas fre
Paints, Wate
Pa
$5,0 GEORGIA-ALA
P15
Cure
Best Co in CO

THE RAT.

A Tale of the "Third Degree.

By J. RAMSEY REESE.

The chief of the detectives sat alone in Mulberry street. From behind the green swinging door which led from his private office to the assembly room and the Rogues' Gallery he could hear a rumble of voices while the detective sergeants talked over the crooks who had been "stood up" at roll call for identification and future remembering. The system of memories at Police Headquarters is primary, but undeniably effective.

He could even distinguish the click of the brass catches as some one searching through the "gallery" unloosened panel after panel of the hinged wall photograph album. The chief's brows were contracted and he pulled at his beard. He had not been head of the Central Office for many months, and, besides, he was alone and might allow himself momentary relaxation of feature forbidden him in the presence of his subordinates, who must be impressed with an official front.

It was annoying—worse than annoying—it was dangerous. The murder was a week old, and already the newspapers were in full cry over the inefficiency of the department. He knew that the Detective Bureau was expected to "make good." And "making good" meant making arrests. If the situation had not been a desperate one he would not have ordered the bringing in The Rat the night before. Warren and Murphy had taken him in McTurk's, with the Sing Sing cell chalk tint still in his face. He had not been out six weeks, and he was very drunk. And so the Rat had been taken, and the chief of the detectives had sent across the street to say that reporters might call at four and be told how the mystery had been solved. He sighed heavily as he reflected, for the Detective Bureau was more to be desired than a precinct. And he had been long enough in uniform to relish the privilege of wearing citizens' clothes, to say nothing of having his picture printed in the newspapers a great many times, with astute remarks upon crime which he frequently distributed, neatly typewritten.

He looked at his watch. It was half after three. Then he leaned forward in his chair and touched an electric desk button. A uniform sergeant responded. The chief nodded. "Harry" he said, "bring in The Rat."

The green door opened and closed, and opened again as The Rat entered. He slouched half way across the room, and, turning, glared at the chief, who said "Good morning" affably enough and pointed to a chair placed so that the light from the courtyard would strike the face of its occupant fairly.

His appearance did not belie his title—this man—The Rat. He was a sharp featured, stunted creature, with thin hair tha grew far down upon his neck and clustered about his eyes, which were set strangely close together. His mouth lacked the curve of expression, without which no mouth is human; and the upper lips was so short that it gave one the impression of being continually drawn back in an ugly sneer. Not a pleasant spectacle to dwell upon was The Rat.

The chief looked at him hungrily. "If I could only make him stand for it," he thought, "it would be the prettiest sort of a story. He looks the part. The papers would print diagrams of his head, and sent women reporters to write about inherited criminal instinct. It would square me for six months." This is what the chief thought. What he said was, "So you've come back to us, eh"

The Rat swore. "Cut that out," said the chief, pleasantly. "You're sober now. We're only holding you till you tell us where you were Tuesday night. That's all. They found 'Dutch' Gallagher over on Crystal Square early Wednesday morning. There was a knife and a red handkerchief, Rat. These!" With a quick movement the chief whipped the knife and handkerchief from the top drawer of his desk and held them towards the prisoner. But The Rat was emotionless. He looked at the detective and the objects he held in his hand. There was no surprise or fright, only hatred in his gaze.

The chief leaned over the desk. His voice was soft and almost appealing. It came from between his lips that were well-nigh locked, and he touched The Rat's arm. "It's silk with a bloodstain."

The prisoner swore again—comprehensively. "I ain't afraid of your third degree," he snarled, "Bring it along. I know it's coming. They told me all about it up the river. There's a greengoods man up there in tier 7, named Burke. He works in the bakehouse because he ain't no good on the stone piles. He's got one side of his face stove in, and three fingers twisted together where two of your wardmen give him the jitsu turn. You hired a stoolpidgeon to squeal on him, and because he wouldn't split on a pal, you done him." The man's voice rose to half a scream. "You done him," he howled, "just as you'll do me."

"Don't be a fool," said the chief gently. There were beads of perspiration on his brow. He would have liked to beat in the face of the sodden creature in front of him. But instead he purred to him. "This was different, Rat," he said wheedlingly. "Gallagher was drunk. You know he was always ugly when he was drunk. There was fight. He was going to kill you, and you killed him. You killed him—in self-defence. You understand—in self-defence."

The Rat leered openly. "Doyers street f'r you," he chuckled with a cunning look. "Doyers street and the long pipe dreams."

The chief threw himself back in his chair, disgustedly. The electric fan whirred upon the shelf above his head, fluttering the loose desk papers, and twisting awry the coarse red locks about The Rat's forehead. Otherwise it was very still, and it was also very warm. They had taken the bracelets of the prisoner, and he sat twiddling his greasy felt hat between uncertain thumbs. The chief chewed an unlighted cigar and walked to the open window. As he stood gazing gloomily down into the gray courtyard, there came the sudden flourishing notes of a street piano, playing to the urchins from Mott street on the strip of asphalt beyond. He could hear the echo of the happy children's voices while they flocked to the music box. He knew just how it looked, although the dirty brick wall hid it from him.

There was the smiling-faced Italian girl with the tambourine, gathering the nickels from the idlers strung precariously along the iron basement railing, watching the dancing. Even the nurses from St. Barnabas's Home next door were peeping appreciatively out of the downstairs windows. The piano was finishing the final bars of the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," left over from the last stopping place on Elizabeth street. The chief wondered why.

Then here was a quick pause as the man at the crank turned the change stop, and a gay waltz tune floated over the brick wall into the courtyard. By the shrill little cries of delight that followed it, the chief knew the children were dancing. He turned away from the window dejectedly. The piano rasped upon his nerves. As he turned he saw the Rat sitting upon the edge of the chair, his head raised towards the sound of the playing, and swaying to the echoing rhythm. The chief stared for an instant and then slid softly into his seat behind the desk, as the street piano rippled:

"There's just one girl in the world for me.
Only one girl has my sym-pa-thee.
She's not so very pretty, nor yet of high degree,
But there's just one girl in this world for me."

The Rat was mumbling to himself and smiling as if he were remembering something pleasant. His lips were curled back to the gums, and his enjoyment was not edifying, and when his gaze wandered past that of the chief, the head of the Detective Bureau knew that it penetrated the gray cartridge paper of the wall behind him, and knew, too, that The Rat's mood was far flung. The man was still jerking his head with the staccato tempo of the piano.

"Coney. Coney and two camp-stools on the deck by the dago fidlers both ways," he muttered. He said it aloud, but it was as if he were talking to himself. The chief's hand moved towards the electric push-button and then paused irresolute. The outpouring notes of the street piano trickled like cool water through the room closeness.

"Coney in the summertime," repeated The Rat vacuously. "It's God's own country. Coney f'r me of a Sunday afternoon wit' the sunshine and the trolleys jamful 'S the limit, what!" He swelled out his sparrow chest proudly towards the playing: "'S the limit," he chuckled. "Wit' a shine and a new celluroid rim on and nickel stogie in yer transom, yer on f'r yer money, and yer it. Say, I've danced in Stauch's wit' Mame."

The Rat's voice softened almost imperceptibly, but the chief caught the change and gripped the sides of his chair, breathing irregularly as if afraid to break the spell.

"There was a job of dishwashin' at the Tivoli; six plunks comin' reg'lar every week wit' now and then a small pik in the pool room over the Volks Garden. I was wearin' real clothes and I made good. It was me swell front what won out wit' Mame. I wasn't pretty, but me front sent me home in a canter. And Mame wasn't no chowder party pal. She'd a mem'ry overnight and a good eye f'r a white man. And the man what says she was struck on 'Dutch" Gallagher's a liar.

"There's just one girl in this world for me," rippled the piano from outside, with a final burst of treble. Then the music ceased suddenly with the hollow knock the lid of a box makes when it is let fall. And at the sound, The Rat's head drooped upon his breast again.

The chief's right hand crept slowly to the pencil tray and scrawled a few words upon a piece of paper which he gently tore from a yellow pad. "Keep the Guiney playing. Don't let him stop," the pencil traced. He looked furtively at The Rat. The little man's head was still sunken upon his soiled waistcoat, and he did not notice when the other tiptoed to the green door and thrusting a hand out beyond, tiptoed back again to the desk, waiting. The renewed tinkle of the piano floated into the courtyard, and the detective smiled as he distinguished the tune. It was the refrain of a sentimental ballad, which made the audience at Tony Castor's applaud weteyed. The chief had watched them do it more than once. So he stared at the shrunken man before him expectantly.

Seems to me it sounded like the birds at play,
Darling,
Sue, dear, don't believe I'm chaffing.
Bless your heart, I love you in the same old way."

Slowly The Rat raised him from his lethargy. His bent shoulders quivered, and he was no longer the huddled heap in the chair, inert and limp. Up went his head as he listened—up, until his gaze met that of the chief.

"Look here," he said hoarsely. "He let her starve. He let her starve on the top floor of a Cannon street tenemnt. I wasn't wise to it up the river. I wasn't wise to it. I kept hammering away on a Sing Sing stone pile, thinkin' he was lookin' after her. Why, I believed him square. It was stripes and the stone pile f'r me, and f'r him the Bowery of a Sat'rday night wit' the easy come-ons ready waitin' on the pavement.

"He come ter see me in the Tombs before they took me up. 'I'll look after Mame, s'elp me,' he said. And wit' that I horsed the deputies in the smokin' car and give me pedigree in the warden's office like the real thing. I thought 'Dutch' was right. The calendar ain't turning like no roulette wheel up at Sing Sing. But it went a heap faster wit' the letters from 'Dutch' what give Mame's love at the end. Mame didn't write. She wasn't no scholar. And how was I to know that 'Dutch' was lyin'?"

The Rat halted waveringly. But the piano refrain sent him plunging on. "They took me good conduct time off and I got me ticket of leave. And I was f'r the home route wit' a new suit of paper clothes and me stone-pile cush in 'em. I hadn't let 'em know I was comin'. I wanted to surprise Mame. It was dark w'en I got ter Cannon street. I meets Sweeney, the janitor, on the top of the stoop, after rushin' the can. 'Fifth floor?" I asks, thinkin' maybe Mame had moved. Sweeney eyes me and says, 'Wot're you handin' me?' 'Mame Gilligan, you mutt,' I says, and pushin' past him made as if ter go upstairs.

"Sweeney crossed himself, and wit' that I knowed there was somethin' gone wrong. It struck me cold before he spoke, and I've never felt warm since—but once." The Rat's yellow teeth rasped against one another like a terrier worrying a bone. He went on thickly.

"'Didn't they put you next?' says Sweeney. 'Next ter what?' I asks. 'Mame Gilligan's dead in Bellevue these six months' he says."

The Rat put one hand to his head painfully. "When Sweeney says that somethin' busted in here," he said. "I've been gone a bit in me nut ever since, but not too much gone f'r findin' 'Dutch' Gallagher. Why, a dog wouldn't have treated Mame the way he'd done it. She'd been starved. The ambulance doctor what come when Sweeney found her senseless in the hall said she hadn't ben eatin' enough f'r weeks. 'Dutch' had left her. She'd hocked everything she had except the ring I'd bought her. They buried her wit' that on. He'd been writin' to me and sendin' me Mame's love after she was dead, and he knowed it. I'd been doin' the time f'r both of us, and he'd let Mame starve."

Calmly The Rat's hand went out to where the knife lay upon the desk by the stained handkerchief. The chief did not stop him. His breath was coming and going in little puffs, and his mouth was trembling at the corners, as if he were trying to be very calm and found it hard work. The Rat took up the knife as he might have grasped a friendly old pipe. He crooked his fingers about the handle and weighed the blade in his grasp. It was all mechanically, jerkily done.

"He was dealin' faro in a brace game on Fourteenth street," he said. "I waited f'r him that night. And when I seen him leave I followed him. When he got to Chrystie street I was wit' him, but he didn't know it. I sneaked up them stairs behind him quiet as death, and when I turned around at the top landin' ter look by the gaslight if anyone was followin', I seen Mame walkin' up after me and pointin' toward 'Dutch' on ahead, and I knewed then I was doin' what was right."

The Rat's voice wavered for the moment. His lips parted drily, and he licked them with a swollen tongue. It was as if he were going on. Then, of a sudden, there came the hollow sound of the street piano stop, as the Italian at the crank changed tunes. The chief started to his feet with a smothered curse. In through the open window crept the music:

"Break the news to mother.
Just tell her that I love her.
Just say to her I—"

Like one startled from an awful dream, The Rat shivered and rolled his eyes in a quick effort to find their true focus. His stare fell upon the face of the eager watcher, and then upon his own hands with the open knife. Outside, the street piano wailed industriously. The detective met his rush with the heavy nickel butt of the telephone receiver fair upon the forehead.

From behind the green swinging doors rushed two in uniform. They looked from the unconscious man to the chief, who was tugging at his beard with his arms crossed. "And the papers will say we gave him the 'Third Degree,'" he said smiling vaguely.

To a little group in the room came the incessant vox humana of the street hurdy-gurdy.

"Take him out," said the chief shortly. "He'll be all right in an hour." And for God's sake stop that piano."—New York Post.

WOMAN REVOLUTIONIZED ARCHITECTURE.

"Build me a veranda with a house attachment," said a rich Georgian to his Northern architect, "that's what I want." These few words in the brusque vernacular of the business man tersely express the wishes of most Southern house builders of the present day.

Ten years ago the ubiquitous Southern veranda, though often of great length (especially in the old fashioned white columned houses when it often became a colonnade extending around three sides of a parallelogram), was usually narrow. Some one, somewhere, built a square veranda the size of an average room. The chances are it was a woman architect and contractor of her own summer bungalow. Women, as designers of houses, are celebrated for their disregard of precedent; their independence (if this is the proper word) in the fact of it. Without the slightest compunction a woman will knock any architectural rule of three into a cocked hat if it happens to be in her way. Some one saw the square veranda, liked it and copied it. In a few years' time it was a fad. In the South verandas are necessary. The idea of a square veranda, roomy, furnished with all the luxurious accessories of modren life, "open air parlors," as some one has happily styled them, supplied an actual demand. Unlike most fads, this one had common sense behind it and as a result has been influential in revolutionizing building styles that have obtained for centuries.—Architects and Builders Magazine.

MISS LOWE'S LIFE WORK.

In a little rural village known as Tooting, in the neighborhood of London, dwells an elderly woman whose days have not all been passed amid such peaceful and uneventful surroundings. This interesting individual is Miss Lowe, the only surviving ed, is Miss Lowe, the only surviving child of Sir Hudson Lowe, governor of St. Helana at the time that Napoleon was banished to that island. Miss Lowe was born at St. Helena during the reign of George III., and has devoted many years to a vindication of the charges made against her father in his treatment of the exiled emperor of France. She has in her possession important papers of her father's, and it was the careful examination of these documents that gave Dr. Rose the data upon which to base his reply to Lord Rosebery's estimate of Sir Hudson Lowe's treatment of his famous prisoner. A daughter of one of Sir Hundson Lowe's subordinates at St. Helena has supplemented Dr. Rose's material with extracts from notes and journals left by her father, and it is Miss Lowe's expectation that through the efforts of these interested friends her father's name may be vindicated and a true and impartial account given to the world of the manner in which he performed the arduous task that was assigned to him as guardian of the banished French ruler. For many years Miss Lowe has been in receipt of a pension from the British government, and is the oldest pensioner on the civil service list.

AN AFTERNOON TEA.

Mrs. Winfield S. Durbin, wife of the Governor of Indiana, has evolved a plan for entertaining her large circle of friends that is worth copying. Mrs. Durbin sends out invitations for a series of buffet high teas on Mondays. She invites fifty friends to each tea and in this manner entertains 200. For these occasions she has with her two or three friends from out of town and she decorates her parlors with a quantity of artistically arranged roses and ferns, or any flower she pleases. The guests are served first with delicious chicken salad and sandwiches on Royal Dresden plates, and coffee is served with this. Then Nestlerode, with a cap of whipped cream, is served in stem glasses on beautiful Chinese medallion plates. Macaroons are served with the cream. This form of entertainment is within the reach of hostesses of the most limited incomes and yet it is considered worth while by a woman who represents the highest official position in the State.—What to Eat.

A BRILLIANT WOMAN.

The recent appointment of Miss L. Tomn to the lectureship in modern economic history at the London School of Economics and Political Science is the more interesting in that it was made by the Senate of the University of London. Miss Tomn's career has been a brilliant one; for, while she was at Girton College, she took, in 1894, first class honors in two triposes—history and law. Her previous education was obtained at Truro High School, for she is Cornish, and between school and college she spent three years in Germany, France and Italy. On leaving Cambridge Miss Tomn read law with Sir Frederick Pollock, and had the advantage of working for a time in a solicitor's office. She gained a research studentship at the London School of Economics, and edited a French book on the Referendum. Miss Tomn has also done a considerable amount of literary work, writing for several of the more important reviews and journals.

SHE'S A COLUMBIA PROFESSOR.

Miss Margaret Maltby, head of the department of physics at Barnard, is the first woman appointed to a professorship by the trustees of Columbia College. She is a graduate of Oberlin College, where she took the degrees of bachelor of arts and master of arts. She then took the degree of bachelor of science in physics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. After that she went to the University of Gottingen, where she took her doctorate in two years, and gave a year to research work under Nernst, the physicist. One year she spent as private assistant to President Kohlrausch, at the Physikalisch-Technische Reich sanstalt at Charlottenburg. After her year there Miss Maltby spent a year at Clark University.

A WOMAN TEA TASTER.

As an expert tea taster Miss Minnie C. Albro of Minneapolis has won success. She is employed by a large wholesale and retail house as an expert tea taster and tea blender and is probably the only woman engaged in that line of work in the country. She can tell at once, upon tasting a tea, what country it comes from, what variety it is, and also how fine a grade. She can tell whether a tea of a given country has been grown upon a mountain or in a valley, since there is a distinct difference in flavor. With between fifty and sixty different kinds and grades of tea to handle constantly she knows at a glance where each belongs.

A PITIFUL EX-EMPRESS.

Empress Eugenie, once the chief figure of the second empire in France, now passes her old age unnoticed in the seclusion of her English home. Three rooms in the house are kept as shrines. Relics of the first Napoleon fill the one; belongings sacred to the memory of Eugenie's husband are kept in another; the playthings of the prince imperial and the trappings of the horse from which he fell to die, together with the childish things of eternal importance to mothers, are the occupants of a third large apartment in the Farnborough home.

JET HATS.

Jets make a very handsome hat trimming. They wear a long time and, though a good quality of jet is not cheap, it is a good investment. One of the handsomest of spring toques is covered with dangling jets. It is a round toque, all laid in many folds; and along the lines of the folds there is an abundance of jet. The tiny jet danglers look very pretty indeed. And, to finish the hat, there are jet balls at the side, each ball hanging from a silky cord. Three or four balls hang so low as to almost touch the ear.

GOWNS OF ONE TONE.

Gowns all of a tone are coming in this year. There are ever so many blue dresses that are blue from beginning to end. Dress material, lace, ribbons, belt and stocks are all blue. And there are countless tan dresses with no other coloring than the tan. Tan linen, tan batiste, tan lawn, tan crape or tan gowns of any kind are trimmed with lace of a slightly deeper tone, and finished up with tan ribbons, to be removed and freshened once or twice a year.

FADS AND FANCIES.

Gooseberries are favorites in fruit trimming for hats.

Chiffon boas in delicate colorings for evening wear are fringed with sil ktassels.

Gilt and diminutive tassels adorn stock collars and barthas.

Among the latest patterns in gold braid are the Greek key, basket, shell and floral designs.

Waterproof parasols, available for rain or shine, are the latest novelty.

Parasols of moire antique have been introduced in Paris.

Straw passementerie similar to that used for dress trimming is employed for parasol decorations.

As an accompaniment to the tailored suit the crush leather belt takes the lead.

For bag handles, straps and braids have replaced the stiff leather handle of the previous season.

Gold filigree buttons are much used for trimming purposes.

Rhinestone hearts are much worn here and in Paris.

Shaped veils have made their appearance. They are cut circular and fit over the hat perfectly.

Canvas galloons in Oriental patterns most effectively trim gowns of light weight wool fabrics.

Dainty toques of peach color straw braid are draped with lace in corresponding tint.

Linen tailored suits are being fashioned in Paris not alone from white linen, but also from flax, pale blue, lavendar, pale mauve, sulphur and light pink.

For making 1,000 cigarettes in a Japanese factory a girl gets 8 sen, equal to four cents.

PEARLS OF THO

It takes less sense to all than to be fair with

No life overflows with room only for its own

There is nothing wo
the art of living for

When the universe
riddle it becomes a

The honest man his virtue. He refuse utation.

A man doesn't atte
ness to his wife by the world.

"A blithe heart ma visage. A burden w is not felt. A man h oned in his blood th
ples. A careless wa ant foe. A virtuo body is like a fine p light."

If we always emn truth, that li
bule of the everlasting stage of a progr
no limit, the ship both of heart
we should ackno
high importance
deavor to fulfill
and holier spirit.

AN EXPERT PIC

He Rode in a Brougham
Fashionable W

The old man, Jam
Detectives Collins and L division succeeded ing to six months' h reputed to be one of
and, in his heyday, the ful, pickpocket in Lo
proceeds of his profess drive in a brougham.

Read is in his seventie elegantly dressed always able white beard, and he was sometimes mista of the realm. When h deception was the grea voice was clear and cultiv

He was once a master
West End, but for many netted large sums in co
his mania for collecting purses. He was an earne fashionable bazaars, weddi er ceremonies and funeral by crowds of wealthy wo detectives said, another of
was to follow bishops at services.

To all these affairs it was to drive up in his brough in the rare cases when s upon him, he possibly esca strong evidence of respecta possession of a private ca believed that to that end ways made his own clothe were perfectly provided fo
His covert coat could be hanging over his wrist, ye ed was it with slits tha would be gliding through of it all the time in and o people's pockets.

The departure of the boats in the holiday seas tracted him. He was a m siderable education, and s his gift of assumed dignity even when caught almost he would escape the conse
the aid of his plausible ton in a large measure due to h backs of outside seats o
omnibuses had to be alter
News.

Shrove Tuesday Wedding

Shrove Tuesday weddi land are exceedingly co
sometimes among the peas are celebrated in strange c es. There is a story of a y ant girl being aroused out the night of Shrove Tues married before midnight t do Irish Australasian who never seen, though he wa her parents, who made the turned out a happy mar
young people usually take philosophically, believing parents know best how to happy. This anecdote is Tipperary girl: "Biddy," friend, "are ye goin' off th
"Musha, I don't know that," dy, "but they're sittin' o stairs"—meaning that ma was in progress. Another lates to a number of weddi place in a Munster church Tuesday. "An' where's ye
Joe?" one swain was asked Mick, I couldn't tell ye; bu she's up there amonst the and ribbons in the front ro
He learned who she was names were called out.

Interesting Map.

A map of America, mad and which was responsib naming of the new world cus Vespucci, instead of ca lumbia; in honor of Chris lumbus, will be one of the relics exhibited at the W from the Vatican. The map at the town of St. Die, L Martin Waldseemuller, and cently found by Prof. Fishe paring a map of the world, then known. Waldseemuller across a letter from Ame pucci to his patron, Lorenz ici, dated 1501, in which he the newly discovered conti seemuller marked this pra known terra firma America, first heard of it through Vespucci. The latter probab knew that the new land called by his name, and it w fault that Columbus did n
the honor due for making ery.—Pittsburg Gazette.

HAIR GROWTH promoted by

Shampoos of Cuticura SOAP

light dressings CUTICURA, the Skin Cure and estofemollients.

treatment at once lling hair, removes cales, and dandruff, s hair parasites, rritated, itching sur- mulates the hair fol- osens the scalp skin, the roots with energy rishment and makes grow upon a sweet, me, healthy scalp, else fails.

Complete External and Internal every Humor from Pimples to Infancy to Age, consisting of Soap, Ointment, and Pills, may all Druggists for One Dollar.

the world. Cuticura Soap, 25c., Ointment, 50c., (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 50c.) Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors. "How to Preserve, Purify and Beautify the Hair and Hands."

Golden Rule Agriculture:

to your land and your crop ood. Plenty of

otash

ilizer spells quality ntity in the har- Write us and send you, next mail, ey winning KALI WORKS, 93 Nassau St. or 22½ So. Broad St.

E to WOMEN

Trial Box and book of in- absolutely Free and Post- gh to prove the value of e Toilet Antiseptic

Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water — non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution — lasts longer — goes further — has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.

la of a noted Boston physician, ith great success as a Vaginal ucorrhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal re Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, ness of mucus membrane.

eatment of female ills Paxtine is Used as a Vaginal Wash w e world to produce its equal for s. It is a revelation in cleansing power; it kills all germs which mation and discharges.

druggists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. ge does not, send to us for it. Don't ute — there is nothing like Paxtine. the Free Box of Paxtine to-day. CO., 7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Am. 20, 1904.

adHorses For Specific Ophthalmia Moon Blindness & other Co., Iowa City, Ia., have a sure cure

E. E. F BIR BUYS The Large the PIANOS G People F South

The Bur

E. E. PIA BIRM AL

The word to be derived owes its ori lish publicat Dun, a fam the time of to have bee agement of and so succe debts that h ial, and wh pay it grew to say, "Wh

$50 particulars a A The Sa Destroys da ruits or scale cold water. delicate tissu of-date hot Alabastine bolled, of pa Hints on Ideas free. 105 Water St.

Pos $5,0 GEORGIA-ALABA

PISO CURES Best Cough in tim CON

...rding for several of
...nt reviews and jour-

...MBIA PROFESSOR.
...Maltby, head of the
...ics at Barnard,
...n appointed to a pro-
...ships of Columbia
...a graduate of Ober-
...re she took the de-
...of arts and master
...n took the degree of
...ics in physics at the ...Institute of Technol-
...ore went to the Uni-
...ania, where she took
...two years, and gave
...under Nernst,
...ics. She spent as
...Prof. Kohl-
...Hanover Tech-
...ics at Charlotten-
...ics at Univer-

TEA TASTER

...Miss Minnie
...won suc-
...by a large
...ion as ex-
...a blender and is
...much engaged in
...country. She
...ong tasting a tea,
...ence from what va-
...ow flow a grade,
...ing a tea of a given
...known upon a moun-
...ew since there is a
...in flavor. With
...sixty different kinds
...to handle constantly
...ance where each be-

...EX EMPRESS.

...nis once the chief
...nd empire in France,
...old age unnoticed in
...her English home.
...The house are kept as
...of the first Napoleon
...ngings sacred to the
...nie's husband are
...the playthings of the
...and the trappings of
...which he fell to die,
...childish things of
...ce to mothers, are
...a third large apart-
...rnborough home.

...T HATS.

...very handsome hat
...wear a long time and,
...quality of jet is not
...ood investment. One
...est of spring toques
...dangling jets. It is
...laid in many folds;
...es of the folds there
...of jet. The tiny jet
...y pretty indeed. And,
...there are jet balls
...ball hanging from a
...e or four balls hang
...ost touch the ear.

OF ONE TONE.

...tone are coming in
...e are ever so many
...t are blue from be-
...Dress material, lace,
...d stocks are all blue.
...countless tan dresses
...oloring than the tan.
...batiste, tan lawn, tan
...wns of any kind are
...ce of a slightly deep-
...shed up with tan rib-
...moved and freshened
...ener

...ND FANCIES.

...are favorites in fruit
...ts.
...in delicate colorings
...ar are fringed with

...native tassels adorn
...Parisian
...ress patterns in gold
...ock key, basket, shell

...rasols, available for
...e the latest novelty.
...ue antique have been
...ris
...nterie similar to that
...rimming is employed
...rations
...nniment to the tailor-
...h leather belt takes

...straps and braids
...stiff leather handle
...season.
...ttons are much used
...posses.
...ves are much worn

...ave made their ap-
...are cut circular and
...perfectly.
...s in Oriental pat-
...ively trim gowns of
...l fabrics.
...of peach color straw
...with lace in corres-

...suits are being fash-
...or alone from white
...from flax, pale blue,
...mauve, sulphur and

...000 cigarettes in a
...a girl gets 8 sen,
...ts.

PEARLS OF THO...

It takes less sense to find ... all than to be fair with ...

No life overflows with ... room only for its own ...

There is nothing worth ... the art of living for not...

When the universe ... riddle it becomes a revel...

The honest man does ... his virtue. He refuses to ... utation.

A man doesn't atone for ... ness to his wife by his ... the world.

"A blithe heart makes a ... visage. A burden which ... is not felt. A man had bet... oned in his blood than in ... ples. A careless watch invi... ant foe. A virtuous mind ... body is like a fine picture ... light."

If we always bore in mind ... emn truth, that life is but ... bule of the everlasting temp... stage of a progress that ... no limit, the novitiate or ... ship both of heart and intell... we should ackno ledge more ... high importance of the trus... deavor to fulfill its duties i... and holler spirit.—W. H. D.

AN EXPERT PICKPOC...

He Rode in a Brougham and ... Fashionable Wedding.

The old man, James Re... Detectives Collins and Wate... L division succeeded recently ... ing to six months' hard l... reputed to be one of the ma... and, in his heyday, the most ... ful, pickpocket in London, ... proceeds of his profession h... drive in a brougham.

Read is in his seventieth y... elegantly dressed always, w... able white beard, and glossy ... he was sometimes mistaken ... of the realm. When he ... deception was the greater, ... voice was clear and cultivate...

He was once a master tail... West End, but for many yea... netted large sums in conse... his mania for collecting othe... purses. He was an earnest ... fashionable bazaars, weddings ... er ceremonies and functions ... by crowds of wealthy women ... detectives said, another of his ... was to follow bishops at co... services.

To all these affairs it was h... to drive up in his brougham ... in the rare cases when susp... upon him, he possibly escape... strong evidence of respectabil... possession of a private carria... believed that to that end h... ways made his own clothes, ... were perfectly provided for t... His covert coat could be a... hanging over his wrist, yet s... ed was it with slits that ... would be gliding through t... of it all the time in and out ... people's pockets.

The departure of the C... boats in the holiday season ... tracted him. He was a ma... siderable education, and so ... his gift of assumed dignity t... even when caught almost re... he would escape the conseq... the aid of his plausible tongue ... in a large measure due to hi... backs of outside seats on ... omnibuses had to be altered. ... News.

Shrove Tuesday Wedding I...

Shrove Tuesday wedding ... land are exceedingly comm... sometimes among the peasa... are celebrated in strange circ... es. There is a story of a yo... ant girl being aroused out ... the night of Shrove Tuesda... married before midnight to ... do Irish Australasian whom ... never seen, though he was ... her parents, who made the m... turned out a happy marri... young people usually take th... philosophically, believing th... parents know best how to m... happy. This anecdote is t... Tipperary girl: "Biddy," sa... friend, "are ye goin' off this ... "Musha, I don't know that," ... dy, "but they're sittin' on ... stairs"—meaning, that mat... was in progress. Another ... lates to a number of weddin... place in a Munster church ... Tuesday. "An' where's yer ... Joe?" one swain was asked. ... Mick, I couldn't tell ye; but ... she's up there amongst the ... and ribbons in the front row." He learned who she was ... names were called out.

Interesting Map.

A map of America, made ... and which was responsible ... naming of the new world f... cus Vespucci, instead of calli... lumbia, in honor of Christo... lumbus, will be one of the in... relics exhibited at the Wo... from the Vatican. The map w... at the town of St. Die, Lor... Martin Waldseemuller, and ... cently found by Prof. Fisher, ... paring a map of the world, ... then known. Waldseemuller ... across a letter from Amer... pucci to his patron, Lorenzo ... ici, date 1 1501, in which he r... the newly discovered contin... seemuller marked this prac... known terra firma America. ... first heard of it through ... Vespucci. The latter probab... knew that the new land ... called by his name, and it w... fault that Columbus did n... the honor due for making t... ery.—Pittsburg Gazette.

HAIR GROWTH

promoted by

hampoos of uticura SOAP
light dressings
UTICURA, the Skin Cure and
est of emollients.
treatment at once
falling hair, removes
scales, and dandruff,
ys hair parasites,
irritated, itching sur-
timulates the hair fol-
oosens the scalp skin,
s the roots with energy
urishment and makes
r grow upon a sweet,
ome, healthy scalp,
ll else fails.

Complete External and Internal
for every Humor from Pimples to om Infancy to Age, consisting of
A Soap, Ointment, and Pills, may
of all Druggists for One Dollar.
bout the world. Cuticura Soap, 25c., Ointment, 50c. (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills), 25c. per vial of 60. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave.; Australia, R. Towns & Co.; India, B. K. Paul, Calcutta; China, Hong Kong Dru & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors.
"How to Preserve, Purify and Beautify
the Hair and Hands."

Golden Rule
Agriculture: to your land and your crop
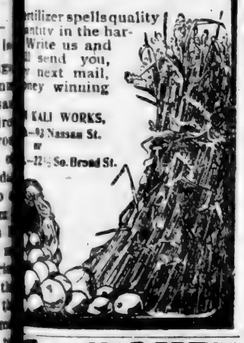
good. Plenty of

otash

ilizer spells quality
antity in the har-
Write us and
send you,
next mail,
ney winning

KALI WORKS,
—Nassau St.
or
—121½ So. Broad St.



E to WOMEN
Trial Box and book of in-absolutely Free and Postgh to prove the value of
e Toilet Antiseptic

Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water — non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution — lasts longer — goes further — has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.

ula of a noted Boston physician, with great success as a Vaginal corrhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal ore Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, eness of mucus membrane.
eatment of female ills Paxtine is Used as a Vaginal Wash we e world to produce its equal for
s. It is a revelation in cleansing power; it kills all germs which mation and discharges.
druggists keep Paxtine; price, 50c.
y does not, send to us for it. Don't ide—there is nothing like Paxtine.
the Free Box of Paxtine to-day.
CO., 7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 3 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 10 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Am. 20, 1904.

adHorses For Specific Ophthalmia Moon Blindness & other Co., Iowa City, Ia., have a sure cure

E. E. FORBES BIRMINGHAM BUYS OUT F. G. FITE

The Largest House Buys Out the Next Largest.

PIANOS GO AT FACTORY COST

People From All Over the South Purchase Pianos by Mail.

The E. E. Forbes Piano Co. have bought the entire stock of the Frank G. Fite Music House, and so large and unusual was the purchase that all the Birmingham papers commented upon it.

The Birmingham News said:

"Mr. Fite, desiring to close his Birmingham store, and rather than repack his big stock, sold the whole $40,000 worth of pianos to the E. E. Forbes Piano Co."

The Birmingham Ledger said:

"Think of a beautiful upright piano worth $250, but sold for $147 50, or one worth $325 for $193.50, but this is the opportunity afforded by the enormous purchase of the E. E. Forbes Co., when they absorbed the entire piano stock of the well-known Frank G. Fite Music House."

The papers may well talk about this great purchase—nothing like it was ever before accomplished in the south, and the result is that "well-known high-grade pianos are being sold at factory prices."

So many orders have been received by us from various places in the south without any notice of the sale being made, excepting what has appeared in the Birmingham papers, that we have caused an advertisement to be published in nearly every southern paper, knowing well that no other piano house in the south can begin to sell good instruments at the low price we are asking for these pianos.

One man who lives down on the coast ordered a Gabler and said that after he had paid the freight the price was still $75 less than he could have bought it for in the large city in which he lives.

We have likewise reduced all prices on our large stock of pianos to keep pace with this sacrifice sale, and as we carry the best pianos in the world, including,

Chickering,	Mason & Hamlin,
Forbes,	Kranich & Bach,
Mathusheck,	Everett,

And other well-known pianos. You will appreciate what a wonderful saving opportunity this piano sale offers—on the pianos for which we are agents you can save from $50 to $75, while this is the way prices are marked on the pianos bought from the F. G. Fite Co.:

New Pianos (in either mahogany or walnut cases):

Original Price.	Can now be bought for
$250	$147 50
300	178 50
325	193 50
350	223 50
400	268 50
500	338 50

Piano Players (Slightly Used).

Apollonette	$125 00
Angelus	135 00
Pianola	155 00
Cecilian	185 00
Apollo	200 00

Regina Music Boxes and music at almost your own price.

Remember that every piano is marked in plain figures and consequently any one from a distance may purchase by mail and get it just as cheap as a person who lives in town.

Don't forget this opportunity even if you have not the full amount, but bear in mind that we will accept a part of the price in cash and allow you to pay the balance on easy, convenient terms. If you want a piano and expect to buy one in the next two years it will pay you to avail yourself of the present sale and our Special Long-Time Payment Offer.

For it will save you from $50 to $261.50, according to the price piano which you buy.

Write us at once. Remember that we guarantee every piano that we sell.

E. E. FORBES PIANO CO. BIRMINGHAM ALABAMA

The word "dun," generally supposed to be derived from the French donney, owes its origin, according to an English publication of 1708, to one Joe Dun, a famous bailiff of Lincoln in the time of Henry VII. Dun is said to have been so shrewd in the management of his unpleasant business and so successful in the collection of debts that his name became proverbial, and whenever a man refused to pay it grew into a prevalent custom to say, "Why don't you 'Dun' him?"

$500 Given Away

Write us or ask an Alabastino dealer for particulars and free sample card of

Alabastine

The Sanitary Wall Coating

Destroys disease germs and vermin. Never rubs or scales. You can apply it—mix with cold water. Beautiful effects in white and delicate tints. Not a disease-breeding, out-of-date hot-water glue preparation. Buy Alabastine in 5 lb. packages, properly labelled, of paint, hardware and drug dealers. "Hints on Decorating," and our Artists' Ideas free. ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Mich., or 105 Water St., N. Y.

Positions GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT

Railroad Fare Paid. 500 FREE Courses Offered. Board at Cost. Write Quick

GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

A farmer of New Jersey has just into possession of what he says is the oldest plow in America. According to tradition the plow is two hundred and fifty years old, having been brought over by the Dutch to New Amsterdam in 1654. It remained in one family for over two hundred years and then was purchased at an auction sale by the father of the present owner. This, they say, is the plow which was used in breaking the ground for the famous Hackettstown-German Valley turnpike over which the revolutionary forces drew their cannon after the battle of Trenton, and when they were on their way to the defense of the famous Jockey Hollow road. It is built on the same principal as plows of today, except it has a wooden moldboard and a wrought iron share. All the nuts have tail burrs on them for tightening and loosening with a hammer, for in the old days there were no wrenches. There is but one handle which is to be held with the left hand, the right hand for guiding the horse.

Ernest Delinge, late secretary of Don Jame de Bourbon, son of Don Carlos, pretender to the Spanish throne, was sentenced to ten months' imprisonment for pawning the famous jeweled necklace of Marie Antoinette, which descended to Don Jame. The necklace originally belonged to Marie Theresse of Austria, later passing to Marie Antoinette. Lately Don Jame had left it with his sister, Princess Alice de Bourbon. The latter missed the necklace and an investigation located it where it had been hypothecated for $64,000. Delinge maintained that he was carrying out the transaction for Don Jame, but the court held differently.

It is believed that before very long the Dead sea will be exploited for industrial purposes. French engineers are at work on three different projects. The level of the Dead sea being more than 1,300 feet below that of the Mediterranean and Red seas, it is thought by connecting either of these two seas by means of a canal with the Dead sea a stream of water would flow with a velocity calculated to produce some 25 horsepower. There is no danger, it is asserted, of an overflowing of the Dead sea, for the waters there evaporate at so great a rate (6,000,000 tons a day) that the incoming waters would make no appreciable difference in the level.

Earl Leonard, the man who had one of his fingers grated to his face for a nose, has been deluged with letters from young women who want to marry him.

The government of Greece has authorized the English institute of archaeology to carry out excavations in Lakonia.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

Every old woman likes to tell how beautiful she was when a girl.

How to Clean Laces.

To clean delicate laces, take a large glass jar, cover with old cotton and spread the lace carefully on it. Set the bottle in warm Ivory Soap suds and leave for an hour. If stains are difficult to remove, place in the sun and they will disappear. Rinse by dipping the bottle in clear water.

ELEANOR R. PARKER.

About nine-tenths of what people say doesn't amount to anything.

Ladies Can Wear Shoes

One size smaller after using Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder. It makes tight or new shoes easy. Cures swollen, hot, sweating, aching feet, ingrowing nails, corns and bunions. At all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. Trial package FREE by mail. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N.Y.

If fault finding were a paying occupation more people would be wealthy.

Looms Large.

Worried by the frequent appearance of typographical errors in his newspaper, a Kansas editor says that a typographical error is a hard thing to find in a proof, but in the printed and completed paper it looms up like a fat lady in a group of vegetarians.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists; price, 75c. per bottle.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Looks Suspicious.

A Chicago man refuses to testify in court whether he had a bank account of $2,000,000 or not, on the grounds that he might incriminate himself. Must not have had it. Any man with that much money is in no danger of being incriminated.

H. H. GREEN'S SONS, of Atlanta, Ga., are the only successful Dropsy Specialists in the world. See their liberal offer in advertisement in another column of this paper.

If a married man admits he's a fool it is his wife's duty to agree with him.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle

Don't trust to luck to do anything you can do yourself.

Piso's Cure is the best medicine we ever used for all affections of throat and lungs.—WM. O. ENDSLEY, Vanburen, Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

An egotist is a man who expects a woman to marry him for himself alone.

Any one can dye with PUTNAM FADELESS DYES; no experience required.

The average man has no use for a chronic kicker—unless she is a ballet girl.

SECOND-HAND TAG DEALERS.

Clever Men Profiting by the Going Abroad Humbug.

Perhaps there never was a time in the history of the world when humbugs were so common as they are at present. Only a few weeks ago dealers in trunks, harness and leather were amused over an article which appeared in one of their trade journals, stating that, on one of the back streets of New York an enterprising soul is doing a lively business in the sale of second-hand valise and trunk tags to those who are anxious to cut a wide swath when they return to their homes in the west and south. How this enterprising chap manages to obtain the tags is a mystery which the article does not explain, but he is prepared for a moderate charge to check one's baggage from Constantinople to Cairo, Brindisi, Geneva, or any other old place. Speaking of this rather common phrase of vanity, one of the leading leather goods dealers of Washington said:

"I saw the article about the second-hand tag dealer, and no doubt it is quite correct. If there is anything of which people are particularly vain it is the foreign tags on their baggage. This is more particularly the case with those who have returned from their first trip across the water, and are anxious that every one should know the fact. We have in our establishment an extensive repair shop, and every now and then we receive hat boxes, steamer trunks, grips, valises, traveling bags and so on, that are as full of foreign tags as a dead wall is of theatrical and patent medicine posters. In all such cases the preson who sends the baggage leaves very explicit and positive oders that under no circumstances are those tags to be removed.

"Once upon a time we had in our shop a wideawake boy who did odd jobs about the place, and who was as ambitious as he was industrious and well-behaved. Evidently he felt that the best plan to obtain an advance in salary was to keep everlastingly busy, and I am free to admit he was about the hardest worker I have ever seen. One morning before the men came down to their work, this lad found himself without anything to do. He had literally worked himself out of a job, and anxious that on our arrival we should find him busy, he began pottering about in search of something to occupy his hands. In an evil moment his eye fell upon a large grip that was plastered over with tags from nearly every hotel and city in Europe, from Moscow to Palermo and from Queenstown to Odessa. With admirable industry he set perseveringly to work removing the tags. He had about finished the job when one of the workmen entered and rescued the grip on which there still remained a few suggestions of Swiss watering places.

"When the customer received his grip minus some 12 or 15 tags, he shed tears of anguish, and said things calculated to make the angels weep. He was the maddest man in Washington and roasted our establishment right royally as a place where the workmen had no more gumption than to clean up a man's valise as bright and tagless as the day he purchased it."—Washington Post.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

Tame snakes are used in Morocco to clear houses of rats and mice.

There is at least one place in the world the name of which has no vowels in it. That place is the village of Ws, near Paris.

The largest spider in the world has been found in Sumatra. Its body is nine inches in circumference and its legs spread seventeen inches.

The composition of London mud has been investigated. Very little earth was found in it. It is composed of "carbon or unconsumed smoke."

The greatest of all mountain railways is that which ascends Mt. Lowe, in southern California, to an altitude of six thousand feet at a forty-eight percent grade.

Henry Marr of Columbus, Ind., a farmer, lives in a house exactly in the middle of this great country. A stone in his barn lot marks the spot named by the census officials.

Women nowadays fill many and various occupations formerly monopolized by men, but there is probably only one country in the world where they act as butchers. That country is Paraguay, where nearly all the butchers are women. Women act as butchers in all the shops, and very skillful they are in cutting up the meat and retailing it to customers.

First Novelist of Japan.

Alzaki Tokutaro, better known as Koyo Sang, died recently in Japan. Koyo Sang may rightly be called the father of the Japanese novel. He was the first writer to introduce realistic fiction into his native country. Indeed before his time the so-called Japanese novels consisted merely of dialogues and pithy sayings. Character painting, plots, and the like were entirely unknown. When his books depicting real life first appeared they created a great stir throughout the country. Since then, however, several of the younger writers have followed in the footsteps of Koyo Sang, and in this, as in many other matters, the Japanese promise to adopt the methods of America and Europe, and will undoubtedly in the near future create a characteristic and interesting literature.—Boston Transcript.

"I Have Every Reason to Praise Pe-ru-na,"

WRITES MRS. KANE, OF CHICAGO.

Mrs. K. Kane, 172 Sebor Street, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"Peruna has been used so long in our family that I do not know how I could get along without it. I have given it to all of my children at different times when they suffered with croup, colds and the many ailments that children are subject to, and am pleased to say that it has kept them in splendid health. I have also used it for a catarrhal difficulty of long standing and it cured me in a short time, so I have every reason to praise Peruna."—Mrs. K. Kane.

Pe-ru-na Protects the Entire Household Against Catarrhal Diseases.

One of the greatest foes with which every family has to contend is our changeable climate. To protect the family from colds and coughs is always a serious problem, and often impossible.

Sooner or later it is the inevitable fate of every one to catch cold. Care in avoiding exposure and the use of proper clothing will protect from the frequency and perhaps the severity of colds, but with the greatest of precautions they will come. This is a settled fact of human experience. Everybody must expect to be caught somewhere or somehow.

Perhaps it will be wet feet, or a draught, or damp clothes, or it may be one of a thousand other little mishaps, but no one is shrewd enough to always avoid the inevitable catching cold.

There is no fact of medical science better known than that Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. Thousands of families in all parts of the United States are protected from colds and catarrh by Peruna. Once in the family Peruna always stays. No home can spare Peruna after the first trial of it.

We have on file many thousand testimonials like the ones given above. We can only give our readers a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements we are receiving every month. No other physician in the world has received such a volume of enthusiastic and grateful letters of thanks as Dr. Hartman for Peruna.

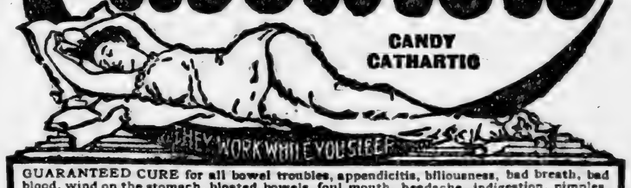
Mrs. A. Hobson, 225 Washington St., Lansing, Mich., writes:

"Peruna has been such a blessing to my only child, as well as myself, that I feel obliged to give my testimonial. He has always suffered from catarrh of the head and throat, and I had to use extra precautions so as not to have him exposed to damp or cold weather. Last year he was taken with la grippe, and as it was a severe case, caused me much anxiety. No medicine helped him till he took Peruna. I noticed an improvement at once and in three weeks he was a different child; the grippe had been completely cured and I noticed that the catarrh was made better. He kept taking it two weeks longer, when he was entirely well. I now use it off and on for colds, cramps, indigestion or general malposition, and find it superior to any doctors or medicine I ever tried. It keeps me, as well as my child, in perfect health, and I gladly recommend it to mothers."—Mrs. A. Hobson.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS

Cascarets

CANDY CATHARTIC



GUARANTEED CURE for all bowel troubles, appendicitis, biliousness, bad breath, bad blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pimples, pains after eating, liver trouble, sallow skin and dizziness. When your bowels don't move regularly you are sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It starts chronic ailments and long years of suffering. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS today, for you will never get well and stay well until you get your bowels right. Take our advice, start with Cascarets today, under absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Never sold in bulk. Sample and booklet free. Address Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago or New York. 908

FEET HURT Sweat, Itch, Blister? ROYAL FOOT WASH cures them. Removes odors of feet, armpits, etc.; stops chafing. If not at druggists send 25c to EATON DRUG CO., ATLANTA, GA., for full size, postpaid; sample for 2c stamp. One application proves its merit. Money back if not satisfied.

When King Edward smokes a cigar the bands are religiously torn into four pieces every time. The reason is that once, at Marienbad, it came to the ear of the king that a band from around one of the royal cigars, which was stamped with the royal arms, had been sold by an indiscreet waiter for five guineas. The man who bought it attached it to a similarly made cigar and went around showing the cigar to his friends, saying it had been given to him by the king.

Dusseldorf newspapers announce the death of an armless painter named Siepen, who became quite noted for his pictures. He painted with his left foot. Many of his pictures are in England.

BE WARNED!

Heed nature's warning! Pain tells of lurking disease. Backache is kidney pain—a warning of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, too, come to tell you the kidneys are sick. Constant weariness, headaches, dizzy spells, days of pain, nights of unrest, are danger signals warning you to cure the kidneys. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, which have made thousands of permanent cures.

Frank D. Overbaugh, cattle-buyer and farmer, Catskill, N. Y., says: "Doctors told me ten years ago that I had Bright's disease, and said they could do nothing to save me. My back ached so I could not stand it to even drive about, and passages of the kidney secretions were so frequent as to annoy me greatly. I was growing worse all the time, but Doan's Kidney Pills cured me, and I have been well ever since."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Overbaugh will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all dealers; price 50 cents per box.

MOORE & HANDLEY HARDWARE CO.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

We are Headquarters for

MACHINERY

OF ALL KINDS

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

For Engines, Boilers and Pumps,
The best, I've heard folk say,
Can be found at Moore & Handley's
On 20th and Avenue "A."

Avery & Company

SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY

Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.

Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

SAFEBLOWERS' TRIAL

Driscoll Convicted — Russell Attempts to Escape.

Albert Driscoll, charged with blowing up the safe of the Montgomery theater last December, was convicted of burglary with a recommendation for mercy. The defense made a plea that the court here had not jurisdiction in that the men had been sent here for safe keeping, and were literally under the authority of the Mobile court, where they were bound over shortly after being captured on charges of carrying concealed weapons. The court overruled the objection and ordered the trial to proceed.

J. E. Russell, alias Eddie Callahan, charged with safe blowing, made a desperate attempt to escape. Albert Driscoll, arrested with Russell, was on trial and Russell being a witness was sent to the witness room. Chief of Police Case, of Mobile, also a witness, volunteered to guard him. Russell leaped clear from the second story window, 20 feet to the ground.

He got on his feet and plunged forward on his face. Almost immediately he began to crawl toward the fence, dragging his foot which was crushed. When the prisoner jumped several officers ran down stairs and Detective Lacy of Mobile, caught him. He was enraged at his failure and said if he had not struck the coping he would have gotten away.

Will Issue Bonds.

The election for the purpose of authorizing a bond issue by Montgomery for the purposes of building new school houses, enlarging the water works system and constructing new sewers carried by a vote of 334 to 8. Those parts of the city recently taken in voted solidly for the issue, for it means public improvements for them.

The bond issue was first proposed in a message to the city council by Mayor Thomas H. Carr two months ago. He pointed out that the needs were imperative and should be met. So confident were the officials that the measure would be carried that they have gone to work on school buildings already. One to cost $22,000 is going up at Highland park, and one to cost $21,000 at South Montgomery. Still another will be constructed at West End. These three, with furniture, will cost the city more than $80,000. The school at Herron street, burned some time ago, is being reconstructed and will soon be finished. It is costing $15,000, which is being provided by the insurance companies.

The money from the bond issue is to be divided as follows: For water works extension, $200,000; for schools, $100,000; sewers, $50,000. The additions of the water works are to include a new stand tower and pump.

Murder in Lauderdale.

William Hammonds, a prominent farmer living at Lexington, twenty-three miles east of Florence, was murdered Sunday at his home while his family was away at church. They found him lying in a pool of blood on his face with his head beaten to a pulp, apparently with a hammer. So badly was he mutilated and clotted with blood that it was impossible to tell whether he had been shot or not.

Negro Shoots Four Men.

Saturday was pay day at Altoona and the men drank freely. Resulting from a fight Tom Walden is dying and Tom Thornhill, Ed Collier and Will Kent are more or less fatally wounded. These are white men and were wounded by Tom Wilson, a negro, who used a repeating shotgun, firing four times. The negro escaped, but is being pursued by a posse.

It is reported that the Italian colony at Palermo, near Mobile, is sadly in need of common necessities.

A few days ago B. J. Gardner, a turpentine distiller near Andalusia, discharged a young man named Wright. Saturday Wright's father, Jim Wright, aged 65, while drinking, stabbed Gardner through the heart. Wright is in jail.

The Ensley rod mill is again in full blast.

Twelve Tons of Go...

Twelve tons of gold were reduced to a molten state at the United States mint Monday. At the same time the coinage department began the work of converting the mass into gold eagles. Within the next few days about $12,000,000 will be coined. The melting of twelve tons of gold in one day is said to break all records for mint melting.

An iron bridge has been ordered constructed across Little Cahaba river on the line between Jefferson and Shelby counties. The bridge is to be built near Parker's mill and will cost several hundred dollars.

In a bloody fight at Montgomery A. T. Gamble, manager of a trading stamps concern, was beaten up by Joe Perry, a well known young man of the city. Gamble was arrested Saturday on a warrant charging assault and battery on Miss Bertha Perry, a sister of Joe's. It was alleged that Miss Perry, who was employed in the trading stamps agency, had been struck by Gamble in a misunderstanding about the business of the agency.

THROWN OUT OF COURT.

Judge Jones Renders His Decision in the Hallier Case.

Judge Thomas G. Jones has handed down a decision in the conspiracy case of Charles Moore et al. sustaining the demurrers of the defendant's attorneys and throwing the case out of the federal courts.

The defendants, six in number, were accused of assaulting Joe Hallier, a white man, and B. L. Greer, a negro, because they attempted to organize a local of the United Mine Workers of America at Empire. Judge Jones' reasons for throwing the matter out of court were, first, that the right to establish a labor organization was not a right conferred by the constitution of the United States, and that a conspiracy to interfere with it was not a hindrance to the constitutional rights of a citizen; and second, that the other offenses charged in the indictment were punishable by the state courts, but were not such as the federal courts take cognizance of.

When the case had its first hearing the claims of Hallier against the six alleged conspirators were denied because it was proven that he was a citizen of Wales.

International Courtesy.

The sultan, it is learned, is being kept in touch with happenings in the far east. Russia and Japan are vieing with each other in their efforts to keep Abdul well informed. The mikado has authorized a special service telegram from Tokio to Constantinople and now the Russian general staff has arranged a like service from St. Petersburg and sends daily telegrams. The Russians wish to ingratiate themselves in the sultan's favor so as to obtain permission for the Russian Black Sea fleet to pass through. The Japanese wish to keep the sultan from giving such permission.

It is stated that Russia will not press her charge against Japan for what she terms a breach of international law by the Japanese's first attack at Chemulpo and Port Arthur. Baron Hayashi says that the Japanese previous to the attacks on Chemulpo and Port Arthur interrupted cables between Port Arthur and Vladivostock, showing that the Russians were prepared to attack Sasebo with the Port Arthur fleet on February 13, without a preliminary declaration of war. The cables also disclosed the fact that a farewell dinner had been arranged for the officers engaged in the proposed attack.

All classes of banks and trust companies are subscribing to the Japanese $50,000,000 loan, taking it at 93 1-2 per cent. Preparations are being made for offering the loan to the public immediately. The president of one of the principal trust companies that has subscribed said that there was no sentiment about the transaction, and that the Russian loan would be taken just as well.

Renewed energy is being expended on the preparations of the second Russian Pacific squadron, which will consist of eleven ironclads and seventeen cruisers. Acording to the last announcement the fleet is not expected to sail until some time in July, going by the outside route.

Russia is paying out something like $750,000 a day as war expenses, and to meet this extra drain upon the treasury they are paring down all their running expenses, education is suffering from that paring process.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have completed the formation of the syndicate which is to handle $25,000,000 of the Japanese loan, which is to be placed in this country. The syndicate will comprise several important banks.

It is believed that a portion of the Russian Vladivostock fleet has been shut out, and is now in the sea of Japan, trying to evade the Japanese.

Port Arthur's coal supply is sufficient for only six weeks.

To the Unexplored Country.

Sir Henry M. Stanley, the African explorer, was attacked by pleurisy a fortnight ago and died at his London residence Tuesday. His illness was complicated by chronic heart trouble.

The convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association will be held in Washington May 11-12.

It is announced at the navy department that the battleship Missouri, now en route from Pensacola, where she has concluded her target practice, to Newport News, will be given final acceptance trial immediately on arrival without waiting for repairs, which may be found necessary in consequence of the recent explosion.

Timothy Murray, chief master-at-arms at the New York navy yard, said to be the only survivor of Admiral Farragut's fleet, at the battle of Mobile bay, has applied for retirement. Murray, as a powder boy, was a member of Admiral Farragut's own crew on his flagship.

Chile's cabinet has resigned.

It is estimated that something like 9,000,000 words have been uttered in the halls of congress this session. Something like 5,800 pages constitute this session's Congressional Record.

The payment of the forty million dollars for the Panama canal today leaves a deficit in the treasury of $39,367,471.36.

Harry Shorter, the newly appointed insurance commissioner, took hold Monday morning.

JOURNALIST DEAD

Lucian Julian Walker Passed Away Saturday

Lucien Julien Walker died of heart failure early Saturday morning after a short illness. Mr. Walker had been in poor health for several months past, but his condition did not become alarming until Tuesday. Mr. Walker was about 43 years of age. He was associated at one time with Governor Jelks on the Eufaula Times.

Early in the eighties Mr. Walker secured a department clerkship in Washington, and in 1885 Mr. Cleveland appointed him consul to Dunfermline, Scotland. He filled the office for nearly five years and in 1893 Mr. Cleveland sent him as consul to Cork. He remained there about a year after Mr. Cleveland retired from the presidency.

At Anniston Next.

Anniston was decided upon as the convention city for the seventy-fourth annual session of the Episcopalian council and May 9 as the date.

Grace church, of Anniston, made the council a proposition to turn over to them the Noble institute, provided they would endow same with $50,000, with the understanding that same should be used as a state school for young ladies. Quite a discussion ensued, after which it was decided to try to raise $1,000 by the first of January, this amount to be expended in making an effort in getting the $50,000.

Fatally Injured.

R. L. Martin, a young white man, fell from a Western of Alabama railway train and sustained injuries which will prove fatal.

LATER—R. L. Martin, the young man who was run over by the Western of Alabama train and thought to be fatally injured, has a chance for his life. The injury was a frightful one, the left leg being crushed so that the surgeons upon reaching the wounded man clipped the leg from the body with a pair of scissors. He may after all pull through, though the doctors will not hold out any encouragement.

Paint Mills Burned.

Fire destroyed the Birmingham paint mills, the stock of that company and partially the building and plant of Beatty Bros., machinists, Sunday afternoon in Birmingham. The total loss, it is estimated, will be more than $55,000, with about $39,000 insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown, but the entire building filled with paints, varnishes and other combustibles was completely enveloped in flames five minutes after the fire started.

Peculiar Accident.

Herman, the 8-year-old son of John Wagnon, of East Gadsden, happened to a peculiar and painful accident while driving the cows home. Boy-like he had hold of the cow's tail when the cow made a run for home with the boy holding on. He was thrown against a rail fence and one end of a fence rail stuck into his left thigh. He was thrown with such force as to drive the end of the rail into the flesh to the bone.

Accidentally Shot.

J. Wolse, a young white man of 20, was accidentally shot near Cardiff while hunting. The bullet circled around the brain inside the skull. Half of the bullet was found inside the head, while the other piece came out nearly opposite where it entered. It is almost impossible for him to recover.

Secretary of State E. R. McDavid has appointed Harry Shorter, of Eufaula, to be deputy insurance commissioner, and reappointed A. C. Sexton private secretary to the secretary of state.

Arrangements are being made by the Huntsville chapter Daughters of the Confederacy, for the erection of a monument to the memory of Confederate soldiers. More than $2,000 has been secured for the purpose by the concentrated efforts of the ladies during the past two or three years, and a contract for the monument will be let at an early date.

Struck the Tank.

At Tuscaloosa, while trying to steal a ride, Oliver Martin was struck by the water tank which rendered him unconscious for a long while. So severe was the blow that Martin's skull was fractured, but it is thought that he will recover.

It cost B. B. Comer $10,522.80 to be nominated for the presidency of the Alabama railroad commission, $3,232.25 being for stamps. John V. Smith spent $3,357. O. W. Underwood spent $160 to be nominated for congress.

It has been definitely decided not to hold a state fair in Montgomery this fall.

The Japanese are not spending more than is absolutely necessary. Related families who have occupied two houses are closing one and two families enter one house. No one is putting money into repairs, etc. To such an extent is economy practiced that it seems to threaten productive industry and bring trouble upon the laboring classes.

The treasury surplus, which was $54,000,000 at the beginning of the fiscal year was on Friday wiped out and a deficit left of $132,259. The total expenditures since July 1 have been $460,000,000.

New Southern Industries.

ALABAMA.

Anniston—Broom factory.
Birmingham—Machine shops.
Decatur—Lumber company.
Gadsden—Furnace; $12,000 stave and heading mill.
Talladega—$100,000 phosphate and guano factory.

FLORIDA.

Jacksonville—$100,000 fertilizer factory.
Tallahassee—$300,000 land and turpentine company.

GEORGIA.

Atlanta—Foundry and machine shops.
Augusta—Oil company.
Cuthbert—Ice factory.
Pendergrass—$15,000 oil mill.
Pooler—$15,000 brick works.
Savannah—$100,000 investment company.
Statesboro—Electric light plant.
Thomson—$25,000 water works and electric light plant.
Turnerville—Saw mill.
Waycross—Planing mill; variety works.

LOUISIANA.

Abbeville—Rice mill.
Mansfield—$50,000 oil mill.
Maringouin—$6,000 cotton gin.
Welsh—Oil company.
Whitecastle—Woodworking plant.

MISSISSIPPI.

Clarksdale—$10,000 cold storage plant.
Hattiesburg—$50,000 cracker factory.
Laurel—Telephone system.

TENNESSEE.

Dickson—$5,000 brick works.
Edgewood—Brick works.
Huntington—$6,000 tobacco factory.
Springfield—$35,000 water works and electric light plant.

Will Ply the Coosa.

Captain E. G. Lafollette has organized the Coosa River Transportation Company, and will commence at once the active construction of a boat to ply the Coosa river in the interest of Gadsden. The boat will be modern and substantial and will be one hundred and twenty-five feet long with a twenty-six foot beam. The company owns now ten barges. The boat will be run by a one-hundred and fifty horse power engine and an eighteen-foot wheel. It will take four months to complete the work and it will be ready for the fall trade.

New Iron Making Method.

Tests are being made in the Birmingham district with fluorine, a refined product of fluorspar found in the district. This product has been recently made and tried in other places, and is proving successful. It is estimated that two pounds of fluorine will remove all but the merest trace of sulphur and phosphorous from a ton of iron.

Moving to Anniston.

Preparations have been completed for the removal of the Union Glass factory from Anderson, Ind., to Anniston, Ala. One hundred glass blowers and their families will go with the factory.

Bradstreets says: Crop preparations and planting has made good progress, the present outlook being that while the winter wheat crop will be short, the acreage in spring wheat, oats and corn will be heavily increased. The formal dissolution of the Lake Ore association was an unsettling feature in the iron trade. The iron trade is quieter with prices distinctly weaker.

A strike of the linemen who were putting up the trolley wires has brought the work on the electric car line between Florence, Sheffield and Tuscumbia to a standstill and deferred the date for the operation of the line indefinitely.

The contracts for two steel bridges near Columbus, Ga., have been let to the Southern Bridge Company, of Birmingham, Ala., for $7,371 cash.

At Selma four large buildings are being completed—the Elks' home, the Carnegie library, the city hall and the first Baptist church. The latter is the only stone building in the city.

Oil has been struck at Jamestown, Tenn. The well flows 500 barrels an hour.

A paper mill is to be established at Huntsville.

According to the census bureau the boll weevil destroyed 739,360 bales, worth $49,272,989, but the insect left untouched in Texas 2,650,000 bales, and for these bales she received 3 additional cents per pound, or fifteen dollars a bale. In the entire country the result was still better, assuming that the boll weevil added 3 cents a pound to the crop. The south's net gain from the boll weevil totals $100,727,011.

The Pennsylvania system is seeking a rail that will last longer than the Bessemer product. A test is to be made of the manganese steel rail.

A jail delivery at Gadsden was narrowly averted Saturday night.

Demand for press seats at the two national conventions far exceeds the capacity of the space set apart for the newspapers of the country. At the Chicago convention 290 seats were set apart in the press reservation, and already there have been received 1,300 applications.

For those people who are interested in making away with boll weevils it may be stated that paris green is an effective remedy when sprinkled on the cotton plants.

Admissions to the world's fair from the second to the seventh days were 137,708.

A World's Record.

Good records were made by the Iowa's guns in the annual target practice just completed at Pensacola. The Iowa's 12-inch guns made 42 shots and 34 hits. One 12-inch made 11 shots and 11 hits. This equals the record made by the British ship Ocean in 1902, when she broke the world's record, and in the case of the Iowa the record is all the more creditable because her guns are of an old type.

Owing to some misunderstandings between the Tennessee company and the Alabama Steel and Wire company, the rod mill did not resume operations as was expected.

The coal tar colors on the market in 1894 numbered 454 distinct compounds. A new survey enumerates 695 products, the actual number of new dyes being 330, as 59 have been dropped from the list as obsolete.

The treasury department... rant for $50,874 in favor ... of Texas, that being the ... propriated at the last ... gress for the state for ... curred in maintaining a ... ment in Greer county, ... is now a part of Oklaho...

At Progresso, Yucatan ... been raided by the police ... tured two Americans by ... Ford and Williams, who ... manufacturing counterfeit ... large quantity of mate... in one room, where ope... been in full activity.

Chicago reports an ave... violent deaths per month.

The Declaration of ... containing 7,800 letters, ... duced by photography to ... size of a pin head, and ... through a microscope ... distinctly.

Just Before You Ge... Hurt Buy a Bottle

Tallassee, Ala., May 30, 1903.
We have used Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic in our families and our stock for several years and have to say it is the best we ever tried for Wounds, Burns, etc.
We use nothing else as a remedy for Colic in our horses and mules, and it has never failed.
C. P. WOODALL.
W. W. WOODALL.

Pine Grove, Ala., Aug...
I have used and sold D... Antiseptic for more than ... the best thing I have ... healing cuts, burns or ... Wounds and for Nau... era Morbus and Flux ... better. Everybody is ... it.
R...

Buena Vista, Ala., June 6, 1903.
I sell and use Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic. My customers are pleased with it and I like it so well that I always keep it in my house, ready for use when needed at any time.
J. J. FINKLEA.

Andalusia, Ala., Ap...
I consider Dr. Tichen... an indispensable family ... is superior to anything ... for healing Cuts, Bruise... any kind of Wounds and ... vise its use in such case...
B. H. ZE...
Prop. D...

50 cents and 50 cents by all drug-gists.

A most complet...

Stock of General Mer... dise, Dress Goods,

The Millinery Department

Is complete in every detail and is ... of a first-class milliner, Miss Cla... of St. Louis

P. D. WILS...

CLANTON, ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN POULTRY Y...

WE have as goo... CHICK... as there are in the ... Barred Plymouth ...
And you may have ... fresh eggs for 50c. ... want them shipp... add 10c for packing.
Give us a trial and we c...

MRS. W. ...
Maplesville.

We Have Perfected Arrangements Wh... That Practical and Instructive News...

THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER

Known throughout the State of ... bama for the full line of State ... contained in each issue, will be ... nished in connection with Our ... lication at a Remarkably Low ...

Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Financial Page. Best State News.

For Village, Suburban Residents, and in fact for ... ly engaged in agricultural pursuits, or family ... Weekly Advertiser will be found well nigh indis... It is pure, bright and practical all the way thr... meets the requirements of the entire family. It ... throughout the South, and no one should be ...

Our Great Special Offe...

The Weekly Union one year ...
Weekly Advertiser one year ...

Both for $1.25.

TH...

L. II.

FFORD WORK

ew Industries Will ed Operators.

ALABAMA.

...m—$100,000 iron working ...
...—Canning factory.
...0,000 construction compa...
...contracting company.
...ment works.
...000 oil mill.

GEORGIA.

...Harness factory.
...—Fertilizer factory.
...50,000 woolen mill.
...—Fertilizer factory.
...10,000 development com...

...le—$25,000 oil mill.

...OUISIANA.

...ns—Chemical plant; steel ...facturing plant; develop...y; soap factory.

...MISSISSIPPI.

...—$10,000 water works.
...—Gas works.
...—$30,000 furniture fac...
...Machine works.
...$50,000 lumber company.
...—$60,000 compress and oil ...
...0,000 hardware company.
...$20,000 ladder company.
...y—Clothing factory.
...—$100,000 hardware com...
...ure factory.

...TENNESSEE.

...—Saw mill.
...ve mill.
...Lime works.
...Casket factory; furniture ...
...$15,000 electric company; ...working plant.

...o New Orleans.

...ly a year of negotiation ...uld, on behalf of the St. ...n Mountain and the Tex...ic railroads, and B. F. ...behalf of the Rock Island-...n, have signed a contract ... Rock Island-Frisco sys... access to New Orleans ...over the Gould system ...is Central. The contract ...ety-nine years.

...leans the Frisco and the ...lway will jointly occupy ... which will cost approxi...0,000. Rock Island-Fris... begin running into New ...e Mississippi River route ...905.

...Iron Company of Attalla ...e charcoal ovens in Gads... to the Southern Car ... Company, some fifty in ... will operate them. The ... purchased a lot of wood ...okee Logging Company, ...m, and will bring it down ...he furnace of the com...ia has been idle for some ... will soon be started up ...

...ndustry in Porto Rico is ...pping. The exports in ...,000 short tons, in 1902 ... 1903 117,000. It is ex...is development will con...ue until all the land in ...table for cane production ...er cultivation and in Por... would take about the ...and perhaps increase the ... 400,000 or 500,000 tons.

...tes Consul Henry W. ...emen, Germany, reports ...n that the production of ...n the world will be in... 150,000 tons, but that if ...al happens the world's ...ill increase about 500,... further, that in Europe ... that there will be 308,... ...es planted in beets than ...

...l is to be established at ...

...day's session of the for... ...ention of Southern Bap...e memorable by contri...uting $52,991 to the en... for the theological sem...ville.

...al Albert Sewall Kenny, ...rly paymaster general of ... been selected as treas... Panama canal commis...

...or Menelik of Abyssinia ...band of his wife, Taitu, ...e a great beauty. Her ...was one of King Theo..., her second she divorc...as killed by King John, ... "removed," and in 1883 ...Menelik.

...Barton has resigned the ... the Red Cross Society ...ed by Mrs. John A. Lo...

...span of telegraph wire ...s six thousand feet in ...s over the River Keit...

...l erect a temple in New ...

The Jame... at Hampton ... rating the fi... tlement in ... exposition in ... have a prom... pany known ... ment and ... America, wh... negroes, has ... laws of Virg... undertaken ... at the Jame... the world h... now pending ... company $2... due negro cl... civil war, an... er been pres...

Me...

The Meth... It is said, ... work six of i... are Edward ... den, of Cin... of Zurich, ... Mallalieu, of ... Philadelphia ... (by request) ... ference with ... ing from the ... and Hurst du... makes neces... bishops by t...

Boys We...

A boy's sh... a girl's, acc... the Essex co... ark, N. J. Th... ley accident ... pupils were ... were tried ... knowledged ... was asked s... damages to ... only testimo... the character ... estimated fu... each.

One Hundred...

According ... war departme... for the appo... civilians to ... tenant in the ... There are 18... 124 to be fille... at West Poin... cept fifteen ... ready passed ...

Secretary ... ators Hale, ... Representativ... and Dalzell ... the dispatch ... on an inspec... station at Gu... welcomed by ... Mallory, a p... citizens. The ... bile, where a ... and from the ... Vicksburg.

John W. M... ty, makes th... youngest con... Mr. Mayhall ... younger than ... claims this di... fourteen year... en days he en...

A witness ... mission, spea... ers of preser... cent of the "... ed States are ... glucose and ... Jellies, he sa... all.

W. F. Kin... the Canadian ... arrangements ... Alaskan boun... bunal award, ... ed States Co... party expects ... June.

The New ... Foo with Rea...

Grand Duke ... as a result of ... battleship ... stroyed.

New Zealan... continue to ... tial tariff.

... Sir H. M. ... Admiral ...

Captain ... gaged ... ...ial plans for ... ...ing power ... with his adm... fairs.

f's Record.

ere made by the annual target prac- d at Pensacola. The s made 42 shots and inch made 11 shots s equals the record tish ship Ocean in oke the world's rec- ase of the Iowa the more creditable be- of an old type.

misunderstandings ssee company and l and Wire comps- did not resume op- xpected.

rs on the market 454 distinct com- ervoy enumerates actual number of 59 have been ist as obsolete

The treasury department rant for $50,874 in favor of of Texas, that being the propriated at the last ses- gress for the state for curred in maintaining a ment in Greer county. is now a part of Oklahoma.

At Progresso, Yucatan, a been raided by the police, tured two Americans by the Ford and Williams, who manufacturing counterfeit large quantity of material in one room, where opera- been in full activity.

Chicago reports an aver violent deaths per month.

The Declaration of Ind containing 7,800 letters, duced by photography to a size of a pin head, and through a microscope can distinctly.

t Before You Ge
urt Buy a Bottle

May 30, 1903. Tichenor's Anti- and our stock and have to say it ed for Wounds, Pine Grove, Ala., August I have used and sold Dr. Antiseptic for more than a the best thing I have ever healing cuts, burns or an Wounds and for Nausea, era Morbus and Flux there better. Everybody is deli R. H

P. WOODALL S. WOODALL

Andalusia, Ala., April I consider Dr. Tichenor's an indispensable family m is superior to anything we for healing Cuts, Bruises, any kind of Wounds and I vise its use in such cases. B. H. ZE Prop. Din

Ala., June 6, 1903. Dr. Tichenor's Anti- are pleased it so well that I my house, ready for at any time. J. J. FINKLEA cents and 50 cents by all drug gists.

ost complete
Stock of General Mer
dise, Dress Goods,
Millinery
tment
is complete in every detail and is k of a first-class milliner, Miss Clar of St. Louis
P. D. WILS
ALABAMA.

LAWN POULTRY YA

WE have as good CHICK as there are in the Barred Plymouth And you may have fresh eggs for 50c. want them shippe add 10c for packing. Give us a trial and we can
MRS. W. M Maplesville,

ve Perfected Arrangements Whe Practical and Instructive Newsp
THE WEEKLY
ADVERTISER
throughout the State of for the full line of State ned in each issue, will be d in connection with Our n at a RemarKably Low Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Finan cial Page. Best State News.
ge, Suburban Residents, and in fact for a ed in agricultural pursuits, or family Advertiser will be found well nigh indis , bright and practical all the way thro requirements of the entire family. It is out the South, and no one should be w
Our Great Special Offer
Weekly Union one year - ly Advertiser one year -
Both for $1.25.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA. MAY 19. 1904. NO. 8.

AFFORD WORK

New Industries Will ed Operators.

ALABAMA.
—$100,000 iron working
—Canning factory.
,000 construction compa- contracting company. ment works. ,000 oil mill.

GEORGIA.
—Harness factory. —Fertilizer factory. $50,000 woolen mill. —Fertilizer factory. $10,000 development comille—$25,000 oil mill.

LOUISIANA.
ans—Chemical plant; steel facturing plant; develop- ny; soap factory.

MISSISSIPPI.
—$10,000 water works. —Gas works. —$30,000 furniture fac-
—Machine works. —$50,000 lumber company. —$60,000 compress and oil 30,000 hardware company. —$20,000 ladder company. ny Clothing factory. t—$100,000 hardware com- ture factory.

TENNESSEE.
le—Saw mill. ave mill. Lime works. Casket factory; furniture —$15,000 electric company; working plant.

to New Orleans.

rly a year of negotiation ould, on behalf of the St. on Mountain and the Tex- ific railroads, and B. F. behalf of the Rock Island- n, have signed a contract e Rock Island-Frisco sys- n access to New Orleans over the Gould system ois Central. The contract nety-nine years. rleans the Frisco and the ilway will jointly occupy s which will cost approxi- 00,000. Rock Island-Fris- ll begin running into New he Mississippi River route 1905.

Iron Company of Attalla e charcoal ovens in Gads- g to the Southern Car Company, some fifty in will operate them. The purchased a lot of wood erokee Logging Company, en, and will bring it down The furnace of the com- lla has been idle for some will soon be started up industry in Porto Rico is loping. The exports in 0,000 short tons, in 1902 n 1903 117,000. It is ex- this development will con- ease until all the land in itable for cane production der cultivation and in Por would take about the and perhaps increase the 0 400,000 or 500,000 tons.

tates Consul Henry W. remen, Germany, reports ion that the production of n the world will be in- t 150,000 tons, but that if ual happens the world's will increase about 500,- further, that in Europe d that there will be 308,- res planted in beets than ill is to be established at d day's session of the for- vention of Southern Bap- de memorable by contri- egating $52,991 to the en- d for the theological sem- sville.

ral Albert Sewall Kenny, erly paymaster general of s been selected as treas- Panama canal commisor Menelik of Abyssinia sband of his wife, Taitu, e a great beauty. Her was one of King Theo- ls. In a second she divorc- was killed by King John, s "removed," and in 1883 Men- II.

Bur has resigned the The Red Cross Society ded by Mrs. John A. Lo-span of telegraph wire le six thousand feet in ers over the River Kelt-ay erect a temple in New

A $2,000,000 Bill.

The Jamestown exposition to be held at Hampton Roads in 1907, commemorating the first permanent English settlement in America will be the first exposition in which the negro will have a prominent part. A stock company known as the Negro Development and Exposition Company of America, whose entire membership is negroes, has been organized under the laws of Virginia. This company has undertaken to have a negro exhibition at the Jamestown exposition such as the world has never seen. A bill is now pending in congress to pay to this company $2,000,000 for the bounties due negro claimants growing out of the civil war, and which claims have never been presented.

Methodist Bishops.

The Methodist general conference, it is said, retired from active church work six of its venerable bishops. They are Edward G. Andrews, John M. Walden, of Cincinnati, John H. Vincent, of Zurich, Switzerland; Willard F. Mallalieu, of Boston; Cyrus D. Foss, of Philadelphia, and Stephen M. Merrill (by request). The action of the conference with the two vacancies resulting from the deaths of Bishops Ninde and Hurst during the last quadrennium makes necessary the election of eight bishops by the present conference.

Boys Worth More Than Girls.

A boy'sh life is twice as valuable as a girl's, according to a decision of the Essex county circuit court at Newark, N. J. The suits grew out of a trolley accident in which nine high school pupils were killed. When the cases were tried the trolley company acknowledged its liability, and the jury was asked simply to fix the amount of damages to be paid in each case, the only testimony taken being to show the character of the deceased and the estimated future earning capacity of each.

One Hundred and Eighty Second Lieutenants.

According to figures prepared at the war department there will be a chance for the appointment of about fifteen civilians to the rank of second lieutenant in the regular army this year. There are 180 vacancies in the grade, 124 to be filled by the graduating class at West Point, and the remainder, except fifteen from those who have already passed their examinations.

Secretary of the Navy Moody, Senators Hale, Bacon and Penrose and Representatives Hemenway, Meyer and Dalzell arrived at Pensacola on the dispatch boat Dolphin, having been on an inspection tour of the coaling station at Guantanamo. They were welcomed by United States Senator Mallory, a party of thirty prominent citizens. The Dolphin will go to Mobile, where a few hours will be spent, and from there to New Orleans and Vicksburg.

John W. Mayhall, of Marshall county, makes the claim that he is the youngest confederate veteran living. Mr. Mayhall is about fifteen months younger than any other person who claims this distinction. At the age of fourteen years, four months and seven days he enlisted.

A witness before the pure food commission, speaking for the manufacturers of preserves, claimed that 60 per cent of the "jellies" made in the United States are imitations composed of glucose and coloring matter. Some jellies, he said, contained no fruit at all.

W. F. King, chief astronomer for the Canadian government, is making arrangements for the survey of the Alaskan boundary according to the tribunal award, in conjunction with United States Commissioner Tillman. The party expects to begin the survey in June.

The New Orleans arrived at Che Foo with Rear Admiral Stirling.

Grand Duke Cyril is a physical wreck as a result of his experience when the battleship Petropavlovsk was destroyed.

New Zealand's imports from England continue to decrease, despite preferential tariff.

Decision has been made not to bury Sir H. M. Stanley in Westminster Abbey.

Captain Nash, of the Royal Engineers, is in Ottawa, Canada, preparing plans for new fortifications, some of which will be along the American border.

St. Petersburg reports that the Czar may go to the front.

By the explosion of a balloon which, in descending in Paris, touched the side of a house, sheets of flame were driven into a window of the dwelling and eight occupants were burned or otherwise injured.

The Russian General Staff expects a decisive battle in Manchuria within six weeks, the rainy season being due at the end of that time.

Count Von Bulow, according to a special cable dispatch from Berlin, is losing power owing to public discontent with his administration of imperial affairs.

UNIVERSITY SUES

For Timber Cut from Land Which it Claims.

Eighteen suits have been filed by the trustees of the University of Alabama for $43,000 cash damages and for land valued at $200,000, claimed to be the property of the university.

The suits involve a number of prominent men and land holders in the vicinity of Bessemer. The largest single suits are for $20,000 against the Krebs Manufacturing Company and Francis M. Hogg. It is claimed that the defendants to each of these suits converted to their own use quantities of timber estimated in each case at 1,750,000 feet of lumber and 2,000 crossties. It is alleged that defendants are practically squatters on university lands and do not hold valid title to them.

COTTON WAREHOUSE BURNED.

One Hundred and Thirty-five Bales of the Staple Damaged.

A fire of unknown origin practically destroyed the warehouse occupied by the Birmingham Cotton Storage and Commission Co. When the department reached the scene the building was filled with flames and the roof was ready to fall in.

The building was the property of the Birmingham Warehouse and Transfer Company. It was erected about one year ago and cost about $7,000. It was insured for $4,000. In the building were stored many bales of cotton and a great quantity of machinery and merchandise. About 135 bales of cotton were more or less damaged. The cotton was valued at $8,000.

State Can Not Help Vulcan.

An effort to have the state appropriate $5,000 to apply on the payment for Vulcan, the big iron man, has failed. Acting Governor Cunningham has decided that the law does not afford any opportunity to expend this amount of money in such a cause. The governor has found, though, that there may be appropriated from the funds of the commissioner of agriculture and industries as much as $500 per month for the expenses of exhibiting at "international and state expositions," but at no time must this exceed $500 in any one month.

The Cost of Office.

The total expenses of all the candidates for state, district and circuit offices at the democratic primary of April 12th was $62,602.77.

Among the successful candidates B. B. Comer, for president of the railroad commission, spent the most, $10,522.80, and E. B. Altman and A. A. Evans, candidates for the judgeship in the 11th and 3d circuits, the least, $35.

Among the unsuccessful candidates, Captain Hobson spent $4,429.04 in his campaign, while W. H. Sawtell risked $5.25 on the eleventh circuit solicitorship.

May Not Get School Funds.

Some of the counties in the state stand a chance to lose out on school appropriations for next year. Several have made no provision this year to take a school census because the appropriation to pay for such work is only $2 per day. If this census is not taken, however, there will be no basis of estimate for appropriation when the state board meets on next August, and those delinquent may find theemselves minus the money to run the schools next year.

M. K. Clements, for eleven years president of the North Alabama Agricultural school at Athens, tendered his resignation to the board of trustees, though he had three years more to serve under his term of office.

A Suspect.

Frank Barber, a well known character about Ripley, is suspected of being implicated in the killing of Julius Wadnick, who was shot to death near that place Wednesday. A note book said to belong to Barber was found near the scene of the crime and there were blood stains upon it. Efforts are being made to locate him.

Half Way Out.

Another attempt was made last Friday night to saw out of the Montgomery jail. William McCormack, white, of Akron, Ohio, sentenced to five years for burglary, was caught in the act of sawing his way to liberty. The bar was sawed half way through. He was in the same cell with J. E. Russell, who has twice attempted to saw his way out. The saw was found.

The general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church will convene in Mobile Thursday, May 19, and remain in session ten days. Delegates are expected from all the Southern states.

JAPANESE CRUISER TORPEDOED

By Young Russian Officer with Squad in a Steam Launch.

A small naphtha launch in command of a young Russian naval officer, who had with him three jackies, placed a torpedo against a Japanese cruiser, blowing it up.

When darkness fell the launch crept out of Port Arthur, hugging the shore with no lights aboard, and no glow from the engines to betray her presence. Slipping through the torpedo boat pickets and selecting the nearest warship, a big armored cruiser, she stole toward her and succeeded in exploding against her side a single torpedo.

A correspondent says the general staff considers the blockade of Port Arthur as unimportant. The correspondent adds that he is informed that the railroad has been destroyed since May 14th over a distance of twenty-eight miles. General Kuropatkin, he declares, seems more confident, though it appears that he still has a serious difference with Viceroy Alexieff, who has complained in a telegram to the emperor which did not pass through the hands of the military censorship, that Kuropatkin does not heed his orders or advice. It is the general desire that Kuropatkin shall be the sole head of military operations.

The Japanese government has recently bought 250 American-made freight cars to be put in service on the Kobe railway. The order for the freight cars to be put in service on the Kobe railway. The order for the freight cars followed closely the rush order for the locomotives recently shipped by the Boldwin people.

The Japanese propose, it is stated, to drive General Kuropatkin's forces into Mongolia, which would place the Russians in the position of invaders of neutral territory, and enable reprisals by General Ma's army, which it is asserted is kept in that region for that special object.

The Russians on May 11 apprehending the presence of a Japanese squadron meant an attempt to capture Dalny, blew up the piers and quietly evacuated the place.

The Japanese officers shot as spies bequeathed $500 to the Russian Red Cross in consideration of their kind treatment.

It is reported that the Japanese are planning a great assault on Port Arthur.

Two Killed.

In a fight at a railroad camp near Copper Ridge tunnel, on the Knoxville, LaFollette and Jellico railroad, Night Walking Boss Andy Johnson, of Harriman, Tenn., was shot and fatally wounded by George Earl, an Alabama negro employed on the works.

Earl was in turn shot and instantly killed by Deputy Sheriff Estis. Earl is said to have fled from Alabama following the commission of a murder.

A Longer Course.

The present session of the Gadsden public schools will end this week. There will be no graduating class this year because of the addition of another grade by the board of education.

The United States civil service commission announces that on June 22 an examination will be held to secure eligibles from which to make certification to fill several vacancies in the position of bookkeeper in the Philippine service at $1,200 per annum and other similar vacancies as they may occur in that service. The age limit is 18 to 40 years.

An experiment in soil bacteria is being made by W. M. Campbell, a planter near Florence, which may prove of value to the section. He has made a study of bacteria infection of soil for various crops and decided to make a test on an acre of cow peas.

Driscoll, the Montgomery safeblower, was given twenty years.

Preparations are being made for the teachers' institute of Jackson county to be held at Bridgeport May 24-25. An elaborate program has been arranged by County Superintendent Bridges, and a large number of teachers are expected.

Harrison, the 13-year-old son of Mayor Atkins, of Selma, accidentally shot himself Saturday.

The city council of Huntsville is urging the Southern and the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railways to construct a modern union passenger station in that city. The railroads are considering the matter.

The Sophomore declamation contest for the C. H. Thomas medal, which took place Friday night was creditable. The prize was awarded to Edward Kirby Chambers, of Eutaw.

The hotely at Lay Spring, ten miles above Gadsden, is nearing completion. The building will contain some thirty rooms and will be ready for guests by the 1st of June.

Twenty-two new cottages are being erected in Alabama City.

THORSBY.

I notice in last week's banner that they seem to think they have X-rays hid on a pole concerning Bibb county affairs. I admit I was a little off concerning that "Temple of Justice" for which I ask pardon for not being up to date in that matter. But, Mr. Pratt need not have used such harsh terms as "base lie" lest he be caught by the same measure, as will appear from the following letter, which speaks for itself:

"Randolph, Ala., April 22, 1904.

"Hon. * * * *

"Thorsby, Ala.

"Dear Sir and Brother:

"In answer to yours of the 18th inst. I will say that the actual cost of the court house was $46,672. This includes cost of clock at $800, also C. H. furniture, $2,100. It was built by issuing bonds by commissioners' court, WITHOUT consent of the people. It might have been built for $30,000 had it been let to lowest responsible bidder, but this was not done, and while it is a splendid building and the people would feel proud of it had it been built on an economical place; but it has cost at least $16,000 more than it should. I hope the above is the information asked for and will say further that I had the honor to be the chairman of the committee to examine the books for the grand jury last fall term, and found the above to be the actual cost of court house, furniture, etc. If the above will be of interest to you, I assure you it is cheerfully furnished. I am as ever your old friend,

"B. V. WASHBURN."

Now, in comparing the statements of these two gentlemen, you will observe considerable discrepancy in figures, also Mr. Pratt tells us "there is no bonded debt," etc. Now, Mr. Pratt, where and how did you get the money to make such a grand display? And you say it is all to be paid up within eight years, and yet you owe no bonds, have a full treasury, etc. Now don't those statements appear a little mixed? Again, you tell us that about all your county officials are ex-populists. Yes, we understand that some of you fellows by dickering with the demmies got yourselves some mighty good jobs, and you say the people are satisfied. I guess you mean you fellows who hold the jobs, of course. And how about that private letting of the contract to build your "temple of justice?" Don't you reckon somebody got a considerable rake off to put feathers in the nest? Now, we have some ex-pops over this way who have been trying to run the same sort of game with the demmies that you fellows have played and they are making mighty poor headway, and while you very generously offer to pay my way over to our place, I say, ah, thank you, but I don't think the information would be very reliable unless it tallies better than your figures in your Billingsley letter, besides you had better keep your "dough" to pay your own way over here so as to help out your friends, the ex-pops, who are running on their merits. But they have so little that it seems they will run short before election day. Now, I will say in conclusion that while we admit being off in some of my former statements for want of correct data, I feel richly repaid by the state of affairs which this correspondence has brought to light; that while it is true that you have steel bridges, road machines and a new "temple of justice," yet there stands out an enormous debt, and the report of the state examiner has express allusion to this fact, together with the fearfully low rate of assessments, etc., which facts Mr. Pratt never mentions. Now, what sort of howl, think you, would come from Jericho did such a state of affairs in Chilton county exist under populist rule? One more point and I am done. Why do those fellows who are after my hide not say something about my charges as to former conditions in this county, a thing over which Judge Adams used to swell, when he was telling the people how disastrous it would be to again give the democrats control until he would almost "bust his income?" Yet, what ex-pops do may be all right, but as for "me and mine," if we are to have democrats, let us have the pure breed, those who are so from principle.

X-RAY.

News has been received from Artesia, Miss., announcing the death of Jack Summersell, an engineer on the Mobile and Ohio, who formerly resided in Tuscaloosa.

The board of directors of the Selma National bank elected E. Carlisle Melvin, of Selma, president to succeed John Carraway, who tendered his resignation.

Captain William B. Craig, of the Abbott Rifles, Selma, tendered his resignation as the commanding officer of that company.

Over one-half the sugar product of the world is extracted from beets.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

A. C. Smith. J. O. Middleton.
Smith & Middleton,
Attorneys-at-Law.
Practice in All Courts.
Office 4th St., Opposite Court House
CLANTON.

Physicians.

Dr. V. O. Campbelle,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office over Roper's Store.
CLANTON.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins,
Physician and Surgeon,
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office with Hopkins Drug Co.
CLANTON.

W. F. Middleton, M.D.,
Phsician and Surgeon,
CLANTON.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

Dentists.

Dr. A. B. Horn,
Dentist.
Office over Strock's Store.
CLANTON.

Office Days in the Following Towns.

Jemison—Wednesday and Thursday before the 2nd Sunday.

Thorsby—Wednesday and Thursday before the 3d Sunday Dr. Stabler's Office

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 8 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m. CLANTON

Louisville & Nashville RAILROAD.

THE DIRECT LINE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST, NORTH AND NORTHWEST.

In Effect November 1, 1903.

No. 9 D'ly Ex't S'day A M	No. 3 D'ly P M	Read Down Leave	Read Up Ar.	No. 2 D'ly P M	No. 10 D'ly Ex't S'day P M
6 10	3 20	Birmingham	12 10	7 15
6 53	4 19	Helena	11 30	6 34
7 32	5 01	Calera	10 46	5 50
7 56	5 28	Jemison	10 24	5 28
8 05	5 37	Thorsby	10 16	5 15
8 11	5 44	Lomax	10 10	5 08
8 19	5 51	CLANTON	10 02	5 01
8 32	6 05	Cooper	9 45	4 47
8 37	6 11	Verbena	9 39	4 41
8 44	6 19	Mt. Creek	9 30	4 30
9 24	6 51	Elmore	8 51	3 56
9 50	7 25	Montgomery	8 25	3 30

Drawing Room, Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars.

For rates and further information address G. Higgins, agent L. and N. R. R., Clanton, Ala.

B. A. THOMAS
THE WHITE BARBER
Razor Honing a Specialty
CLANTON, - ALABAMA

FOR SALE.

760 acres of land, partly improved; also two sets mill rocks and fixtures. Alfred Popwell, Clanton, Alabama.

THEY ARE SIXTY-SEVEN.

I met a little Mormon girl;
Just eighteen, she said,
She was, and was dressed with one big curl
Her back dangled from her head.
Th

She had a simple way, and bland;
Her speech was soft and cool,
And in her honest, widespread hand
She bore a milking stool.

"How many children, little maid,
Are in your family?"
"How many? Sixty-seven," she said,
And shyly looked at me.

Her hazel eyes to mine she raised,
And then she cast them down.
"I did not ask," I said, amazed,
"The census of your town.

"How many children 'round your door Disport in childish glee?"
"Just sixty-seven," she said, once more,
And smiled again at me.

"Forty of us at Provo dwell;
At Ogden there are nine;
The good ship Jane, they sail her well—
Twelve brothers, dear, of mine."

"I see at last. Your meaning's clear,"
Said I, with laughter merry;
"Is it an orphanage, my dear,
Or a female seminary?"

"My father kind is drawing near,"
The little maid replied;
"He's been to roam; he's bringing home
Another brand new bride.

"With father dear we dwell at peace;
Our mothers are eleven;
'Round every door there's room for more
And we are sixty-seven."

And then I left in dumb dismay
The maid with eyes like heaven;
But as I left I heard her say,
"And I'm the oldest, by the way,
Of all the sixty-seven."

(Council Bluffs (Iowa) Nonpareil.

While Breakfast Waited.

By Otho B. Senga.

They sat at the extreme ends of the garden seat. The man glared resentfully at the girl; the girl gazed serenely off into the distance.

"Isn't this a deuce of an awkward position?" he began, moodily.

"Pardon me, I am sitting as gracefully as I know how."

"It isn't that—you know what I mean—you know what is expected of us."

"I could hardly help knowing," wearily. "I've heard nothing else for the last six years."

"That's right; we may as well be perfectly honest. No one need be surprised if I say I've hated you all that time, even though I haven't seen you."

"Well, I haven't loved you," tartly.

"No, I suppose not; I dare say it has been as bad for you as for me."

"Oh, worse; infinitely worse!"

"I don't know why worse—" defensively.

"Oh, everything is always worse for a woman. A girl always has her ideals—"

"And, I don't in the least correspond—" tentatively, with evident anxiety.

"Not in the least," promptly.

"What is the matter with me, I'd like to know?" slightly aggressive.

"Well, since you'd 'like to know,' you are too conceited."

"Conceited? Me? Well, I like that! You're talking frank, to say the least."

"I can afford to be—I'm not trying to captivate you."

"I can readily believe that. Anything else?"

"You are not tall enough."

"I measure five feet eleven inches+" hotly.

"My ideal," calmly, "is six feet two. Then you are too fat—you don't take exercise—"

"Great Scott! Hear her!" addressing the landscape. "And I train like a prize fighter!"

"I am glad you do," patronizingly. "You would be actually obese if you didn't."

The man fairly gasped with rage.

"It was you, I believe, who suggested being perfectly honest," she remarked.

A long silence. The girl scanned the hazy blue of the New Hampshire hill; the man watched her face, noting the beauty of the curve from ear to chin, and the fine, proud poise of the head.

"Do you know," he said suddenly, "if I had met you anywhere else, not knowing you are Helene Hunter, whose lands join mine—I am sick of hearing about these lands—I should have fallen in love with you?"

"I would expect you to," indifferently.

"You would?"

"Certainly; I consider that I am well worth falling in love with."

"Oho! Nothing conceited about her, now is there?" appealing to the landscape. "And yet," continuing meditatively, "you aren't at all like the girl I've always imagined—"

"Tell me about her," imperiously.

"She is dainty and petite." Miss Hunter, being five feet nine, looked her contempt. "A most bewitching blonde." Miss Hunter's dark head moved a trifle higher. "She has the most exquisite complexion I ever saw—By the way, I wish you'd turn that parasol a little; that green lining makes you look positively ghastly."

"I know that," hastily. "That is the reason I brought it." The olive cheek flushed and the crimson lip quivered.

"But beautiful as she is personally," with increasing enthusiasm, "it is her disposition that I most admire." The parasol was slowly and cautiously lowered to the ground. "She is so sweet and patient and gentle—"

"A modern female Moses, I dare say!"

"And never indulges in sarcasm," firmly, "and is always anxious to please others— Oh, well," leaving the subject with seeming reluctance, "this will never do. It's understood that I ought to propose to you—" inquiringly.

"Of course, it is expected of you. But never mind," consolingly, "you know I am going to refuse."

"Oh, as to that," magnanimously, "you may do as you like. I'm at your mercy—"

"I'd have to refuse, after that speech," she cried passionately, "whether I wanted to or not!"

"I suppose all the members of both families will be raging," musingly, ignoring her blaze of anger. "They have planned ever since we were children. Every letter I've had from Aunt Polly has been filled with the most flattering descriptions of you. Of course, you have improved some," judicially critical, "in the last six years, Helene," suddenly, "do you remember the day you fell off the bridge at Stony Brook, and cut your head, and came so near drowning?"

"I remember," very gently. "I must have drowned but for you. And you carried me home in your arms, a full mile."

"I believe I did. And you had terribly long legs—" reminiscently.

"I've got enough to stand on now," she retorted with spirit, "which is more than you will have, with the relatives, if you don't propose pretty soon!"

"Well, I'm going to. You don't feel a bit like falling in love—" enxiously.

"Not with you. Do you feel any symptoms of anything of the kind?"

"Nary symp. Well, here goes—I suppose we may as well get the awkward job over with. Helene, Miss Hunter—ahem—ahem—"

"It must be very painful," with pretended concern. "Perhaps you had better wait a while. You know you only reached home last night. We might be forgiven if we failed to understand why we were sent out to take a walk in the garden before breakfast."

"No, it will have to be done sooner or later, and it may as well be now. Hold your parasol back of you, will you? I'm positive Aunt Polly is looking out of the south window."

"You said the lining was unbecoming—"

"And you said you didn't care—"

"Well, any woman wants to look her best when receiving a proposal. Of course, I haven't the exquisite complexion of your divinity—"

"Who said I had any divinity? I didn't. I haven't even thought of any other woman since we—while you—you with your six-feet-two ideal, your Adonis, who isn't fat—"

"Don't get excited. I can see a pair of field-glasses leveled from the vines on our north piazza, and I have no doubt Aunt Mollie is behind them."

"They've spoiled everything for us, Helene, the aunts and the uncles on both sides. If they'd let us alone, as we were six years ago; but they concocted this scheme of joining the lands—and us—and this is the result! You hate me—"

"Aunt Kitty is waving her handkerchief, Philip. We must go in. Are you going to finish that proposal or not?"

"Yes, I am," with grim determination. "Helene Hunter, will you be my wife?"

"No, I will not. There, that's done with. Aunt Molly is expecting you to breakfast with us, Phil."

"And Aunt Polly is expecting you at our house. Don't hurry, Helene. I say, Helene, it's an awful pity we couldn't like one another—"

"It does seem so," sighing and sinking back upon the seat again.

"It will be a dreadful disappointment to all these old people," regretfully. "You see, we being orphans, and owning all these lands—isn't the air sweet with the roses, Helene?—and such friends as we were in childhood, they really had a right to expect—"

"I know. Isn't it terrible? I really dread to meet Aunt Mollie and Aunt Kitty, and as for poor Uncle Charlie—"

"Uncle Ben will grieve himself sick, and Aunt Polly will be furious—"

"Heavens, yes; I'll be actually afraid to go near your house again. I won't dare let any of them know that I refused you."

"I'll tell you, Helene," soothingly, "if you think it will make matters any easier for you, you can propose to me, and I'll refuse—"

"Philip Parkhurst, you are perfectly odious!"

"Not at all," argumentatively. "It's like this: I propose to you—you refuse; you propose to me—I decline. None of the relatives can attach any blame to either of us."

"That does sound like a good plan—"

"Good! Why, it's simply great!" with enthusiasm. "Now go ahead."

"Put the parasol behind you, then. Aunt Mollie and Aunt Kitty are both on the piazza now."

"Never mind; that's only a manifestation of interest. And Aunt Polly is still gazing from the south window. However I'll take the parasol if you wish."

"Yes, do; my back is toward your Aunt Polly, but I believe the others could see what I am saying—they have the field-glasses."

The parasol is carefully adjusted.

"Is the green lining very unbecoming, Helene?"

"How absurd! As if that made any difference to a man!"

"Oh, well, on an occasion like this, you know— Now, all ready!"

"I wish you'd close your eyes, Phil. This is very embarrassing, I never proposed to any one before, you know—"

"Oh, didn't you?" innocently.

"Philip Parkhurst, how dare you!"

"Excuse me, excuse me—of course not. I was thinking of something else—"

"Right in the midst of a proposal!"

"It wasn't exactly in the midst, Helene; just on the verge, so to speak. I was wondering if it would be polite for me to refuse—er-coming from a lady, you see—I hardly know—is there any authority—"

"You are very sure you'll refuse, Phil—"

"Very sure. I wouldn't, though," opening his eyes sudenly, and speaking with force and decision, "if it weren't for that infernal bean-pole ideal of yours—"

"And I would never have refused you, only for that blonde dwarf with the amiable disposition."

"Go on, Helene," he said, chokingly.

"Close your eyes again. Now—" A long pause. "My goodness! isn't it awful? I don't believe a woman would let a man flounder around and not lend a helping hand."

"Impossible, Helene; it takes both hands to hold the parasol. Unless you'd like me to put that down—"

"No, no, don't. They are all on the piazza now— Uncle Charlie and all; and," glancing fearfully over her shoulder, "oh, Phil, your Aunt Polly is fairly flattening her nose against the south window."

A prodigious forced yawn is the only reply.

"Are you sure your eyes are tightly closed, Phil?"

"Glued, actually glued, Helene."

"Well," hesitatingly, her breath coming short and fast, "Philip Parkhurst, will you marry me?"

The parasol went flying through the air, and the man caught the girl in a quick embrace. "Sure thing, Helene! Never was so glad before in all my life!"

"Oh, don't, don't, Phil. They're all looking—"

"Of course they are; but you don't care—now we're engaged, do you, Helene?"

"Phil," reproachfully, "do you think that was fair?"

"Well, you needn't have grown up to be so bewilderingly beautiful—"

"I wanted to," laughing joyously. "I was so afraid I wouldn't be pretty when you came back.? I knew you'd think of me as you saw me last."

"Helene, you do love me, don't you?"

"A little—"

"That's enough—it'll grow; I'll see to that. Dearest, haven't you known all these years that I loved you?"

"Yes," shyly, "I knew by my own feelings."

"You adorable—"

"Don't, Phil; Aunt Kitty is ringing the bell."

"Just a second. Are you sure we're engaged?"

"Very sure, Phil dear."

"And you love me? Say it, Helene."

"And I love you, Phil."

He drew her hand through his arm, tenderly. "All right, sweetheart; now we'll have breakfast."—Woman's Home Companion.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

In Mexico the family of a dead duelist can claim support from the person who shot him.

The Ainu women in Japan tattoo their faces to give them the appearance of men with whiskers.

In the course of a murder trial at Cape Town recently the defendant, an aged Malay trader, admitted that he had 27 wives.

In the schools of Rhenish, Prussia, a change of stockings and shoes is provided for the use in school of children who arrive with wet feet.

The wives of Siamese noblemen have their hair cut in pompadour style. It is usually about one and a half inches in length and sticks up straight, like the hairs in a blacking brush.

The most expensive fur is that of the of the black fox of Kamschatka, the skin of which, when dressed, becomes a very attractive blue. A single skin is worth as much as $1000.

Ohio has come to the front with a new injunction. It was granted to a man to prevent his wife from going on a strike, and now she has got to do all the housework or be in contempt of court.

Dusseldorff newspapers announce the death of an armless painter named Siepen, who became quite noted for his genre pictures. He painted with his left foot. Many of his pictures are in England.

Cat That Summoned Maid to Open Door.

A wonderful cat attracted the attention of every one who yesterday passed up or down Eighth street on the west side between Locust and Spruce. Pussy was pure white. She was standing upon the step railing of a house which was just high enough to enable her to reach the electric button with her paw. She manipulated this so vigorously that the door was soon opened by a servant, who picked pussy up, took her in her arms, entered the house and closed the door. It was the sentiment of all who witnessed the trick that Maria, or whatever her name might be, was a bright cat.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

SOUND FRUITS SECURED BY SPRAYING.

Insects are so numerous and diseases of trees are multiplying so rapidly that they will destroy the fruit unless checked by using chemicals. About three applications of Bordeaux Mixture are necessary per year to secure sound apples, peaches and pears. Any reader of the Southern Agriculturalist can successfully use this chemical by dissolving six pounds of sulphate of copper in two gallons of warm water, and as many pounds of quick lime in a different wooden vessel, and mixing the two into a barrel containing forty gallons of water. The sulphate of copper will prevent leaf curl of the peach, leaf blight on the apple and pear, cracking of the pear and quince, and indeed all kinds of fungus troubles. It induces health in the tree, causes the fruit to be fair, and greatly improves the chances of a profitable crop. This is the formula for pear and apple trees, but it is too strong for the more tender leaf of the peach. The water must be added to the quantity to make the mixture amount to eighty gallons before using on peach trees. Every orchardist should own a sprayer to guarantee good, healthy fruit free from fungous growth.—Southern Agriculturist.

WORKED BY HAND.

It is of course always a good plan to have the garden in nice straight rows so that you can get at everything with the wheel hoe; but there are one or two exceptions. Outside of the hot-bed and the cold frames there are a few early crops which can be worked by hand in the old-fashioned way better than any other. Take for instance beets. Are you fond of beet greens? Beet greens with the young beets included, when they are getting big enough to be called beets—perhaps the size of your little finger if you have a small one—make a dish fit for a king, and the peer of all the other greens. Well, if you do like them, throw up a little bed about 3 1-2 x8 feet, high enough so that it will drain off with the first few days, and make it just as rich as it will hold. Then plant your beet seed in rows lengthwise about five inches apart and thick. Put in a few radishes if you like. These will come off early and get out of the way. If kept well weeded and scratched these beets will soon need thinning and this process can be kept up almost ad infinitum. A dozen or more messes of greens can be taken from this bed and finally leave a full stand of beets. There seems to be no end to the thinning required for such a bed.

RINGING THE PIGS.

Ringing the pigs to prevent their rooting is a necessary evil at best, and should be done in the right way both for the accomplishment of the object in view as well as to cause the pig as little suffering as possible. To make the ring stay in well, see that it takes in all of the snout gristle, but have it large enough not to cramp or bind the flesh enclosed. In a young growing animal, if not properly adjusted, the flesh will soon fill out the ring and cause a constant irritation to the flesh, sometimes causing the snout to mortify and slough off. Most rings, too, close inside the flesh.

This should not be. If this kind of ring is used take a small pair of pliers after the ring is closed in nose and turn ring gently around, till the points of ring are exposed and lap outside of flesh. Use bright new rings, free from rust, and apply few drops of turpentine to wound when ring is inserted.

HEN'S ECONOMICAL AGE.

The tendency of many chicken men is to keep hens far beyond the eco- Utah Agricultural Experiment Station Utah Agricultural Experiment Station show that two pens of brown leghorns average 175 eggs per fowl the first year, 132 tthe second, and 116 the third. The experiment station of the North Carolina Agricultural College reports, in a bulletin, as the result of elaborate and careful experiments, "that for high production, weight of eggs produced, and economy in production, pullets far outstrip hens." A single white Wyandotte hen at the Maine agricultural experiment station laid 219 eggs the first year, 162 the second and 72 the third. There is no question that young, vigorous stock is the best to keep. Hens get lazy with age, and turn their food into fat instead of eggs. Kill them off, even at a sacrifice. They are seldom worth their rations after the first moult.

KEEPING LITTLE CHICKS HEALTHY.

The first day the little chicks make their exit from the shell they will want nothing but warmth. The second day boil a fresh egg and crumble the yellow part of it for the little chirpers.

This feed can be continued about five days, then soak whole wheat bread in skimmed milk, squeezed dry and crumbled. For the next few days give fine cracked grain, principally wheat and oat meal, and seeds, fed in litter or chaff. During the day they should be given what they will eat up clean of soft food, which should be dry and crumbly. Skim milk and cottage cheese are valuable foods. To raise chickens successfully you must keep they warm, dry, clean, busy, hungry and growing.

TO DEVELOP LARGE PEACHES.

Thinning fruit upon peach trees is a necessity for obtaining large fruit. There are generally two blooms where there should be but one. The fruit is a great exhauster of the tree. Be certain to pull off half of the small peaches when they are half the size of a plum. It is a wonderful strain upon the tree to develop a thousand peach stones. Knock off half the young fruit and at time of ripening there will be more peach meat than if all the young fruit had been left on the trees.

A GOOD IDEA.

It is always a good idea to make a small rich bed and sow half a dozen short rows of onion seed for growing "sets" for next year. The largest of these sets will make a fine little pickling onion. Sets sell at 20 to 25 cents a quart and is more of a pleasure than a trouble to raise a peck of them from such a little bed as above noted.

WHAT GIVES SUCCESS

Crude carbolic acid should be kept on the farm where there are poultry. The kerosene emulsion can be made at any home where soap and kerosene oil are used. Add a pint of crude carbolic acid to two gallons of emulsion, and put a few drops about the fowl's neck, under wings and sprinkle it on the walls of the hen house. These little things are what give success to chicken raising.

WHERE THE LAUGH COMES IN.

The uneducated people once, and may now, laugh at articles in the Southern Agriculturist about insects, but when they learn that the insects are costing truck growers and farmers more than the education of their children, the laugh is on the other side of the mouth.

SUNFLOWER SEED.

Plant sunflower seed in the fence corners and other places that are vacant. The seed will be excellent for feeding poultry in the fall, and the oil in the seed will give a glossy color to the plumage.

BEES ARE USEFUL.

Bees should be on every farm where there is an orchard or an acre of clover. The bees guarantee a better stand of fruit.

WHEN HENS ARE SET.

When hens are set put some powdered sulphur in the nest. The heat of the hen's body will cause the sulphur to give off an odor that kills lice and mites.

France's Educated Farmers.

In France, as in the United States, agriculture engages fully one-half of the population. Since 182, when the Institute of Roville was founded by Dombasle near Nancy, the French free training system has, with many ups and downs, gradually extended until it covers all France and all forms of soil culture.

French children under government training are first put in primary schools, thereafter to pass up through all departments to the National Institute. It must be admitted that the term "French peasant" means something vastly more than a farmer of any other nation. When the French boy emerges from the institute he is no yokel, but an educated man who can make the most of the smallest area of soil. He knows familiarly all life on the farm, animate and inanimate, also all objects, organic and inorganic. He is fully equipped to create wealth from the smallest means. Through him we understand the vast combined wealth of the French peasantry. Were such a system in vogue and compulsory in America, forty million farm workers would be elevated from a homely and commonplace existence to an educated mass, capable of wresting untold riches out of the vast soil which today is often worked in the most ignorant and humdrum manner, producing a mere living per family, and generally mortgaged beyond its present worth. —Harper's Weekly.

An Italian Brigand's Horse.

Among South Italian brigands even their horses are taught to resist the officers of the law. During the encounter at Rana Bucca, in which the brigand Mirto was killed, the gendarmerie was amazed by the furious behavior of his horse, which lashed out on all sides, and succeeded in injuring one of the officers. On inquiry afterward among the prisoners taken it was ascertained that the horse had been trained to behave in this way by being repeatedly flogged until he kicked one of the brigands, dressed as a carabineer, approaching him. The horse at last became such an adept that he might be relied upon to kick and rear furiously at the mere sight of a uniform.

Lighting the House.

In the lighting of houses light judiciously shaded suits the majority. The ficial lighting is to sacrifice ness and warmth of the house walls. The light color being pale should be used largely comfortable and more have the light down and warming the room, than to have cold and chill from a wax candle is not practical but for purer prefer to Covered Bread.

A to a dried should be over the run in the be made of color, the or any A covered value on able for and hardwood with a Tricle of and the as if it by the hand. way is also down walls or The covers should be they can be taken off and washed.

To Save Work.

There are few women lived long in narrow quarters learning the advantages nails or hooks. To hang as possible in order to save space for things that cannot up, is the principal that them. Jelly molds and pans or muffin tins, dish boards and chopping bowl up, as well as mixing spoons ing forks, egg beaters, lifters and cake turners. Save go further than this, and tack row wooden cleat along the nails driven into it to spread knives for different parts carving knife, the bread and small meat and vegetable

All these labor-saving are admirable, and the should have many of them. There is no danger that be made too easy for her. What helps she can have there large province of her work to or less drugery. Even if a into her housekeeping the would or should bestow upon calling or profession, she it, as she would in anything good deal that is more works. The more she can the more energy she will bestow upon those parts of tion that demand mind and muscle. In another article kitchen helps will be Christine Terhune Herrick delphia.

Recipes.

Cream Dressing—Mix a spoonful of salt, half a of mustard, half a table sugar, one egg, well beaten blespoonfuls of melted fourths of a cup of cream one-fourth cup of vinegar vinegar very slowly; cook ing water, stirring constantly thickens; strain and cool.

Baked Beans—Soak a quart white beans over night in Pour off all the water, fresh and pour off again the fire with enough fresh cover the beans, and half a ful of soda. When the to boil pour it off at once beans in a colander. Allow water to run through them thoroughly. This gives firmness which keeps them ting "mushy."

Butter Cakes—Set a sponge of one pint of water, one of butter, one teaspoon a yeast cake dissolved in of tepid water and one when light add one cup water and flour enough to dough; knead five minutes the bowl and put in a rise several hours; roll inch thick and cut with ter; cover with a cloth 20 minutes; then cook greased griddle; when set turn once; do this several

Fig Cake—Two cups of cup of butter, one cup of one teaspoonful of soda of raising chopped fine, pound of figs, cinnamon to flavor. Beat together butter, add the eggs, have been beaten together the soda in the cup of enough sifted flour to make as pound cake. Cut the figs and press well in the dough to prevent burning. Bake in layers, putting each layer while warm. This recipe makes two cakes.

...'S LADY DRUMMERS.

...WOMEN SUCCESSFUL AS ...MERCIAL TRAVELERS.

...prising How Many Are Employed Touring Among Doctors in the...ests of the Big Manufacturing ...mists.

...are known to be ... many ... on the road. Of course that ...travel" in ... and ribbons, is ... on the ... is by no means ... ... represents a ... and more ...

...ental ... ...dows ... ...ven ... ...ed ... ...ed ... ...ed

DEN

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Lighting the House.

In the lighting of houses, p light judiciously shaded is w suits the majority. The ide ficial lighting is to suggest th ness and warmth of sunlig
the house walls. The only light color being pale yello should be used largely. It is comfortable and more econo
have the light down low, sur and warming the occupants room, than to have it stan cold and chill from a distan wax candle is untidy, and its not practicable for reading but for general purposes the purer or softer light. Many prefer to have their drawin
under shades.

Covered Brooms.

A covered broom is a gen to a tired housewife. Thes should be made in bag fashi over the brush part of the br tied on somewhat closely with run in the upper hem. Thes be made of cotton flannel color, the best being dark or any shade that does no
A covered broom is of cou none on hard floors or carpets, but table for sweeping kitchen o and hardwood floor. Go over with a covered broom, and floors can be easily and the floor polished as as if the floor had rubbed wit bees. A room covere way is also excellent for down walls or for sweeping
The covers should be made they can be taken off and washed.

To Save Work.

There are few women w
lived long in narrow quarters learning the advantages of nails or hooks. To hang up as possible in order to econo space for things that cannot up, is the principal that them. Jelly molds and set pans or muffin tins, dish pa boards and chopping bowls up, as well as mixing spoo ing forks, egg beaters, ladl mers and cake turners. Som go further than this, and ha row wooden cleat along the nails driven into it to spa knives for different purp carving knife, the bread k
small meat and vegetable k

All these labor-saving co are admirable, and the ho should have many of them a
There is no danger that her be made too easy for her. W helps she can have there large province of her work th or less drudgery. Even if a wo into her housekeeping the would or should bestow upon calling or profession, she w it, as she would in anythi good deal that is more l work. The more she can li the more energy she will h stow upon those parts of he tion that demand mind m muscle. In another article kitchen helps will be con Christine Terhune Herrick, delphia.

Recipes.

Cream Dressing—Mix a l spoonful of salt, half a tab of mustard, half a tables sugar, one egg, well beaten blespoonfuls of melted but fourths of a cup of cream or one-fourth cup of vinegar, vinegar very slowly; cook ing water, stirring constant thickens; strain and cool.

Baked Beans—Soak a quar
white beans over night in c Pour off all the water, c
fresh and pour off again.
the fire with enough fresh cover the beans, and half a ful of soda. When the wa to boil pour it off at once a beans in a colander. Allow water to run through the them thoroughly. This give firmness which keeps them
ting "mushy."

Butter Cakes—Set a sp of one pint of water, one of butter, one teaspoon of a yeast cake dissolved in o of tepid water and one pi
when light add one cupfu water and flour enough to dough; knead five minutes
the bowl and put in a war rise several hours; roll o inch thick and cut with a ter; cover with a cloth an 20 minutes; then cook greased griddle; when set turn once; do this several

Fig Cake—Two cups of cup of butter, one cup of
one teaspoonful of soda.
of raisins chopped fine, fo pound of figs, cinnamon a to flavor. Beat together butter, add the eggs, wh have been beaten together
the soda in the cup of enough sifted flour to mak
as pound cake. Cut the fi and press well in the d vent burning. Bake in l ing each layer while warm
cipe makes two cakes.

D'S LADY DRUMMERS.

WOMEN SUCCESSFUL AS MERCIAL TRAVELERS.

prising How Many Are Em- Touring Among Doctors in rests of the Big Manufactur- mists.

are known to be 155 lady com- on the road. Of course, that travel" in trousseaux, baby and ribbons, is the obvious on the feminine commercial. is by no means follows. One most successful among the sla- fficial lighting is to suggest th represents a high-class under- and does remarkably well at pecial mission is to call on be- ladies and persuade them to ence general arrangements expert hands. She makes £200 and £300 a year at new and depressing business— soon get used to it," she er specialty of hers is to ar- or the funerals of babies and children. In fact, the undertaker has put the entire branch of department under her direction. Strange enough, the births, mar- and death columns of a daily paper keeps several lady travel- ers busy, brings them a very fair in- come, and grist to the mill of their em-women travelers—there are more, but the writer happens both—earn a salary of 15s. a and commissions on all business ade for their firms in baby feeding bottles, and nursery es. Their clientele comes from mainly corner of various news-ministers of the "feminine don't call on brides to be and to furnish the wedding gown, entire trousseau, as the case Once a commercial does ed, as traveler for a corset makers. Her fath- stepped before her. From the first tooth she learned secrets of the trade when her was at home in "off the road" Many of his customers her well, and when the old man and doing his entire round she among the clients she knew and thus gradually succeeded to Canvassing for a laundry is an ideal for feminine energies, number of women employed is rapidly increasing.

their business to keep an eye the quiet houses within their and to make a prompt call on servants.

before the kettle is unpack- removal van the canvasser laundry presents her business the lady of the house. dry is one of the first requi- the newcomer, and the suc- canvasser is she who arrives the moving in scene. fluctuate according to the of the persuasive tip to her the lady canvasser, so that to speak of the industrial commercial traveling for Some firms offer a fairly good and small commissions. Others "pay by results," offer no but give a very good commis- over their representative's expenses.

mercial traveling the survivi- fittest is a quick process. A likes to canvassing soon from the road if she has for the task.

question of quick returns. can bring in business or Aptitude for this shows and it is a good paying possessor.

travellers are said to be man who has employed commercial sisterhood experience is that a woman mark at once—or not at learns more by experience than a woman does. Un- traveler brings business mouth I know she hasn't the ping how many women in touring among doc- the interests of the big manu- chemists. They take round tabloids, compressed drugs, and surgical dressings. Orth- among the dentist with new artificial teeth, the latest with washes and painless sorts for the dentist's chamber."

constitution, an unfailingly- and pleasing manners in-trade of the success- commercial.

knocking about in all being incessantly on the go. suits best the outdoor woman. Several of the most are good hockey players all-round athletes, used to conditions of weather. A woman, sensitive to quick cli- fatigue, would be of no use on

It is an occupation calling, things, for a hardy constitu- this, the lady traveler in- by the writer agree that the offers a pleasant and remun- life. But it's very hard work," unanimous verdict.— London Chronicle.

MOND OF 1,000 CARATS.

About $25,000,000—Philoso- Stone Discovered by Pinta. operations on his eyes within years have rendered the retirment of Mr. Streeter, the veteran jeweler and expert in precious stones, imperative. Mr. Streeter's establishment in Bond street is as well known as the Bank, and sometimes nearly as valuable.

Beneath the shop is a capacious safe which often contains as much as a million pounds' worth of valuables. It stands on a base of concrete to prevent tunnelling, and is fitted with four steel doors, to disturb which means the ringing of alarm bells in all parts of the building. A guard of men sleep near it every night, and a powerful dog prowls round its iron walls.

Mr. Streeter has in his possession what he considers to be the finest diamond in the world. It was once the property of the Emperor of Delhi, and is valued at $14,000. The largest diamond he has ever seen weighed about one thousand carats, and is owned by a syndicate of dealers. Its value complete would be about £5,000,000, but it is now being cut up.

The son of Henry Russell, who was originally Mr. Streeter's partner, once owned the whole of the site of the present Kimberley diamond mines. After working it at considerable profit Russell and his partner sold the ground for £500. It is now worth probably £300,000,000. A small shanty which the miners had erected was sold separately for a few pounds. It was subsequently discovered that mud with which its walls were plastered was literally full of diamonds in the rough.

"I have probably," said Mr. Streeter, "the finest collection of opals in the world. It is in the form of a necklace and pendant, the latter being a single stone 1 1-2 inches by 1 inch. The most remarkable point with reference to this unique collection is that it was cut from one block of solid opal. It is worth £1,700."

It was Mr. Streeter who was instrumental in exposing the notorious Pinta, who claimed to have discovered the philosopher's stone. His method consisted in having a bag of gold dust concealed up his sleeve, from which, by an ingenious contrivance, he was able to squeeze the powdered metal unnoticed into the crucible. By this means he was able to melt a sovereign and produce three or four times its weight in metal.—London Daily Mail.

HOTTEST SPOT ON EARTH.

Temperature of Bahrin 11 Degrees Higher Than That of Death Valley.

"Death Valley in Southern California is usually referred to as the hottest spot on earth, but it isn't quite that," Jer. Ralph Eyling tells me. "This rather unpleasant distinction belongs to a portion of the shore of the Persian Gulf at and in the vicinity of Bahrin.

"Statistics prove that the mean annual temperature of the Persian Gulf furnace is 11 degrees higher than that of Death Valley, and the aridness of both places is about one a par, though I am inclined to believe, if my recollection of the records is not blunted, that a little brackish water has been found in a few isolated springs on the alkali surface of Death Valley, whereas there is no water at al to be found on the shore of the Gulf anywhere within a radius of nearly 200 miles.

"Yet, while Death Valley is inhabited by practically none and permanent life there is deemed well nigh impossible, Bahrin has a population of several thousand people and has had an existence as a village for many centuries. Of course the people are stunted mentally and to a slightly less extent physically, a fact due to the fearful conditions under which they live; but they do live there and are probably the nearest approach to salamanders in the human family. What do they do for water and food? Why, the latter is brought to them in boats and sold in exchange for the fertilizer they dig from the desert, and the latter they have in fairly good abundance near them. You thought I said there was no water within several hundred miles of the place. Well, so I did—on the land—but there are a number of fresh water springs on the bed of the saline gulf within a few hundred yards from the shore.

"It is probably the only place on earth where fresh drinking water is secured from a salty sea. The water gushes up in considerable volume from these springs and is secured by divers. The gulf is only about 30 feet deep at this point. The divers plunge to the bottom with empty goatskins and place the orifice of the skin bag directly over the mouth of the spring; it fills in a few seconds, and the diver closes the orifice and is pulled back to the boat by a rope. That is the way the water supply for the community on shore is procured. The springs are supposed to be due to underground streams which have their origin in the green hills of Osman, over 500 miles inland."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Value of Cinemetograph.

The cinemetograph seems to have been rather successfully used by Parisian surgeons for a very novel purpose—namely, that of exhibiting to medical students how typical surgical operations should be carried out.

Autos for Firemen.

The German city of Frankfurt has voted 55,000 marks for an automobile addition to the fire department.

Stephen Gerard left one of the finest private libraries in the United States when he died, but where it is now no one knows.

THE HARBOR LIGHT.

By Caroline McCormick.

When all the garden's cold and dark,
And I have had my tea,
The great big blazing harbor-light
wakes up and winks at me.

It winks and blinks with both eyes,
and rolls its head around,
But shining soft or glaring, still it never makes a sound.

I know exactly what it means, the same as if it said,
"The time has come for boys and birds and boats to be in bed."

And then I know that nurse will soon be calling me up stairs
To tuck me safely into bed and hear me say my prayers.

Before the sunshine goes away, the birds high in their nest Put down their heads and go to sleep beneath their mother's breast.

But when the little boats go out upon
the sea to roam,
They haven't any mother dear, or nurse, to call them home.

And so they surely understand the signals of the light,
Because it's most of all for them a-shining in the night.

The white eye shines like whispering:
"Come back, my dear ones, do;
Lie close to me and fold your sails,
and I'll take care of you.'

The red eye glares: "You naughty boats, wherever have you been?
The whales will eat you every one, so hurry now, come in!"

One time I stayed up very late, till
all the stars were lit,
But they're not big, and can't turn round, and they're not bright a bit.

I s'pose they can't help being stars,
no matter how they try;
P'raps any way they're harbor-lights for boats up in the sky.

And they must be quite far away, for what do you suppose?
It's queer of course and yet it's true,
because my father knows—

If we were up there where the stars are shining, oh, so small, We'd never see our great big blazing harbor-light at all.
—Youth's Companion.

TRAITS OF THE HORSE.

There is something about a highly organized, intensely nervous horse that makes him quick to form likes or dislikes, says Francis M. Ware, in Our Noblest Friend the Horse. Horses are perfectly submissive in the hands of some men, although they have never seen them before.

A certain "horse dentist" was sent for to attend to the teeth of a very savage stallion, but, through a mistake, was not informed that the animal was vicious. He came, and finding no one in charge of the stable, and seeing that there was only one stallion there, concluded that that was the patient. He entered the stall and was busily working on the stallion's teeth when the man in charge returned.

The groom could scarcely believe his eyes, as he had himself for years been the only one who could handle the horse. The secret of it was that the doctor, not knowing that the horse was vicious, had no fear, and the horse accepted him, very probably, since he did not speak, as his regular attendant.

Certain race horses have been known either to fly into a frightful rage or to shake and sweat with dread when they heard the voice of a jockey who had brutally punished them in a race; yet this same rider could stand directly before them and no demonstration followed so long as he did not use his voice; but the merest whisper was enough to excite them.

One well known race mare was so upset every day by hearing the trainer's voice giving orders to the boy rider when at exercise that nothing could be done with her until a code of signals was arranged by means of a stick. From that day, although the trainer changed his appearance in no respect, she was perfectly quiet and tractable, in spite of the fact that the man was always about her, both in and out of the stable. He might be in her box for a long time, handle her in any way, but if he spoke she would fly at him instantly, and act like a wild thing for some time afterward.

Certain race horses also take such a violent antipathy to certain riders that they will not try to race when ridden by them, but sulk and refuse to run; nor are these boys those who have abused them.

A PANSY PLAY.

Aunty Nell came into the room with a box of spools in one hand and a bowl of pansies in the other.

"I've brought you some spools to play with," said said. "and grandma sent you these pansies. Look, dear! There are great purple ones, and all kinds."

Maisie turned away with a slight gesture of disgust. "I'm sorry," continued aunty, "that you can't have your playthings, but if you see them while you still have the fever we should have to burn them when you got well, you know, for they would be infected."

As she spoke, Aunty Nell was busy arranging the flowrs and spools on a low stand within easy reach from the bedside. Then she bustled out of the room.

"As if I were baby enough to play with spools!" said Maisie, after aunty had gone. "But the pansies are darlings," she continued, after a minute's reflection. "I wish I could play with them; they look so much like real persons. Now that great big purple one 'specially. Those yellow spots on it make a nose and mouth and eyes as much as anything. That tall black one is certainly a minister, he's so serious and dignified. And here, this dear little white one is sister Amy. The yellow center is just the color of her hair." The white pansy offered a suggestion to Maisie, for Amy had been married a few weeks before, and the ceremony had made a deep impression upon the little girl.

"I believe I'll play a wedding," and Maisie tumbled the flowers out on the counterpane. But a difficulty presented itself immediately, for although the pansies had faces, they had no feet. "I can't make 'em stand up!" wailed Maisie. Just then a happy thought struck her. The spools were the very thing, and the spoolbox would do for the church.

Within three minutes each pansy was standing straight and stiff in a spool. "You'll have to stay at home," said Maisie, as she tenderly placed a bent one back in the bowl. "We'll play that you're our invalid, but we'll bring you some wedding cake—if we have any."

Then the little girl arranged the flowers as the people were at her sister's wedding. The minister stood up in front, and the bride and groom, with the bridesmaids and groomsman, stood facing him.

After the wedding Maisie busied herself in discovering whom each of the pansies resembled. Some of them looked so much like dumb animals that she played circus with them.

She was just putting the camel, which was the flower with the crooked stem, through his paces when aunty came in, and Maisie told her that if ever she knew any little boys or girls so sick they could not have their toys, she was going to send them a big bunch of pansies.—Cora Thornson, in the Youth's Companion.

HIDDEN IN SIGHT.

A new form of "hide and seek" which is "hidden in sight"—a very pretty game. All must go out of the room except one, who then places the thing to be found, such as a thimble or a cotton reel, so that any one can see it, but will not notice it without looking rather hard. A thimble is not easily seen on a bright iron fender, and a reel of cotton takes a good deal of finding when properly placed on some mantelpiece ornament or even on the top of a picture frame.

Here is another secret: Tell the seekers that they must find a handkerchief. Tie it round the handle of the door (if it is a white one); show the seekers politely in, and shut the door after them, so that they do not touch the handle. They will take a long time to find the handkerchief. It is a strict rule of the game that the first finder of an object does not make known his discovery. He just sits down. One by one the seekers sit down, until only one remains standing, and then it is time for some one to tell him and for the party to get to another game.

EVERY BOY SHOULD LEARN—

To be kind to all animals.
To treat his sisters courteously.
To be manly and courageous.
To ride, row and swim.
To do carpenter work.
To bring up coal and chop wood.
To shut doors without slamming.
To sew on buttons and darn a stocking.
To do errands promptly and cheerfully.
To shut the door in winter to keep the cold out.

THE FAME OF JAPAN.

EVERY NATIVE SEEMS TO BE AN ORNITHOLOGIST BY NATURE.

Animals and Birds of Japan—A Kind of Deer Valuable as Game—Falconry of the Daimios—Birds of Prey Very Numerous.

In Japan, equally with northern China, the quadrumana are found north than in other parts of the globe. The sight of humming birds in the more or less temperate regions of the Pacific Coast of North America is not so surprising as the presence of an active and prolific race of monkeys among the pine groves of Japan, says the London Spectator. They are rather large apes, with speckled red faces and a most unpleasant cast of countenance, and, to judge from the behavior of those kept in captivity, have considerably more than the average degree of monkey intelligence. They seem quite indifferent to cold, though the forests which they inhabit are frequently visited by deep falls of snow. They are largely herbivorous creatures, devouring tree shoots, leaves, and other vegetables, and do not appear to invade the cultivated ground, as do the baboons of South Africa. They are adepts at throwing sticks and stones in self-defence, a trick which is well known to the natives in the forests which they frequent.

The red deer and its varieties, such as the splendid stag known as the "maral" in Manchuria and Siberia, are not found beyond the limits of the continent. But in the Japanese or sika deer Britain's Far Eastern allies possess an animal so handsome, hardy, and excellent in venison that its highly sucessful introduction into English parks is a matter for congratulation. It is a short, sturdy, strong looking deer, and the stags carry handsome horns, though by no means so large in proportion as are those of the Indian axis stag. In Winter the fur is thick and of a dark brown, in Summer it is of a bright fawn color, dappled with white spots. The race is prolific, and the stags are so courageous that they have been known to fight and kill red deer of far greater size when confined in the same park with our native stags.

The fur seals still come to their old "rookeries" on one or more of the small islands belonging to Japan in Behring Sea, but their number is rapidly dwindling there as elsewhere.

But it is in bird life that the natural history of the islands is most remarkable, and the list of interesting species is by no means confined to the wild ducks and cranes which are such a favorite subject in the national art. Among what may be called the popular birds of the country are the cuckoo and the "jenny wren;" and it is somewhat curious that public fancy has always preferred to delineate the storks, cranes, ducks, and geese of the rice marshes and rivers rather than the birds of the garden and the field. If the cranes have a religious association, the same cannot be said of the other waterfowl.

But every Japanese seems to be a florist and ornithologist by nature, and the ease of observing the water birds, and the decorative characters of their plumage probably determined the popular preference for their presence, not only on the pools and ponds, but also in almost every form of picture and decorative design. Birds of prey are very numerous. Among these is a fine set eagle, not greatly differing from the splendid Korea sea eagle, one of the largest of its race. The goshawk also breeds there in numbers, nesting chiefly in the pine trees. It was the favorite bird of the sporting diamios in the old days, and the young were regularly taken from the nests and brought up "at back," much on the same principle as the goshawk is or was in Europe.

They were flown at pheasants mainly, and also at cranes and geese, which were approached by the aid of a stalking horse when feeding on the rice fields and the stubbles in harvest time. A very interesting bird, not exactly a raptor, but allied in habits, is a large butcher bird. It preys on frogs, and lives mainly by the side of the reed beds and water channels. The most striking of the Japanese birds is one of the "copper pheasants," a brilliantly colored but rather scarce creature.

But the Japenese variety of the common pheasant is also a remarkable bird. In it the splendid green which decorates the neck only of the "English" pheasant, or the ring necked Chinese pheasant, and when crossed with these greatly improves the size of the progeny.

JAPAN'S COAL TREASURES.

Little Kingdom Exports Over Seven Million Tons Annually.

Till quite lately Japan was exporting over seven million tons of coal yearly, as against four million tons in 1894. The countries of the Far East really now look to Japan for their coal. As a fact, however, Japanese coal is of an inferior quality. It is very bituminous, with much smoke and ash, and adheres to the bars or gratings; it does not coke very well either, but it possesses the immense advantage of being found in a region that can be reached only at considerable cost and delay by either British or American coal.

The island of Kiou Siou is the principal coal basin that is being worked in Japan. It is affirmed, nevertheless, from a geological survey that has been made, that Yezo contains 600,000,000 tons of the precious combustible, or about as much as can be assigned to all the rest of Japan. Of this 600,000,000 tons somewhat less than one-half is located below the sea level. There is evidently plenty to go on with, even if the figures are not in reality about five times too small, as some experts contend. Now coal beds have been struck at Shinano, Nogato and at Akia.

The importance of the coal industry in Japan, however, can be deduced from the fact that the Yubari Coal Mining Company employs 3,700 workmen. Analysis of the grade of coal, when desicated, gives 52.24 per cent. carbon, 42.89 per cent. gas and tar, and 4.57 per cent. red cinder. It furnishes 57.11 per cent. of coke.

The beds of Kiou Sion are by far the most important in Japan, being to the northwest of the island over against Corea. All the coal from this section gives too generous a proportion of ash and sulphur and from 38 to 40 per cent. of combustible gas. The quality is but medium, but it sells readily at remunerative prices in the Far East, especially as the workings are not deep and the mining and handling are inexpensive. This coal is freighted largely from Moji in the Strait of Shimonese Ki, which is the shipping port for coal. It is quoted in the ports of Kiou Siou at from 6 to 7 yen per ton, or from $3 to $3.50 delivered at Shanghai, household coal is sold at from $4 to $5.50. Cardiff or Welsh coal in the same place costs from $8 to $12 a ton, coal from Australia or Tonkin never fetches more than from $5 to $6 per ton.—New York Commercial.

Bad Habits.

Mrs. Jennings looked through her glasses at her sister, Miss Sprawle, with considerable severity.

"This neighborhood has got into strange ways the last few years, or else I notice it more as I get further along," she said, "and lest I should get into the same way, I want you to remind me now and then, Mary.

"If you find me backbiting like that hateful, stingy Annabel Powder or Lucy White, that had better look to her own saucy, bad mannered girl, and her boy, that's the poorest scholar in Number One, or if you catch me growing close fisted like the minister's wife, that has never returned the cupful of sugar she borrowed that time the delegates came, or long winded like Jane Larkin, who interrupted me in the very midst of my telling her about Sally's twins and went on about her spindling grandson for most fifteen minutes without stoping, I want you should tell me frankly.

"And that's not all," said Mrs. Jennings as Miss Sprawle opened her mouth to speak. "If you find me getting inquisitive like Helen Lane, that's asked me three times when my birthday comes and what year I was born after my having to go to the town records to find out her age, I want you to mention it freely, and I shall do the same by you.

"If folks don't help each other, what's the good of being set in families? You've got a little habit of interrupting, Mary, that's growing on you, and I'm going to do what I can to help you break it up."—Waverley Magazine.

The Gold Mines of Korea.

Korea is to a certain extent a gold-producing country; gold is exported from that empire to the amount of about $2,500,000 annually. This gold occurs in alluvial deposits and in veins in tthe rocks. The alluvial deposits are worked to advantage by the natives; the methods, although rather primitive, are perhaps the best when one considers the cheapness of labor. The mechanical difficulties of getting the gold from veins are rather too much for the Korean. The ore grinding machinery consists of two stones, the motive power a squatting native; very naturally the product is not large. The introduction of modern machinery has been hindered by two causes—the nature of the Government and the price of coal. All the coal used must be obtained from Japan, although there is evidence that Korea contains coal beds sufficient for her needs if permission could be obtained to work them.—Collier's.

Performing Unpleasant Duties.

"The very next time you have something unpleasant to do, something to which you bring an unwilling mind," says a writer in Harper's Bazar, "just repeat the following formula to yourself, and say it over and over again until you believe it: 'This which I am doing now is what, in the circumstances, I prefer to do at this moment, above all other things. Of course, then, I enjoy it!' This self-restraint, faithfully applied during dishwashing, bedmaking, sweeping, dusting, housecleaning, stocking darning, and all the monotonous duties of a home woman, may be relied on to bring floods of sunshine everywhere. The work is done in less time, and with less frection, then ever before, an atmosphere of peace and serenity pervades the whole household, the soul of the worker is enlarged. It is worth trying. Try it at once, dear readers, and let me hear what the result is."

Autos Have Their Own Field.

A leading vehicle trade journal of France says that the automobile, in spite of its rapid development, has not done the carriage builders, outside of Paris any harm, and has only affected the builders of heavy carriages in that city.

THE UNION.

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf

SPECIAL OFFER.

The Yellow Jacket, published bi-weekly at Moravian Falls, N. C., is an extremely bright, readable paper. We will send the UNION and YELLOW JACKET for one year for $1 in advance. This is a combination that ought to get every good man in Chilton county on our list, and is only open for a short time. tf

At the meeting of the populist exzutive committee of Chilton county on March 15, 1904, the following resolution was adopted by the committee:

"Be it resolved, That we, the people's party executive committee of Chilton county, do hereby indorse the UNION, a paper published in Clanton, Ala., as our official organ tf

OUR CLUBBING LIST.

The Union and Yellow Jacket, both for one year $1.00
The Union and Weekly Montgomery Advertiser 1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution 1.50
tf

Several hundred subscribers will get this paper with a big red cross on it. It means that you owe us a dollar and we owe it to some other fellows. Some small fellow will make a big kick about this red cross and will stop his paper, and some clever fellows will come in and pay up like a white man always does, and tell us they had just forgotten all about it. tf

DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?

IMPORTANT

THE PEOPLE'S PRIMARY WILL BE HELD ON TUESDAY, JULY 26th, 1904.

A. J. WILSON.

In introducing Mr. Wilson as a candidate a couple of weeks ago we stated that he had never run for office before. We made a mistake; he did run for sheriff some years since, but it did not hurt him much, and now he is as good as ever.

A WELCOME RAIN.

The showers Sunday and Monday culminated in a general rain Monday night all over the state. We needed it badly, and we ought to thank the "Giver of all good things." Prospects are good for cotton and corn, but oats will be very slim in most parts of our county.

DANIEL C. GANDY.

The latest aspirant for the nomination as tax assessor is Daniel C. Gandy, a resident of beat 8. This gentleman is about 45 years of age, and as a neighbor of his writes to us: "Mr. Gandy was born and raised in Chilton county. He is a gentleman in every respect and has been in active business life for several years. He has been with the People's party since its organization and is qualified for the office of tax assessor beyond a doubt. You can not say more for him than he deserves." Further than this, no man needs, so we pass Mr. Gandy up to the people for their verdict in July.

FREE TRIP TO ST. LOUIS.

The Montgomery Advertiser offers to send to St. Louis, free of every expense, all persons sending in their office fifteen (15) new yearly orders for the Daily and Sunday Advertiser, or a number of short time orders equal to fifteen annual orders. This is a great opportunity for some of our young people. The Advertiser is in the front rank of Alabama papers, and it should not be difficult to get fifteen subscribers to a first class paper for one year.

CANDIDATES' EXPENSES.

The last legislature passed a primary election law which had a clause in it providing that all county candidates in a primary election should within thirty days after such election file a sworn statement with the judge of probate, setting out and itemizing the expenses of their canvass in said election. The candidates for offices elected by the voters of more than one county file their sworn statements with the secretary of state; they have complied with the law and daily papers have published the amount spent by each candidate. We thought that the statements of those who were running in the county of Chilton on April 11th would be of interest to our readers, and asked the probate judge (S. M. Adams) to be allowed to make a copy of them for publication, and he absolutely refused to let us even see them. They may not be in his office by reason of the candidates not complying with the law, but the judge gave as the reason for his refusal that THE UNION could not get anything from HIS OFFICE. HIS office, indeed, it is the people's office and he is their SERVANT, put in charge of it. The great majority of those who voted to put him there were very much deceived in the man, but they will rectify that mistake next November and he will have to vacate HIS office.

ENERGY.

Just a few words on the political situation in Chilton county. It seems like Sam Adams and the banner man are very free to spend their opinions. I have never made much of anything but tobacco spit, but think I have got as good a right to my opinion as they have. In the first place, I want to say for once and all that it is not my purpose to slur or reflect on any conscientious democrat. We have a few men in Chilton that their sense of duty has bid them to act with the democratic party, and the most ignorant can not fail to perceive it, nor the most callous to respect them; for there is a number of them now that are openly declaring that they will not vote for Sam Adams. No doubt in my mind but the ghost of Thomas Jefferson has been made to shudder with horror at the mockery of his name. The judge says: "A few men want office, and nothing else; that these men know that they are not standing for anything else, and they know that the position they take will continue a bad state of feeling, and that it is only a question of time when the democrats will control Chilton, and they know it will be better for the people when this is the case." Dear readers, why didn't this Christian Adams that says he "ain't out to take back nor apologize for nothing he has ever said" tell us that in 1898? Then we could have elected what he said was a "lying, thieving democrat," or that "unrespectable Honeycutt" probate judge of Chilton if there is anything the judge is most desirous of it is to put Chilton in line with other democratic counties of Alabama. Would you, judge, really put Chilton in line with Dallas? Tell us if you would disgrace those beautiful women you write about with a negro jury. The judge says "our farmers are improving in all lines, beautifying their homes and improving their lands." Tell us, please, who we owe our prosperity to. Do we owe it to the democrats? How many farmers in Chilton that make their living by plowing (the class of men you said in 1898 were the business men of the county) that were able to beautify their homes from 1893 to 1897? Tell the truth; ain't it a fact that there are numbers of men that LOST their homes under your beloved democratic administration? Ain't it a fact that your beloved Grover Cleveland caused honest men to tramp up and down the country, hunting for work and could not find it? Didn't President Cleveland keep a negro in the land office at Montgomery? Didn't your democratic friends appoint negro election managers in Elmore county? Again the judge says "the people have been told that the democrats are thieves and liars until some people believe it, but everybody knows they have quit their old methods." Now, let me say right here if you had waited until they had held one honest election, the people would have more confidence in you. As regards General Weaver going to the democrats, it is nothing strange in the history of the populists. There has been a number of men to get fat and go to the democrats, hence our being a set of outlawed populists is nothing new. In conclusion I want to say every man that has an abiding interest in his county, nail this to your banner: "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow," we'll vote Sam Adams next November low.

A TRUE JEFFERSONIAN.

HEART TO HEART TALKS.

How confident and bold we are when "all is well" and everything is prosperous around us. We feel as if we would never need help; we can steer our own way and make our progress by ourselves, but let some cloud arise that our efforts can not dispell and then we feel our utter helplessness. I saw a good illustration of this fact not long since. Some writer said: "It makes a good deal of difference whether you take hold of God or God takes hold of you. Said a father: My little girl refused to let me take hold of her hand when we were walking together. She thought she could go alone. But when we came to a place which was slippery she took hold, first of my little finger and then, as it grew more icy, of my whole hand. As we went on and it was growing worse she let go entirely and said: 'Papa, take hold of me.' She knew I was strong and that she could not fall unless I fell. And now," says the writer, "I have been slipping, slipping for the last eleven years, and the reason is that I have not put my hand into the hand of God, I have not let Him take hold of me."

How true this is, even Christians try and walk alone; then, like the child who first took only a finger, they take quite as frail a hold of the hand, but as the way grows rougher they try and clasp the whole hand, and at last when the waves of trouble almost envelope the soul they let go and cry: "Lord, take hold of me." They feel their insecurity and know how feeble has been their clasp of the hand that alone can hold them up. The desire of every heart should be "My hand in His."—Atlanta Constitution.

THERE ARE OTHERS.

Gadsden, Ala., May 16, 1904.
Special to the Birmingham News.

To Hold Mass Meeting.

The republicans, populists, independents and others held a conferece in Gadsden Saturday and there was a good attendance. After considerable discussion in which many took the view they had the best chance of their lives to win in this county, the citizens' executive committee of Etowah county was formed with Dr. J. A. Hurst, of Walnut Grove, as chairman, and Thomas H. Stephens, of Gadsden, as secretary. These men were authorized to call a mass meeting to be held in this city on Saturday, July 16, to nominate candidates for all the county offices.

COOPERS.

As politics are warming up some, I want to air some of my views. Well, the "dems" have got the worst job on their hands that they have had since 1886, and the majority of them acknowledge "the corn." I was standing close to some "dems" the other day and I heard one of them say to the other: "Well, H., we have got the bitterest pill to swallow this fall we've had in many a day." G. says: "Yes, but we have got it to do now, but we have made a mistake by nominating Adams." I've seen men from all over the county, both populists and democrats, and they all say it will be an easy walkover for the people's party this fall. Boys, I reckon you saw that piece in the banner signed "Democrat" last week, in which he says that McKinley carried Chilton county. but he says that for the foolish idea of appointing negroes to office. Now, Mr. Democrat, which is the worst, the president appointing a few negroes to office or the commissioners of Dallas county putting negroes on the jury to try the rights of property and the liberty of man, or a democratic probate judge and sheriff and clerk appointing them managers of elections, which they done down in Lowndes county two years ago, or the people of Huntsville electing a negro alderman? So you see that the president is not the only man that appoints negroes to office. And about trusts, I reckon he forgets the great railroad trust case that Attorney General Knox carried to the United States supreme court, and when that august tribunal rendered their decision there were three dissenting votes, and two of those votes were cast by the only two democrats that sit on that bench. So you see that it is political "rot" for a democrat to holler negro or trusts. With the ticket that we will put out on July 26th in the field the democrats will "flee the wrath to come" and their vote will be so small it will take them years before they can muster up courage enough to put out a ticket against us, and they will agree with "Verbena Kid" in THE UNION a couple of weeks ago. Boys, these are the views of an old line populist.

"VOTER."

Jemison, Ala., May 16, 1904.

Editor of the Union—Please allow me space to express to the people of Chilton county my gratitude to them for the honor conferred on me in twice electing me tax collector of Chilton county. I feel deeply grateful for the honor done me and have always endeavored to show my appreciation of the same by a faithful discharge of the duties of the office impartially and to the satisfaction of all concerned. Feeling so truly grateful and highly appreciating what has already been done for me, I have not felt willing to ask the people to elect me for a third time, and when solicited to do so have declined and frequently stated I would not enter into a contest with my friends for the nomination. But as my friends have put my name before the people, I feel that I would be ungrateful to them if I were to refuse them the privilege of voting for me if they desire to do so. I have endeavored to the utmost of my ability to be faithful to my friends and always ready to respond to any call or demand made on me. And now I am perfectly willing to leave it to the people to decide, having in mind at all times a due regard for the feelings and opinions of those who do not agree with me. A have tried to be perfectly fair in the discharge of the duties of the office in the past and if I am so fortunate as to be favored with the office again will follow the same rule of conduct in the future. I desire to thank you most heartily for what has been done for me, and again pledging myself to the cause of the people, I am, respectfully,

T. J. HUBBARD.

Twenty-two new cottages are being erected in Alabama City.

Announcements.

FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. ALEX G. DAKE.

I hereby announce mysen as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

A. C. MIMS.

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

SAM W. COLLINS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

L. A. CALLOWAY.

FOR TREASURER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ROBERT M. SMITH.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ANDREW J. WILSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. W. C. ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

H. A. J. HARRIS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904.

ENOCH H. ADAMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. BICE.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary, July 26, 1904. DANIEL C. GANDY.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th, 1904 GEORGE W. EDWARDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary July 26, 1904. L. B. POUNDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904 T. G. MILLING.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26, 1904.

S. E. WALDRUP,
(Better known as "Squire" Waldrup.)

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26th, 1904. JOSEPH H. THOMAS.

I hereby annouce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county. subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

BENJAMIN H. WELLS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904. W. F. DESHAZO.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN J. LETCHER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county. subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. MOSES A. KILLGORE.

We, the undersigned friends of T. J. HUBBARD, do hereby announce him as a candidate for re-election to the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904; R. J. Williams, H. W. Varden, C. L. Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hugh Henry, J. L. Thomas, J. L. Smith

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. J. W. MOORE.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE,

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, S

FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITI

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. Alab

GEN. R. L. MERCHANDISE

FERTILIZERS

FOR SALE.

Troy Special & Mule Br

"Are the Best on Earth"

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, Ala

DISPATCH PRINTING

Blank Book Makers and Lithographe
County and Office Supplies a Specia

Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watc and Optician

Eyes Corre Fitted

Mail orders prompt

FOURTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama (Chilton County Branch).

In the four years ending February 3, 1904, that this association has been in existence in this county, it has levied sixteen assessments to pay 24 losses, viz.: Lightning, 1; wind, 3; fire, 20. The TOTAL of the sixteen assessments was $2.24 3-4 per hundred, being an average YEARLY assessment of 56 1-5 cents on each hundred dollars of insurance, which is a fraction over one-half of one per cent per annum.

ALEX G. DAKE,
President Chilton Co. Branch.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 26th day of February, 1904.

S. M. ADAMS,
Judge of Probate.

PHILADELPHIA UNDERWRITERS,

Composed of Insurance Company of North America and the Fire Association of Philadelphia, Pa.

Cash capital .. ..$ 3,500,000.00
Total assets Jan. 1, 1904. 17,636,527.61
Surplus as to policy holders 6,874,213.35

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

JUDSON STROCK'S LETTER.

Johnson grass, sorghum, groundpeas, chufas and a general line of seeds.

Baseballs, marbles, corquet sets, also violins, guitars and mandolins. Our balls are guaranteed.

Shoes! Well, our shoes talk for themselves. We handle only one brand, "Red Seal," and our prices are very reasonable.

P. S.—We will be glad to compare prices with any one.

Yours very truly,
JUDSON STROCK,
tf Clanton, Ala.

More than 5000 cyclists from the many cities made a run through the park system, Boston, Mass., after Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles had addressed them.

The University of Pennsylvania lacrosse team defeated the College of the City of New York on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, by the one-sided score of six to nothing.

Edmund Russell, captain of the University of Pennsylvania track team, and five other members of the squad have been dismissed from the training table by Shell, the coach.

NEWSY GLEANI

New York is suffering of measles.

It is now sure that Russi an exhibit at the St. Louis

Mrs. Joseph Jones, just lin, was welcomed to New sons, who have made their country.

The original indictment Burr for treason and were found in an old bo mond, Va.

New York theatrical ma levy a tax of ten cents eac mentary tickets, expecti $300,000 yearly for the Acto

The syndicate which t bulk of the $32,000,000 is York City bonds have for and will clear at least $3 deal.

Superintendent Straubmu York City, who says many east side schools in order petty thefts, claims that te ditions breed thieves.

John Campbell Smith, o City, who seven years ag $1,000,000, is a bankrupt. his fortune vanished imm lowing the Sully failure.

Robert Treat Paine to meeting in New York City $100,000,000 more annually our navy than to support schools.

President William De Wi Bowdoin College, in an Brunswick, Me., favored t tion of whites and negroes church and society, where are numerous.

Joseph Battell, of Middl has bought Ellen Moun rises 4000 feet above the to ren, Vt., and purposes to co a park for the benefit of the the Green Mountain State.

The National Ga

The Boston club has cl claim to Joe Bean's services

Strang is playing a bette second than he did at third lyn.

"The Montreal grounds," Pulliam, "are the prettiest b in existence."

The Boston National t er than last season both and fielding.

There were 177 players American League in 1903, for each team.

All the roads on the No can continent have an about the numbering of t trains south or westbound numbers, those going nor are designated by even nu

In the socialist party pl form there is a plank adv "co-operative commonwealth mental control of all means tion and distribution.

TY OFFICIALS

—Judson Strock.
—W. M. Wilson, H. G. Rol-
I. Mullins, J. M. Potts.
—J. Watts Moore.
al—Ed Smitherman.

RTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.
Term—1st Monday in April.
er Term—3rd Monday in July.
Term—1st Monday in Novem-
—T. Scott Sayre.
ior—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
—E. B. Deason, Clanton.

CHANCERY COURT.
Term—2nd Monday in March
Term—2nd Monday in Septem
cellor—Hon. R. B. Kelley, Anter—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

COUNTY COURT
Monday in each month.

MMISSIONERS' COURT
Monday February, 1st Monday
st Monday June, 2nd Monday
d Monday August, 1st Monday
er.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
of Probate—S. M. Adams.
urer—Alex G. Dake.
—J. M. Morgan.
tor—J. O. Middleton.
Assessor—A. C. Mims.
Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

UNTY COMMISSIONERS.
District—W. H. Conway.
District—Alex Glasscock.
District—W. A. Green.
District—R. C. Riggins.

UPT. OF EDUCATION.
J. W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.
W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.
L. H. Reynolds, Jemison.

NTY CHURCHES

s and clerks are cordially ask-
d the editor any news regard-
churches which they would lished. Also if there are any these notices please send cor-

SSIONARY BAPTISTS.

—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor.
nes, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
alem—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas-
C. Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
on—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor;
Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
y—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday.
nett, clerk, Verbena.
n—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st
Sundays. W. I. Mullins,
Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th
V. J. Gragg, clerk.
Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard,
J. Samons, clerk, Jemison.
d—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd
T. N. Parrish, clerk.
Chapel—Rev. W. J. Arm-
st Sunday. J. W. Littleton,
ut Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand,
. W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd
W. B. Jones, clerk.
Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
y. J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st
M. F. Wagoner, clerk.
—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pas-
J. Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
er—Rev. P. G. Maness, pas-
H. Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
n—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
odgers, clerk, Jemison.
Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd
W. M. Wood, clerk.
nia—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd
H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
ill—Rev. S. Smitherman, pas-
. Barnes, clerk, British.
y—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
zey, clerk, Randolph.
Carmel—Rev. W. J. Rud-
tor; W. M. Roebuck, clerk.
Zion—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
. H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand,
. H. Wilson, clerk.
nia—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd
George Trawick, clerk.
dron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas-
. Billingsley, clerk.
lem—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
y; G. W. Hill, clerk.
pe—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd
Henry Smith, clerk.
' Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason,
M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
t Grove—Rev. J. H. Thom-
nday; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
t Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard,
. R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
t Grove—Rev. G. W. Free-
or; H. C. Latham, clerk,
Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone,
y. J. J. McDowell, clerk.
ce—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt
. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemi-
ce—Rev. W. J. Armstrong
ley Robinson, clerk, Clan
Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor
nson, clerk, Rushton.
Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd
. J. Billingsley, clerk.
Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sun-

day. J. Dea
Thorsby—
Robert Jone
Union Gro
pastor; R.
son.
Union Poi
Sunday. J.
Verbena—
Sunday. T.
Valley Cre
er; J. W.
ville.

PRIM
Bethel—E Saturday be
J. T. Aberna

M. E.
Clanton. Cir

Clanton
Fairview
Isabella
Jemison
Lane Spr
Shiloah
Mt. M
Sardis
New Hop
Siloam

METHO

Thorsby
Walnut G
ng
Unity—2nd
Shady Gro
Mount Pisg Enterprise

CON
South Cal
second Sund Calera.
Lomax—R
Sunday. F
Mountain
stead, 3rd S
clerk, Clanto
Shady Gro
Sunday. Mr
bena.
Union—Re
Sunday. Mi
wood.

CHRI
Highland S
Lett, 3rd Sun
T. L. Adams, Enterprise—
Sunday. T.

NORWE
St. Olafs, pastor. Every

SWED
Concordia, berg. Every

Rocky Mou
Mr. Carroll, service every noons. Pray
nesday night

FRATER
Clanton R.
Third Saturda
Amande Lod
250—Fourth S
Clanton Lod
423—First Sa
Century Lod
567—First Sat
Bozeman Lo
No. 524—Satu
moon, Marbur
Jemison Lod
411—Saturday
Jemison.
Stanton Lod
473—Tuesday
Stanton.

Jemison Lod
urdays.
Clanton Lod
fourth Saturda
WOODMEN
Black Jack and third Mon

FINANC

BRITISH AME
Of To 1st

UNITED

Government bo
State and mun
Cash on hand
Stocks and bon
Premiums in co
Interest due a Reserve premiu

Y. Standard) Reserve for es .... ..

Surplus in Uni

Total income States for 1
Total losses pa
from 1874 to sive .... ..

WALLACE
Clanton,

THE BIG STORE,

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

oods, Clothing, Hats, Sh

FURNITURE,

NE AND BURIAL NECESSITIES

W. I. MULLINS,

n. . . Alab

R L MERCHANDISE

FERTILIZERS

FOR SALE.

Special & Mule Bra

Are the Best on Earth"

C. JONES,

- - - Alab

ATCH PRINTING C

Book Makers and Lithographers

y and Office Supplies a Specialt

mates.

is Ave., -:- BIRMINGHAM,

L

AME,

Street

gham, Ala.

Practical Watch

and Optician

Eyes Corre

Fitted

Mail orders prompt

tion to the office of f education for Chil
ect to the action of primary July 26th,
J. W. MOORE.

UAL STATEMENT.

Insurance Associa-
na (Chilton Coun-Branch).
ors ending February association has been this county, it has sessments to pay 24
ntning, 1; wind, 3;
OTAL of the sixteen
$2.24 3-4 per hunverage YEARLY as-cents on each hun-surance, which is a
half of one per cent

ALEX G. DAKE.
ilton Co. Branch.
sworn to before me
February, 1904.
S M. ADAMS,
Judge of Probate.

UNDERWRITERS,
rance Company of
and the Fire As-Philadelphia, Pa.
. . . . . $ 3,500,000.00 1, 1904. 17,636,517.61
hold-
. . . . . 6,674,213.35
ED_ER, Agent,
Alabama.

OCK'S LETTER.

sorghum, ground-
a general line of

es, corquet sets,
rs and mandolins.
ranteed.

r shoes talk for handle only one
and our prices are

e glad to compare
e.
s very truly.
SON STROCK,
Clanton, Ala.

cyclists from the a run through the ton, Mass., after Nelson A. Miles had

Pennsylvania lad the College of York on Franklin
by the one-sided

of the Uni-track team,
of the squad
the training

TY OFFICIALS

—Judson Strock.
ell—W. M. Wilson, R. G. Rol-J. L. Mullins, J. M. Potts.
—J. Watts Moore.
bal—Ed Smitherman.

RTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.

g Term—1st Monday in April.
ber Term—3rd Monday in July.
Term—1st Monday in Novem-

—T. Scott Sayre.
itor—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
—E. B. Deason, Clanton.

CHANCERY COURT.

g Term—2nd Monday in March.
Term—2nd Monday in Septem-

cellor—Hon. R. B. Kelley, An-

ster—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan-

COUNTY COURT.

Monday in each month.

OMMISSIONERS' COURT.

Monday February, 1st Monday
1st Monday June, 2nd Monday
nd Monday August, 1st Monday
ber.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

e of Probate—S. M. Adams.
surer—Alex G. Dake.
ff—J. M. Morgan.
itor—J. O. Middleton.
Assessor—A. C. Mims.
Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

OUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

District—W. H. Conway.
nd District—Alex Glasscock.
District—W. A. Green.
th District—R. C. Riggins.

SUPT. OF EDUCATION.

J. W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.

W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.

L. H. Reynolds, Jemison.

NTY CHURCHES

rs and clerks are cordially ask-nd the editor any news regard-ir churches which they would blished. Also if there are any n these notices please send cor-

ISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

e—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor. ones, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas-
C. Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
son—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor;
Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
ny—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday.
Hiett, clerk, Verbena.
on—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st
d Sundays. W. I. Mullins,

Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th
V. J. Gragg, clerk.
Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard,
J. Samons, clerk, Jemison.
rd—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd
T. N. Parrish, clerk.
Chapel—Rev. W. J. Arm-
1st Sunday. J. W. Littleton,

nt Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand,
J. W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
h—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd
W. B. Jones, clerk.
Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
day. J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
h—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st
M. F. Wagoner, clerk.
—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pas-
J. Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
ner—Rev. P. G. Maness, pas-
H. Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
Rodgers, clerk, Jemison.
y Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd
W. M. Wood, clerk.
onia—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd
H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, pas-Z. Barnes, clerk, British.
ry—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
ney, clerk, Randolph.
Carmel—Rev. W. J. Rud-
stor; W. M. Roebuck, clerk,

Zion—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand,
W. H. Wilson, clerk.
nia—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd
George Trawick, clerk.
etron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas-Billingsley, clerk.
alem—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
ay; G. W. Hill, clerk.
ope—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd
Henry Smith, clerk.
's Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason,
M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
t Grove—Rev. J. H. Thom-
nday; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
t Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard,
. R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
Grove—Rev. G. W. Free-
ter; H. C. Latham, clerk,

Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone,
ay. J. J. McDowell, clerk.
ace—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt
y. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemi-

ace—Rev. W. J. Armstrong
ffey Robinson, clerk, Clan

Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor
inson, clerk, Rushton.
Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd
W. J. Billingsley, clerk.
Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sun
day. J. Deason, clerk, Adams.
Thorsby—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Robert Jones, clerk, Thorsby.
Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor; R. S. Chandler, clerk, Jemison.
Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2d Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.
Verbena—Rev. J. W. Partridge, 1st Sunday. T. J. Bland, clerk.
Valley Creek—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; J. W. Mitchell, clerk, Plantersville.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS.

Bethel—Elder J. W. Howell, pastor; Saturday before the second Sunday; J. T. Abernathy, clerk, Verbena.

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Clanton Circuit—Rev. D. B. H. Jeffcoat, Pastor.
Clanton—2nd and 4th Sundays.
Fairview—3rd Sunday.
Isabelle—3rd Sunday, 3 p. m.
Jemison—1st Sunday.
Lime Springs—Saturday before 2nd Sunday.
Mount Moriah—Saturday before 1st Sunday.
New Prospect—Saturday before 3rd Sunday.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

Clanton Circuit, Rev. T. F. Davis, Pastor.
Thorsby—1st Sunday.
Walnut Grove—2nd Sunday, morning.
Unity—2nd Sunday, evening.
Shady Grove—3rd Sunday.
Mount Pisgah—4th Sunday, morning.
Enterprise—4th Sunday, evening.

CONGREGATIONAL.

South Calera—Rev. J. B. Crowson second Sunday. W. L. Shaw, clerk, Calera.
Lomax—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 4th Sunday. F. E. Riggs, clerk, Lomax.
Mountain Springs—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 3rd Sunday. W. J. Headley, clerk, Clanton.
Shady Grove—Rev. A. C. Wells, 1st Sunday. Mrs. A. Baker, clerk, Verbena.
Union—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 1st Sunday. Miss A. Lake, clerk, Lightwood.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Highland School House—Rev. M. F. Lett, 3rd Sunday and Saturday before. T. L. Adams, clerk.
Enterprise—Rev. M. F. Lett, 4th Sunday. T. F. Patterson, clerk.

NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN.

St. Olafs, Thorsby—Rev. H. Engh, pastor. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

Concordia, Thorsby—Rev. J. E. Hedberg. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. Mr. Carroll, pastor, 2d Sunday. Song service every 2d and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

MASONIC.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday. Clanton.
Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 250—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.
Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 423—First Saturday, Clanton.
Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 567—First Saturday Billingsley.
Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.
Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 411—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.
Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 473—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.
Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

of the

BRITISH AMERICA ASSURANCE CO.

Of Toronto, Canada.

1st January, 1904.

UNITED STATES BRANCH.

Assets.

Government bonds	$223,650.00
State and municipal bonds	511,473.19
Cash on hand and deposit	169,720.71
Stocks and bonds	305,793.00
Premiums in course of col.	204,834.79
Interest due and accrued.	11,833.20
	$1,427,304.89

Liabilities.

Reserve premium fund (N. Y. Standard)	$849,771.77
Reserve for unpaid losses	100,786.14
	$950,557.91
Surplus in United States	$476,746.98
Total income in United States for 1903	$1,547,736.84
Total losses paid in U. S. from 1874 to 1903, inclusive	$14,674,843.26

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

LOCAL ITEMS.

W. C. Headley was a pleasant visitor Friday.

G. W. Williams, of Autauga county, was a welcome visitor at the Union office Friday. He has been sick several months, but is getting better now.

L. B. Pounds was in Clanton Saturday.

Chattanooga plows and cane mills at W. I. Mullins'.

M. A. Kilgore was in town Saturday shaking hands with his friends.

M. A. Bates was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Don't forget to see Upchurch when in need of spectacles.

M. F. Lett was in Clanton Saturday.

J. W. and H. W. Varden were in town Saturday.

R. M. Smith is still suffering from rheumatism.

George W. Edwards was in Clanton Saturday.

"James and Mayers'" bugies for sale by W. I. Mullins.

Rev. B. H. Vickers and little daughter were in town Saturday.

Lee Vickers and G. L. Foshee were in Clanton Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Smith spent Saturday in town.

H. A. J. Harris was in Clanton Saturday.

James M. Moore, the painter, was home for Sunday. He is assistant foreman at the Soldiers' home, Mountain Creek, which is fast becoming a "thing of beauty."

Drink "Peptonilla" at Upchurch's soda fount.

Mrs. Frank Goodgame is getting better slowly.

Mrs. J. P. VanDerveer has been ill, but is improving.

N. G. Ward was in Clanton Tuesday.

M. C. Williams was in town Tuesday.

Matt Dobson, of Coosa county, is visiting friends near Clanton.

W. C. Ray, who has been confined to his house by illness for several months, was out a while Tuesday.

J. O. Wesson was in town Tuesday.

W. L. McDowell and four other hands chopped 30 acres of cotton in two days. Great work.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Thomas M. Jones and Mrs. D. A. Stevens. I. B. Edwards and Miss Alice Barnett J. E. Maudlin and Miss Meelie Muse.

Colored—Carmat Hays and Estelle Dupree.

S. S. CONVENTION OF BEAT 9.

To Be Held at Thorsby Normal School House, Sunday, May 29, 1904.

PROGRAMME.

9:30 a. m., devotional service—The president.

10 a. m., "What is the Way to Make the Sunday School Grow?"—Mrs. John Winslow, Mrs. George Kile.

10:25 a. m., "Use of the Bible in the Sunday School"—L. B. Pounds, A. Horn.

10:50 a. m., "Use of Sunday School Literature in the Sunday School"—F. Elland, T. G. Williams.

11:15 a. m., "How May We Reach and Interest those Who are Not Now Interested in the Sunday School?"—R. A. Rasco, W. A. Mims.

12 m.—Adjournment for dinner.

1:30 p. m., song service in Christian Harmony.

2 p. m., "What Are the Necessary Qualifications of a Sunday School Teacher?"—Miss M. L. Hall, Miss Anna Olson.

2:25 p. m., "Power of Kind Words and Deeds"—J. Williams, Mrs. Simonton.

2:50 p. m., "Duties of Superintendent to His School"—J. J. Stanley, S. E. Norton.

3:15 p. m., "How to Get Parents to Attend the Sunday School"—J. W. Hayes, Willie Mims.

You are cordially invited to come and bring your baskets, prepared to stay all day.

J. BICE, President.

—tf

LOMAX.

Cotton chopping is in full headway here, corn and cotton looking well Oats will be almost a failure. Sabbath school and singing at Bethany was well attended last Sunday. J. P. Robinson was absent from our midst last Sunday. Can any one give information as to his whereabouts? Mrs Nettie Aldridge, of Clanton, visited our burg Sunday. We were asked a few days ago, "had Mr. Rasco taken charge of the office of county superintendent?" We said he only has charge of a nomination, and if he gets charge of the office he'll have charge of another man's property. Mrs. W. W. Jones is quite sick, but we hope she may soon recover.

OBSERVER.

TWO LETTERS.

(The following letters explain themselves, and all should read them as a matter of justice to the man in question.—Editor Union.)

Clanton, Ala., May 13, 1904.

Mr. E. G. Rollins, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir: We have been hearing that Mr. George W. Edwards is not competent for lack of education to assess the taxes of Chilton county if he should be elected. If this be true we want to know the facts. If it is not true the people should know it. I have been requested by friends of Mr. Edwards to get your opinion in this matter regardless of your choice of the candidates that we have before us to be voted for in July. Please answer at once. Yours truly,

LEE VICKERS.

Clanton, Ala., May 14, 1904.

Mr. Lee Vickers, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir—Yours of 13th inst received and contents noted. Yes, George W. Edwards is competent to do all the work necessary to be done in the assessor's office in this county. He can make his own plats and check every acre of land returned, and make out his own books without help from any man. His education is above an average in this county. If he should come round your way, try him on land and the value of property and see what you get. So far as I know all the candidates out for this office are nice men and will if elected do their duty. I can not afford to show any partiality to any one, as all are my friends. Yours truly, E. G. ROLLINS.

TAX COLLECTOR'S SALE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County:

By virtue of decrees rendered by the probate court at the May term of said court, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder for cash, before the court house door, in Clanton, in said county, within the legal hours of sale, on the following described real estate, for the taxes and costs due thereon for the year 1903, to-wit:

FRIDAY, JUNE 10TH, 1904,

BEAT NO. 1.

Owner unknown: E 1-2 of ne 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 16, tp 23, r 15. Tax and costs $3.73.

H. M. Wilson: E 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, tp 24, r 15. Tax and costs, $4.47.

BEAT NO. 2

John Shaw or Owner Unknown: Ne 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 24, r 13. Tax and costs, $3.69.

BEAT NO. 4.

J. W. Jones: 1 1-2 acres in ne corner of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; 17 1-2 acres in nw corner of se 1-4 of nw 1-4, sec 36, t 22, r 15; sw 1-4 of se 1-4 and se 1-4 of sw 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 24, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4 and sw 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 18, t 22, r 16; sw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 17, t 22, 16; s 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 32, t 22, r 16; nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of sw 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; n 1-2 of nw 1-4, sec 32, t 22, r 16; nw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 of nw 1-4 and sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 22, r 15; se 1-4 of se 1-4, less 10 acres, sec 22, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 2, t 21, r 15; n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 27, t 22, r 15. Tax and costs, $62.22.

Magnetic Ore Co.: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 35, t 23, r 15. Tax and costs, $4.

BEAT NO. 5.

J. R. McAtee: Nw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 12, t 20, r 16. Tax and costs, $4.67.

BEAT NO. 8.

N. C. Weaver: Se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and ne 1-4 of se 1-4, and n 1-2 of nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 24, t 20, r 12. Tax and costs, $7.14.

BEAT NO. 9.

J. W. Martin: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4 sec. 5. t 23, r 14. Tax and costs, $3.39.

This 9th day of May, 1904.

T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

SUMMER NORMAL SCHOOL.

A summer normal school will open May 16th for the benefit of all who expect to take the state examination in July, and any others who wish to take any special work. From the fact that every teacher will be required to stand an examination on agriculture next January, special attention will be given to that subject. Those who desire can get instructions in expression and physical culture also. Good board can be had with private families at reasonable rates. For further information address

H. T. WALLACE,
Principal High School, Clanton, Ala.
tf

The steel plant of the Alabama Steel and Wire company at Gadsden will be making steel in a few more weeks. The plumbers and steam fitters are busy making all connections for the start. Several of the open hearth furnaces have been dried out.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for commissioner from the fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

MOSES ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

R. P. KENDRICK.

SINGING.

The fifth annual session of the Salem Singing society will be held at Salem church on the fourth Sunday in May. Everybody is invited. Come with your baskets and books.

T. L. ROBINSON, Chairman.
L. A. CALLOWAY, Secretary.
tf

J. B. Downs buys Crossties for cash, also is licensed to buy up Court Certificates. Call on him when you have anything in that line to sell. tf

NEWSY GLEANIN

New York is suffering a of measles.

It is now sure that Russia
an exhibit at the St. Louis E

Mrs. Joseph Jones, just lin, was welcomed to New Y sons, who have made their country.

The original indictments
Burr for treason and mi were found in an old book
mond, Va.

New York theatrical man levy a tax of ten cents each mentary tickets, expecting $300,000 yearly for the Actor

The syndicate which too bulk of the $32,000,000 issu York City bonds have form and will clear at least $300, deal.

Superintendent Straubmull York City, who says many east side schools in order petty thefts, claims that ten ditions breed thieves.

John Campbell Smith, of City, who seven years ago
$1,000,000, is a bankrupt.
his fortune vanished immed
lowing the Sully failure.

Robert Treat Paine tol meeting in New York City t $100,000,000 more annually t our navy than to support th schools.

President William De Wit
Bowdoin College, in an Brunswick, Me., favored th
tion of whites and negroes church and society, where th are numerous.

Joseph Battell, of Middle has bought Ellen Mounta rises 4000 feet above the to ren, Vt., and purposes to con a park for the benefit of the
the Green Mountain State.

The National Game

The Boston club has giv claim to Joe Bean's services.

Strang is playing a better second than he did at third lyn.

"The Montreal grounds," Pullman, "are the prettiest ba in existence."

The Boston National team er than last season both and fielding.

There were 177 players tr
American League in 1903, t for each team.

All the roads on the Nort can continent have an about the numbering of tr
trains south or westbound numbers, those going north are designated by even num

In the socialist party pla form there is a plank advoc
"co-operative commonwealth"
mental control of all means tion and distribution.

..My Specialty..

SHOES made of Leather.

SHOES that are Reliable.

SHOES made to Wear.

NOT a Cheap Shoddy Shoe.

Dry Goods, Groceries, Flour and Feed Stuffs, Tobacco and Snuff.

Every Department Full and Complete.

J. W. SMITH.

Former Post-office Building. Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alabama.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

2011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE

WALLACE C. EDLER, General Agent, Clanton Alabama.

CHILTON COUNTY BRANCH

PRESIDENT
ALEX G. DAKE, Clanton

SEC.-TREAS.
JUDSON STROCK, Clanton

Insure, Farmers Dwellings, outbuildings and contents, and Live stock against Loss by Fire, Wind and Lightning;—the cheapest, safest and most sensible method of Insurance known to man.

AGENTS MUST HAVE A COMMISSION SIGNED BY GENERAL AGENT
Full particulars furnished on application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

Gelder's Restaurant,

Good Meals at Reasonable Prices.

110 North 20th Street,

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

HARDWARE.

For everything in Hardware come to the Hardware Store.

Harness and Saddles

We offer you good material in this line for as little money as you will find anywhere, and will sell you any piece or part of harness you may need. Saddle blankets, stirrups and leathers, girths, halters, saddle pads, buggy and wagon whips, buggy top nuts, whip sockets, horse clips, terrets, rings etc.

Carpenter and Farming Tools.

The result of buying sorry tools is money wasted and a displeased customer, therefore we carry a good grade. Disston & Simmons saws, Stanley planes, levels, adzes, axes, level glasses and all tools generally used.

Wagon Material.

Full supply on hand at all times of tires, hubs, rims, spokes shafts, irons and rods and all repair parts.

Stoves.

There are none better than the Rural Jewel and Steel Ranges, made of good heavy material and furnish the most heat for the least fuel.

Clocks and Lamps.

We can certainly please you, for nothing better and more ornamental was ever shown in Clanton.

See our line glassware, steel enamelled ware, crockery and cutlery before you buy.

Our feed cutters, corn shellers and disc harrows will prove profitable if tried.

Call on us when in town.

SPEIGENER & JONES

Hardware Store

CLANTON, ALABAMA.

A SERMON FOR SUNDAY

AN ELOQUENT DISCOURSE ENTITLED, "NEED OF A REVIVAL"

The Rev. Dr. Philip S. Moxam Says That We Require a Fresh Conviction of the Reality of Salvation—Too Much Absorption in the Pursuit of Riches.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—In Plymouth Church the Rev. Philip S. Moxom, of Springfield, Mass., preached Sunday morning. Dr. Moxom's subject was "The Need of a Revival." He took his text from Habakkuk iii: 2: "O Jehovah, revive Thy work in the midst of the years; in the midst of the years make it known; in wrath remember mercy." Dr. Moxom said:

In times past, when the church was in a low state of religious vitality, the more spiritual of the members, distressed by the absence of vigorous life and burdened by the condition of the multitude who were looked upon as lost, sought a revival of religion. They sought by prayer, earnest and long continued, to deepen their own experience of divine grace; they sought by communion with others of like mind and by mutual exhortation to increase their zeal in the service of God; they sought by means of pungent and powerful preaching to arouse sluggish Christians and awaken careless sinners.

The "protracted meeting," as it was called, was simply a continuous series of meetings for preaching and prayer and exhortation and confession. The preacher wrought upon the consciences of men by setting forth God's claims on them and their neglect of duty. He wrought upon the fears of men by denunciations of the imminent danger and certain and terrible punishment of impenitent sinners. He wrought upon the hearts of men by vivid presentations of the love of God and portrayals of the self-sacrifice of the Son of God in making atonement for the sins of mankind on the cross. Often, if not always, much was made of the physical sufferings of Christ. Much was made also of the material pains of perdition.

An important accompaniment of the preacher's work was the work of private visitation and appeal, and the testimony of religious experience. Men told, with astonishing frankness, their sins, their doubts and fears, their repentance, their self-surrender and their joy and peace in the conscious experience of pardon. They talked of God's dealings with them with a familiarity that would be shocking, were it not, on the whole, so reverent.

The result of these combined efforts often was the awakening of a community; the meeting house was thronged with hearers, many became alarmed on account of their sins, backsliders were filled with compunction and reclaimed to their neglected fealty, the indifferent were aroused and convicted and brought to a state of deep contrition. There were numerous conversions, and the testimony of the converts increased the religious fervor of believers and produced conviction of sin and desire of salvation in other unbelievers. Considerable numbers were added to the church, and for a time the whole community was raised to a higher level of religious life, and in many instances to a higher morality.

Usually, after a time, the revival was followed by a gradual relapse into formality of religious service, coldness of religious temper, and indifference to the higher claims of the church. Fever was followed by chill, until, after months or years, a new demand arose for "a season of refreshing from the Lord." This intermittency of religious life was a characteristic feature of Protestant church life for many generations—a period covering quite 200 years. This period, extending from the seventeenth to the nineteenth centuries, was marked by great crises of religious awakening. Notable among them were those signalized by the names of Edwards, Wesley, Whitefield, Summerfield and, later, Finney and Moody.

That "revivals of religion," in what may now be called the historic sense, did great good cannot successfully be disputed; nor can it be denied that they also did much harm. On the whole, the good was in excess of the harm. "Revivals" were in accord with the religious ideas prevalent at the time, and were a natural product of those ideas. During their hectic existence many individual men and women were transformed from lives of wickedness or vanity to lives of virtue and unselfish service to their fellow men. Reverence for God was deepened and faith in God was stimulated and nourished.

The evils were incident to the mistaken theology that held supreme place in the churches and largely supplanted the simplicity of the gospel of Christ. These evils were very great, and the effect of them still remains, though in diminishing degree. Among them may be noted a false, or at least, mistaken and inadequate, motive for Christian propaganda, a mischievous separation between religion and morality, an unnatural and feverish piety that, on the one hand, became a morbid sentimentalism, or, on the other, degenerated into a formalism not less real because often it was not ritualistic.

Wrong ideas of God and Christ and sin and salvation and righteousness and the hereafter were rooted so deep that they could be destroyed only by a criticism so drastic that it has seemed to tear up fundamental truth of the spiritual life. A kind of orthodoxy was established that perpetuated, if it did not create, opposition between nature and providence, science and faith, the business of life and the interests of the immortal soul. It produced an artificiality of life which stimulated self-deception and hypocrisy and gave great opportunity and scope to the bigot. Much of the irreligion of to-day, or what is rather indiscriminately called irreligion, is simply reaction, though often unconscious, from the unreality of yesterday.

At the present time an attempt is being made to restore the revival methods of last century. Organizations have been formed the more efficiently to prosecute this attempt. In the nature of the case, the attempt will fail. It will fail because it is not in accord with prevailing ideas of religion—of God and man and their mutual relations and of human development and destiny. The principle of evolution has overthrown, not the truths, but the structural principles and the elaborate theory of the old theology. The new biology has made necessary a new theology, and a new theology is already diffused in the atmosphere of the common thought.

But I speak of this attempt now not to criticise it; I would rather welcome it if it contained any promise of real good. I speak of it particularly because it indicates and emphasizes a growing feeling that all is not right with the church and society today, and the deepening surmise, if it is not yet generally a conviction, that we are in great need of a true revival of religion.

No one can justly criticise the present life of our country without recognizing and confessing that it presents to the view very many features which awaken feelings of gratitude and hope. Charity was never so abundant and wise. The morals of the average business man were never better. Laws were never more humane and just. Politics were never less corrupt. The beneficent enterprises of the Christian church in all the world were never so intelligent and sympathetic and efficient. Whatever abatements we must make, because of certain obvious and perplexing facts, these propositions are, in the main, true.

On the other hand there is an absorbing devotion to the pursuit of riches. The haste to be rich is like an epidemic fever. There is an exaggerated appreciation of mere materiality. This widely affects commercial and industrial enterprise. Many corporations strive, by attempted monopoly, to increase profits already large, or, by combination and the promotion of vast schemes for further consolidation, seek to turn paper securities into money. Many of these schemes, in effect, if not in intention, are fraudulent. Labor unions, overstepping their legitimate purpose of protecting laboring men from oppression and securing for them a just share of the products of labor, are seeking to create a labor oligarchy and to extort money from employers in excess of what many industries can bear, and limiting the opportunities of the unskilled for entering the ranks of skilled artisans. Fraud, bribery, extortion, and even blackmail have become startlingly common.

Society is full of unrest and discontent because of the exaggerated estimate put upon material possessions. Side by side with great strenuousness in the pursuit of wealth there is, on the part of many who have achieved or inherited fortunes, increasing luxury and self-indulgence. This is reproduced, in varying degrees, in every stratum of society, from the most to the least wealthy. There are also, apparently, an increase of irreverence for what is sacred, an indifference to tradition that amounts sometimes to contempt for long established principles, and a growth of race prejudice and selfish passion manifested in frequent eruptions of furious or cynical lawlessness. Religion, confounded with dogma or ritual, is held by many in little esteem, and the church is neglected by thousands who once gave it their support and by thousands more who, in the natural course of life, should be among its supporters. In the churches there is a lack of spiritual fervor and a decline of faith in God.

I think that I have not misstated the actual conditions. With no taint of pessimism in my mood; on the contrary, with a high appreciation of all the good in the present life of our country, I am forced to the conviction that there is great need now of a revival of true religion. What does this mean? What is the religion a revival of which we need? It is a great and controlling sense of God, as the Creator, Sovereign, Father and Saviour of the soul.

The nineteenth century was distinguished by the emergencies of a new and deeper sense of the worth of man. This dramatically began in the upheaval of the French Revolution. It was manifested in the growing demand for popular liberty, in the rise of the workingman, in the extension of political suffrage, in the development of popular education, in the rapid growth of the Sunday-school, in the spread of the missionary spirit, in a new care for children, in prison reform, in the breaking down of religious exclusiveness and the tyranny of dogma, and in many other ways. The twentieth century calls for a fresh awakening of the sense of God as the source and law and goal of human existence, both individual and social.

We need a reperception of the reality of God in the world. Avowed atheism, the positive denial of God, is rare; practical atheism is common. Many men have not God "in all their thoughts." They have a widened idea of law in the universe, but it is vague and impersonal. They need to realize afresh the integrity of the divine government. There is a divine government of the world—a government that makes for good and against evil, that is the foundation and source of all just human law, that is the ground of individual and social responsibility and that rewards righteousness and punishes wickedness.

This sense of God as a sovereign must be vitalized by the sense of God as the Infinite Person. If I seem to limit the divine Being by using terms that are properly applicable only to finite being and human modes of thought, it is to be said that the term personality does not necessarily imply any limitation. We must think of God under forms of our own rational and moral being, and our very nature demands the answer of a divine person to the persistent and illimitable needs of the human person.

For a time many have lost the personal God in impersonal law and impersonal force. The divine immanence is grasped in a way that excludes the complementary idea of transcendence. There cannot be real transcendence without personality. The being who thinks and wills and loves, even in finite limits, is greater than an impersonal universe. Man is greater than God, if God be only law. But he craves a deity whom he can revere and trust and love with all the force of personal being. As the mind needs and demands the fundamental conception of unity in order to a rational interpretation of the world; as the conscience needs and demands the sense of universal and inviolable law, so the heart needs and demands the consciousness of a perfect and responsive goodness—the Almighty Father—manifesting and exercising compassion, love and providence and revealing Himself in communion with His child. These expressions must have vivid meaning as expressions of reality. The rule of God is in and over the soul, as well as in and over the material world, and this rule is the manifestation of God as the Holy Spirit.

We need a renewed sense of the reality of revelation as a past and present communication of the divine will to man. A mere historic God is remote and ineffective. He must be contemporary. If He spoke once He must still speak; not in ways of theophany and miracle, but in ways that are authentic and authoritative to consciousness. This does not invalidate historic revelation, but it clears it of error and confusion. Jesus represents and embodies both. He knew the historic revelation as it was expressed in the life and literature of the Hebrew people, and in some measure formed His thought on its disclosures of the divine nature and will. But He knew also its defects and limitations, and He knew God immediately, as man may legitimately and naturally know Him, because He is God's child. So there is need of a new sense of Jesus as man in full communion with God.

Finally, we need a new sense of the reality of the soul. Once men ignored the body, save as they indulged or abused it. We have come to appreciate its importance and to care for it in countless ways, but it bulks too large on our view. It is not an end, but an instrument. The soul is in an organism, but is not it nor a mere affluence from it. The soul is the man. Personality is the crowning fact. It means knowledge, power, character, immortality. If man is only a cunning organism he needs and asks no immortality. But, because he is a person—a spiritual being, with power to think and will and love, with memory and forecast, with unmeasured capacity for joy and sorrow, with a sense for truth and righteousness and God—in his best moments he requires immortality that he may have scope adequate to his consciousness of power, actual or attainable; and he takes his hunger for it as God's assurance that the promise of present experience will have fulfillment in the future. In his baser moments, having exhausted his body by labor or by dissipation, he longs only for rest from weariness of nerves or the tyranny of appetite. Then immortality has no charm, and belief in it sinks into a doubt and often into a denial. It is not science, but subjection to sensation till it rules us, that breeds the doubt of immortality. When we live on the higher planes of our being we feel the real significance of life, and catch glimpses of its far stretching horizon.

The reality of God as sovereign and father, the reality of revelation as a past and present experience of divine communication, the reality of salvation as a fulfillment of life, and the reality of the soul as the imperishable person—these, freshly seen and felt as the great and permanent elements of human experience, will new create the august and commanding sense of duty, dissolve and dissipate the materialism which degrades our nature, ennoble life by giving it a new value, revive the spirit of prayer and worship and put new energy into all our moral enterprise. It is our shallowness, or utter want, of spiritual life that robs us of power and joy as children of God.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR MAY 22.

Subject: Jesus Teaches Humility, Mark x., 35-45—Golden Text, Mark x., 45—Memory Verses, 43-45—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. An ambitious request (vs. 35-37). 35. "James and John." According to Matt. 20: 20, they made this request through their mother, Salome. She was one of the constant attendants of our Lord, and now falling on her knees, made her request. Nothing could have been more ill-timed than this selfish petition when He was going forth to His death. "Sons of Zebedee.") "The father, though named, never appears in gospel history after their discipleship; from which it is inferred that he was either dead or of an insignificant character." "Saying." However faulty the conduct of Salome appears on this occasion, she manifested a true, undying love for the Saviour in the most trying times of His subsequent sufferings. She was not solely attracted to Him by the ties of self-interest or hopes of royal bounty. She stood by Him to the last at the cross, and was among the earliest who came to embalm Him at the grave. "Master." Matthew says that Salome came worshiping Him. She recognized Him as the divine King—the Messiah. Her reverence was none the less real from the fact that she came desiring a favor at His hand.

36. "What would ye?" He could not promise in a general way to grant their requests; they must state definitely what it is they desire. Here is an argument in favor of special prayer. 37. "Grant unto us." This request: 1. Displayed their ignorance of Christ's plans. They were looking for a kingdom of this world and a temporal Messiah. 2. Was marked by forwardness and presumption. 3. Was characterized by worldliness. It apparently looked no further than the present life.

II. Christ's reply (vs. 38-40). 38. "Ye know not." You do not know the nature of your request, nor what it would involve. You suppose that if granted it would be attended only with honor and happiness; whereas, it would require much suffering and trial. "How often is it that our desires, and perhaps even our prayers, would ruin us if granted? Hence Christians are generally, with much justice, careful how they specify before God in prayer the particular blessing they desire. They may in their ignorance ask things that God sees not best. "The cup." To drink of a cup often, in the Scriptures, signifies to be afflicted, or sometimes to be punished (Is. 51: 17, 22; Psa. 75: 8). The figure is taken from a feast, where the master of the household distributes to his children and servants their allowance. The "cup" is used to represent the dispensation of providence; the Almighty as our common Father appointing to each of us our share of joy or suffering.

39. "We can." This was the decision of the two brothers. The half unconscious, yet presumptuous reply was no doubt uttered under the impression that the struggle was to take place at Jerusalem, in which, perhaps, they were to fight by His side, and they declared themselves ready for the trial. Their reply was simply the language of human firmness. "Ye shall, indeed, etc." You shall undergo sufferings patterned after Mine. They had yet to learn how serious their words were; afterwards they were enabled to drink of that cup and to be baptized with that baptism. To St. James was given strength to be steadfast unto death and to be the first martyr of the apostolic band (Acts 12: 2). Although John survived all of the apostles and died a natural death, yet all antiquity ascribes to him the glory of living in the spirit of martyrdom (Rev. 1: 9).

40. "Not mine to give." As a special favor. This must not be understood to mean that Christ does not reward His followers, for such a statement would be at variance with the uniform testimony of the Scriptures (Matt. 25: 31-40; John 5: 22-29). Rewards and punishments will be given in accordance with certain fixed rules and principles. In the distribution of heavenly honors no favor or partiality is shown. "For whom; prepared." The true meaning is that such distinction could not be given except to those "for whom it is prepared." And for whom is heavenly honor prepared? Not to every one who saith Lord, Lord; but to the holy in heart, to the "Israelite indeed," to the true circumcision (Rom. 2: 29; Phil. 3: 3), to the one who enters in at the "strait gate" (Matt. 7: 13, 14) and who presses "toward the mark" (Phil. 3: 14).

III. "A lesson in humility (vs. 41-45). 41. "The ten." The other ten apostles. "Heard it." Heard of this bold request made by Salome and her sons. "Much displeased." Moved with indignation. The sons of Zebedee had been in a better social position than most of their brethren, and this attempt to secure a pre-eminence of honor kindled a storm of jealousy. 42. "Saith unto them." Our Lord soothed their jealousy by assuring them that in His kingdom there were no lordships. "Accounted to rule, etc." That is, those who are in a position to exercise authority and dominion, such as princes and governors, use their power to gratify their worldly ambitions and their love of ruling. 43. "Not so among you" (R. V.) The principles of My kingdom are entirely different and are peculiar to themselves. There are to be no ranks and no high sounding titles. All are to be on a level—the rich, the poor, the bond, the free, the learned and the unlearned. He will be the most distinguished who shows the greatest humility. Our Lord does not here mean that there shall be no orders in the Christian Church, or even in heaven. But these church orders are founded on the principle of service rather than lordship. The officer of the church is truly the servant of the church, and if he exercise authority from any other motive he is guilty of worldly ambition. He is repeating the misdoings of James and John. "Will be great." There is a holy ambition which every true Christian should possess, an ambition not for place, but for ability to serve.

44. "The chiefest." The only superiority here to be sought is a superiority in labors and suffering for the common good. If any would be great let him be the greatest servant. 45. "Came: to minister." Jesus points to Himself as an example for them to follow. He was not a self-seeker and came not to be ministered unto; but He came to minister—to serve. This was the character of His life. The Son of Man ministers to the sons of men. "To give His life." The Son of Man showed Himself the greatest of all by enduring the greatest sufferings and making the greatest sacrifice of all. "A ransom." The literal meaning is a price paid for the redemption of captives. Christ died in the place of sinners. "For many." This does not always mean many. All the great poets of the world are not many. But the persons for whom Christ died are many—incalculably numerous; not one has been left out.

Captain F. W. Dickens, now in command of the navy yard at Pensacola, will succeed Captain Wilde as commandant of the League Island navy yard.

Felix Hubbard, Opelika's blind man, is dead. He was one of the land marks of the town.

The supposed boll weevil found at Newton, Miss., is proven to be another insect.

During April Gadsden handled 2,187 cars. Alabama City handled 1,399.

Alabama Red Men are in session at Selma.

Vassili Verestchagin, the celebrated painter, who was among those lost by the sinking of the Petropavlovsk at Port Arthur, was a man in many ways remarkable. Few modern painters have been more discussed. His name is connected with scenes of war, and he spent a considerable part of his life following the route of armies or studying the localities where great battles were fought. The painter's mission, as he conceived it, was to depict the horrors of war, in their grim truth, in order that the world might learn how cruel and wicked a thing it is for armed men to be sent to do battle against one another.

Scientific investigation has discovered that that troublesome disease, dyspepsia, can be cured by short intervals of exposure to intense cold, followed by hearty eating. A Swiss gentleman produced an artificial temperature in a pit which caused the thermometer to sink to 110 degrees below zero. Among other experiments he exposed himself for a brief interval to this temperature. On emerging he found himself intensely hungry and ate freely. The process was repeated several times, and he found himself cured of chronic indigestion, from which he had suffered for years.

A correspondent writing from Constantinople gives details of the collection of jewels in the sultan's treasury. "The turbans of all the sultans since Mahomet II," says he, "are there, all glittering with rare and large gems of the purest water. There are also the royal throne of Persia, carried off by the Turks in 1514, and covered with more than 20,000 rubies, emeralds and fine pearls, and also the throne of Suleiman I, from the dome of which there hangs over the head of the caliph an emerald six inches long and four deep. These two thrones are the chief objects in the collection."

Forty-four hundred and forty-nine injuries resulted from the celebrations of July 4, 1903, in the country at large. There were 406 deaths due to lockjaw for which the toy pistol was responsible. Other forms of mortal injury took sixty victims. There were ten persons who were made blind, seventy-five who lost one eye, fifty-four who lost hands, arms or legs, 174 who lost fingers and 3,670 who received other injuries.

At a recent meeting of French cotton manufacturers in Paris one of their number admitted that he had tested cotton grown in the Soudan and that it was unfit for manufacturing purposes—that it never could compete with American cotton. He went on to say that nowhere else in the world could cotton be grown equal to that grown in the United States.

Henry Marr, just a plain farmer, who lives near Columbus, Bartholomey county, Ind., is the center man of the population of the whole United States. The census bureau has found that the exact center of population at the census of 1900 was in "Hen Marr's barn lot." The spot was recently marked by a monument.

Yuan Shi-kai, viceroy of Pechili, China, has issued a proclamation dealing with yellow journalists, and has published the same in the papers of his province. The first paragraph reads: "Any one creating wild rumors calculated to alarm or produce doubt in the people's mind will be beheaded."

Managers of department stores in Chicago have announced that the pompadour when worn on the heads of their various shopgirls must be forever abolished. It is claimed that a girl who wears her hair in this fashion is extremely negligent of her duties.

The conquest of Egypt by the Saracens deprived Europe of papyrus and caused a sort of hiatus in the history of the world for the simple reason that people making records, etc., scratched out ancient writings on that parchment in order to use it over again, thus losing to the world most valuable records.

A loon was shot recently in Connecticut, and when it was opened, twelve hours later, five salt water frogs were found inside it. Three of them were alive and frisky, while the others were in a comatose state, and afterwards died.

Could You Use Any Kind of a Sewing Machine at Any Price?

If there is any price so low, any offer so liberal that you would think of accepting on trial a new high grade, drop cabinet or upright Minnesota, Singer, Wheeler & Wilson, Standard, White or New Home Sewing Machine, cut out and return this notice, and you will receive by return mail, postpaid, free of cost, the handsomest sewing machine catalogue ever published. It will name you prices on the Minnesota, Singer, Wheeler & Wilson, White, Standard and New Home sewing machines that will surprise you; we will make you a new and attractive proposition, a sewing machine offer that will astonish you.

If you can make any use of any sewing machine at any price, if any kind of an offer would interest you, don't fail to write us at once (be sure to cut out and return this special notice) and get our latest book, our latest offers, our new and most surprising proposition. Address

SEARS, ROEBUCK & Co., Chicago.

If the average man had his life to live over again he would probably make more mistakes than ever.

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, s to young women about dangers of Menstrual Period — how to avoid pai suffering and remove the cause by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Comp

"To YOUNG WOMEN:—I suffered for six years with d rhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every m knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The do this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendag by repeated and neglected colds.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to tak this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Th for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I s take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished ably. I kept up the treatment, and was cured a month later.
another person since. I am in perfect health, my eyes are bright added 12 pounds to my weight, my color is good, and I feel happy."—MISS AGNES MILLER, 25 Potomac Ave., Chicago, I

The monthly sickness reflects the condition of a w health. Anything unusual at that time should have and proper attention. Fifty thousand letters from wome that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regulat struation and makes those periods painless.

READ WHAT MISS LINDBECK SAYS:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E
ham's Vegetable Compound has gre fitted me. I will tell you how I suffe trouble was painful menstruation. I fel month went by that I was getting wors severe bearing-down pains in my back a
men.

"A friend advised me to try Mrs. P medicine. I did so and am now free pain during my periods."—JESSIE C.
1201 6th Street, Rockford, Ill.

FREE ADVICE TO WOME

Remember, every woman is o invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham is anything about her symptoms
not understand. Mrs. Pinkham's ad Lynn, Mass., her advice is free and cheerfully given to e ing woman who asks for it. Her advice has restored t more than one hundred thousand women. Why don't it, my sick sisters?

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and s above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.
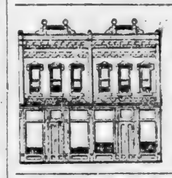
Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Ly



STORE FRONT

For all kinds and sizes of Store Buildings. We furnish all mat into the construction of Store Fronts. Write us about your p Inquire state dimensions and style of front and we will send y CHARGE, an elegant Blue Print Plan, and quote you an price on one of our popular

Beautiful, Everlastin

Modern Store Fronts. We give you all the style of an elegant Chicago store at moderate cost. Send for Catalogue.

SOUTHERN FOUNDRY CO., Owensboro,

Our money winning books, written by men who know, tell you all about

Potash

They are needed by every man who owns a field and a plow, and who desires to get the most out of them.

They are free. Send postal card,
GERMAN KALI WORKS
New York—98 Nassau Street,
or
Atlanta, Ga.—22½ So. Broad St.

WORMS

"I write to let you know how I appreciate your Cascarets. I commenced taking them last November and took two ten cent boxes and passed a tapeworm 16 ft. long. Then I commenced taking them again and Wednesday, April 4th, I passed another tape worm 28 ft. long and over a thousand small worms. Previous to my taking Cascarets I didn't know I had a tape-worm. I always had a small appetite."
Wm. F. Brown, 184 Franklin St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Best for The Bowels
Cascarets
CANDY CATHARTIC
THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

Pleasant, Palatable, Potent, Taste Good, Do Good, Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped CCC. Guaranteed to cure or your money back.
Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or N.Y. 324
ANNUAL SALE, TEN MILLION BOXES

The bankers of Hood R
refuse to accept saloon d mayor (whose wife is p
the W. C. T. U.) resigned
because the councilmen
work with him for a more municipal government fr
perance standpoint.

An Armenian gentlem scheme for disarming the making all mankind peac
main feature of his plan
of the nations which will
and an international army
men.

FREE to WO
A Large Trial Box and structions absolutely Free paid, enough to prove th
Paxtine Toilet An

Paxtine
form water—
and far antisepti alcohol inflame have no
erties.
of every more A tion—
goes fur uses in does mo
antisept
you can

The formula of a noted Bos
and used with great success
Wash, for Leucorrhœa, Pelvic C
Catarrh, Sore Throat, Sore
and all soreness of mucous m

In local treatment of female invaluable. Used as a Vag challenge the world to produ
thoroughness. It is a revelati and healing power; it kills a cause inflammation and disch
All leading druggists keep Pax
a box; if yours does not, send to take a substitute—there is noth
Write for the Free Box of P
R. PAXTON CO., 7 Pope Bldg.

Am. 21, 1904.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson'

GREAT PIANO SALE

E. FORBES CO.,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.,

s and People of the
Buy Pianos Cheaper
Than They Have Ever Known Before.

E. Forbes Piano Co.'s sale
ink G. Fite pianos continues, eat many people from all
e south have already avail
lves of the opportunity to out factory cost high-class ome of them have paid cash have preferred to take ad
f our part cash and long
ent. We have part of Alabama and in y instances in Georgia, Mis sippi, South Carolina and
and even Texas. The ad
this sale, besides the one roney, is that the pianos are ainly on price is made every ca
person may buy a pia
st as cheap and just as sat
as a person who goes in m, and there too many run every piano
d as represented or money
People from able to save after paying the
he new pianos
of second-hand pianos and hich may 10 cash and
and organs that range from 0 each. Not only that, but se pianos or organs will be
k within five years and ex or an upright piano if the prefers. No matter in what
e state or in what part of
you live, if you want to own
you should buy one in this people from every part and ion of the south are availing
s of this opportunity.

n from Mobile
a $350 piano in Mahogany paid but $223.50 for it, and only part ash. The rest we agreed to ey time payments.

n from Texas
a Pianola for $155 which
ly shop worn, but in every
as as good as new and yet 50 after paying the freight.

man in eastern Geor-
d read the many news arti-
this Piano Sale wrote us
he did not have the money
s that she could not afford
all, but that she liked music
d to know if we did not music boxes. We answer-
e did, and after some corre-
sold her a Regina music

matter in what part of the e south you live, we want to
you. Tell us what you want
in the next mail will come cessary information.

Forbes Piano Co.
rers of as well as dealers in rgans and mus.c boxes
GHAM, - - ALABAMA
stores: Montgomery,
ton and Mobile.
gains at Each Store.

otton Gin chinery

MUNGER
WINSHIP.
SMITH.
e most complete line of any world. We also make
ES and BOILERS,
RS for OIL MILLS.
thing needed about a Cotton Gin.
for Illustrated Catalogue.
nental Gin Co.,
rmingham, Ala.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.
Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, G.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Agnes Miller, of Chicago, sp
g women about dangers of al Period — how to avoid pain and remove the cause by
. Pinkham's Vegetable Compo

a Women:—I suffered for six years with dy periods, so much so that I dreaded every mon three or four days of intense pain. The doc ever, inflamed condition of the uterine appendages
I neglected colds.
I never only realized how dangerous it is to take ow much suffering would be spared them. Tha Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was t to help me any. Within three weeks after I s ot a marked improvement in my general health ext monthly period the pain had diminished c ome treatment, and was cured a month later. I since been in perfect health, my eyes are brighter ks to my weight, my color is good, and I feel li AGNES MILLER, 25 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ibly sickness reflects the condition of a w thing unusual at that time should have ttention. Fifty thousand letters from wome Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regulate makes those periods painless.

EAD WHAT MISS LINDBECK SAYS:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E ham's Vegetable Compound has great fitted me. I will tell you how I suffere trouble was painful menstruation. I felt month went by that I was getting worse severe bearing-down pains in my back a
men.
"A friend advised me to try Mrs. Pi medicine. I did so and am now free pain during my periods."—JESSIE C. L
1201 6th Street, Rockford, Ill.

FREE ADVICE TO WOME
Remember, every woman is c
invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham
is anything about her symptoms
not understand. Mrs. Pinkham's ad her advice is free and cheerfully given to e who asks for it. Her advice has restored to e hundred thousand women. Why don't sters?

FEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and s testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.
Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Ly

STORE FRONT
For all kinds and sizes of Store Buildings. We furnish all mate Southern Store Fronts. Write us about your pr
ing. Tell us the dimensions and style of front and we will send you CHARGE, an elegant Blue Print Plan, and quote you an e
Place on cars at your depot.
Beautiful, Everlastin
We give you all the style of an elegant Send for Catalogue.
SOUTHERN FOUNDRY CO., Owensboro, K

OUR REE
INDS
FOR RMERS
winning books,
n who know, tell ash
lied by every man
d and a plow, and
get the most out
Send postal card
ALL WORKS
nau Street.
-23, So. Broad St.
RMS
ow how I appreciate your l taking them last Novemt power and passed a tape-
I commenced taking them
April 4th, I passed another d over a thousand small taking Cascarets I didn't rm. I always had a small ankin St., Brooklyn, N. Y. eat for e Bowels
arets
CATHARTIC
WHILE YOU SLEEP
tent, Taste Good, Do Good.
r Grips 10c, 25c, 50c. Never ine tablet stamped C C C. ur money back.
o., Chicago or N.Y. 594
N MILLION BOXES

The bankers of Hood R
refuse to accept saloon de mayor (whose wife is pr
the W. C. T. U.) resigned
because the councilmen
work with him for a more
municipal government fr
perance standpoint.

An Armenian gentlema scheme for disarming the making all mankind peace
main feature of his plan
of the nations which will
and an international army
men.

FREE to WO
A Large Trial Box and structions absolutely Fre
paid, enough to prove th
Paxtine Toilet An

Paxtine
form to water —
and far su
antiseptic alcohol w inflamed have no
erties.
of every more A tion — h
goes fur uses in does mo
antisepti
you can

The formula of a noted Bost
and used with great success
Wash, for Leucorrhœa, Pelvic C
Catarrh, Sore Throat, Sore
and all soreness of mucus m
In local treatment of female invaluable. Used as a Vagin
challenge the world to produ
thoroughness. It is a revelati and healing power; it kills all
cause inflammation and disch
All leading druggists keep Pax
a box; if yours does not, send to
take a substitute — there is noth
Write for the Free Box of P
B. PAXTON CO., 7 Pope Bldg

Am. 21, 1904.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson'

GREAT PIANO SALE

E. FORBES CO., BIRMINGHAM, ALA., s and People of the Buy Pianos Cheaper They Have Ever Known Before.

E. Forbes Piano Co.'s sale
nk G Fite pianos continues,
eat many people from all
he south have already avail-selves of the opportunity to bout factory cost high-class
Some of them have paid cash s have preferred to take ad-of our part cash and long ment. We have sold pianos part of Alabama and in a y instances in Georgia, Florissippi, South Carolina and
and even Texas. The ad-of this sale, besides the one money, is that the prices are plainly on every piano and price is made every one,
person may buy a piano
just as cheap and just as sat-as a person who lives in am, and then, too, they run every piano in this sale is
d as represented or money
People from a distance able to save from $75 to
after paying the freight.
he new pianos, there is a k of second-hand pianos and which may be bought on a $10 cash and $2.50 per month.
and organs that range from each. Not only that, but se pianos or organs will be
k within five years and ex-for an upright piano if the prefers. No matter in what
e state or in what part of
you live, if you want to own
you should buy one in this
people from every part and ion of the south are availing
s of this opportunity.

n from Mobile

a $350 piano in Mahogany paid but $223.50 for it, there-more than a hundred dollars to the freight.

n from Montgomery

a $250 piano in Walnut case $147.50 for it and only part sh. The rest we agreed to y time payments.

n from Texas

a Pianola for $155 which
ly shop worn, but in every was as good as new and yet 50 after paying the freight.

man in eastern Geor-

d read the many news arti-
this Piano Sale wrote us
he did not have the money
s that she could not afford
all, but that she liked music
d to know if we did not
music boxes. We answer-did, and after some corre-
sold her a Regina music

atter in what part of the e south you live, we want to
you. Tell us what you want
in the next mail will come essary information.

Forbes Piano Co.

ers of as well as dealers in rgans and mus.c boxes
HAM, - - ALABAMA
stores: Montgomery,
ton and Mobile.
gains at Each Store.

otton Gin chinery

MUNGER.
WINSHIP.
SMITH.
most most complete line of any
world. We also make
ES and BOILERS,
RS for OIL MILLS.
thing needed about a Cotton Gin.
for Illustrated Catalogue.
ental Gin Co.,
rmingham, Ala.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.
Removes all swelling in 3 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

DR. J. H. McLEAN'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Pleasant Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

SOCIETY WRECKED HER LIFE.

Tired, Nervous, Aching, Trembling, Sleepless, Bloodless.

Pe-ru-na Renovates, Regulates, Restores.

A Pretty New York Woman's Recovery the Talk of Her Numerous Friends.

Mrs. J. E. Finn, 83 East High street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes:

Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—"A few years ago I had to give up social life entirely, as my health was completely broken down. The doctor advised a complete rest for a year. As this was out of the question for a time, I began to look for some other means of restoring my health.

"I had often heard of Peruna as an excellent tonic, so I bought a bottle to see what it would do for me, and it certainly took hold of my system and rejuvenated me, and in less than two months I was in perfect health, and now when I feel worn out or tired a dose or two of Peruna is all that I need."—Mrs. J. E. Finn.

Mrs. J. W. Reynolds, Elkton, Ohio, writes:

"I owe my health and life to Peruna. We rarely call in a physician; in fact, it has been years since I have taken any other medicine than yours. I am afraid of drugs, and although I have been sick many times I have taken only your medicines. They are wonderful, indeed. We have a very large house and entertain a great deal and I do all my own work, thanks to Peruna."—Mrs. J. W. Reynolds.

In Society.

A woman in society is obliged to keep late hours. She must attend receptions and balls. She seldom allows herself a quiet evening at home. Her whole time is taken up in keeping engagements or entertaining in her own home.

Her system becomes completely run down as a consequence. She soon finds herself in a condition known as systemic catarrh. This has also been called catarrhal nervousness.

If every society woman could know the value of Peruna at such a time, if they could realize the invigorating, strengthening effect that Peruna would have, how much misery could be avoided.

Letters from society women all over the United States testify to the fact that Peruna is the tonic for a run down, depleted nervous system.

Free Treatment for Women.

Any woman wishing to be placed on the list of Dr. Hartman's patients for free home treatment and advice should immediately send name and symptoms, duration of disease and treatment already tried. Directions for the first month's treatment will be promptly mailed free of charge. No free medicine will be supplied by the doctor, but all necessary directions will be furnished.

Read what the above ladies have to say of Peruna as a cure for these cases.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

FEET HURT Sweat, Itch, Blister? ROYAL FOOT WASH cures them. Removes odors of feet, armpits, etc.; stops chafing. If not at druggists send 25c to EATON DRUG CO., ATLANTA, GA., for full size, postpaid; sample for 2c stamp. One application proves its merit. Money back if not satisfied.

AT THE FIRST SIGN

Of Torturing, Disfiguring Humors Use

CUTICURA

Every child born into the world with an inherited or early developed tendency to torturing, disfiguring humors of the Skin and Scalp, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering, but because of the dreadful fear that the disfiguration is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest, and most effective treatment available, viz.: the CUTICURA Treatment, consisting of warm baths with CUTICURA Soap, and gentle anointings with CUTICURA Ointment, the great Skin Cure. Cures made in childhood are speedy, permanent and economical.

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Soap, 25c., Ointment, 50c., Resolvent, 50c. (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60). Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors.

Send for "How to Cure Torturing, Disfiguring Humors from Infancy to Age."

MOORE & HANDLEY HARDWARE CO.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

We are Headquarters for

MACHINERY

OF ALL KINDS

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

Weldon, Ala., May 7, 1904.
"Moore & Handley Hardware Co.,
"Birmingham, Ala.

"Gentlemen:

"The Rival Shingle Machine that I purchased of you some time since is giving perfect satisfaction. I call it a 'Dandy.' I can cut twenty-five (25) thousand per day on it. I can safely recommend the Rival Shingle Machine to any one that is wanting a One Block Mill.

"Yours truly,
"W. A. WILDER."

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The man who thinks a good deal of his wife should not attempt to conceal his thoughts when he is alone with her.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

We often hear of a middle aged man, but never of a middle aged woman. A woman is either young or old.

Piso's Cure cannot be too highly spoken of as a cough cure.—J. W. O'BRIEN, 322 Third Avenue, N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

If you will take the trouble to investigate you will discover that a popular man has no radical opinions.

Dry Rot in Big Trees.

The famous oak trees about the University of California are, many of them, suffering from dry rot. The decayed matter is to be removed and the cavities formed thereby are to be disinfected with coal tar and filled with cement.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Railroad on Cypress.

The Island of Cypress in the Mediterranean, will soon have a railroad from coast to coast. The amount of 8,000,000 francs has been appropriated for its construction. Engineers with their staffs have already arrived on the ground.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

There seems, indeed, to be no doubt that Russia was brought to a crisis of her fate, when, without adequate provocation or preparation, she was plunged by her bureaucracy into a war with a highly trained and well equipped antagonist at the further end of Asia.

French economists are asserting that when a monopoly becomes injurious it shou'd be bought by the State and managed in the interest of the public. This question has gone so far beyond the theory that M. Rouvier, the Minister of Finance, has seriously thought of taking in hand the refining of oil.

The wages of a common soldier in the regular army of Russia do not amount to more than one cent a day, though his food, clothing and equipment are provided by the government. His regular allowances for spending money for all purposes is just a little more than a ruble a year, but extras of various kinds bring the grand total up to a little less than $4. This sum is supposed to cover all his expenditures for tobacco, spirits and luxuries of every kind. The enlisted men in the United States army are paid more than three times that amount per month.

"As things are nowadays in the theater we never see a really good dramatic performance," declared Minnie Fiske, the actress. "I mean that there are always one or two or more players who are not thoroughly fitted to their parts; they are out or tune. No good conductor would think of leading an orchestra in which there was a single instrument out of tune. He must have and does have trained musicians capable of giving the precise value of every note in the score. But in our casts of today, be they never so small, there is always at least one actor out of tune."

After the overcoming of disheartening difficulties and the expenditure of six million dollars, the "Lucin cut-off" across the Great Salt Lake has been opened to regular railroad traffic. The cut-off shortens the distance between Ogden and Reno forty-three miles, but more important than the saving of distance is the abolishment of steep grades. The first through freight between the two cities mentioned was able to save seven hours on the old running time. The cost, therefore, was only a little over eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars an hour.

A modern navy is not one of the cheap luxuries. Senator Hale has stated that the Navy Department proposes to retire the battleships "Oregon," "Indiana," "Massachusetts" and "Texas" to the purposes of coast defence in 1908. The "Oregon" was launched only in 1896, so that her life as a first-class fighting ship will be only twelve years. The "Oregon" cost $5,000,000, but the battleships are now costing $8,000,000. Any war ship now becomes virtually obsolete in a dozen or fifteen years, and we must figure on practically a new navy at the end of that period. A merchant steamer lasts on the average twenty years. It is well known that the big naval guns are also very short-lived. The biggest are worthless after a hundred shots. The metal becomes crystallized by the shock of the explosions and loses its tensile strength, thus making it dangerous.

The United States now leads the world in the production of salt, furnishing 23 per cent. of the entire supply. Great Britain is second, Germany third and France fourth. The world's total production is 12,000,000 short tons. Recent figures show that the production of salt in this country exceeds 20,000,000 barrels, which is nearly four times as much as it was twenty years ago. Of this total more than 2,000,000 barrels is table and dairy salt, and more than 7,000,000 barrels common salt. The States producing the greatest amount of salt are Michigan and New York, each with more than 7,000,000 barrels annually and Kansas and Ohio with about 2,000,000 and 1,000,000 barrels respectively, followed by California, Utah and West Virginia. The output in other States is comparatively small. In point of purity as well as the amount of production of salt the United States leads.

A certain condescension with which military critics have been congratulating Japan upon her sucessful application of our teachings is changing to an uncomfortable sense that we Occidentals are every day learning hard lessons from Japan. The demonstration of the efficacy of unarmored vessels, the successful operation of contact mines as a means of offence, all new chapters to naval theory and we may not lightly flatter ourselves that these formidable inventions are merely the obvious application of our teachings. No; this remarkable mastery of the machinery framed by the Western mind denotes not simply that the Japanese have caught up with us and surpassed us in a single generation of conscious imitation; it means rather that in feudal Japan there were qualities of mind stable enough to bear the impact of new facts and accurate enough to master them. The successes of Japan to-day in scientific warfare are due to that immemorial discipline of hand, heart, and head which has made the Japanese mind.

WOMAN'S WORLD TALKS

SEALING FRUIT CANS.

When canning fruits, the juice should be allowed to overflow the top after the rubber has been put on. Seal the can without wiping this juice off, as it thickens when cold and helps the make the can air-tight.

WHEN BOILING VEGETABLES.

When boiling vegetables be sure the water is not at boiling point before putting in the vegetables to be cooked. It it is cold or lukewarm the freshness and flavor will soak into the water. Place the saucepan over the hottest part of the stove, so that it will boil as quickly as possible, and be careful that the boiling does not cease until the contents are thoroughly cooked and ready to be dished.—Chicago Daily News.

YOUR EVERYDAY CLOTHES.

Do you ever think of airing your clothes? No? You think that when you wear them they get aired. So they do, but not thoroughly and properly as they ought to.

To keep your clothes in really good condition you should brush and shake and air them every little while.

The dress or suit you wear every day should have a daily shaking and brushing and thorough going over once a week. You will be rewarded for your pains, as your clothes will last much longer and look much better.

If it is wool or dark material the dust gets ground in and very soon the whole dress has a rusty appearance that with a little pains and care you might have avoided.

Pressing is a great renovator and skirts particularly need it once in a while, as they get hard wear and are apt to be pulled out of shape and get knee holes, which certainly are pretty.

There is another advantage about airing your clothes that is most important. It keeps them fresh and clean. Nothing is more advantage than an odor of cooking or stale perfume on any ones clothes.

To be fresh and clean and neat is the way to be always attractive, and every girl can be and should be all three.—New York Journal.

CLEAN HOUSE TOO SOON.

Most housewives commence to clean house too soon. When it is too early to dump the furnace or put away the stoves, for fear of "colds' for the family, it is too soon to think of housecleaning. Housecleaning before the furnace is out means a house that must be cleaned again before the summer is over, declares Mary Taylor-Rott in the April Housekeeper. Then too, if it is too cold to be without a fire, it is too cold to have the house open, and the things out of doors airing. So try, first of all, postponing the date of cleaning house until much later than usual. Wait until it is sufficiently warm to have the stoves taken down, or the furnace dumped, until all the windows can be thrown wide to let in the air and sunlight that are worth more than all the scrubbings to make the home a healthful place in which to live.

What would we think of a dressmaker who could not tell what she had done with our goods, our trimmings, or our linings? What would we think of the lawyer who said, "Oh, yes, I remember seeing such a paper somewhere, but I can't just remember where; I'll hunt it up in a few days"? This in reply to our request for a certain paper we had entrusted to his keeping. We would at once say that it was a very poor sort of a lawyer, and a worse kind of dressmaker who didn't keep track of their client's belongings in a more businesslike way! And yet—remember the things you put away last year when you cleaned house, that you have not been able to find since! Think of the numbers of things you find every time you clean house; articles you had forgotten that you possessed! This speaks for itself, and no home can be run without friction until business methods are applied to the machinery of that home. Then will there be no more 'white slaves," no more "Americanitis," among housewives.

ALL ABOUT THE HOUSE.

A compartive novelty in portieres is one made of denim with border of applique leather.

Curtains of Arabian and Cluny lace retain the prestige which they have enjoyed for some time past.

In curtains the leader is the filet Italienne, a handsome drapery, the cost of which puts it beyond the reach of any but the most wealthy householders.

A pretty fancy in the form of a bonbon dish is a Japanese design in bisque or porcelain representing a young girl carrying a basket in either hand. Each of the receptables is filled with bonbons.

A new kind of orange knife has made its appearance this spring. It has a hook of barb at the end of the back blade which prevents its penetrating beyond a certain depth of the rind, which is more easily removed than with the ordinary knife. The reverse side of this knife is a regular blade.

ROLL CALL IN COREA.

Slowly died the last red sunbeam, slowly came the hush of night
Where the moon-illumined stronghold of the bearded Muscovite Broke the landscape's rolling contour in a fair Corean vale.
Many a warrior's heart was heavy, many a warrior's cheek was pale
For the bloody fight was o'er Silenced was the cannon's roar.
All was quiet as a form without a soul
And, before the call of taps,
Several non-commissioned chaps
Volunteered half-heartedly to call the roll.

Major Hitthedopesky! Present.
Major Fourflushoffsky! Here.
Brave old Spikethegunsky, absent.
Bugler Blowsky, standing near.
Punkeroff is here, and Snifsky,
Pretzelvich and Michael Stiffsky,
Up spake Quartermaster Biffsky.
"Can't lose me, boys never fear!"

Present, too, were Bobtail Straightsky, Aceupsky Blufferoff,
Cushioncaromsky, Pingpongsky,
Vladimir Onelungeroff,
Butterinsky, Maltesecatsky
Lageroff and Antifatsky,
Ivan Caseyatthebatsky
And the selfish Feetintroff.

Not to mention many more with appellations much the same
Who retorted "Here" and "Present" when the time to answer came.

Slowly spread the crimson sunrise, and the birdies in the trees Sang a song that sounded bully to the Muscovite main squeeze.
"By my beardsky!" muttered he,
"'Twas a glorious victoree!
Valiant Spikethegunsky had to go, poor soul!
But the only other chap
Was the non-commissioned yap
Who succumbed to lockjaw when he called the roll.

—Milwaukee Sentinel.

JUST FOR FUN

Mother Goldfish—Where have you been, Willie? Willie—Only just around the globe, ma.—Chicago News.

"Know him?" "I should say so! We are husbands-in-law." "Eh?" "Our wives were divorced from the same man."

Prisoner—I struck him, but he struck me first. Magistrate—What did he strike you for? Prisoner—For five dollars.

"Papa," said Jack, as he gazed at his week's allowance, 10 cents, "do you know what I'd do if I was an awful rich king? I'd increase my allowance to 25 cents a week."—Harper's Young People.

"Yes, they were made one," she told the youngster who had been puzzled by the term. "Which one?" he asked. "Oh, they haven't had time to find that out yet," she explained.—Chicago Post.

Mr. Grumpps—What idiotic things they do print on the women's page of this newspaper! Mrs. Grumpps—Yes; I wish they would discharge the fellow, and put a woman in charge of it."—New York Weekly.

Amateur—This is my latest attempt at a landscape. May I ask what you think of the perspective? Artist—The perspective is its strong point. The farther away you stand the better it looks.—Chicago Tribune.

The Trouble with a Tutor—Do you go to school, Willie? queried the visitor. No, said Willie, who has a tutor. School comes to me. I wish it didn't, too. Some days are too wet for me to go out, but there ain't any too wet for Mr. Diggins.—Harper's Young People.

"I wonder," dubiously cogitated Mr. Walker Farr, the eminent ten-twenty-and-thirty-cents-admission tragedian, "whether——" (he paused, as the clamor of the audience rose higher and higher) "they are applauding my efforts or daring me to 'come out?'"—Smart Set.

He—You say there are no flowers for the dinner table. Where are the chrysanthemums I sent home? She—Oh, George, don't speak so loud. You might hurt Bridget's feelings. She did n't understand what they were, and has cooked them in milk."—Glasgow Evening Times.

A little girl went into a neighbor's house one day, and some apple-parings lay on a plate on the table. After sitting awhile, she said, "I smell apples." "Yes," the lady replied, "I guess you smell thes applee parings on the plate." "No, no," said she, "'tain't them I smell. I smell whole apples."

Mending Fire Bricks.

There are few things more unsatisfactory than modern fire linings. The fire bricks are easily cracked and sometimes last only a few months, when they ought to last for years. It is a great mistake to allow the fire bricks to get into bad condition. There is an iron plate back of the fire bricks in every stove, but this is easily burned through, and it costs a large sum to replace it; therefore, cracks in the fire bed of the stove should be mended at once and badly broken bricks should be replaced.

A durable cement for cracked fire bricks can be made at home, and will hold the cracked bricks together for several years. Mix equal quantities of powdered soapstone, which may be purchased from any druggist, and common salt together, and add enough water to make a paste. The mixture hardens very rapidly after it is put on, and as the soapstone is fireproof it makes a lasting cement. Pumice stone is sometimes substituted for the soapstone, but does not last as well. In case of an emergency, equal parts of salt and finely sifted ashes mixed to a stiff paste will make a suitable temporary cement, and will last until something more durable can be obtained.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY

Of a United States Mail Wagon In the Heart of a City is Accidentally Foiled.

THREE CHICAGO HIGHWAYMEN

Held Up a Registered Mail Wagon, but Pistol Discharge Prevents Accomplishment of Purpose.

Three highwaymen attempted to rob a United States registered mail wagon near the Chicago and Northwestern railroad station. The accidental discharge of a revolver frustrated their plans and they escaped after a street fight. It was this wagon that Marx, Vandine and Neidermeier, the car barn bandits, planned to rob during their brief career as desperadoes. The police believe Tuesday's highwaymen were inspired to attempt the daring crime by the story of the men hanged on April 22d.

The contents of the wagon was valued at several thousand dollars. When the driver, E. J. Graff, was driving past an alley three men ran out into the street in front of his team. Two of the men tried to stop the horses by grabbing the bridles, and the third undertook to climb onto the seat. The one who was making the effort on the wagon fired a shot, which was apparently accidental, and the horses jumped. Graff plied the whip at the same time, and the team lunged ahead. Shots were fired after the wagon, but the driver would not stop.

Two policemen saw one of the men and fired at him. The highwayman returned the shots and ran, making good his escape. The other men slipped away during the revolver fight.

A BATTLE EXPECTED

Near Mukden, Where Russian and Japanese are in Numbers.

The fighting line is steadily nearing Mukden, where Viceroy Alexieff's headquarters still remain. It is now known that the Japanese are almost within striking distance of the Russians, and that the forces protecting Liao Yang are stretching eastward, from the railroad along the Mao Tien mountain range.

The Japanese are advancing in three columns and are now north of Siuyen and Feng Wang Cheng. Two columns are reported to be working further to the northward with the object of turning the Russian position and advancing upon Mukden.

Numerous small engagements have been fought, but no decisive action has taken place.

Port Arthur is now completely isolated by the Japanese expedition at Polandien.

Two Residences Burned at Sheffield.

Fire broke out in the residence of Major Doud at Sheffield, burning the building to ashes. The property belonged to J. B. Lagomarsino and was valued at $5,000, with $1,600 insurance. There was no insurance on the furniture of the tenant. A residence to the north owned by Mrs. R. C. Randolph, of Montgomery, and tenanted by M. A. Hopkins, caught fire from the Doud residence and was also entirely consumed along with considerable furniture, part of which had been stored in the building by Mrs. Randolph. The loss was $3,500 with $1,500 insurance. A chest of silver valued at $1,500, belonging to Mrs. Randolph, was saved from the flames. The tenant had no insurance on his furniture.

Among the valuables lost by Mrs. Randolph was an autograph letter signed by George Washington, which she had had for many years.

A special dispatch from Essen says the Russo-Japanese war has caused great activity in the Krupp works in the production of both cannon and shipbuilding materials. Large orders for field guns have been received and the shell department is very busy.

Reports from Governor Jelks say he continues to improve.

ADMITS THE KILLING.

But Has Not Given Himself Up as Promised.

News has been received of a killing which occurred near Cusseta Sunday morning. John Henry McCard, a young white man, shot and instantly killed Doc Reed, a negro. McCard told a number of people of the killing, claiming self-defense.

McCard started toward Lafayette, saying that he was going to surrender, but it is thought he afterwards changed his mind.

Admiral Cervera, who commanded the Spanish ships at Santiago, is reported very ill.

DEDICATION OF VULCAN.

Ceremony Will Probably Take Place About June 1st—The Fund Grows.

The statue of Vulcan will be officially dedicated in St. Louis about June 1st. Telegrams state that the last car has arrived at the exposition grounds and that everything will be in readiness in a few days. It is probable that a Birmingham young lady will be selected to christen the big statue. The programme of exercises will be completed in a few days.

CAN NOT REACH PORT ARTHUR,

So He May be Sent to the Next Best Place—the Baltic.

The probability that there will be no further communication with Port Arthur, thus preventing Vice Admiral Skrydloff from assuming command of the Russian squadron there, has led to the suggestion that Skrydloff return from the far east and hoist his flag as commander of the Baltic squadron, which is destined for the far east. Whatever Admiral Skrydloff's future plans may be, the admiralty says he will certainly proceed to Vladivostock and inspect the squadron there. The report that Vladivostock is blockaded is denied at the admiralty. Telegrams received from Rear Admiral Jessen do not refer to the presence of a single Japanese ship.

It is said that the Russians would not have the slightest objection to a blockade at Vladivostock, since it would tie up a Japanese squadron.

RHODE ISLAND LAUNCHED

And Immediately Runs Into a Mud Bank—Not Injured.

The battleship Rhode Island was successfully launched Tuesday at the yards of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company.

After the ship left the ways the launching crew experienced an unexpected disaster. The great craft had attained such headway that she could not be stopped in deep water and her anchor failing to hold, her stern was forced into a mud bank. Three tugs made fast to her as soon as possible, but the tide fell rapidly and they were unable to move her. The company sent to Boston for additional tugs, and it was expected the battleship would be released before the next flood tide. The naval inspector who was on the scene expressed the opinion that as the bottom was soft the ship would not be damaged.

PRINCE PU LUN SPEAKS TO STUDENTS.

Chinaman Believes American Success is Based on Diffusion of Knowledge.

Prince Pu Lun, of China, has made an address to an audience of 700 students at the University of Chicago. The prince said in part: "From the time I landed at San Francisco during my entire visit to your country I have been most surprised to find that every man and woman in America is educated. This, I believe, is the basis of the success of the American people."

General Wong also spoke, making a plea for the easy admission to the United States of Chinese students. He said: "One-fourth of the Chinese students who were in this country when I was in college at Yale have since fallen in battle, shot in front."

DEATH RATHER THAN DISGRACE.

John D. Budd, Accountant, Locks Himself in and Cuts His Throat—Arrested on a Serious Charge.

Rather than face the disgrace of a public trial, John D. Budd, of Hoboken, N. J., slashed his throat with a pocket knife and will die. He was arrested, together with a lawyer and four other residents of Hoboken, charged with having abused young children. Fifteen charges have been made thus far against them. The expose caused a sensation.

Budd, who is a bookkeeper 45 years old, has been released on $5,000 bail after a night in jail. He went at once to his bachelor apartment and barred the door to all callers. After brooding for several hours he slashed his throat repeatedly, and had bled almost to death when found.

Hearings by the congressional merchant marine commission, consisting of five senators and five representatives, will begin at New York next Monday. The commission has been instructed to investigate and report at the next session as to what legislation, if any, is desirable for the development of the American merchant marine and commerce.

WILL MOVE STOVE PLANT.

Fort Payne Concern May Select Birmingham.

Birmingham will likely get the plant of the Standard stove works of Fort Payne. Efforts were made to get the plant located in Columbus, Miss., and it is understood that a proposition to that end was made to the company. However, it is learned that the arrangements will hardly be carried out and Mr. Saunders, who is at the head of the concern, states that in all probability the plant will be removed to Birmingham. This industry gives employment to about forty men, and quite a number of stoves are turned out complete daily.

Rev. John G. Murray, formerly of Birmingham, has been elected bishop of the diocese of Kentucky. About a year ago he accepted a call to Baltimore and soon after was elected bishop of Mississippi, but declined the position.

It is claimed that a plant has been produced which will drive mosquitoes away and keep them away from the place where it grows. A number of them have been planted near Miami, Fla.

Monroe Tyler, a white man, had his leg crushed while working at a saw mill near Belle Ellen.

AN ELECTRIC RAILWAY

To be Laid Between New Decatur and Moulton

WILL DEVELOP A VIRGIN SECTION

Rich in Iron, Timber, Coal and Agricultural Lands.

Parties from the Decaturs, Florence and elsewhere are contemplating the building of an electric street railroad from New Decatur to Moulton, about twenty miles. The road will carry not only passengers but freight as well.

The proposed line will run through coal, iron, timber and agricultural sections. The route has been surveyed.

ANOTHER RAILROAD.

The Illinois Central Enters Birmingham Over Frisco System.

In return for the use of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley tracks from Baton Rouge to New Orleans the Frisco gives the Illinois Central an entry into the coal and iron fields of Birmingham over the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham. The contract is to run for ninety-nine years.

Shock Proved Fatal.

Mrs. M. T. Williams, of East Lake, is dying.

Last Monday John Williams, her son, who had become involved in a dispute with a college student, armed himself with a pistol and left the house in search of the student. The mother, seeing him with the weapon and divining his purpose, was stricken unconscious and has remained in that condition ever since, with the exception of lucid intervals of a minute or two.

New Cotton Mill.

The capacity of the Jacksonville, Ala., cotton mill is to be 11,000 spindles, and work toward its erection is to be begun immediately. A contract for the manufacture of 1,000,000 brick has been let, and the assembling of other material for the mill has already begun. It is estimated that the mill will be in operation by the time the new cotton crop comes in.

Largest in the South.

Preparations which have been going on for some time at Woodward ore mine No. 1 for the installation of a new ore crusher are completed, and the largest ore crusher in the south is being placed, and will be in operation about the first of June. All the ore dug at both mines will be crushed at No. 1, the new crusher having a capacity of 4,000 tons per day.

Land Company Wins.

The United States supreme court affirmed the opinion of the court of claims in the case of the United States vs. the Alabama State Land company involving a claim of $15,000 collected from squatters on lands granted to the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad Company. The decision was favorable to the land company.

Will Help Vulcan.

Commissioner of Agriculture R. R. Poole has guaranteed to the Vulcan fund between $200 and $300 monthly during the seven months of the St. Louis exposition, the whole to aggregate not less than $1,500.

The forty-ninth Southern Baptist convention which has been in session at Nashville, Tenn., since Friday last, completed its work Monday night and adjourned to meet next year in Kansas City. It was announced that almost $350,000 had been raised during the year for foreign missions.

Selma reports the capture of an 8-foot alligator. It may become the property of the Birmingham zoo.

Will Lowe, a prisoner convicted for participation in the cow stealing cases which came up from the lower edge of Montgomery county, was paroled by Governor Cunningham. Tom Crittenden, his associate, was paroled several weeks ago.

Elks of the Alabama State Association are in first annual session in Birmingham.

On July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year, the rural free delivery service is to be reorganized and the new schedule of pay for carriers and the regulations relative to the carrying of merchandise will become operative.

A telegram states that Joe Thompson, a young man killed by a train Saturday night at Zebulon, Ga., is thought to have been a resident of Phenix City, Ala.

Miss Mary Loving, of Fairland, had the misfortune to fall in a grate and have her arm severely burned. Physicians are trying to save the member.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Julian, one of Tuscumbia's oldest residents, died Friday. She was the mother of F. N. Julian, clerk of the last legislature.

Children and a Gun.

The nine-year-old son of Mr. W. J. Gibson, of Collinsville, Miss., was playing with a shotgun. In some manner the 10-year-old son of Mr. H. L. Harwell, who was near by, was shot by the former and instantly killed. The load from the gun entered beneath the chin and practically blew the head of the Harwell child off.

New Decatur reports a $12,000 saw log deal.

GOVERNOR BLANCHARD,

Of Louisiana, Was Inaugurated Monday.

Newton C. Blanchard was inaugurated as governor and Jared Y. Sanders as lieutenant governor of Louisiana Monday. State troops and the naval reserve steamer Stranger participated in the ceremonies.

In his inaugural address Governor Blanchard made an appeal for larger appropriations and liberal and progressive legislation promoting education. He proposed a million dollar bond issue to build school houses. He recommended the refunding of the state debt of $11,000,000, now bearing interest at 4 per cent, into long term 3 per cent bonds; larger appropriations for the confederate veterans; the passage of laws suppressing gambling; the promotion of good feeling between capital and labor; the regulation of trusts, and laws in the interest of good roads.

MISSISSIPPI QUILLDRIVERS.

Annual Meeting at McComb City—Then to the World's Fair.

The Mississippi Press Association meets in regular annual session at McComb City next Monday morning. After the session the annual outing will be taken. This year the editors will go to the world's fair.

Governor Vardaman is on the programmee to deliver an address at the press convention, and also to speak before the world's press parliament, which is to be convened at St. Louis on the day following the arrival of the Mississippi editors. Congressman John Sharp Williams, the democratic minority leader, will also address the McComb convention on "The Functions of the Press."

TWO GEORGIA BANKS

Were Closed to Business Monday—Bank Examiner Coming.

At Macon, Ga., the I. C. Plants Sons' bank failed to open its doors Monday morning, but posted a notice that it would not open. The First National bank opened at 9 o'clock, but later closed, posting a notice that it would not open, pending the arrival of the bank examiner. No official statement of the bank's condition has been given out. It is reported unofficially that the First National numbers among its depositors the Central of Georgia Railroad company and many large manufacturing concerns.

Mr. Plant, president of both banks, has an insurance of $800,000 on his life for the benefit of his creditors, and dollar for dollar, it is said, will be paid.

Daily Burned Out.

The plant of the Augusta, Ga., Evening Herald was completely destroyed by fire Monday night. At one time the fire threatened seriously the Chronicle building, the Western Union and Commercial club. The Herald's complete outfit of linotypes, press, stereotype plant, files, etc., are destroyed. The paper will be issued from the Chronicle office until a new plant can be secured.

The loss is large and covered by insurance.

Japs Lose a Cruiser.

The Japanese cruiser Miyako was lost while assisting in the operations of clearing the Russian mines from Kerr bay. Five mines were discovered and exploded and the work was being suspended for the day when the Miyako struck an undiscovered mine. Thirty-two of the crew were lost.

The nineteenth annual convention of the National Editorial association, comprising 500 delegates, representing the state press organizations of the United States, convened in St. Louis Monday.

Appeal to the Mississippi supreme court has been taken in the case of James Whitt, convicted in the circuit court of Tate county of murder and sentenced to be hanged on Friday, June 10th, at Senatobia. Whitt's crime was the murder of a companion named Buster Thomason, which occurred on Christmas last.

The second quarterly report of Professor William Alex Sutherland, in charge of the Filipino students in the United States, has been received by the bureau on insular affairs. President Sutherland speaks of satisfactory progress made in their school work.

Major General S. R. Keesler, commanding the Mississippi division of the state national guard, has appointed Hon. W. M. Hamner, of Greenwood, to the position of assistant paymaster general, with rank of lieutenant colonel.

The Mississippi valley includes ten of the United States and the greater portion of twenty-two states and territories.

Panama Canal Officials Arrive.

The steamer City of Washington, from New York May 10th, with Major General Davis, governor of the Panama canal zone, Major Black and their secretaries on board, arrived at Colon Tuesday.

Final preparations for the trip of 600 Porto Rican school teachers to the United States in July are being made.

On July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year, the rural free delivery service is to be reorganized and the new schedule of pay for carriers and the regulations relative to the carrying of merchandise will become operative.

A telegram states that Joe Thompson, a young man killed by a train Saturday night at Zebulon, Ga., is thought to have been a resident of Phenix City, Ala.

Miss Mary Loving, of Fairland, had the misfortune to fall in a grate and have her arm severely burned. Physicians are trying to save the member.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Julian, one of Tuscumbia's oldest residents, died Friday. She was the mother of F. N. Julian, clerk of the last legislature.

The second quarterly report of Professor William Alex Sutherland, in charge of the Filipino students in the United States, has been received by the bureau on insular affairs. President Sutherland speaks of satisfactory progress made in their school work.

Major General S. R. Keesler, commanding the Mississippi division of the state national guard, has appointed Hon. W. M. Hamner, of Greenwood, to the position of assistant paymaster general, with rank of lieutenant colonel.

The Mississippi valley includes ten of the United States and the greater portion of twenty-two states and territories.

Just Before You Get Hurt Buy a Bottle

Tallassee, Ala., May 30, 1903.
We have used Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic in our families and our stock for several years and have to say it is the best we ever tried for Wounds, Burns, etc.
We use nothing else as a remedy for Colic in our horses and mules, and it has never failed.
C. P. WOODALL.
W. W. WOODALL.

Buena Vista, Ala., June 6, 1903.
I sell and use Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic. My customers are pleased with it and I like it so well that I always keep it in my house, ready for use when needed at any time.
J. J. FINKLEA.

Pine Grove, Ala., August 22
I have used and sold Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic for more than a year. It is the best thing I have ever used for healing cuts, burns or any kind of Wounds and for Nausea, Colic, Cholera Morbus and Flux there is nothing better. Everybody is delighted with it.
R. H. O[illegible]

Andalusia, Ala., April 8,
I consider Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic an indispensable family medicine. It is superior to anything we ever used for healing Cuts, Bruises, Burns or any kind of Wounds and I always advise its use in such cases.
B. H. ZEIGLER,
Prop. Dixie H[illegible]

10 cents and 50 cents by all druggists.

A most complete

Stock of General Merchandise, Dress Goods, [illegible]

The Millinery Department

Is complete in every detail and is in charge of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara [illegible] of St. Louis

P. D. WILSON

CLANTON, ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN POULTRY YARDS

WE have as good CHICKENS as there are in the country. Barred Plymouth Rocks.

And you may have 15 fresh eggs for 50c. If you want them shipped add 10c for packing.

Give us a trial and we can please you.

MRS. W. NIX
Maplesville, Ala.

Subscribe to this paper

We Have Perfected Arrangements Whereby We Can Offer That Practical and Instructive Newspaper

THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER

Known throughout the State of Alabama for the full line of State News contained in each issue, will be furnished in connection with Our Publication at a Remarkably Low Price

Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Financial Page. Best State News.

For Village, Suburban Residents, and in fact for all actively engaged in agricultural pursuits, or family use, the Weekly Advertiser will be found well nigh indispensable. It is pure, bright and practical all the way through, meets the requirements of the entire family. It is popular throughout the South, and no one should be without it.

Our Great Special Offer:

The Weekly Union one year - $1.
Weekly Advertiser one year - $1.

Both for $1.25.

ginning of the new free delivery serv-ized and the new carriers and the
to the carrying of
come operative.
that Joe Thomp-
killed by a train Zebulon, Ga., is een a resident of

r. of Fairland, had all in a grate and ely burned. Physi-
ave the member.
Julian, one of residents, died
e mother of F. N.
last legislature.

The second quarterly report
fessor William Alex Sutherl charge of the Filipino students
United States, has been rece
the bureau on insular affairs.
dent Sutherland speaks of tory progress made in their work.

Major General S. B. Keesler
manding the Mississippi div the state national guard, has ed Hon. W. M. Hamner, of Gre to the position of assistant pay general, with rank of lieutenan nel.

The Mississippi valley incre of the United States and the portion of twenty-two states tories.

Before You Get rt Buy a Bottle

, May 30, 1903.
Tichenor's Anti-
ies and our stock
nd have to say it tried for Wounds,

else as a remedy
es and mules, and

WOODALL.
W. WOODALL.

., June 6, 1903.
Tichenor's Anti-
ers are pleased it so well that I
y house, ready for t any time.
J. J. FINKLEA.

Pine Grove, Ala., August 22,
I have used and sold Dr. Tich Antiseptic for more than a year.
the best thing I have ever tri healing cuts, burns or any k Wounds and for Nausea, Colic, era Morbus and Flux there is n better. Everybody is delighted
it. B. H. CO

Andalusia, Ala., April 8, 1
I consider Dr. Tichenor's Anti an indispensable family medicin is superior to anything we ever for healing Cuts, Bruises, Burn any kind of Wounds and I alwa vise its use in such cases.
B. H. ZEIGLE
Prop. Dixie Ho

0 cents and 50 cents by all drug-gists.

ost complete
Stock of General Merch
dise, Dress Goods, E
illinery
ment
s complete in every detail and is in ch
f a first-class milliner, Miss Clara S f St. Louis
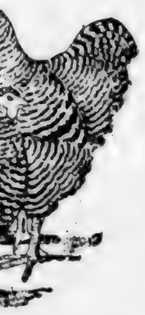
P. D. WILSO
LABAMA.

AWN POULTRY YAR


WE have as good
CHICKE
as there are in the cou
Barred Plymouth Roc
And you may have 15
fresh eggs for 50c. If want them shipped p
add 10c for packing.
Give us a trial and we can plea
MRS. W. NIX
Maplesville, Ala

cribe to this pape
Perfected Arrangements Whereb
actical and Instructive Newspape
HE WEEKLY
DVERTISER
throughout the State of A r the full line of State Ne ed in each issue, will be f in connection with Our P at a Remarkably Low Pri
st County News. Best Sporting ws. Best Market and Finan
l Page. Best State News.
Suburban Residents, and in fact for all in agricultural pursuits, or family li ertiser will be found well nigh indispen right and practical all the way through.
quirements of the entire family. It is po the South, and no one should be with
r Great Special Offer:
eKly Union one year - $1.
Advertiser one year - $1.
Both for $1.25.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA., MAY 26, 1904. NO. 9.

SE LOSE TWO SHIPS

tleship Sunk by Russian a Cruiser in Collision.

OW TO MIKADO'S NAVY

Out of Crews of 1000 Saved From Death in the Disasters Off Blocked Harleship Was One of Latest Happened Off Port Arthur.

—In the midst of its vic-Japan's navy has sus-most severe loss off Port Arof her greatest battleships,
e, going down after strik-
, and the powerful cruiser king after a collision in a the cruiser Kasuga.
ority of the crew of 300 car-he cruiser Yoshino and but Hatsuse complement of 741 saved.
g to dispatches received ons war centres it would ap-the battleship Hatsuse fell a Russian mine much in the ner as the Japanese trapped several Russian vessels.
he Petropavlovsk was de-with Admiral Makaroff, the at Port Arthur attempted plan as the Japanese—that out torpedo boats at night ding mines where the en-appeared a few hours before.
re especially planted off the an promontory, which was e point from which Japan-clads bombarded Port Ard appear that the Hatsuse

e of these mines, was partly signalled for help, but alntly struck another mine
down.
miral Togo in his official rekio on the disaster to the nd Yoshino says:
t from Rear Admiral Dewa
he cruisers Kasuga and Yosed during a fog off Port e Yoshino sank, only ninety w being saved.
same day the battleship
ruck a Russian mine and etails of the disaster, Vice ogo says:

inutes past 1 o'clock in the
in a deep fog off Port Ar-Kasuga rammed the Yoshino, latter in a few minutes.
her crew were saved.
me morning the Hatsuse
ing off Port Arthur, cover-ding of the soldiers, struck knots southeast of the hare. She signalled for help
tly struck another mine.
In half an hour. Three f her crew were saved by boats."

PS DRIVEN BACK.

Guard 13 Defeated By the Cossacks.

nburg, Russia.—The follow-has been received from Gen.
in, the Russian Command-
in the Far East:
.—A party of Cossacks entachment of the Japanese ard in the mountainous dis-ward of Fengwangcheng.
ng began at 8 a. m. and 2:30 in the afternoon. The were successively dislodged positions extending over metres, and were pursued y, eighteen kilometres north ngcheng.
was six Cossacks wounded,
killed and eight wounded.
nd no trace of the enemy in ka Valley as far as the
ing to Changoulin Pass, kilometres north of Feng-
, or in the Aiho Valley Saimatsa-Kuantien road as ntsianlintsa, an area of metres.
ron of Japanese cavalry Kuantien for Saimatsa re-
of our patrols at Schaogo, metres from Kuptien. The ed without loss."
ral Staff attaches imports Russian success against wing of the Japanese adving that they have out-movement that was des-ircumvent Gen. Kouropatkin.
pers treat the engagement victory. They say that the made four bayonet charges Japanese.

ES ON THE YALU.

ere Buried After the Battle Russian Corpses.

on, D. C.—The Japanese le-received a despatch giving of the Japanese losses in of the Yalu River, and of the dious, etc., captured there.

roki reports the exact num-alties in the battle of the Japanese side as 218
ding five officers, and 783 including thirty-three of-irteen hundred and sixty-an corpses were buried by e forces and 613 Russian were taken. Guns and of war captured consisted of three-inch quick-firing eight quick-firing machine rifles, a number of horses quantities of ammunition, tents, etc. At Fengwangantities of ammunition, cloth-provisions were captured."

SOCIAL FEUD IN CHICAGO

Woman Discovers Rival's Husband to Be an Ex-Convict.

Mrs. Springer, Rejected by the D. A. R., Has Set Out to Get Even.

Chicago.—A feud between two ambitious women has exposed a skeleton long hidden in the family of Julius A. Coleman, a successful attorney and author of the Mechanics' Lien law of Illinois.

Mrs. Coleman, his wife, is the State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She is a brilliant woman with an interesting family. She has written a history of the American Constitution, which is published this week in St. Louis.

Mrs. Warren Springer applied for admission to the D. A. R. and was rejected. Then she began war on the Colemans.

Now disbarment proceedings have been taken against Mr. Coleman before the Supreme Court of this State. It is alleged that in 1881 Coleman was found guilty of an insurance swindle in Indiana and sentenced to the penitentiary. The Grievance Committee of the Chicago Bar Association brought the proceedings. The charge against him is "evasive omission" in not mentioning the Indiana trouble when he signed an affidavit of good moral character which obtained him license to practise law here. Charges of extortion also have been made in the disbarment proceedings.

Mrs. Springer is the wife of a prominent real estate operator. She has taken a leading part in women's club affairs for ten years, and is at present President of the Illinois Chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution, an organization distinct from the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Springer had a double interest in finding out all she could about Coleman, because a suit which the attorney brought against her husband was over property that she had decided to present to the local chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution. After this suit had been won by Mr. Springer Attorney Coleman had him indicted for perjury, and it was then that Mrs. Springer assumed, in self-defense, as she avers, the role of detective.

Charles C. Gilbert, who has undertaken to defend Coleman, says: "It is true that Mr. Coleman was convicted of crime in Evansville in 1881, but he was sick and could not defend himself. He was brought into court on a stretcher. He never went to the penitentiary, for he fled to foreign lands, and later returned and obtained a pardon. There has been no effort to conceal the conviction."

Coleman was accused of inducing a man named Richardson to insure his life for $20,000 and disappear. Coleman escaped from the prison hospital. Mrs. Coleman nursed her husband through his trial, and when he escaped she supported her young family by her own endeavors.

Mrs. Springer collected all the evidence and obtained certified copies of the court records. Then began the movement to expose and disbar Coleman. He is now a man of middle age.

Mrs. Springer says: "This trouble grew out of my gift to the Daughters of the Revolution of the ground at Nos. 175-189 West Polk street for use as a playground and workshop for poor children. We knew nothing whatever of Coleman's past until a woman, a prominent member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, of which Mrs. Coleman is Regent, came to my house and informed me that Mr. Coleman was an ex-convict. She said that other facts could be had at Evansville. We collected the facts."

FOR A MENTAL SHOCK—$40,000.

Bay State Supreme Court Sustains Verdict Against New Haven Road.

Boston, Mass.—A verdict of $40,000 against the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, given to Frank J. Cashin, of Springfield, by a lower court for mental injury resulting from an accident, was sustained by the full bench of the Supreme Court.

The plaintiff was the victim of a collision at Avon, Mass., in which six persons were killed and about forty injured. It was contended that Mr. Cashin sustained a serious mental shock which has resulted in melancholia.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR $3 THEFT.

'Twas Oliver's Third Offence and Judge Takes Advantage of the Statute.

Mason, Mich.—Lewis Oliver, who with Frederick Lesarge, stole $3 and two hats from a butcher shop, has been sent to the Marquette prison for life by Judge Wist. It was Oliver's third offence for burglary.

Judge Wist says that the statute provides that where a prisoner has been twice sentenced for felony and is again arrested he may be sentenced for life. He says a life sentence is not made mandatory, but he believes that in this case it is justified.

Knockout Blow to Poolrooms.

The most powerful blow ever dealt to the poolrooms of New York City was struck when the police in several precincts descended simultaneously on twenty-two suspected pool-rooms in Manhattan, arresting seventy prisoners and seizing 752 telephones, fifteen telegraph instruments and a large collection of racing charts and other gambling paraphernalia.

VALUE OF FARM PRODUCTS.

Department of Agriculture Issues a Statement—Cotton Export.

The department of agriculture has issued a report on the nation's farm surplus. It gives $4,500,000,000 as a conservative estimate of the value of the farm products in this country not fed to live stock in 1903 on the basis of the census valuation. The value of the exported farm products in this country in 1903 was $878,471,451, and the highest value reached during the last eleven years was $951,628,331 in 1901, due chiefly to cotton.

The value of the exported farm products of this country is concentrated mostly in a few principal products. Of it, in 1903, cotton constituted 36 per cent, grain and grain products 25 per cent, meat and meat products and live animals 24 per cent. Adding to bacco, the exports of which were valued at more than $35,000,000, oil cake and oil cake meal $19,839,279, fruits and nuts more than $18,000,000 and vegetable oils more than $16,000,000 gives a total of eight classes of products each with export value of more than $10,000,000 that comprise almost 96 per cent of the entire farm exports of 1903.

Within recent years, ending with 1903, the cotton exports have been between three and four billion pounds and the exported fraction of the crop has been between 63 and 11 per cent for a long series of years. The fraction of the wheat crop exported in the last dozen years has been about 31 to 41 per cent and the exported wheat and wheat flour have yearly averaged somewhat more than 200,000,000 bushels since 1897, before which period for many years the quantity was usually 50,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels less.

Only a small portion of the corn or maize crop is exported as corn.

WARSHIPS TO MOROCCO

To Enforce Claim Against the Bandits.

A very brief cablegram came to the state deparement from Consul Gummere at Tangier, Morocco, which confirmed the press reports that Ion Perdicaris, the American citizen who, with his stepson, Cromwell Varley, a British subject, was kidnaped by bandits, were being well treated by the Moorish brigands by whom they were kidnaped. The authorities, according to the dispatch, are in communication with the bandits regarding the two men, and it is expected that terms of ransom are the subject of negotiations.

Naval officials are awaiting news of the arrival of Admiral Chadwick at Fayal with the South Atlantic squadron and that of the European squadron under Admiral Jewell at the Azores. The administration will send vessels of either of these squadrons to Morocco for the moral effect it will have on the officials of that country in the event the release of Perdicaris is not brought about in the meantime.

Probate Judge S. M. Adams, and nominee of democrats for re-election, has handed a written statement to the chairman of the democratic executive committee in which he states that for reasons about which the public has no concern he tendered his resignation as nominee for the office of judge of probate of Chilton.

This year, as for some years past, all the medals given at and by the Tuscaloosa schools were won by girls. Misses Katie Holt, Frances Foster, Rose Agnes Cotter and Eunice Lowry were the winners.

A correspondent writes it is a mistaken view that the farmers of central Alabama have increased their cotton acreage by a neglect of food crops. Immense fields of corn are in luxuriant growth, and just now the haymowers are busily at work making the first cutting of Johnston grass.

A jail delivery occurred at Hattiesburg, Miss., in which two prisoners, Jake Susky and J. H. Howard, held on the charge of being dangerous and suspicious, made good their escape.

A man supposed to be Frank Duncan, the noted safe blower, has been arrested at Brinson City, N. C., and is held waiting identification.

At Atlanta, Ga., the Brady Union Stockyards Company was placed in the hands of a receiver. Judge Newman, of the United States district court, named T. D. Meador, vice president of the Lowry National bank, as receiver. The liabilities of the firm are placed at $125,000, with assets of $180,000.

A fast freight on the Southern railroad broke in two near Fearn's Switch and five cars were derailed and wrecked. A great deal of damage was done and traffic was blocked half a day, but nobody was hurt.

The trial of the Gardino brothers at Birmingham for the murder of their uncle at Pratt City resulted in a disagreement.

PIG IRON PRODUCTION

To Be Curtailed Nearly One-Third.

Within the next thirty days the production of pig iron will, it is stated, be greatly curtailed at the furnaces in all parts of the United States. The proposed reduction is not by united action which is variously estimated from 20 to 30 per cent of the present output. The furnaces to be most quickly affected are those which have been in operation the longest, the new furnaces have more modern machinery and equipment and can turn out iron at a less price than their competitors. The production of pig iron during 1903 was 19,000,000 tons. Experts assert that unless there is improvement in the near future the total for the current year will not exceed 14,000,000.

CIGAR MAKING

In Alabama Reaches Highest Figure in Its History.

The report of the revenue offices at Birmingham regarding the cigar industry in Alabama for the twelve months ending January 1, 1904, shows that the manufacture of cigars in the state experienced a great increase over the preceding year. During 1903 there were manufactured in Alabama 6,787,349 cigars, for which 116,959 pounds of tobacco were used. During the year 1902 there were manufactured 6,322,534 cigars, for which 107,423 pounds of tobacco were used.

Throughout the state there were last year fifty-six factories in operation as against thirty-six for the year before. Last year six factories were closed, compared with nine for the preceding twelve months.

Mobile furnishes a great part of the revenue on cigars, there being twenty-two factories in that city.

TO HELP FARMERS.

New Industry Planned to be Located in Huntsville.

A stock company with a capital of $150,000 has been organized by J. M. Keyser, manager of the Huntsville plant of the Alabama Cotton Oil company, and J. E. Butler, of New Hope, for the purpose of establishing and operating a cotton oil mill, ginning plant, soap factory and fertilizer factory. The enterprise will be located in Huntsville and its principal owners are residents of the Tennessee valley.

The mill will be operated in the interests of the farmer. The company will ask for free water and exemption from taxation for a term of years. Mr. Keyser resigned as manager for the American company and expects to have the new industries in operation for the approaching season's business.

DROWNED HIMSELF.

Selmian Jumps Into Alabama River While on a Spree.

Otto Rauchfuss, a Selma paper hanger, drowned himself Sunday by jumping in the Alabama river.

Rauchfuss, better known as Skeets, left the city in a skiff with John Whitaker, a painter. They were bound for Sand Bar, several miles down the river on a fishing trip of several days and others were to join them. Whitaker returned to Selma alone and said that "Skeets" without warning stood up in the boat, a lighted cigar between his teeth and said: "Goodby, John," and jumped overboard. Whitaker says his companion never came to the surface again.

The new auditorium of the Judson college at Marion, Ala., was formally opened to the public Sunday by the delivery of the commencement sermon by the Rev. Lansing Burrows, D. D., of Nashville, Tenn.

Professor E. B. Paul has been selected as superintendent of Albertville's schools for the ensuing year.

The medal at the declamatory contest of the sophomore students of Howard college was won by J. G. Fulmer, after a close contest with a number of others.

Charles Johnson, the Altoona negro who was implicated in the shooting of four white men, has been given a preliminary hearing and discharged.

Montgomery may secure the next meeting of the Southern Cane Growers' Association, which has a membership of something like 1,000 delegates. Colonel D. G. Purse, president of the association and of the chamber of commerce of Savannah, conferred with Commissioner of Agriculture Poole with a view of finding out if the city wanted the meeting, which it surely does, as he was informed.

At the annual meeting of the governing board of the ninth district agricultural school at Blountsville, Dr J. A. B. Lovett was re-elected president and J. M. Atkinson to the chair of language and literature. J. O. Webb, of Pensacola, was elected to the chair of mathematics.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

WASHINGTON ITEMS.

The Treasury Department drew a warrant for $9,000,000 in favor of J. P. Morgan & Co., to complete payment for the Panama Canal right of way.

Force and not diplomacy will figure in the case of the kidnaping at Tangier of Ion Perdicaris and his stepson.

The United States Supreme Court upheld the action of the immigration authorities at the port of New York in ordering the deportation of John Turner, the English anarchist.

The whole United States South Atlantic Squadron was ordered to Tangier to aid in rescuing Ion Perdicaris, the American captured by bandits.

The proceeds of the recent Russian Red Cross fair and bazaar were something over $17,000.

It was predicted that owing to heavy withdrawals from the United States Treasury the available cash balance would be reduced to $165,000,000 in June.

Because orders from the Navy Department will separate them from their wives and sweethearts during the summer months, officers and men of the North Atlantic Squadron are discontented.

President Roosevelt has appointed Jerome B. Peterson, of Brooklyn, consul at Porto Cabello, Venezuela. Mr. Peterson is a negro, and one of the proprietors of the New York Age.

OUR ADOPTED ISLANDS.

Faustino Guillermo, formerly a revolutionary general, but latterly a leader of San Miguel outlaws, was hanged at Pasig for brigandage and murder.

Former Land Commissioner E. S. Boyd and Chief Clerk N. S. Mahulu, of Honolulu, P. I., were arrested on a charge of embezzlement.

The Moro Piang is friendly to the United States. Everything is quiet in Cottabato Valley; people are planting crops and are anxious to have Ali's band taken.

The Moros who attacked the American troops on May 8 and killed two officers and several men, may be severely punished by Major General Leonard Wood.

Captain L. H. Kunns, enrolling clerk of the Legislature of San Juan, Porto Rico, died at Canton, Ohio.

DOMESTIC.

The United States Government will arrange to receive wireless messages from foreign war ships whenever asked to do so.

Five children were drowned in a cloudburst near Austin, Texas.

Independent long-distance telephone men meeting at St. Louis practically arranged a direct service between Pittsburg and Kansas City.

Six out of sixteen members of a charivari party, three of them women, at Romeo, Mich., were shot while serenading a newly-married couple.

The Army of the Potomac and the Connecticut Department of the Grand Army of the Republic met to hold reunions in Hartford, Conn.

Tobacco growers asked Attorney-General Knox to proceed against the Tobacco Trust.

Philadelphia Poles celebrated the 114th anniversary of the signing of the constitution of Poland.

The United States warships were ordered to Chefoo, within one day's steaming of Newchwang.

The steamer Doric, just in at San Francisco from the Orient, brought $2,225,000 in gold coin from Japan.

Owing to the war in the Far East, which has demoralized trade, the China Commercial Steamship Company will withdraw its vessels between Portland, Ore., and Hongkong.

The Mount Vernon Ladies' Association has received a valuable gift, an original portrait of Washington, by Gilbert Stuart, presented by Mrs. Ida A. Richardson, Vice-Regent for Louisiana.

Mrs. Eddy issued a new Christian Science by-law putting a ban on clubs made up exclusively of men or of women.

Permits were granted for the new tunnels to connect New York and Jersey City.

The thirty-fifth international convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of North America closed at Buffalo.

The platfrom which will be submitted to the Republican National Convention at Chicago has been practically completed.

Governor Blanchard, of Louisiana, in his inaugural speech, condemns lynching and urges the education of the negro.

FOREIGN.

Many wounded men from the Yalu are passing through Moukden on the way to Harbin.

Brazilian authorities stopped a British ship in the Amazon with a cargo of ammunition destined for the Peruvian military forces.

M. Pleske, the Russian ex-Minister of Finance, died as the result of an injury to his spine sustained months ago in a carriage accident.

About 111 officers of the British army have qualified as interpreters in the Russian language.

John Morley, M. P., the distinguished litterateur and biographer of Gladstone, is the great-grandson of Duncan McAllum, a Methodist preacher, and the grand-nephew of Dr. Daniel McAllum, also a Methodist preacher. His mother was a Methodist class leader.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

A. C. Smith. J. O. Middleton.
Smith & Middleton,
Attorneys-at-Law.
Practice in All Courts.
Office 4th St., Opposite Court House
CLANTON.

Physicians.

Dr. V. O. Campbelle,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office over Roper's Store.
CLANTON.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins,
Physician and Surgeon,
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office with Hopkins Drug Co.
CLANTON.

W. F. Middleton, M.D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
CLANTON.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

Dentists.

Dr. A. B. Horn,
Dentist.
Office over Strock's Store.
CLANTON.

Office Days in the Following Towns.

Jemison—Wednesday and Thursday before the 2nd Sunday.

Thorsby—Wednesday and Thursday before the 3d Sunday Dr. Stabler's Office

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 8 to 12 a. m.
1 to 5 p. m. CLANTON

Louisville & Nashville
RAILROAD.

THE DIRECT LINE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST, NORTH AND NORTHWEST

In Effect November 1, 1903.

No. 9 D'ly Ex't S'day A M	No. 3 D'ly P M	Read Down Leave	Read Up Ar.	No. 2 D'ly P M	No. 6 D'ly Ex't P M
6 10	3 40	Birmingham	11 10	7 15
6 53	4 19	Helena	11 30	6 34
7 32	5 01	Calera	10 46	5 50
7 56	5 28	Jemison	10 24	5 28
8 05	5 37	Thorsby	10 16	5 15
8 11	5 44	Lomax	10 10	5 08
8 19	5 51	CLANTON	10 02	5 01
8 32	6 05	Cooper	9 45	4 49
8 37	6 11	Verbena	9 39	4 41
8 44	6 19	Mt. Creek	9 30	4 30
9 24	6 51	Elmore	8 51	3 56
9 50	7 25	Montgomery	8 25	3 30

Drawing Room, Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars.

For rates and further information address G. Higgins, agent L. and N. R. R., Clanton, Ala.

FOR SALE.
760 acres of land, partly improved; also two sets mill rocks and fixtures. Alfred Popwell, Clanton, Alabama.

In Chillicothe, Ohio, girls have been employed as street car conductors. Because they could not do the switching they have been discharged and men hired.

A SERMON FOR SUNDAY

AN INTERESTING DISCOURSE BY THE REV. DONALD SAGE MACKAY.

Subject: "The Value of a Day"—We Should Not Waste Effort in Talking Platitudes About the Shortness of Time—Let Us Be Up and Doing.

NEW YORK CITY.—A sermon preached Sunday evening by the Rev. Dr. Donald Sage MacKay, in Collegiate Church, Fifth avenue and Forty-eighth street, had for its subject "The Value of a Day." The text was from John xi:9: "Are there not twelve hours in the day?" Dr. MacKay said:

My text this evening is Christ's definition of a day: "Are there not twelve hours in the day?" And what of it? you ask. This much at least: The day is a great deal longer than some people seem to imagine. It is indeed one of the dreariest, as it is one of the oldest of moral reflections, which forever dwells upon the shortness of time and the swiftness of its flight. More mournful eloquence and doleful poetry have been inspired by that one theme than by any other in the catalogue of human thought. Of course, time is short, and its flight is swift, but are there not twelve hours in the day? To each man sufficient time has been given to do the task assigned to him. That is the solemn practical truth emphasized by our Saviour here, and it is one that perhaps we hardly ever think of; not the shortness of time, but its sufficiency for the tasks of life. Are there not twelve hours in the day? That is our subject, the value of a day, abundance of time to do the duties which must be done, to bear the burdens which must be borne, to face the trials which God sends.

At the outset I want to see how these words of Christ rebuke two very opposite, but very common, tempers which men assume in regard to time and its opportunities. On the one hand, Christ rebukes here that morbid spirit which in hopeless impotence is forever bewailing the shortness of time, its loss of opportunities in the past and its smallness of opportunities in the present. "O, if I had only done so and so twenty years ago, how much better off I had been to-day," one man exclaims, and he sits down in a sort of sentimental fatalism, bewailing his unhappy lot, making no real effort to better it. To such a man Christ says in effect, "Never mind the past; it is gone; you cannot recall it; but are there not twelve hours in the day? Do the best you can with this day and its precious hours." Vain regrets for the past are the worst kind of dissipation of the present.

But, on the other hand, these words not less strongly rebuke that opposite spirit, which, because life seems to stretch through a long vista of seventy or eighty years, is prodigal of its time, thinks that the duties of the present can well enough be mortgaged on the opportunities of the future. "What does it matter, after all, if a young man squanders a few years in sowing his wild oats? Nature is generous. You can bank on her resources. A few years of misspent time—well, it won't matter twenty years after this." So in effect many men argue. So they stake life and immortality on the chances of the future. And to that tempter Christ says: "Are there not twelve hours in the day?" Only twelve! Steal ten of them for sin to-day and you cannot give twenty-two of them for God to-morrow. Only twelve hours! Sufficient to do life's duties in, but not sufficient to serve God and the devil in. Twelve hours! Abundance of time, but not a moment too much, not a second too many.

"Are there not twelve hours in the day?" It was Jesus Christ who asked that question. Have you never been struck with what I must call the frugality of Christ, not only in respect of time, but of everything else? Christ was pre-eminently a frugal man, not prodigal with His resources, not spendthrift with His powers. He had the riches of the universe in His grasp. No millionaire that ever lived could command such resources; and yet when out of these resources He had fed a multitude of 5000 people, what was it He said to His disciples? "Gather up the fragments, that nothing be lost." He was anxious for the crumbs. Frugal, not parsimonious, He realized the value of the little things in life.

So, too, in this matter of time. From everlasting to everlasting He is God. "Before Abraham was, I am," the heir of all the ages. And yet He counts life by its hours, twelve hours in the day, while we, the frail, helpless children of a day, presume to measure life by its years. How old are you? And the young man in the exuberance of his vitality counts life by its years, and replies: "Twenty, thirty years old." "How old art thou?" said Pharaoh to the aged Jacob. And the patriarch, though he was 137 years old at the time, counted his life by its days, and Jacob said unto Pharaoh: "Few and evil have the days of the years of my pilgrimage been." It was by its days that the old man reckoned life.

So, too, you remember the prayer of Moses: "So teach us to number," not our years, but "our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

Have you ever noticed how much more keenly this sense of the value of a day is forced home upon us the nearer we come to eternity? It is when the soul stands upon the shore of a boundless eternity that it begins to think of how much a day, an hour, a moment means. "A million of money for an inch of time," cried the great English queen, after six long years on a throne. A million of money for an inch of time! The nearer we get to eternity the more precious the moments become. And Christ, who lived in the atmosphere of eternity and who alone hath immortality, counted life by its hours, twelve hours in the day—enough, but not enough and to spare.

I want, of course, this evening to emphasize especially the spiritual aspect of this subject, and yet it cannot be out of place altogether to remember that this power of using the hours of a day and gathering up these precious fragments of time, frequently called "odd moments," is really the secret of some of the most successful lives. One of the striking testimonials of biography, indeed, is this, that a great many enduring reputations in the world have been built out of the "odd moments" of life. Men otherwise long since forgotten are remembered to-day for what they achieved in odd moments, in the twelve hours of the day. One of the best translations of Lucretius, the great Latin writer, was the work of a busy London doctor while going his daily round among his patients. A great musician learned French and Italian while riding from one musical pupil to another. Kirke White learned Greek while walking to and from a lawyer's office, so that he was enabled to graduate with honors in the university. One of the ablest legal treatises in the French language was written by a man in the somewhat depressing interval which precedes the serving of the evening meal, after he had come home from his office. Elihu Burritt taught himself eighteen ancient languages and twenty-two European languages while waiting for the horses to be shod in his blacksmith shop. Such examples teach us forcibly enough how abundant are the hours of the day for the noblest tasks of life, if we would but seek grace to use them aright. "Redeeming the time," says the apostle. How many of us ask God's grace each day we rise, to use the twelve hours aright, for His glory and for the benefit of our fellow men?

Do we realize this privilege of twelve hours a day sufficiently? I am quite sure if we did we should not say so often as we do that we have no time. We should not waste so much time in talking platitudes about the shortness of time. We should be up and doing, living life in earnest, and not in spasms. Yet think how many squander these precious twelve hours day by day. Think, for example, of the hours of idle reveries, useless, aimless dreaming, respectable loafing, that many of us give ourselves up to throughout the day. It is not perhaps that our thoughts are vicious or impure, but simply that our minds get into a state of suspended animation, during which an uncurbed fancy makes havoc of our will power, paralyzes our energy, and robs us of the day's most precious opportunities. Meditation, indeed, is not idleness—quiet, restful thought, in which the soul dreams its visions for service, is not wasted time. But the mistake so many of us make is that our moments of meditation are lost in hours of idle dreaming which leads us nowhere save only into the mazes of selfish indulgence and sentimental fancy. Twelve hours in the day, and how many lost in foolish dreaming?

Think, too, what waste in gossip, in needless, thoughtless talk. It is not that we are deliberate scandal-mongers, but simply that to pass the time we indulge in a kind of talk about our neighbors and friends, the results of which for evil are greater than we may ever know. Who can estimate the reputations that have been wrecked, the lives of promise that have been crippled, the usefulness for good in the world that has been checked by the retailing of evil slander throughout the twelve hours of the day?

Once more, think of the hours consumed in the pursuit of merely selfish pleasure. Indifferent to the bitter cry of outcast humanity, callous to the great moral needs of the hour that come knocking at our doors, how many of us use up the twelve hours in the pursuit of schemes whose one purpose is for self and self alone. Busy we may be, but so busy with the affairs of self that we have no time to spend for the common good, for the needs of man, or the glory of God. Twelve hours! and all of them strangled upon the altar of self—not one given up to God, to wing its way upward like incense before the eternal throne!

Look back upon the week just gone, with its treasury of hours, and what record have they left upon the tablets of the soul? How many hours of last week witnessed you on your knees before God? How many hours did you give to prayer? How many hours did you give to studying the Bible? How many to thinking thoughts of love and translating them into deeds of kindness? How many to crucifying self and enthroning Christ? How many? Perhaps not even one. And yet on these hours we are building character for eternity; out of these hours is growing that immortal self with which at last we must stand before the judgment seat of God. Twelve hours in the day to work out your salvation, and how many men are using these twelve hours in working out their perdition!

How, then, are we going to redeem our days, make the most of those twelve hours, so that at last no upbraiding memory shall recall them with sorrow and shame?

I would not be so foolish as to say that this power to use time aright means that we are to fill up each separate hour with some determined, conscious effort. That would be impossible, and, even if it were possible, it would turn us into self-conscious prigs and moral pedants. You cannot detach every hour and say, as Franklin said in his diary, that this hour will be devoted to such an such a duty, that hour to some other duty, and so on. That would destroy a great deal of the inspiration of life and would turn existence into a grinding machine. No, the hours are to be redeemed, not so much by what we do in them as by the spirit we bring to them, by the temper in which we use them. Let every day be begun with its season of special prayer. Let it have its moments shut off for communion with God. And then these moments, however brief, of consecrated prayer, will give a tonic to the rest of the day which will make impossible that flippant dissipation of time which is so ruinous to character.

There are two things that this spirit of prayer will produce in our use of the twelve hours in the day. First, prayer produces a sense of urgency, a spirit of haste, if you like, but not a spirit of hurry. It intensifies the thought that time is short and yet enough for each one of us to do something for God. It is that feeling of urgency in regard to each day as it comes that it should leave the record of something attempted, something given for God and our fellow men, that gives richness to life, a beauty to character, a sunny radiance to the soul, that makes earth the threshold of heaven. Nothing is more disgusting than to meet people who simply loaf through life, without any sense of urgency. As the saying goes, they do not care whether school keeps or not. They are not worried about the world's necessities. What we want is this sense of urgency. Time is short, and yet long enough with prayer to do something that will abide when we have passed away. That is the first thing that prayer brings to the twelve hours of the day.

The second thing is a sense of calmness, a spirit of serenity. How often we fret and worry beneath the pressure of life! The friction of care reduces the effectiveness of our energy. Many men are wearing themselves out before their time, simply because they have this hallucination that there is not time enough. They get into a fever of worry because the days are too short. But prayer brings to us the thought that God has given us time enough, and all He asks from us is to live and work by the day. In His service we are only day laborers. With to-morrow we have nothing to do. The command is, "Go, work to-day," and the promise is, "I will pay you a penny a day." God's wages are paid, not by the month nor the week, but by the day. Each day brings its duty, but each day brings its grace and strength and blessing as well:

"Build a little fence of trust
Around to-day.
Fill the pace with loving work,
And therein stay.
Look not through the sheltering bars
Upon to-morrow;
God will help thee bear what comes
Of joy or sorrow."

With some of us here this evening the day of life is young. The morning light still lends freshness to your youthful ardor. But with others of us it is already the eleventh hour, the eleventh hour in life's busy day. Although we know it not, the dusk of time is falling fast. The twilight of our years is deepening and high up in the belfry of the soul

"The curfew tolls the knell of passing day."

And yet through the silence of this eleventh hour, through the shadowed marketplace of your life's activities, you may hear to-night the voice of infinite love and tenderness calling, and calling yet again: "Why stand ye here all the day idle?" It is the eleventh hour, and Christ claims that eleventh hour. Redeem the time in His service. Consecrate it to His glory, and you will in nowise lose your reward. To-day if ye will hear His voice—and remember, "There are twelve hours in the day."

Affliction That Pays.

A psalmist once said: "It is good for me that I have been afflicted; that I might learn Thy statutes." He might not have sought the ways of God had he not found his own ways hedged about him. His experience was that of a great number of men who discovered riches in affliction which were otherwise not to be found. The depth of human love and sympathy would never be known were it not for affliction. Through sorrow there has often come a wealth of love and affection, marvelous in its sweetness and power. It was not until he was afflicted that the psalmist saw the glory of the holy law. It is in affliction also that the story of human love shines out, richer by far because it is charged with the holy love of God. Yes, it is a dear price to pay, but in the after-glow we shall be able to say that it was worth paying.—Baptist Union.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR MAY 29.

Subject: The Passover, Matt. xxvi., 17-30—Golden Text, 1 Cor. v., 7—Memory Verses, 26-28—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. The preparation for the meal (vs. 17-19). 17. "First day of the feast." The 14th of Nisan was the day of preparation and hence called the first day of the feast, a though the feast properly did not begin until the 15th of Nisan, which, according to the Jewish reckoning, commenced immediately after sunset of the 14th, and was the day on which the Passover was eaten. The celebration continued until the 21st (Exod. 12: 18-20). "Of unleavened bread." So called because at this feast only unleavened bread was allowed. It symbolized three things: 1. The haste with which they fled from Egypt, not having time to wait for bread to rise (Exod. 12: 34, 39). 2. Their sufferings in Egypt, hence called the bread of affliction (Deut. 16: 3). 3. Their purity as a consecrated nation, since fermentation was the beginning of putrefaction, and leaven was thus a symbol of impurity. "Where wilt Thou." Jesus had no home of His own and the disciples knew that some place must be chosen at once. "That we prepare." That which was required consisted of a room furnished with table and couches; and for food, unleavened bread, bitter herbs and a paschal lamb, which must be slain in the temple between 3 and 5 o'clock, and cooked in a private house.

18. "Go into the city." Luke says that Peter and John were sent. They were now at Bethany and Jesus sends them to Jerusalem. "To such a man." It is probable that this meant some person with whom Christ was well acquainted, and who was known to the disciples. Mark and Luke state that they would meet a man bearing a pitcher of water, whom they were to follow. "Say unto him." Say unto the master of the house, who was probably a disciple, but secretly, like many others, for fear of the Jews (John 12: 42); and this may explain the suppression of his name. "The Master saith." The teacher saith.

19. "Did as Jesus had appointed them." They obeyed in every particular, and found everything to happen as Jesus had foretold. Those who would have Christ's presence with them must strictly observe His instructions.

II. Events during the eating of the Passover (vs. 20-25). 20. "The even was come." It was probably while the sun was beginning to decline in the horizon that Jesus and the disciples descended once more over the Mount of Olives into the holy city. "Sat down." Or reclined, according to the custom of that time. Their feet were extended away from the table and not under it.

It was at this time that the disciples strove among themselves as to which should be accounted the greatest (Luke 22: 24). The strife probably began when they were taking their positions at the table. It is suggested that this contention is the probable reason for some of the exhortations in John 13: 1-20, and for the washing of the disciples' feet. Possibly those sought the places of honor at the table who had been especially honored on other occasions.

21. "As they did eat." The Passover, not the memorial supper. He tasted first the unleavened bread and the bitter herbs before the lamb was served. "One of you." How sad! One who is pledged to be faithful and true. Jesus was troubled in spirit (John 13: 21). "Shall betray Me." Judas had already agreed to betray Him. This announcement would give him an opportunity to repent, but this he did not do.

22. "Exceeding sorrowful." Because He was to be betrayed, and because one of their number was about to perform the dastardly act. "Is it I?" They also asked themselves the questions (Luke 22: 23). 23. "He that dippeth." The thought of verse 21 is repeated. It was at this point that Peter beckoned to John, who was leaning on Jesus' bosom, to ask Jesus who it should be (John 13: 22-27); and Jesus probably gave them a sign by which they knew. Knives and forks and plates for each guest were unknown. The food was piled in a great circular dish, over it was pored the broth, and the guests with their fingers dipped a piece of meat or of barley cake into the broth, and thus ate it.

24. "Goeth." To the cross and to death. "As it is written." In such scriptures as Isaiah 53. "Woe unto that man." A sad statement of a terrible fact. Jesus had previously told of His betrayal and death, but it must be remembered that the betrayer acted voluntarily; the prophecy did not compel him to sin, but merely told that in the natural course of events he would sin. "Had not been born." This proves conclusively that for the lost soul there is no redemption. 25. "Is it I?" Judas tried to cover his hypocrisy and wickedness by asking this question. He knew that he was even then seeking an opportunity to do this very thing, and if he had not been spiritually blind he would have known that Jesus knew all about it, too.

III. The memorial supper (vs. 26-30). 26. "Took bread." Took the loaf or thin cake of unleavened bread, which was before Him. "Blessed it." Invoked the blessing of God upon it. "Brake it." The act was designed to shadow forth the wounding, piercing and breaking of Christ's body on the cross. "This is My body." This bread represents My body. 27. "The cup." The word "wine" is not used, but "cup," "the fruit of the vine" (v. 29), so that "unfermented grape juice was all that was used." "Gave thanks." It was like giving thanks over the shedding of His own blood. "Drink ye all." They were all to drink of this. Mark says, "They all drank of it."

28. "Is My blood." Represents My blood. "Of the covenant" (R. V.) It was an old covenant renewed, and thus a new promise to men that God would provide a great salvation. "For many." For all mankind. "Remission of sins." "For the taking away of sins." But although the atonement is made, yet no man's sins are taken away only as he repents and turns to God.

29. "Not drink henceforth." He would not eat and drink with them again; this was their last meal together. "When I drink it new." When I drink new wine—"wine of a different nature from this"—in the kingdom of God. Here is a pledge to them that they would again assemble, in the kingdom of glory, to commemorate the triumph of Christ and His kingdom. 30. "Sung an hymn." Which was always sung at the close of the paschal feast; it consisted of six psalms, from Psa. 113 to 118. "Into the Mount of Olives." Where Jesus suffered in the garden of Gethsemane and was betrayed.

Norway's coast line—17,000 miles in a straight line—becomes 1,200 miles if followed around the fjords. In these fjords are over 150,000 islands.

Many Maine Divorces.

In his address at the annual convention of the Maine Episcopal Diocese at Portland, Bishop Codman laid particular stress on the prevalence of divorce in the State. He said that during the past year there had been one divorce to every seven marriages in Maine.

Incendiary Burns Bank.

Fire burned every store but two in Waverly, Va. The loss is $48,000. The blaze was of incendiary origin. The Bank of Waverly was burned, leaving the vaults intact.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The boll weevil, according to a report just issued by the Census Bureau, damaged the cotton crop last year in ninety-six of the 178 counties in Texas to the extent of $49,272,898.

A Providence automobilist on a recent trip to Boston passed sixteen automobiles either broken down entirely or temporarily held up for repairs. Automobiling is a great sport, especially suited to machinists and carriage builders.

The Emperor Menelik has written a letter to the King of Italy informing him that he will no longer celebrate the anniversary of Adowa by military demonstration, and will in future commemorate it only by a religious festival in honor of the Abyssinians and Italians who fell on the field of battle.

The population of the greater part of Australia is stationary or declining. The only substantial increase is in the new mining region of Western Australia. With an area almost as great as that of the United States, the entire Commonwealth does not have as many people as Ohio.

More sentiment is being created each year in China among the women and girls as to unbinding the feet, and all the women who are employed by the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society are required to unbind them.

Note the change in condition of women in one province of India, where, fifty years ago, among the 17,000,000 people, not seventeen women could be found that could read. Now there are scores of high schools, a college, and women are graduating every year in the university.

Richard Bullock Seawell, the oldest native-born resident of Raleigh, N. C., died a few days ago. The pallbearers at his funeral were six of his former slaves and among the principal mourners was Harry Boykin, who was for many years his slave and for whom Mr. Seawell called repeatedly during his last illness. Though Harry is more than 80 years old, is feeble and lives several miles from the Seawell home, he went there every day, and when his old master died stood weeping at the foot of the bed.

A unique record of engine-driving is reported. Robert Maybank, who has had close on to 52 years' service on the London and Southwestern Railway, has traveled on his engine during this period about 2,000,000 miles, and has never once been late for duty. He was fireman on the train which, in 1863, conveyed the King, then Prince of Wales, from Windsor to Waterloo to meet his bride. During the whole of his long service he has never had an accident to a train under his charge.

Expensive dress is not, as is too hastily assumed, the exclusive privilege of civilized womanhood. Not infrequently a semi-savage girl has a wardrobe consisting of furs which would be worth from one to two thousand pounds. Grundeman, the explorer, relates how one fair Greenlander wore a dress of sealskin with a hood of that costly fur, the silver fox. The garment was lined with fur of the young seal-otter, and there was a fringe of wolverene tails. About one hundred and forty pounds is probably the average worth of the dress of Indian women on the Columbia and Fraser rivers.

During the last year many of the young women of the Illinois and Michigan towns have formed small clubs that have become very popular among the country folk, announces the Chicago Record-Herald. To a great extent the clubs are formed o working girls who are employed during the day. The clubs are all small in membership, few numbering more than five. The girls act together in matters that to them seem best calculated to advance their condition socially and intellectually. They buy books and read them together, talk about them and occasionally they hold a social function. In some of the towns there are a half dozen of these small clubs, all of the members being young women workers of the community. A representative organization of this nature is the Cleo Club of Genoa, Ill. There are five members, all earning their own living.

In spite of mammoth steel arch, girder, and cantilever bridges, the stone-arch bridge is still employed under certain conditions, and the largest structure of this kind in the world is now in course of erection at Plauen, Saxony, states Harper's Weekly. This bridge will have a span of 295 feet, exceeding by twenty feet the famous Luxembourg bridge opened last year, and by still more the Morbegno bridge in Lombardy and the Cabin John bridge near Washington, D. C., which have held in turn the record as the longest stone-arch bridges. The Plauen bridge differs from the Luxembourg bridge in being of masonry throughout, instead of consisting of two parallel arches connected by iron and concrete. Its cost is estimated at about $120,000, a sum made possible by the low cost of labor in Saxony and the abundant supplies of suitable stone in the vicinity. It is an arch crossing a valley, and a good example of modern stone work.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Goodness is never impaired by being imparted.

A warm heart has something in it beside spice.

Unity depends more on purpose than on proximity.

He who advances always has the advantage in life's struggle.

Certain thoughts are prayers. There are moments when the soul is kneeling, no matter what the attitude of the body may be.—Victor Hugo.

"The habit of blaming others when things go wrong is an insidious and dangerous one. Far more is it the purpose to inquire within whether the fault of much of it may not lie at home."

You find yourself refreshed by the presence of cheerful people. Why not make earnest effort to confer that pleasure on others? You will find half the battle is gained if you never allow yourself to say anything gloomy.—Selected.

The whole secret of remaining young in spite of years, and even of gray hairs, is to cherish enthusiasm in one's self, by poetry, by contemplation, by charity—that is, in fewer words, by the maintenance of harmony in the soul.—Amiel's Journal.

GROVE LOOKS LIKE A CAMP.

How the Orange Trees of Florida Are Protected from Frost.

Orange culture in Florida has received a severe shock by the recent frosts that have killed the buds and dissipated the hope of gathing a profitable harvest during the coming summer. The growers have taken to giving their trees as much attention as is showered upon any invalid that visits that state in search of health. There are several ways of protecting, the fruit trees, but to the northerner the most novel is that of individual tent coverings for them.

Many of the tents are similar in shape to those used for military purposes and large enough to hold a dozen soldiers comfortably. Where they are made entirely of canvas they are attached to a wooden pole driven into the ground and firmly bedded.

From the top of the pole extends a cross-piece which supports the top of the canvas when the tent is in use. Below the crosspiece is fastened a wooden hoop large enough to completely encircle the tree. When there is no danger of a frost, the canvas is folded against the supporting post and tied so loosely that it can be unfastened by a mere pull of the hand. When the engineer of the railroad train passing through the orange country of Florida blows a prolonged blast with the whistle of the locomotive you can see men, women and children hastening toward the orange groves as the people in a country town run to put out a fire.

The whistle is a signal to them that a cold wave is coming, and unless they take steps to fight it, a few hours may mean the loss of a year's work and perhaps ruin. This is why everybody who can help, from a grandfather down to the youngster of 10, starts for the orange orchard.

The canvas fastenings are untied, the cloth pulled around the hoop and over the top by a jerk of the cord attached. Then the ends of the canvas are fastened securely. Only one person is required to cover a single tree, unless it is unusually large. The work of drawing the tent requires only a few seconds, but where there are 3000 or 4000 trees in a grove, time is indeed precious. Only a few hours may elapse before a frost comes, and it is often necessary to work far into the night with the aid of lanterns.—Baltimore Sun.

The Canary Is King.

The recent sale in London of a pair of canaries for £70 has directed public attention to the "boom" now raging in London in these diminutive pets. Since King Edward took up the hobby of canary breeding prices have been steadily rising, and in many instances birds have changed hands for four times their weight in gold. The most expensive variety are those with crests, or topknots of feathers. Perfect crested canaries are very difficult to breed and they are subject to blindness the crest being cultivated to such an extent that it grows over the eyes and "crests" range from £5 to £40. Norwich plain-head canaries are far more popular, but do not realize such high prices. At Huddersfield show recently a young bird, in its first season, was sold by auction for £15 10s. Plain-head Norwich are bred almost exclusively for color properties, the most highly colored specimen invariably heading the list.—New York Tribune.

Animals Become Insane.

Insanity in the human subject is supposed by some to have no analogue in the lower animals. Yet many cases, according to Dr. Sneilson, will lead to the permanent loss of self-control. Cattle driven from the country through a crowded town will often work themselves into a frenzy. Horses have gone mad on the battlefield. At Balaklava an Arabian horse turned on his attendant, threw him down and, kneeling on him, attacked him like an infuriated dog. An instance is related of a docile horse suddenly going mad on a hot day. Everything that came in its way it seized in its teeth and shook as a terrier does a rat. A scientist of authority even goes so far as to prove by what appears to be incontestable evidence that cats, dogs and monkeys have been observed to have delusions very similar to those of insane people.—London Globe.

THE PROSAIC AGE.

If dairymaids wore diamonds
And shepherds evening dress,
If "sweetly scented roses"
Resembled watercress;
If thrushes ceased to "warble"
And skies to "smile in blue"
If meadows discontinued
Whatever 't is they do;

If "bounding ocean billows"
Should "sweep no more the
If all the "moonlit evenings
Were in receivers' hands;
If larks grew pessimistic,
And every "summer breeze"
Should join a labor union,
And rhyme no more with "

If all the "sturdy peasants"
Had derby hats and canes,
And every "lovely landscape"
Were packed with railway
If "timid deer" the sidewalks
Of Broadway should elect
And nightingales use language
Which parrots now affect.

If "gentle lambs" attacked
With murderous intent;
If pigeons came and bit you,
As "through the land you
If "rosy dawns" grew scarcer,
And "blushing girls" extinct—
Ah, me! poetic fancies
No longer would be inked!

Harvard Lam

JUST FOR F

Gadsby—That fellow N
regular fortune-hunter. Ra he's a mighty poor shot.—Judg

"They are mere nobodies you quite sure? They look like nobodies to be some Puck.

Curioso—Your name is Ephr it? How'd your parents came you that name? Modestus—know for certain, but I suspect because I was a boy.—Boston script.

A great debt: Bragg—I owe to any man. Newitt—Oh, ye do. Bragg—No, sir! Newitt—O
You owe an apology to every m has to listen to you blow.—P phia Press.

Improvement at the gas office
you have any luck when you complain about the gas bill?"
luck than last month," answer Meekton; "the man didn't lau time."—Ex.

"I understand," said one
"that we are to be seized." "Y swered the other; "I love my but I wish it weren't so much prize in a grabbag at a fair."— ington Star.

"Funny about Ralston want former wife to get a divorce fr second husband so that they get married again." "Not very always been falling in love with men's wives."—Ex.

What he would rather have e ed differently: Gushing lady—O
Mr. Jones, I should love to be tiful—even if for only half an Jones—Yes; but you wouldn't li coming back again!—Punch.

"An elephant must be a pret pensive animal." "Yes, I wish enough money to buy one."
do you want with an elephant don't. I merely expressed a wi the money."—Philadelphia Pres

"Sometimes," said the poet, almost afraid that I take myse seriously." "Oh, well, never replied his kind-hearted friend.
no harm done if you do. Ever else regards you as a joke."—C Record-Herald.

Before the Russian spy was the officer who had captured h sisted on heart-to-heart talk.
say you have swallowed a numb plans, rather than be caught with in your possession," he rem
"Isn't eating paper in such qua rather hard on the stomach?"
no," replied the Russian. "I u be the official taster in a bre food factory."—Cincinnati Time

Bees Too Smart for Him.

One of our neighbors has a ber of years past derived a ver isfactory revenue from the in of his bees. His farm is a villa 50 by 200 feet, in a sheltered of which he keeps a few colon bees. With the numerous fa he has always lived in the mos fect harmony of purpose, and individual seems to know and him, however warlike they ma pear to strange faces. When boxes were filled this season were replaced by others, as is usual custom. This operation d commend itself to the bees, taxes their proverbial industry great an extent in a season o flowers, like the past.

Seemingly, a council was held the question of a winter's supp
food duly considered and soon c into effect. Some wise bee fou small hole in the attic, where more pounds of honey was s
At once all the forces of the col were summoned, and with deter tion that knows no failure they ferred every particle of honey the garret to the new boxes o hives. A few days ago, when ou farmer went to the garret for a ply to fill an order, he found h been robbed. No, it was not rob
The bees got back what had bee en from them. It was theirs.—
England Homestead.

The population of Korea is 15,000,000 in round numbers, the is about equal to the state of Ka and the foreign commerce about 000,000, of which imports form a $7,500,000.

BABET'S

Friday

Oh, I was born at
in Devon.
And I was born child of sor
So I can see the
and hear
And I can man fr
I hear the grass
maid wields
Only a lover's whisp
her ear
Before the wild
Come! I know
That she will heart beats
For Friday's what And never sun that
And I was last of
And I'm
for Pall Mall Gazette

om the summit of a certain ample near Champrosay the view is rare autiful and has inspired many a and painter. But this story is concerned with the landscape. At oot of the hill, in the winding, pic que valley, stands a rough, ber-beaten cottage. It has stood e for years and years, and the s of Senart, opposite, look down it with a long-recognized com ship.

e cottage is not empty, oh, no, d! That can be attested easily gh by the white muslin curtains, e, but clean, that flutter in the open windows; and, also, by the y roses that bloom on every side.
t of the open cottage door come figures—an old brown man and d gray woman, the man in cordu the woman wearing a neat white a cap and a blue apron.

sooner have they come into view
a burst of exquisite melody
s them, shrill and sweet, pierc sweet, now diving, swallow-wise tender warblings, fluting of liquid nces; now hastening to ascend,
g high and higher in cager, joy
stasies.

en one sees what one has failed serve before, up among the yel eglantine and the climbing Pro rose vines hangs a wicker cage ining a thrush.

rysostome! le joli Chrysos
" says the old man, approaching age. "Good morning, Chrysos
" He feeds the bird out of a store of millet with which he lled his pocket. Babet, his wife, es him furtively for a second,
as she sees his crippled move
she sighs to herself:

y poor Pierre, he grows weaker day. If I only had some rich ndy to give him. But, helas! we oor. Well, the good God knows he does."

Pierre turns around Babet dis s the worried expression from rvous, little face and summons ver-ready smile.

y had not always been poor, this old couple—not so very poor, at

Before the rheumatism had set own upon him, when he had the
of his strong, willing limbs, had gotten along very com
ly with his modest bit of farm that fertile valley. Often the
, who would hang around the f Champrosay with their easels anvas as the bees hang around lover, would say to him:

y do you not move into town work? You would make much money in a town. Now, beyond oods, there, at Soisy, for exam know a baker—"

the broad-shouldered, hearty t would smile cheerfully and wisely shake his head.

sieur is kind to suggest. But,
. We have been happy here,

may name your own price."
e and I. This is our place in rld, and here we will live until d God says 'Come.' Even then You will laugh, monsier, but I l you what I say to my wife:
Babet, let us pray that the good ll permit us to have in his hea t such a cottage as this.'"
your wish be fulfilled," the would reply before going their was some years back. Now—ey are still happy, Pierre and Have they not each other, and they not their little brown to cheer them? But, beyond they are very poor.

OUGHT.

paired by being

omething in it

n purpose than

ays has the ad-

prayers. There soul is kneel-
the attitude of tor Hugo.

g others when insidious and more is it the
in whether the ay not lie at reshed by the ople. Why not

sider that
You will find
d if you never thing gloomy.

of remaining and even of enthusiasm in ccomplation, words by n the

E A CAMP.

of Florida Are Frost.

THE PROSAIC AGE.

If dairymaids wore diamonds,
And shepherds evening dress;
If "sweetly scented roses"
Resembled watercress;
If thrushes ceased to "warble,"
And skies to "smile in blue;"
If meadows discontinued
Whatever 't is they do;

If "bounding ocean billows"
Should "sweep no more the
If all the "moonlit evenings"
Were in receivers' hands;
If larks grew pessimistic,
And every "summer breeze"
Should join a labor union,
And rhyme no more with "

If all the "sturdy peasants"
Had derby hats and canes,
And every "lovely landscape"
Were packed with railway
If "timid deer" the sidewalks
Of Broadway should elect,
And nightingales use language
Which parrots now affect;

If "gentle lambs" attacked you
With murderous intent;
If pigeons came and bit you,
As "through the land you
If "rosy dawns" grew scarcer,
And "blushing girls" extinct—
Ah, me! poetic fancies
No longer would be inked.

Harvard Lamp

JUST FOR FU

Gadsby—That fellow Noscads regular fortune-hunter. Raynor— he's a mighty poor shot.—Judge.

"They are mere nobodies." you quite sure? They look like nobodies to be somebodies Puck.

Curioso—Your name is Ephra it? How'd your parents came to you that name? Modestus—I know for certain, but I suspect it because I was a boy.—Boston T script.

A great debt: Bragg—I owe no to any man. Newitt—Oh, yes, do. Bragg—No, sir! Newitt—Oh, You owe an apology to every man has to listen to you blow.—Phila phia Press.

Improvement at the gas office: you have any luck when you we complain about the gas bill?" "B back than last month," answered Meekton; "the man didn't laugh time." Ex.

"I understand," said one Co "that we are to be seized." "Yes," swered the other; "I love my cou but I wish it weren't so much lik prize in a grabbag at a fair."—W ington Star.

"Funny about Ralston wanting former wife to get a divorce from second husband so that they m get married again." "Not very. always been falling in love with men's wives."—Ex.

What he would rather have ex ed differently: Gushing lady—Oh, Mr. Jones, I should love to be tiful—even if for only half an h Jones—Yes; but you wouldn't lik coming back again!—Punch.

"An elephant must be a pretty pensive animal." "Yes, I wish I enough money to buy one." "W do you want with an elephant" don't. I merely expressed a wish the money."—Philadelphia Press.

"Sometimes," said the poet, "I almost afraid that I take myself seriously." "Oh, well, never m replied his kind-hearted friend, "th no harm done if you do. Every else regards you as a joke."—Chi Record-Herald.

Before the Russian spy was the officer who had captured hi sisted on heart-to-heart talk. say you have swallowed a numbe plans, rather than be caught with in your possession," he rema "Isn't eating paper in such quant rather hard on the stomach?" no," replied the Russian. "I use be the official taster in a break food factory."—Cincinnati Times-

Bees Too Smart for Him.

One of our neighbors has a ber of years past derived a very isfactory revenue from the indu of his bees. His farm is a villag 50 by 200 feet, in a sheltered co of which he keeps a few colonie bees. With the numerous fam he has always lived in the most fect harmony of purpose, and individual seems to know and re him, however warlike they may pear to strange faces. When all boxes were filled this season were replaced by others, as is usual custom. This operation did commend itself to the bees, taxes their proverbial industry to great an extent in a season of flowers, like the past.

Seemingly, a council was held the question of a winter's supply food duly considered and soon ca into effect. Some wise bee foun small hole in the attic, where 10 more pounds of honey was sto At once all the forces of the colo were summoned, and with determ tion that knows no failure they tr ferred every particle of honey f the garret to the new boxes on hives. A few days ago, when our farmer went to the garret for a ply to fill an order, he found he been robbed. No, it was not robb The bees got back what had been en from them. It was theirs.—N England Homestead.

The population of Korea is a 15,000,000 in round numbers, the is about equal to the state of Kan and the foreign commerce about 000,000, of which imports form a $7,500,000.

BABET'S SACRIFICE

rom the summit of a certain ample near Champrosay the view is rare- beautiful and has inspired many a and painter. But this story is concerned with the landscape. At foot of the hill, in the winding, pic- esque valley, stands a rough, ther-beaten cottage. It has stood re for years and years, and the ds of Senart, opposite, look down e it with a long-recognized com- ship.

e cottage is not empty, oh, no, ed! That can be attested easily ah by the white muslin curtains, se, but clean, that flutter in the open windows; and, also, by the y roses that bloom on every side. t of the open cottage door come figures—an old brown man and d gray woman, the man in cordu- the woman wearing a neat white n cap and a blue apron.

o sooner have they come into view a burst of exquisite melody m them, shrill and sweet, pierc- sweet, now diving, swallow-wise ender warblings, fluting of liquid es; now hastening to ascend, ng high and higher in eager, joy- estasies.

en one sees what one has failed serve before, up among the yel- eglantine and the climbing Pro- e rose vines hangs a wicker cage aining a thrush.

rysostome! le joli Chrysos- " says the old man, approaching age. "Good morning, Chrysos- " He feeds the bird out of a store of millet with which he lled his pocket. Babet, his wife, es him furtively for a second, as she sees his crippled move- she sighs to herself:

poor Pierre, he grows weaker day. If I only had some rich dy to give him. But, helas! we oor. Well, the good God knows he does."

Pierre turns around Babet dis- the worried expression from ervous, little face and summons er-ready smile.

had not always been poor, this old couple—not so very poor, at Before the rheumatism had set- own upon him, when he had the of his strong, willing limbs, had gotten along very com- y with his modest bit of farm- that fertile valley. Often the who would hang around the Champrosay with their easels nvas as the bees hang around ver, would say to him:

y do you not move into town ork? You would make much oney in a town. Now, beyond oods, there, at Soisy, for exam- know a baker—" the broad-shouldered, hearty would smile cheerfully and wisely shake his head.

sieur is kind to suggest. But, We have been happy here,

may name your own price."

e and I. This is our place in rld, and here we will live until God says 'Come.' Even then ou will laugh, monsier, but I ll you what I say to my wife. Babet, let us pray that the good ll permit us to have in his hea- such a cottage as this.'" your wish be fulfilled," the would reply before going their was some years back. Now— ey are still happy, Pierre and Have they not each other, and they not their little brown to cheer them? But, beyond they are very poor.

"Our roses are adorable this summer, adorable—is it not so, my Pierre?"

Babet accompanied her quickly summoned smile with this cheery remark as the old man turned round after his bird-feeding. The thrush had continued its warbling and was again sending forth a flood of song.

"Oh, listen, father! Did you ever hear such singing?" It was a child who spoke, and she clutched at the man's sleeve to arrest his attention. The man was an English artist, who had just rented for the summer a pretty, coquettish French chalet two miles beyond. "Did you ever hear such singing?" repeated the child enthusiastically.

The man confessed that he had not. In the woods of Senart, near the chalet they had taken, there were choirs of thrushes, blackbirds and other songsters, but not one of these free warblers could be compared for full-

"You haven't forgotten me, then?"

ness of melody to this captive bird, hanging up there among the vines. The two strangers remained on the road listening for some seconds; then the man walked up toward the cottage, made the acquaintance of the old couple and asked if they would be willing to part with the thrush.

"No, oh, no, monsieur!" said Pierre decidedly. "We couldn't get along without Chrysostome."

But Babet did not speak. At first a rather blank look came over her face. This blankness quickly gave place to a look of agitation, of distress. She clasped her hands nervously and worked her fingers. A vision of Burgundy and other dainties for her Pierre had suddenly floated across her vision.

"I would give you a fair price for the bird," the stranger went on. "I would like to have it for my little daughter. In fact, you may name your own price."

Pierre was about to repudiate the offer again when he caught Babet's eye. She was already speaking.

"And monsieur's little daughter would be very good to the bird?" She lifted up her worn, gentle face, and eyed him anxiously. Poor Pierre hesitated and stumbled a little before he was able to stammer vaguely:

"You are going to sell our Chrysostome, Babet?"

"Yes, yes," she said, decidedly. But she gave her head a sort of helpless nod, and looked down at her blue apron.

The artist paid double the sum named, and said he would send a servant that afternoon to claim his purchase.

When the servant arrived at the chalet with the bird, the cage was placed in a large window in one of the drawing-rooms. The window opened to the sun and to the fragrance and greenery of the garden. But not a note, not a sound came from the melancholy thrush. It drooped and hung its head as if moulting. They fed, they whistled, they coaxed; but it remained motionless and moping.

The artist was indignant. He had not really pressed the old people to sell their bird; he had given them double the sum named and now! It was not in his nature to be suspicious but it certainly looked as if another thrush had been palmed off upon him in place of the magnificent songster he had heard that morning.

However, he gave the bird several days' trial. At length, patience was exhausted, and he sent for its late owner to remonstrate with him upon his deception.

Pierre trudged heavily into the room, hat in hand, and the artist turned around, armed with some righteous rebuke.

But neither he nor Pierre was allowed to speak; for no sooner had the old man made his appearance in the room than the thrush leaped down from its perch, flapped its wings joyously and burst into so triumphant a song that the whole room seemed to vibrate with its melody.

"What Chrysostome, le joli Chrysostome," said the old man, going up close to the wicker cage, "you haven't forgotten me, then?"

Forgotten him, indeed! The bird extended its slender body, expanded its soft chest and filled its little lungs. Its song of greeting rose upon the voluble air with the splendor of invisible color and the artist found himself thinking. And all the while it kept moving from side to side in the cage—dancing with joy, one might say.

Yes, there could be no doubt about it; it was the same bird that had so charmed the ears of the artist and is little daughter at the foot of the hill near Champrosay. But, like the Hebrew captives, it had not been able to sing its songs in a strange land.

"You can have your bird, my old man," the artist said with a smile. And then, to Carolyn:

"We would not part such loving friends for boxes of bon-bons, would we, dear?"

So off together they trudged, happy Pierre and Chrysostome, Chrysostome still in full song. And Babet wept for joy at their return.—New York Press.

A SHRINKAGE IN VALUES.

Poet's Experience With the Child of His Brain.

The eager poet wrapped it up carefully and set out for the city, where the leading magazine editors sat in judgment on such as his—or, rather, on such as might not hope to be quite as his, and it was night when he came to the city. At the hotel where he chose to lodge he passed it to the clerk, with instructions to place it in the safe, where valuables were kept for security.

"What value?" the clerk inquired.

The poet's face flushed with pride.

"It is, perhaps, scarcely possible to place a value upon it, but——"

"Say two hundred?" suggested the busy and practical clerk.

"That is, perhaps, something of the sort they will place on it," replied the poet, with a deprecatory curl of his lip. "Yes;" say two hundred," and he sighed.

The clerk checked it at two hundred, and put it away in the safe. Next morning the poet arose, paid for his lodge, received it safely into his hands again, and went forth. The afternoon was waning when the poet, looking wan and weary, stood again at the hotel desk, with it (no longer with a large I) in his hand.

"Ah!" said the clerk. "Care for it again? Same value, I suppose?"

"Well—er—ah—not exactly," said the poet, still eagerly, but of a different variety of eager. "I think—er—ah—what I was going to say, was—er—as a matter of fact—er—could you let me have half a dollar on it?"

The clerk said he couldn't hardly do it just then, and the poet took it and went back to his humble village, where he opened a tin shop and did quite well.—New York Times.

School Teachers' Salaries.

A summary of the salaries paid to the school teachers in the chief European countries appeared recently in several American newspapers. This report showed that the salaries of teachers in England range from an average of $350 for men to $250, or even as low as $200, for women. The lowest annual salary paid to a full-fledged teacher in Belgium is $192. In Denmark city teachers begin with $230 and village teachers with $182. The average for a country or village teacher in Prussia is $218 per year, although Berlin teachers receive from $315 to $650; women are paid from $140 to $400. France has an irreducible minimum of $220. Holland $160, Portugal $96 for the country and $108 for the city and Sweden and Norway $136 for men and less than $60 for women. The average salary in Switzerland is $340 for men and $275 for women. Greece divides its teachers into classes, those in the first receiving a maximum salary of $26 per month, those in the second $16, and those in the third $13. Teachers' salaries in Spain vary from $100 per year in the villages to $480 in Madrid.

Royal Discipline in Italy.

When the King of Italy came to the throne he determined to lessen the expenses of the royal household and to abolish sinecures. Being an early riser, he turned up one morning at the office of the household at eight o'clock, and found two attendants lazily beginning to dust the furniture. Being anxious to dictate some letters, and finding no one to write them, he seized a duster from one of the alarmed men, and having dusted one of the desks, sat down and occupied the next hour and a half in writing the letters himself. When at half-past nine one of the clerks sauntered in he was staggered to see the King sitting there.

The King, looking at his watch significantly asked him at what time he and his still absent colleagues were supposed to commence work. "Eight o'clock, sire," was the faltering reply. "Ah, I see you have not enough to do. I must get rid of some of you." He was as good as his word, and there has not been another case of unpunctuality in that department from that day to this.

TOO BUSY TO MAKE NOISE.

Kindergarten Scholar Was Engaged in Pretty Hard Task.

According to the Kansas City Star, a kindergarten teacher of that city was incapacitated from work one day recently by a somewhat startling incident.

The subject of the lecture and object lesson was animals, birds and then more animals.

"Now, children," said the teacher, "I want each of you to think of some animal or bird and try for a moment to be like the particular one you are thinking about, and make the same kind of noises they are in the habit of making."

Here was the command. Here the finale:

Instantly the schoolroom became a menagerie. Lions roaring, dogs barking, birds singing and twittering, cows lowing, calves bleating, cats meowing, etc., all in an uproar and excitement—all, with one single exception.

Off in a remote corner a little fellow was sitting perfectly still, apparently indifferent and unmindful of all the rest. The teacher observing him, approached and said:

"Waldo, why are you not taking part with the other children?"

Waving her off with a deprecating hand and wide, rebuking eyes, he fervently whispered:

"Sh—sh—sh, teacher! I'm a 'ooster, and I'm a-layin' a aig!"

WHAT CHINESE NAMES MEAN.

Geographical Prefixes and Suffixes All Have a Significance.

A few definitions of Chinese geographical prefixes and suffixes may be of service in elucidating the nomenclature of current war news. First, prefixes: Ta, as in Taku, means great, and siao, as in Siao-Ping-Thou, means small. Pei or pe, nan, tung and si are respectively north, south, east and west. Thus the Pei-Ho is the North River, etc. Shang and hai are upper and lower. Pai, hei and whang are white, black and yellow. Suffixes are more numerous and familiar. Kiang, ho tchuan, ula, muren and tchu each and all mean river. Thus Yalu Kiang and Liao Ho are simply Yalu River and Liao River. Shui, kou, thsuan, khi, gol and ussu are unfamiliar terms, meaning a brook or small river. Hu, nor and omo mean lake, as in the well-known Lob Nor and Kosso Gol. Po, tse and tien mean a small lake or swamp, or a town situated near such a place. Hai means sea; thus Whang-Hai is the Yellow Sea, Tung-Hai is the Eastern Sea and Nan-Hai is the Southern Sea. Tao and sometime shan means island, but shan more often means a mountain range. Ling is a pass over a mountain range.

He Won With Western Methods.

Lieut. Somerville of the British navy recently related the following in an address before the Royal Geographical Society: "The New rapid of the Yangtse was formed in 1896. The land slipped in after the heavy rains and filled up the bed of the river. No one up above knew anything about it and as the junks were coming down 500 were wrecked in a whirlpool at the foot of the rapid. The story is that it was the work of a dragon. A friend of mine—Ferdinand Tyler—was sent up there by the Chinese government and he tried to exorcise the dragon. This landslip, so it was said, had been formed by the dragon turning over in his sleep. Mr. Tyler telegraphed to ask permission to begin. They telegraphed him that first of all the ancient methods must be tried to see if the dragon could not be moved and then, if he would not move, western methods might be attempted. Well, the dragon would not move and Mr. Tyler started with dynamite and shifted a bit of the river."

Lipton's Gallantry.

That Sir Thomas Lipton is much of a Chesterfield needs no confirmation, though this story, which is added testimony, shows that he happily turned a well-worn joke and gave comfort in defeat. Among his guests on the Erin one day before the races were sailed was a fetching miss of seventeen who wished him a sweeping success.

"I'm confident I've the better boat," said he. "And yet one should not always be too sure."

"Yes," she assented coyly. "There's many a slip between the cup and the Lip."

"I would be amply compensated for defeat," he replied, with a bow, "if the slip were a slip of a girl like you."—New York Herald.

Largest Searchlight.

The General Electric Company of St. Louis is building the largest searchlight made. It is to take 300 amperes, and the lens is seven feet in diameter. It will be used on top of a tower which is being built adjoining the world's fair grounds. It is not unlikely that experiments with telephony over this searchlight beam will be made during the progress of the fair.

Love and Money.

When Love dies, alack!
The whole world puts on black;
The light of day
Turns to lead gray;
The roses sicken and fade,
The song of the birds is still,
Music is hushed and afraid,
And all that was good is ill;
The heart is a broken thing;
The blood runs pale and cold;
Of this bereft
There is nothing left
But the greed and gain of gold.

—William J. Lampton.

Irishmen Seek Land.

The town of Castlemartyr, County Cork, forms part of the estate of the Earl of Shannon, and is to be sold at auction. The householders and the tenants of land within the township area will bid with a view to becoming absolute owners.

Pioneer Was a Traveler

George Weimer, aged 90, died last Monday on his farm near Roulette, Pa., where he had lived for seventy years. He was the last of the pioneer woodsmen and raftsmen of the Allegheny and Susquehanna headwaters, and was famous as a pedestrian and runner in his early days.

Once, being on a rafting trip down the river, he walked from Jersey shore to Roulette, seventy miles, between breakfast and early bedtime, or in about seventeen hours, over a rough and hilly wilderness road, with a stop of only an hour for rest and refreshments during the entire journey. The reason he made it he always explained by saying:

"I had always called on my girl that night of the week, and I wasn't going to let a little matter of seventy miles fool me out of it that night."

Laroy Lyman of Roulette shot at a deer in the hills back of that place one day, and called to Weimer to fetch one of his dogs. The dog would not follow the deer's track, and Weimer himself took after the deer.

When Weimer started the dog took the track and went ahead and overtook the deer, a buck. The deer fought the dog and scared it so that when Weimer came up it would only keep at its heels, the deer having started on again.

Weimer followed the deer over ridges, down hollows, across streams, and through swamps and tangled thickets, giving it no rest, and at last drove it into the open and toward the Alleghany river.

The deer at last entered a field that lay between the woods and the river. There Weimer caught it. Lyman's shot had not hit it.

The dog came lagging and panting in a few minutes afterward and lay down in a fence corner, tired out. He had run the deer, as near as could be calculated by the turnings and twistings of the course, not less than eleven miles.

Leaving the deer at the farm to be called for, he started back home, the nearest way being over the hills, seven miles. He arrived there an hour ahead of his dog.—New York Sun.

The Half Cent Piece

The half-cent piece was the coin of the smallest denomination ever made by this country. It enjoys the distinction also of being the first coin issued and also the first whose denomination was discontinued. The United States mint was established in 1792, and copper half-cents and cents were issued in 1793. Half the total number of half-cents issued were coined previous to 1810, after which year their coinage, with few exceptions, was limited. None was coined for circulation from 1812 to 1824, nor from 1836 to 1848. Finally, in 1857, their coinage, with that of the big copper cent, was discontinued. On account of their limited issue in the last years of their coinage they practically had disappeared from the channels of trade.

The needs of adopting the half-cent as our lowest value-computing factor for a coin were made in the early days of the republic. Colonial half-cents and British farthings of the same commercial value were then in circulation, and many articles were priced and sold in half-cents. With the progress of the nation values rose and the needs for a half-cent disappeared, and their use following the first decade of the century was almost entirely confined to multiples.

While all other discontinued types and denominations of United States coin have found oblivion, the half-cent is the only one of which treasury reports do not record some portion of the issue redeemed. This singular and unexplained fact has been one of frequent comment and inquiry from mint and treasury officials.

Ferran Zarbe of St. Louis sent two half-cent pieces to Washington for redemption. He now prizes highly the little voucher calling for "one cent," and which was sent to him with that amount of current coin in exchange for the two half-cent pieces he had forwarded.

Strokes Used in Rowing

If the embryo oarsman should take seriously all that is said about the difference between the so-called English long stroke he never would become proficient. As a matter of fact, there is as much short rowing in England as there is in this country. The difference is not national, but solely one between good rowing and bad rowing. In theory there is only one perfect stroke, but the difficulty is in imparting the knowledge and putting it into practice. A long stroke is not necessarily a slow one, although it is not possible to exceed a certain limit without sacrificing length, on account of the time necessarily consumed in the recovery. There is nothing gained by a good beginning if the momentum acquired is to be let go off at once. As long as the stroke is held on to the pace will continue without extra exertion, but immediately the oars are taken out of the water the speed begins to slacken and the rushing forward that invariably accompanies short rowing brings the boat almost to a standstill before the next stroke is ready to be given. The long stroke is the vindication of the sliding seat, and the object of every coach should be to obtain the maximum of length with the minimum of effort.

Coaches frequently overlook the fact that the 140-pound man can drive a five-inch blade thru weighing 168 pound and why the lighter man could short or is late at the finish. Half or three quarters of an inch trimmed off the edge of his blade will quickly mend the trouble. The crew that catches the beginning quickest holds it longest and brings its oars out cleanest is the one that never feels the wash of an opponent's rudder.—Leslie's Weekly.

Can All Be Borne

How much the heart may bear, and yet not break!
How much the flesh may suffer, and not die!
I question much if any pain or ache
Of soul or body brings our end more nigh;
Death chooses his own time; till that is sworn,
All evils may be borne.

We shrink and shudder at the surgeon's knife,
Each nerve recoiling from the cruel steel
Whose edge seems searching for the quivering life,
Yet to our sense the bitter pangs reveal,
That still, although the trembling flesh be torn,
This also can be borne.

We see a sorrow rising in our way,
And try to flee from the approaching ill;
We seek some small escape; we weep and pray;
But when the blow falls, then our hearts are still;
Not that the pain is of its sharpness shorn,
But that it can be borne.

We wind our life about another life;
We hold it closer, dearer than our own;
Anon it faints and falls in deathly strife,
Leaving us stunned, and stricken, and alone;
But ah; we do not die with those we mourn—
This also can be borne.

Behold, we live through all things—famine, thirst,
Bereavement, pain; all grief and misery,
All woe and sorrow; life inflicts its worst
On soul and body—but we cannot die,
Though we be sick, and tired, and faint, and worn—
Lo, all things can be borne!

—Elizabeth Akers Allen.

His Boldness Saved Him

Isabel Hapgood, the translator of many of Count Tolstoy's books, once visited the great novelist, and during her visit he told her a story of an ancestor of his.

This ancestor, an army officer, was an excellent mimic. One day he was mimicking the Emperor Paul to a group of his friends when Paul himself entered, and for some moments looked on unperceived at the antics of the young man.

Tolstoy finally turned, and, beholding the Emperor, he bowed his head and was silent.

"Go on, sir," said Paul. "Continue your performance."

The young man hesitated a moment, and then, folding his arms and reproducing every gesture and intonation of his sovereign, he said:

"Tolstoy, you deserve to be degraded, but I remember the thoughtlessness of youth, and you are pardoned."

The Czar smiled slightly at this speech.

"Well, be it so," he said.—New York Tribune.

THE UNION.

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf

SPECIAL OFFER.

The Yellow Jacket, published biweekly at Moravian Falls, N. C., is an extremely bright, readable paper. We will send the UNION and YELLOW JACKET for one year for $1 in advance. This is a combination that ought to get every good man in Chilton county on our list, and is only open for a short time. tf

At the meeting of the populist exexutive committee of Chilton county on March 15, 1904, the following resolution was adopted by the committee:

"Be it resolved, That we, the people's party executive committee of Chilton county, do hereby indorse the UNION, a paper published in Clanton, Ala., as our official organ tf

OUR CLUBBING LIST.

The Union and Yellow Jacket, both for one year $1.00
The Union and Weekly Montgomery Advertiser 1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution 1.50
tf

Several hundred subscribers will get this paper with a big red cross on it. It means that you owe us a dollar and we owe it to some other fellows. Some small fellow will make a big kick about this red cross and will stop his paper, and some clever fellows will come in and pay up like a white man always does, and tell us they had just forgotten all about it. tf

DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?

IMPORTANT

THE PEOPLE'S PRI- ON TUES WILL BE HELD 26th, 1904. JULY

NOTICE.

The committee on arrangements for primary election, also the executive committee of the populist party, are hereby called to meet at Clanton on Friday, the 17th day of June, 1904. All candidates before the PEOPLE'S primary are also requested to meet said committee to arrange the expense of said primary.

W. H. SHAW,
tf Chairman Pop. Ex. Com.

M. F. LETT.

Mr. M. F. Lett has announced for the office of tax collector. He is a resident of beat 6 and is well known as a good Christian citizen and neighbor. He is a self-made man with a public school education, but competent to fill the office which he asks for, and has voted with the people's party ever since it was organized, and now votes with the republicans on national issues. Is of good "old line whig" ancestry, as shown by his name of Millard Fillmore.

J. WILEY LITTLEJOHN.

Mr. Littlejohn is a candidate for treasurer. He was born and reared in Chilton county, being a son of Noah Littlejohn, Esq., whom the most of us know and respect. The name of Littlejohn is a guarantee of his fidelity to the principles of the people's organization in this country. Formerly a farmer, for a number of years past he has been in the mercantile business as salesman for P. D. Wilson, of Clanton. He is well qualified both by nature, education and experience to fill this position

A CAMPAIGN LIE.

A story was told around Clanton Tuesday morning to the effect that Hon. L. H. Reynolds had withdrawn from the race for the probate judge ship of this county. We could not believe this possible, as he is not an "in and outer" of that kind, so telephoned to him at Jemison, asking as to the truth of the tale and Mr. Reynolds answered saying "it was absolutely false." So there is another lie nailed to the fence, one made out of whole cloth, but it is very evident that "the wish was father to the thought."

HOW IS THIS?

The following, clipped from the Sunday Advertiser, "lets a cat or two out of the bag." For instance, after the appeals that have been made to the people of this county to come into the democratic ranks and that there would be perfect equality, harmony, etc., and so on, it is quite refreshing to have Mr. Gulledge say "the old line democrats hesitated at first to support Judge Adams because of his PAST AFFILIATION with the POPULISTS." That shows you what they meant by "all coming together" that they would do the ruling and the people would be allowed "to pay the freight." Yes, the hyena and the lamb laid down together, BUT the lamb was INSIDE the hyena. Again Mr. Gulledge says: "His last decision was to step down and out, and let the populists, republicans and independents take it." Bless your soul, we've always had it. Every man of sound sense in the county knew that the nominees of the people's primary in July would be elected "hands down" in November. The democrats might have nominated a man who would not have been beaten so badly as the one they did put up, but there never was any chance for them to win. The vote on April 11th demonstrated that beyond a doubt:

"Relative to the withdrawal of Hon. S. M. Adams, of Chilton county, late nominee for probate judge," said Mr. J. A. Gulledge, of Verbena, who was in town last night, "he is especially antagonized by the democrats of his own town. My information is that a recent municipal election at Clanton was the main cause of the antagonism to him.

"The old line democrats of Chilton county hesitated at first to support Judge Adams because of his past affiliation with the populists, but his stand in favor of democracy since the ratification of the new constitution had caused the most skeptical to believe that he had been and is still honest in politics. With a majority of the democrats of Chilton great regret is expressed at his withdrawal.

"I don't think the antagonism was sufficient to have caused the withdrawal of Judge Adams under ordinary circumstances, but when he saw his home town knifing him, being gritty and disposed to fight back, his last decision was to step down and out and let the populists, republicans and independents take it.

"There has been some reference, which I construe to intimate that Judge Adams will return to the populist party. I have no idea of this, believing that he got all he ever claimed in the adoption of the new constitution."—Montgomery Advertiser.

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.

Another political reputation laid away in the democratic "Golgotha."

IN THE SOUP.

The democrats have concluded to have beat meetings on June 4th to elect delegates to a convention at Clanton June 11th to nominate some one in Adams' place, and try and get on the edge of the soup bowl. Poor things!

JOHN W. G. KICKER.

This gentleman, who is a candidate for the office of tax collector, was born and reared in Chilton county, is a resident of beat 6, a farmer by occupation, of high moral character and good business qualifications, and possesses a good education and would make a first-class officer. He has voted with the people's party since its organization in this county, and is still with them, though state and nationally he votes a republican ticket. Mr. Kicker offered for tax assessor some years since and he carried his home beat by a large majority, which is a good indication of the esteem in which he is held by his neighbors. He has been confined to the home by sickness for some weeks, but is getting well fast now. This sickness accounts for the delay in his announcement.

Thorsby, Ala., May 25, 1904.

Editor Union:

I see again that some curmudgeon who signs himself as Joseph W. Cox has made a painful attempt through the Banner to hit X-Ray, and he reminds one of a snake in dog days. It is said that they are blind in dog days and consequently they are striking out at every noise they hear, so it is with our ex-pop—pop-lol—ie, who acknowledges that he has got no more sense than to desert his former principles (whatever they were) and go to the so-called democrats for safety from the negro, which shows that he is like some others, hopeless imbeciles when they prate about negroes, mixed schools, etc., and if you tell them what Cleveland did in dining negroes at his table, signing bills for mixed schools, etc., also that demmies are putting negroes on jury duty at this day right here in Alabama, why, sir, they will stare at you like a cow would at her last year's calf and then stick their fool heads in the sand.

Now, Mr. Cox went off half cocked and makes a cowardly thrust in the dark, supposing that he knows who X-Ray is and proceeds to do him up in what he no doubt considers grand style, and thereby exposes both his ignorance and pusillanimous venom.

But when the X-Ray is applied to the case I think it will reveal the fact that while Cox's name is signed to that epistle, yet under the crust is shown the animus of some other party who has felt the sting of X-Ray's lance on former occasion. Yes, "the hands are the hands of Esau, but the voice is the voice of Jacob," so now, Mr. Cox, if you are really curious to know who X-Ray is and will agree to meet him before a public audience and discuss the public questions of the day either political, social or religious, we will prove that you understand very little of either subject, and will prove to you that you neither believe in the precepts of the Bible nor practice them.

And, furthermore, if you have any judgment to discern facts and figures, by referring to last week's Union, first page, you will see that your rejoicing over Judge Pratt's letter was quite untimely, and that he simply put his head in the trap while trying to cover up a bad state of affairs in which he figures most prominently with the glamor of bombastic display and impudent bragadocia while the poor toilers and tax payers are saddled with a heavy bonded debt which he denies, yet the facts are sadly against him. X-RAY.

Clanton, Ala., May 22, 1904.

Editor Union:

I come again for a few lines to the public. Gentlemen, I think as we have so many candidates we ought to have a candidates' meeting, called by the chairmen of the republican and populist parties, and in the call invite every republican and populist voter in the county to come to said candidates' meeting. I think the people ought to know how many of those candidates are willing to roll up their sleeves and walk out in the political battle field and work for the ticket when it is nominated. Some people when they get defeated become sore and instead of working for the ticket they speak slightly about the nominees and especially about the one who succeeded over him. I hope that will not be the case of any of our candidates, but I think the people ought to have the opportunity of hearing the candidates express themselves along that line. I hope to hear from all that favors this meeting in next issue You could just write enough to let the people know whether you favored it or not, so the editor could get them all in one paper. I don't think it would do the candidates any harm, for without a mere accident some one of them will get defeated. So you see we could have one jolly day before defeat. I hope to hear from a good many of you candidates and also others next week whether you favor such meeting or not.

Respectfully,
MOSES A. KILLGORE.

TIGER AT THE DEPOT.

John Griffin, a colored man of Clanton, was arraigned before United States Commissioner John A. Elmore yesterday on a charge of operating a "blind tiger" under the cotton platform at the Clanton depot.

The government evidence went to prove that Griffin, in addition to running an unlicensed whiskey house at his residence, had a box-like contrivance under the cotton platform, where he worked, which contained liquor in different quantities and was sold around the depot.

He was held to await the action of the federal grand jury and in default of a $200 bond was committed to the Montgomery county jail.—Montgomery Advertiser.

FOURTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama (Chilton County Branch).

In the four years ending February 3, 1904, that this association has been in existence in this county, it has levied sixteen assessments to pay 24 losses, viz.: Lightning, 1; wind, 3; fire, 20. The TOTAL of the sixteen assessments was $2.24 3-4 per hundred, being an average YEARLY assessment of 56 1-5 cents on each hundred dollars of insurance, which is a fraction over one-half of one per cent per annum.

ALEX G. DAKE,
President Chilton Co. Branch.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 26th day of February, 1904.

S. M. ADAMS,
tf Judge of Probate.

In China a mile is anything from a quarter of a mile to a mile and three quarters, according to the province in which it may happen to be.

The entire German possessions in Africa aggregate an area of 1,024,693 square miles.

SOUGHT THE CZAR'S LIFE

When Arrested Girl Had Bomb in Her Possession.

Miss Merezhevsky Had Seat on Grand Stand During Spring Review—Admitted Intention to Hurl Missile.

Breslau, Prussia.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Breslau Zeitung reports that the authorities detected and thwarted a plot to attack the Emperor with a bomb during the spring parade in St. Petersburg.

The Emperor always reviews the parade on horseback, taking a position before and slightly to one side of the pavilion from which the Empress and Grand Duchesses view the pageant. The municipality erects a grand stand, tickets to which are sold publicly, the names and addresses of the buyers being noted.

As persons in the loges or front rows could easily throw an object to the place where the Emperor stands, the authorities naturally reserve the right of cancelling the sales of tickets, if the buyers are not known to be absolutely trustworthy, and they subject the occupants of the grand stand to the closest scrutiny.

Just before the Emperor arrived on the parade ground, it was noticed that Miss Merezhevsky, daughter of Prof. Merezhevsky, a leading Russian psychiatriast and Privy Councilor, who occupied one of the loges nearest the pavilion, was nervous and excited. Risking a scandal should their suspicions prove to be unfounded, the authorities ordered her arrest, which was effected unobtrusively.

A search disclosed a skillfully constructed bomb concealed in her clothing. The girl did not deny her intention of hurling the missile at the Emperor, but refused to give any other information.

Miss Merezhevsky has been an attendant at the courses in the women's university. It is rumored that she has been hanged, and her aged father is completely prostrated.

DYING HE SHIELDS MURDERER.

Florist, Stabbed With Knife, Says He Was Injured by Falling On Glass.

Philadelphia, Pa.—George F. Kreuger, a florist of Narbeth, is dead at his home, having been murdered, although in his dying breath he declared that he had been injured by falling on glass in the greenhouse.

He told this story, it is believed, either to protect his old mother from the notoriety that would follow were he to have told of the murder, or else he protected some one who stabbed him.

Kreuger went to one of his greenhouses to attend to some flowers. A short while later he returned to the house fatally stabbed and dying An examination of his wounds showed that they had been made by a sharp knife.

A DESTRUCTIVE STORM.

500,000 Banana Trees Destroyed in Central America.

New Orleans.—The steamer Anselm, from Puerto Cortez, brings the news of destructive storms on the Central American coast, particularly the coast of Honduras, entailing the destruction of 500,000 banana trees and a loss of over $250,000. The worst sufferers were American fruit growers who recently purchased lands in Honduras. Probaly 500,000 full grown trees, with fruit hanging on them, were destroyed. British Honduras has also suffered in all branches of agriculture from the storms and unprecedented cold weather and heavy rains.

PHILADELPHIA UNDERWRITERS,
Composed of Insurance Company of North America and the Fire Association of Philadelphia, Pa.

Cash capital ....$ 3,500,000.00
Total assets Jan. 1, 1904. 17,636,517.61
Surplus as to policy holders 6,874,213.35

WALLACE G. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

J. B. Downs buys Crossties for cash, also is licensed to buy up Court Certificates. Call on him when you have anything in that line to sell. tf

SINGING.

The fifth annual session of the Salem Singing society will be held at Salem church on the fourth Sunday in May. Everybody is invited. Come with your baskets and books.

T. L. ROBINSON, Chairman.
L. A. CALLOWAY, Secretary.
tf

METHODIST PROTESTANT CONFERENCE.

The second quarterly conference for Clanton circuit, Methodist Protestant church, will be held at Mount Pisgah church, three and a half miles south east of Clanton, the fourth Sunday in June and Saturday before. Dinner on the grounds.

tf T. F. DAVIS, Pastor.

The Sak's Store
Birmingham, Alabama

READY-MADE Apparel for Men, Women and Child en.
Our Mail Order Department is quick, efficient and serviceable.
Write for Catalogue

Announcements.

FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. ALEX G. DAKE.

I hereby announce mysen as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904

A. C. MIMS.

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

SAM W. COLLINS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

L. A. CALLOWAY.

FOR TREASURER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. WILEY LITTLEJOHN.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ROBERT M. SMITH.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ANDREW J. WILSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904 W. C. ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

H. A. J. HARRIS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904.

ENOCH H. ADAMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. BICE.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary, July 26, 1904. DANIEL C. GANDY.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th, 1904 GEORGE W. EDWARDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary July 26, 1904. L. B. POUNDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904 T. G. MILLING.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26, 1904.

S. E. WALDRUP.
(Better known as "Squire" Waldrup.)

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26th, 1904. JOSEPH H. THOMAS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. M. F. LETT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. JOHN W. G. KICKER.

I hereby annouce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. BENJAMIN H. WELLS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904 W. F. DESHAZO.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN J. LETT

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. MOSES A. KILLGORE.

We, the undersigned friends of J. HUBBARD, do hereby announce him as a candidate for re-election to the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. J. Williams, H. W. Varden, J. Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hugh Thomas, J. L. Smith

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. J. W. M...

TAX COLLECTOR'S SALE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton county.

By virtue of decrees rendered in the probate court at the May term of said court, I will proceed to sell at the highest bidder for cash, before the court house door, in Clanton, Chilton county, within the legal hours of sale on the following described real estate for the taxes and costs due the state for the year 1903, to-wit:

FRIDAY, JUNE 10TH, 1904,

BEAT NO. 1.

Owner unknown: E 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 16, tp 23, r 15. Tax and costs $3.73.

H. M. Wilson: E 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, tp 24, r 15. Tax and costs and costs.

BEAT NO. 2

John Shaw or Owner Unknown: 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 24, r 15, and costs, $3.69.

BEAT NO. 4.

J. W. Jones: 1 1-2 acres in ner of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 36; 16; 17 1-2 acres in nw corner 1-4 of nw 1-4, sec 36, t 22, r 15; of se 1-4 and se 1-4 of sw 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 24, t 22, r 15; ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec r 16; se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and e 1-4 and sw 1-4 of se 1-4, sec r 16; sw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 16; s 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 32, t nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of sw 1-4, sec r 16; n 1-2 of nw 1-4, sec 16; nw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 and sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec r 15; se 1-4 of se 1-4, less sec 22, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of sw 1-4 and se 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 15; n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 27, t Tax and costs, $62.22.

Magnetic Ore Co.: Ne 1-4 of sec 35, t 23, r 15. Tax and costs.

BEAT NO. 5.

J. R. McAtee: Nw 1-4 of sec 12, t 20, r 16. Tax and costs.

BEAT NO. 8.

N. C. Weaver: Se 1-4 of ne 1-4 of se 1-4, and n 1-2 of and n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 24, t Tax and costs, $7.14.

BEAT NO. 9.

J. W. Martin: Ne 1-4 of sw 5, t 23, r 14. Tax and costs.

This 9th day of May, 1904.

T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Col...

SUMMER NORMAL SCHOOL.

A summer normal school will May 16th for the benefit of expect to take the state exam in July, and any others who take any special work. From that every teacher will be to stand an examination on ture next January, special will be given to that subject. who desire can get instruction expression and physical culture Good board can be had with families at reasonable rates. ther information address

H. T. WALLACE,
Principal High School, Clanton.
tf

The steel plant of the Alabama and Wire company at Gadsden making steel in a few more The plumbers and steam fitters busy making all connections start. Several of the open furnaces have been dried out

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as didate for commissioner from fourth district of Chilton county ject to the action of the PEOPLE primary July 26, 1904.

MOSES ROBINSON

I hereby announce myself as didate for COMMISSIONER from THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton subject to the action of the PEOPLE primary, July 26, 1904.

R. P. KENDRICK

JUDSON STROCK'S LETTER.

Johnson grass, sorghum, peas, chufas and a general seeds.

Baseballs, marbles, corquet also violins, guitars and Our balls are guaranteed.

Shoes! Well, our shoes the themselves. We handle only brand, "Red Seal," and our very reasonable.

P. S.—We will be glad to prices with any one.

Yours very truly,
JUDSON STROCK
tf Clanton.

ements.

F PROBATE

e myself as a can-
e of judge of pro
nty, subject to the
LE'S primary July
ALEX G. DAKE.

e myself as a can-
e of judge of pro
nty, subject to the
LE'S primary July

H REYNOLDS.

e myself as a can-
e of judge of pro-
nty, subject to the
LE'S primary, July

A. C. MIMS.

CUIT COURT.

e myself as a cane of clerk of the
lton county, sub-
the people's pri-
04.

W. COLLINS.

myself as a can-
of clerk of the
lton county, sub-
the people's pri-

A CALLOWAY.

ASURER.

myself as a can-
of treasurer of
ect to the action
primary, July 26,
LETTLEJOHN

myself as a can-
of treasurer for
ject to the action
mary, July 26th,
RT M. SMITH.

myself as a can-
of treasurer for
ject to the action
mary, July 26th,
W J. WILSON.

myself as a can-
of treasurer for
ject to the action
primary July 26,
C. ROBINSON.

myself as a can-
of treasurer of
ject to the PEO
26, 1904.
A. J. HARRIS.

myself as a can-
of treasurer for
ect to the action
ary July 26, 1904.
H H. ADAMS.

myself as a can-
of treasurer of
ect to the action
primary, July 26,
H. THOMAS

myself as a can-
of tax collector
ubject to the ac-
primary July 26,
F. DESHAZO.

myself as a can-
of tax collector
ubject to the ac-
primary July 26,
M F. LETT

myself as a can-
of tax collector
subject to the ac-
'S primary July

G. KICKER

myself as a can-
of tax collector
subject to the
E'S primary July

N H. WELLS.

myself as a can-
of tax collector
ubject to the ac-
primary July 26,
W. EDWARDS.

myself as a can-
of tax assessor
subject to the ac-
primary July 26,
B. POUNDS.

myself as a can-
of tax assessor
subject to the ac-
primary July 26,
G. MILLING.

LLECTOR.

myself as a can-
of tax collector
ubject to the ac-
primary on July

WALDRUP.
quire" Waldrup.)

myself a candi-
f tax collector of
ect to the action
ary on July 26th,
H. THOMAS

SSESSOR.

myself as a can-
of tax assessor
subject to the ac-
primary, July 26,
IEL C. GANDY.

myself as a can-
of tax assessor of
ect to the action
rimary, July 26th,
W. EDWARDS.

myself as a can-
of tax assessor
subject to the ac-
primary July 26,
B. POUNDS.

myself as a can-
of tax assessor
subject to the ac-
primary July 26,
G. MILLING.

LLECTOR.

myself as a can-
of tax collector
ubject to the ac-
primary on July

A. J. BICE.

tion of the PEOPLE'S pri
26, 1904.
JOHN J. LE

I hereby announce myself a didate for the office of tax for Chilton county, subject
tion of the PEOPLE'S prim
26, 1904. MOSES A. KILL

We, the undersigned friend
J. HUBBARD, do hereby a nim as a candidate for re-e the office of tax collector for county, subject to the action
PEOPLE'S primary July 26,
J. Williams, H W. Varden,
Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hugh
L. Thomas, J. L. Smith.

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDU
TION.

I hereby announce myself as didate for re-election to the superintendent of education f ton county, subject to the ac
the PEOPLE'S primary July 1904. J. W. MO

TAX COLLECTOR'S SAL
The State of Alabama, Chilton
By virtue of decrees rende
the probate court at the May said court, I will proceed to the highest bidder for cash, be court house door, in Clanton, county, within the legal hours on

FRIDAY, JUNE 10TH, 190
the following described real for the taxes and costs due t for the year 1903, to-wit:

BEAT NO. 1.

Owner unknown: E 1-2 of ne se 1-4, sec 16, tp 23, r 15.
costs $3.73.

H. M. Wilson: E 1-2 of se 1
30, tp 24, r 15. Tax and costs,

BEAT NO. 2

John Shaw or Owner Unknow
1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 24, r 1
and costs, $3.69.

BEAT NO. 4.

J. W. Jones: 1 1-2 acres in ner of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 30, 16; 17 1-2 acres in nw corner
1-4 of nw 1-4, sec 36, t 22, r 15; of se 1-4 and se 1-4 of sw 1-4 an of se 1-4, sec 24, t 22, r 15; e ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec
r 16; se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and e 1
1-4 and sw 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 1
r 16; sw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 17, 16; s 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 32, t 2
nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of sw 1-4, sec
r 16; n 1-2 of nw 1-4, sec 33, 16; nw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-1-4 and sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 1
r 15; se 1-4 of se 1-4, less 10
sec 22, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of sw 1-1-4 and se 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 2, 15; n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 27, t 2
Tax and costs, $62.22.

Magnetic Ore Co.: Ne 1-4 of sec 35, t 23, r 15. Tax and co

BEAT NO. 5.

J. R. McAtee: Nw 1-4 of n
sec 12, t 20, r 16. Tax and costs

BEAT NO. 8.

N. C. Weaver: Se 1-4 of ne 1
ne 1-4 of se 1-4, and n 1-2 of and n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 24, t 2
Tax and costs, $7.14.

BEAT NO. 9.

J. W. Martin: Ne 1-4 of sw 1
5, t 23, r 14. Tax and costs,
This 9th day of May, 1904.
T. J. HUBBAR
Tax Colle

SUMMER NORMAL SCHO

A summer normal school wi
May 16th for the benefit of a expect to take the state exam in July, and any others who take any special work. From that every teacher will be r to stand an examination on ture next January, special a will be given to that subject.
who desire can get instructio expression and physical cultur Good board can be had with families at reasonable rates.
ther information address
H. T. WALLA
Principal High School, Clanton.
tf

The steel plant of the Alaba and Wire company at Gadsden making steel in a few more
The plumbers and steam fitt busy making all connections start. Several of the open furnaces have been dried out.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself a didate for commissioner fro fourth district of Chilton coun ject to the action of the PE
primary July 26, 1904.
MOSES ROBIN

I hereby announce myself a didate for COMMISSIONER fr
THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton subject to the action of the PE
primary, July 26, 1904.
R. P. KENDR

JUDSON STROCK'S LETT

Johnson grass, sorghum, peas, chufas and a general
seeds.

Baseballs, marbles, corquet also violins, guitars and ma
Our balls are guaranteed.

Shoes! Well, our shoes ta themselves. We handle only brand, "Red Seal," and our pri very reasonable.

P. S.—We will be glad to m prices with any one.
Yours very truly,
JUDSON STROC
tf Clanton,

TY OFFICIALS

Judge Str
W. M. W. B. G. Rob-
L. Mullins, J. Potts.
Watts M.
Smitha.

RTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.
Monday in April.
rd Monday in July.
Monday in Novem-

Sayre.
Lloyd Tate, Wetumpka.
Deason, Clanton.

ANCERY COURT.
2nd Monday in March.
2nd Monday in Septem

Hon. R. B. Kelley, An-
Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan-

COUNTY COURT.
day in each month.

MISSIONERS' COURT.
day February, 1st Monday
Monday June, 2nd Monday
Monday August, 1st Monday

UNTY OFFICERS.
Probate—S. M. Adams.
—Alex G. Dake.
J. M. Morgan.
—J. O. Middleton.
ssor—A. C. Mims.
ector—T. J. Hubbard.

TY COMMISSIONERS.
trict—W. H. Conway.
District—Alex Glasscock.
District—W. A. Green.
District—R. C. Riggins.

T. OF EDUCATION.
W. Moore, Clanton.

TATE SENATOR.
R. Oliver, Calera.

EPRESENTATIVE.
H. Reynolds, Jemison.

TY CHURCHES

nd clerks are cordially ask-the editor any news regard-
churches which they would shed. Also if there are any ese notices please send cor-

IONARY BAPTISTS.
Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor.
, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
m—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas-
Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor;
ilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday.
t, clerk, Verbena.
—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st
Sundays. W. I. Mullins,

ek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th
W. J. Gragg, clerk.
Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard,
Samons, clerk, Jemison.
—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd
T. N. Parrish, clerk.
Chapel—Rev. W. J. Arm-
Sunday. J. W. Littleton,

Creek—Rev. S. L. Hand,
W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd
W. B. Jones, clerk.
oads—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st
M. F. Wagoner, clerk.
—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pas-
Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
—Rev. P. G. Manesa, pas-Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
dgers, clerk, Jemison.
Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd
W. M. Wood, clerk.
n—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd
H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
ll—Rev. S. Smitherman, pas-Barnes, clerk, British.
—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
ney, clerk, Randolph.
Carmel—Rev. W. J. Rud-
r; W. M. Roebuck, clerk,

ton—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand,
H. Wilson, clerk.
n—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd
George Trawick, clerk.
ron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas-Billingsley, clerk.
em—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
; G. W. Hill, clerk.
pe—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd
Henry Smith, clerk.
Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason,
M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
Grove—Rev. J. H. Tliom-
nday; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard,
R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
Grove—Rev. G. W. Free-
r; H. C. Latham, clerk,

Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone,
v. J. J. McDowell, clerk.
ce—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt.
. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemi-

ce—Rev. W. J. Armstrong.
ley Robinson, clerk, Clan-

Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor;
nson, clerk, Rushton.
Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd
W. J. Billingsley, clerk.
Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sunday. A. Deason, clerk, Adams.
Thorsby—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Robert Jones, clerk, Thorsby.
Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor; R. S. Chandler, clerk, Jemison.
Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2d Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.
Verbena—Rev. J. W. Partridge, 1st Sunday. T. J. Bland, clerk.
Valley Creek—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; J. W. Mitchell, clerk, Plantersville.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS.

Bethel—Elder J. W. Howell, pastor; Saturday before the second Sunday; J. T. Abernathy, clerk, Verbena.

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Clanton Circuit—Rev. D. B. H. Jeffcoat, Pastor.
Clanton—2nd and 4th Sundays.
Fairview—3rd Sunday.
Isabelle—3rd Sunday, 3 p. m.
Jemison—1st Sunday.
Lime Springs—Saturday before 2nd Sunday.
Mount Moriah—Saturday before 1st Sunday.
New Prospect—Saturday before 3rd Sunday.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

Clanton Circuit, Rev. T. F. Davis, Pastor.
Thorsby—1st Sunday.
Walnut Grove—2nd Sunday, morning.
Unity—2nd Sunday, evening.
Shady Grove—3rd Sunday.
Mount Pisgah—4th Sunday, morning.
Enterprise—4th Sunday, evening.

CONGREGATIONAL.

South Calera—Rev. J. R. Crowson second Sunday. W. L. Shaw, clerk, Calera.
Lomax—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 4th Sunday. F. E. Riggs, clerk, Lomax.
Mountain Springs—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 3rd Sunday. W. J. Headley, clerk, Clanton.
Shady Grove—Rev. A. C. Wells, 1st Sunday. Mrs. A. Baker, clerk, Verbena.
Union—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 1st Sunday. Miss A. Lake, clerk, Lightwood.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Highland School House—Rev. M. F. Lett, 3rd Sunday and Saturday before. T. L. Adams, clerk.
Enterprise—Rev. M. F. Lett, 4th Sunday. T. F. Patterson, clerk.

NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN.

St. Olafs, Thorsby—Rev. H. Engh, pastor. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

Concordia, Thorsby—Rev. J. E. Hedberg. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. Mr. Carroll, pastor, 2d Sunday. Song service every 2d and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

MASONIC.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday. Clanton.
Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 250—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.
Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 423—First Saturday, Clanton.
Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 567—First Saturday Billingsley.
Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.
Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 411—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.
Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 473—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.
Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

of the

BRITISH AMERICA ASSURANCE CO.

Of Toronto, Canada.

1st January, 1904.

UNITED STATES BRANCH.

Assets.

Government bonds	$223,650.00
State and municipal bonds	511,473.19
Cash on hand and deposit	169,720.71
Stocks and bonds	305,793.00
Premiums in course of col.	204,834.79
Interest due and accrued.	11,833.20
	$1,427,304.89

Liabilities.

Reserve premium fund (N. Y. Standard)	$849,771.77
Reserve for unpaid losses	100,786.24
	$950,557.91
Surplus in United States	$476,746.98
Total income in United States for 1903	$1,547,736.84
Total losses paid in U. S. from 1874 to 1903, inclusive	$14,674,843.26

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

Locals and Personals

H. T. Littlejohn was a pleasant visitor Thursday.

Hon. L. H. Reynolds was in Clanton Friday.

Chattanooga Cane Mills and Plows on sale at W. I. Mullins'.

There were a number of candidates in town last Saturday, among whom were W. F. Deshazo of Lily, M. F. Lett, R. M. Smith, A. C. Mims and A. G. Dake.

M. C. and L. H. Williams were visitors in Clanton Saturday.

Don't forget to see Upchurch when in need of spectacles.

R. J. Williams was in town Saturday.

J. H. Lundy was in Clanton Saturday.

Celebrated James and Mayer's buggies for sale at W. L. Mullins'.

C. W. Hubbard and wife visited Clanton Saturday.

Wiley Foshee is a visitor at his daughter's, Mrs. Wiley Littlejohn.

J. W. Hubbard and wife were in Clanton Saturday.

Drink "Peptonilla" at Upchurch's soda fount.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Littlejohn, Jr., visited Clanton Saturday.

J. M. Bean, of Collins chapel, was in town Saturday.

There were a number of Clanton people that attended the Sunday singing at Salem last Sunday.

J. Wiley Littlejohn, N. A. Kicker and W. T. Callen went to Montgomery Monday, where they join the "Seaboard" excursion to Florida. The party expects to be absent about a week.

J. P. Robinson, of Lomax, was a welcome visitor Monday.

G. W. Wilson was in town Monday.

J. Hance Allred left Monday for his home in East Lake, where he is in business for himself. He has been on a visit to his parents at Rushton for a few days recruiting his health.

The Baptist Ladies' Aid Society will serve ice cream at the residence of Mrs. J. M. Moore, Eighth street and Fifth avenue, Friday, the 27th inst., afternoon and evening, beginning at 4 o'clock.

Miss Maude Prescott will return from Sheffield, where she has been teaching school, to her home in Verbena this week.

Judson Strock attended church at Mount Pisgah Sunday and heard Rev. T. F. Davis preach an excellent sermon.

T. J. Downing was a welcome visitor Tuesday.

A. J. Wilson was in town Tuesday.

J. A. Mitchell, of Verbena, was a pleasant visitor Tuesday.

Mrs. G. Higgins visited the capital city Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Crumpton paid a visit to his father at Jemison Sunday.

Perry Edwards, of Washington county, is visiting friends near Clanton for a short time.

J. N. Dennis was in Clanton Wednesday.

J. Bice was in Clanton Saturday.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Colored.

Robert B. Wilson and Martha B. Hardy. Arthur Foshee and Ella Lenoir.

Jemison, May 9, 1904.

Editor Union:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say just a few words. I want to thank my friends for the many compliments they have given me through the columns of your paper, and also thank them for the confidence they had in me in soliciting me to enter the race for tax assessor. I feel highly honored and flattered, and will say that that confidence shall never be betrayed. On one occasion once in life I went to an influential friend for a recommendation, and in that recommendation he stated "that I was true to trust" and so by the help of the Almighty, I mean to live up to that one clause. After considering the matter very closely I've decided not to enter the race. I think that there are enough now in the race for the different offices, and they are all good men and any of them that should be elected would fill the office with credit to themselves and our county. I am personally acquainted with all who have announced and would be willing to trust them with the affairs of our county. Of course I have my choice among them, but if I fail to get that choice I will shoulder to the wheel and help elect them in November. Did I say elect? Yes, of course, we have the winning ticket. I've never thought that I was much of a party man, but after summing it up I have aligned myself with the people's party and republicans since I cast my first ballot. Now some fellow will say, now, Anderson, did I not see a letter in the banner some time ago where you were denouncing republicanism? Yes, but I did not write that letter. A close friend of mine suggested that I let him write a short piece stating that I was not a delegate at large to that convention held at Thorsby, which I represented to, but I never authorized him to state that I was not in sympathy with them. He thought it best he said to write a piece, as it would have some tendency to cast some reflections on me in my school work yet I've let it go that way until now the time has presented itself for me to express myself and let the people know where I stand. I feel free of conscience and right in so doing. I had rather feel so than to hold any office in Chilton county. When you have another convention, boys, let me know. Yours for good times and no panics,

JOHN H. ANDERSON.

RANDOLPH.

May 21, 1904.

Editor Union:

I thought I would speak a few words to the voters. As all the candidates are farmers and have got their work to tend to, we or I haven't got time to canvass among the people, and I hope that they will not think hard of us. I would be glad to visit each man and have a good time talking over the issues of our campaign. We have so many candidates that I think two primaries would have been best, but I don't know. I still hold "special favors to none," but it seems like some men think they deserve special terms, but our platform says different. When men don't practice what they preach others will quit listening to them, so I believe in standing by our principles. Now let me ask the people to turn out and vote for the man of their choice, and I will stand by the result. Again let me say to the people to excuse me for not going around to see you. I'll promise you, if elected, to spend and be spent to discharge my duties as tax collector, but if you do not see fit to give me the job of collecting the taxes I'll be content with your choice, but let me say that I reckon that I am as needy a man as is in the race and have done all in my power to the upbuilding of the people's party. I've stuck to our principles through thick and thin.

Yours very truly,
S. E. WALDRUP.

S. S. CONVENTION OF BEAT 9.

To Be Held at Thorsby Normal School House, Sunday, May 29, 1904.

PROGRAMME.

9:30 a. m., devotional service—The president.

10 a. m., "What is the Way to Make the Sunday School Grow?"—Mrs. John Winslow, Mrs. George Kile.

10:25 a. m., "Use of the Bible in the Sunday School"—L. B. Pounds, A. Horn.

10:50 a. m., "Use of Sunday School Literature in the Sunday School"—F. Eiland, T. G. Williams.

11:15 a. m., "How May We Reach and Interest those Who are Not Now Interested in the Sunday School?"—R. A. Rasco, W. A. Mims.

12 m.—Adjournment for dinner.

1:30 p. m., song service in Christian Harmony.

2 p. m., "What Are the Necessary Qualifications of a Sunday School Teacher?"—Miss M. L. Hall, Miss Anna Olson.

2:25 p. m., "Power of Kind Words and Deeds"—J. Williams, Mrs. Simonton.

2:50 p. m., "Duties of Superintendent to His School"—J. J. Stanley, S. T. Norton.

3:15 p. m., "How to Get Parents to Attend the Sunday School"—J. W. Hayes, Willie Mims.

You are cordially invited to come and bring your baskets, prepared to stay all day.

J. BICE, President.

—tf

A COLORED EVENT.

There was quite a stir in the colored circles of Clanton and vicinity Thursday evening, May 19th. The event was the marriage of Mattie B. Hardie to R. B. Wilson, and it took place at Salem Baptist church (colored) at 8:30 p. m. Judge Adams performed the ceremony in the presence of a crowded house of invited guests. After the wedding a reception was tendered the happy pair by the Colored Home Mutual Benefit Society at the lodge room across the street, where refreshments of different kinds were served, everything passing off pleasantly. There were a number of presents given the pair, among which was a sum of money from the society. By the way, this society is doing a good work among our negro population. Its aims are "to bury our dead and care for our sick," and although only a small monthly sum is paid by each member, it has paid all claims and has "money in the bank." When a member is sick or dies they don't go round with a subscription list, but go to their fund and do it themselves which is the only true independence. K. Draper is high chief and Crofford Reed is assistant chief, while a board of directors composed of Henry Larkins, Sam McCall, Joe Williams, Alex Dickinson and Jim Sherman manage the money affairs wisely and conservatively.

OUR NEW PREACHER.

Rev. R. R. Ellison, successor to Rev. D B. H. Jeffcoat as pastor in charge of the Clanton circuit of the M. E. church, south, held his first services in Clanton Methodist church Sunday last. The new divine belongs in Hurtsboro, Ala., but comes to Clanton direct from Vanderbilt university at Nashville. He is a young man about 25 years of age seemingly and a bachelor. The congregation seemed to be well pleased with his discourse and we hope and trust he will do good work in this community. There are to be some changes in the circuit which we will announce later when fully decided on. Welcome to Clanton, brother.

..My Specialty..

SHOES made of Leather.

SHOES that are Reliable.

SHOES made to Wear.

NOT a Cheap Shoddy Shoe.

Dry Goods, Groceries, Flour and Feed Stuffs, Tobacco and Snuff.

Every Department Full and Complete.

J. W. SMITH.

Former Post-office Building. Clanton, Alabama

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alabama.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

2011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE

WALLACE C. EDLER, General Agent, Clanton Alabama.

CHILTON COUNTY BRANCH

PRESIDENT
ALEX G. DAKE, Clanton

SEC.-TREAS.
JUDSON STROCK, Clanton

Insure, Farmers Dwellings, outbuildings and contents, and Live stock against Loss by Fire, Wind and Lightning:—the cheapest, safest and most sensible method of Insurance known to man.

AGENTS MUST HAVE A COMMISSION SIGNED BY GENERAL AGENT
Full particulars furnished on application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

Gelder's Restaurant,

Good Meals at Reasonable Prices.

110 North 20th Street,

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2d Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes, FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. Alabama

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,

Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.

County and Office Supplies a Specialty.

Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street

Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail Orders promptly filled

THE RUNAWAY.

Ever since the world was young,
Striving fast and faster,
Runaway and ready Tongue
Tries to be the master.
If you'll only hark a bit,
Not a moment has he quit.

But he has the honest wit,
When he meets disaster,
To perceive that Think-a-bit
Is the greater master;
And next time, if he is wise,
He lets Think-a-bit advise.
—Youth's Companion.

MR. BOSTON IN A CAB.

Mr. Boston was so named for two reasons—because he lived in Boston, and because he was a Boston bull-terrier. He was addresed as Mr. Boston because he was such a dignified, well-behaved puppy.

Every morning he went out with his mistress to take the air and do the marketing. They stopped at the grocer's—that's where the dog-biscuit comes from—and the butcher's—don't the bones there make one's mouth water!—and the bakeshop, where there are such delicious smells.

Sometimes they drove in a cab to the big shops farther down-town. Here Mr. Boston stopped in the cab while his mistress did her errands, for he was not acquainted in these shops and might not have been welcome.

One morning he got very tired waiting. He had watched the people passing on the sidewalk for a long time, smiled at all the children, and growled suspiciously at a man who coaxed him to follow. He was so bored that he yielded to temptation when it strolled by in the shape of a white cat.

The cabman, reading a paper on his high perch up behind, did not see Mr. Boston leap out, nor did he notice a streak of white followed by a streak of brown flash round the corner.

The white cat lived in a fur-store near by—she was returning from a call upon her friend, the restaurant cook—so she knew the alleys and cat-holes of the neighborhood well, and soon left an excited little dog barking indignantly at a hole altogether too small for him to enter.

When Mr. Boston calmed down and started to retrace his steps, he could not remember just how he had come. The people hurrying this way and that confused and bewildered him. It was a great relief when he at last discovered a hansom cab drawn up to the curbing. He had jumped out of a cab, so now he jumped in. But it was not the same cab.

"Get out of there!" called the driver, very rudely.

"Wow-wow!" replied Mr. Boston, affably, which means "How-do!" and he politely offered to shake hands.

Then the cabman looked at his passenger more carefully, and saw that he was a valuable dog. He examined his collar-plate and found the mistress' name and address.

"I shouldn't wonder if I would get a pretty good fare for driving you home," he said, more respectfully than he had spoken before.

Mr. Boston again offered his paw, as if to say, "Here's my hand on it."

The man climbed up on his seat and drove off. Several times he peered down through the little trap-door in the roof, and chuckled to see Mr. Boston sitting straight and dignified, and looking as composed and self-satisfied as if he were in the daily habit of ordering cabmen about.

The mistress, very sad at the thought of her little dog lost in a great city, drove up to the house just as Mr. Boston arrived, and she paid his fare—and more besides—as the cabman had thought she would do.—Mary A. Hopkins in the Youth's Companion.

ON THE MANTEL-SHELF.

The Japanese doll got up very early one morning and harnessed his wooden cow to the cart that he might go to town.

He traveled and traveled along the mantel-shelf a great way. The wooden cow did not go very fast, so the Japanese doll saw all the sights along the way.

Suddenly he heard some one calling, "Jappy, Jappy, Jappy, stop!"

And the Japanese doll said, "So Bossy! So Bossy!" to the cow, and the cow stopped.

Then the doll saw who it was that had called to him; it was a paper nun. She was standing now in front of the wooden cow, with a great earthen jar in her arms as big as a tub.

"Your cow looked so hot and thirsty," said the paper nun, "That I thought I would bring her something to drink."

"You are very kind," said the doll, as the nun set the jar down in the roadway.

The cow sniffed it and then drank it all up, for it was full of milk instead of water.

A little Maltese kitten had followed the nun, and while the cow was busy drinking the milk the kitten crept from behind the nun's skirts to lap up some spatters of milk around the bottom of the jar.

Just then a loud and very peculiar noise from away down the road—I mean the mantel-shelf—made the kitten scamper off for safety.

The nun and the Japanese doll looked down the road in the direction from which the sound came. Even the wooden cow turned her head and the kitten peeped around from the shelter of the nun's black skirt.

What they saw was a yellow china chicken coming with a hand-organ. When it came up to them the chicken stopped, and it played such a merry tune that the kitten came out in the road where it could hear better.

The nun clapped her hands, for she was good natured and liked a bit of music now and then; while the Japanese doll leaned over the rail of his cart and said to the chicken, "That is a very pretty tune, sir."

The doll had just finished speaking when the sun rose. Its bright rays shone in at the window and clear across the room. That made the mantel-shelf folk all stop just where they were; they never move about by daylight. And when little girl Margaret came down stairs there she saw the Japanese doll and the wooden cow and the paper nun and the kitten and the chicken with the hand-organ.—Clifton Johnson in St. Nicholas.

REAL BRAVERY.

When Morton was a little boy, writes Emma C. Dowd, his father and mother paid little attention to his bumps and bruises, and so he learned not to mind them himself.

One day, when he was five years old, he was playing with his dearest friend, Wilfred, across the street. Morton was at the head of the back stairs—a long, steep flight; and somehow he lost his balance, and down he tumbled, from top to bottom.

Hearing the noise and the screams of the other children, Wilfred's mother and a neighbor who was there, together with Ann, the kitchen girl, rushed to the spot. Morton reached the foot of the stairs, and turning to look at the way by which he had come, he said, cheerily:

"That was quite a fall, wasn't it?"

On an earlier occasion Morton displayed even greater bravery and endurance. He was on a visit to an uncle with his father and mother, and they had been for a drive in his uncle's carriage. The small boy wanted a longer ride, and the coachman, who taken a fancy to the lad, said that he might go round to the stable, and that he would bring him home when he came. So Morton jumped in again, happy enough. The coachman gave the door a bang. Alas, one of the little hands chanced to be right in the way of that door! Nobody saw it, but they heard a sudden cry of pain. When they turned, the little fellow's lip was quivering, but not even a whimper did he make.

"That was my thumb!" he remarked, holding it up to view.

Of course everybody was sorry, for they all knew how such an injury hurts; but although it was enough to cause the loss of the nail, there was never any further ado about it.—Youth's Companion.

COMPANIONSHIP IN READING.

One of the advantages in reading the best books is in their fitting themselves to any age. If you keep to the so-called "juvenile books" you will lose the pleasure of having the sympathy and companionship of your parents in the reading. The best books are for older and younger readers alike, and parents and children may enjoy them together, thus doubling the pleasure of reading. That young readers love to discuss the books they read is evident from the letters sent to this department. It is enjoyable to find whether your views of a book, its incidents and characters, are shared by others. Agreement is gratifying, and disagreement is interesting, even if discussion should fail to convince either that the other has taken the truer view.—From "Books and

NEW HAITIAN STAMPS.

The Republic of Haiti has added a new set to its recent commemorative issue. The values are one, two, five, ten, twenty and fifty cents. It seems to be necessary to use upon this regular issue the same "control stamp," to prevent fraud, which was employed upon the commemorative series. This mars their appearance, and it will be good for collectors if this surcharging is discontinued.—From the Stamp Page of St. Nicholas.

The Schoolboy's Dream.

'Twas the half-year's last day, a festal one;
Light tasks and feast and sport, hoop, cricket, kite,
Employed us fully, 'till the summer night
Stole o'er the roofs of happy Alderton.
Homer indoors, and field games out of school,
Made medley of my dreams; for, when I slept,
The quaintest vision o'er my fancy swept,
That ever served the lordship of misrule;
Our hoops through gods and heroes ran amuck;
Our kites o'erhung the fleet, a public gaze;
And one wild ball the great Achilles struck—
Oh! how he towered and lightened at the stroke!
But, tho' his formal pardon I bespoke,
I told him plainly 'twas our holidays.
—Charles T. Turner, in Pittsburg Dispatch.

Blind Mary's Singing School.

One player must be blindfolded to take the part of teacher. The rest of the party compose the class, and sit in a line facing her.

She then informs her class that they will begin the leson by singing the scales. The head girl or the one at the end of the line, immediately sings "ah!" and the next, "am!" a little higher or lower just as she chooses, and so it goes all the way down the line, each singing a note in any way that she may wish. The teacher must listen attentively, and any time she thinks she recognizes a voice, she stops the class, and calls the singer by name. If she guesses correctly, she changes places with the pupil who in turn becomes teacher, but if not, she must keep on guessing.

Every time a new teacher is selected, the whole class must change seats, so that the voices may not be recognized by the direction from which they come.

A little variety may be introduced into the game by singing a well known song instead of scales, each pupil singing the word which comes to her to supply. It is the privilege of each teacher to direct her class to sing whatever she may choose, either song or exercise.—Indianapolis News.

Fire Pictures.

This is a very pretty trick, especially if it is performed in a darkened room. You show your friends a blank sheet of paper (the room must be light enough to let them see that it is blank). Then you strike a match, blow it out, and touch the paper with the glowing top of the match. A spark travels over the paper, following a very crooked course, and finally goes out. Then you open the shutters or turn up the lights, and, behold, you see on the sheet of paper a burnt picture or design, which has been traced by the spark.

The secret of the trick is that the paper, though it appears blank, has really had the picture drawn on it beforehand. It is not drawn with a pencil or pen and ink, but with a fine brush, ap en or a pointed stick dipped in a strong solution of saltpeter. The paper should not be glazed. Thin white wrapping paper is a good kind.

The solution is colorless, and leaves no stain, though the picture is really there, drawn in saltpeter. Now, saltpeter, which is also called nitre and potassium nitrate, is, as you may know, one of the ingredients of gunpowder, and it is used in making powder for the same reason for which we use it in this trick—because it contains a great deal of oxygen and is easily decomposed. When gunpowder explodes the oxygen from the saltpeter combines with, or burns, the sulphur and charcoal, so that no air is needed from outside. Just so the saltpeter makes the paper easier to light and burn along the lines of the drawing. By the way, these lines should be all connected together. If a part of the picture is entirely separate from the rest, it will be "left out in the cold." Of course, you must apply the match to one of the lines, which you can do easily enough by moving it across the paper near where you know there are some lines, until the spark catches.

And then don't throw the match down carelessly, for it might set something on fire, even without saltpeter. You cannot be too careful in handling fire. The saltpeter solution should be very strong—as strong as you can make it.—New York Mail and Express.

Curious Sea Occupations.

New York's great maritime business has given rise to many queer sea occupations.

One of these is the business of acting as life savers for the big excursion boats and barges. Owing to the crowds on these craft, there always is danger that someone will fall overboard and drown before the big vessels can be stopped. Hence it has become the practice to tow a rowboat astern. In this sits a strong swimmer, who is clad lightly so that he can act instantly. If any one falls overboard, he casts off the slip knot that holds his craft to the big boat, and in a moment is off to the rescue.

Most of these life savers own their own boats. They are generally beautiful craft, capable of riding any sea and extremely swift.

The same type of rowboat is used by the Whitehall boatmen, whose business it is to row down to meet incoming ships, take the hawser from them and carry it to the tugboats that are to tow them up. Whenever a steamships docks at New York, one or more of these boatmen keeps his little boat darting here and there betwen ship and pier, or ship and tugboat, carrying the hawsers. It is much quicker and safer than attempting to throw the huge ropes, and the business is a profitable one. The men often row from 10 to 15 miles in all kinds of weather to meet a ship.

Another occupation that the owner of small rowboats follow in the harbor is that of dredging up lost articles. If a ship loses an anchor or anchor cable, these men pounce on the spot and throw out big grappling irons. Then they row up and down over the grounds until they succeed in catching it. They are wonderfully expert both at finding a location where something has been lost and at feeling the slightest touch of the grappling iron when it slides over the sought for object. It happens with regularity that a passenger, in a hurry to get aboard a ship or leave it, drops his valise or other luggage overboard. As the stuff usually is heavy enough to sink immediately, the grappler is in great demand, and he appears on the scene with surprising promptness, as if he could scent the need for his services. Often the recoverd luggage is valuable enough to assure this queer fisherman a fat reward.—New York Press.

A Duke at Five.

There is an old story that once, when Queen Elizabeth was asked to confer a peerage upon one of her subjects, she replied: "I have knighted him for valor, that is the highest honor I have in my power to bestow." If the great queen abode royally by her decision in the instances of such heroes as Drake, Frobisher and Hawkins, whom she merely knighted, she changed her mind in the case of her own brilliant kinsman, Thomas Sackville. For on the same day (June 8, 1567) on which the Duke of Norfolk knighted him in her presence, she caused him to be raised to the peerage as Baron Buckhurst of Buckhurst, in Sussex. A year before this time she had given him the Manor of Knole in Kent, with its old house, which was built in part some three hundred years before. He did not, however, obtain full possession of this property until many years later ,1603), and in the same year he ceased to be simply Baron Buckhurst, for James I. then created him Earl of Dorset. He at once set to work to rebuild part of the house, and, by employing 200 workmen for two years, completed the task. It is this house which stands today in its beautiful park, one of the most famous of the manor houses of England. It covers four acres of ground, and with its many wonders—its 52 staircases (one for each week of the year), its 365 rooms (one for each day), its 540 windows, its recently discovered priest's cell—many of the readers of St. Nicholas are familiar, for Vita Sackville-West has aroused a new interest in her home by her letter, printed in the League of November, 1902.

Her father, Lord Sackville, who was British minister to the United States, 1881-1888, is the present owner of Knole Park.

There is no Duke of Dorset now, for the last time that the title descended from father to son was more than a hundred years ago, in 1799, when George John Frederick Sackville found himself (by the death of his father), at the age of five, fourth duke of Dorset, being also Earl of Dorset, Earl of Middlesex, Baron Buckhurst of Buckhurst and Baron Cranfield of Cranfield. Rather a heavy load for one small boy to carry! For he was a boy like other boys, even if he came to a dukedom and ranked next to a price before ever he had come to a knowledge of reading, writing and arithmetic.

He grew up in the beautiful county of Kent, known as the "Garden of England," and we can imagine him playing with his little sisters, Mary and Elizabeth, among the stately beeches of Knole Park—perhaps, too, playing at hide-and-seek in those 365 rooms, which all belonged to him. Later he went to school at Harrow, and to college at Oxford. He must have been clever, for his university gave him the degree of Doctor of Civil Law before he was 20 years old, and very few people (and most of those gray-haired) can write "D. C. L. Oxon." after their names nowadays. He must also have been popular, for he was lieutenant-colonel commandant of the militia of Sevenoaks (the nearest town to Knole) at the same age.

There has been very little recorded of his short early life, and there was, alas, no later life to chronicle. At the age of 21 he was killed by a fall from his horse in the huntingfield, when on a visit to his mother in Ireland. The title went to his cousin, who was the fifth and last Duke of Dorset. Thus George John Frederick never lived to gain the fame of his great ancestor, the poet and statesman, the first Earl of Dorset.—Margaret Jackson in St. Nicholas.

On the Menu.

Cannibal King—That missionary made an awful fuss, didn't he?

Head Chief—Terrible, sir. His struggles were frightful.

Cannibal King—Well, serve him as a piece de resistance.—Town Topics.

Australia exported during the year 1903 more than 20,000,000 frozen rabbits and rabbit skins.

AMERICAN WOMEN IN LONDON.

The American Register, speaking of the luncheon given last week in honor of the fifth anniversary of the founding of the Society of American Women in London, said in the course of a two column story:

"The 300 exquisitely frocked guests, women representing literary, artistic, scientific and philanthropic London, sat at tables brightly bedecked with flowers and under the interwining flags of Britain and America, making the scene a cheery one. The ladies of the society took advantage of the occasion to present Mrs. Hugh Reid Griffin, who is practically the pioneer of the society, and the retiring president, a badge of the society, which comprises the American flag, the Union Jack, the shield and coat of arms of London, and the American Eagle set in diamonds, an exquisite example of the jeweler's craft.

"Mrs. Griffin, who was a member of the executive committee of the hospital ship Maine, is one of the principal women who has fostered the growth of the society and seen it expand from small beginnings; in fact, the initial step in its formation was taken by Mrs. Griffin herself, in response to a desire expressed by English ladies that they might know more of American women collectively. The organization, which now numbers over 150 members of the most promised American women in London, had its beginning at a tea at which Mrs. Griffin was the hostess. "Great oaks from little acorns grow."

The rooms of the society, formerly at Prince Piccadilly, are now at 5a Pall Mall East, and by the voluntary labor and generosity of the members, they have been made most cheerful and artistically attractive.

Mrs. Griffin has retired from the president's chair with well won laurels, feeling assured that the good work which she so successfully inaugurated will be carried on in the same spirit by her successor, Mrs. Webster Glynes, one of the most charming members of the society, and formerly well known in New York as Mrs. Ella M. Dietz Clymer.

MARRIED WOMEN AS WAGE-EARNERS.

The American prejudice against wage-earning by married women appears in the effort occasionally made to make the employment of teachers in the public school terminate with marriage. But thousands of American married women do earn wages, thousands more would gladly do so if they could, and other thousands would be happier off if they did. The prejudice against it seems disadvantageous. American men, as a rule, prefer to support their wives if they can. If an American married woman works for pay, it is either because it gives her pleasure or because her husband's income is insufficient. She does not do it as a matter of course. How long she can keep it up depends upon what the work is, and upon other circumstances. If she has children, that, of course, interferes with her wage-earning if it does not stop it altogether, and general acceptance of a custom which would restrict or discourage child-bearing is not to the public advantage. Marriage tends, and should tend, to withdraw women from wage-earning, but it need not stop it per se and abruptly. To make marriage a bar to future wage-earning by a woman operates in restriction of marriage, and that is at least as much against public policy as restriction of child-bearing.—Harper's Weekly.

A TIMELY WARNING.

The brides who are going into new homes full of shiny furniture will save money by spending a little for white oilcloth. I did not lock by barn door until after my horse was stolen. Now, however, under all the scarfs on my dressers and chiffoniers and washstands are covers of white oilcloth, cut the same shape as the linen covers, but a trifle smaller. For the centerpieces and doylies on my polished tables, I cut the mats of thin white rubber sheeting. If the doyly is of drawn work or lace, I cut the protection only large enough for the linen center, or just the size of the jardiniere or vase which sits upon it. Compared with the expense of having a table top scraped and repolished or varnished, the oilcloth costs very little.—Good Housekeeping.

JAPANESE BABIES.

The babies of all except the richest Japanese are carried about on the back of an elder sister or brother from the time they are a few months old. The poorer the parents the sooner the baby is fastened on to the back of some elder member of the family, and it is not uncommon in the poorer quarters of a Japanese city to see a group of children six or eight years old playing in the streets, each of whom bears a tiny baby sister or brother fastened with a few straps to its back.

These straps are just sufficient to prevent the baby from falling to the ground, leaving the comfort of its posture entirely dependent on its own exertions. Japanese baby earning control of its ... almost impossible ... child from your arm ... it cling on with both ...

The dressing of a ... a simple matter. It ... but miniature kimono ... varying with the ... weather. These ... one inside the other ... put on. Then they ... the floor and baby ... them. They are long ... the baby's feet, and ... also long enough to ... Practically there is ... and the process of ... ese baby takes but ... utes of its mother's ... Tribune.

HOME OF MRS. HETTY SO...

A picturesque, but ... old building known ... Farm, was recently, ... Birmingham, England, ... George Eliot will be ... This house figures ... "Adam Bede" as the ... mortal Mrs. Poyser ... tunate niece, Hetty S... elist was born within ... the place, and Americ... scenes of her early, ... been shown this hous... road to Nuneaton.

Who has now purch... whether it must go t... other romantic landm... yet been divulged, but ... Poyser farm was poi... great admirer of Geo... lady said she had ra... than in the finest hous... and I've no doubt she ... Boston Herald.

POSED AS A ...

A silver-haired Ameri... still living who posed fo... as the Queen of Engl... still recalls with a sh... den of forty pounds of ... which she wore for so ... hours. Shortly after ... of Queen Victoria the ... George and St. Andrew ... phia commissioned Tho... paint a portrait of the ... coronation robes. The ... England, accompanied ... ter Blanche, a young la... summers. The Queen ... graciously and sat for ... head was finished. She ... quished the task to the ... ter, who sat dressed in ... robes for many a long d... received $40,000 for the ... Miss Blanche was made ... autograph letter from t... the present of a diamon...

WOMEN LESS SE...

Many great doctors ... that women are braver ... to physical pain than ... say that women are less ... it. Experiments on ov... women led to the conclu... were not more than hal... to pain at the top of t... as the average man. T... is readily believed by ... dentists. It indeed see... provision of Providence ... to whom pain is a birt... enjoy protection from ... and cruelest pangs.

ENGLISH STORY OF WOMEN.

King Edward recently ... cherry stones on his pl... lic function. The momen... table a crowd of Ame... scrambled for them, wit... it is said, of handing t... their descendants as fam... —London Daily Mail.

MORE RIDE-ASTRIDE WORN.

After long centuries, t... ladies riding skirts is ch... old form of side-saddle s... way to the new style o... skirt. Orders are comi... vided skirts in increasin... The Ladies' Tailor.

FADS OF THE SE...

Another fad is the w... with a fancy rhinestone ... in the middle.

Still another fancy is ... ton, with a little frill ... around it. And there is ... chou, which has wings ... wings, with a long, sle... tened in the middle to ... body of the butterfly.

The covering of button ... make a very fascinating ... useful pastime for the w... ingenious. Button molds ... with Japanese silk and ... touched up with water c... color designs are seen u... them to make the colors ...

Button molds are cover... vet and these are set in ... lace knots with lace ... from the lace knot. A... molds that are covered ... silk, with lace sewed ove...

ENATOR FROM SOUT...
Recommends Pe-ru-... yspepsia and Stomac...
Catarrh of the ...
Called Dys... to Produc... tion is ...
Hence, Pepsin ... of Other D...
Has B...
These Remed...
Seat of th... is Re...
tor M. C. Butler.
derive prompt and satis... from the use of Peruna, ... to Dr. Hartman, giving a ... of your case, and he will be ... you his valuable advice ...
Hartman, President of The ...rium, Columbus, O.
BEST FOR THE BOWE...
Cascar...
CAND... CATHA...
THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP
ED CURE for all bowel troubles, appendicitis, bl... the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, heada... ng, liver trouble, sallow skin and dizziness. Wh... are sick. Constipation kills more people than all ... ailments and long years of suffering. No matter w... today, for you will never get well and stay well ... er advice, start with Cascarets today under abs... ed. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Never ... Address Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago or N...
...tions Guarante...
MITED MEANS OR EDUCATION NO HI... L OUR 6,000 GRADUATES AT WORK. ... WRITE TODAY ... GA.-ALA. BUS. COLL... to WOMEN
al Box and book of in... olutely Free and Post... to prove the value of ...
oilet Antiseptic
Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water — non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution — lasts longer — goes further — has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.
a noted Boston physician, ... great success as a Vaginal ... rhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal ... Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, ... of mucus membrane.
ent of female ills Paxtine is ... as a Vaginal Wash we ... ld to produce its equal for ... is a revelation in cleansing ... er; it kills all germs which ... ion and discharges. ... ists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. ... not, send to us for it. Don't ... there is nothing like Paxtine. ... ree Box of Paxtine to-day. ... 7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.
WOOLLEY'S
& WHISKY
TIDOTE
...ently at your own home. ...n, of DeQueen, Ark., says: ... ago I was cured of the ... r medicine, and have con... best of health since." ...tstall, of Lovington, Va., ... to say that I firmly believe ... and permanently cured of ... I have never even so much ... it in any form since I took ... now 18 months ago. It was ... ever invented." ...wnsend, of Shreveport, La., ... opium. I have taken no ... yours, and I make no mis... that my health is better now ... my life, and I owe it to you ... It has been twelve years ... by your treatment." ... thousands of such testimon... ion to use them. A treat... any recommendations from ... ed patients must be good. ... Antidote has imitators, (as ... Ave)—perhaps you have tried ... there is nothing like Wool... the test of thirty years. No ... who uses opium or whiskey in ... has friends so afflicted, ... write to ... H. WOOLLEY, ...yer Street, Atlanta, Ga., ...ese diseases, which he will ...idential.
...n. 22, 1904.
Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.
...moves all swelling in 5 to 20 ...ys; effects a permanent cure ... to 60 days. Trial treatment ...en free. Nothing can be fairer ... Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, ...cialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.
Smal... result ... Po... in the s... duces siz... We have ... valuable ... books which ... explain more ... fully the fer... tilizing value ... of Potash. ... We will ... send them ... free to any ... farmer who ... writes for ... them. ... GERMAN... New York—93 N... Au...
Avery &...
AVERY ...
51-53 South F... —AL...
MACH...
Reliable Frick... Sizes. ...

BEST IMPROVE...
Large Engin... promptly. Shi... Circular Saws, ... Steam Governo... Mill Supplies. ...
$500 ...
particulars and ... Al... The San... Destroys disc... rats or mice in ... cold water. ... delicate tints. ... of-date hot-wa... Alabastine to ... boiled, of paint... Rints on Dec... ideas free. A... 105 Fulton St., B...
NoMoreBlindi... Sore Eyes, Harry Co...

HEN IN LONDON.

egister, speaking of n last week in hon-niversary of the ociety of American
, said in the course
tory:
tely frocked guests,
ng literary, artistic,
ilanthropic London,
htly bedecked with
r the interwining
d America, making
one. The ladies of dvantage of the oc-
Mrs. Hugh Reid
ically the pioneer
the retiring pres-
the society, which merican flag, the shield and coat of nd the American nds, an exquisite
weber's craft.
n was a member of
mittee of the hospi-
e of the principal
ostered the growth
en it expand from
in fact, the initial on was taken by
. In response to a
by English ladies
ow more of Ameri-
ely. The organinumbers over 150
st promised Amer-
don, had its begin-
which Mrs. Griffin Great oaks from county, formerly y, are now at 5a

d be the voluntary
s of the members,
ade most cheerful
native.
stinct from the ith well won laurel that the good ssfully inaug-
one in the same
r. Mrs. Webster
most charming,
ety, and formerly
York as Mrs. Ella

EN AS WAGE-NERS.
prejudice against married women ap-occasionally made yment of teachers
ol terminate with sands of American earn wages, thou-
gladly do so if they housands would be
did. The profuseems disadvan-
men, as a rule,
their wives if they
an married woman
s either because it
or because her husinsufficient. She matter of course.
keep it up depends
ork as and upon
. If she has chil-
er interferes with
f it does not stop
general acceptance
would restrict or ness is not to the Marriage fends, withdraw women
but it need not ruptly. To make future wage-earn-porates in restric-nd that is at least ible policy as re-bearing.—Harper's

WARNING.
re going into new y furniture will ening a little for d not lock by barn
horse was stolen.
r all the scarfs on chiffoniers and ers of white oil-
shape as the linen smaller. For the ovides on my pol-
the mats of thin
ing. If the doyly
r lace, I cut the e enough for the f the size of the
which sits upon it.
expense of having
and repolished or ch costs very lit-
ping.

BABIES.
except the richest
ed about on the sister or brother
are a few months
the parents the astened on to the r member of the uncommon in the Japanese city to dren six or eight
the streets, each ny baby sister or h a few straps to

just sufficient to om falling to the comfort of its pendent on its own exertions.
Japanese baby can ing control of its almost impossible te child from your arm
it cling on with bot
The dressing of a
a simple matter. It but miniature kimono varying with the con
weather. These garm
one inside the other put on. Then they ar
the floor and baby
them. They are long the baby's feet, and
also long enough to co
Practically there is only and the process of dre
ese baby takes but two utes of its mother's Tribune.

HOME OF MRS.
HETTY SOR
A picturesque, but old building known as Farm, was recently sold Birmingham, England,
George Eliot will be inte
This house figures co
"Adam Bede" as the ho mortal Mrs. Poyser an tunate niece, Hetty Sore
elist was born within th
the place, and American scenes of her early days been shown this house road to Nuneaton.
Who has now purcha
whether it must go the other romantic landmar
yet been divulged, but o Poyser farm was point great admirer of Georg lady said she had rath
than in the finest house and I've no doubt she m
Boston Herald.

POSED AS A QU
A silver-haired Americ still living who posed for as the Queen of Englan still recalls with a shud den of forty pounds of which she wore for so hours. Shortly after th of Queen Victoria the George and St. Andrew phia commissioned Thom paint a portrait of the coronation robes. The a England, accompanied by ter Blanche, a young lady summers. The Queen graciously and sat for head was finished. She quished the task to the a ter, who sat dressed in robes for many a long da received $40,000 for the Miss Blanche was made autograph letter from th
the present of a diamond

WOMEN LESS SEN
Many great doctors
that women are braver to physical pain than say that women are less
it. Experiments on ove women led to the conclus were not more than half to pain at the top of th
as the average man. Th is readily believed by dentists. It indeed seems provision of Providence to whom pain is a 'birth enjoy protection from and cruelest pangs.

ENGLISH STORY OF WOMEN.
King Edward recently cherry stones on his pla lic function. The momen
table a crowd of Amer scrambled for them, with it is said, of handing th their descendants as family
—London Daily Mail.

MORE RIDE-ASTRIDE
WORN.
After long centuries, th
ladies riding skirts is cha old form of side-saddle sh way to the new style of skirt. Orders are coming vided skirts in increasing
The Ladies' Tailor.

FADS OF THE SE
Another fad is the wi
with a fancy rhinestone b in the middle.
Still another fancy is a ton, with a little frill o around it. And there is a chou, which has wings li wings, with a long, sleek tened in the middle to re
body of the butterfly.
The covering of button
make a very fascinating useful pastime for the wo ingenious. Button molds with Japanese silk and touched up with water co color designs are seen them to make the colors Button molds are cover vet and these are set in t lace knots with lace from the lace knot. And molds that are covered silk, with lace sewed over

ENATOR FROM SOUTH CAROLINA Recommends Pe-ru-na
yspepsia and Stomach Trouble.

Catarrh of the Stomach is Generally Called Dyspepsia—Something to Prcduce Artificial Digestion is Generally Taken.

Hence, Pepsin, Pancreatin and a Host of Other Digestive Remedies Has Been Invented.

These Remedies Do Not Reach the Seat of the Difficulty, Which is Really Catarrh.

ator M. C. Butler.

EX. U. S. Senator M. C. Butler from South Carolina was Senator from that State for two terms. In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., from Washington, D. C., says:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine besides a good tonic."—M. C. Butler.

The only rational way to cure dyspepsia is to remove the catarrh. Peruna cures catarrh. Peruna does not produce artificial digestion. It cures catarrh and leaves the stomach to perform digestion in a natural way. This is vastly better and safer than resorting to artificial methods or narcotics.

Peruna has cured more cases of dyspepsia than all other remedies combined, simply because it cures catarrh wherever located. If catarrh is located in the head, Peruna cures it. If catarrh has fastened itself in the throat or bronchial tubes, Peruna cures it. When catarrh becomes settled in the stomach, Peruna cures it, as well in this location as in any other.

Peruna is not simply a remedy for dyspepsia. Perunia is a catarrh remedy. Peruna cures dyspepsia because it is generally dependent upon catarrh.

...t derive prompt and satis-
... from the use of Peruna,
... to Dr. Hartman, giving a
... of your case, and he will be
...e you his valuable advice

... Hartman, President of The
...arium, Columbus, O.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS
Cascarets
CANDY CATHARTIC
THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

...D CURE for all bowel troubles, appendicitis, biliousness, bad breath, bad ...the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pimples, ...ng, liver trouble, sallow skin and dizziness. When your bowels don't move ...are sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It ...ailments and long years of suffering. No matter what ails you, start taking ...Today, for you will never get well and stay well until you get your bowels ...ar advice, start with Cascarets today under absolute guarantee to cure or ...ney back. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Never sold in bulk. Sample and ...Address Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago or New York. 502

...tions Guaranteed BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT
...ITED MEANS OR EDUCATION NO HINDRANCE.
...L OUR 6,000 GRADUATES AT WORK.
WRITE TODAY TO
GA.-ALA. BUS. COLLEGE, Macon Ga.

...to WOMEN
...al Box and book of in-
...olutely Free and Post-
...to prove the value of
Toilet Antiseptic
Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water—non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution—lasts longer—goes further—has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.
...a noted Boston physician, ...great success as a Vaginal ...rrhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal ...Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, ...s of mucus membrane.
...ent of female ills Paxtine is ...ed as a Vaginal Wash we ...eved to produce its equal for ...like a revelation in cleansing ...ge; it kills all germs which ...ion and discharges.
...ists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. ...not, send to us for it. Don't ...there is nothing like Paxtine. ...Free Box of Paxtine to-day. ...7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.

WOOLLEY'S
...& WHISKY
...TIDOTE
...ently at your own home.
...n. of DeQueen, Ark., says: ...ago I was cured of the ...r medicine, and have con- ...best of health since."
...mall, of Lovingston, Va., ...e to say that I firmly believe ...and permanently cured of ...s I have never even so much ...in any form since I took ...ew 18 months ago. It was ...ter invested."
...wsend, of Shreveport, La., ...opium. I have taken no ...yours, and I make no mis- ...that my health is better now ...my life, and I owe it to you ...It has been twelve years ...your treatment."
...thousands of such testimon- ...en to use them. A treat- ...ny recommendations from ...ed patients must be good. ...Antidote has imitators, (as ...have—perhaps you have tried ...there is nothing like Wool- ...the test of thirty years. No ...sees opium or whiskey in ...he has friends so afflicted, ...write to
...M. WOOLLEY,
...yer Street, Atlanta, Ga.,
...ese diseases, which he will ...idential.

...n, 22, 1904.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.
...moves all swelling in 8 to 20 ...ays; effects a permanent cure ...to 60 days. Trial treatment ...free. Nothing can be fairer ...Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, ...Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Small Potatoes result from a lack of Potash
in the soil. Potash produces size and quality.

We have valuable books which explain more fully the fertilizing value of Potash. We will send them free to any farmer who writes for them.
GERMAN KALI WORKS,
New York—99 Nassau Street, or Atlanta, Ga.—32½ So. Broad St.

Avery & Company
SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY
Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.
Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

$500 Given Away
Write us or ask an Alabastino dealer for particulars and free sample card of Alabastine
The Sanitary Wall Coating
Destroys disease germs and vermin. Never rubs or scales. You can apply it—mix with cold water. Beautiful effects in white and delicate tints. Not a disease-breeding, out-of-date hot-water glue preparation. Buy Alabastine in 5 lb. packages, properly labelled, of paint, hardware and drug dealers. "Hints on Decorating," and our Artists' ideas free. ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Mich., or 105 Water St., N. Y.

No More Blind Horses For Specific Ophthalmia, Moon Blindness & other Sore Eyes, Barry Co., Iowa City, Ia., have a sure cure

PATHETIC INDIAN TALES

RELATED BY ONE WHO HAS LIVED AMONG THEM.

The Burial of Beautiful Blossom—The Name Indian is a Misnomer—The Red Man Hates a Half-breed—The Aristocratic Cheyennes.

Tears came to the eyes of many members of the New York Indian Association as Mrs. Ida Vose Woodbury, New England field secretary of the American Missionary association, told of the burial of Beautiful Blossom, the youngest child of the Rev. Mr. Wachacwastiwm, an ordained clergyman; of the healing of Eagle Feather, deserted, with her three children, by her husband, Swallow; of the burning of an aged Indian mother at the stake by her son, because he said she was too old any longer to spear the salmon or snare the rabbit, and of the erection, less than three years later, of a church on the spot where her little heap of gray ashes had fallen.

"There is a difference between knowing about Indians and knowing Indians," said Mrs. Woodbury. "I don't suppose I know very much about Indians, but I think I may say I know Indians. I can almost claim to belong to them, for I have been among them all my life, and have been invited to membership in one of the tribes. In my girlhood there were usually from one to half a dozen Indians rolled in buffalo robes sleeping around my father's open fire of a night, and I used to go into their wigwams freely, making them little presents and sometimes buying their baskets and bead work. I recall one day going to one of their tepees where two of the young braves looked curiously at me.

"'H'm; that Vose girl!' said one, 'make good squaw.'

A Cause of Reproach.

"The name 'Indian' is a misnomer. They are not Indians. They are native Americans, the only native Americans. Nor are they red men. They may be brown, copper, or practically white. They have no pigment under the skin, as a negro has, and with civilization they whiten. For an Indian to have a fair skin is a cause of reproach among the fiercer tribes. The North American Indian is the native aristocrat of this country, and he is proud of his birth.

"I once asked the daughter of an old chief, who had become converted and taken a new name, 'How many Indians go back to the blanket?' 'Almost none of the second generation,' she replied; 'of course, of the first generation some go back, but I have heard of white people who backslide. However civilized an Indian family may be, it has a tepee, and in summer for a little while it likes to go off and pitch the tepee far away from man and play heathen for a few weeks. The Indian wants to brown himself in the smoke of his fire, go around in the blistering sun hatless, and have a vacation from civilization. I have known white men who liked to play heathen a little while.

"The new name of this girl's father was Kitto, after the author of the history of the Bible. He was one of a band of hostile Indians who were imprisoned as a consequence of some warlike raids. Father Ridge went among them and converted them, and when President Lincoln pardoned them they marched out, 200 strong, singing the fifty-first Psalm to the tune of 'Old Hundred.' When an Indian becomes a Christian and is baptized, they give him a new name to indicate something that he is to struggle to attain to. This is simply an adaptation of the Indian system of nomenclature. An Indian father who calls his son Shoot-in-the-Ear thereby expresses his hope that when the boy grows up he will be able to shoot his foe or his quarry straight and clean in the ear. I know one Indian who christened himself Eli Abraham. I suppose he admired both characters and annexed them to his Indian name, in the hope of attaining to their virtues.

They Are Very Religious.

"Indians hate half breeds. Once I had this same young girl with me at a meeting in Tremont Temple, Boston, when a young negro preacher who was almost white, thinking to show his friendliness, said to her, 'I have a little Indian blood in me.' The girl drew herself up, and, looking at him in scorn, said: 'You have a little Indian blood in you. Then I thank God that I am not like you.'"

Indians, according to Mrs. Woodbury, are pre-eminently religious. "If it were not for their religious wants, they would ask very little odds of the missionary and Indian associations of the country," she said.

"You may recall how aboout 15 years ago the Messiah craze swept over the Sioux, who number about one-third of all the Indians. The advent of the Messiah, they believed, was to be heralded by an immense tidal wave, which would land on the prairies all the buffalo the Indian could ever want to hunt or eat, and would bury all the white men three feet deep. Messiah would bring for every Indian a shirt, a ghost shirt, which would render him invulnerable to the white man. They thought that the Messiah was coming to make a temporal kingdom, so they destroyed all their totems and became a godless nation. Some burned up their totems. Others, more prudent, hids theirs in the ground, thinking that if the Messiah did not come, they might prove useful again. Poor Wolf hid his totem in a haystack out in a field, and the lightning struck the haystack and burned up the totem.

"But the Messiah did not come, nor the buffalo, nor the ghost shirts. Instead, the government intervened. My point, however, is that the Sioux were left a literally godless people, and that in consequence they came crowding into the schools to learn 'the shining Jesus way.'

The Aristocrats.

"I was in Oklahoma at one of the distributions of the government semi-annual dividend. For acres the land was dotted with Indian tepees, but between the tepees of the Cheyennes and the Arapahoes there was a broad avenue, for the Cheyenne is the aristocrat of the Indians. Any Arapahoe would feel himself flattered to be asked, 'Are you a Cheyenne?' and every Cheyenne would feel himself insulted to be asked, 'Are you an Arapahoe?' Over the plain a thousand Indians came driving, each with two or four of their ponies, their blankets flying, and followed by packs of Indian dogs, half dog and half coyote.

"Here was Black Wolf, with 70 gashes received in the willow dance and the ghost dance, and there was old Left Hand, whose wife was doctoring his rheumatism.

"I visited the tepee of Lowing Buffalo, who is 103 years old, if son, who is a Christian, is to be believed. On the other side of the fire was his aged wife, paralyzed from the waist down and nearly blind. Opposite sat Eagle Feather, their daughter, very sorrowful because her husband, Swallow, had left her. The poor thing was sitting, her hands clasped over her heart, and all she would say was 'Heap sick about Swallow.' I got out my Testament and read part of the eleventh chapter of Matthew, 'Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.' I saw her face begin to soften. Then we sang, 'Rock of Ages' and 'Safe in the Arms of Jesus,' and the missionary who was with me offered prayer.

"One day, years before, that same missionary came upon a little pile of gray ashes in the grass. 'That is where I burned my mother day before yesterday,' a young brave told him.

"'What was the disease?'

"'She had none, but she was old—she could no longer spear salmon or snare rabbits.'

"That day he showed me a church which had been built where the old Indian woman had been burned to death, and as I looked at it three young Indian men came slowly up the path. Two of them had their arms interlaced to form an armchair, in which they carried their old mother, while the third followed, carrying a blanket to put around her. There were no backs to the seats, so one of the boys sat beside his mother, and she leaned against him and rested her head on his shoulder, as they all listened to the Gospel. So much had Christianity accomplished in three years!

"And then there was the time when Beautiful Blossom died. They laid her in a little white coffin, but, as there were no flowers at that season, they took some yellow tissue paper they found in a missionary box, and twisting it into a cross and some little flowers, placed them in the coffin. All the old chiefs—warriors who had slain their men and knew what it was to dabble in human blood—came to the funeral.

THE OCEAN'S DERELICTS.

Timber-Laden Craft That Menace the Safety of the Seas.

After going over the impressive list of marine accidents caused in past years by collision with floating derelicts, the reader naturally wonders how many of the recorded catastrophes could have been prevented by systematic methods of dealing with these dangers to navigation. In the ten-year period from 1893 to 1902 there were 51 collisions with derelicts. In three of these—one somewhat doubtful—the vessel striking was a total loss; in 37 it was seriously damaged, and in 11 slightly damaged. A great many Norwegian lumber vessels plying from southern ports on the United States coast become derelicts. This is explained paradoxically as the indirect result of the Norwegian's expert seamanship and his confidence as a sailor, which makes him willing to trust in old weather-logged craft, foredoomed to wreck, but continued in use by him till they give way under the stress of actual trial.

Dynamite is the agency usually suggested to destroy these vessels, but dynamite will not accomplish everything. A ship, even an unseaworthy one, is a substantially built structure, and the explosion that will rend it into fragments too small to endanger another vessel striking them must be tremendous. If the ship floats upside down the task is still harder and the wrecking crew must cut into the hull in order to place the charges.

The case of the lumber schooner Drisko is typical. She was sighted by the San Francisco a few years ago, waterlogged and deeply sunk in the water. It was found impossible to tow her to port, and the officers of the San Francisco determined on the torpedo treatment. Three torpedoes, containing 34 pounds of guncotton apiece, were accordingly attached to the keel of the derelict and exploded. They did a great deal of damage, of course, but the obstinate craft remained afloat. Five more torpedoes were then exploded under the keel, and this time back and frames were broken. The San Franfisco then rammed the derelict amidships, and thus cut it in two. The cargo began to slip out and the two parts to sink. As they went down the cruiser fired shells into the stern by way of finishing touches.—London Daily News.

The Jesuits are to be permitted to settle again in Germany, after an exclusion of thirty-two years.

Much has been heard of the efficacy of the Japanese explosive projectiles. The powder used is the invention of a Japanese. He claims that with regard to explosive force, the powder stands next to blasting gelatin and on a much higher level than dynamite or guncotton. A handful exploded on an iron plate one and one-half inches thick forces a hole through the plate. At a special test made two years ago, a six-inch shell loaded with guncotton made a hole a little larger than its own diameter in the target and burst with trifling effect in the backing of coal. A shell charged with Shimose powder tore an aperture three feet in diameter. The composition is handled with the greatest safety, and it costs only about one half of guncotton.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works recently completed its shipment of twenty-four locomotives ordered by the Japanese government. The engines were taken apart and placed in boxes and framework and then placed in box cars so they could not be seen from the outside, the Japanese government and the Baldwins being anxious to keep the matter a secret. The engines are intended for use in Korea on the Seoul-Kobe railroad. American mechanics will set up the engines.

In the presidential election of 1900 there were 13,858,638 votes cast.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

When a leap year girl proposes it's up to the young man to lose his self-possession.

Ask Your Dealer For Allen's Foot-Ease
A powder. It rests the feet. Cures Corns, Bunions, Swollen, Sore, Hot, Callous, Aching, Sweating Feet and Ingrowing Nails. Allen's Foot-Ease makes new or tight shoes easy. At all Druggists and Shoe stores, 25 cents. Accept no substitute. Sample mailed FREE, Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

A faint heart is more apt to win the fair lady than a faint bank account

The Sault canal connecting Lake Superior with the other inland seas is the greatest commerce carrier in the world. Through it last year passed 35,000,000 tons of ore, lumber, grain and other freight.

Patent medicines are never sold in the apothecary shops of Sweden. The Government limits the number of these shops, and there are only 350 in the whole country, Stockholm, with a population of 300,000, having only twenty-two.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Employes in Japanese cotton factories get only eight to eighteen cents for a day's work of eleven or twelve hours. This work, however, is much less strenuous than in this country, and much time is wasted in loafing, talking, laughing and drinking tea.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle

Conscience doesn't make cowards of literary romancers.

I do not believe Piso's Cure for Consumption has an equal for coughs and colds.—JOHN F. BOYER, Trinity Springs, Ind., Feb. 15, 1900.

Some men have a keen sense of humor, judging by the pointless stories they tell.

Overheard on the Pike.

Mr. Easy—"Why should people visiting The Exposition at night use more Allen's Foot-Ease than in daytime?"
Miss Foote—"Because under the brilliant illumination of the grounds, every foot becomes an acre!"
Mr. Easy—"Fair. Only fair! Pray, conduct me to the nearest drug store and I promise never to accept a substitute for you or for Allen's Foot-Ease." * * * *
Foot Note—The twain will be made one in June.

A poor girl's idea of a mercenary wretch is a young man who marries a rich widow.

MOORE & HANDLEY
HARDWARE CO.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
We are Headquarters for
MACHINERY
OF ALL KINDS
Send for Catalogue and Prices.
See our Engines, Boilers and Saw Mill outfits, also steam and hand Pumps and Gardener Governors. We can furnish you anything you want in the machinery or hardware line.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

TIRED, SUFFERING WOMEN.
Women run down and endure daily tortures through neglecting the kidneys. Kidney backache makes housework a burden; rest is impossible; sleep fitful; appetite gives out and you are tired all the time. Can't be well until the kidneys are well. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, which have restored thousands of suffering women to health and vigor.

Mrs. William Wallace, of 18 Capitol street, Concord, N. H., says: "I was in the early stages of Bright's Disease, and were it not for Doan's Kidney Pills I would not be living to-day. Pain in the back was so intense that at night I had to get out of bed until the paroxysm of pain passed away. I was languid and tired and hadn't the strength to lift a kettle of water. I could not work, but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me, and two boxes absolutely cured me."
A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Wallace will be mailed to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price 50 cents per box.

One of the important news centers of London is the inner lobby of the house of commons. No newspaper man has access to that place unless he is entitled to a seat in the press gallery—a rare privilege. Not all London journals have representatives in the reporters' gallery. Alfred Harmsworth had to buy a Scotch newspaper, with a time-honored title to a gallery seat, to get a representative of his widely circulated Daily Mail in the gallery and inner lobby.

In 1903 the value of cargoes loaded at New Orleans wharves was 69 per cent greater than total for 1883; the shipments of grain alone were so large that a million more bushels were exported from New Orleans than from New York.

Feet Hurt.
Sweat, itch, blister? ROYAL FOOT WASH cures them. Removes odors of feet, armpits, etc.; stops chafing. If not at druggists send 25c to EATON DRUG CO., Atlanta, Ga., for full size, postpaid; sample for 2c stamp. One application proves its merit. Money back if not satisfied.

A justice of the peace of East Poughkeepsie, N. Y., requires all persons brought before him on a charge of drunkenness, to sign a pledge to gain a suspension of sentence.

FOR WOMEN
Especially Mothers
The Sanative, Antiseptic, Cleansing, Purifying, and Beautifying Properties of Cuticura SOAP
Assisted by CUTICURA Ointment, the great Skin Cure, are of Priceless Value.
For preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes and chafings, in the form of baths for annoying irritations, ulcerations, and inflammations of women, and many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves, as well as for all purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery, CUTICURA Soap and CUTICURA Ointment are priceless.
Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Soap, 25c., Ointment, 50c., Resolvent, 50c. (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60). Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors.
Send for "How to Preserve, Purify, and Beautify."

The Largest Photograph in the World.

AT the recent Dresden Exhibition of German Civic Life, the Neue Photographische Ges. Berlin Steglitz exhibited a photograph which is said to be the largest ever taken. This gigantic picture measures twelve meters by one and one-half meters (thirty-nine feet eight inches by four feet eleven inches).

The photograph represents the Bay of Naples, and was taken from Castel San Marino, the highest point behind Naples, from which the eye commands the whole city and bay as far as Mount Vesuvius and Capri. In order to secure as extensive a panorama as possible, six different views on as many plates, measuring twenty-one by twenty-seven centimeters (eight and one-tenth inches by ten and one-half inches) were first taken. From these six plates, which were designed with a view to being connected to one another in a continuous series, six enlargements, one and one-half by two meters (four feet eleven inches by six feet seven inches) in size were prepared by means of an apparatus with a lens thirty-two centimeters (one foot) in diameter. The enlargements were made directly on silver bromide paper. The inherent difficulty of connecting the single plates so as to avoid any break was overcome so successfully that it is practically impossible to detect the boundary line of any two plates. According to their character, the six negatives were exposed for unequal periods, varying between one-half and one and one-fourth hours.

In order to develop the picture, a huge wheel was made of specially prepared wood. The wheel was four meters (thirteen and twelve one-hundredths feet) in diameter and one and three-fourths meters (five and one-half feet) in breadth, the periphery thus being twelve and one-half meters (forty-one feet), and containing ninety slats intended for receiving the photographic paper. There were further used three large tanks about seventy and one-half cubic feet in capacity, intended respectively for the developing, clearing and fixing solutions, acetic acid and sodium hydroxide solutions. Each tank could be shifted about on five iron wheels moving along rails sixteen meters (fifty-two and forty-eight hundredths feet) in length. A gigantic water tank, fifteen meters (forty-nine and one-fifth feet) in length, two meters (six and fifty-six one-hundredths feet) in breadth, and three-fourths meter (two and forty-six one-hundredths feet) in height, having a total capacity as high as 470.68 cubic feet, was further used.

On account of the large developing wheel used, the paper was developed by night in the open air. Before developing the picture, the exposed paper, fitted with a protecting cover, was laid over the slats of the wheel. The wheel was then set rotating. As it turned, it dipped the lower part of the paper into the developing liquid. The light portions were especially treated with sponges impregnated with energetic developers. Portions whose development was too rapid were checked by means of iced acetic acid solutions. An iron oxalate developer was used.

After first interrupting the developing process by projecting iced acetic acid on the photograph by means of a hand pump, the paper was conveyed into an acetic acid bath, where the clearing process was completed after twenty minutes' time. The picture, after an intense rinsing, was transferred into the fixing bath, where it remained three-quarters of an hour. After another rinsing the photograph was thence conveyed into the large washing tank above mentioned, where it remained for about eight hours, while a continuous supply and withdrawal of water took place. The total consumption of water used in washing the print was about 10,593 cubic feet.

After the water was drawn off, the picture was stretched out on wooden bars attached to the upper edge of the tank, where it remained for about ten hours before it was completely dried.—Berlin Correspondent of the Scientific American.

The Newspaper First.

The man whose concern makes most of the tin signs used in this country is an observer of advertising matter. His experience indicates that tin signs are most valuable as an adjunct of newspaper publicity. He says: "My business is best when newspaper advertising is best, and my customers who are most successful in business are those who use newspaper space."

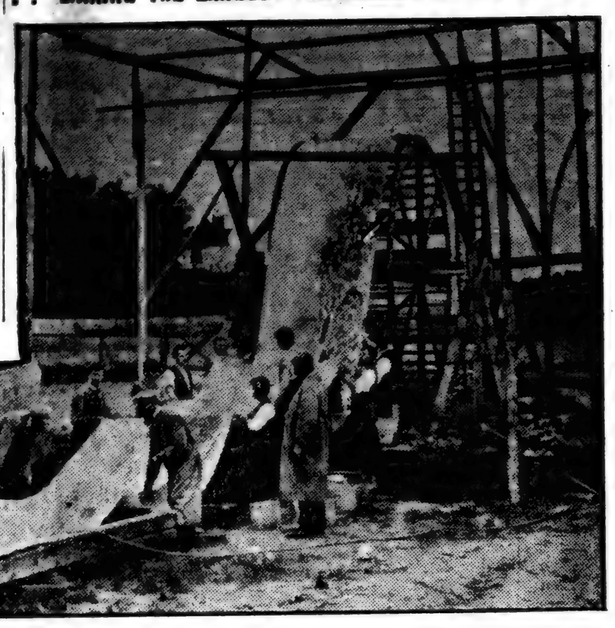
In Korea dog meat is in great request at certain seasons.

CAUGHT BY HIS CURIOSITY.

Method of Entrapping a Tiger For the Purposes of Exhibition.

The trap shown in the accompanying cut, from Pearson's Weekly, shows the method pursued in capturing a tiger for exhibition purposes when it is desired particularly not to mar his fine fur in any manner.

:: MAKING THE LARGEST PHOTOGRAPH IN THE WORLD. ::



:: Unreeling the Print Into the Clearing Bath. ::

The principle of the trap is much the same as that of an ordinary mouse trap. A great square inclosure is erected in a likely place in the depths of the forest. It is constructed of strong logs, fastened together as securely as possible. In the inside of this inclosure is placed a large looking glass, while the top, or lid, is fastened in the air and attached to a strong spring. In the course of time the tiger is almost sure to pass in the direction of the trap, in which case he is always much interested in his reflection in the mirror, and will climb inside in order to discover what this curious thing is. As he clambers over the side and drops to the ground the spring of the lid is released, with the result that the animal is caught, and cannot possibly make his escape until the lid is removed. There are holes in each side of the inclosure, provided for the purpose of doping the infuriated tiger when once he has fallen a victim to curiosity.

MIRROR IN THE TIGER TRAP.

Justifiable Homicide.

A man went into the office of the News at Mortonville, Kan., a few days ago and announced: "I've come to kill a printer."

"Any printer in particular?" asked the foreman.

"Oh, any one will do. I would prefer a small one, but I've got to make some sort of a show at fight or leave home, since the paper called my wife's tea party a 'swill affair.'"—Minneapolis Journal.

A seaman, whose body was found in the Thames River, England, was tattoed from head to foot.

ECONOMY IN FLAME.

In the household fire is used for three purposes — illumination, heating and cooking—and generally it requires a separate and distinct apparatus for each of these purposes.

Some good genius has invented an affair which combines all these principles in one. Light from the flame of a lamp at the base of the machine is diffused throughout the room. The upper part of the flame heats an oven attachment, and in doing so passes through a coil of pipe, the air in which flows rapidly out into the room as it is heated, and is replaced by cooler air, which in turn reaches a high temperature.

THE LIGHTER, HEATER AND COOKER.

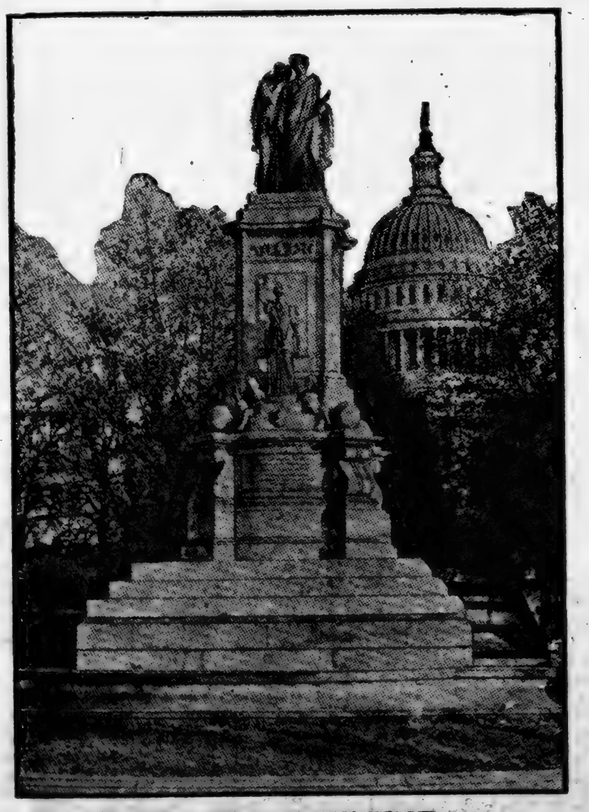
Burr Indictments Found.

After having been given up as lost for many years, the original indictments on which Aaron Burr was tried for treason and misdemeanor, respectively, were found at Richmond, Va., in the archives of the United States Circuit Court.

Each indictment contains the indorsement "Not guilty" in the hand of the jury foreman.—New York Times.

Fifty-two Years: No Vacation.

George H. Tiffany, who worked without a vacation fifty-two years at a printer's case, died recently at Jamestown, N. Y.



PEACE MONUMENT.
Washington.

Quaint and Curious

The velocity of the wind at the height of one mile above the earth is four times as great as at the surface.

A man worth $5,000,000 to-day is no richer, as related to the aggregated wealth of the United States, than a man worth $370,000 in 1850.

In the fortified rock of Gibraltar there are sixty-two miles of tunnels. They are stocked with an ample supply of arms, ammunition and provisions, in readiness for a siege.

It is not generally known that the fur seal was once a land animal. The baby seals are actually afraid of the water, they would drown, if thrown into it, and have to learn to swim by repeated efforts. When once they have been taught to swim, however, they soon forget to walk.

The largest room in the world, under one roof and unbroken pillars, is at St. Petersburg. It is 620 feet long and 150 feet in breadth. By daylight it is used for military displays, and a whole battalion can maneuver in it. By night twenty thousand wax tapers give it a beautiful appearance. The roof is a single arch of iron.

After ten years' incessant labor, Mrs. Lizzie Hoffman, of Anthony, has finished what is probably the oddest bedquilt in the country. It is a patch quilt made of 14,600 pieces of silk of all kinds and colors, and every piece of silk came from a different bride's hat. During ten years Mrs. Hoffman has been collecting these pieces.

Koreans wear full mourning for their fathers. The dress is of hemp cloth, with hempen girdle. A face shield is used to show that the wearer is a sinner and must not speak to any one unless addressed. The costume is retained for three years, the shield for three months. This is worn for a father only, secondary mourning is worn for a mother, and no mourning at all for a wife. The hat is of wicker.

WAR IN COLOMBIA.

No Milk For the General's Coffee, so the Enemy Escaped.

During the last revolution in Colombia, says the World's Work, General Perez was in command of the Government troops at Cali. One day news arrived that the Liberals had captured a neighboring town, and Perez was ordered to start with his army at 7 o'clock the next morning to attack them. He made a patriotic speech to the soldiers, ordered coffee to be ready at half past 6 at a local hotel, and made ready for war.

At the appointed hour next morning the troops paraded in the municipal square. The General strutted to and fro before them, waiting for his coffee, and telling his men what terrible things he was about to do to the revolutionists. But a complication arose. Almost every one in Colombia takes coffee black, but General Perez must have milk in his.

In this case there was no milk. The nearest cows were four miles out of town. The General, fuming and impatient, sent a soldier to the distant farm. His staff urged him to march without the milk, but he refused. He sent a second soldier to hurry the first, and a third to hurry the second. Till noon the army stood on parade in the broiling sun, while the General fussed and fretted. Then back came the soldiers and reported that the cows were dry and there was no milk.

"No milk!" thundered the General, in a rage. "Then I will not march. By to-morrow morning, innkeeper, you must find some milk somewhere."

The army was dismissed and scouts scoured the country for milk. The next morning at half past 6 the cafe au lait was ready, and at 7 the army was set on the march; but the Liberal troops had already moved to strike some other city.

Plucking the Ostrich.

When a year old, the plumage of the ostrich is usually large enough and fine enough to began plucking, which is one of the most difficult and dangerous operations of ostriculture. A few of them are driven into a small corral, when one by one they are pushed into a small angular enclosure, and a long, narrow bag is placed over the head, with a hole in the end to breathe through. Then one man holds the bird, while the operator skillfully clips and pulls at the feathers that are ripe. Blinded, the bird becomes very tame, but care is exercised by the men to avoid the kicks that necessarily are included by the creature in this performance. When a feather root is hurt, injury is done that can never be remedied, for when a socket is pulled out, a feather can never grow again. The short feathers are pulled out without any apparent pain to the creature, as they are ripe and would fall off in the course of nature if not extricated by the skilled operator. The heavy wing feathers are cut off with heavy scissors, the stumps being left in the skin. These stumps are ripe for extraction about three months after a plucking takes place.

Sewing Machines in Honduras.

The only American machine that is popular in Honduras is the sewing machine, which is in practical use throughout the republic.

Japanese troops from their supposedly impregnable fastnesses at Feng-yangcheng.

The price of meat in Moscow has risen twenty-five per cent., owing to the heavy shipments to the Far East.

Fire burned every store in Waverly, Va. The loss is $ blaze was of incendiary Bank of Waverly was b The vaults intact.

Just Before You Ge Hurt Buy a Bottle

Tallassee, Ala., May 30, 1903.

We have used Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic in our families and our stock for several years and have to say it is the best we ever tried for Wounds, Burns, etc.

We use nothing else as a remedy for Colic in our horses and mules, and it has never failed.

C. P. WOODALL.
W. W. WOODALL.

Buena Vista, Ala., June 6, 1903.

I sell and use Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic. My customers are pleased with it and I like it so well that I always keep it in my house, ready for use when needed at any time.

J. J. FINKLEA.

Pine Grove, Ala., August

I have used and sold Dr. Antiseptic for more than a the best thing I have ev healing cuts, burns or s Wounds and for Nausea, era Morbus and Flux there better. Everybody is deli it. R.

Andalusia, Ala., Apri

I consider Dr. Tichenor's an indispensable family m is superior to anything we for healing Cuts, Bruises, any kind of Wounds and I vise its use in such cases.

B. H. ZE
Prop. Du

10 cents and 50 cents by all drug gists.

A most complete

Stock of General Merc dise, Dress Goods,

The Millinery Department

is complete in every detail and is in of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara of St. Louis

P. D. WILS

CLANTON, ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN POULTRY YA

WE have as good CHICK as there are in the Barred Plymouth R And you may have fresh eggs for 50c. want them shipped add 10c for packing.

Give us a trial and we can

MRS. W. N
Maplesville, A

GEN R L MERCHANDISE FERTILIZERS

FOR SALE.

Troy Special & Mule Br
"Are the Best on Earth"

J. C. JONES,
Clanton, - - - Ala

We Have Perfected Arrangements Whe That Practical and Instructive Newspa

THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER

Known throughout the State of bama for the full line of State N contained in each issue, will be nished in connection with Our lication at a Remarkably Low P

Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Financial Page. Best State News.

For Village, Suburban Residents, and in fact for all ly engaged in agricultural pursuits, or family i Weekly Advertiser will be found well nigh indis It is pure, bright and practical all the way throu meets the requirements of the entire family. It is throughout the South, and no one should be wit

Our Great Special Offer:

The Weekly Union one year -
Weekly Advertiser one year -

Both for $1.25.

TH

OL. II.

ay School Convention

day schools of beat 9 held ton at Thorsby on Sunday, ust. There was a large at- including a number from mong whom were Professor ore and W. M. Wilson. Din erved on the grounds of the There wasn't any lack of s to eat, all furnished by adies of the beat, the Chil oneycutts and many others orium of the college was ith an attentive congrega listened with interest to the of a list of well chosen which bore directly on the our Sabbath schools. Ex ous talks were made by J. W. Moore, J. Williams, ev. I. Windsor, R. A. Rasco, ns, J. J. Stanley, S E Nor W. Hayes; but the honors ed off by the ladies, whose the subjects assigned them re and thought, and are re ere as for the benefit of the could not be there to hear J. Bice, ably assisted by dent A. Horn, conducted the in a highly successful Miss Anna Howard acted as It was a day well spent and at "It was good to be

W. C. E.

THE BEST WAY TO THE SABBATH SCHOOL GROW?

Mrs. John L. Winslow.

nday school is the door rch, and in order to get ev enter through this door im t amount of work to be hich we are richly reward are the phases to consider this great work. Perhaps any more importance than or development and prog is the Sunday school to the plant life, good, nutri must be given the young, ts just budding forth, that e nourished sufficiently to eir full size; and so it is ung plants in the Sabbath must have the proper them growing in interest day school. "Train up a e way he should go and old he will not depart from keep the children in the ool, then when they grow and womanhood they will for Sunday school work. t a school that can grow without complete organi this we understand that appoint capable men and officers and teachers who ith the love of God, and should attend regularly ered by sickness or other dable causes. The perform Christian duties should first, other things second superintendent and teach other words, the leaders, oroughly awake to all the the school, really enthusi ing to the different mem school the inspiration emselves feel. Also the ld prepare the lesson well ng with the class. Some en should the teacher be study of the lesson to begin on Sunday he study of the les ext Sabbath; at any rate plan when possible. A ld not go before a class teaching is an irksome patient for the close of ur, but he or she should pleasure and an opportu undantly blessed—yes, a thers. Every pupil must el welcome, and especial t be given to new pupils viting all to come again. rt to have every one to rt, if nothing more than a verse in the lesson. g out plainly each spirit to our own individual t the precious promises ven so many centuries each one. Occasionally lass to your own home, ther or a part at a time, ay make their acquaint 't forget to call at their ake the acquaintance of mbers of the family. n one of your pupils is pass the absence by un ook after that one, giv ouragement and inviting him. Literature has much e interest that is taken school. Good papers easily be obtained from association if each pu a small amount each e of the school who sing ecial interest in the mu music lifts a soul to a Let the children be seat rgan; they enjoy being ppreciated fully as well who are older; their an sing beautifully the Oft have the sweet

WHAT AR NECESSA OF A GO

By M

First of al teacher shou tian, since Sabbath sch scholar in ye God. "We c not possess," any love fo none to his each member ultimate aim we must kno cessful teach man or wom tact should time to spea time to repro it is the tact just when an First let have a lively not only on the week. concern your amusements. you rejoice w pathize in th their sins ar tion. Never that you are as he or she bath school, well, makes and is polite his or her be Sunday after teacher must thy with his various dispo ble; he shou the home life pil. Never g ed in what in gle with the and when you entertainment kind of tea bound to be and parents the young pe then you ma ple to often i of amusemen souls to Chri them to ours (I John iv, 2 not his broth how can he not seen?" pupils unless Even Jesus leave His hea erring souls came to earth in the templ No, He ming walk of life death of Laz the wedding hope to win Christ if we bath school week. The te to set his cla all things. pupils will special effort teacher lets bad weather keep him at h members of h it incumbent they feel like bring their surely become line. Boys a for a teacher the lesson hi appreciated studied. Tea in appreciatio of a pupil, ne feel that it ma er or not the know that thi some teachers

...ssedly impregnable ...yangcheng.
...eat in Moscow has ...per cent., owing to ...ts to the Far E...

Fire burned every store ... Waverly, Va. The loss is $... blaze was of incendiary ... Bank of Waverly was ... The ... vaults intact.

...t Before You Ge... ...urt Buy a Bottle ...

...la., May 30, 1903.
...Dr. Tichenor's Anti... ...illes and our stock ...and have to say it ...r tried for Wounds, ... else as a remedy ...rses and mules, and ...d.
...P. WOODALL. ...W. WOODALL.

...Ala., June 6, 1903.
...Dr. Tichenor's Anti... ...mers are pleased ... it so well that I ...ay house, ready for ...at any time.
J. J. FINKLEA.

Pine Grove, Ala., August ...
I have used and sold Dr. ... Antiseptic for more than a ... the best thing I have ever ... healing cuts, burns or ... Wounds and for Nausea, ... era Morbus and Flux there ... better. Everybody is delig... it.
R. H. ...

Andalusia, Ala., April ...
I consider Dr. Tichenor's ... an indispensable family me... is superior to anything we ... for healing Cuts, Bruises, ... any kind of Wounds and I ... vise its use in such cases.
B. H. ZE...
Prop. Dixie ...

10 cents and 50 cents by all drug gists.

...ost complete ...
...Stock of General Merc... ...dise, Dress Goods, ...illinery ...tment
...is complete in every detail and is in... ...of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara ...of St. Louis
P. D. WILS...
...ALABAMA.

...AWN POULTRY YA...

WE have as good ... CHICK... as there are in the ... Barred Plymouth R... And you may have ... fresh eggs for 50c. ... want them shipped ... add 10c for packing.
Give us a trial and we can p...
MRS. W. N...
Maplesville, Al...

...L MERCHANDISE ... FERTILIZERS
FOR SALE.
...pecial & Mule Bra...
...re the Best on Earth"
C. JONES,
- - - Ala...

...e Perfected Arrangements Where... ...ractical and Instructive Newspa...
...HE WEEKLY ...DVERTISER
...throughout the State of ... ...or the full line of State N... ...ed in each issue, will be ... ...in connection with Our P... ...at a Remarkably Low Pr...
...st County News. Best Sporting ...ws. Best Market and Finan... ...l Page. Best State News.
...Suburban Residents, and in fact for all ... ...in agricultural pursuits, or family ... ...ertiser will be found well nigh indispe... ...bright and practical all the way through ...quirements of the entire family. It is pe... ...the South, and no one should be with...
...r Great Special Offer:
...ekly Union one year - $... Advertiser one year - $...
Both for $1.25.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 2, 1904. NO. 10.

...ay School Convention at Thorsby

...day schools of beat 9 held ...m at Thorsby on Sunday, ...st. There was a large at... including a number from ...mong whom were Professor ...re and W. M. Wilson. Din... ...rved on the grounds of the ... There wasn't any lack of ...s to eat, all furnished by ...ladies of the beat, the Chil...neycutts and many others. ...rium of the college was ...with an attentive congrega... ...listened with interest to the ... of a list of well chosen ...which bore directly on the ...r Sabbath schools. Ex... ...ses talks were made by ...J. W. Moore, J. Williams, ...Rev. I. Windsor, R. A. Rasco, ...Jas. J. Stanley, S E Nor... ...W. Hayes; but the honors ...ded if by the ladies, whose ...the subjects assigned them ...re and thought, and are re... ...here as for the benefit of the ...could not be there to hear. ...J. Bice, ably assisted by ...lent A. Horn, conducted the ...s in a highly successful ...Miss Anna Howard acted as ...It was a day well spent and ...that "it was good to be ...
W. C. E.

...S THE BEST WAY TO ...THE SABBATH SCHOOL GROW?

...Mrs. John L. Winslow.

...day school is the door ...rch, and in order to get ev... ...enter through this door im... ...st amount of work to be ...which we are richly reward... ...are the phases to consider ...in this great work. Perhaps ...any more importance than ...or development and prog... ...is the Sunday school to ...the plant life, good, nutri... ...must be given the young, ...as just budding forth, that ...be nourished sufficiently to ...their full size; and so it is ...ung plants in the Sabbath ...must have the proper ...to them growing in interest ...day school. "Train up a ...e way he should go and ...old he will not depart from ... keep the children in the ...ool, then when they grow ... and womanhood they will ...e for Sunday school work. ...t a school that can grow ... without complete organi... this we understand that ...appoint capable men and ...officers and teachers who ...ith the love of God, and ...n should attend regularly ...ered by sickness or other... ...dable causes. The perform... ...r Christian duties should ... first, other things second... ...superintendent and teach... ...other words, the leaders, ...oroughly awake to all the ...the school, really enthu...ing to the different mem... ...school the inspiration ...hemselves feel. Also the ...ld prepare the lesson well ...ing with the class. Some ...en should the teacher be... ...study of the lesson ...to begin on Sunday ...the study of the les... ...ext Sabbath; at any rate, ...plan when possible. A ...ld not go before a class ...teaching is an irksome ...patient for the close of ...our, but he or she should ...a pleasure and an opportu... ...bundantly blessed—yes, a ...thers. Every pupil must ...feel welcome, and especial ...ot be given to new pupils ...writing all to come again. ...ort to have every one to ...art, if nothing more than ...a verse in the lesson. ...ng out plainly each spirit... ...to our own individual ...at the precious promises ...even so many centuries ...each one. Occasionally ...lass to your own home, ...ther or a part at a time, ...may make their acquaint... ...n't forget to call at their ...ake the acquaintance of ...mbers of the family. ...e one of your pupils is ...pass the absence by un... ...look after that one, giv... ...ouragement and inviting ...in. Literature has much ...e interest that is taken ...y school. Good papers ...easily be obtained from ...association if each pu... ...a small amount each ...e of the school who sing ...ecial interest in the mu... ...music lifts a soul to a ...Let the children be seat... ...rgan; they enjoy being ...preciated fully as well ...who are older; their ...an sing beautifully the ...d. Oft have the sweet ...strains of music drawn a wayward soul back from the paths of sin to live a noble Christian life. There are many ways in which we may reach the hearts of the people, but what will touch one may not affect another; so we need to study their dispositions, using tact that we may win them to our schools and to Christ. There should be a continual reaching out to those who do not attend, to come and join us in the study of the Bible. 'Tis not simply a place to go just to see and be seen, but 'tis a place to learn more about the Holy Scriptures. These are only a few of the many ideas which will guarantee the proper growth of the Sunday school. I would suggest that if any school represented has fallen into a rut, feels discouraged, and numbers are lessening each Sabbath, that some one ferret out the difficulty and make same right, then try something a little out of the regular routine to interest the young, remembering that we should seek divine guidance in all things. May all our schools be such that every one may feel the elevating touch of a school alive with workers, glad to serve for Christ's sake, then people will want to attend our Sabbath schools.

WHAT ARE THE NECESSARY NECESSARY QUALIFICATIONS OF A GOOD S. S. TEACHER?

By Mary Louisa Hall.

First of all a good Sabbath school teacher should be a steadfast Christian, since the prime object of the Sabbath school is to impart to the scholar a yearning for the things of God. "We can not give what we do not possess," so if the teacher hasn't any love for Christ, he can impart none to his class. The salvation of each member should be the teacher's ultimate aim and undying effort. But we must know how to work. A successful teacher must be a practical man or woman and a great deal of tact should be employed. There is a time to speak, a time for silence, a time to reprove, a time to praise; and it is the tactful teacher who can tell just when and how and what to speak.

First let each pupil feel that you have a lively interest in him or her, not only on Sunday, but all through the week. Let them know that you concern yourself about their work amusements, companions, etc.; that you rejoice with their rejoicings, sympathize in their troubles, weep for their sins and pray for their salvation. Never let a boy or girl think that you are entirely satisfied so long as he or she comes regularly to Sabbath school, recites the lesson fairly well, makes systematic contributions, and is polite in class, regardless of his or her behavior on week days or Sunday afternoons. The successful teacher must be thoroughly in sympathy with his pupils and study their various dispositions as far as possible; he should acquaint himself with the home life and doings of each pupil. Never get too old to be interested in what interests your pupils, mingle with them in their amusements, and when you can, be present at their entertainments, if you are the right kind of teacher your presence is bound to be uplifting. When teachers and parents are above mingling with the young people in their amusements, then you may expect the young people to often indulge in the wrong kind of amusements. We can hardly win souls to Christ without first winning them to ourselves. The Bible says (I John iv, 20): "For he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God, whom he hath not seen?" And we can not win our pupils unless we mingle with them. Even Jesus, the Son of God, had to leave His heavenly throne to win the erring souls of men, and when He came to earth He did not sit always in the temple and teach the people. No, He mingled with them in every walk of life, in their sorrows, the death of Lazarus, in their rejoicings, the wedding at Cana. So we can not hope to win many of our pupils to Christ if we see them only in the Sabbath school room for an hour each week. The teacher should ever strive to set his class a worthy example in all things. When teachers come late pupils will not be apt to make any special efforts to be prompt. If the teacher lets such trivial excuses as bad weather or slight indisposition keep him at home on the Sabbath, the members of his class will scarcely feel it incumbent on them to come unless they feel like it. If teachers forget to bring their contributions, pupils will surely become careless along the same line. Boys and girls will not study for a teacher who does not prepare the lesson himself, for study can be appreciated only by one who has studied. Teachers, never be wanting in appreciation of study on the part of a pupil, never let the boys and girls feel that it makes no difference whether or not they know the lesson. I know that this is a common fault with some teachers. I've often been to Sabbath schools where I knew that any amount of study would be utterly unappreciated by the teacher. The class would sit during recitation period with quarterlies open, and all questions would be either answered by the teacher or read off by a member of the class. The pupil who had spent hours in study would make no better show than the one who had not looked at the lesson. Stimulate your pupils to study; make them close their books and find out what each one knows; then teach them as much as you can of what they didn't know. If a pupil doesn't know a thing but the golden text, let him feel that you are glad he knows that much, and would be still gladder if he knew more. Encourage pupils to ask questions and discuss the lesson. Always show the spiritual application of the lesson. There are other things besides study to be appreciated. Prompt and regular attendance and contributions; make a mental note of those who never fail to bring their pennies, and occasionally give them a word of praise. Watch your pupils and see which are always polite in class, which are never late to Sabbath school, which always help in the singing and responsive readings. All these are deserving of praise. Stimulate class pride. Encourage your pupils to bring in new members and to improve the class along all lines. Never forget that, no matter how unpromising a pupil appears, there is good in him, more good perhaps than any one suspects. "Speak gently to the erring one, remember that however darkly stained with sin, he is your brother still." Above all, a teacher should be constant in prayer, seeking strength from God to employ his faculties to their best advantage in leading his pupils in the narrow way that leads to heaven.

THE POWER OF KIND WORDS AND DEEDS.

By Mrs. Dr. Simonton.

"Kind words can never die." Oh, what power in the little act of speaking a kind word or doing a kind deed. Perchance it may be to some one who needs just that one kind word that will be the means of saving his or her soul. How little we know what good we may do. How many times we have helped some little boy or girl out of trouble by taking the time to speak some kind, loving word to them as we passed by. Is it not our duty as Christian workers and Sabbath school teachers to ever be ready to speak a kind word, perform a kind act, toward those who we see need such help? How many lives we might help to be better, to be happier, if we would simply put ourselves aside and give Christian advice to those who need such. I beg of you, my co-workers, to never let a day pass by without asking "Our Father" to show us some way of doing good, some chance to speak a kind, loving word "in His name" and for His sake. Let us show our fellow creatures that we care for them. Let us see how kind and loving Jesus was. He never missed an opportunity of doing good. He never passed by a soul in need, the sick, the poor, or the fallen, but that He offered help and pardon. He treated all alike. He is no respecter of persons. I've often heard some one say, "I wouldn't have such a boy or girl in my house." Ask them why? They will tell you of something bad they have heard about them. Don't stop to investigate, but simply turn their backs to them instead of doing as Jesus would, and try to help them by speaking a kind word, by showing them you care for them. Let us think more of this class who need encouragement than of those who do not. These are the ones to whom Jesus would have us speak a loving word. How many times we miss an opportunity of doing good. How Jesus must look down upon us in pity for the many mistakes we make along this line. How it must grieve Him that we don't follow Him more closely in kindness and love. Let me ask each one of you what have you done today to cheer some heart, to make some burden lighter and easier to bear? All it has cost you is the time it has taken to speak a kind word. We learn the power of kindness through the Scriptures. Jesus was all kindness. It was written on His face; even His enemies believed Him to be more than mortal. Why? Because He was always so kind, spoke lovingly to all He met, and treated his enemies well when they abused him. Not only human beings feel the power of kind words and kind deeds, but dumb animals as well. How often it has been seen in dealing with a horse that he can be ruled by love. Many times can be made to start a heavy load by talking lovingly to him, and offering an apple or lump of sugar. Let us not forget that they are God's creatures, too, and we should be kind to them. Let us be kind to one another as God commands us, and then we will see the great and unmistakable power of kind words and kind deeds.

BALTIMORE'S MAYOR

Sends a Bullet Through His Brain. He Was Thirty-six Years of Age.

MARRIED ONLY TWO WEEKS AGO

Recent Fire and Political Criticism Preyed Upon Him, Unbalancing His Mind.

Mayor Robert M. McLane, of Baltimore, shot and killed himself at his home Monday. His bride of two weeks was at the time asleep in the adjoining room, and was awakened by the discharge of the revolver, which Mr. McLane evidently used while standing before a mirror. Members of the household rushed to the mayor's assistance, but he did not regain consciousness after he fell and expired within an hour.

No cause can be assigned for the act by the members of Mr. McLane's family. Since the fire of last February he had been kept assidiously at work administering the affairs of the city, besides endeavoring to direct the rehabilitation and rebuilding of the burned district. This, together with criticism by his political opponents, are thought by many to have caused a temporary mental aberration.

Mayor McLane was elected to the office of chief magistrate of the municpality in May of last year for a term of four years. Under the city charter he will be succeeded by E. Clay Tymanus, republican, president of the second branch of the city council, to serve out the unexpired term.

Mr. McLane was 36 years of age, the youngest chief executive Baltimore ever had. He was the son of James L. McLane, president of the First National bank, and nephew of Robert M. McLane, former governor of Maryland and United States minister to France during Cleveland's first administration.

Mayor McLane was married two weeks ago to Mrs. Mary VanBibber, a well-known and popular society leader of Baltimore, and the newly made bride is prostrated by the tragedy. The mayor was very popular among the people generally, irrespective of party, and the whole community has been profoundly shocked by his tragic end.

KUROPATKIN BLAMED,

And It is Reported that the Czar May Dismiss Him.

Reports published of discord in the interview between General Kuropatkin and Viceroy Alexieff at Mukden and of the southern movement of the Russian vanguard give rise to rumors that Kuropatkin has yielded to the wishes of the Alexieff party and is attempting to relieve Port Arthur.

General Kuorpatkin is fighting two enemies, one at home, the other in Manchuria. While his military reputation is undergoing a terrible ordeal, he is also accused of failure as minister of war to make proper preparations for war. The emperor is alleged to be so dissatisfied that he would dismiss both Alexieff and Kuropatkin were it not that he fears the effect on public opinion. The general impression among the highest classes is that the fall of Port Arthur ought to connote the end of the war, and that if Japan is successful in this aim, Russia's best interest would be to make peace.

Greece has decided to contract a loan of 43,000,000 francs to reorganize her navy. Three armed cruisers and twelve torpedo boats and six destroyers will be purchased as a nucleus.

Clyde Watson shot and killed John Degraffenreid, a negro, at Sumterville just in time to keep Degraffenreid from burying a hatchet in the brain of his brother, Frank Watson, who was being held by two negroes. Watson is out on bond. The trouble was over a law suit about cattle.

Soima is to have paved streets.

HAD POOR EYESIGHT,

But He Proved His Marksmanship to be First Class.

News comes from New Hope of a curious accidental shooting. Rev. Brown, an aged minister, was out squirrel hunting and a man named Hornbuckle was in a tree gathering mulberries when the shooting occurred. Hornbuckle was hidden from view by the foliage when the minister, who can not see very plainly, approached looking for squirrels. Hornbuckle reached out his hand for a berry and the preacher below, thinking the member was a squirrel, opened fire. Hornbuckle's hand was so badly shot it had to be amputated.

RUSSIAN AND JAPANESE LOSSES

Reported in the Latest Dispatches from the Scene of War.

Refugees who continue to arrive from the southern part of the Liao Tung peninsula report daily fighting there and severe losses for both armies, but the reports are not confirmable officially.

The Russians destroyed the gunboat used at Talienwan against the Japanese during the battle of Nanshan Hill. The name of the gunboat is not known, but it is believed to have been the Bobr.

The Japanese on the night of May 28th made another attempt to block Port Arthur by sinking merchant vessels in the harbor entrance. The attempt was discovered through the operations of a searchlight and one Japanese gunboat and two torpedo boat destroyers were sunk. The merchantmen then retired.

Chinese say that the Japanese occupied Dalny without opposition on last Sunday.

The Russian Baltic fleet will leave in two detachments for the scene of war. The first will leave on June 4th and consists of four battleships. The other will leave at a later date, not yet determined.

It is reported that an agreement is drawn whereby Germany promises armed support to Russia if necessary to prevent England and the United States from attempting to submit the far eastern question to an international congress, and declares that the recent relaxation of anti-Jewish laws by Russia is the outcome of the desire of the minister of the interior to conciliate American opinion.

After a long period of quibbling the Korean cabinet has granted the Japanese government fishing rights off the west coast provinces of Korea.

A review of General Ma's troops has taken place at King Chun. There were 3,000 infantry, 5,000 cavalry.

QUAY LAID TO REST.

All Industry at Beaver Stopped During the Funeral.

The funeral of the late Senator Quay was held Tuesday at Beaver, Pa.

At 9 o'clock a private service was held at the house and shortly before 10 o'clock, under a guard of honor from the Beaver G. A. R. post, the remains were removed to the First Presbyterian church, where for three hours the public was given an opportunity to look for the last time upon the face of the dead senator.

Following the instructions of the senator, the coffin is plain as possible. It is trimmed with black cloth with handles of oxydized silver. On a silver plate is the inscription:

"Matthew Stanley Quay, born September 30, 1833. Died May 28, 1904."

For two hours the pulse of the entire Beaver valley ceased to throb while the remains of Matthew Stanley Quay were laid in their final sepulchre in the little Beaver cemetery.

NO LIVE WEEVILS LEFT.

Little Red Ant Proves a Destroyer of the Cotton Pest.

A special from San Antonio says:

Jose Cassiano, ex-county collector, who has several hundred acres of cotton in this county, is the bearer of good tidings concerning the work of red ants. Mr. Cassiano's fields less than a month ago were alive with boll weevils. Today, he says, there are no live weevils in his fields. The rows are strewn with dead weevils which the busy little red ants are carrying away by thousands. Mr. Cassiano says a close inspection failed to show a single weevil on a cotton plant anywhere in his fields. The ants are on the plants and in the rows between in countless thousands. They seem to have completed the slaughter of the weevils and are now engaged in carrying the corpses away, probably to be stored for food.

The result of the annual physical examinations of the midshipmen of the three classes now at the Annapolis academy shows that seventeen midshipmen are disqualified to continue in the service.

An average of 40,000 jessamine buds have been shipped from Texas daily for some time for decoration day purposes.

Tragedy at Anniston.

H. Frank Hornbuckle fired two shots at Luverna Dalton, dangerously wounding her, and then turning the revolver on himself sent a bullet crashing through his own brain, causing instant death.

The tragedy took place in a boarding house and people in the streets were first attracted by the shots and the screams of the woman. When the door was broken open the woman was found with wounds in her neck and shoulder and the man was dead. It is thought by the physicians that the woman's wounds will not prove fatal.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

A. C. Smith. J. O. Middleton.
Smith & Middleton,
Attorneys-at-Law.
Practice in All Courts.
Office 4th St, Opposite Court House,
CLANTON.

Physicians.

Dr. V. O. Campbelle,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office over Roper's Store.
CLANTON.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins,
Physician and Surgeon,
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office with Hopkins Drug Co.
CLANTON.

W. F. Middleton, M.D.,
Phsician and Surgeon,
CLANTON.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

Dentists.

Dr. A. B. Horn,
Dentist.
Office over Strock's Store.
CLANTON.

Office Days in the Following Towns.

Jemison—Wednesday and Thursday before the 2nd Sunday.

Thorsby—Wednesday and Thursday before the 3d Sunday Dr. Stabler's Office

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 8 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m.
CLANTON

Louisville & Nashville
RAILROAD.

THE DIRECT LINE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST, NORTH AND NORTHWEST.

In Effect November 1, 1903.

No. 9 D'ly Ex't S'dy A M	No. 3 D'ly P M	Read Down Leave	Read Up Ar.	No. 2 D'ly P M	No. 10 D'ly Ex't S'dy P M
6 10	3 40	Birmingham	13 10	7 15
6 53	4 19	Helena	11 30	6 34
7 32	5 01	Calera	10 46	5 50
7 56	5 28	Jemison	10 24	5 28
8 05	5 37	Thorsby	10 16	5 15
8 11	5 44	Lomax	10 10	5 08
8 19	5 51	CLANTON	10 02	5 01
8 32	6 05	Cooper	9 45	4 47
8 37	6 11	Verbena	9 39	4 43
8 44	6 19	Mt. Creek	9 30	4 30
9 24	6 51	Elmore	8 51	3 56
9 50	7 25	Montgomery	8 25	3 30

Drawing Room, Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars.

For rates and further information address G. Higgins, agent L. and N. R. R., Clanton, Ala.

FOR SALE.
760 acres of land, partly improved; also two sets mill rocks and fixtures. Alfred Popwell, Clanton, Alabama.

It is estimated that our courts issued 70,000 divorces during the past year. Divorce is growing at something like the rate of 6 per cent per

It is estimated that Andrew Carnegie's gifts for all purposes now total $100,000,000.

An Athletic Spouse.

I am not old-fashioned I trust;
I like to see damsels athletic;
I never could care for the langurous air
Of the maid who would pose as esthetic.
But, Mabel, since say it I must,
For the grievance I cherish is real,
Devotion to sport in a little bit short
Of the perfect young housewife's ideal.

You're a capital angler, it's clear—
If once a trout rises you hook it;
But when you have landed your fish
single-handed,
O, think you, my dear, you could cook it?
At tennis, your service, I hear,
Has quite the American cut on;
But, say, are you able to dress for the table
A cut off a shoulder of mutton?

Your muscles are firmer than steel—
If you only just tap one it hurts;
Of course, it's not wrong to be healthy and strong,
But can you sew buttons on shirts?
So hear what I say, for I feel
That the truth it were folly to shirk,
I want for my wife a helpmeet through life,
And I don't want a Terrible Turk.
—London Sketch.

THE BOSS HERDER'S REVENGE

"When it comes to exacting ample revenue for real or fancied injury give me the old-time cow man, and I'll show you a fellow who doesn't forgive or forget," said Bob Howard, who for the last fifteen years has been foreman of the I. D. brand in the Crow reservation in Montana. "I know one man that paid about $1,200 for a bottle of whisky simply because he failed to pay a little bet. Maybe it wasn't his fault that he didn't make good, but just the same he was held at fault and had to foot the bill. His name is Paul McCormick, and he lives out in Billings. He is a rich man now, said to be a millionaire, and he hasn't missed the $1,200. In fact, up to the present time he doesn't know how much he paid for a quart of 'red eye.'

"This little incident happened about a dozen years ago. Cattle were cheap. The price had dropped with great suddenness and McCormick had contracted to purchase 800 head of the Duck Bar brand on eight months' delivery. By the time for the fulfillment of the contract had arrived he found himself facing loss on account of the drop in values. He didn't want the cattle, so I have always understood, but the owner of the Duck Bar was obdurate and McCormick had to take the steers. The 800 were cut out of the main herd and swum across the Big Horn to the east side. The river is very swift at this point, as it is just where it emerges from the mountains under the tumbledown abode walls of old Fort C. F. Smith. It was July, and the melting snow from the mountains caused the river to run bankful.

"McCormick didn't accept the cattle with particular good humor, and he didn't take the jokes of the Duck Bar foreman with the gracious spirit that the West demands from the man who gets the worst of a bargain. The foreman was a big muscular chap named Billy Carter, now a good citizen out at Great Falls. One day Billy was looking across at McCormick's steers on the other side of the Big Horn.

"'The cattle swam the river in pretty good shape, Paul,' he said.

"'Yes,' snapped McCormick, 'a good deal better than some men I know could turn the trick.'

"'Are you hinting around that I couldn't swim it?' asked Billy.

"'I'll cover your pile that you can't do it,' replied McCormick.

"'There's just forty in my belt that says I can do it both ways,' said the cowboy.

"Well, they put up the money and Billy stripped. The water was icy

"'Are you hintin' around that I couldn't swim it?" asked Billy.

cold, for it wasn't more than a dozen hours from melting snow, and it hadn't had a chance to rise in temperature to such an extent that it wouldn't send a chill through your system every time you took a drink of it. Moreover, the current was like a millrace and was powerful enough to turn the wheels of all New England.

"Billy took the plunge amid the cheers of the cow punchers from both outfits. The instant he hit the water he was whirled around like a chip and was carried under the surface by the frothing eddies. But he came to the top and struck out again. We saw his head bobbing up and judging by his powerful stroke, he was good for a swim across the Atlantic in the winter season. He was carried about a mile down stream, but made the landing where the Big Horn makes a bend about half a mile below the fort. He rested for about an hour and the heat of the July sun soon took the chill out of his body. He borrowed some clothes from some of McCormick's men on the other side, got a horse and rode about two miles up stream. Then he took to the water again and landed about where he had started, tired but buoyed up by the thought that he had won his bet.

"McCormick didn't look particularly comfortable over the loss, for I believe he thought Billy would back out of the return swim. He made a little

"He came to the top and struck out again."

proposition as to the disposal of the money that put it up to Billy so that he couldn't get the coin and preserve his standing in that community.

"'Billy,' he said, 'of course this money is yours, but what do you say to taking the whole eighty and getting a little stuff for the boys? They look pretty dry, and I don't believe this will get any more than they can carry in good shape.'

"'All right,' said Billy. 'Count me in. I'll do it if you will furnish a buckboard and a man to go down to the post trader's at Fort Custer.'

"McCormick agreed to this. Fort Custer is down at the mouth of the Little Big Horn, about forty miles from where we were. The man lit out with the buckboard that very evening, and did not get back till the next afternoon. He had stopped at McCormick's camp, about four miles below that of the Duck Bar outfit, and when he arrived at the latter place there was one bottle of ginger ale and a quart bottle of whisky. He didn't give any explanations as to what had become of the rest, and he wasn't asked for any. Just the same, Billy Carter expressed a little surprise that his $80 hadn't purchased more whisky for his own outfit. He voiced his astonishment mildly for a cowboy, but the herders could tell from the snap of his eyes that he was doing a little thinking, too. In fact, he was so mild about it that the rest of us thought he was going to let the matter drop.

"But he hadn't the slightest intention of passing up the matter. He went over the Crow reservation the very next day and bought the best swimming horse he could find. There was nothing unusual in such an action and no comment was passed except upon the swimming qualities of the horse. That night he brought the Duck Bar cattle down to the west bank of the Big Horn and bedded them down in sight of the steers sold to McCormick, and then on the other side of the river.

"McCormick's main outfit was, as I have said, about four miles below, on the east side of the big Horn, but the cattle bought from the Duck Bar were in charge of half a dozen men, who split up the watches for night herding duty. McCormick was a rigid disciplinarian and insisted that close watch be kept over his cattle, for although there wasn't so much danger of a stampede, there was always fear of cattle thieves. But I don't think any of the men on night herd had any fears from the other side of the Big Horn. But that is just where they were mistaken.

"For two nights Billy Carter made two trips a night across the river. He stealthily cut out five or six head at a time and swam them to the other side. It was a risky piece of business. He knew McCormick's men were watchful, and if he was discovered it meant a whole lot of trouble for him. But by the time he had made four trips twenty-three head of steers were back with their old comrades in the Duck Bar and McCormick was more than a thousand dollars out. The count had been made, and of course it wasn't made over. The 'vent' brands hadn't been put on the cattle, and no one could prove that there had been any rustling.

"McCormick moved the herd on in a few days, and, so far as I know, he never discovered that his bunch was short—things were done on such an extensive scale in those days that a few head in or out didn't make so much difference. The Duck Bar outfit sent a lot of cattle to Kansas City that fall, and I happened to be there when they arrived. I noticed some three-year-old steers among them.

"'I thought you had sold all your three-yearolds to McCormick,' I said.

"'So we did,' said Billy with a smile. 'But there is one carload of them in this bunch, and that is just what McCormick had to pay for that bottle of whisky he sent us last July. I think this outfit can afford another drink on him. Come and join us.'"—New York Press.

AMERICA LEADS THE WORLD.

Immense Amount of Copper Mined in this Country.

Copper has become a great necessity of modern life in the development of mechanics. In the matter of supply the United States leads the world. The total production of copper last year was 1,110,000,000 pounds, of which 714,000,000 pounds were mined in this country. This represents an increased output of about four-fold since 1884. Spain and Portugal come next in line as copper producers, but they are far behind, their total being hardly more than one-eighth of that of this country. Mexico ranks third, but her yield also is small as compared with that of the United States. With the development of electrical science and the growth of applied electricity, a demand for copper arose which only the most tremendous energy has been able to meet. American skill and enterprise rose to meet the demand, and the copper output has increased by leaps and bounds and is still forging ahead. The copper mines in Mexico are being worked by American capital and labor, but the output is, of course, accredited to the country that produces it.—Portland Oregonian.

Twine from Wisconsin Wire Grass.

Wire grass twine is a new product of the Northwest, which promises to relieve the stringency of the supply of Manila twine during the wheat harvest season. The wire grass from which the twine is made is grown in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and other products as well as twine, are made from it. C. W. Crawford of Indianapolis, explained the nature of the new product:

"For the last ten years or more," he said, "the wheat harvest season has assumed the aspect of a bugbear to farmers who did not have a large supply of twine on hand. Without twine binders cannot run, and without binders it is impossible to harvest wheat.

"The only variety of twine that could be used in the past was the Manila variety, imported from the Philippine Islands. The supply of that always gave out before the harvest ended, and the lack of it often occasioned great loss. The new wire grass has proved to be equal, if not superior to Manila twine, and the farmers may rest easy now."

Compulsory Education.

Willie Moran is only twelve years of age, but as bright and shrewd as a boy many years his senior. He is naturally a good boy, but will not go to school. It was his hatred for everything that looks like a book that caused him to be hauled before Judge Murasky during a session of the Juvenile Court. The judge had a long talk with him and his mother, and then called a truant officer to him, gave him some whispered instructions and dismissed Willie. Out in the corridor Willie met a number of his chums. "Say, Willie," they asked him, "what did der Judge do ter yer? Did he send you to der home?" "Naw," answered the gamin, with a look of disgust. "Worse dan dat. He told der big cop wot arrested me to call at me mother's house every morning to take me to school."—San Francisco Call.

Evil of the Tenement House.

The worst phase of city life is found in the tenement houses, where whole families are crowded together in single rooms, and the most ordinary decency is impossible. Think of nine persons sleeping, eating and preparing food in a room eight feet by twelve, and scarcely high enough to allow its occupants to stand erect! Imagine the conditions of life where fourteen persons of both sexes and of ages varying from nine years to adult manhood and womanhood, herd together in a cellar without divisions or partitions of any kind. Hundreds of people are found living in tenement rooms with an average of six persons to a room.—Exchange.

The Journey.

There was danger enough, God, wot—
Treacherous path and pit,
Gray fog to blur the way to her
Where never a star was lit.

It was struggle and slip and strive
Through a hundred deaths and more;
O'er the trail unknown where I went alone
To lay my heart at her door.

And the welcome, the clasp, the kiss,
And the wonderful joy thereof—
They only know who have dared the foe
And have fought their way to love.
—Theodosia Garrison.

Phones in New York.

New York has 120,000 telephones.

DECREE OF TALMUDIC LAW.

Wives of Jewish Soldiers All Given Conditional Divorce.

According to the Jewish World, a very touching editorial appeared in a recent issue of the Hebrew Daily Hazefirah of Warsaw, Poland, where the editor, Mr. Sorofow, calls attention to the Talmudic law which requires every married man before going on the battlefield to grant a conditional divorce to his wife, that she may remarry if he does not return within a reasonable time after the end of the war.

The rabbis of Lodz have caused all the Jewish soldiers that left that city for the seat of war to grant such divorces, and Editor Sorolow suggests that the example of Lodz should be copied all over Russia.

Every married soldier, volunteer or reserve, registers with a rabbi his name, address, age, height, birthmarks, name of company and regiment he joins, and the rabbi keeps a record of same until the soldier returns from the war.

If a reasonable time after the close of the war elapses and the soldier does not return, he is counted among the lost and unidentified dead, and his wife obtains the divorce from that rabbi granting her the right to remarry.

WHEN LIQUORS WERE CHEAP.

Philadelphian Sighs at the Thought of Good Old Times.

"I seldom drink liquor myself," said an elderly man, who was in a reminiscent mood, "but when I consider the prices charged for drinks to-day compared with the prices asked in my youth, I can only wonder at the change that has taken place. Long before the Germantown railroad was built my father used to keep a tavern at the corner of Ninth and Green streets. It was near the old hay market, and in those days the locality was really a suburb. In looking through some of his papers the other day I came across some old documents, among which were several receipted bills from John Hoffman in 1826. Rye whisky was billed at 33 cents a gallon, applejack at 35, and Jamaica rum at 37½. Another bill shows a cherry brandy charged at 36 cents a gallon, and French brandy, presumably cognac, at $1. If we could buy the same brandy to-day at $10 a gallon I guess we'd be lucky. And imagine buying good rye whisky for 33 cents a gallon! Why, it almost drives me to drink just to think of it."—Philadelphia Record.

Radium to Illuminate Gun Sights.

The discovery of the latest use to which radium can be put—the illumination of gun sights, and the like at night time—seems to indicate that it will play an important part in warfare.

In gun sights, leveling instruments and telescopes there is what is called a "fiducial" mark, which is used to obtain a faithful result.

These marks of course are useless in the dark, and, though many ways of illuminating them have been tried, nothing has proved satisfactory.

Mr. Andrew A. Common of Eatonrise Faling, was the first to attempt to solve the difficulty by the use of radium, and his experiments were so successful that he applied for a patent. Unfortunately, he did not live to have it granted, but the complete specifications submitted by Mrs. Common, his widow and executrix, have just been accepted.—London Daily Mail.

When I Am Gone.

When I shall fold my hands in lasting sleep,
All done the tasks to me assigned,
I wonder, will there be someone to weep,
Or will the world seem not to mind,
When I am gone?

When I have passed away, will someone say,
As near my new-made grave he wanders by,
"Stern Death comes to us all, to each his day,"
And then pass coldly on without a sigh,
When I am gone?

When I have ceased my work, will there be none
To place a rose upon my tomb,
And speak a word of praise for some deed done,
Some kind word said, and mourn my doom
When I am gone?
—Thomas Curtis Clark.

Mal de Mer.

Seth Low, who is in Rome, narrated recently to an American, a good instance of the vicissitudes of sea travel in rough winter weather.

"When you cross the ocean December or January," said Mr. Low, "you are apt to be awakened in the middle of the night by the plaintiff voice of a child in the next stateroom crying:

"'Mamma! mamma! my dinner won't stay swallowed.'"

Odd Consulates.

Jacques Lebaudy, "Emperor of Sahara," who is now in Brussels with his "court," is establishing consular agencies in northern Europe. In a little Norwegian town called Fredriksvalen hangs a consular shield in front of a barber's shop, bearing the words: "Agence du Consulat de l'Empire de Sahara."

The Retvisan.

That Russian stranded battleship Retvisan, which has figured so prominently in the news from Port Arthur, is called after a Swedish battleship of sixty-four guns which was captured by the Russians at the battle of Wiborg in 1790. The word Retvisan means "justice."

Want New Grain Road.

The Manitoba grain growers' convention, held at Winnipeg recently, passed a resolution recommending the immediate construction of a railway to Hudson Bay as a highway of commerce to and from the Canadian Northwest.

A Machine That Talks

A talking machine that has created no little sensation is that just produced by Dr. R. Marage, a well known member of the French academy of medicine. It is an interesting device, which reproduces with perfect accuracy the sounds of the human voice, not, as in the case of the phonograph, by merely repeating words spoken by a person, but by a process which is purely mechanical from start to finish, and in which no word is spoken by any human being. The sounds are produced by a system of vibration. Attached to the machine are a series of plaster heads, five in all, representing the five vowels, a, e, i, o, u. They are each a perfect model of a person's mouth, fitted with pliable lips and perfect teeth. Air currents set in motion by the machine are made to pass through the dummy mouths, which are fitted with sirens.

Through his invention, Dr. Marage has discovered that the steam sirens used on board ships can be constructed as to imitate certain... Thus different phonetic sy... be obtained which could ... form an international al... this ingenious contrivance ... this wonderful instrument ... ble to see reflected in a ... the vocal chords of a sing...

By the same device, on... trace their action, and ... the note gets higher, the ... tween them becomes les... until when the top note is ... is almost closed. As the ... current expelled becomes ... opening decreases in size. ... as the force becomes less, ... er the aperture the grea... bration. This is how hu... get their singing voices. ... no mystery about it," de... Marage. "It is a purely ... process, based on known l... er mechanics."—Sketch.

Drown in Short Time

"The story frequently repeated about professional divers who have been able to remain under water for over two minutes is silly," Dr. Joseph Boehm tells me. "No one can remain under water that long without drowning, whether they are trained divers or not. At Navarino, where the sponge divers are reported to be able to remain under water three and four minutes, tests were made recently and resulted in conclusively proving that none of them remained down as long as a minute and a half. Ninety seconds seems a very long time to the watcher on shore, and it is about the limit of a diver's endurance under water. At Ceylon, where time tests were also made among the famous pearl divers, it was ascertained that few of them remained below the surface as long as a minute, and other tests made on the Red sea among the Arabs proved that a minute and a quarter was the longest they could endure without a fresh breath.

"On the coast of Engl... years ago a diver, a trained ... of the best on the coast ... for his endurance, went ... was pulled up so slowly wh... the signal that he was ... about two minutes and fi... He was drawn out of the ... sensible, with blood flowi... nose and ears, and it wa... long and arduous work t... covery from the effects o... minute stay under water w... Drowning is a quick de... though the water is kept ... lungs, insensibility will ex... minute, and complete uncon... in two. The stories of ... have been in the water f... being resuscitated are ge... takes or untrue. A man c... in the water five minu... coming to the surface se... and be restored to life."—Globe-Democrat.

Not Milton's Great Work

When William Morris was playing in "The Lost Paradise" some years ago the company happened to be booked in a Western town noted for its religious tendencies, where theatricals were viewed askance. Companies played there only when the exigencies of booking made it absolutely necessary.

"What was our surprise, therefore," said Mr. Morris, "when we got to the theater and were informed by the manager that the house was sold out.

"'Say,' he asked, 'what sort of a show is this, anyhow? Sort o' religious, ain't it?'

"Our manager outlined the plot to him. Never did I see such a transformation in a man's face; then, with one short, powerful expletive, he started down the street on a dead run.

"That night the theater was filled to overflowing—men with elongated locks and clerical bearing, a perfect symposium of parsons, pr... theologues. Every last o... held a book open before h... overture the orchestra pl... er, My God, to Thee," an... ence raised its voice in ch...

"Well, we didn't get far ... act before pandemonium ... One old preacher jump... footlights and called me ... in both Testaments, and ... were in neither.

"And what do you thin... about?

"The town was the sea... logical institution, and ev... son of them, and daught... ing the name of the play ... Paradise,' had come to he... from Milton's 'Paradise L...

"That was the way t... had billed it.

"We left on a freight ... and didn't play a return ... York Times.

On Muleback in Bolivia

C. J. Post, who is traveling through "unknown South America" for Harper's Magazine, writes in the March number of a dangerous ride through the mountains of Bolivia:

"We kept on ascending between winding walls," he says, "at length emerging on a narrow table land—the top of the cliffs we had seen from the decks of the Limari. A short distance over the level ground, and then from the farther edge we looked down on the flat, stony bottom of the Vitor Valley—a ragged gorge that wound a tortuous course through the desert. A narrow trail with short, sharp angles zigzagged down a steep gully to the bottom. The mules carefully picked their way down among the loose stones, halting inquiringly at times to choose perhaps a shorter ... seemed to their instinct ... gathered their hind legs ... their front hoofs sticking ... front, and slid down on ... in a cloud of dust, and ... them a small avalanche o... as they landed in a sectio... below. You sit back in y... all saddles in these part... pers and breastplates to ... sliding over the animal's ... go down or slipping off ... go up a mountain path ... watch the tossing line of ... the speculation forces ... consequences of a mul... That it is not all idle ... shown by the scattered ... low in the valley, bleache... degrees of dull white."—

Ghost of John Gear

In his coffin bed John Gear lay dead,
But John Gear's ghost stood near;
And the clergyman talked at the funeral
And the ghost bent low to hear;
The waiting ghost of the man who was dead,
He lingered to hear what the clergyman
said;
So the clergyman spake and the people
wept,
And the ghost looked on and the dead
man slept—
And the dead man slept.

"The man who is dead," the clergyman
said,
"Was the true, true salt of the earth;
Who shall gauge the good of his well spent life
And the measure of his worth?
For he was a man of the olden type,
Of the honest, noble, sterling stripe."
Shame fell on the ghost as he stood nigh,
For he alone knew these words were a lie—
These words were a lie.

And the ghost was afraid and was sore dismayed
As he heard the words of
And he thought of the w...
wrong he had done
Through, the stretch of ...
days;
And a woman's face that ...
with tears
Loomed up from the vast ...
ing years;
But the ghost, while he ...
praise of the priest,
Felt burn on his forehead ...
the beast—
The mark of the ...

And the priest preached on ...
of John
Heard naught but the ...
For the silent tears of he...
Were thunder in his ea...
And the priest still pres...
words of praise,
And the face loomed up ...
gone days;
The priest still praised ...
wept,
And the ghost passed on ...
man slept—
The dead man sle...
—Sam ...

...ILDREN OF HOLLAND.

...n of Holland, that queerest ...ces,
...y and happy, with bright ...faces.

...r them go clattering down ...e street
...er looking, quaint wooden ... on their feet.

...ildren are kept just as neat ...pin,
...is considered in Holland a

...y hide-and-seek, fly kites in ...r—
...er children you'll find anyw...

...own, by the dikes, they will ... like the wind;
... and amusements they're ... behind.

...olls, tops and marbles, and ...rts of toys,
...girls are as sturdy and gay ...e boys.

...p at their tasks till the work ... done;
... sport and they frolic in jol...fun.

...ter Dutch costumes or Yan...ogs, pray,
...ng lads and lassies are ready ...lay?
F. Berry in St. Nicholas.

...E "MORNING DORY."

... had a sailboat and mother ...t. Dorothy had no boat at ...she wept grievously. Father ...must certainly have a boat ...wn, and mother said she ...ve the best one of all—"and ...e, too," she added to father. ... abandoned dory, which had ...on the shore all winter was ...on the lawn and filled with ...en earth. A mast was placed ...ast should be, a bowsprit to ...ight out to sea, and rigging ... to climb on. The outside of ...was painted dark green.

... the following days mother ...thy put the dory in order. ... there were no sails to mend, ... were seeds to plant; there ...eck to holystone, but there ... weeds to pull. Dorothy had ... keep her busy when the lit...shoots began to spring up.

...ght, when father came back ...n, he brought a package. ... some friends of mine who ...ruise on your dory this sum...ain Dorothy," he said. ...iends" were black-eyed Su...bouncing-bet and sweet wil...Johnny-jump-up. Dorothy set ...sengers in the bow, where ...a fine view out to sea. ...tle green shoots that came ... and grew, and before long ...g glory had set a lookout at ...top of the mast.

...n't you name your ship the ...Glory?" suggested father.. Dorothy, although she was ...e, could not say the letter ...hat she answered was, "Yes, ...in' Dory." Father thought ...a fine name.

...sturtiums, too, grew rapidly. ...ew hawsers over the sides ...ed the boat to a big bunch ...ocks. The blossoms ran along ...prit and up the rigging like ...le sailors. Round the boat ... of blue forget-me-nots waves ...ing against the prow was a ...m of candytuft.

...morning father wore a flower ...y, and every day mother was ...unch for the table. All sum... the Morning Dory, with her ..., cruised in a blue forget-me-...decked with candytuft form; ...mmer long black-eyed Susan ...cing-bet and sweet william ...y-jump-up nodded and waved ... quarterdeck.—Mary Alden ...n the Youth's Companion.

...TO YOUNG COLLECTORS.

...s a growing difficulty in ...e copies of the early issues ... States stamps. The makers ...issues were not required by ...rument to be careful in rela...e perforating of them. The ...s of a brittle quality, very ...oken or injured by careless ... The postmasters who can...e stamps cared for nothing ... thoroughly obliterate them, ...ey used unnecessary quanti...s for this purpose. ...e things combined make it ... find used copies of the early ... our country in fine condi...ere were few collectors, and ... not many of these stamps ...d in unused condition. The ...ce of this state of things is ...e an increasing difficulty in ...these stamps in such condi...

Machine That Talks

chine that has created ion is that just pro-
Marage, a well known French academy of
an interesting device, s with perfect accur-
of the human voice,
se of the phonograph,
ting words spoken by
y a process which is al from start to fin-
h no word is spoken eing. The sounds are system of vibration.
machine are a series
s, five in all, repre-
vowels, a, e, i, o, u.
a perfect model of a fitted with pliable teeth. Air currents
by the machine are through the dummy
are fitted with sirens.
invention, Dr. Marage that the steam sirens used on board ships can structed as to imitate cer
Thus different phonetic sy be obtained which could form an international sig
this ingenious contrivance this wonderful instrument ble to see reflected in a the vocal chords of a sing

By the same device, one trace their action, and see the note gets higher, the s tween them becomes less until when the top note is r is almost closed. As the fo current expelled become str opening decreases in size. H as the force becomes less. T er the aperture the greate bration. This is how hum get their singing voices.
no mystery about it," dec Marage. "It is a purely m process, based on known law
er mechanics."—Sketch.

Drown in Short Time

frequently repeated nal divers who have main under water for ly silly," Dr. Joseph
No one can remain
long without drown-
ey are trained divers Navarino, where the re reported to be able r water three and four were made recently conclusively proving em remained down as e and a half. Ninety a very long time to the re, and it is about the er's endurance under ion where time tests
e among the famous
was ascertained that mained below the surs a minute, and other
he Red sea among the
that a minute and a e longest they could
a fresh breath.

"On the coast of Engla years ago a diver, a trained of the best on the coast, for his endurance, went was pulled up so slowly whe
the signal that he was un about two minutes and five
He was drawn out of the sensible, with blood flowing nose and ears, and it was long and arduous work th covery from the effects of minute stay under water wa Drowning is a quick dest though the water is kept lungs, insensibility will ens minute, and complete uncons in two. The stories of p have been in the water fiv being resuscitated are gene takes or untrue. A man co in the water five minute coming to the surface seve and be restored to life."— Globe-Democrat.

t Milton's Great Work

m Morris was playing Paradise" some years
y happened to be book-rn town noted for its encies, where theatrired askance. Con pan-only when the exigen-
g made it absolutely

ur surprise, therefore,"
s, "when we got to the ere informed by the
he house was sold out.
sked, 'what sort of a nyhow? Sort o' religi-

r outlined the plot to ld I see such a trans-man's face; then, with werful expletive, he
the street on a dead

the theater was filled men with elongated
ical bearing, a perfect symposium of parsons, pre theologues. Every last on held a book open before hi overture the orchestra pla er, My God, to Thee," an ence raised its voice in cho

"Well, we didn't get far act before pandemonium b
One old preacher jumpe footlights and called me in both Testaments, and were in neither.

"And what do you think about?

"The town was the seat logical institution, and eve son of them, and daughte
ing the name of the play, Paradise,' had come to hea
from Milton's 'Paradise L

"That was the way th had billed it.

"We left on a freight and didn't play a return York Times.

n Muleback in Bolivia

ho is traveling through th America" for Har-
, writes in the March dangerous ride through of Bolivia:

on ascending between
" he says; "at length narrow table land—the s we had seen from the mari. A short distance ground, and then from ge we looked down on ottom of the Vitor Val-gorge that wound a torhrough the desert. A ith short, sharp angles
n a steep gully to the mules carefully picked wn among the loose
inquiringly at times to choose perhaps a shorter seemed to their instinct fo gathered their hind legs their front hoofs sticking front, and slid down on t in a cloud of dust, and ca them a small avalanche o
as they landed in a section below. You sit back in y
all saddles in these parts pers and breastplates to sliding over the animal's go down or slipping off be go up a mountain path—
watch the tossing line of the speculation forces consequences of a mul
That it is not all idle sp shown by the scattered low in the valley, bleache degrees of dull white."—

Ghost of John Gear

John Gear lay dead,
's ghost stood near;
oun talked at the funeral
bent low to hear;
st of the man who was near what the clergyman
n spake and the people looked on and the dead dead man slept
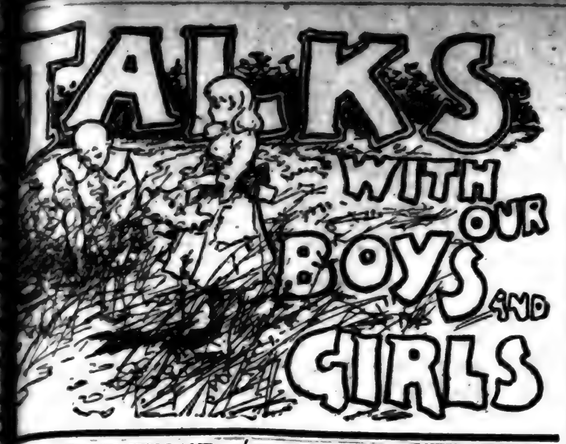
is dead," the clergyman
true salt of the earth;
ge the good of his well
ure of his worth"
an of the olden type,
noble, sterling stripe."
e ghost as he stood nigh,
new these words were a
ords were a lie.
was afraid and was sore
As he heard the words of
And he thought of the w
wrong he had done
Through the stretch of
days;
And a woman's face that
with tears
Loomed up from the vast
ing years;
But the ghost, while he
praise of the priest,
Felt burn on his forehead
the beast—
The mark of the
And the priest preached on
of John
Heard naught but the w
For the silent tears of her
Were thunder in his ears
And the priest still preac
words of praise,
And the face loomed up
gone days;
The priest still praised
wept,
And the ghost passed on
man slept—
The dead man slept
—Sam



CHILDREN OF HOLLAND.

n of Holland, that queerest
es,
y and happy, with bright faces.

r them go clattering down
e street er looking, quaint wooden s on their feet.

dren are kept just as neat pin,
is considered in Holland a y hide-and-seek, fly kites in

—
er children you'll find way-
e

own, by the dikes, they will like the wind;
and amusements they're
r behind.

oils, tops and marbles, and
rts of toys,
girls are as sturdy and gay
e boys.

p at their tasks till the work done;
y sport and they frolic in joifun.

ier Dutch costumes or Yanings, pray,
ng lads and lassies are ready lay?
F. Berry in St. Nicholas.

E "MORNING DORY."

had a sailboat and mother
t. Dorothy had no boat at she wept grievously. Father must certainly have a boat wn, and mother said she ve the best one of all—"and e, too," she added to father.
y abandoned dory, which had g on the shore all winter was on the lawn and filled with n earth. A mast was placed mast should be, a bowsprit to ight out to sea, and rigging to climb on. The outside of was painted dark green.
the following days mother
thy put the dory in order.
there were no sails to mend,
were seeds to plant; there ck to holystone, but there weeds to pull. Dorothy had keep her busy when the lit-shoots began to spring up.
ht, when father came back
n, he brought a package.
some friends of mine who ruise on your dory this sum-ain Dorothy," he said.
eads" were black-eyed Su-bouncing-bet and sweet wil-Johnny-jump-up. Dorothy set engers in the bow, where a fine view out to sea.
le green shoots that came and grew, and before long s glory had set a lookout at top of the mast.
on't you name your ship the Glory?" suggested father..
Dorothy, although she was
e, could not say the letter
at she answered was, "Yes, in' Dory." Father thought a fine name.
sturtiums, too, grew rapidly.
w hawsers over the sides
ed the boat to a big bunch
ks. The blossoms ran along grit and up the rigging like le sailors. Round the boat of blue forget-me-nots waves ng against the prow was a n of candytuft.
morning father wore a flower
, and every day mother was nch for the table. All sum-the Morning Dory, with her cruised in a blue forget-meecked with candytuft foam;
mmer long black-eyed Susan cing-bet and sweet william y-jump-up nodded and waved quarterdeck.—Mary Alden
the Youth's Companion.

TO YOUNG COLLECTORS.

a growing difficulty in see copies of the early issues States stamps. The makers issues were not required by ument to be careful in relae perforating of them. The s of a brittle quality, very ken or injured by careless
The postmasters who cane stamps cared for nothing thoroughly obliterate them, ey used unnecessary quanti-
k for this purpose.
se things combined make it find used copies of the early our country in fine condi-ere were few collectors, and not many of these stamps
d in unused condition. The ce of this state of things is be an increasing difficulty in these stamps in such condition as is acceptable to collectors who are at all particular as to the looks of their albums.

There are vast numbers of United States stamps in poor and ordinary condition. These many collectors take to fill the spaces in their albums until they can secure stamps of finer quality. This seems, on the whole, to be a mistake, for the possession of a specimen, even though it be a poor one causes a collector to neglect to secure another of the same stamp.

The desire to fill spaces that are vacant is greater than to improve those that are not properly filled. The best thing for the young collector, if he wishes to have a really pleasing album, is to put nothing into its spaces but unused, lightly canceled, clean copies of the stamps which he selects. The filling of the album properly will be appreciated within a few years by those who care more for United States stamps than for the issues of foreign countries, since the growing demand will make it even more difficult than it now is to obtain fine specimens. — From the Stamp Page in St. Nicholas.

A BRAVE WOMAN.

It was midwinter. The people were about to keep a great holiday. They had put up tents on the ice, and all the villagers, both young and old, were assembled in the open air. Some were on skates and some rode in sleighs. Music sounded in the tents, the young folks danced and the old people sat around and talked. Thus the day passed until the full moon rose. Only one poor old woman was left behind in the village. She was sick and infirm, and could not walk; but, as her house stood upon a dike, she could watch the sport from her bed. Toward evening she discovered, as she looked out over the sea, in the west, a small white cloud just rising above the distant horizon. Immediately a terrible anxiety seized her. She had been to sea with her husband, and understood the weather signs very well. She thought:

"In an hour the tidal wave will be here, a storm will burst upon them and all will be lost."

The she shouted, calling as loud as she could. But there was no one in her house beside herself and the neighbors were all upon the ice. Nobody heard her. In the meantime the cloud became larger and blacker. A few minutes more and the tidal wave would come, and the storm would burst upon them. Then she gathered the little strength she had, and crept on her hands and knees out of bed to the stove. Fortunately, she found a brand left. She threw it into the house as fast as she could, to save herself. In a few minutes the little house was in flames and the glow of the fire could be seen from the ice.—Annie Wiskotchill, in the Brooklyn Eagle.

REGARDING MISQUOTATIONS.

One of the rules that even young writers and readers should bear in mind is this: "Verify your quotations" And, if possible, go to the original source rather than to rely on other authority. The reason for the rule is easy to see. Usually a quotation becomes popular because it is worth while, and to misquote is often to lose the value of the words. Thus people often say "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing." But that is not true. All knowledge is worth having, even a little. They mean "half-knowledge," or incorrect knowledge, which is not really knowledge at all! What Pope wrote was: "A little learning is a dangerous thing"; and what he meant was that a little learning makes one presumptuous, while thorough learning gives humility—an idea likewise set forth in the saying that wisdom begins with the feeling that one is ignorant.

So, verify your quotations for fear you may put into currency a counterfeit note.

At the same time it is to be remembered that some few quotations have been improved by changes introduced by those who have misquoted. These improvements are rare, however, and it is safest to retain the old forms where there is any doubt.

Another usual misquotation besides that mentioned is—

The quality of mercy is not strained;
It falleth as the gentle dew from heaven—

which you may correct for yourself, and then may inquire whether it is likely that the popular change is an improvement when the nature of dew is understood.—From "Books and Reading" in St. Nicholas.

Freight From Pittsburg.

Pittsburg originates the largest freight tonnage of any city in the world; more than New York, Chicago and Philadelphia combined.

MONEY SEEKERS' ODD FINDS.

WHERE FORTUNES HAVE BEEN FOUND UNEXPECTEDLY.

200,000 Coins in a River Bed—Buried Treasure of William the Conqueror Found—Money Usually Discovered by Accident Where Search Fails.

Hidden treasure has an irresistible attraction for the human race. On the slightest hint from seer or fortune teller some one is sure to dig where the buried treasure is supposed to be, and disappointment does not discourage another attempt when another "tip" is received. Very few have ever come upon hidden treasure, and the few have found it unexpectedly.

Take, for instance, that romantic unearthing of 200,000 coins in the bed of the River Dove, in Staffordshire, 72 years ago. Some workmen were engaged in removing a mudbank which had formed in the center of the river when one of them was amazed to find on raising his spade that it glistened with silver coins.

Attracted by the digger's exclamations of astonishment and delight, his fellow workmen hurried up, and in a moment half a dozen men were scrambling and fighting for the treasure, feverishly filling their pockets, their hats and beer cans with silver coins, which were worth their weight in gold, for they were of the time of the first two Edwards and had lain in the river for five hundred years. That the bulk of the treasure trove was ultimately claimed by the Duchy of Lancaster matters little, for its finder had already appropriated scores of thousands of the precious disks.

Only two years later a few village boys were playing at marbles on Sunday afternoon in a field near Beaworth, in Hampshire, when one of them caught sight of a piece of lead projecting from the pasture. Tugging at the strip of metal he disclosed a hole, and through the exposed opening he saw a pile of glittering coins, bright as if fresh from the mint. To fill his pockets and those of his playmates was the work of a few moments, and so little did the youngsters appreciate the value of their discovery that on their way home they amused themselves by flinging the coins into the village pond.

Uutimately nearly seven thousand coins were recovered from the buried treasure chest, and they proved to be of the reigns of William I. and William II. and in a wonderful state of preservation.

A similar discovery was made near Wethersby, in Yorkshire, when a heavy cart passing over a country road stuck fast in a rut, and on being released disclosed a number of silver coins, which had escaped from the burst lid of a chest hidden under the roadway. It was assumed that the chest of coins had been buried there in the perilous days of the civil war, and that the gradual sinking of the road and the weight of the passing cart had at last brought it again to the light of day.

In the year 1846 a most valuable deposit of treasure was revealed in the strangest fashion at Cuerdale, near Preston, in Lancashire. Some laborers were digging near the banks of the River Ribble when the pickaxe of one of them struck something harder than earth and more yielding than rock. On removing his pick he found transfixed at the end of it a large ingot of silver. Plying his tool with renewed vigor he soon discovered wealth consisting of scores of silver ingots weighing in all over 1,000 ounces.

Similar fortune befell a couple of laborers who were digging in a ditch near Glastonbury, in Somersetshire, when they unearthed an ancient chest full of coins of the days of the Stuarts. They took samples of the coins to a neighboring antiquary of wealth, who greatly pleased, purchased a score or more acres of land adjacent to the lucky ditch. And here the irony of fortune is well illustrated, for although the antiquary spent thousands of pounds in buying and excavating his land, not a single coin was discovered beyond those which a stroke of the spade had revealed.

This is the kind of trick fortune loves to play on designing man. Not very many years ago, when the thatched roof of an ancient cottage near Ripon was removed a rich nest of five guinea gold pieces was discovered hidden away under it. When the news of this treasuretrove came to the ears of a neighboring land owner he was so fired by the lust of gold that he forthwith purchased a dozen similar cottages in the district and had them all pulled down, but not a solitary coin was found in exchange for the $3,000 the experiment cost him.—Boston Transcript.

CAPTURING GIBRALTAR.

How the English First Obtained the Famous Stronghold.

In connection with the interesting experiments recently carried out by the Channel Squadron to test the boasted impregnability of Gibraltar, it is worth recalling the circumstances of the comparatively easy capture of the celebrated fortress from the Spaniards.

This feat had been deemed impossible by even the lion hearted Blake, but in 1704 Admiral Sir George Rooke, assisted by Sir Cloudesley Shovel, determined to make the attempt.

A council of war was held on July 17, and on the 21st a combined Anglo-Dutch fleet of sixty ships entered the bay.

As a preliminary operation, 1,800 marines, unler the Prince of Hesse-Darmstadt, were landed on the isthmus which connects the Rock with the mainland, and thus isolated the garrison.

A summons to surrender was then sent to the Spanish governor, who replied that he would bury himself and the garrison beneath the ruins rather than surrender the post intrusted to him by his royal master.

The British commander forthwith completed his preparations for the attack, and at daybreak on July 23 commenced what was perhaps the most tremendous cannonade witnessed up till that time.

It was computed that in five hours 1,500 shots were fired on the fortifications, and the Spaniards were driven from the South Mole batteries. Boats were at once ordered out to seize these, they forming the key to the position, and this operation was promptly performed by Captains Whitaker, Hicks and Jumper, of the Nottingham, Yarmouth and Lenox.

The retreating Spaniards, however, had mined the place, with the result that two officers and forty men were killed and sixty wounded.

The gallant seamen, undismayed, made good their hold, and advancing stormed a strong redoubt between the Mole and the town, thus completely hemming in the garrison. Admiral Rooke then sent in a second summons and the governor surrendered with the honors of war.

The capture of this world-famous fortress cost the victors the comparatively small loss of sixty killed and 225 wounded, and from that day onward the British ensign has floated over the "Rock."

The French and Spaniards made desperate and repeated attempts to recapture Gibraltar during the years 1780-81-82, the garrison at one period being beleaguered for six months, but British fleets on each occasion successfully effected relief.

DROWNING IS A QUICK DEATH.

For Man Can't Live Under Water More Than Two Minutes.

"The story frequently repeated about professional divers who have been able to remain under water for over two minutes is silly," Dr. Joseph Boehm tells me. "No man can remain under water that long without drowning, whether they are trained divers or not. At Navarino, where the sponge divers are reported to be able to remain under water three and four minutes, tests were made recently, and resulted in conclusively proving that nome of them remained down as long as a minute and a half. Ninety seconds seems a very long time to the watcher on shore, and it is about the limit of a diver's endurance under water. At Ceylon, where time tests were also made among the famous pearl divers, it was ascertained that few of them remained below the surface as long as a minute, and other tests made on the Red Sea among the Arabs proved that a minute and a quarter was the longest they could endure without a fresh breath.

"On the coast of England several years ago a diver, a trained diver, one of the best on the coast, renowned for his endurance, went down and was pulled up so slowly when he gave the signal that he was under water about two minutes and five seconds. He was drawn out of the water insensible, with blood flowing from his nose and ears, and it was only after long and arduous work that his recovery from the effects of that two-minute stay under water was assured. Drowning is a quick death. Even though the water is kept out of the lungs, insensibility will ensue in one minute and complete unconsciousness in two. The stories of people who have been in the water five minutes being resuscitated are generally mistakes or untrue. A man could not be in the water five minutes without coming to the surface several times and be restored to life."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

AFTER THE SALMON.

Not the Expensive Sport in Newfoundland That Many Suppose.

Acording to popular belief, salmon fishing is of necessity a sport for the rich alone, no man of even moderate means presuming so much as to think of indulging in it, says Country Life in America. In the British Isles and other parts of northern Europe this is undoubtedly true. Even in this country and in Canada in the last few years the salmon waters have been taken by clubs and individuals, so that now the fishing is restricted to the few, but Labrador and Newfoundland are left free and moderately accessible to the fishing public living in the Eastern states; and improved traveling facilities have made the trip to Newfoundland a matter of ease, so the number of sportsmen visiting that island is increasing enormously. Fortunately the island is large—more than 300 miles each way—and the rivers very numerous, so that it will be some time before the country is crowded. Thus far only a very few of the most accessible rivers have been fished in at all. Along the east coast and the northern peninsular are many rivers that have never known a fisherman. At the present time these are rather difficult of access by land, it is true, but by chartering a small vessel fishermen can, at moderate cost, visit the most remote of them and be sure of almost unlimited salmon.

FARM AND GARDEN

CHERRY GROWING.

W. C. Reed of Vincennes, spoke at the Southern Illinois Horticultural Society meeting on "Cherries," saying that this fruit would be an absolute failure on low ground where water remains near the roots, as cherry trees "cannot stand stand wet feet." Sandy or well drained soil is best for cherries. One year old trees are best for transplanting; Mahaleb stock has the advantage over Mazzard in that it will come into bearing much younger and yield larger profits in the market. About 95 per cent. of the trees planted in this country are on Mahaleb roots. The cherry should be sprayed from the time it is set out to keep the tree perfectly healthy and get a vigorous growth; the same spray as that used for the apple may be applied to the cherry. Tough cultivation yields the best results, and blue grass sod in cherry orchards is a serious mistake. Cultivation should commence early and continue until after the fruit is picked. The Montmorency and Richmond were named as the varieties most favored in Illinois and Indiana. The growing of sweet cherries has not been found profitable in Illinois, owing to the fact that California can grow them so much better, and while the quality of the California fruit is not so good, yet for commercial purposes it has the advantage of better keeping qualities.

WHEN THE DUCKLINGS ARE HATCHED.

Ducks lay very early in the morning and should be kept in their pen until they have deposited their eggs. If permitted to have their liberty they will drop one half of them along the streams and in the meadows where they roam. If they have free range, feed lightly in the morning. Be sure to feed them regularly every night, so they will not forget to come home. The early broods of ducklings should be hatched under hens. They do much better to be confined for a week or two in a moderate sized pen than to have their liberty. Make a pen around the coop by setting foot-wide boards on edge. Set a panful of water by them while eating and take it away as soon as they have finished their meal. Feed often—six times a day when they are young. Put gritty sand in the water. Keep young ducks from puddling and swimming in cold water. Remember this.

CARE OF HARNESS.

This should concern the farmers in spring, and all harness should be put in order before the work begins. It is highly important that harness be oiled at least once a year. Twice would do better. Unbuckle every strap and wash thoroughly, using warm, soft water and good soap. A stiff brush is better than a sponge to take off the gum and dirt. After drying, apply some good black oil with a rough cloth, using as much as the leather will absorb. Let the oil dry in well in a warm room, but not too near a fire or in strong sunshine. After the leather has absorbed all it will, wipe the straps, mountings and buckles with a piece of flannel, to remove the superfluous oil Then with a small sponge apply lightly to all parts a leather dressing to give a nice glossy appearance. Any stitching or repairs should be done before the oil is applied. After the harness has been put in condition if it is sponged over two or three times a week with a good harness soap, it will always look nice, be easier for the horses and wear many years longer.

WOOD ASHES.

Unbleached wood ashes are rich in potash, varying in value according to the hardness of the wood burned. Hickory ashes are more valuable than basswood. Besides, potash ashes contain lime and a little phosphoric acid. Most clay soils have sufficient potash. Sandy soils need potash more than other soils. Do not mix wood ashes with any kind of manure before applying to the soil.

WOODMAN'S MAUL.

The easiest way to make an old style woodman's maul from a straight stick to drive wedges with is to cut the tree high enough to make the maul out the stump. Shape and hew the handle of the maul, leaving a piece long enough for the head of the maul full size. When the handle is hewn to the size wanted, cut the stump close to the ground. It is less than half the work than it is to cut a piece from the tree before shaping the maul.—The Epitomist.

CARE OF THE ORCHARD.

Spraying the trees and vines should be made a portion of the routine work, whether disease appears or not, as a protection to the neighborhood. An orchard may become affected and not show such diseased conditions until the next year, when more work will then be necessary to keep the trees from attack or injury.

HINTS ABOUT FLOWERS.

Sow mignonette for late flowering. Water the tuberous begonias well during drought. Keep the dead flowers cut out of the herbaceous borders. Stake, tie up and pinch back the chrysanthemums for fall blooming.

CORN FOR THE COWS.

For every six cows plant four to five acres in ensilage corn. Generally speaking, three tons of silage are equal in feeding value to one ton of hay, and the equivalent of four tons of hay can be produced on one acre.

TRIMMING THE TREES.

First class fruit in first class shape will probably create an inquiry for more of the same kind, says Delaware Farm and Home. Young trees should not be trimmed too liberally, as too much foliage taken from the tree weakens its feeding power.

GETTING FERTILE EGGS.

It is impossible to get the same fertility of eggs during the winter and early spring as we get later on. The natural conditions are against it, but by adopting proper methods we can secure good results. Winter fertility calls for good housing, good food, good care. Practically what will induce hens to lay in winter will be about right for fertility—with a few additions.

A REMARKABLE COW.

A brown Swiss cow, Fluorine, has made a remarkable record in milk and butter production lately at the Cornell (N. Y.) station, giving 475.1 pounds of milk in seven days, which made 23.1 pounds of butter.

THE ODOR OF MILK.

As milk and butter are easily affected by odors or flavors, it is possible to get some very piquant results by placing delicately scented flowers or fruit in the refrigerator with them. Oranges give a delicious flavor to butter.

WINDOWS ON BARNS.

Windows, and lots of them, on the sunny side of the cow barn, is the sovereign preventative of tuberculosis and lots of other mean things.

CLEAN OUT THE COOPS.

Don't neglect cleaning out those coops once a week. The little ones will thank you for your kindness and grow much more rapidly.

YOUNG TREES THE BEST.

Thrifty young trees are more apt to live than larger ones. Their roots are smaller and more apt to be all taken in transplanting. Many an unoccupied fence corner might be growing a tree if set there. In a few years it would be a source of beauty and comfort.

A Test.

The telephone bell in an uptown residence rang a few evenings ago and a young woman, who was expecting a call, rushed to answer it, being sure that one of her admirers had called her up.

"Is this——?" demanded a voice, repeating the number of the 'phone in question.

"Yes," replied the girl.

"Well," continued the voice, "we are testing the wire. Will you please draw a long breath and say, very plainly, 'I will be good?'"

She obeyed. "I will be good," she said.

"A little slower, and a little more distinctly, now, please."

"I—will—be—good," said the young woman trying her best.

"No, that's not right at all," corrected the voice. "We must fix that wire, I guess. Now, make one extra effort and say it again."

The girl caught her breath. "I will be good!" she shouted.

"You will, will you?" laughed the voice. "Well I'm glad to hear you say so. You were decidely unpleasant the last time I called."

And just then the man at the other end of the wire "rang off."

Now the young woman is trying to discover just which of her admirers played such a detestable joke on her. —Philadelphia Press.

Music for Russian Workmen.

"The laboring man in Russia, though in rougher surroundings than found in other countries for the same class, has undoubtedly compensations which serve to make his life happier than could be imagined under such conditions," says a writer in Social Service. "One is love of music, cultivated and enlarged by the fine rendering of the anthems and chants of the services of the churches. The choral singing of men and boys in some of the smaller hamlets is indeed so rich and finished in style as to be a constant source of wonder to all travelers. Soothing and delightful also is the delicious melody of the church bells which render hourly their music; and musical as well as cheering even the tinkling of the bells on the harness of the horses. No whip is needed by the drivers who urge their beautiful ponies only by the exhilarating sound of national or popular airs sung in their rich chanting tones."

Dainty cut fringe that costs but five cents a yard is much used as edge finishes on curtains and bedspreads.

THE UNION.

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf

SPECIAL OFFER.

The Yellow Jacket, published biweekly at Moravian Falls, N. C., is an extremely bright, readable paper. We will send the UNION and YELLOW JACKET for one year for $1 in advance. This is a combination that ought to get every good man in Chilton county on our list, and is only open for a short time. tf

At the meeting of the populist executive committee of Chilton county on March 15, 1904, the following resolution was adopted by the committee:

"Be it resolved, That we, the people's party executive committee of Chilton county, do hereby indorse the UNION, a paper published in Clanton, Ala., as our official organ tf

OUR CLUBBING LIST.

The Union and Yellow Jacket, both for one year $1.00
The Union and Weekly Montgomery Advertiser 1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution 1.50
tf

Several hundred subscribers will get this paper with a big red cross on it. It means that you owe us a dollar and we owe it to some other fellows. Some small fellow will make a big kick about this red cross and will stop his paper, and some clever fellows will come in and pay up like a white man always does, and tell us they had just forgotten all about it. tf

DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?

IMPORTANT

THE PEOPLE'S PRIMARY WILL BE HELD ON TUESDAY, JULY *26*th, 1904.

A PAINFUL SMILE.

The democratic executive committee of this county met on May 24th, and among other acts unanimously passed a resolution as follows: "Resolved, That this committee is highly gratified and cheered by the reports from all over the county indicating success in the November election." Now wouldn't that jar a skyscraper building? Dickens' Mark Tapley isn't a circumstance to that committee when it comes to being cheerful at a time when sensible mortals would be downcast. Not a ghost of a show to elect a single county officer, and yet "highly gratified and cheered." They whistle pretty loud when they pass the graveyard to keep their courage up. Maybe, though, we should go to Ananias for the proper simile.

GOLD MINE IN CHILTON COUNTY.

The gold industry of our county is "on the boom." Colonel M. B. Hillyard, of New Orleans, who has been spending some time in beat 3, has gone back to New Orleans with many hundred pounds of gold rock which will be crushed and assayed. He has been investigating the gold mine found by Martin Franklin on Alex Glasscock's land. Tom Hand, of Jemison, formerly held an option on this land, but he gave it up, and it was taken by Martin Franklin and Judge Honeycutt., who interested the Hon. H. Dudley Coleman, chief melter and coiner in the United States mint at New Orleans, in the find, and he sent Colonel Hillyard up here as his representative to report on the matter. The colonel says "that the pyritous gold found in Alabama gets richer the deeper you go," and as they judge the rock they have at 25 feet to run about one hundred dollars a ton. It will sure be a bonanza. Mr. Coleman intends putting up a stamp mill and get out the gold in a business-like way. So you see, there is wealth in the hills of Chilton, and with a few more men like Martin Franklin (who has stuck to his post in spite of all ridicule) it will be brought to light.

ALABAMA'S VULCAN.

The Commercial Club, of Birmingham, headed by their indefatigable president, Hon. T. M. Jackson, have gotten out a souvenir statuette which is a miniature reproduction of Alabama's Vulcan that is now being admired by thousands of visitors to the fair at St. Louis. The original is over 50 feet high, of iron; the statuette is about nine inches in height, bronzed and an ornament fit for any parlor. The figure is on exhibition at THE UNION office now, where all can see it and place their orders at $1 each, delivered in Clanton, and each purchaser can feel that he or she is helping to pay for Alabama's exhibit, and should feel proud that they can contribute their mite toward bringing their state the notice she merits.

GOOD IF TRUE.

It is reported that a United States entomologist has discovered an ant in Guatemala that lives on the boll weevil. But before they bring the ants to our country they had better find out what other habits they have. "The cure might be worse than the disease."

WILLIAM T. MAHAN.

Mr. Mahan, who announces for commissioner to represent the fourth district in this issue is so well known to many of us in the county that an introduction seems superfluous. He has lived in Chilton all his life (some 56 years) and is a farmer by occupation and has made a success in that line. He is highly respected in his community as a man of integrity and firmness, and has been a prominent and sincere adherent of the people's party ever since its organization. As a gentleman said to us today in talking over Mr. Mahan's candidacy: "He is an all right man and would make a good commissioner."

ANOTHER ONE.

Jesse D. Barnes is another republican office holder in whose troubles appear to be thickening. Some months ago he was appointed postmaster at Andalusia upon the recommendation of the federal referees. Barnes had been a deputy marshal and participated in working up peonage cases. An examiner of the department of justice found that some of the deputy's accounts as presented were fraught with fraudulent charges. Judge Asa Stratton, who some years ago was commissioner of the federal court, issued a warrant against Barnes and had him arrested for using the Ozark postoffice in a fraudulent get-rich-quick scheme, against which the department issued a fraud order.

Judge Stratton held Barnes to bail and the grand jury indicted him. United States District Attorney Warren Reese had the indictment dismissed without trial. These facts were brought to the attention of the federal referees before Barnes' appointment as postmaster at Andalusia.

A few weeks ago Barnes was arrested for assaulting his step-daughter. The citizens of Andalusia united in a petition to the postmaster general, begging in the name of decency for Barnes' removal. The women of the town are particularly earnest in their protest against Barnes' remaining in the postoffice. Barnes is now under bond to be tried in June for the assault. R. H. Watkins.
—Montgomery Advertiser.

FOURTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama (Chilton County Branch).

In the four years ending February 8, 1904, that this association has been in existence in this county, it has levied sixteen assessments to pay 24 losses, viz.: Lightning, 1; wind, 3; fire, 20. The TOTAL of the sixteen assessments was $2.24 3-4 per hundred, being an average YEARLY assessment of 56 1-5 cents on each hundred dollars of insurance, which is a fraction over one-half of one per cent per annum

ALEX G. DAKE,
President Chilton Co. Branch.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 26th day of February, 1904.

S. M. ADAMS,
tf Judge of Probate.

JUDSON STROCK'S LETTER.

Johnson grass, sorghum, groundpeas, chufas and a general line of seeds.

Baseballs, marbles, corquet sets, also violins, guitars and mandolins. Our balls are guaranteed.

Shoes! Well, our shoes talk for themselves. We handle only one brand, "Red Seal," and our prices are very reasonable.

P. S.—We will be glad to compare prices with any one.

Yours very truly,
JUDSON STROCK.
tf Clanton, Ala.

J. B. Downs buys Crossties for cash, also is licensed to buy up Court Certificates. Call on him when you have anything in that line to sell. tf

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. ALEX G. DAKE.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

A. C. MIMS.

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

SAM W. COLLINS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

L. A. CALLOWAY.

FOR TREASURER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. WILEY LITTLEJOHN.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ROBERT M. SMITH.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ANDREW J. WILSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904 W. C. ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

H. A. J. HARRIS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904.

ENOCH H. ADAMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. BICE.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary, July 26, 1904. DANIEL C. GANDY.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th, 1904 GEORGE W. EDWARDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary July 26, 1904. L. B. POUNDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904 T. G. MILLING.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26, 1904.

S. E. WALDRUP,
(Better known as "Squire" Waldrup.)

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26th, 1904. JOSEPH H. THOMAS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. M. F. LETT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN W. G. KICKER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

BENJAMIN H. WELLS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904 W. F. DESHAZO.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN J. LETCHER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. MOSES A. KILLGORE.

We, the undersigned friends of T. J. HUBBARD, do hereby announce him as a candidate for re-election to the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904; R. J. Williams, H. W. Varden, C. L. Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hugh Henry, J. L. Thomas, J. L. Smith

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. J. W. MOORE.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for commissioner from the fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

MOSES ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

R. P. KENDRICK.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the Fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th ,1904.

WILLIAM T. MAHAN.

TAX COLLECTOR'S SALE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County:

By virtue of decrees rendered by the probate court at the May term of said court, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder for cash, before the court house door, in Clanton, in said county, within the legal hours of sale, on the following described real estate, for the taxes and costs due thereon for the year 1903, to-wit:

FRIDAY, JUNE 10TH, 1904,

BEAT NO. 1.

Owner unknown: E 1-2 of ne 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 16, tp 23, r 15. Tax and costs $3.73.

H. M. Wilson: E 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, tp 24, r 15. Tax and costs, $4 47

BEAT NO. 2

John Shaw or Owner Unknown: Ne 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 24, r 13. Tax and costs, $3.69.

BEAT NO. 4.

J. W. Jones: 1 1-2 acres in ne corner of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; 17 1-2 acres in nw corner of se 1-4 of nw 1-4, sec 36, t 22, r 15; sw 1-4 of se 1-4 and se 1-4 of sw 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 24, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4 and sw 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 18, t 22, r 16; sw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 17, t 22, 16; s 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 32, t 22, r 16; nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of sw 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; n 1-2 of nw 1-4, sec 32, t 22, r 16; nw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 of nw 1-4 and sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 22, r 15; se 1-4 of se 1-4, less 10 acres, sec 22, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 2, t 21, r 15; n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 27, t 22, r 15. Tax and costs, $62.22.

Magnetic Ore Co.: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 35, t 23, r 15. Tax and costs, $4.

BEAT NO. 5.

J. R. McAfee: Nw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 12, t 20, r 16. Tax and costs, $4.67.

BEAT NO. 8.

N. C. Weaver: Se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and ne 1-4 of se 1-4, and n 1-2 of nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 24, t 20, r 12. Tax and costs, $7.14.

BEAT NO. 9.

J. W. Martin: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4 sec. 5, t 23, r 14. Tax and costs, $3.39.

This 9th day of May, 1904.

T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

SUMMER NORMAL SCHOOL.

A summer normal school will open May 16th for the benefit of all who expect to take the state examination in July, and any others who wish to take any special work. From the fact that every teacher will be required to stand an examination on agriculture next January, special attention will be given to that subject. Those who desire can get instructions in expression and physical culture also. Good board can be had with private families at reasonable rates. For further information address

H. T. WALLACE,
Principal High School, Clanton, Ala.
tf

NOTICE.

The committee on arrangements for primary election, also the executive committee of the populist party, are hereby called to meet at Clanton on Friday, the 17th day of June, 1904. All candidates before the PEOPLE'S primary are also requested to meet said committee to arrange the expense of said primary.

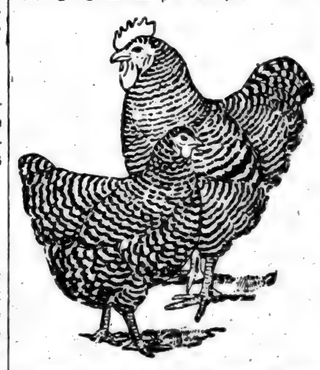
W. H. SHAW,
tf Chairman Pop. Ex. Com.

The Sak's Store
Birmingham, Alabama

READY-MADE Apparel for Women and Children.
Our Mail Order Department is efficient and serviceable.
Write for Catalogue

A most complete
Stock of General Merchandise, Dress Goods,
The Millinery Department
Is complete in every detail and is in charge of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara of St. Louis
P. D. WILSON
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN POULTRY YARDS



WE have as good CHICKENS as there are in the country.
Barred Plymouth Rocks
And you may have 15 fresh eggs for 50c. If you want them shipped add 10c for packing.
Give us a trial and we can please you.
MRS. W. NI
Maplesville, Ala.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND FERTILIZERS
FOR SALE.
Troy Special & Mule Brand
"Are the Best on Earth"
J. C. JONES,
Clanton, - - - Alabama

We Have Perfected Arrangements Whereby We Can Offer
That Practical and Instructive Newspaper
THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER
Known throughout the State of Alabama for the full line of State News contained in each issue, will be furnished in connection with Our Publication at a Remarkably Low Price
Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Financial Page. Best State News.
For Village, Suburban Residents, and in fact for all actively engaged in agricultural pursuits, or family use, the Weekly Advertiser will be found well nigh indispensable. It is pure, bright and practical all the way through, and meets the requirements of the entire family. It is popular throughout the South, and no one should be without it.
Our Great Special Offer:
The Weekly Union one year - $1.00
Weekly Advertiser one year - $1.00
Both for $1.25.

Alabama Prisoners.

Between sixteen and seventeen hundred tons of coal are now being mined a day by the convicts of Alabama at Pratt Mines and Flat Top.

This brings to the treasury about $1,000 every twenty-four hours and represents an income to the state from seven hundred men at these two mines of $26,000 a month or $312,000 a year.

Birmingham is to have two new Catholic churches.

Will be Dedicated June 7th

Tuesday, June 7th, has been set as the time for dedicating the Alabama exhibit in the mines building including the statue of Vulcan. The program is being arranged. It is intended to have the Colossus crowned by a young lady from Alabama with proper ceremony, and it is expected that a large number of Alabamians will be present.

Faunsdale's new bank building nearing completion.

OFFICIALS

...Strock.
...M. Wilson, E. G. Rot...Collins, J. M. Potts.
...Watts Moore.
...Smitherman.

AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

...CUIT COURT.
...—1st Monday in April.
...—3rd Monday in July.
...—1st Monday in Novem...

...Scott Sayre.
...Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
...Deason, Clanton.

...NCERY COURT.
...—2nd Monday in March.
...—2nd Monday in Septem...

...—Hon. R. B. Kelley, An...
...Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

...UNTY COURT.
...day in each month.

...SSIONERS' COURT.
...y February, 1st Monday...onday June, 2nd Monday ...nday August, 1st Monday

...NTY OFFICERS.
...Probate—S. M. Adams.
...Alex G. Dake.
...M. Morgan.
...O. Middleton.
...or—A. C. Mims.
...tor—T. J. Hubbard.

...Y COMMISSIONERS.
...rict—W. H. Conway.
...strict—Alex Glasscock.
...rict—W. A. Green.
...trict—R. C. Riggins.

...OF EDUCATION.
...Moore, Clanton.

...TE SENATOR.
...Oliver, Calera.

...RESENTATIVE.
...Reynolds, Jemison.

...Y CHURCHES

...clerks are cordially ask...e editor any news regard...rches which they would ...d. Also if there are any ...e notices please send cor...

...ONARY BAPTISTS.
...v. W. H. Connell, pastor.
...r., clerk, Plantersville.
...—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas...nson, clerk, Billingsley.
...Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor; ...ns, clerk, Pletcher.
...ev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday. ...clerk, Verbena.
...ev. A. C. Swindall, 1st ...undays. W. I. Mullins, ...

...—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th ...J. Gragg, clerk.
...—Rev J. M. Gothard, ...mons, clerk, Jemison.
...ev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd ...J. Parrish, clerk.
...apel—Rev. W. J. Arm...unday. J. W. Littleton, ...

...reek—Rev. J. L. Hand, ...Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
...v. M. J. Parrish, 2nd ...B. Jones, clerk.
...s—Rev. M. J. Parrish, ...J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
...v. C. H. Lowery, 1st ...F. Wagoner, clerk.
...v. S. B. Culpepper, pas...y, clerk, Mt. Creek.
...Rev. P. G. Maness, pas...lson, clerk, Stanton.
...ev. I. Windsor, pastor; ...s, clerk, Jemison.
...—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd ...J. Wood, clerk.
...Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd ...L. Armstrong, clerk.
...Rev. S. Smitherman, pas...nes, clerk, British.
...ev. I. Windsor, pastor; ...clerk, Randolph.
...apel—Rev. W.— J. Rud...W. M. Roebuck, clerk.

...—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, ...Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
...gs—Rev. J. L. Hand ...Wilson, clerk.
...Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd ...e Trawick, clerk.
...—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas...ingsley, clerk.
...—Rev. W. L. Armstrong, ...J. Will Hill, clerk.
...Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd ...J Smith, clerk.
...et—Rev. T. J. Deason, ...ldwell, clerk, Pletcher.
...ve—Rev. J. H. Thom...; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
...—Rev. J. M. Gothard, ...Scott, clerk, Jemison.
...ve—Rev. G. W. Free...H. C. Latham, clerk.

...s—Rev. W. J. Bone, ...J. McDowell, clerk.
...Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, ...H. Shaw, clerk, Jemi...

...Rev. W. J. Armstrong; ...Robinson, clerk, Clan...
...J. D. Hughes, pastor; ...clerk, Rushton.
...T. J. Deason, 2nd ...Billingsley, clerk.
...T. J. Deason, 4th Sun...

...day. J... Thorn... Robert... Union... pastor; ...ton. Union... Sunday... Sunday... Verbe... Sunday... Valley... or; J. ...ville.

...Bethe... Saturda... J. T. A...

...Clanton... Clanto... Fairv... Isabe... Jemis... Lime... Sunday... Mount... Sunday... New... Sunday...

...ME... Clanton...

...Thorn... Walnu... ng... Unity... Shady... Mount... Enter...

...South... second... Calera... Loma... Sunday... Mount... stead, 3... clerk, C... Shady... Sunday... bena... Union... Sunday... wood...

...Highla... Lett, 3rd... T. L. A... Enterp... Sunday...

...NO... St. O... pastor...

...Concor... berg. E...

...Rocky... Mr. Car... service ... noons... nesday...

...FR... Clanto... Third Sa... Amand... 256—Fou... Clanton... 423—Fir... Centur... 567—Fir... Bozem... No. 534... moon, M... Jemiso... 411—Sat... Jemison... Stanton... 473—Tue... Stanton...

...Jemiso... urdays... Clanton... fourth S... WOO... Black... and thir...

...FIN...

...BRITISH...

...UNI...

...Governm... State an... Cash on... Stocks a... Premium... Interest...

...Reserve... Y. Sta... Reserv... es. ...

...Surplus ...

...Total in... States... Total los... from l... sive ...

...WALL... Clanton, ...

Sak's Store
ham, Alabama
EADY-MADE Apparel for Vomen and Children.
ur Mail Order Department is icient and serviceable.
r Catalogue

ost complete
Stock of General Merch
dise, Dress Goods,
illinery
tment
s complete in every detail and is in c
of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara
of St. Louis
P. D. WILSO
LABAMA.

AWN POULTRY YA

WE have as good
CHICKE
as there are in the co
Barred Plymouth Roc
And you may have 15
fresh eggs for 50c.
want them shipped
add 10c for packing.
Give us a trial and we can ple
MRS. W. NI
Maplesville, Ala

L MERCHANDISE A FERTILIZERS
FOR SALE.
pecial & Mule Bra
re the Best on Earth"
C. JONES,
- - - Alaba

Perfected Arrangements Whereb
ctical and Instructive Newspape
HE WEEKLY
DVERTISER
throughout the State of Al
r the full line of State New d in each issue, will be fu in connection with Our Pu
at a Remarkably Low Pric
t County News. Best Sporting vs. Best Market and Finan
Page. Best State News.
uburban Residents, and in fact for all acti
n agricultural pursuits, or family line, rtiser will be found well nigh indispensab ight and practical all the way through.
uirements of the entire family. It is popu he South, and no one should be without Great Special Offer:
kly Union one year - $1.0
Advertiser one year - $1.0
Both for $1.25.

risoners.
d seventeen hun-
now being mined
s of Alabama at
t Top.
e treasury about four hours and e to the state men at these two onth or $312,000.

have two new

Will be Dedicated June 7th

Tuesday, June 7th, has been d ed as the time for dedicating th bama exhibit in the mines bu including the statue of Vule program is being arranged. It tended to have the Colossus ch
ed by a young lady from Al with proper ceremony, and it pected that a large number o
bamians will be present.

Faunsdale's new bank build neering completion.

OFFICIALS

om Strock.
M. Wilson, R. G. Rot-
llins, J. M. Potts.
Watts Moore.
Smitherman.

AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CUIT COURT.
—1st Monday in April.
—3rd Monday in July.
—1st Monday in Novem-

Scott Sayre.
Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
Deason, Clanton.

NCERY COURT.
—2nd Monday in March.
—2nd Monday in Septem

—Hon. R. B. Kelley, An-
Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan-

UNTY COURT.
ay in each month.

SSIONERS' COURT.
y February, 1st Monday
nday June, 2nd Monday day August, 1st Monday

NTY OFFICERS.
Probate—S. M. Adams.
—Alex G. Dake.
M. Morgan.
J. O. Middleton.
sor—A. C. Mims.
tor—T. J. Hubbard.

Y COMMISSIONERS.
rict—W. H. Conway.
istrict—Alex Glasscock.
rict—W. A. Green.
istrict—R. C. Riggins.

OF EDUCATION.
Moore, Clanton.

ATE SENATOR.
Oliver, Calera.

PRESENTATIVE.
Reynolds, Jemison.

Y CHURCHES

clerks are cordially ask-editor any news regardrches which they would
d. Also if there are any notices please send cor-

NARY BAPTISTS.
W. H. Connell, pastor.
Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas-
son, clerk, Billingsley.
Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor;
ns, clerk, Pletcher.
Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday.
clerk, Verbena.
v. A. C. Swindall, 1st
ndays. W. I. Mullins,

—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th
J. Gragg, clerk.
—Rev. J. M. Gothard,
mons, clerk, Jemison.
v. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd
Parrish, clerk.
pel—Rev. W. J. Arm-
nday. J. W. Littleton,

reek—Rev. J. L. Hand, Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
v. M. J. Parrish, 2nd
B. Jones, clerk.
—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
M. Huckabee, clerk.
v. C. H. Lowery, 1st
F. Wagoner, clerk.
v. S. B. Culpepper, pas-
y, clerk, Mt. Creek.
Rev. P. G. Maness, pas-son, clerk, Stanton.
v. I. Windsor, pastor;
r, clerk, Jemison.
—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd
Wood, clerk.
Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd
Armstrong, clerk.
ev. S. Smitherman, pasros, clerk, British.
v. I. Windsor, pastor;
clerk, Randolph.
el—Rev. W. J. Rud-
W. M. Roebuck, clerk.

—Rev. W. J. Armstrong.
Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
s—Rev. J. L. Hand.
Wilson, clerk.
Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd
Trawick, clerk.
—Rev. J. E. Moore, pasggsley, clerk.
—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
W. Hill, clerk.
Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd
Smith, clerk.
t—Rev. T. J. Deason, dwell, clerk, Pletcher.
ve—Rev. J. H. Thom-
D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
—Rev. J. M. Gothard,
ett, clerk, Jemison.
ve—Rev. G. W. Free-
H. C. Latham, clerk.

s—Rev. W. J. Bone,
J. McDowell, clerk.
Rev. R. M. Honeycutt.
H. Shaw, clerk, Jemi-

Rev. W. J. Armstrong.
Robinson, clerk, Clan-

J. D. Hughes, pastor;
clerk, Rushton.
T. J. Deason, 2nd
Billingsley, clerk.
T. J. Deason, 4th Sun-
day. J. Deason, clerk, Adams.
Thorsby—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Robert Jones, clerk, Thorsby.
Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor; R. S. Chandler, clerk, Jemison.
Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2d Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.
Verbena—Rev. J. W. Partridge, 1st Sunday. T. J. Bland, clerk.
Valley Creek—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; J. W. Mitchell, clerk, Plantersville.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS.

Bethel—Elder J. W. Howell, pastor; Saturday before the second Sunday; J. T. Abernathy, clerk, Verbena.

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Clanton Circuit—Rev. D. B. H. Jeffcoat, Pastor.
Clanton—2nd and 4th Sundays.
Fairview—3rd Sunday.
Isabelle—3rd Sunday, 3 p. m.
Jemison—1st Sunday.
Lime Springs—Saturday before 2nd Sunday.
Mount Moriah—Saturday before 1st Sunday.
New Prospect—Saturday before 3rd Sunday.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

Clanton Circuit, Rev. T. F. Davis, Pastor.
Thorsby—1st Sunday.
Walnut Grove—2nd Sunday, morning.
Unity—2nd Sunday, evening.
Shady Grove—3rd Sunday.
Mount Pisgah—4th Sunday, morning.
Enterprise—4th Sunday, evening.

CONGREGATIONAL.

South Calera—Rev. J. R. Crowson second Sunday. W. L. Shaw, clerk, Calera.
Lomax—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 4th Sunday. F. E. Riggs, clerk, Lomax.
Mountain Springs—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 3rd Sunday. W. J. Headley, clerk, Clanton.
Shady Grove—Rev. A. C. Wells, 1st Sunday. Mrs. A. Baker, clerk, Verbena.
Union—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 1st Sunday. Miss A. Lake, clerk, Lightwood.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Highland School House—Rev. M. F. Lett, 3rd Sunday and Saturday before. T. L. Adams, clerk.
Enterprise—Rev. M. F. Lett, 4th Sunday. T. F. Patterson, clerk.

NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN.

St. Olafs, Thorsby—Rev. H. Engh, pastor. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

Concordia, Thorsby—Rev. J. E. Hedberg. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. Mr. Carroll, pastor, 2d Sunday. Song service every 2d and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

MASONIC.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday, Clanton.
Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 250—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.
Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 423—First Saturday, Clanton.
Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 567—First Saturday Billingsley.
Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.
Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 411—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.
Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 473—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.
Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

of the

BRITISH AMERICA ASSURANCE CO.

Of Toronto, Canada.

1st January, 1904.

UNITED STATES BRANCH.

Assets.

Government bonds	$223,650.00
State and municipal bonds	511,473.19
Cash on hand and deposit	169,720.71
Stocks and bonds	305,793.00
Premiums in course of col.	204,834.79
Interest due and accrued.	11,833.20
	$1,427,304.89

Liabilities.

Reserve premium fund (N. Y. Standard)	$849,771.77
Reserve for unpaid losses	100,786.14
	$950,557.91
Surplus in United States	$476,746.98
Total income in United States for 1903	$1,547,736.84
Total losses paid in U. S. from 1874 to 1903, inclusive	$14,674,843.26

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

LOCAL ITEMS.

John S. Dennis, of beat 11, was in Clanton Thursday.

The Indian ball players have come and gone. On Thursday they beat the Clanton Club by a score of 17 to 2 Friday's game Clanton beat them 12 to 11. There were some full bloods in the Indian aggregation, but the majority were mixed.

There was quite a party from Jemison Thursday to see the Indians. Among them were Hon. L. H. Reynolds and wife, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Shaw, C. W. Reynolds and wife, W. R. Jackson and daughter, Miss Gertie; Miss Quintilla Henry and Seeb Shaw.

Moses Robinson and W. C. Robinson were in Clanton Thursday.

Chattanooga cane mills and plows on sale at W. I. Mullins'.

J. Bice, of Thorsby, was in Clanton Thursday.

M. A. Kilgore, of beat 11, was in town Thursday.

Don't forget to see Upchurch when you are in need of spectacles.

Moses Popwell, of beat 10, visited Clanton Thursday.

W. L. House and daughter, Miss Lucy, were in town Friday.

T. J. and Monroe Hubbard were in Clanton Friday.

The celebrated "James & Mayer's" buggies for sale at W. I. Mullins.

J. C. Adams and wife and Hiss Henley were in Clanton Friday.

B. C. Crawford has been appointed postmaster at Maplesville in the place of W. F. Foshee, who was removed.

Drink "Peptonilla" at Upchurch's soda fount.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Swint visited Clanton Friday.

Robert Popwell was in town Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Baker, of Liberty Hill, were in Clanton Friday.

C. H. Cooper was in town Friday.

Enoch H. Foshee was in Clanton Friday.

H. A. J. and Professor H. A. Harris were in town Saturday.

R. C. Riggins visited Clanton Saturday.

Wiley Gore and W. J. Dennis of Collins chapel, were in town Saturday.

H. C. Martin, of Verbena, was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

G. C. Kicker was in town Saturday and says his father is improving rapidly, and will soon be able to get out and see his friends in regard to his candidacy for tax collector.

R. E. L. Ward and wife were in Clanton Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clemens have a new young lady visiting at their house near Jemison.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crumpton, of Jemison, were visitors to their son, J. P. Crumpton, Saturday and Sunday.

S. S. Scott and J. G. Wood, of Verbena, were in Clanton Monday.

J. W. Hayes, of Thorsby, was in town Saturday.

Enoch H. Adams was in Clanton Monday.

M. F. Lett was in Clanton Tuesday, brought in some subscribers and reports his candidacy doing well.

R. H. Bean, of Collins chapel, was in town Tuesday.

E. A. Knight was in Clanton Tuesday.

Hon. T. Scott Sayre, of Montgomery, our new circuit judge, was in Clanton Monday, that being the day designated by Temporary Judge Richardson for the extra term of court. Judge Sayre formally opened and adjourned the court. The next session of our circuit court will be at the time named by the legislature, viz., the non-jury week commencing the third Monday in July.

Wiley Littlejohn has returned from Florida and says he intends to catch that treasurer's office.

Mrs. Gamma Anderson left Monday for a visit to her brother in Walker county.

Miss Annie Davis won the title of the most popular young lady in Clanton with a total of 802 votes. There were eight other names in the contest and as a result the Methodist church gets about $180.

Some people "count their chickens before they are hatched."

"There's many a slipt 'twixt the cup and the lip."

Madison Bean was in Clanton Wednesday.

Abe Kanter left Wednesday on a trip to Canada and expects to be away about a month.

Mrs. Ol Mullins went to Birmingham Wednesday on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Bishop. Her grandson, Edward Bishop, escorted her.

Dr. Horn was in Jemison Wednesday on urgent dental business.

TO THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY.

My announcement for judge of probate may be expected in the next issue of THE UNION. Any person who may have an interest, either for or against, would gladly be heard before I have announced, as after I have come before the people will be too late. If I enter the race it will be more in the interest of the republican and populist parties than in my own interest. Sincerely yours.

adv S. J. JENNINGS.

LOMAX.

Farmers in this community are well up with their work, but are needing rain. The general health is good. There were a large number went from here to the Sunday school convention at Thorsby last Sunday; lots of our pretty girls and some of our widowers and bachelors, for instance, J. P. Robinson and Lee Vickers. There are some here at Lomax content as you please, for if their corn and cotton fail, they're satisfied with peas. Mrs. T. C. Marcus, of Calera, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilson, one day last week. We had the pleasure of meeting Professor Moore, our county superintendent, last Sunday while his train was standing at Lomax. He has made us a good officer and will be re-elected sure. The days are getting longer and the sun is shining hot. We farmers are smiling, for our corn and cotton is up in every spot. Parson A. C. Wells will fill his regular appointment here the second Sunday in June. Success to THE UNION. OBSERVER.

X-RAY'S LETTER.

Here comes "33 cheers with hats off for X-Ray and B. V. Washburn," from Active, Bibb county, for showing up the true situation over there under the expopdeuro rule; also more subscribers for THE UNION. Now, you may be sure that the rank and file of the voters in Bibb county are not satisfied by any means, but you see they simply allowed themselves rocked to sleep with the lullaby song of "harmony" and "brotherhood," and the wily schemers slipped the blind bridle on them and now they are waking up to the fact that they are bound hand and foot, cast into outer darkness and there is gnashing of teeth when they contemplate the payment of that ponderous debt, which must come from the fruits of their toil and sweat. A great many people think that unless a man is after an office that he has no interest in politics, which is a huge mistake, for as sure as we all live ALL public expenses, of government, every officer's salary, every single appropriation, as well as all rents, interest, dividends, insurance and profits accruing in any way, either public or private are borne and carried on the shoulders of the TOILING MASSES. So then the nominal voters are, or should be, most vitally interested S. S. CONVENTION AT THORSBY, than any other class of our citizenship, for it is they that PAY the BILLS, and it is they who should hold the reins of governmental affairs, and not the political "bosses" and their henchmen, as is now almost universally the case.

X-RAY.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CONFERENCE.

The second quarterly conference for Clanton circuit, Methodist Protestant church, will be held at Mount Pisgah church, three and a half miles southeast of Clanton, the fourth Sunday in June and Saturday before. Dinner on the grounds.

tf T. F. DAVIS, Pastor.

PHILADELPHIA UNDERWRITERS,
Composed of Insurance Company of North America and the Fire Association of Philadelphia, Pa.

Cash capital	$ 3,500,000.00
Total assets Jan. 1, 1904.	17,636,517.61
Surplus as to policy holders	6,874,213.35

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

The steel plant of the Alabama Steel and Wire company at Gadsden will be making steel in a few more weeks. The plumbers and steam fitters are busy making all connections for the start. Several of the open hearth furnaces have been dried out.

THE NATIONAL GAME.

What's the matter with "Matty?"

Carey, the first baseman, is putting up a fine game for Rochester.

Iott, of Fall River, leads the New England League in batting to date.

President Dreyfuss is unalterably opposed to Sunday baseball in Pittsburg.

Baltimore has signed the promising young pitcher, Moren, lately tried out by Pittsburg.

The coolest proposition that ever went to the bat is Donlin, of the Cincinnatis. Nothing phases him.

The Boston American players will back Dougherty to throw the ball further than any man in the business.

Devlin, the New York's new third baseman, appears to be able to take care of anything that comes his way.

President Dreyfuss attributes the poor showing of the Pittsburgs solely to lack of condition owing to poor training weather.

Killian looms up as a rival for Waddell. The Detroit man has all the earmarks of being one of the greatest southpaws of the decade.

Ferris' fielding this season has been high class, but the Boston American second baseman has failed to connect with the ball to any extent.

Dillon, the first baseman and captain of the Brooklyn club, was a member of the Pittsburg team four years ago, his release having been purchased from Buffalo.

The clubs of the New England League are evenly matched, stronger than ever, and the very best teams in Class B, with perhaps the Southern League excepted.

Manager Hanlon seems to have a find in Jack McCormick, the little third baseman of the Brooklyns. He is especially good in fielding short hits on which quick throws must be made.

In its making the modern shoe passes through the hands of from one hundred to two hundred people and the processes of not less than fifty separate machines.

Moving pictures are now in use as a cure for insanity.

..My Specialty..
SHOES made of Leather.
SHOES that are Reliable.
SHOES made to Wear.
NOT a Cheap Shoddy Shoe.
Dry Goods, Groceries, Flour and Feed Stuffs, Tobacco and Snuff.
Every Department Full and Complete.
J. W. SMITH.
Former Post-office Building. Clanton, Alabama

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.
DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER
We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address
I. E. SARBER CO.
Thorsby, Alabama.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
2011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE
WALLACE C. EDLER, General Agent, Clanton Alabama.
CHILTON COUNTY BRANCH
PRESIDENT ALEX G. DAKE, Clanton
SEC.-TREAS. JUDSON STROCK, Clanton
Insure, Farmers Dwellings, outbuildings and contents, and Live stock against Loss by Fire, Wind and Lightning;—the cheapest, safest and most sensible method of Insurance known to man.
AGENTS MUST HAVE A COMMISSION SIGNED BY GENERAL AGENT
Full particulars furnished on application to
WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

Gelder's Restaurant,
Good Meals at Reasonable Prices.
110 North 20th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St, THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St,
—Is at The Head of The Procession.—
Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes,
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.
W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton. - - - Alabama

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,
Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.
County and Office Supplies a Specialty.
Ask for Estimates.
2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

PAUL CALAME,
205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.
Practical Watchmaker and Optician
Eyes Correctly Fitted
Mail orders promptly filled

IDEAS FOR THE FAIR ONES

A PRETTY PETTICOAT.

One of the daintiest lingerie petticoats has a deep flounce made up of row upon row of narrow Valenciennes lace stitched together. A deep flounce on another skirt is composed of alternate rows of lace footing and tucked French nainsook.

A WHITE GAUZE FROCK.

A lovely toilette was carried out in white silk gauze, dotted with black. Bands of Louis XV. silk ribbon, outlined with fagot stitching in black silk, constituted the sole embellishment of the skirt, while narrow ruches of the silk gauze formed the trimming of the corsage.

THE TUNIC SKIRT.

The tunic skirt, consisting of two or three circular pieces hung on a good foundation, is a survival of a mode popular last summer. It is especially appropriate for the tall svelte figure of the fashionable young woman, and offers an excuse for the introduction of much garniture in the way of heavy lace bandings or broad insertions of linen, scrim or batiste embroideries.

A DAINTY WORK BAG.

Such pretty little work bags can be made on a foundation of basket work with a piece of dainty silk. The little flat trays to be found in all sizes at Japanese shops are chosen, and the silk sewed on the inside rim. The basket is first lined and slightly padded with satchet if desired. The silk is gathered in bag fashion at the top, making a pretty and a substantial receptacle for sewing materials or embroidery.

CREPE DE CHINE USEFUL.

The very newest material for coats and skirts, and one that is rapidly coming forward, is crepe de chine. It is particularly smart; it wears remarkably well, especially in black; and, singular as it may seem, it is really not more expensive than cloth, says the Delineator. No other material equals crepe de chine in quiet and unassuming richness; and its natural grace preeminently fits it to follow the swirling lines that fashion seems to have borrowed from the art nouveau that came in with the twentieth century.

AN ADAPTABLE WOMAN.

The woman who uses her brain to some purpose usually succeeds in adapting her life to circumstances. She does not spend time in wishing matters were different, but uses it to secure every scrap of comfort possible to her environments. If she has to wear readymade clothing she hunts for the best fitting, the best made and the best wearing garments her purse will allow and takes as much care of them as time will permit. She takes the stitch in time that saves labor as well as money because she has the sense to know that outside of her business life she should use her time for rest and recreation.—Exchange.

SLEEVE FRILLS.

Sleeve frills are so much worn at present and are going to be worn so much more in the future, that a demand has arisen for something quickly and easily handled in this line, says the Pittsburg Press. The French hand-made ruffles of embroidery or lace edged muslin are delightful. To the woman who has time for dainty needlework they make a useful class of "pickup sewing." But the business woman is often obliged to deny herself the luxury of handmade accessories. Any leisure hours that fall to her lot must be spent in open air recreation or in complete rest. Yet she is loth to deny herself the pretty sleeve trimming, which is at once so modish and feminine. For her and other women similarly situated, the shops are now offering the pretty ready made ruffling. It comes in sleeve lengths as well as by the yard.

SUN BATHS AS REST CURE.

The "rest cures" have created a new fad among the wealthy women who have been making visits to them of late to recuperate from the strain of the social season. This is the scheme of living outdoors as much as possible, and the manner in which it is worked savors of the luxury of the times. The things brought into play usually include a stout cot, well padded, and placed permanently in some sunny but secluded nook in the immediate neighborhood of the country house in which the devotee lives. When it is not in use the cot is covered with a heavy rubber blanket to protect it from the wet. When the "rest cure" patient edects to use it, which is usually for an hour in the morning and again in the afternoon, a maid removes the blanket and the "patient" lies stretched on the cot in the broad sunshine with a veil tied over her eyes to keep out the glare of light. A more thorough cure of this kind is effected by having a high wooden enclosure built on the ground in which the sun shines, but the wind is cut off. When milady has one of these structures she has a cot within its walls on which she reclines for her sun bath.—New York Press.

MORAL SUASION.

I do not call myself a model mother, but my methods of bringing up my children seem to have been successful. In training them I require prompt obedience (not blind obedience, for that makes a child a mere machine).

I often gave my reasons, and that made them feel that they were in my confidence. I always allowed them to vindicate themselves, as was only fair. I never raised my voice in loud and angry tones. I avoided as far as possible getting into contentions with them, for it might have been hard to tell which would come out first best. I would never let them go to bed unhappy.

As for whipping, I don't believe in it. It only antagonizes and humiliates a child. We know how we would resent a blow. We might strike an animal, but never the tender flesh of a little child, who is bone of our bone, and flesh of our flesh. Punishment is sometimes needful, but there are ways of punishing. One of my boys, when about three years old, got into a tantrum one day. I tried to reason with him, but, failing to do so, put him in a closet, leaving the door half open, and sat where he could see me (children don't like to be alone), and told him that when he was good he might come out. Before long he came out all smiles and promised future amendment. The next day I did something he did not like. He led me to the closet, put me in, and shut the door tight. I knew then that he understood the lesson. We should not make too much of little faults. We forget sometimes that our children do just what we did when young. We cannot bring up our children all alike. We must consider their dispositions and temperaments. By doing this we may prevent lasting mistakes.—New York Tribune.

FASHION NOTES.

White shades grade from chalk color to the deepest ivory.

Persian bands figure conspicuously in the season's trimmings.

Silk bouillonnees are superseding ruchings in popularity.

Ribbon bows with their ends frayed out represent a new notion.

White will be worn more than ever during the summer.

Soft, pliable materials are given the preference by Dame Fashion.

Ombre effects in ribbon and chiffons are utilized for millinery purposes.

Voile is a pronounced favorite for dressy street costumes and general ware

For summer wear linen will take precedence of all other wash materials.

The garland idea will be the keynote of the trimmings for the coming season.

Irish lace will continue to be used both for the turnover and the stock collar.

Shantung embroidered with white pastilles, both in ecru and pastel shades, is in favor.

Considerable vogue for black relieved by touches of pronounced color is predicted for spring.

Both black and white lace hats of the tricorne shape will be worn, trimmed with narrow velvet ribbon.

The tendency in light colors is toward champagne, gray, heliotrope, almond green and pale golden yellow.

Small white colored roses, and lace, too, will be used for bows and other trimmings on straw and tulle hats.

Suspicious, Treacherous Panther.

Of all the big, dangerous cats, none is more unapproachable and more treacherous than the black panther. Hailing from the heart of the deepest African jungle, lithe and supple of body, alert and nervous, this stealthy marauder exceeds in ferocity even a Bengal tiger. He is the only big feline that the lion tamer does not venture to train; and he is the only cat so absolutely distrustful that he shuns even the light of day. Often he will lie all day long in a dusky corner of his cage, his yellow slit eyes shifting and gleaming restlessly.

Even the feeding hour, when pandemonium breaks loose among the big cages, when hungry roars and squeals mingle with impatient snarls and impacts of heavy bodies against steel bars, is apt to have not effect on him. He may lie eyeing his chunk of raw beef suspiciously, and not venture forth until day has waned and the last visitor has left, to tear meat from bones with his long, white fangs.

In fact, so ugly and vicious is this beast that frequently he turns on his own kind, and in many instances it is impossible to cage him, even with a mate.—McClure's Magazine.

BUDGET OF HUMOR

EXTREMES MEET.

Anchoret and sybarite,
Argue loudly which is right.
Anchoret this kind of stuff
Puts forth: "Too little is enough."
Sybarite comes back with this:
"Enough, my friend, too little is."
As far apart, these two, you see
As tweedledum and tweedledee.
—Puck.

NO TROUBLE.

Visitor—Do you have any difficulty in getting servants?

Hostess—None whatever. We've had ten different ones in the last month!—Punch.

SPEAKING OF KISSING.

Ted—She said she'd scream if I kissed her.

Ned—That shouldn't have prevented you. If you kiss a girl properly she can't scream.—Town Topics.

THOSE YONKERS GIRLS.

Patience—What was the trouble over at your house yesterday.

Patrice—Oh, I had some of the schoolgirls there, and we were trying a class song.

"Oh, were you singing? I thought you were giving your class yell!"—Yonkers Statesman.

WHAT SHE SAID.

"George, dear," she said, with a blush, "do you know that Mr. Simpson asked me last night to be his wife?"

"Well, I like his impudence. The idea of proposing to an engaged young lady! What did you say to him?"

"I told him that I was very sorry indeed, but he was too late."—Tit-Bits.

HE KNEW THE FACT.

Bergess—I say, Brikett, you were pretty far gone last night. Hope you didn't have any trouble finding your way home?

Brikett—I wasn't so far gone that I tried to find my way home.

Bergess—I see; then you were pretty far gone.—Boston Transcript.

KINDNESS OF HEART.

"What makes you tell such extraordinary stories about your fishing trips?"

"Well," answered Mr. Bliggins, "if you could see how disappointed the folks are when I don't tell 'em a few good ones you'd realize that it's just kindness of heart."—Washington Star.

JUDGING BY HIS WIFE.

Professor—Yes, sir, your daughter is pretty well grounded in French, but it will, of course, take some time and trouble for her to acquire fluency.

Father—Well, you know, that's rather strange to me; I had an idea that the fluency would have come sort of natural with her.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

'TWAS WELL.

At the end of thirty years Hiram had accumulated a fortune.

His wife and daughters were delighted.

"For," said they, with becoming modesty, "we now not only have money enough to cut a splurge, but poor dear papa is too broken down to appear among the best people.—Life.

NO EXCUSE.

"Is that your mule?" asked the man who was going fishing.

"Yassir," said the colored man, who was sitting on a log by the road.

"Does he kick?"

"'Deed, mistuh, he ain't got no 'cuse to kick. He's gittin' his own way right along. I'm de one dat's havin' de worry an' difficulty."—Washington Star.

OVERHEARD ON THE PIER.

"Is this all?" demanded the Custom House Inspector, as he finished up Binks's trunks.

"Well, no," said Binks. "I got a new wife over in Paris—that little woman over there with the pink cheeks is she."

"All right," said the Inspector. "We'll have her appraised. She looks like a work of art."—Life.

NOT HIS FAULT.

Aunt Prisms—I am shocked at you, Maude. You permitted young Mr. Jones to kiss you.

Maude—He only just touched me on the nose, auntie.

Aunt Prisms—It was quite out of place, dear.

Maude—He knew it was, auntie; but you came in so suddenly, you see.—Tit-Bits.

A HUNGRY WOLF.

"I'm afraid," said the sweet young thing, "that if we get married we couldn't keep the wolf from the door."

"Don't see why it would want to come around," responded the young man. "It's a cinch there wouldn't be anything in the house to feed it."

Seeing by this that he didn't care whether or not he married her, she promptly accepted him.—Indianapolis Sun.

Blood poisoning from the scratch of a thorn on the stem of a gift rose may be regarded as the irony of fate expressed in simplest terms.

A SERMON FOR SUNDAY

AN ELOQUENT DISCOURSE ENTITLED, "LIFE'S ASSETS."

The Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Goodenough Talks Instructively on the Infinite Possibilities That Are in Man—What We Need to Know.

BRISTOL, CONN.—The Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Goodenough preached Sunday morning on "Life's Assets." The text was from I Corinthians iii:21, 22, 23: For all things are yours; whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours, and ye are Christ's and Christ is God's." Dr. Goodenough said:

Man aspires. His eye is on the sky. Man was made to walk erect. His impulse is to climb. This fact indicates his destiny. The earth beneath us and the world about us contribute to our flight, but they offer us no home. The world, so near to us and so essential to our present life, has its limitations and fetters. Man is impatient of limitations; he aspires to the infinite and the infinite is always above us. The nobler man's nature the more restless and determined is he to ascend. No philosophy of life is true that fails to recognize this instinct of the soul. Man desires more room, more room is above, and above is something that attracts and draws. That fact is man's salvation.

It is generally believed that man had his origin in God. God is the root from which all men have sprung. It is equally true that God is the complement of man and his goal. How noble is man. What infinite possibilities are in him. Man is not a waif, aimlessly wandering through a trackless wilderness, nor an orphan minus a parent's guiding hand and tender voice. Man's origin and destiny are one. It is God. If your five-year-old boy is in need he instinctively cries, "My father." If he is in trouble he as naturally cries, "My mother." Instantly the complement of his needy nature is at hand. Father and mother are to him all that he needs. We are only larger children, with larger and more imperative needs. Is there any help for us? We have outgrown the ability of our earthly parents to help us. What shall we do? As the thirsty ox turns to the babbling brook, we turn our eyes to the heavens and say, "My Father—God, help me." And quicker than thought the help comes. Here we have the philosophy of happiness and the secret of success. As witnesses to this fact we call to the stand Augustine, Bernard, John Howe, Isaac Watts and Charles Wesley. The upward look wins. The man who aspires to God, and holiness, and immortality is the one to whom this text is spoken. "All things are yours; for ye are Christ's and Christ is God's."

The thing that wise men are thinking about is life. Bread and acres and dollars are only incidental. God made the acres. God's sunshine and showers grew the grain from which the bread is made. God furnished the material to make the dollar. Therefore, acres and bread and dollars are good because God had something to do with producing them. These are valuable contributions to life, some of our life values. Life itself is worth more than all of them put together. The man who cultivates your farm is worth more than the farm. The man who builds your home is worth more than the house. We are not paupers. No man, woman or child in this world need be poor. There are other values beside dollars. We are heirs to untold riches. Our heavenly Father, the unseen capitalist, has invested largely in us, and He is no spendthrift. He has put the value where it may multiply. Life is a feeble thing at the beginning; so is the acorn, but in the acorn is the massive oak; so is the bulb, but the bulb contains the tint and perfume of the lily. So life as we see it in the babe, it contains a Kepler, a Newton, a Gladstone, a McKinley.

Character is a result, a product. Character tells the story of our conduct and industry. Character is the fruitage of our thinking, our willing, our loving, our doing. And character is the man. Character determines one's value to himself and to society. This is what makes biography the popular literature of our day. People interest people. Biography is death to pessimism. Thousands of men and women have succeeded in life. They have feasted on the universe and enjoyed the infinite, and the books tell us how they did it. My young friends, the one thing in this world for you to do, is to follow their example. You may. Character is no ready made thing; it is made to order. It means plan and purpose and persistence. You do not have to make the machinery nor the material; these are furnished. The selection of the web, the feeding of the loom, the weaving of the cloth is ours. The result is character, and character is destiny. This is the work of life. Human chances are not equal. Circumstances favor some more than others. No doubt of it. But then every man has a chance, aye, more, every man has a probability of success. There are possibilities of failure, and many seem to fail, but there is no excuse for failure. Oh, horrible, heartbreaking word is failure. May none of you ever know what it means. There is a way of escape from it. Make a right, not to say, best, use of what is in you, wisely appropriate what is about you, give reason the rein. Enthrone conscience. Be religious. And every step will be an ascent, every act the advance of the soul, and the enrichment of being. All things are yours to do with.

It was never easier to be good than now. Perhaps it is never easy to be good. What makes it easier to be good to-day than it was yesterday? The multiplicity of helps at hand. To read some newspapers and to hear some speakers, one would suppose that nobody was good. The fact is, the world is full of good people. What is goodness? Not the muttering of a creed nor the repeating of a prayer; not the reading of the Bible nor going to church. Good people do these things, but these things are not essentially goodness. Bad people may do them, too. Goodness is consideration for the other fellow, sweetness of temper, gentleness of conduct, nobleness of purpose, love to God and man. It is to live kindly and truly and well. It is like the Christ doing good every day and everywhere. This is the goodness that counts in our day. And we rejoice to believe that it is constantly on the increase. Goodness is true religion, and true religion is goodness. The two are inseparable. It is a culturing, refining, elevating process. It is ever making for the best that life is capable of. What God wants for His children is the best. The desire of God is human happiness. To this end He is patient and indulgent. He is prodigal in gifts. He is ever lavishing His love upon us. God is neither mean nor little. He is the great Father, giving Himself for the salvation, the enrichment, the perfect happiness of His children. God is not the author of pain. He takes no delight in tears. The blessed Saviour ceases not in His age-long effort to make the sons of earth happy. The law of the universe, the design of everything is happiness. Happiness is everywhere. Wander in the woods, walk in the meadow, meander by the stream, rest in the valley and climb to the hilltop, and in everything and everywhere you will find happiness. It springs up like a well of life, filling the air with its music, flooding the earth with its joys. How much more does our heavenly Father desire you, His children, to be happy. The only condition of happiness is to be good. "Blessed are the poor in heart, for they shall see God." Holiness of life maketh rich and tendeth not to poverty.

To the untutored, this looks like an impossible thing, and many ask: "How can I do this?" Easy enough. All that is needed is the disposition, and the effort. First of all, look at your bank account. Did you know you had a bank account? Well, you have. See, please, what stands to your credit, the gift of another. These assets are ours because we live in the twentieth century, and because we are Anglo-Saxons. "All things are yours. Whether Paul or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or things present, or things to come; all are yours; and ye are Christ's and Christ is God's." That is a wonderful statement. It places us under tremendous obligation. What an incentive to attempt something, what an inspiration to noble achievement. The great personalities of history—Paul, Cephas, Apollos. Past, present, future. The world, God and Christ, all yours, to make the goal and win. Then there can be no excuse for failure.

A practical question which meets us is, "How may I utilize these many gifts of God for my own advancement and betterment?" The answer is, "By right appropriation." Just as the parched earth drinks in the gentle rain drops, making the grass to grow; just as the bee sips the honey from the fragrant flower, so we must learn to appropriate the good in everything, to our own growth and refinement. Life everywhere is sustained by appropriating the outward to itself. The great intellects which teach and bless the world to-day are great and capable because of this appropriation of knowledge. To the good belongs the best of two worlds. It was once thought that the Christian's world was exceedingly limited. The Bible, hymnal, a long sermon and a dreary prayer meeting were all that the Christian had any right to. Anything else would chill his fervor and narrow his vision and tarnish his soul. Thank God, that day is so far behind us. To-day we know that everything within reach and everything within sight is ours, if we love God, to be used in the advancement and enrichment of our lives.

Look at it a moment. Take an inventory. Try to itemize the blessings of the good God. Explore the world of art, the product of the centuries, it is ours, for God made the beautiful. What a store house of lessons and inspirations and soul delights are the art galleries of the world! The windows in cathedrals and churches have for ages been telling the story of Christ. "The Nativity," by Burne-Jones, is the pride of England; "The Transfiguration," by Raphael, the glory of Italy. These are but samples of the beautiful in art, which are ours for the delight and culture of the soul. All sciences and literatures belong to us, for God is the Author of all truth. Shakespeare and Booth and De Reszke, these and the host of others like them, are ours to charm away our cares and rest of mind. The marketplace crowded with the yield of the field, the wealth of the mine, the product of the factory, is ours, for God is imminent in nature and industry and human skill. The advance in surgery and medicine, the limitless pleasures in travel—all this is ours, available and usable assets to make life rich and happy and good. All this is the product of the past, the gift of the good God. Its presence should shame badness out of existence. How can people be bad when they think of the goodness of God? What are we doing with life's assets? They are the raw materials out of which we may weave the soul's seraphic robe; they are the steps by which we ascend to the home of perfect day. They are to our spirits what air and dew and sunlight are to the seed. Plants grow by appropriating things ab extra to their use; souls grow by doing the same way. The business of life is to convert all these forces and gifts into life and character. The soul must drink in its full of God and rise to the perfect life in the endless day beyond the stars.

What we need to know to-day is the proper use of things. That means study, the exercise of the mind. Others have studied and thought for us. The result is the locomotive, carrying us sixty miles an hour; the electric wire, by which we talk to a friend 1000 miles away. If wealth is to benefit the owner of it, he must use it and use it wisely. So, if we are to feel the stimulus and reap the benefit of the accumulations of the ages, as life's assets; if these are to answer their need, in the making of a man—we must study and think and pray. In the right use of these is the making of a holy character.

All that has been said is, we believe, true. But it is not the whole truth. We must go a step further. Man has heart conditions and soul needs, which neither nature, nor science, nor Scripture, can meet. Man needs a God. God is everywhere. God is in the sunlight which bathes us every day with its warmth and glory. He is in the bread which we eat; He is in the music which comes floating through the air, making the heart to dance for joy. But this God is too vague, too vast, too impersonal. Can this God be personalized? It is God's eternal purpose to adapt Himself to the limitations and needs of His children. We do not think of God merely as Power, or Majesty, or Holiness. God is Love. Love is the winning thing. Love conquers. Love is bent on drawing home to the Father's heart all His wayward and lost ones. The human heart cries for God. What kind of a God? Not the God of the atheist, not the God of the Deist, not the God of the narrow theologian, but the Eternal God. And Jesus Christ has revealed Him to the world. This Jesus Christ and this God are ours. This completes the list. There is nothing more that can be added. Flowers, pictures, music, ships, railroads, telephones, philosophy, science, religion, human fellowships, friendships, loves, plus God and Christ. All are yours. Don't complain of poverty any more; never be afraid of failure; never again say "I can't."

Goodness does not mean exemption from the common ills of life. Every life has its burdens, every heart has its own secret sorrow. We would not minimize the cares which are inevitable. They are not joyous, but grievous. Many tears are shed in the private chamber. Many feet are treading lonely paths. And blessed be God, our heavenly Father knows it all. The Christ, the Saviour of Men, is touched with the feelings of our infirmities. All the love of the Deity, all the power of the Almighty, all the compassion of the Lover of Souls, is for us. Look up, then. Be of good cheer. 'Tis better further on. In company with the Saviour, nothing can harm us. The path of the good is as the shining light, shining more and more unto the perfect day.

"Loose me from earth's enclosure, from the sun's Contracted circle set my heart at large;
Eliminate my spirit, give it range
Through provinces of thought yet unexplored;
Teach me, by this stupendous scaffolding, Creation's golden steps, to climb to Thee."

No Triumphal Entry.

It is the irony of history that Christ's entry into Palestine is so often misinterpreted. To me there is hardly more bitter irony in the life of Jesus than to speak of His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. The multitude came out to meet Him, threw their garments and palm branches in front of Him, and the people sang. But what of the central figure? He saw the great city, and wept over it. What a contrast was that with the triumphal march of a conqueror.—Rev. Dr. A. A. Berle, Salem, Mass.

The Only Standard.

Our churchman's life has paganism in it. Nowadays many men are saying "If a pagan is honest, pure and true, why should he need religion? Outside of the Christian life there is no standard of right. Christ is the only standard.—Bishop William Lawrence, Episcopalian, Boston.

THE SUNDAY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON FOR JUNE 9

Subject: Christ's Trial Before Pilate—Luke xv., 1-15—Golden Text—Memory Verses, 12, 13—On the Day's Lesson.

I. Jesus before the Jews (vv. 1). 1. "In the morning," after the trials. The first was before the authorities, who brought charges against Him, the punishment was death. The second was before the Roman procurator, who had power to inflict the death penalty. "The chief priests." The heads of the twenty-four courses of the ex-high priests. "Elders," probably from among the most influential men. "Scribes." Teachers of the law, who were educated in the rabbinical schools of the church. "The whole council," the Sanhedrin, the highest Jewish court, composed of seventy-one members. They condemn to death, but the power to execute the sentence rested with the Roman procurator.

II. Pilate questioning Jesus (vv. 2). 2. "And Pilate." Jesus was brought before the regular meeting of the court, probably in the judgment hall of Pilate's palace (John 18:28; Luke 23:1), which was in the northwest tower of Antonia, just over the northwest corner of the temple area (see vv. 2-4 and Matt. 27:11-14 and notes). This was the first trial before the Roman procurator. "Art Thou," etc. The Sanhedrin supposes that Jesus has been claiming to be a king. He is charged with three principal charges before Pilate: (1) Sedition—perverting the people, forbidding to pay tribute to Cæsar. (2) Claiming to be a king. Jesus admits it (John 18:33-38) how Jesus so explained His kingship and His kingdom as not to say, "I find in Him no fault," but only "Thou sayest it." An Aramaic idiom which means, "It is as thou sayest." 3. The Jews refused to enter the judgment hall "because their defilement would be ceremonial (not the law of God) defilement, and would be ceremonially unclean if they entered the house of a Gentile during or just before the feast;" Pilate, therefore, went out and had a conference with them (John 23:2; John 18:28-32). Pilate then entered the judgment hall and held a private conference with Jesus (Luke 23:3; John 18:33-38), after which he again went out to the Jews and publicly declared his belief that Jesus was innocent. 4. "As he was then brought out to the people," probably by their accusations. "Many things," which were mere technicalities and false charges, for they either wholly falsified or misrepresented His statements so as to make it appear that He was a confessed criminal. "He answered nothing." He was under no obligation to prove His innocence. He knew that His accusers could not prove their charges. The law required two witnesses to establish testimony and therefore if they could not agree, as in this case, there was no need of His defending Himself. 5. "Asked Him again." Pilate was convinced by the examination that Jesus was innocent, and was therefore not ready to face the Jews and release the prisoner His liberty. 5. "But they were the more fierce." Pilate was probably more than ever convinced of the innocence of Jesus by the way He bore this so meekly and patiently. He saw that the Jews were ready for railing, for any charge, however false, and was ready to set up a defense.

III. The Jews choose Barabbas (vv. 6-11). In verses 6-15 we have the account of the second trial before Pilate, which was the third act in the process against Christ. 6. "Released," etc. The custom of releasing a prisoner was in harmony with the spirit of the feast and, however it originated, was now completely established and Pilate was obliged to attend to it. 8. "Barabbas." An insurrectionist, a robber and a murderer. He was accused of much worse crimes than those charged against Jesus. He had a short time before this evidently been a ringleader in a bloody attempt to break in Jerusalem against the Roman Government. "With them," the associates of Barabbas were also in prison, under arrest and in prison, etc. Pilate is laboring hard to release Jesus, and yet he does not dare to defy the authority, but constantly yields to the clamoring of the wicked Jews.

10. "He knew—for envy." There was no doubt whatever about it. The tumultuous scene now being enacted before Pilate was the motive that had prompted the Jews to bring the accused before the governor. They had found nothing more or less than envy of the great influence he had gained and the hold he had won throughout the land. They were, therefore, by appealing directly to the people, to procure our Lord's death. 11. "Moved the people." The word translated moved only occurs here and in the parallel, Luke 23:5. It means to shake to and fro, to brandish, as in threatening gestures; (3) to excite, to instigate. Their efforts were successful when Pilate put the question, "What shall I do?" 12. Away with this man—this one who had defiled whom they had lately received with hosannas into their city—and release unto us Barabbas. This was the climax of human degradation—to have a murderer whom mankind preferred to Him!

IV. Jesus delivered up (vv. 12-15). 12. "Pilate answered." Pilate's question at this time, while the people were clamoring for His death so loudly, and the messenger came from Pilate's wife (Matt. 27:19), urging the release of Jesus, and telling that she had just suffered many things in a dream because of Him, must have shown what various persons thought as to the innocence of the Holy One. Herod, Pilate's wife, Judas, the penitent thief on the cross and the centurion at the crucifixion. "What will you have me do unto Matthew Pilate's question, "What shall I do with Jesus, who is called Christ? This is a question which every one must answer. 1. Every one must receive or reject Him. 2. Rejecting Him is the great sin of the world. 3. The consequences of rejecting Him here we will be rejected by Him hereafter. 13. "Crucify Him." Crucifixion was the most ignominious death.

14. "Why." Pilate made a last and most correct appeal. "Cried out the more." There were no questions to be answered, no reasons to be given them; they were resolved to have their own way. Nothing else would satisfy them.

15. "Wishing to content the people." Pilate was a weak man Pilate was; he was afraid of the opinions of the people. He knew Jesus was innocent, he pronounced the sentence he did, he washed his hands publicly, and in acts what he uttered with his lips, "I am innocent of the blood of this just person: see ye to it" (Matt. 27:24). "His blood be on us," answered all the people and said: "His blood be on us and on our children."

In less than forty years after this declaration the Romans came and destroyed such numbers of Jews that, according to Josephus, there was no room for the crosses. No doubt scores of thousands of persons, and certainly thousands, were slain by this very death. Pilate ordered the scourge of leather thongs, studded with lead, or armed with sharp bones, which lacerated the back. Probably Pilate hoped the scourging would satisfy the Jews.

Dr. Andren, president of Augustana college, Moline, Ill., has received notice of the gift of 5,000 crowns (about $1,300) by King Oscar of Sweden to the institution.

Cool weather continues throughout the sugar belt, and in this respect the condition is exactly favorable. However, rain is good everywhere and no complaint is made concerning the crop condition.

ARE STILL BUYING PIANOS

Frank G. Fite Stock Pianos, Organs and Music Boxes.

BY THE E. E. FORBES AND COMPANY

Hundred Dollars Saved on Piano Even After Paying Freight.

Forbes Piano sale continues with success not only so far as Birmingham is concerned, but the state. The newspapers of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi have printed the big purchase and the people from all over the South have written regarding pianos in this sale. What makes this sale as a genuine money saving fact that seventy-five of the pianos have resulted in sales. Pianos found upon receipt of our letters, the different makes of pianos, the prices at which we have been generally about $100 more for the same Piano would cost in the same town after they have paid the freight from Birmingham made this statement in the advertisement last week and a few days "Thomas" in the south of Birmingham went over to the freight office and ascertained the rate on Pianos. Mr. Forbes was honest enough to confess that the Piano he wanted he could get even a little more than the price by paying the freight. Pianos from various parts of the country can buy just as cheap as if they were in Birmingham, as each piano is plainly marked, and there will be represented in this sale no possible little likelihood of any one getting a certain make Piano without getting it. The great point is, however, that there are so many pianos represented and all of them of high national reputation. There are pianos represented in the sale a lot of pianos just received from the factories. We contract for a large number of Pianos the first of the year, so many to be taken during the year in order to get the extra large discount for buying many pianos, and as these Pianos are being sold, we are naturally selling them at about $75 or $100 less than regular prices on account of the low prices that we are getting on similar instruments which are bought from the Frank G. Fite Co.

Any one contemplate buying a Piano within the next six months it will pay you to inform yourself of the present sale and it is not necessary to pay the money at once, but a small payment down and the rest on our easy payment system enabling you to have the Piano now and have the money during the latter part of the year or early next spring.

Before you buy hear any one of our Four Pianos and you will find some of these pianos in the Forbes store, and you can see for yourself just how big bargains

Forbes Piano Co.

BIRMINGHAM STORES:

Birmingham Anniston
Gadsden Mobile

to WOMEN

Trial Box and book of information absolutely Free and Postpaid to prove the value of Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic

Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water — non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution—lasts longer—goes further—has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.

Endorsed by a noted Boston physician, a great success as a Vaginal Douche for Catarrh, Nasal Catarrh, Sore Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, Sores of mucus membrane.

Recommended by leading physicians. Treatment of female ills Paxtine is used as a Vaginal Wash and Antiseptic Powder. The world to produce its equal for It is a revelation in cleansing power; it kills all germs which cause inflammation and discharges.

Druggists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. If your druggist does not, send to us for it. Don't accept a substitute — there is nothing like Paxtine.

Send for Free Box of Paxtine to-day.

THE R. PAXTON CO., 7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.

RIPANS TABULES are the best dyspepsia medicine ever made. A hundred millions of them have been sold in a single year. Constipation, heartburn, sick headache, dizziness, bad breath, sore throat and every illness arising from a disordered stomach are relieved or cured by Ripans Tabules. One will generally give relief in five minutes. The five cent package is enough for common cases. All druggists sell them.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

DOG

MRS. "I suffered with rheumatism and doctor dreaded to go woman bottles, kept taking so much and had years."

Mrs. N. Dalton, Cheyenne and Washington promiscuous.

Miss writes: "Next years in need curing Miss Avenue of the writes: "I am irregular and dreadful would keep gained had entirely woman Miss Cleveland "I was sandy cured fered and when I had

In Wax

And get with Ointment Cure, sweet It means refresh tured, and bu rest fo mother fails.

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Soap, 25c. Ointment, 50c. Resolvent, 25c. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, U. S. A. Potter Drug & Chem. Co., Ltd., London, E. C. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

...sy enough. All that is ...sposition, and the effort. ...k at your bank account. ...on had a bank account? ...See, please, what stands ...s off of another. These ...because we live in the ..., and because we are ...All things are yours. ...Apollos, or Cephas, or ...gs present, or things to ...come; and we are Christ's ...this. That is a wonder- ...ves us under tremen- ...What an incentive to ...what an inspiration to ...the great personalities ...to us, Apollos, Past, ...Present, God and ...to make the goal and ...can be no excuse for ...on which meets us in, ...these many gifts of ...increment and better- ...ness. By right appro- ...as the parched earth ...dew drops, making the ...fast as the bee sips the ...fragrant flower, so we must ...ate the good in every ...growth and refinement. ...sustained by appropriat- ...to itself. The great in- ...ach and bless the world ...and capable because of this ...knowledge. To the good ...of two worlds. It was ...the Christian's world ...limited. The Bible, ...mon and a dreary prayer ...that the Christian had ...thing else would chill ...narrow his vision and ...God, that day is ...Feebly we know that ...and everything ...God, to be ...and enrichment

...ample. Take an inventory, ...the blessings of the good ...deed of art, the product ...of genius. The God made ...Your store house of les- ...sons and soul delights are ...of the world! The win- ...dows and churches have for ...the stories of Christ. "The ...mind shapes as the pride of ...the reincarnation," by Raphi- ...dim. These are but sam- ...ples of art, which are ours ...and culture of the soul. ...Literatures belong to us, ...most of all truth. Shake- ...speare and De Reszke, these ...others like them, are ours ...for ears and rest of mind. ...We are crowded with the yield of ...all of the mine, the prod- ...ucts of ours, for God is immi- ...nent. Industry and human ...genius in surgery and medi- ...cine, pleasures in travel—all ...valuable and available assets ...to end happy and good. ...Possibilities of the past, the ...good. His presence should ...be of assistance. How can ...we, when they think of the ...What are we doing with ...days are the raw materials ...now we've the soul's ser- ...vice the steps by which ...to mount of perfect day. ...Success want air and dew ...to the seed. Plants ...growing trees all extra to ...those of change the atmo- ...sphere to convert ...and gases into life and ...soul must drink in its ...rise to the perfect life in ...beyond the stars.

...d to know to day is the ...science. That means study, ...the mind. Others have ...gone before us. The result is ...recorded in sixty rules an ...a way by which we talk ...to ages away. If wealth ...consists of it, he must use ...well. So, if we are to feel ...and reap the benefit of the ...ages, as life's assets, ...possess their need, in the ...end we must study and ...In the right use of these ...a holy character.

...Jesus said is, we believe, ...not the whole truth. We ...further: Man has heart ...soul needs, which neither ...science, nor Scripture, can ...tell us God. God is every- ...where in the sunlight which ...fills the day with its warmth and ...in the bread which we eat; ...in the music which comes floating ...through the air, making the heart to dance ...before God is too vague, too ...personal. Can this God be ...known? Can this God be ...in God's eternal purpose ...to be the limitations and ...hindrances? We do not think ...of the Power or Majesty, or ...even of the Love. Love is the win- ...ning element. Love is bent ...upon the Father's heart all and ...at once. The human ...soul. What kind of a God? ...Is it not the God of the narrow ...mind, but the God of the Eternal God. And ...Jesus revealed Him to the ...world. And this God ...is the God ...of the best. There ...is no need to invent Flow- ...ers, ships, railroads, tele- ...phones, science, religion, hu- ...manities, books, plus ...all. We are yours. Don't ...worry and worry; never be ...afraid to say "I can't." ...There is no question from ...the lips of God. Every lie has its ...heart in its own secret ...and can organize the cares ...of the world. They are not joys. ...Many tears are shed in ...vain. Many feet are tread- ...worn and blessed be God, our ...Father knows it all. The Christ, ...Who is touched with the ...feeling of our infirmities. All the love of ...the heart of the Lover of Souls, ...is for us. In com- ...parison, nothing can harm ...us. The good is as the shining ...more and more unto the ...perfect day.

...can be secure, from the ...assaults of men at large; ...but the soul that yet unex- ...plored is small thing, ...and to Thee."

Triumphal Entry.

...In all history that Christ's ...life is so often misinter- ...preted. There is nearly more bit- ...terness of Jesus than to speak ...of His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. ...He came out to meet Him. ...But ...To see the ...Well a com- ...pany of ... Rev. Dr. A. Berle,

...Only Standard.

...Dr. Andren, president ...college, Moline, Ill., has ...tice of the gift of 6,000 ...$1,300) by King Oscar ...the institution.

Cool weather contin... throughout the sugar d... this respect the conditi... actly favorable. Howev... good everywhere and ... made concerning the ...tion.

THE SUNDAY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON FOR JUNE 5.

Subject: Christ's Trial Before... xv., 1-15—Golden Text, ... —Memory Verses, 13, 14... on the Day's Lesson.

I. Jesus before the Jew... 1). 1. "In the morning." ... trials. The first was before ... authorities, who brought ... against Him, the punishm... was death. The second tr... the Roman procurator, Pil... power to inflict the death pe... priests." The heads of the ... the ex-high priests. "Elders," ... from among the most influ... "Scribes." Teachers of the ... were educated in the liter... church. "The whole counci... hedrin, the highest Jewish ... posed of seventy-one membe... condemn to death, but the ... the sentence rested with the ... curator.

II. Pilate questioning Je... 2. "And Pilate." Jesus wa... the regular meeting of the ... the judgment hall of Pilate ... Luke 23:1), which was "pro... tower of Antonia, just outsi... west corner of the temple a... 2-4 and Matt. 27:11-14 are ... the first trial before the R... tor. "Art Thou," etc. This ... supposes that Jesus had ... claimed to be a king. The ... three principal charges agai... Sedition—perverting the peo... bidding to pay tribute to ... Claiming to be a king. John ... 18:33-38) how Jesus so expla... alty and His kingdom as to ... to say, "I find in Him no ... "Thou sayest it." An affirm... which means, "It is as thou s...

3. The Jews refused to e... ment hall "because their Jew... (not the law of God) declare... monially unclean if they enter... of a Gentile during or just bef... over feast;" Pilate, therefo... and had a conference with ... 23:2; John 18:28-32). Pilate ... the judgment hall and held ... ference with Jesus (Luke 23... 33-38), after which he again ... the Jews and publicly decla... his belief that Jesus was inn... was then brought out to the ... their accusations. "Many ... were mere technicalities and ... they either wholly falsified ... His statements so as to ma... that He was a confessed cr... swered nothing." He was ... His innocence. He knew the... not prove their charges. T... testimony and therefore He ... there was no need of His ... "Asked Him again." Pilate ... that Jesus was innocent, and ... not ready to face the Jews ... prisoner His liberty. 5. ... Pilate was probably more ... He bore this so meekly and d... railing for railing, than that ... set up a defense.

III. The Jews choose Ba... 11). In verses 6-15 we have ... the second trial before Pilat... the third act in the proce... Christ. 6. "Released," etc. ... was in harmony with the ... feast and, however it origin... completely established that ... obliged to attend to it. Se... "Barabbas." An insurrectio... and a murderer. He was act... much worse crimes than the... against Jesus. He had a sho... this evidently been a ringlea... break in Jerusalem against... Government. "With them... ciates of Barabbas were also ... under arrest and in prison; ... etc. Pilate is laboring ha... Jesus, and yet he does not ... thority, but constantly yield... oring of the wicked Jews. ... the most ignominious death...

14. "Why." Pilate ma... rect appeal. "Cried out th... were no questions to be... them; they were resolved ... Nothing else would satisfy ...

15. "Wishing to content ... a weak man Pilate was; ... opinions of the people. B... nounced the sentence he ... washed his hands publicly, ... in acts what he uttered i... innocent of the blood of t... see ye to it" (Matt. 27:24). ... all the people and said: "... us and on our children."

In less than forty years ... mation the Romans came... such numbers of Jews th... Josephus, there was no m... the crosses. No doubt so... persons, and certainly the... by this very death. "... The scourge of leather th... with lead, or armed with s... which lacerated the back... Pilate hoped the scourgi... the Jews.

Triumphal Entry.

Dr. Andren, president ... college, Moline, Ill., has ... tice of the gift of 6,000 ... $1,300) by King Oscar ... the institution.

Cool weather contin... throughout the sugar d... this respect the conditi... actly favorable. Howev... good everywhere and ... made concerning the ... tion.

ARE STILL BUYING PIANOS

Frank G. Fite Stock ...os, Organs and Music Boxes.

BY THE E. E. FORBES ...NO COMPANY

...dred Dollars Saved ...Piano Even After ...ying Freight.

...Forbes Piano sale contin- ...success not only so far as ... is concerned, but ...the state. The newspapers ...rt of Alabama, Florida, ...Mississippi have printed ...the big purchase and the ...been that people from all ...uth have written regard- ...nos in this sale. What ...sale as a genuine money ...fact that seventy-five of ...ies have resulted in sales. ...found upon receipt of our ...the different makes of ...the prices at which we ...is generally about $100 ...e same Piano would cost ...e town after they have ... freight from Birming- ... made this statement ...isement last week and a ...Thomas" in the south of ...ent over to the freight of- ...certained the rate on Pi- ...as honest enough to con- ...the Piano he wanted he ...even a little more than ... paying the freight. ...e from various parts of ...n buy just as cheap as if ...in Birmingham, as each ...finly marked, and there ...y represented in this sale ...s little likelihood of any ...a certain make Piano ...ing it. The great point ..., that there are so many ...esented and all of them ...ational reputation. There ...esented in the sale a lot ...s just received from the ...ories. We contract for a ...umber of Pianos the first ..., so many to be taken ...in order to get the extra ...rge discount for buying ...ies, and as these Pianos ...sold, we are naturally ...ll them at about $75 or ...n regular prices on ac- ...low prices that we are ...similar instruments which ...from the Frank G. Fite ...

...emplate buying a Piano ...months it will pay you ...self of the present sale ...not necessary to pay the ...t at once, but a small ...t and the rest on our ...me payment system en- ...have the Piano now and ...uring the latter part of ... next spring. ...ear any one of our Four ...will find some of these ...h store, and you can see ...just how big bargains

...rbes Piano Co.

...R STORES:

...am Anniston

...ery Mobile

to WOMEN

...rial Box and book of in- ...solutely Free and Post- ...to prove the value of ...Toilet Antiseptic

Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water — non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution — lasts longer — goes further—has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.

...of a noted Boston physician, great success as a Vaginal ...rrhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, ...s of mucus membrane. ...ent of female ills Paxtine is ...el as a Vaginal Wash wo... ...ld to produce its equal for ...It is a revelation in cleansing ...er; it kills all germs which ...tion and discharges. ...ists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. ...se not, send to us for it. Don't ...— there is nothing like Paxtine. Free Box of Paxtine to-day. 7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.

RIPANS TABULES are the best dys... ...pepsia medicine ever made. A hun... ...dred millions of them have been sold ...in a single year. Constipation, heart... ...burn, sick headache, dizziness, bad ...breath, sore throat and every illness ...arising from a disordered stomach ...are relieved or cured by Ripans Tab... ...lets. One will generally give relief ...in ten minutes. The five cent package is enough ...for an occasion. All druggists sell them.

...S CURE FOR ...IT ALL ELSE FAILS. ...Syrup. Tastes Good. Use ... Sold by druggists. ...SUMPTION 25 CTS.

DOCTOR ADVOCATED OPERATION— PE-RU-NA MADE KNIFE UNNECESSARY.

MRS. EVA BARTHO.

MRS. EVA BARTHO, 133 East 12th St., New York City, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for three years with leucorrhea and ulceration of the womb. The doctor advocated an operation which I dreaded very much, and strongly objected to go under it. Now I am a changed woman. Peruna cured me; it took nine bottles, but I felt so much improved I kept taking it, as I dreaded an operation so much. I am to-day in perfect health and have not felt so well for fifteen years."—Mrs. Eva Bartho.

Mrs. Senator Roach, of Larimore, N. Dak.; Mrs. Senator Warren, of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Belva Lockwood and Mrs. General Longstreet, of Washington, D. C., are among the prominent ladies who indorse Peruna.

Miss Helen Rolof, Kaukauna, Wis., writes:

"Several times during the past two years Peruna has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at those times Peruna has been of great help in building up the system, restoring my appetite and securing restful sleep."—Helen Rolof.

Miss Muriel Armitage, 36 Greenwood Ave., Detroit, Mich., District Organizer of the Royal Templars of Temperance, writes as follows:

"I suffered for five years with uterine irregularities, which brought on hysteria and made me a physical wreck. I tried doctors from the different schools of medicine, but without any perceptible change in my condition. In my despair I called on an old nurse, who advised me to try Peruna, and promised good results if I would persist and take it regularly. I kept this up for six months, and steadily gained strength and health, and when I had used fifteen bottles I considered myself entirely cured. I am a grateful, happy woman to-day."—Miss Muriel Armitage.

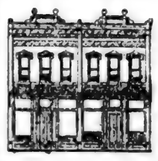
Miss Lucy M. Riley, 33 Davenport St., Cleveland, Ohio, writes:

"I wish to add my indorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured through the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when wearied or worried in the least I had prolonged headache. I am now in perfect health, enjoy life and have neither an ache or pain, thanks to Peruna."—Lucy M. Riley.

It is no longer a question as to whether Peruna can be relied on to cure all such cases. During the many years in which Peruna has been put to test in all forms and stages of acute and chronic catarrh no one year has put this remedy to greater test than the past year.

If all the women who are suffering with any form of female weakness would write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and give him a complete description of their symptoms and the peculiarities of their troubles, he will immediately reply with complete directions for treatment, free of charge.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.



STORE FRONTS

For all kinds and sizes of Store Buildings. We furnish all material entering into the construction of Store Fronts. Write us about your proposed building and state dimensions and style of front and we will send you, FREE OF CHARGE, an elegant Blue Print Plan, and quote you an extremely low price on one of our popular

Beautiful, Everlasting

Modern Store Fronts. We give you all the style of an elegant New York or Chicago store at moderate cost. Send for Catalogue.

SOUTHERN FOUNDRY CO., Owensboro, Kentucky

SLEEP For Skin Tortured Babies and Rest For Tired Mothers

In Warm Baths with Cuticura SOAP

And gentle anointings with CUTICURA Ointment, the great Skin Cure, and purest and sweetest of emollients. It means instant relief and refreshing sleep for tortured, disfigured, itching, and burning babies, and rest for tired, fretted mothers, when all else fails.

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Soap, 25c., Ointment, 50c., Resolvent, 50c. (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60). Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors.

Send for "How to Cure Baby Humors."

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

Could You Use Any Kind of a Sewing Machine at Any Price?

If there is any price so low, any offer so liberal that you would think of accepting on trial a new high grade, drop cabinet or upright Minnesota, Singer, Wheeler & Wilson, Standard, White or New Home Sewing Machine, cut out and return this notice, and you will receive by return mail, postpaid, free of cost, the handsomest sewing machine catalogue ever published. It will name you prices on the Minnesota, Singer, Wheeler & Wilson, White, Standard and New Home sewing machines that will surprise you; we will make you a new and attractive proposition, a sewing machine offer that will astonish you.

If you can make any use of any sewing machine at any price, if any kind of an offer would interest you, don't fail to write us at once (be sure to cut out and return this special notice) and get our latest book, our latest offers, our new and most surprising proposition. Address

SEARS, ROEBUCK & Co., Chicago.

If the average man had his life to live over again he would probably make more mistakes than ever.

Feet Hurt,

Sweat, itch, blister? ROYAL FOOT WASH cures them. Removes odors of feet, armpits, etc.; stops chafing. If not at druggists send 25c to EATON DRUG Co., Atlanta, Ga., for full size, postpaid; sample for 2c stamp. One application proves its merit. Money back if not satisfied.

Advertising a Town.

The marvelous growth of Seattle, Wash. is credited mainly to newspaper publicity. The business men of that community raised a considerable sum to be expended for space in Eastern newspapers, and the returns were prompt and generous.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

People Must Be Told.

A writer on advertising says it is the aim of nearly every business concern to have a special and original feature. "But when such a specialty shall be found it must be advertised. No article can sell itself without the aid of advertising."

Chio Chu, son of Wu Ting Fang, former Chinese minister to the United States, has graduated at the head of his class in the Atlantic City high school. There were thirty-one in the class. The young Oriental will begin the study of medicine in Philadelphia next fall.

Philadelphia has the largest negro population of any city in the United States, except New Orleans, and the latter city has only twelve thousand more negroes than Philadelphia. Philadelphia has 75,000 negroes and the state of Pennsylvania 187,000.

One of the strangest churches is at Taramski, Australia. Each of its four walls bears a large advertisement. The church was built by the firms whose goods are advertised, and they claim that their investment will be a paying one.

There is an island in Puget sound, not more than half a mile across, which is populated with cats. The cats number thousands, and the strangest thing is that they are all black. Every evening a boat load of fishermen land on the island and lay out a seine a quarter of a mile long. They pull it in with never less than a ton of fish, but next morning these fish are gone. The cats devour them all. These cats have been placed here by men who are supplying the market with women's muffs. Once a year there is a great round-up, and several thousand pussies lose their lives.

Travelers in the Orient say that if a Chinaman undertakes a contract he will carry out its terms though it impoverish him. There is no trick he will not play to win his case where his word is not involved, but once let him give that word and you can bank on it that he will die rather than betray it. The Japanese are crafty business men. So long as they see profits in sight they will hold to a contract, but if there is a chance of losing Mr. Jap, in the majority of cases, will find some means to get under cover before the crash comes.

The tallest and largest human being in the world is a Russian, discovered recently in Kustjak, Russia, where he has been living with his parents. Feodor Machow, for such is the giant's name, is not only the largest man alive, but his measurements are greater than those of any known giant of the past two generations. Though but twenty-two years of age, he is 7 feet 9 inches high and well proportioned. Over a hundred doctors and scientists have examined him and his limbs have been photographed in every conceivable position.

French soldiers survivors of the Chinese expedition of 1856 are responsible for the statement that General Kuroki, who is leading the Japanese forces in Manchuria, is half French. His name, they say, is properly spelled Curique. According to the story of the soldiers, the French officer, Captain Curique, while serving in China in 1856, married a Japanese girl and a son was born to them, who was given the Japanese name Kuroki, corresponding to the French Curique. This son is General Kuroki.

Some Japanese tradesmen have a curious way of advertising their business. On their right forearms they tattoo figures—the shoemaker a shoe, the wood cutter an ax, the butcher a cleaver. Underneath these emblems are such inscriptions as "I do my work modestly and cheaply," or "I am as good at my trade as most of my fellows." When they are hunting work they bare their arms and walk about the streets.

Mrs. Emma Blaine holds that the dramatic instinct is strong in children and that by careful training it may be made "a power to construct in them stronger and better men and women, with the clearer images and finer thoughts." She suggests that the theaters set aside Saturday afternoons for plays to be given for the school children.

The government has decided that marriages contracted in the Philippines between United States soldiers and native women are not to be made a joke. An enlisted man who deserts his Filipino wife and children will be dishonorably discharged from the army. Some of the United States soldiers have already returned to this country, bringing their native wives with them.

At Wading River, Long Island, a double wedding, believed to be without precedent, will take place. The Misses Gertrude and Viola Baldwin, sisters, will become, respectively, the wives of two brothers, Shirley and David Baldwin. The interest in the double wedding is increased by the fact that all the contracting parties bear the same name.

Miss Mary Harrison, who has just succeeded in winning an open scholarship at the Royal College of Music, London, for the violin, at the age of ten, carried off the gold medal offered by the associated board of the Royal Academy and Royal College of Music from among 3,057 competitors.

At Rotterdam poor people who can not afford to pay a fee are married on Wednesday before noon.

TIME TO ACT.

When the back aches and you are always tired out, depressed and nervous—when sleep is disturbed by pain and by urinary ills, it's time to act. The kidneys are sick. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys quickly and permanently. Here's proof:

Mrs. W. S. Marshall, R. F. D., No. 1, Dawson, Ga., says: "My husband's back and hips were so stiff and sore that he could not get up from a chair without help. I got him a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. He felt relief in three days. One box cured him."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Marshall will be mailed on application, to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price 50 cents per box.

Young women may avoid much sickness and pain, says Miss Alma Pratt, if they will only have faith in the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell all young women how much Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was completely run down, unable to attend school, and did not care for any kind of society, but now I feel like a new person, and have gained seven pounds of flesh in three months.

"I recommend it to all young women who suffer from female weakness."—MISS ALMA PRATT, Holly, Mich.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO YOUNG GIRLS.

All young girls at this period of life are earnestly invited to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice; she has guided in a motherly way hundreds of young women; her advice is freely and cheerfully given, and her address is Lynn, Mass.

Judging from the letters she is receiving from so many young girls Mrs. Pinkham believes that our girls are often pushed altogether too near the limit of their endurance nowadays in our public schools and seminaries.

Nothing is allowed to interfere with studies, the girl must be pushed to the front and graduated with honor; often physical collapse follows, and it takes years to recover the lost vitality,—often it is never recovered.

A Young Chicago Girl Saved from Despair.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to thank you for the help and benefit I have received through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. When I was about seventeen years old I suddenly seemed to lose my usual good health and vitality. Father said I studied too hard, but the doctor thought different and prescribed tonics, which I took by the quart without relief. Reading one day in the paper of Mrs. Pinkham's great cures, and finding the symptoms described answered mine, I decided I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I did not say a word to the doctor; I bought it myself, and took it according to directions regularly for two months, and I found that I gradually improved, and that all pains left me, and I was my old self once more.—LILLIE E. SINCLAIR, 17 E. 22d St., Chicago Ill."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one sure remedy to be relied upon at this important period in a young girl's life; with it she can go through with courage and safety the work she must accomplish, and fortify her physical well being so that her future life may be insured against sickness and suffering.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

The first play given in France was "Cleopatra," in 1552.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

The man who manages to keep out of debt, out of jail and out of politics is a little above the average.

Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

It is the only cure for Swollen, Smarting, Tired, Aching, Hot, Sweating Feet, Corns and Bunions. Ask for Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder to be shaken into the shoes. Cures while you walk. At all Druggists and Shoe Stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. Sample sent FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N.Y.

During courtship a girl is often unable to express her thoughts, but she makes up for lost time after marriage.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle

Give a hungry man something to eat before handing him advice.

I am sure Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—MRS. THOMAS ROBLINS, Maple St., Norwich, N.Y., Feb. 17, 1900.

A chauffeur is a man who runs down pedestrians and runs up repair bills.

MOORE & HANDLEY HARDWARE CO.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

We are Headquarters for

MACHINERY

OF ALL KINDS

Send for Catalogue and Prices.

Engines,	Saw Mills,
Boilers,	Corn Mills,
Pumps,	Hose,
Valves,	Belting,
Fittings,	Injectors,
Pipe,	Governors.

Wood and Iron Pulleys, Scales, Shafting, Shingle Machines, Planers, Circular Saws, Hay Presses, Etc., Etc.

It is estimated that Russia's war expenses will reach $200,000,000 per day before the end of the year.

PIMPLES

"I tried all kinds of blood remedies which failed to do me any good but I have found the right thing at last. My face was full of pimples and blackheads. After taking Cascarets they all left. I am continuing the use of them and recommending them to my friends. I feel fine when I rise in the morning. Hope to have a chance to recommend Cascarets."

Fred C. Witten, 78 Elm St., Newark, N. J.

Best for The Bowels Cascarets CANDY CATHARTIC THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

Pleasant. Palatable. Potent. Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c. 25c. 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back.

Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or N.Y. 325

ANNUAL SALE, TEN MILLION BOXES

Am. 23, 1904.

LOW RATES

NASHVILLE & RETURN

Via..... QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE Account

United Confederate Veterans' Reunion

Tickets on sale June 10th to 15th, good returning June 18th. Privilege of extension

For information address

A. B. FREEMAN, T. P. A. Birmingham

or

J. C. CONN, D. P. A. Chattanooga

RAILROAD MEN LAID OFF

Seven Per Cent. of Entire Force of the United States Dropped.

REASON IS TRAFFIC DEPRESSION

Railroads Cut Off 75,000 Men—Resolve on the Greatest Reduction Known in Many Years—Pennsylvania Railroad Closes Down the Portage Line, Fifty Miles Long.

75,000 MEN PUT OUT.

This table will give an idea of the number of men put out of employment between April 15 and June 10:

Pennsylvania system.. 13,000
Vanderbilt lines.... 12,600
Railroads out of Chicago.....20,000
Gould system.. 7,500
Harriman line.. 8,000
Northwestern lines.... 10,000
Southern Railway.... 3,000
Other roads.. 2,000
Total.. 75,000

Philadelphia, Pa.—The reduction of the working forces of the railroads in this country is more extensive and radical than was thought a month ago would be necessary. Estimates are that not less than 75,000 employes have been dropped from the railroad payrolls. A large proportion of these employes are losing their jobs under orders from company headquarters to dismiss from the freight departments every person not absolutely needed. Train hands, station men and clerks have been receiving notices to quit since April 15, and by June 10 it is expected that the weeding out process will have been completed.

With the exception of the panic period beginning in 1893, this is the most general reduction of railroad working forces known at any one time. The main cause of this sweeping wave of railroad economy is the rapid falling off in freight shipments within the last six weeks. Freight traffic managers both East and West report that the outlook is not bright for the summer.

The Pennsylvania Railroad began reducing its force between Pittsburg and Chicago about the middle of April, but has been impelled to extend the lines of economy in consequence of the steady decrease in earnings from freight traffic. Starting with the intention of laying off about 5000 employes, the Pennsylvania management has gradually extended its weeding process until more than 13,000 "blue envelopes" have been sent out by this company alone.

Shortage of traffic and consequent necessity for reducing expenses on the Pennsylvania Railroad are the reasons given for the closing to through traffic of the new Portage branch built within two years at a cost of $5,000,000.

The new Portage line was built to supplement the main line, and to give an alternate route between the summit of the Allegheny Mountains, at the east end of the Kallitzin tunnels and Pittsburg. That required the construction of a new double track line down the mountain to Hollidaysburg, a distance of seventeen miles, and the double tracking of the old Petersburg branch.

Vanderbilt lines, including the Boston and Albany, will strike at least 12,000 from the pay rolls, and according to advices from the West, the railroads running out of Chicago have already made provision to discard about 20,000 employes. The Burlington alone cuts about 6000 names off its pay rolls.

During the last year the railroad employes in the United States numbered about 1,150,000. The present reduction in forces, therefore, amounts to about seven per cent. of the whole number.

Experienced railroad men say that under ordinary circumstances about two per cent. of the employes are laid off during the summer months. The present depressed condition appears to be felt more severely by the Eastern than by the extreme Western roads.

3000 Discharged Foreigners Go Home.

Altoona, Pa.—Three thousand foreigners employed on the various railroads, workings of contractors and in the Pennsylvania Railroad shops in and near Altoona, who have been suspended, have left for their homes in European countries.

JURY ACQUITS GENERAL TYNER.

Verdict of the Jury Was Unanimous On the First Ballot.

Washington, D. C.—Former Assistant Attorney-General James M. Tyner, who was Postmaster-General in the Cabinet of President Grant and who has held many important offices of trust under the Government, and Harrison J. Barrett, former Assistant Attorney of the Postoffice Department and nephew of General Tyner, were acquitted in Criminal Court No. 1 of the charge of conspiracy and bribery in connection with the postal scandals. The jury was out only half an hour. Only one ballot was taken, and there was not a single vote for conviction. General Tyner, who is seventy-nine years old and so ill and feeble that he has been carried to the court room every day since the trial began a month ago, broke down and wept with joy when the verdict was announced to him. It is the general opinion in Washington that General Tyner's age and physical condition may have influenced the jury to some extent.

Three hundred union cigar makers at Chicago went on strike for higher wages.

There is not a granite cutter in the United States who works longer than eight hours a day.

Idle miners at Madisonville, Ky., threaten trouble because non-union men have taken their places.

The strike of 100 carders and back boys threw out of work at Pawtucket, R. I, over 500 other employes.

Owing to wage differences, 250 bakers went on strike in Cleveland, reducing the bread output one-half.

BANKER SACRIFICES LIFE

R. H. Plant Kills Himself That Insurance May Be Available.

SAVES DEPOSITORS $800,000

Southern Financier Atones Through Death For Crash of Two Banks of Which He Was Head—Revolver Ends His Troubles—Had $1,015,000 Insurance, Which is Incontestable.

Macon, Ga.—A tragic sequel to the crash of the private bank of I. C. Plant's Sons and the First National Bank came, when R. H. Plant, the head of both institutions, committed suicide, thereby making available over $1,000,000 life insurance for payment on liabilities of about $800,000 of the two banking institutions.

That Mr. Plant deliberately sacrificed his life that the creditors should not suffer is believed by his most intimate friends and by banking and insurance men who knew him here.

During the last twenty-five years Mr. Plant had accumulated life insurance amounting to $1,015,888, on which he was paying an annual premium of about $43,000. As a result of his death the indications are that the creditors of the two banks will not lose a single penny. Many of the creditors are working people, whose deposits represented years of self-denial and saving. At least $800,000 of Mr. Plant's life insurance is now made payable to his estate, and this amount, it is estimated, will fully cover his liabilities.

Mr. Plant had been ill for two months past. When the banks collapsed ugly charges were circulated and much indignation expressed because he failed to make any statements as to the cause. During his illness, especially since the failure of his institutions, he had been closely watched at his home in College street here by his family and nurses, for fear he would commit some rash act. He told his nurse he wished to lie down. Twenty minutes later he asked to be assisted to the bath-room. While there he sent the nurse for a glass of milk.

In her absence he secured his revolver from his room, returned to the bathroom and stepped out a small doorway leading to a porch in the rear of his home. There he placed the weapon to his head and fired. The nurse, returning with the glass of milk, heard the shot, dashed into the bathroom and out on the porch, where she found the capitalist dead, the smoking revolver still clenched in his hand.

The bullet had passed through the right temple and out of the left, flattening itself upon the house wall. Death was probably instantaneous. The Coroner was at once summoned, and upon the testimony of the nurse and of a physician a verdict of death by his own hands was rendered.

Mr. Plant leaves a widow and nine children. Wallace E. McCaw, President of the McCaw Manufacturing Company, and Mr. Felton Hatcher, a prominent attorney, are sons-in-law.

The Plant banking institutions are the oldest in the city. The receiver of the private institution has reported a deficit of over $844,000. The National Bank Examiner has as yet made no report as to the First National's affairs.

Mr. Plant, in addition to being identified with various manufacturing enterprises, and formerly largely engaged with the New York Life Insurance Company, was known throughout the trotting world, and his horses for years have raced in the grand circuit.

He owned Grattan Boy, Dulce Cor, Miss Willamont and other well-known horses.

George H. Plant, Vice-President of the First National, is a brother.

Girls Die in Quicksands.

Two Louisiana girls, Laura Walton, of Oklona, and Lena Hillard, of Lamont, aged fifteen and sixteen years, respectively, who attended the Columbus, Miss., Industrial Institute and College, were swallowed up by the quicksands of the Tombigbee River, at Waverly, while endeavoring to rescue a Mrs. Holmes, who had fallen into the sand pit.

New York Usurer Sentenced.

David Rothschild, the East Side "Napoleon of Finance" and salary loan usurer of New York City, late President of the wrecked Federal Bank, was sentenced to Sing Sing prison by Recorder Goff for nine years. The maximum punishment for his crime is ten years. He secured a stay of proceedings.

Twenty-five Killed.

In the course of the reconnoissance off Port Arthur made by Admiral Togo, a shell hit the Japanese torpedo boat destroyer Akatsuki, killing one officer and twenty-four men.

Farm Products Report.

The Department of Agriculture made public a report giving $4,500,000 as a conservative estimate of the value of the farm products of the country not fed to livestock in 1903.

Complain Against Railroad.

New England cities, towns and villages complain of the conditions caused by unsatisfactory service of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company.

Only Water in Canal Zone.

Various temperance organizations have begun a campaign to make the Panama Canal zone prohibition territory. President Roosevelt is daily receiving letters to this end, and is referring them to the Canal Commission.

Railway to Spend Millions.

The New York Central will spend $22,000,000 next year on electrical equipment. It is planned to run suburban trains at seventy-five miles an hour.

PRESIDENT TO STUDENTS

Roosevelt Admonishes Groton Schoolboys to Be Plucky and Decent.

Delivers an Address at the Massachusetts Institute Where His Two Sons Are Studying For College.

Groton, Mass.—Groton School welcomed Theodore Roosevelt, who came not as President of the United States, but as the proud father of two of her sons. A pair of prancing bays whirled the President from his private car through the picturesque Willow road and up the hill to the school. There 150 bareheaded youngsters barked out the school yell in rattling chorus, with a sonorous "tiger" in the shape of the distinguished guest's name. Then Mr. Roosevelt had a quiet hour with his sons, after which a leisurely stroll through shaded paths to the chapel was followed by half an hour in the atmosphere of quiet reverence beneath its painted windows.

Another half hour was spent in the gymnasium, where, with Dr. Peabody, the head master, and Bishop Lawrence, he spoke to the boys.

Dr. Peabody made a brief address, devoted particularly to reviewing the history of the school, of which that day was the twentieth anniversary. He also referred in some detail to the methods followed at the school in the development of the boys instructed there. Dr. Peabody, in introducing the President, said:

"We like him as a parent, we admire him as a President, and we love him as a man."

The President gave what he called a "homely, heart-to-heart talk with the boys." He expressed the desire that he should not be directly quoted and that no extended report of his speech should be made.

He said that if a boy has not pluck, common sense and decency he is of a pretty bad sort, and a man without those qualities is even worse. He admonished them that they must not become prigs, and urged them to be strong, to be decent and to be resourceful.

"Boys and men," he said, "possessing such qualities will not be snobs. There are in our civic and social life worse creatures than snobs, but no creature is more contemptible."

The President referred to the advantages of training in public schools, which training he believed to be most beneficial because of its democratic character.

"It is necessary," he said, "for boys in school and in college, and for men in civic or social life, to demonstrate that they have power to accomplish things and to be able to do their part in life. The boy or the man must be able to accomplish something for decency, or he must step aside for those who can."

The Presidential party left here in the afternoon at 5.32, returning to Washington by the same route.

Hartford, Conn.—President Roosevelt passed through here about 10.30 p. m., on his way to Washington. Station Master Readett presented to him a basket of flowers from Elm City Lodge, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen of New Haven, of which organization the President is a member. At Willimantic the President made a brief speech, in which he said: "I have been to Groton to see two of my boys. I have others, six in all, and I wish I had a dozen children."

MET DEATH BRAVELY.

Japanese Officers Who Attempted to Blow Up a Siberian Railway Bridge.

St. Petersburg, Russia.—Details have been received from Harbin of the execution of Ukoko and Otti, the two Japanese officers who attempted to blow up a railway bridge near that city. The prisoners said they belonged to a band of 100 men to whom had been entrusted the work of destroying the railway. When they were told that they must be extremely brave to undertake such a task they replied: "Not at all. We are only doing our duty in carrying out the orders of the Emperor."

They were put to death in the presence of a large crowd. Gen. Kouropatkin had given orders that they should be shot instead of hanged. The younger officer refused to have his eyes bandaged. When he was told that this was the Russian mode he asked that an exception be made in his favor. The elder officer displayed less fortitude, and calmly allowed his eyes to be bandaged. One of the officers was a Christian.

No photographs of the execution were allowed.

Boy Saves New York Limited.

The New York Limited on the Pennsylvania Railroad would have been wrecked at the Applaize River, three miles east of Delphos, Ohio, at midnight, had it not been for Charles Peltier, a boy fifteen years old. At about 10 o'clock, while he was under the bridge fishing for eels, he heard two men above making plans to wreck the train, which is due there about 11.15. He ran to the nearest telephone and notified people in Delphos, who telegraphed the officials in Fort Wayne. They in turn notified the police in Van Wert to board the train when it reached that city. When the train reached the river a pile of ties was found on the track.

Dr. Fowler Missing.

When the case of Dr. Richard C. Fowler, the "get-rich-quick" promoter, was called before Recorder Goff, of New York City, his lawyers said they had no idea where he was, and his bond of $23,000 was forfeited.

Has Not Advanced.

Dun's Review says of trade conditions: Reports of increased trade are received from a few favored points, but the Nation, as a whole, has not improved its commercial position during the past week, in so far as current distribution of merchandise or manufacturing activities are concerned.

Business Prospects Improve.

Prospects for the future have improved somewhat, however, on account of the progress made in agriculture.

FIRE SWEEPS YAZOO CITY

Entire Business and Much of the Residence Section Destroyed.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $2,000,000

The Burned Area in the Mississippi Town is Twelve Blocks Long by Three Blocks Wide—In All Twenty-eight Blocks Are in Ashes—State Militia Guard the Ruins.

Jackson, Miss.—Yazoo City, the wealthiest town in the Mississippi delta, located fifty-five miles north of this city, was swept by fire, and not a single business house in the town is left standing. Over 200 buildings were destroyed and the loss is estimated between two million and two and a half million dollars. The first figure will probable cover the total destruction. Hundreds of people are homeless and destitute, and the town is under military guard.

Three persons are known to have been seriously injured, and rumors are current that several negroes perished in the flames, but these reports cannot be confirmed.

The devastation of the business district is complete. Twenty-eight blocks were licked clean by the flames and only the blackened brick walls and smoldering embers mark the spot where handsome buildings once stood. Of the total number of buildings destroyed, about fifty were magnificent residences, many of old Colonial architecture and occupied by some of the wealthiest citizens of the South.

Soon after the fire started in the residence of John Wise, at Main and Mound streets, realizing that it was beyond control of the local Fire Department, Mayor Holmes sent out appeals for aid, and the Jackson Fire Department, headed by Mayor Hemmingway, and the Greenwood Fire Department, headed by Governor Vardaman, hurried to the scene on special trains.

The Jackson special made a record-breaking run, covering the distance of forty-five miles in forty minutes. An hour after the arrival of assistance it seemed that the fire was almost under control, but shortly after noon it broke out afresh at the Calumet Club, destroying that structure and moving thence to the Magnolia Inn.

Every white church in town, the Methodist, Baptist, Episcopal, Presbyterian and Catholic, was burned; both telegraphic offices, the Cumberland Telephone Exchange and the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley passenger depot. The four banking institutions, the Elks Club, the express offices and Postoffice were swept away, away.

The only buildings of consequence directly exposed to the holocaust which escaped were the Court House and the Fannie J. Ricks Memorial Library, and through some queer prank of fate both of these were unharmed, although surrounded by fire on all sides.

Congressman John Sharp Williams, the Democratic minority leader, was a heavy loser, several buildings belonging to him being destroyed. His residence was fortunately spared, as was also his magnificent library, said to be one of the finest private collection of books in the South.

Mr. Williams was one of the heroes of the day, and his cool head and quick judgment was of valuable aid to the fire-fighting force. He was busily engaged with the workers carrying furniture from burning houses, and doubtless performed as much work of this kind as any man in the city.

...tal Fire at Greenwood, S. C.

Columbia, S. C.—Half of the business part of the city of Greenwood was wiped out by fire. The property loss will approximate $133,000. Mrs. Annie Moseley, proprietor of the Central Hotel, where the fire started, lost her life.

TEN SUFFOCATED IN TUNNEL.

Mine Workmen Killed by Fumes From a Stalled Engine.

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—A trainload of sixty men was stalled in the Williamstown Tunnel in Dauphin County and ten were suffocated by the fumes from the engine. The others were rescued barely in time to save their lives.

The tunnel connects the two shafts of the Williamstown colliery in Bear Valley with the breaker in Williams Valley and the town of Williamstown, where most of the mine workers live. The tunnel, which is the only means of communication between the two valleys, is a mile long and so straight that it ventilates itself.

Sixty of the workmen caught a heavy coal train between 5 and 6 o'clock and started homeward. The train stalled in the tunnel either because the load was too heavy or the engine fire got low.

Among the dead is Michael Golden, general inside foreman of the mine, who was one of the best known mining officials in the region.

Good Jobbing Business.

A decidedly healthy tone has developed in the dry goods jobbing trade due entirely to the warm and bright weather that has prevailed, and the indications now are that the summer business will be good, and possibly better than usual.

Good Year For the Farms.

Unless the crops suffer an unusual setback hereafter it should be a good year for the farms, and all other industries will feel the stimulus.

Young Shad For the Hudson.

The officials in charge of the Government fish hatchery station in the Susquehanna River, near Perryville, Md., will ship in a few days about 4,000,000 young shad to Catskill, N. Y., to be deposited in the Hudson River.

Coal Trust Testimony.

Contracts were made public at the Coal Trust's inquiry showing agreements among the roads to divide business according to percentages fixed by the Temple Iron Company.

MARVELS OF STAGE REALISM

HOW THE SENSES ARE DECEIVED BY SIMPLE ARTIFICES.

The Stage Storm Produced by Turning a Small Wheel—Splashes of Soapsuds Make the Snowflakes—The Pomp and Panoply of War.

If you want to realize how easily the senses can be deceived by simple artifices, said a well-known actor to the writer, you should just take a peep behind the scenes of a theatre. I'm not sure whether it is kind to allow you to take a peep, though, for it is not always a desirable thing to lose one's illusions; but if you don't mind I'm sure I don't, and I will guarantee that you will find the little secrets of my trade vastly interesting.

Of course you've often seen the stage storm, and a most realistic thing it is, as you know. You see the cozy room, with its glowing fire and its general atmosphere of cheeriness and warmth, made all the more so by the howling of the blast outside. Suddenly the door is flung open, you catch a glimpse of the arctic world, and the wind rises to a positive shriek as the hero or villain of the piece rushes in, pursued by a hurricane of snow, and bangs the door in the face of the baffled storm-fiend whose clutches he has just escaped.

It is all so terribly real that you insensibly shiver in your warm seat and draw your coat closer around you, and yet if you only knew how it was all produced you would—well, you would smile. Where, for instance, does the wind come from with its wonderful crescendo, from the faint sigh to the shrieks and howls of a lost spirit? Let me introduce you to the genius of the storm, a gentleman who is busy turning a small wheel with projecting paddles, which, as they revolve, scrape against a tightly stretched piece of strong silk. As he turns very slowly the wind just sighs gently, like a child in its sleep; faster and the gale grows, the wind sobs and moans and whistles, until it rises, as the wheel goes swifter and swifter, into tumult of shrieks and howls, as if all the demons of the air were roused to a frenzy of fury.

The snow? Oh! that's just as simple. The landscape you catch a shivering glimpse of is made arctic by plenty of cotton-wool and a paste brush, and the flakes which cover the hero from head to foot and melt and trickle under the genial warmth of the fire are so many splashes of soapsuds. Ah! I see now you are getting disillusioned! Pity, isn't it? but still, always fascinating to find out how things are done.

As for the fire which glows so warmly, it is merely so many electric lights shining through a medium of ruddy gelatine paper; while the smoke by no means comes from the fire as it ought to do, but from a concealed receptacle containing a little quicklime and hot water. There you have it all—shrieking wind, drifting snow and glowing fire realistically produced in the most absurdly simple way.

You can make the lightning zigzag in blinding flashes, and the thunder roll and rattle equally easily. You can get capital thunder by rolling a cannon ball or two along the floors overhead or by shaking a piece of sheet iron pretty much as you would shake a duster. But hark! there's the rain pattering on the roof—I knew it would come; and so did a certain man behind the scenes, who has poured a pound or two of split peas into a barrel. Inside the barrel you must know, are several cross pieces of wood, against which the peas rattle in their descent—that's the rain—and when they get to the bottom he turns the barrel and the patter-patter continues while wanted.

The hero who plunges with reckless courage into the sea runs little risk even of a wetting. The waves which open to receive him are painted india rubber, which are made to roll and heave by very human agency below; the foam that he sends flying up in a cascade as he vanishes into the watery depths is a handful of common or table salt thrown up from beneath; and instead of disturbing any mermaids in their grottoes he is content to tumble on a mattress.

Then, could anything be more real than the scene in which the heroine looks down from the upper window as the soldiers—her lover, of course, among them—march off to the war? Tramp, tramp, tramp—why, there must be hundreds of them; and just listen to the cheers of the crowds lining the streets and the short, sharp words of command. How it fires your blood and makes you long to join them!

Well, come below decks, and I will show you a handful of men—half a dozen or so—"marking time" on a loose board, clinking pieces of metal together, cheering and shouting words of command to one another, and there you have it all, the passing of a mighty host, the jingling of accoutrements, the many voiced cheering crowd—all the "pomp and panoply of war."—Tit-Bits.

ENEMIES OF THE WHALE.

Monsters That Keep up an Irrepressible Conflict in the Deep.

While operating a fishery in Admiralty Island, Alaska last summer, my attention and the attention of the fishing crew was almost daily attracted to a large marine creature that would appear in the main channel of Seymour Canal in our immediate vicinity. There are large numbers of whales of the species rorqual there, and the monster seemed to have no natural enemy. The whales generally travel in schools, and while at the surface to blow one would be cut out and attacked by the fish. The battle was soon in order, says Field and Stream.

It is the nature of the rorqual to make three blows at intervals of about two to three minutes each and then sound deep and stay beneath the surface for thirty or forty minutes.

As a whale would come to the surface there would appear always on the whale's right side and just back of where his head would connect with the body, a great, long tail, which, judged by five fishermen and a number of Indians after seeing it at fifteen times at various distances, would be about twenty-four feet long, three and one-half feet wide at one end and tapering down to the other, where it seemed to be about eight inches in diameter, looking very much like the blade of the fan of an old-fashioned Dutch windmill.

The great club was used on the back of the unfortunate whale in such a manner that it was a wonder to me that every whale attacked was not instantly killed. Its operator seemed to have perfect control of its movement, and would bend it back until the end would touch the water forming a horseshoe loop, then with a sweep it would be straightened and brought over and down on the back of the whale with a whack that could be heard for several miles. If the whale was fortunate enough to submerge itself before the blows came the club would fly for a distance of over 100 feet from the effect of the strike, making a report as loud as a yacht's signal gun.

What seemed most remarkable to me was that no matter which way the attacked whale went or how fast (the usual speed is about four knots) that great club would follow right along by its side and deliver those tremendous blows at intervals of about four or five seconds. It would always get in from three to five blows at each of the three times the whale would come to the surface to blow. The whale would generally rid itself of the enemy when it sounded its deep sound, especially if the water was forty fathoms or more deep. During the day the attack was always on shore, but at night the whales would be attacked in the bay and within a few yards of the fishery.

I do not know of any whales being killed, but there were several that had great holes and sores on their backs. Questioning the Indians about it, I was told that there was only one; that it had been there many years, and that it once attacked an Indian canoe, and with one stroke of the great club smashed the canoe into splinters, killing and drowning several of its occupants.

JAPANESE INVENTIONS.

Eastern Race Originators of Several Life Saving Devices.

We are in debt to the Japanese for at least three notable discoveries, each of which have already saved many European lives, says the London Academy. The oldest of these is the discovery by Kitasato, a Japanese bacteriologist, of the bacillus that causes lockjaw, or tetanus, leading to the production of an antitoxin serum which is now regularly used and is by far the most efficient remedy we possess for this terrible disease.

A Japanese observer named Shiga has recently discovered the bacillus which causes a great many cases of dysentery, and, though that discovery has not yet led to any improvement in prevention or treatment, and is therefore not lower, during this struggle, the death rate from that dire disease of the soldier in wartime, no one doubts that this is the first step toward our control of another deadly disease.

The third discovery is really more interesting, because it raises new problems. There is in the body of each of us a pair of organs known as the adrenal glands yet unknown to the public, though life could not continue without them. It was a Japanese chemist, Takamine, who isolated from these glands the invaluable substance which they produce for the benefit of the rest of the body. It is known as adrenalin, and nearly every sample of it, prepared by a good firm, bears upon it the name of that distinguished Japanese. It is the most powerful of all chemical agents for stopping hemorrhage. It will arrest bleeding from the nose when everything else has failed; not that this much matters, for the nose is accessible to mechanical means, but adrenalin has already saved many lives that were oozing away in a thin stream no surgeon could reach.

Crowded Trees.

When trees become thickly branched and crowded as to space they are not improved by cutting the ends of the shoots. They should be judiciously thinned by the complete removal of some of the branches. A skilful operator will remove one-third or more of the branches of a thickly set tree so that the ordinary observer will not perceive that any pruning has been done, the tree looking as natural in its ramifications as if it had not been disturbed, and this should be the rule in all pruning operations as applied to street trees.

The population of Mexico is 12,... 000, that of Canada 5,400,00, and ... of the United States (including ... sular possessions) nearly 90,000,...

T...

VOL. II.

...PERATE VALOR OF JAP...

...Charge at Kin-Chow an Un...cedented Military Spectacle.

...RATIVE OF AN EYEWITNES...

...Was so Little Room to Deploy ...l Battalions of Japanese Troops ...d in the Sea Waiting the Moment ... Attack—An Avalanche of Concen...ted Fire.

...foo.—The London Times's ... ...n returned to Chefoo ... ... in Kin-Chow Bay. The ... ...t says:

...ewitnesses of the ... ... describe "it as an unprecedented ...ilitary spectacle. Forty thousand ...ese were massed behind ... ...en spur of Monte Sampson, ...nch small cover as was afforded ... the twin peaks. The troops ... within two thousand yards of the ...ian works.

...ere was so little room to deploy ... attack that battalions of Japanese troops were obliged to stand in the ...iting for the movement of artillery ... exposed to a veritable inferno of ... from the Russian batteries. They ... plowed into their serried masses. ...ntime battery after battery of ... guns went into action upon ...hill-Chiwang and the Kauchiay ...hts and a sustained gunboat fire ...d upon the Russian works. Their ... were fringed with bursting pro...es. About midday the energy ...e Russian defenders in the works ...ront of Mauchiaying village ...ed exhausted by the gunboat fire. ...o Japanese battalions appeared ... the saddle between the twin ... and made a desperate effort to ... the nearest Russian works. At ... the straggling walls of Mauchiay... ...ve them some cover, and a mo... ...o breathing space. Then the gal... little infantrymen crept on again ...e slopes toward the Russian po... It was an impossible task. As ...e defenders had not been suffi...y shaken.

...n avalanche of concentrated fire ... infantry in the trenches, machine ... in the Russian works and quick-... field ...ries, in the supporting ...es struck the Japanese. They ...d away from the glacis like soil ...efore the flame of a blowpipe. A ...ho seemed to have charmed lives ...ied on until they reached the ...entanglements.

...was in vain. Heroic effort was ...d. Within fifteen minutes these ...attalions ceased to exist except ...rain of mutilated bodies at the ...of the Russian glacis.

...ing the failure of this attack ...mboats and supporting artillery ...ntrated the whole of their fire ... the point where General Oku ...determined to drive home his ..., and by evening the works were ...dable for an assault by a gener... ...o had such infantry as the Jap... and who was prepared to take ...responsibility of such fearful ...

...would seem as if the actual car... ... of the works had been another ... The word was given for a bay ...attack. Then the whole Japan... ...ront surged forward and the ... balance went over to the side ... Japanese, the Russians retir... ...efore them.

...earn that it was the mining ship ... which laid the mines which de... ...d the Hatsuse. On the morn... ... the catastrophe a Japanese gun... ...dotilla cut her and her escort ... can learn nothing of their fate. ...spect they succeeded in slipping ...nto Port Arthur."

...emi-official telegram from Muk... ...ys the Russian losses at the ...at Kin-Chow were thirty officers ...0 men killed or wounded. One ... places the Japanese loss at 20... The guns abandoned by the ...ns were rendered useless.

...TARY PRISONERS SHOT.

...Killed in Fight, Other Failed to ...top at Word of Command.

...neapolis, Minn.—Two military ...ers in Fort Snelling made an at... ... to escape, and one of them, ... C. Wisch, was shot dead by ...e Kennedy. Wisch, with Pri... Reilly, had crossed the bridge ...g to St. Paul. On their return ...isoners tried to throw Kennedy ...the rail into the river.

...umbus, Ohio.—John W. Manning, ...oner in the United States bar... ... was shot and killed here by ...te Speck, a sentry. Manning ...eld awaiting trial for desertion. ... enlisted fraudulently three ... and deserted twice. Failing to ...at the command he was shot ...h the head.

Travis World's Champion.

American golf champion, Walter ...vis, acquired the title of amateur ...pion of Great Britain on the links ...ndwich, near London, where he ...ted E. D. Blackwell, a represen... ... of the Royal and Ancient Club, ...drew's, by four up and three to ...n a thirty-six-hole match. This ...the first time an American has ...this honor.

Cloudburst and Floods.

...oudburst and tornado at Dallas, ... caused considerable damage; ...floods were reported in the Kaw ..., and much loss was caused in ...western Missouri by flood and

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 9, 1904. NO. 11.

...PERATE VALOR OF JAPS

...Charge at Kin-Chow an Unprecedented Military Spectacle.

...NATIVE OF AN EYEWITNESS

...Was so Little Room to Deploy ...Battalions of Japanese Troops ...in the Sea Waiting the Moment ...Attack—An Avalanche of Concen... Fire.

...The London Times steamer ...reached to Chefoo from ... Chow Bay. The correspon... ...s of the battle of Kin... ...describe it as an unprecedented ...military spectacle. Forty thousand ...were massed behind the ...spur of Mount Sampson, under ...cover as was afforded ...twin peaks. The troops ...within two thousand yards of the ...works.

...was so little room to deploy ...attack that battalions of Japan... ...troops were obliged to stand in the ...waiting for the movement of at... ...exposed to a veritable inferno of ...from the Russian batteries. The ...plowed into their serried masses. ...machine battery after battery of ...guns went into action upon ...Chuang and the Kauchiay... ...and a sustained gunboat fire ...upon the Russian works. Their ...were fringed with bursting pro... ...About midday the energy ...Russian defenders in the works ...front of Mauchiaying village ...exhausted by the gunboat fire. ...two Japanese battalions appeared ...the saddle between the twin ...and made a desperate effort to ...the nearest Russian works. At ...the straggling walls of Mauchiay... ...gave them some cover, and a mo... ...breathing space. Then the gal... ...little infantrymen crept on again ...slopes toward the Russian po... ...It was an impossible task. As ...defenders had not been suffi... ...shaken.

...avalanche of concentrated fire ...infantry in the trenches, machine ...in the Russian works and quick... ...field artillery in the supporting ...smote the Japanese. They ...away from the glacis like sol... ...before the flame of a blowpipe. A ...who seemed to have charmed lives ...on until they reached the ...entanglements.

...was in vain. Heroic effort was ...Within fifteen minutes these ...battalions ceased to exist except ...train of mutilated bodies at the ...of the Russian glacis.

...ing the failure of this attack, ...gunboats and supporting artillery ...trated the whole of their fire ...the point where General Oku ...determined to drive home his ...and by evening the works were ...table for an assault by a gener... ...had such infantry as the Jap... ...and who was prepared to take ...responsibility of such fearful ...

...would seem as if the actual car... ...of the works had been another ...The word was given for a bay... ...attack. Then the whole Japan... ...surged forward and the ...balance went over to the side ...Japanese, the Russians retir... ...before them.

...learn that it was the mining ship ...which laid the mines which de... ...the Hatsuse. On the morn... ...the catastrophe a Japanese gun... ...flotilla cut her and her escort ...I can learn nothing of their fate, ...they succeeded in slipping ...into Port Arthur."

...official telegram from Muk... ...says the Russian losses at the ...Kin-Chow were thirty officers ...killed or wounded. One ...puts the Japanese loss at 20,... ...guns abandoned by the ...were rendered useless.

...ITARY PRISONERS SHOT.

...Killed in Fight, Others Failed to ...Stop at Word of Command.

...Minneapolis, Minn.—Two military ...prisoners in Fort Snelling made an at... ...to escape, and one of them, ...C. Wisch, was shot dead by ...Kennedy. Wisch, with Pri... ...Reynolds, crossed the bridge ...St. Paul. On their return ...ordered to throw Kennedy ...into the river.

...John W. Manning, ...United States bar... ...and killed here by ...a sentry. Manning ...trial for desertion, ...fraudulently three ...tried twice. Failing to ...command he was shot ...

Travis World's Champion.

...American golf champion, Walter ...Travis, secured the title of amateur ...champion of Great Britain on the links ...at Sandwich, near London, where he ...defeated E. D. Blackwell, a represen... ...of the Royal and Ancient Club, ...of St. Andrew's, by four up and three to ...play in a thirty-six-hole match. This ...is the first time an American has ...won this honor.

Cloudburst and Floods.

...A cloudburst and tornado at Dallas, ...Tex., caused considerable damage; ...floods were reported in the Kaw ...valley, and much loss was caused in ...northwestern Missouri by flood and ...

SIX KILLED IN A CRASH

Freight Cuts Through an Electric Car Near Norwalk, Ohio.

All But One Passenger in Smoking Compartment Killed—Many More Injured—Tragic Scenes at Wreck.

Cleveland, Ohio.—In the most terrible accident that the Lake Shore Electric has known six persons lost their lives and eight en others were injured, many, it is feared, fatally. Two trains came together head on, and the high rate of speed at which they were running made the collision a scene of simple ruin.

The accident occurred three miles from Norwalk, but the spot is a lonely one and it was some time before assistance arrived. A special car was hurried to the scene with doctors and nurses, but more than one sufferer died in the interval, while the few uninjured passengers strove in vain to rescue and relieve them. Those who viewed the wreck said it was a wonder that any one escaped alive.

The dead are: Clarence Ketcham, New London; Nell Sullivan, Binghamton, N. Y., United States Inspector of Safety Appliances for the Interstate Commerce Commission; Thomas Sweeney, W. W. Sherwood, Garrettsville, Ohio; W. P. Stevenson, Ralph L. Williams, Toledo.

The east-bound limited, which carried most of the victims of the accident, left Norwalk at 4.45 p. m. As far as can be learned there was nothing to show that it had not a clear right of way, but at Wells Corners, while going at full speed, it suddenly crashed into an electric package car, west-bound from Berlinville.

There was no time to apply the brakes—hardly enough to turn off the electric currents—and the two came together with terrific force. The freight car plowed clean through the limited, splintering the smoking compartment literally into fragments and piling the rest of the car into a mass of driftwood. For a long half hour, while word was being conveyed to Norwalk, men and women lay under heavy beams and axles, groaning and screaming with pain. Those who could be reached were soon dragged free by willing hands, but there were few whose injuries permitted them to give any assistance.

"For God's sake, man, take these timbers off me—let me get my breath," gasped one man, pinned beneath the freight car. But the car had to be jacked up and a way cut through the wreckage, and before he could be released he was dead.

The six men who died were evidently in the smoking compartment, in the front end of the car. They were pinioned in and all were dead when taken out. It was difficult work to identify them, as several were badly mangled. The injured were carried into a car and taken to the St. Charles Hotel, and the third floor of that hostelry was made an improvised hospital.

Frank Libling, of Cleveland, had just left the smoking compartment when the accident occurred. He was thrown to the floor and received numerous cuts and bruises.

Harry Peat, a paper man on the limited, saw the oncoming freight car and jumped. He received slight injuries.

George Sturgeon, of Freemont, motorman on the freight car, is seriously injured.

Strange to say, not a woman was killed, although several were seriously injured.

EMBEZZLER CONFESSES.

New Haven Paying Teller Used Bank's Funds to Speculate.

New Haven, Conn.—Douglass M. Smith, paying teller of the National Tradesmen's Bank, of this city, was arrested, charged with having embezzled $60,000 of its funds, a greater part of which he admitted he had lost in speculation.

It was stated after a partial investigation of the accounts, that Smith's shortage would total $70,000.

The bank will make a test case of the rights of the bucket shops, having sued the firm where Smith speculated for $50,000. It is alleged that the firm of Yeomans & Dill share in the responsibility. The bank's accounts will be overhauled and a change of administration made.

Teller Smith received President Fields at the Hotel Majestic where he has lived with his wife and child for five years, and made a formal confession that he had taken the bank's funds to speculate. Mr. Smith secured bonds for $15,000.

NORTH CAROLINA GETS ROAD.

Governor Said Militia Could Be Used to Execute Court's Orders.

Raleigh, N. C.—The return of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad to the State authorities occurred here when Judge Purnell approved the bond required in the supersedeas of Chief Justice Fuller.

Governor Aycock, after Judge Purnell had acted, wired the superintendent of the road at Newbern to take possession. The answer came back that the receivers would not recognize his authority, though warned that this was at their peril, and Mr. Dill asked if he should put them out.

Governor Aycock telegraphed back to put them out of the office and, if necessary, call upon the Sheriff to do so, adding:

"If military needed, notify me. Order of Chief Justice Fuller shall be obeyed."

Finally, by the use of constructive force, Receivers McBee and Meares were removed.

LIGHT ON GREEN MURDER

J. R. Platt, Age 85, Spent $685,000 on Hannah Elias.

BRINGS SUIT TO RECOVER MONEY

The Mystery Surrounding the Assassination in New York City of Andrew H. Green by the Negro Cornelius Williams Cleared Away—Kindly Philanthropist Killed by Mistake.

New York City.—Cleared at last is the name of Andrew H. Green, "Father of Greater New York," through the revelation that the man for whom the bullet of the crazed negro, Cornelius H. Williams, was intended is John R. Platt, millionaire and retired glass manufacturer, who, in the past eight years has given to the mulatto, Hannah Elias, at least a million dollars in money and property.

The remarkable disclosures came through a suit filed by Mr. Platt against the Elias woman to recover the immense amounts out of which he charges she blackmailed him. He specifies $687,708, and it is estimated that sums given by him to her of which he has no record will bring the total close to $1,000,000.

Hannah Elias is the woman on whose account Wiliams declared he committed the murder. Williams is now in the Asylum for Insane Criminals at Matteawan.

Mistaking Mr. Green for Mr. Platt, Williams shot down and killed a man whose entire career had been an honor to the great city he had formed out of the scattered boroughs about New York. A man whose honor had never borne taint or smirch until his death at the hands of a negro, jealous of a white rival, had caused his life to end in a cloud of doubt and suspicion that could not be satisfactorily cleared away until the name of John R. Platt was made known to the public.

To-day every man, woman and child in New York can know what the family of Andrew H. Green has always known—that he died as he had always lived, one of the most honorable and pure-hearted citizens New York has ever known.

And this shadow removed from the name of Andrew H. Green has, in its lightning course, fallen athwart the threshold of another home in this city.

Out of the revelation of the identity of the man with whom Andrew H. Green was confounded when the bullet of a crazed assassin struck him down has come to light a story so strange, so weirdly unlike the facts of real life as known outside the pages of fantastic fiction that it reads like an opium-inspired dream.

The story of the rise to wealth and luxury of a slave-pen born negress through her hold upon a senile millionaire is of itself a story almost beyond belief, but that her acquaintance with such a man should have caused a negro admirer to shoot in front of his door a man whose fame as the maker of the City of Greater New York had extended across an entire continent was almost beyond the bounds of credulity.

Yet these are facts, incontrovertible and borne out clearly and concisely by the suit-at-law filed by Mr. Platt. Through the filing of this suit has been learned the secret of the strange murder of Andrew H. Green.

The suit was brought by John R. Platt, aged eighty-five, a retired millionaire glass manufacturer, who lives at No. 7 East Fifty-fourth street and is a member of many clubs, against Hannah Elias, the negress whose romantic history and splendid mode of living in Central Park West brought her into prominence at the time of the Green murder.

This suit explains the rise into wealth and power of Hannah Elias, the mulatto woman who was keeping a boarding house for negroes eight years ago, and whose husband was a Pullman car porter.

John R. Platt, who is of about the same age as Mr. Green and resembles him somewhat in general appearance, makes affidavit that he has been a friend of the Elias woman for eight years, and alleges that between the years 1896 and 1901 she obtained from him "through fraud, coercion, duress and blackmail," money and real estate to the value of $685,385.

It is this man, the lawyers for the Green estate declared recently, whom Williams saw going to and coming from the Elias woman's house and whom he mistook for Mr. Green.

JAPANESE OCCUPY DALNY.

Much of the City Uninjured—Russians Fled Hastily.

Washington, D. C.—The Japanese Legation gave out the following dispatch from Tokio:

"General Oku, commanding the army operating against Port Arthur, reports that our troops have occupied Dalny.

"Over 100 warehouses and barracks, besides telegraph office and railway station, were found uninjured. Over 200 railway cars were usable, but all small railway bridges in the neighborhood are destroyed.

"All dock piers, except the great pier, which was sunk, remain uninjured. Some steam launches were also found at the mouth of the dock."

Uphold Oleomargarine Tax.

The United States Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the tax on oleomargarine.

NO BULL FIGHT AT ST. LOUIS

Police Stop Exhibition and Angry Spectators Burn the Arena.

An Attempt to Give the World's Fair Visitors a Real Spanish Spectacle is Balked by the Governor.

St. Louis, Mo.—Incensed over their failure to see a "genuine Spanish bullfight," which the authorities had ordered stopped, a riot was started in an arena near the World's Fair grounds by a crowd of 2500 men and boys, who were unable to get their money back, and the building was burned to the ground. Four men were arrested by the authorities of St. Louis County, charged with destruction of property. The crowd, which numbered about 7000, thinking these men were connected with the show, made an attempt to mob them, and in their encounter with the deupty sheriffs a number were roughly handled and some received scalp wounds. The building is said to have cost $25,000. It is a total loss.

The initial performance by the company of Spanish bullfighters had been advertised widely, but Governor Dockery, to whom numerous protests had been made by religious and humane societies, ordered that the fight should not be allowed to take place. Despite these orders, a large crowd assembled in the arena at the advertised time of opening. Before the regular performance a number of cowboys drove in some bulls, which they ran around the arena in true Wild West style. The crowd soon became tired of this, and called for the bullfight.

The announcement was then made that the bullfight would be proceeded with. As the matadors came into the ring a county official stepped up to the announcer and handed him a paper informing him that the proposed show could not take place. When this became known to the crowd they leaped into the arena and demanded the return of their money, $1 apiece. Failing to get this, the crowd went to the office, which was in a small building outside the arena and began to stone it.

This was followed by attempts to burn the main structure, which was an immense building constructed of pine. Bits of burning paper were thrown at the woodwork, and finally some one went inside and dropped a lighted match in a pile of hay under the building. The whole structure was soon on fire and before long was in ruins.

A call was made for the fire department, but the single engine that responded stuck in the mud, and there was nothing to stop the progress of the flames. The fire department of the World's Fair was called out to protect the exposition buildings, but, as the wind blew in another direction, there was no danger.

Mysterious Death in Cab.

William T. Young, better known by his track name of "Caesar" Young, bookmaker, horse owner and all-around athlete, was shot and killed about 9 o'clock a. m., while driving in New York City in a hansom cab with an actress known as Nan Patterson, with whom he had been entangled for some time. The dead man was going to break off relations with the woman who sat by him, and who says he committed suicide. She was arrested and held without bail. Young's wife was waiting for him at the time he was shot on the American Line pier, with the tickets ready for their voyage on the Germanic to Europe.

Baltimore's New Mayor.

Mayor McLane's suicide puts the Republicans in control of the Baltimore city government under a provision for the centralization of power provided by the new city charter. The Republicans now also control the burned district commission and all improvements from this time on. President E. Clay Timanus, of the Second Branch of the City Council, took the oath of office as Mayor. Mayor Timanus will serve out the balance of Mayor McLane's term of three years. He is a Republican.

The President Benefits.

The report of Charles F. Lewis, who was appointed to appraise the personal estate in New York of James King Gracie, who was an uncle of President Theodore Roosevelt and who died in New York City on November 23, 1903, has been filed. The will benefits the President and his family to the extent of $36,000. Mr. Lewis appraised the estate at $440,672.15.

Koch's Theory Disproved.

The Royal British Commission, appointed in August, 1901, and meeting in London, England, to inquire into the relation between human and animal tuberculosis, has arrived at a conclusion justifying the issuance of an interim report, according to which the commission finds that human and bovine tuberculosis are practically identical.

Oleomargarine Hard Hit.

Chicago oleomargarine manufacturers admitted that the Supreme Court decision sustaining the law imposing a tax of ten cents a pounds on artificially colored butterine was a crushing blow to the business. The production has already fallen from 120,000,000 pounds in 1902 to 30,000,000 last year.

Gulf State Peaches Fine.

In the east Gulf States a good crop of peaches is promised, but elsewhere the outlook is poor.

News of the Week

WASHINGTON ITEMS.

It was decided at a Cabinet meeting that no more appeals from applicants for admission to the Naval Academy from the decision of the medical examining board will be entertained.

Aaron Stern, a messenger in the Record and Pension Bureau, shot and killed himself in the War Department.

All the films taken in Washington showing a fictitious President Roosevelt aiding an injured negro were destroyed.

The names decided upon for the warships authorized at the last session of Congress were announced at the Navy Department.

OUR ADOPTED ISLANDS.

Ricarte, the former Filipino leader, has been captured by the constabulary of Manila and sent to Guam in exile.

A midnight massacre by Moros of families of Filipinos in Government employ is reported from Mindanao.

In the last two years the United States has obtained only 23.7 per cent. of the Philippine trade.

The Philippine Constabulary has captured at Cavite, Ciriaco Contrezas, formerly a notorious Bulacan outlaw.

The Insular Legislature of Porto Rico adjourned, but immediately reopened for the first day of the extraordinary session.

DOMESTIC.

A tornado wiped out the town of New Liberty, Ill.

An armed man robbed the money tray of the Placer County Bank, Auburn, Cal., of all the gold it contained and escaped.

Representatives of fifty New York trust companies organized a State association and elected officers.

The blast furnace at Emaus, Pa., is shipping large quantities of pig-iron to Scotland.

The Government has decided to own and operate all wireless telegraph stations established for oversea service.

Alabama Democrats elected twenty-two delegates to St. Louis favorable to Parker. Both Alabama and Ohio adopted the unit rule.

One hundred and forty-nine Angora goats, valued at $40,000, were brought to New York from South Africa in the steamship Susquehan...

Under sentence of death for wife murder, Verbna Fleenor killed himself at Morgantown, Ky.

The extreme penalty—twenty years—was given J. F. Callahan at Montgomery, Ala., for safe-blowing.

Fire has destroyed the Los Angeles, Cal., branch packing house of the Cudahy Packing Company, near the Los Angeles River bottoms.

James A. Condron, fifteen years old, who shot and killed his father, who was beating his mother, was discharged by Judge Kellogg, in the Westfield (Mass.) Court.

Robert H. Patton, of Springfield, was nominated for Governor by the Illinois State Prohibition Convention.

An unknown negro was lynched at Vance, Miss., for the murder of Robert Logan, a sawmill owner.

Thousands of acres of growing crops in Western Kansas were ruined by a heavy hailstorm, followed by a drenching rain.

Sylvester Schonmaker, and his eighteen-year-old son, Ralph, of Alligerville, N. Y., were killed by lightning.

The New Haven Railroad has bought all the Boston property of the Boston and Providence road.

Mrs. Herman Leroy Jones again left her home in New York, but was followed by servants and soon returned.

Daniel J. Sully, "the cotton king," of New York, turned the tables on his creditors by demanding that they deliver to him 100,000 bales of May cotton.

FOREIGN.

The Venezuelan Government has published a decree reopening the Orinoco River to foreign trade.

The President of France is to receive a gold medallion in honor of his recent visit to Italy. A French sculptress, Marcella Lancelot-Groce, is the artist chosen.

The Prague Municipal Council has prohibited the trafling of dresses in public squares, places and streets, under penalty of a heavy fine.

The British Royal Commission virtually recommends conscription as the only means of providing a home defense army.

Measures are being taken by the German Government to exploit the now dormant water powers of the country on a large scale.

Great irritation in Vienna, Austria, has been caused by the obstructions placed in the way of repatriation of Macedonian fugitives. The authorities are turning back numbers who have applied for the reinvestment of citizen rights.

The Norwegian Adelsthing has passed a bill prohibiting the sale or export abroad of ancient national relics, such as old Norse coins, arms, runic inscriptions, remains of Viking ships, etc.

The treaty by which Chinese labor is allowed to be imported into South Africa went into actual operation and the steamer Tweedale sailed for the Transvaal with 1600 Chinese aboard.

The German negotiations for a commercial treaty are approaching a close, Russia accepting the minimum scale of cereal duties proposed by Germany.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.

A. C. Smith. J. O. Middleton.
Smith & Middleton,
Attorneys-at-Law.
Practice in All Courts.
Office 4th St., Opposite Court House
CLANTON.

Physicians.

Dr. V. O. Campbelle,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office over Roper's Store.
CLANTON.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins,
Physician and Surgeon,
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office with Hopkins Drug Co.
CLANTON.

W. F. Middleton, M.D.,
Phsician and Surgeon,
CLANTON.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

Dentists.

Dr. A. B. Horn,
Dentist.
Office over Strock's Store.
CLANTON.

Louisville & Nashville RAILROAD.

THE DIRECT LINE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST, NORTH AND NORTHWEST

In Effect November 1, 1903.

No. 9 Daily Ex't Sday A M	No. 3 Daily P M	Read Down Leave	Read Up Ar.	No. 2 Daily P M	No. 6 Daily Ex't Sday P M
6 10	3 20	Birmingham	11 10	7 15
6 53	4 19	Helena	11 30	6 34
7 32	5 01	Calera	10 46	5 50
7 56	5 28	Jemison	10 24	5 28
8 05	5 37	Thorsby	10 16	5 15
8 11	5 44	Lomax	10 10	5 08
8 19	5 51	CLANTON	10 02	5 01
8 32	6 05	Cooper	9 45	4 47
8 37	6 11	Verbena	9 39	4 41
8 44	6 19	Mt. Creek	9 30	4 30
9 24	6 51	Elmore	8 51	3 56
9 50	7 25	Montgomery	8 25	3 30

Drawing Room, Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars.

For rates and further information address G. Higgins, agent L. and N. R. R., Clanton, Ala.

Office Days in the Following Towns.

Jemison—Wednesday and Thursday before the 2nd Sunday.

Thorsby—Wednesday and Thursday before the 3d Sunday Dr. Stabler's Office

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 8 to 12 a. m.
1 to 5 p. m. CLANTON

FOR SALE.
760 acres of land, partly improved; also two sets mill rocks and fixtures. Alfred Popwell, Clanton, Alabama.

News comes that Dr. Henry Pearson, of Tuscaloosa, was badly hurt in New York city. He has been the ambulance surgeon for a hospital in that city since completing his medical course and it is thought he was hurt while answering a call.

'Tis scandal time!

'Tis candle time; the day has grayed
To dusk; the low tea table's laid,
And Flo and Phyllis cosily
Discuss their world, and sip their tea
From curious cups of priceless jade.

'Tis now each calls a spade a spade,
For, if there is one hour made For gossip most especially,
'Tis candle time!

"Mabella's gown's a horrid shade;
Whatever made her choose brocade?"
"Gwen's flirting just outrageously—She'll soon win Jack from poor Marie!"— Alas! I'm very much afraid
'Tisg scandal time!

Caroline Mischka Roberts, in The Smart Set.

Under a Cake of Ice.

It was three o'clock on a clear March afternoon when Henry Duncan, ax on shoulder, walked whistling out of the village of Winterport on the Penobscot River. He followed the main road for about a hundred rods, and then took a by-path through the fields that led him down to the water, nearly a half-mile north of the town.

His goal was a dock between two old wharves, where lay his coasting schooner, the Elsie, tied up the previous December, when the Penobscot froze over, and now, although the river had been open a fortnight, still thickly ice-clad from the lapping of the water against her sides. It was his mission that afternoon to cut off this winter coat, and begin to get his vessel ready for the season's business.

Duncan sprang lightly down the slippery bank, and stood on the old wharf, with its sodden log-ends and brown, rotting cobwork covered with masses of clinging rockweed. The tide has just begun to rise, but was still some distance below the schooner's rudder; the hard mud bottom of the dock was bare, except for a few stranded ice-cakes.

It had been a cold winter, and the coating on the Elsie was in some places more than a foot in thickness. The melting warmth of the March sun had set the water flowing between the outside planks and their covering, so that the ice had started away a little from the side. If it were creased into sections with an ax and then cut more deeply, it would fall off in great slabs.

Descending a short ladder at the head of the dock, he took off his coat, laid it upon an ice-cake behind him, and began chopping away at the mass that concealed the outlines of his vessel near the stern. At first he worked with considerable caution; but as the ice was unexpectedly hard and came off in very small pieces, he grew a little impatient and struck more vigorously.

There was a sharp crackling, and a section more than ten feet long and nearly as high as the schooner's side split off bodily.

Duncan saw it coming, but so quickly did it drop that he had no time to get out of the way. It fell across his body, bearing him backward and pinning him down upon the mud.

The plight in which the young owner so unexpectedly found himself was both painful and dangerous. There he lay, flat on his back, covered from the tips of his toes almost to his shoulders by a slab of ice weighing several hundred pounds.

The under side was rough with irregular bosses, and these, pressing down upon the mud, held up the cake from his body; otherwise his life would surely have been crushed out in a short time.

So far as he could tell, no bones had been broken, but his body and lower limbs were fastened into absolute immobility. His arms, however, were free, and he could breathe with no great difficulty. Pressing his hands strongly against the edge of the slab, he attempted to drag himself from under it. But struggle as hard as he might, he found to his great alarm that he could not work himself backward the fraction of an inch. He began to shout for aid:

"Hi! Hi! Hi! Help!"

The narrow dock resounded with his cries. From the opposite shore of the river a faint echo rolled back. How could they help hearing him in the village, half a mile below? He became silent and waited. Surely rescue would soon come. But at the end of ten minutes no approaching footstep had gladdened his ears. Again he sent forth shout after shout; but still there was no response. The dock was in an unfrequented spot, under a high bank, and the wharves that hemmed it in prevented his voice from being heard. Evidently it was useless to count on assistance from others.

Duncan turned his head and looked out across the level river. It was a beautiful afternoon. The Penobscot seemed rejoicing in its freedom from the chains of winter. No breeze rippled the surface visible between the wharf-ends. An occasional ice-cake, drifting slowly by, was the only thing that broke the monotony of the smooth, blue current.

The pressure upon the prisoner's body was becoming heavier and more painful, chilling it and checking the circulation. He could just breathe, and that was all. Pull and strain as he might, he could not extricate himself. Then a sudden fear struck him as he noted the progress of the tide. It had already crept up several inches!

He was near the lower end of the slab. The bottom of the dock sloped sharply downward, and he saw that before the tide could rise high enough to float the entire mass and remove the pressure from his body, his face would be covered and he would assuredly be drowned.

The young navigator had a strong, active body and a clear brain. He fully appreciated his peril, but saw that it was idle to waste his energies in frantic and unavailing efforts. He looked about for his ax, hoping to cut himself free. A few feet to his right the handle protruded from beneath the ice-cake. A single trial showed him that it was out of his reach, and he at once dismissed it from his thoughts.

But one resource remained. In the pocket of his coat, a few feet behind him, was a small jack-knife. Stretching his arms backward at full length he touched a sleeve and very carefully drew it toward him. In a moment the open knife was in his grasp, and he mustered all his powers for the coming struggle. With so small an instument he would have no more than time to cut himself clear before the tide should reach him. Every stroke must tell.

To gain his liberty he set out to cut three sides of an ice-cake sixteen inches long, sixteen wide, and from six to ten thick. The fourth side was the edge directly before his face. This would allow him to sit upright, with his head above the slab, and when the rising tide lifted the ice, he could easily pull his legs out.

With freedom of motion and a suitable instrument, his task would have been a trifling one. But handicapped as he was by being held down in a cramped position, armed only with a short, slender steel blade, and unable to lift his head high enough to see the surface he must attack, he did not underrate the difficulty of the achievement.

Stretching his arms forward above the edge of the slab, he began with strong, cautious strokes to draw his knife across the crackling fragments, which sprinkled his face and cheeks, and fell in heaps on each side. Deeper and deeper grew the rifts; before many minutes he would be free!

He struck a hard spot, and bore down a little too heavily. Snap! The brittle steel, chilled by constant contact with the ice, broke short off. As the blade gave way his hand came heavily down upon the surface, and the knife flew from his grasp.

For an instant this catastrophe, coming so unexpectedly, paralyzed Duncan. Then he remembered that the tool had another blade, and swept his fingers over the ice in the hope of grasping the horn handle. To his horror he could nowhere discover it. He tried again, straining and stretching forward with all his might, but again failed.

Sick with disappointment, he let his head drop back upon the mud, and lay for a moment with closed eyes, then turned his face to note the progress of the tide. It was rising quietly, more terrifying to him than if it had come with a sound and tumult. Already it washed the foot of the piles across the dock.

Resignation now would be cowardice. Duncan breathed a short prayer for strength, and again faced the situation.

A rushing far up the river broke the stillness of the afternoon. The Boston boat! Perhaps some one on board might see or hear him.

But he was doomed to disappointment. Just as the steamer came opposite the dock she whistled for the Winterport landing, and the hoarse bellow of escaping steam drowned the shouts he raised. And so swiftly did she speed by the narrow opening between the wharves that not one among her scores of passengers perceived the frantic waving of his arms. The beating of the paddle wheels died away and he was again left to himself.

It was not far from four o'clock. The sun was declining toward the west, and the banks were beginning to cast their shadows toward the river and it was growing colder. Duncan's body was stiff and numb from the fearful weight that was grinding him down into the mud. The sharp edge of the ice seemed to cut his flesh.

All the while his brain was busy with schemes to get the knife that he knew must lie not far away on the ice above his head. If he only had a short stick, it might be possible to pull the tool within his reach; but nothing of the sort was at hand. Then it came to him that he might make a noose with his handkerchief, and perhaps fling it over the knife.

A few minutes' careful angling on the unseen surface, to his great joy he regained possession of the precious instrument.

Duncan now addressed himself to his task with renewed energy, tempered with caution. Never in his life had he done any harder work than with that little penknife.

Now he would strike a shelly place, and his progress would be rapid. Then the ice would grow hard and blue again, rendering his advance slower. All the time there grew upon him an increasing terror of the tide. He had never known that it could rise so fast. Often in summer, when he had been waiting for it to float his vessel, it had barely crept up the beach. Now every minute showed a steady gain.

There was a patter of feet, a scraping of claws on the wharf across the dock. Then on its capsill appeared the head and shoulders of a hound, outlined against the clear sky. Duncan recognized him as a dog belonging to a neighbor, and the wild hope flashed into his head that here was a messenger that might summon assistance. Oh, if he could only be made to understand!

With voice and gesture he tried to coax the hound down into the dock. The animal evidently appreciated the fact that something was wanted of him, for he ran whinning back and forth on the edge of the wharf, as if seeking a place to descend. Finally, however, to Duncan's bitter disappointment he turned and bounded off.

Two sides of the ice-cake parallel to his body were now cut through, but the hardest of the three, that across his thighs, had hardly been touched. And the water had already laid its icy clutch on his hair. How freezing cold it was! It had crept under the cake, and was chilling his whole body. It was flowing into his ears. The back of his head and neck seemed to be turning into ice.

Then came ten minutes of painful, desperate effort. The shipmaster's body was almost destitute of feeling because of the fearful numbness that had crept over it. About him the rising water eddied and gurgled. His whole life depended upon that little sharp piece of steel set in the horn handle. The cake was cut half through; a few more strokes would do the work.

Again that slight snapping sound! The brittle blade had broken like the other!

With a mighty effort Duncan flung both arms powerfully down on the tongue that still held to the slab by its half-severed end, preventing his escape; but the firm mass showed no sign of yielding. Again, and still again, with the strength of despair he dashed his elbows against the unfeeling ice, bruising them cruelly. But his second and third attempts proved as the first.

"You never can do it! You never can do it!" a voice seemed to keep saying over and over in his ear.

"I will do it!" he shouted. And for the fourth time, his muscles hard as steel and his energies doubled and trebled by the deadly peril, he hurled his tense forearms upon the mass that held him down.

Crack! The cake split off, and lay loosely across his chest.

He had succeeded at last, but not a moment too soon, for the water was lapping his cheeks. With a final endeavor he pushed the severed cake aside, and putting his arms behind him, lifted his stiffened frame to an upright position. The long chilling pressure had almost numbed his body, and he was weak as a reed from the struggle he had won.

A few minutes more, and the rising tide floated the slab sufficiently to allow him to draw his legs from under it, and he crept slowly up out of the water.

It was hard work to climb the ladder at the head of the dock; but grit and resolution conquered, and Duncan found himself at last on the moldering timbers of the wharf. It would not do to remain there, however, so, slowly and painfully, he started to drag himself homeward.

The effort he was obliged to make, hard though it seemed, was of the greatest benefit to him, for it gradually set the blood circulating once more through his benumbed body. By the time he had gone two hundred yards he was able to rise to his feet, and begin a slow, hobbling walk. On reaching home he said nothing of his adventure, although he felt its effects for weeks afterward.

Duncan is now captain of a three-masted schooner, well-known in the coasting trade. In one of the drawers of the desk in his cabin is a horn-handled jack-knife with both blades broken. This he preserves as carefully as a veteran of a war might treasure some object that had stopped the bullet aimed at his heart.—Youth's Companion.

A Tame Butterfly.

A Chicago woman had all winter a tame butterfly that has just died. It did not cost much to keep this butterfly, for all it ate was one drop of honey every three days.

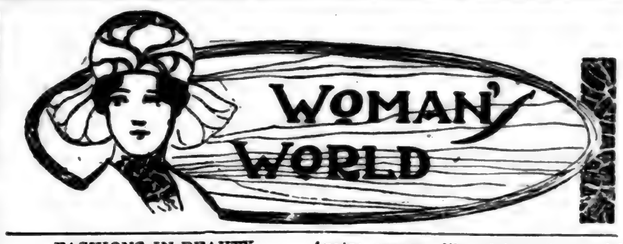
The butterfly blundered into the woman's house one day last fall. It was numb with cold. For a little while it fluttered feebly. Then it sank to the carpet and lay as though dead.

The woman took it in her hands and warmed it, whereupon it became active and gay. But once released from the warmth of her hands it grew cold again—it fell into a stupor. Thereupon she gave it another warming. Thus, before many days had gone by, the butterfly learned the restorative value of a woman's hands, and it would fly to them and nestle in them as a little child nestles on the breast of its mother.

It learned to feed from her hand, too; but all it desired was a drop of honey every three or four days. She would place the honey on her finger and the butterfly, uncurling its delicate sucker, would sip it slowly and daintily, as a young lady sips soda water through a straw.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The ten branch offices of the Russo-Chinese Bank located in China have since their establishment no record of a single protested note.

The proportion of divorces to marriages in Japan is one to four.



FASHIONS IN BEAUTY.

Is the type of beauty changing? Is delicacy of feature old-fashioned? And is it gradually becoming modish to have rather thick features, a complexion so fat as to approach the very reverse of the joy of life? Is dulness like a canker eating into our very tastes and affecting our apprehension of the beautiful?

I ask you all these questions because of a visit I paid not long ago to the studio of a fashionable protrait-painter. A few faces there were of the mignon type, sweet in expression and neat of nose. But all the most admired of modern women were very different indeed. There was a lady of the lyric stage whose features can be described only by the word flat. She is a Paris celebrity, but enchants music-hall London now and then with her particular form of art. There is no denying her charm. The difficulty lies in analyzing it. What kind of soul looks out from those apparently almost lifeless eyes? The stolidity of expression is almost inconceivable. The lips are like those of the women of ancient Egypt, large, thick, and yet with some vague, if sensuous, charm about them. The chin is solid, firm and masculine. One can imagine men obeying the owner of that chin. One could never picture her obeying any one. A smile would wonderfully transform the face. But it is not easy to imagine it curving into a smile.

Is this the coming type? It almost seems so. Such a woman as she whom I have been trying to sketch would never trouble herself to ask "Why?" about anything and her answer to every question would be "Because," a sufficient reason to any one who understood her.—London Truth.

TO REMEMBER.

Sleep nine hours.
Rest after luncheon.
Don't bathe when very tired.
Don't bathe soon after eating.
If thin, massage the face gently.
If too plump, a firm pressure is better.
Use some good cold cream with the massage.
A thorough cleansing should precede message.
Gentle, thorough hair brushing should be indulged in twice a day.
If hair brushes be cleansed daily and the scalp massaged the hair and head will keep clean much longer.
If in addition to scalp massage we give our hair a soft rubbing with the palms of our hands it will be much more silky.
The eating of fruit which is neither green nor over-ripe, combined with the drinking of plenty of pure water, is a great thing for anybody.
After disagreeable tasks the hands will not suffer if thoroughly cleansed (with acids if necessary), and then treated to cold cream and soft gloves.
Regularity in the taking of wholesome meals would do much toward beautifying some persons who never have time to conduct their affairs methodically.—Philadelphia Record.

PRINCESSES OF THE RED CROSS.

Women in Japan, from the highest to the lowest ranks, are taking an active hand in the work of the various war-time aid societies that are caring for the Mikado's soldiers in the field and in hospital. It is an interesting fact, says William Dinwiddie in Harper's Weekly, that all the Japanese princesses of royal blood are enlisted among the members of the Red Cross. Mr. Dinwiddie is one of the Weekly's special correspondents in the Far East, and he has had special opportunities for studying affairs in Japan. Speaking of the work of the royal members of the Red Cross, he tells of seeing, almost any day, a dozen princesses at work in the military hospital making bandages and lint. The president of the Ladies' Patriotic Society is no less a personage than Her Imperial Highness Princess Kanin.

REST FOR WEARY MOTHERS.

As the health of a nursing infant depends largely upon the health of the mother, it is very essential, as has been stated before, that no great strain, physical or mental, should be put upon her, and that she should have a certain amount of rest and mental diversion. To this end it is advisable, as early as possible, which means as soon as the baby is well started and gaining in weight, to give one bottle feeding of diluted cow's milk once in twenty-four hours. It is usually safe to commence this feeding at the end of a month, and it is best to give the milk quite diluted for the first two or three days, say, one part of milk to four parts of water, until the stomach becomes accustomed to the change of food.—Harper's Bazar.

GIRLS OF NEW ORLEANS.

Poets and lovers of New Orleans will tell you that the girl of the Southern city gets her pale, creamy complexion from the magnolias that bloom in such profusion; her grace and languid ease of motion from the thousands of waving palms; the dusk of her eyes and hair from the wondrous tropical beauty of the Southern nights; her voice from the whispering of the zephyrs and the changeful song of the mocking bird. Much of her health, says a writer in the National Magazine, is undoubtedly owing to the fruit she eats; oranges like globes of greenish or russet gold into whose flavor has entered the perfume of the most delicious flowers in the fruit world, figs which are flowers, purple without, rosy within, "watermelon" whose cool colors are as refreshing on a summer day as the draught that comes from its crimson heart.

TELLTALE GRAINS OF RICE.

Here is a lesson that all persons who make pretensions should take to heart. A woman who was invited to a fashionable wedding did not think her two spring hats quite good enough to cope with the Paris creations that would prevail. So the undaunted woman called at a milliner's and selected a costly affair of lace, which she had charged to her account. Of course her idea was to wear it to the wedding and returned it the next day. Her hat was vastly admired. She glibly said it cost a mere $50," and enjoyed the effect the price produced on her friends. Unfortunately she got in the way of the shower of rice that was hurled at the happy couple. The next day she returned the "hat-on-credit." The day following she was asked to call on the milliner, and was confronted with the question. "Didn't you wear this unsatisfactory hat at a wedding yesterday?" The unhappy woman denied it, but finally broke down. "How did you know?" she gasped. "Well," the milliner replied, "we found several grains of rice in the folds of lace."—New York Press.

FASHION NOTES.

The 1830 or French blouse is the latest idea in black taffeta coats.

Panama cloth is a well-liked stuff for the separate skirt.

While shirrings are very fashionable they are not so effective for wash materials as for wool or silk.

A new notion is to stitch down the up and down tucks of a skirt around the hips with horizontal rows of machine stitching to the depth of a hip yoke.

While pronounced color contrasts are not in favor in this season's gowns excellent effects are produced by just a touch of a contrasting tint.

Some of the newest skirts are cut circular and then lined to retain their shape.

A small collar finishes the neck of many fashionable jackets.

High turnover linen collars, hand-embroidered, in English effect, held together by gold links, and finished with a soft tie of chiffon velvet, tulle or coarse woven silk, are very much worn with separate waists, even with those of silk mull.

Soft messaline ribbon plaitings are among the newest trimmings.

Chiffon voiles are accorded first place.

The colored linen gown is to be in great favor for midsummer vogue, in fastest shades, like pale green, blue mauve and yellow.

The so-much-talked-of "religious plaits," or "men's folds," are simply very wide tucks.

Men Who Lasso Ships.

Writing of a trip over the Great Lakes in Harper's Magazine, Louise Morgan Sill tells of the lariat throwers, who are even more skilful than the Western cowboys.

"One of the most interesting persons connected with the lake traffic is a sort of brother to the landlubber cowboy," she writes. "He is practically the lariat thrower of these prairielike lakes, but he does not lasso cattle or anything so trivial. His game may be a wharf or an 8,000 ton freighter, and he never misses his cast. He makes no pretence to anything picturesque, and it is doubtful if he would care to be so described; but picturesque he is as he swings the rope in the air from the dock to vessel, or vice versa.

"He may be in trim sailor garb or merely clothed in the easy going garments of the man who wears them merely as a means of covering.

"The lariat thrower is of no particular nationality. He may be an American or Canadian, or Irish, or Swedish, or German, or almost anything; but after he has worked awhile on these vast inland waters the lakes put their stamp upon him and he becomes a lake man. He does his work with a certain calmness and ease, a philosophical mastery of things without excitement. If you talk with him you will find that he knows much more than he seems to know."

A Rag-Time Letter.

Monotonous as their life is, as a rule, the postal authorities in India have their exciting moments. We cull the following Babu letter from a contemporary:

"The Sub-Postmaster reports that last evening a mice came out from behind the office door, and after walking a little stammered and breathed its last in the presence of the Sub-Postmaster there. As these are the prognostics of plague, I beg you will kindly arrange to have the office disinfected at an early date."

Curious that the mouse should have stammered. Nervousness, probably.

WHEN A GIRL IS TWENTY.

The hurrying months are passing
Another birthday near!
And some one is lamenting
In secret, so I hear.
The idle gossips whisper
That it is much too late
To hope for any miracle to save a maid's fate.
What base insinuation!
What falsehood, line on line!
For lots of nice things happen when a girl is twenty-nine.

"Young things" may still be popular
No doubt. Yet critics state
They're really quite old-fashioned
And somewhat out of date.
Our dramas, poems, and novels
As any one can see,
Have relegated "sweet sixteen" tales of ancestry.
If heroines are older,
It's certainly a sign
That lots of things may happen when a girl's "sweet twenty-nine."

So do not grow too wistful
O'er long forgotten teens,
With sighs of retrospection
For whispered might-have-beens.
But if you smile as sweetly
As then, and are as coy,
And never show that you prefer graybeard to a boy
In short, if you're your own true self
You'll never have to pine
For everything can happen when a girl is twenty-nine.

M. S. H., in

JUST FOR FU

Employer—An office boy should be modest, reserved, and unobtrusive. Office Boy—Well, say, I can't do it for two dollars a week—Puck.

Chappley—Aw—what natural gifts possess I got from my mother. Cutt—Oh, come, don't talk that way about your mother.—Chicago Daily News.

Wigg—I like to see a woman who can rise superior to dress. Well, any woman in a decollete dress is head and shoulders above it.—Philadelphia Record.

She—Women may gossip sometimes, but they have better control of their tongues than men have. He—You are right. Men have no control of women's tongues.—Kansas City Journal.

Pigment—I saw you at the art exhibition last evening. I suppose you are very fond of paintings? Gamboge—Oh, dear, no, I hate them. I'm a critic, you know.—Boston Transcript.

"We had planned an ideal life: live in a cottage, and all that, you know." "Well, why did you not carry it out?" "The man who owned the cottage insisted on rent in advance."—Home Post.

"What is the age of your wife?" inquired the immigrant inspector. The Mormon elder made a rapid calculation. "One hundred and seventy-two, sir," he answered.—Cleveland Dealer.

"Have a care, madam," said Mrs. Meeker, summoning up a little spirit. "The worm will turn!" "Did you ever know the worm to hurt anybody after it turned?" calmly asked his wife.—Chicago Tribune.

"What are we to understand by 'Know-Nothing Party,' pop?" "A know-nothing party, my son, is an individual what stands at the railroad station door, and of whom questions are asked in vain."—Yonkers Statesman.

"My words don't seem to have much weight," protested the young wife during an argument at the breakfast table. "Never mind, my dear," replied the brutal other half, "your looks more than make up for the short—Chicago Daily News.

"Have you tried to do good with your money?" asked the man of high aims. "I should say so," answered Senator Sorghum. "I started with it and am now worth millions. If that isn't doing pretty good, I don't know what is."—Washington Star.

"Does that fellow own this machine?" said the man to a policeman as he saw the automobile going down one side of the street to the curb. "Well, it doesn't look as if he had a controlling interest," said the guardian of the peace.—Yonkers Statesman.

Father—The idea of your thinking of marrying that man. He can't make enough money together to buy a square meal. Gwendolyn—But that doesn't make any difference, papa, dear. We haven't either of us had an appetite for a month.—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

Odors That Pervade European Cities.

Some sensitive essayist should write on the smell of place as subject. Paris, for example, is lightly pervaded with the odor of burning charcoal, and coming from Paris to London one is newly assailed by an appeal of smell. Cologne has a reputation, long deserved for smell other than that of its famous "water," and it has been said that in years of old a blind man could find his way about Cologne by following his nose. Moscow has an odor and fume of its own. It suggests juniper berries of peculiar pungency. Amsterdam never leaves the nose.

Garlic is a basic smell that meets the stranger who lands at Calais, and the most curious of the smells of cities is that of St. Petersburg. The present writer had often wondered what it was, having detected it even behind the sheets of his bed at the most opulent hotel. On his third visit he was driving in a droshky from the station with a fresh young English girl, who had never been away from London before. "Now, do you smell anything?" he asked. "Yes," said the girl, "new boots." That is the smell of St. Petersburg. Centenarian shoe leather.—London Chronicle.

VOLVER'S ROMANCE.

AND DEVELOPMENT OF THIS AMERICAN FIREARM.

Story of Col. "Jack" Hays and Colt—Their First Meeting in
New York Gunshop, Where the Texas Ranger Placed an Order for the New Invention.

There is a romantic side to weapons of war that is as interesting as in our national history. The story of our purely American arm, the six-shooter revolver, furnishes an instance that will illustrate this. It seems perfectly adapted to American frontier conditions. It has given its skilful wielders victory on many a well-fought field. And this is why its rise and development should be a part of our country's military history.

In the '30's we were enlarging our national boundaries in the southwest. For a long time it was an up-hill fight. Not only the Mexicans, but Comanchos and Lipans and other allied warriors and bandits were—harassed and raided the scattering frontier settlements and towns along the Texas border until it really appeared as if the entire scheme of settlement of Texas must go down in blood. But the men who had started out to do this work were not of the quitting kind. They were of that fighting-hating, Indian-hating stock that obstacles did not daunt nor dismay. They quail. And they set their teeth and swore they would stay. To defend their frontier thoroughly and effectively they organized bands of companies of Rangers, under officers who could not only fight Indians and Mexicans but control and discipline their own army. Among the ablest of these commanders Col. Hays—better known as "Jack" Hays—was incontestably the ablest. He was a born leader of men—just such men as were to be peopling the great southwestern frontier. In stature he was about 5 feet 8 inches and never weighed over 160 pounds.

Some time in the middle thirties—about 1835 or 1836, Col. Hays was directed by the governor of Texas to go to New York and purchase suitable arms to equip his troop. He had then about 150 men, but they were not unlike ly armed, and lacked equipment suitable for a mounted command. They, about all, carried a rifle and a pair of pistols of various patterns. They needed to be equipped alike and with the very best weapons that were available at that time.

So, in obedience to his orders, and with a letter of credit on the treasurer of the Texan republic, Hays took passage in a schooner for New York. If he did not find anything that he had not seen before in the way of firearms. One day, however, a gunsmaker said: "There is a man living over in New Jersey at present that has just invented a pistol which I would like to have you see." "What is there about it that makes it different from other pistols?" asked Colonel Hays. "Well, this, for one thing: It shoots six times without reloading." Col. Hays's interest was immediately aroused. "Indeed, I'd like very much to see it," said he. "Very well, then I have him in here with it tomorrow about this time," responded the dealer. So the next day the man came in. He was about thirty years old and a gunsmith chiefly by trade, though he did all sorts of work in fine steel. He said he had just concluded an order for sabres of officers for the regiment of dragoons just then being raised.

"This is my pistol, colonel," said he, opening a case and handing the weapon to the Texas colonel. Then he took the model pistol, which was about like the Colts pocket arm of today in size, calibre and weight, and the expert fired all six barrels in less than a minute. The arm came up to Hays's expectations in all respects. He took the model to Texas with him and submitted it to his Rangers. When it had been thoroughly tested they ordered 100 of the pistols and fifty of the rifles. The latter were constructed that when the cylinder was fired it could be slipped out and another cylinder, already loaded, put to the arm in one time and two motions—that is, in thirty seconds. Shortly after the troop had been armed with these new weapons they were tried in a sharp fight that settled the question of their superiority over those of their Indian and Mexican antagonists once and for all.

Reception to Canales.

About 600 or 700 Mexican and Comanche and Lipane Indians crossed over into Texas under the leadership of Canales, a noted "raider" from the other side of the Rio Grande; and with a herd of about 1000 head of fat beef cattle, and perhaps 500 head of mules, were making their way back into Chihuahua, where Canales had a fine ranch and lively in princely style. He was one of the richest men in Northern Mexico and the ablest soldier in that section. The 200 lancers with him charged Hays's men fearlessly. Hays let them come on until they were in good easy range, and then opeed up on them with his fifty rifles. After the first volume Canales thought he had the Americans foul, and he dashed at the little band of intrepid Rangers, commanded by Nelson Burleson, one of Hays's most trusted lieutenants. Crash! crash! crash went the rifles. "Per Dios! What sort of a rifle have these Americans got?" they shouted to one another, as leaving the stolen cattle and about one-sixth of their command dead or sadly wounded on the ground in the hands of the dreadful Americans, they struck out for the Rio Grande and the other side. It was soon reported all along the border that los Ame-

WHEN A GIRL IS TWENTY-

The hurrying months are passing
Another birthday near!
And some one is lamenting
In secret, so I hear.
The idle gossips whisper
That it is much too late
To hope for any miracle to save a maid's fate.
What base insinuation!
What falsehood, line on line!
For lots of nice things happen
a girl is twenty-nine.

"Young things" may still be in
No doubt. Yet critics state
They're really quite old-fashioned
And somewhat out of date.
Our dramas, poems, and novels,
As any one can see,
Have relegated "sweet sixteen tales of ancestry.
If heroines are older,
It's certainly a sign
That lots of things may happen
a girl's "sweet twenty-nine."

So do not grow too wistful
Over long forgotten teens,
With sighs of retrospection
For whispered might-have-beens.
But if you smile as sweetly
As then, and are as coy,
And never show that you
graybeard to a boy;
In short, if you're your own
You'll never have to pine!
For everything can happen girl is twenty-nine.

M. S. H., in L

JUST FOR FU

Employer—An office boy should modest, reserved, and unobtrusive fice Boy—Well, say, I can't do all fer two dollars a week—Puck.

Chappley—Aw—what natural possess I got from my mother.
Cutt—Oh, come, don't talk that about your mother.—Chicago
News.

Wigg—I like to see a woman can rise superior to dress. W
Well, any woman in a decollette is head and shoulders above it.—
adelphia Record.

She—Women may gossip somet but they have better control of tongues than men have. He—Yo right. Men have no control of en's tongues.—Kansas City Journa

Pigment—I saw you at the art bition last evening. I suppose yo very fond of paintings? Gamboge—dear, no, I hate them. I'm an critic, you know.—Boston Transc

"We had planned an ideal life;
in a cottage, and all that, you k
"Well, why did you not carry it
"The man who owned the cotta sisted on rent in advance."—Ho Post.

"What is the age of your wife quired the immigrant inspector.
Mormon elder made a rapid ca tion. "One hundred and seventy-sir," he answered.—Cleveland Dealer.

"Have a care, madam," said
Meeker, summoning up a little
"The worm will turn!" "Did yo know the worm to hurt anybody
it turned?" calmly asked his w Chicago Tribune.

"What are we to understand b
'Know-Nothing Party,' pop?" know-nothing party, my son, is th dividual what stands at the ra station door, and of whom que are asked in vain."—Yonkers S man.

"My words don't seem to have weight," protested the young wife ing an argument at the breakfa
ble. "Never mind, my dear," re the brutal other half, "your h more than make up for the shor
—Chicago Daily News.

"Have you tried to do good with money?" asked the man of high aims. "I should say so," answ Senator Sorghum. "I started wit and am now worth millions. If isn't doing pretty good, I don't what is."—Washington Star.

"Does that fellow own that chine?" said the man to a police as he saw the automobile going one side of the street to the "Well, it doesn't look as if he controlling interest," said the gu of the peace.—Yonkers States

Father—The idea of your th of marrying that man. He can't enough money together to buy a meal. Gwendolyn—But that make any difference, papa, dear haven't either of us had an for a month.—Pennsylvania Bowl

Odors That Pervade European C

Some sensitive essayist should the smell of place as subject.
for example, is lightly pervaded with the odor of burning cha and coming from Paris to London, is newly assailed by an appeal of Cologne has a reputation, long nerved for smell other than that famous "water," and it has been that in years of old a blind man find his way about Cologne by ing his nose. Moscow has an od fume of its own. It suggests berries of peculiar pungency.
never leaves the nose.

Garlic is a basic smell that the stranger who lands at Calais the most curious of the smells of is that of St. Petersburg. The writer had often wondered wha was, having detected it even be the sheets of his bed at the most bitant hotel. On his third visit he driving in a droshky from the
with a fresh young English girl, had never been away from Kent
ore. "Now, do you smell anyth
he asked. "Yes," said the girl, boots." That is the smell of St.
ersburg. Centenarian shoe leath
London Chronicle.

REVOLVER'S ROMANCE.

AND DEVELOPMENT OF THIS AMERICAN FIREARM.

Story of Col. "Jack" Hays and Colt—Their First Meeting in New York Gunshop, Where the Ranger Placed an Order for New Invention.

There is a romantic side to weapons of war that is as interesting as in our national history. The origin of our purely American arm, the revolver, furnishes an instance will illustrate this. It seems ly adapted to American frontconditions. It has given its skillwielders victory on many a well-fought field. And this is why its rise development should be a part of country's military history.

In the '30's we were enlarging our final boundaries in the southwest. A long time it was an up-hill Not only the Mexicans, but Comanches and Lipans—unskilled warriors and daring horsemen—harassed and raided the scattered frontier settlements and towns the Texas border until it really seemed as if the entire scheme of settlement of Texas must go down blood. But the men who had started to do this work were not of the ordinary kind. They were of that Indian-fighting stock obstacles did not daunt nor danger quail. And they set their teeth and swore they would stay. To their frontier thoroughly and effectively they organized bands of companies of Rangers, under officers who could not only fight Indians and Mexicans but control and discipline their own army. Among the ablest of these commanders Col. Hays—better known as "Jack" Hays—was incontestably the ablest. He was a born leader of men—just such men as were needed to people the great southwestern frontier. In stature he was about 5 feet 8 inches and never weighed over 160 pounds.

Some time in the middle thirties, about 1835 or 1836, Col. Hays was directed by the governor of Texas to go to New York and purchase suitable arms to equip his troop. He had then about 150 men, but they were not uniformly armed, and lacked equipment suitable for a mounted command. They, about all, carried a rifle and a pair of pistols of various patterns. They needed to be equipped alike, and with the very best weapons that were available at that time.

So, in obedience to his orders, and with a letter of credit on the treasury of the Texan republic, Hays took passage in a schooner for New York. As he did not find anything that he had not seen before in the way of firearms. One day, however, a gunsmith said: "There is a man living here in New Jersey at present that has just invented a pistol which I would like to have you see." "What is there about it that makes it different from other pistols?" asked Col. Hays. "Well, this, for one thing: It shoots six times without reloading." Col. Hays's interest was immediately aroused. "Indeed, I'd like very much to see it," said he. "Very well, then, I'll have him in here with it tomorrow about this time," responded the dealer. So the next day the man came in. He was about thirty years old and a blacksmith chiefly by trade, though he did all sorts of work in fine steel. He said he had just concluded an order for sabres of officers for the regiment of dragoons just then being raised.

"This is my pistol, colonel," said he, opening a case and handing the weapon to the Texas colonel. They were the model pistol, which was almost like the Colts pocket arm of today in size, calibre and weight, and the expert fired all six barrels in less than a minute. The arm came up to Hays's expectations in all respects. He took the model to Texas with him and submitted it to his Rangers. When it had been thoroughly tested, they ordered 100 of the pistols and fifty of the rifles. The latter were so constructed that when the cylinder was fired it could be slipped out and another cylinder, already loaded, put in the arm in one time and two motions—that is, in thirty seconds. Shortly after the troop had been armed with these new weapons they were tried in a sharp fight that settled the question of their superiority over those of their Indian and Mexican antagonists once and for all.

Reception to Canales.

About 600 or 700 Mexican and Comanche and Lipane Indians crossed over into Texas under the leadership of Canales, a noted "raider" from the other side of the Rio Grande; and with a herd of about 1060 head of fat cattle and perhaps 500 head of horses making their way back into Chihuahua, where Canales had a fine ranch and lived in princely style. He was one of the richest men in northern Mexico and the ablest soldier in that section. The 200 lancers with which he charged Hays's men fearlessly. Hays let them come on until they were in good easy range, and then opened up on them with his fifty rifles. After the first volume Canales thought he had the Americans foul, as he dashed at the little band of intrepid Rangers, commanded by Ned Darleson, one of Hays's most trusty lieutenants. Crash! crash! crash! went the rifles. "Per Dios! What sort of a rifle have these Americans got?" they shouted to one another, as, leaving the stolen cattle and about one-sixth of their command dead or badly wounded on the ground in the hands of the dreadful Americans, they struck out for the Rio Grande and the other side. It was soon reported all along the border that los Americanos had a dreadful rifle, that they used by magic of some sort, which would shoot as long as they wished without reloading. Canales offered a great reward for one of these new guns. He was a well-educated man, and realized at once that the American had some sort of arm that was not generally known, and was vastly superior in rapidity of fire and reloading to anything in use. It was nearly two years, however, before he could get his hands on one of them. Col. Samuel Colt had pledged himself not to furnish his new arm to any but Americans, and men who would not suffer it to get into the wrong hands. The United States army, particularly the three mounted regiments then in service—the First and Second Regiments of Dragoons and the Mounted Rifles—were quipped with Colt revolving pistols as soon as the Ordnance Bureau of the War Department could be persuaded to adopt it.—Washington Post.

BABU FORENSIC ELOQUENCE.

Astonishing Oratory as Reported by an American in India.

An American traveling in India has supplied me with the following sample of Babu forensic eloquence. He vows that he heard a Bengali pleader make the speech in a case in which there were cross-summonses for assault:

"My learned friend with mere wind from a teapot thinks to browbeat me from my legs. But this is mere gorilla warfare. I stand under the shoes of my client, and only seek to place my bone of contention, in your honor's eye. My learned friend vainly runs amuck upon the sheet anchor of my case.

"Your honor will be pleased enough to observe that my client is a widow, a poor chap with one post-mortem son. A widow of this country, your honor will be pleased to observe, is not like a widow of your honor's country. A widow of this country is not able to eat more than one meal a day, or to wear clean clothes or look after a man. So my poor client had not such physic or mind as to be able to assault the lusty complainant. Yet she has been deprived of some of her valuable leather, the leather of her nose. My learned friend has thrown only argument 'ad hominy' upon my teeth, that my client's witnesses are all her own relations. But they are not near relations. Their relationship is only homeopathic. So the misty arguments of my learned friend will not hold water. At least they will not hold good water.

"Then my learned friend has said that there is on the side of his client a respectable witness, viz., a pleader, and since this witness is independent, so he should be believed. But your honor, with your honor's vast experience, is pleased to observe that truthfulness is not so plentiful as blackberries in this country. And, I am sorry to say, though this witness is a man of my own fathers, that there are in my profession black sheep of every complexion, and some of them do not always speak gospel truth. Until the witness explains what has become of my client's nose leather he cannot be believed. He cannot be allowed to raise a castle in the air by beating upon a bush, so, trusting in that administration of British justice on which the sun never sets, I close my case."—London Truth.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

It is only necessary to boil a cork for five minutes to make it fit any bottle.

Engaged lovers in the Canary Islands find it difficult to exchange sweet confidences, as the young man is not allowed to visit his fiancee in her home.

A policeman told a Greenwich (London) magistrate that the prisoner "came up to him and asked him to hold a lamppost til he went past, as it kept moving."

The Japanese are noted for long noses; therefore they are considered a mark of beauty. A Japanese girl with an unusually prominent nose is considered a belle.

The most popular stockings in Paris just now are those made like a glove, with a separate compartment for each toe. It is said they prevent corns, and ease them if they already exist.

In Japanese prisons the punishment known as water torture is often resorted to. The prisoner is confined in a closet too small for him to stir. While he stands, water, one drop at a time is allowed to fall from a faucet on his head. Few persons can endure this punishment longer than four days.

Why People Stammer.

Stammering depends on a want of harmony between the action of the muscles (chiefly abdominal) which expel air through the larynx and that of the muscles which guard the orifice by which it escapes with that of those which modulate the sound to the form of speech. Over either of the groups of muscles by itself a stammerer may have as much power as other people, but he cannot harmoniously arrange their conjoint action. Nervousness is a frequent cause of stammering. It is possible that the defect in some instances may result from malformation of the parts about the back of the mouth. The fact that stammering people are able to sing their words better than to speak them has been usually explained on the supposition that in singing the glottis is kept open so that there is less liability to spasmodic action.

MOST PRIZED OF BIG GAME.

HUNTING OF MOUNTAIN SHEEP A THING OF THE PAST.

The Cocopahs Are the Most Sought of the Mexican Variety, but They Are Still Good for the Liveliest Kind of Sport.

Since the killing of mountain sheep has been made unlawful at all seasons in most of the localities where they now exist in this country, and so hedged about with restrictions as to practically preclude it in others, the hunting of this rarest and most prized of all American big game may be said to have become a thing of the past in the United States. The sport would claim many more votaries but for the fact that money and time entirely beyond the command of the average hunter are required to reach the districts in which the killing of the bighorn is within the law.

To go to the famous sheep sections of Alaska—the Alsek and White rivers and the Cook's Inlet country—a month may prove too brief and $1,000 may require husbanding to make both ends meet.

The sheep mountains of Lower California offer a more practicable and aluring hunting ground, says the Los Angeles Times. On climate, accessibility and expense incident to reaching it, this section has incomparably the best of the Alaskan districts, and, in the matter of the sheep themselves, none the worst. The cream of the Mexican sheep country is in the vicinity of the 10,000-foot peak of San Pedro de Martens, almost opposite San Quentin, in Lower California, and 100 miles south of the head of the gulf of that name.

The Pinto Mountains lie a little to the north of west of the head of the Gulf of California, and are the favorite sheep hunting ground with the few who hunt in that section on account of the comparative ease with which they are approached and traversed.

The presence of so many sheep in the Pintos is an anomaly. There are no natural springs upon them and water only exists through the dry season in natural "tanks" in the rock in the bottoms of deep canons. At times these "tanks" are said to go dry, but the sheep are never absent. And in other countries, notably in Wyoming, sheep are supposed to water every day, and one of the favorite methods of hunting them there was to lie in wait at one of their favorite spring. Nor is the topography of these mountains along the lines that are supposed to conform to the classic taste of the sheep; they are too low, and the great rocks and crags are missing; in short, it is so much easier to sight and follow the game than in the haunts in which one has been led to expect he will find them that at first it seems as if all was not right.

But what the Pintos lack in roughness is more than made up by the mountains around San Pedro. Here are the real sheep mountains of tradition; soaring peak and bottomless canon; cliff and talus, crag and escarpment, ravine and precipice. The live sheep has all the chance in the world to elude you and many a dead one lies unretrieved in the inaccessible depths of a dark cavern.

Fortunately sheep are plentiful on San Pedro, else their hunting would be a matter of the greatest difficulty. The foreman of one of the cattle camps on the Colorado delta has shot several there with a revolver, and he tells of a Mexican family residing near the east base of the mountains that depends entirely for its meat upon the sheep killed by the son of the family, a lad of 16. This youngster two years ago became possessed of an old fashioned Martini-Henry rifle, and though he had had no previous training with a gun, since that time wild mutton has been the mainstay of the family. The youngster has preserved the skulls and horns of the males and has them laid out in rows upon a great flat rock near his house. This rock is fully thirty-five feet square, but those who have seen it declare that it is covered as thickly as they can be packed with a most magnificent collection of heads and horns. Around the rock are scattered the smaller horned heads of the females, and the bones of the animals are as thick about the place as those of cattle around a slaughter house. The lad knows nothing of the value of his stock of heads and a few boxes of ammunition or a new gun would undoubtedly purchase the whole lot. Not a bad chance for a speculation for some one to go in with a pack train and bring out a hundred or so heads and place them on the market. The returns should justify the expense many times over.

The Cocopahs are probably most hunted of the Mexican sheep mountains, but are still good for the liveliest kind of sport. Here the Yuma people have hunted for years, and sheep heads are sometimes used for rocking chairs in Yuma. These mountains are a steep and fairly high range, rise from below sea level in places, and run from a point on the international boundary line a mile or two west of Calexico to a point ten miles west of and about even with the junction of the Colorado and Hardy. This range, which is about fifty miles long, has two prominent groups of peaks of considerable height, those around Mayor, near the lower end of the range, and a group of unnamed summits some twenty miles south of the line. Sheep are found all through the range, but mostly in these high mountains. Last summer a band of ten ventured down to a spring less than ten miles from Calexio, and three of them were shot by an Indian who chanced upon them with an old .44 Winchester, an incident unique in the fact that the animals were shot below sea level.

Sheep are often seen on Mayor, but the hunting is difficult because of the impossibility of locating their watering places. It is possible to stop at a cattle camp, four miles out from the foot of this mountain, and seek the sheep in one day jaunts, but the energy expended in reaching the localities where the animals are found will take out of the strongest the "snap" that is essential for this kind of hunting. There is no royal road to the mountain sheep, and in following them one can no more dodge hard work than he can taxes, but care in the choice of ground and in the expenditure of one's forces will often bring success and sheep where haphazard hunting would end in nothing but scratches, bruises and an overpowering weariness.

THE JAPANESE TOM THUMB.

A Well-Loved Old Acquaintance in a New Garb.

An aged Japanese wood cutter and his wife lived in a small hut by the side of a forest stream. But the happy laughter of children had never been heard in the house, and the woman grieved in her heart that it should be so. One day while sitting idly in the door, dreaming of the face of the child she had never nursed, she saw a very large peach floating in the water. With much trouble she succeeded in fishing it out; then she put it away on a shelf until her husband came home, that she might share it with him.

But when the tired wood cutter returned and seated himself on the floor beside the mat on which his wife served their supper, and the old woman had placed the peach before him, it began to split—and, lo, instead of a stone there was a little tiny boy inside. Though so small, he proved to be very strong, and when they attempted to give him his first baby bath he lifted the tub and held it above his head. This was the first of a series of feats of strength which proved that he was no ordinary child.

They called the little fellow Momotaro—Peachling—for "momo" means "peach." When he had grown the fraction of an inch or so he one day called the old woman and asked her to make him five "dango," that is millet dumplings, for he was going to attack the stronghold of the ogres. His adoptive mother was both surprised and alarmed, but she made the dumplings, and Momotaro put them in his bag and set forth on his journey. He had gone but a little way when he heard a voice calling him from a tree: "Momotaro, what have you in your bag?"

He looked up and saw a bird with beautiful plumage, then he answered: "The best dango ever made in Japan; come with me and you shall have one."

So the beautiful bird left its perch and flew beside him. Next, a monkey called: "Momotaro, what have you in your bag?"

The boy laughed. "The best dumpling in all Japan," he cried; "come with me and you shall have one."

So the monkey followed him, too, and presently they passed a dog, who was sunning himself by the wayside. The dog barked a welcome, and then said: "Momotaro, what have you got in your bag?"

The boy stopped and patted the dog on the head. "I've dango my mother made for me," he replied; "come with me and you shall have one."

So they four went on together, and when they came near the stronghold of the ogres the beautiful bird flew on in advance of the others, and, passing over the outer wall of the fortress, made observations. Then the bird called to the monkey, who climbed up the wall at the place the feathered spy pointed out, and found a short iron crowbar, which he set in a handy place. He then slid down the inner side of the wall and unfastened the great gate, and in dashed Momotaro and the dog. In a moment all was confusion, for while the dog snapped at the ogres' heels, and the bird flapped her wings in their faces, and the monkey threw stones at them from the wall, little Momotaro made great play with his crowbar until they fell on their knees and prayed for mercy. Then the gallant little Japanese Tom Thumb and his three odd companions entered the ogres' strong room, where he found gold and silver and coral in vast heaps, which they placed in bags and more in triumph to the good old people at home. Thus did Momotaro repay his adoptive parents for their kindness, and make them rich and happy for the remainder of their days. And the bird made a nest on the roof of the hut, and the monkey lived in a tree nearby, and the dog guarded the door.

A Good Beginning.

Robert Dowthitt and Grace Tyrell of Ashmore, Ill, went to Terre Haute, Ind., to be married. The groom had no money to pay the license fee of $2, but a kindly clerk issued it on credit. The bride gave Justice Church her ring as security for his fee and $1 cash he advanced to set them up in housekeeping.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The general depth of the Niagara river at the brink of the falls is four feet.

PASSAGE OF THE BIRDS.

THE SEMI-ANNUAL PROCESSION OF THE FEATHERED TRIBE.

The Well-Ordered Plans—Robins and Jays in the Lead—Low Fliers Come First Because the Earth Is Warmer Than the Air.

Of all the happenings in the natural world, nothing is so wonderful as the semi-annual bird procession, or migration of the birds, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. And what more delightful way of marking the course of spring than keep a sharp lookout upon the birds? I could readily understand their southward flight, that mysterious feeling that comes over the animated world at the near approach of winter, the fear of cold, the dread of hunger, the longing for bright skies and green fields, but what brings them back to the places where once they lived and suffered?

If one would start from the farthest southern boundary of our country and slowly travel northward, he would enjoy a long-continued spring, and the birds would be his constant companions. They follow each other after a regular fashion, and keep up a procession that is practically the same, year after year. Their arrivals are not mere caprices, but are dependent upon nature's well-ordered plans. Each locality has a bird day of its own, and careful watching would prove it almost as certain as other gala days. If you are on the lookout for them you will find that the robins and blue birds lead the procession.

The bluejay is almost a winter bird. He fears neither ice nor north wind, and is the boldest, sauciest, noisiest creature that haunts our trees. In autumn they travel about in companies on continual mischief and indifferent to danger. As spring advances they separate into pairs, and while the lady jay stays at home and attends to the nest, her mate is foraging about, sucking the eggs of other birds and devouring the food of his neighbors. The crow is his cousin, and a worthy relative. But the black rogue that has such a bad name is really a model of domestic virtues and devoted to his family. In the last days of February the crow colony breaks up into small flocks and starts off in detachments for new roosting places.

It is a wonder in these early spring days, that all the birds do not come at once, so delightful is the mild and balmy air, so quickly does the green robe spread over all the earth. But experience teaches us that the birds cling to their old customs, and are not diverted from them by changing conditions. The low fliers come first, because the earth is warmer than the upper atmosphere, with its cold strata and varying winds. They probaably find food awaiting them as they alight on the freshly thawing soil. Many of the early birds at once proceed to nest building and settle near or on the ground.

One of the loveliest sights of spring is the flash of color, and lively effect of the red-winged blackbirds, as they flit across low, wet places, and hide their nests among reeds and rushes. Very neat and carefully constructed are these small homes, fastened to strong water plants that wave to and fro in the soft breeze, and rock the bird babies to sleep, all in the weed tops. But these marsh birds often suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortunes, as their homes are rudely destroyed by heavy hoof of wandering cattle, and they must build the nest more than once before they succeed in hatching out the four or five pretty striped eggs.

Swallows and martins fly low. They catch the food above ponds and meadows, and the insects who thus provide them with life come out, from their hiding places at the first hint of spring. Against the white cloud curtains that partially cover the soft March skies the black forms of martins stand out distinctly, gamboling high in the air, then dropping low, so that the listener may catch the indistinct sound of their simple warbling. And as they come one by one, then in greater numbers, they see their companions, the parula warblers, flitting about on willow catkins, and settling on low, damp places. They fly in and out among the feathery willows, and with them are the sycamore warblers, and another relative, the hooded warbler.

All of these birds seem to breathe the very atmosphere of new life, and the delicate shads of fresh grass and half-open leaves are a fit frame for their dainty loveliness. They come in the first weeks of March, on days when the soft and crystal airs bear messages of reviving plant life and of the vernal influence. After the first period of migration there are several species of birds that come in irregular flocks, some small, some great, until the equinox, when we notice an increasing vigor in their movements. About this time we become aware of a great change in the picture of outdoor life. In a few days the stems of the lilac begin to show small green buds and the maples wave their fresh, gray tassles in the soft, warm air.

The robins are beginning to think of business, their fancy lightly turns to nest-making, and in the early morn they sing with a heart-breaking tenderness in the oak tree by my window. Oh, little bird of song and story, how does thy clear strain echo and re-echo from ages past, and linger in the heart of the world's childhood. Every year it comes to build its nest in the accustomed place. With outside thatch and inner wall of mud, and lining of soft leaves and dried grass, and lovely contents of four blue eggs, no wonder it is the home bird, the first love of every cottage child, the last love of workworn and venerable peasants.

After the equinox they come, a mixed and varied company, the oriole, the bunting, the vireo, the fly-catcher, the thrush, the catbird, and all the other feathered brotherhood, and April is a month of movement from first to last. When warm days and soft showers bring out a cloud of insects for their food, the sky is filled with the high-flyers, or "catchers," and the orchards ring with their pleasant melody. Sailing very far above us, they look like birds made out of clouds, and flit through the upper air like snowflakes. All the poetry of motion is theirs, and they are the beauties of the feathered kingdom. And still they come, company after company, until the last of April, when there is almost always a season of fair weather in which the spring migration comes to an end. Very soon the brilliant and happy wanderers settle down to quiet living. They have chosen their nesting places, and finished their love-making, and are glad to live the quiet life with mate and children through the long summer days. No doubt their winter homes are forgotten, and like the lotus-eaters, they dream no more of wanderings far and wide. Every year we see this same wonderful bird procession, and every year we wonder in vain over its cause and meaning.

CENUS TAKING IN INDIA.

A Colossal Work Accomplished Decennially by the British.

In India census-taking is a colossal task accomplished decennially, with noteworthy success, by the British government. Even among those who find descriptions of census methods dry reading at best, interest must be awakened by the difficulties surmounted in that land of splendor and squalor, vast population and innumerable races, languages and religions.

The population of India is 294,266,701—a figure so vast that it is better realized by considering the fact that there are more than 715,000 villages and towns scattered over an area of one and a half million square miles. To make the enumeration of this vast territory virtually a million enumerators are required.

The successive steps of census organization are the enumerator's "block," the "circle," "the charge," the district, the province, and finally the imperial census commission. A charge comprises two or more circles, a circle is composed of 10 or 15 blocks, and the block contains from 30 to 50 houses.

The provincial superintendents begin the work of organization a year in advance of the census date. Officers are designated, the villages in each circle are listed, block lists are prepared, and every house is numbered. In some provinces the census authorities determine in advance the size of the number, and specify the proportions of red ocher and oil, or other ingredients, forming the substance with which the number is to be painted. Even in this simple detail, however, racial difficulties are encountered: in Hyderabad objection is made to tar because of its color, and red ocher is substituted; in some other localities, on the contrary, the natives consider red ocher unlucky, and if it is used they carefully erase the figures. On huts of wattled bamboo a small space is plastered and then whitewashed, to form a background for the number. In the case of huts made of leaves, and also when objection is made, on account of caste restrictions, to the touching of houses by enumerators, the numbers are painted on bits of tin, tiles, or pots conspicuously placed, and are usually treated with great respect by the natives.

In this immensely populous and remarkable empire the census schedule is framed to meet a wide variety of local and racial conditions. It is printed in no less than 17 different languages, and includes, in addition to the ordinary inquiries, questions concerning religion and caste.—From W. R. Merriam's "The Census in Foreign Countries" in the Century.

The Moro Does Everything Left-Handed.

To judge Moros by inflexible Occidental standards of motives and morals is to lose at once the key to the situation. The very structure of their language differentiates them from ourselves. Verbs are in the passive voice. The man who was slashed and killed provoked the trouble. The under dog in the fight is always the aggressor. The thief is not blamed for "finding" things lying about at loose ends; the man who lost the property is the real criminal—besides, he is a fool. If he were a sensible man he would have exercised vigilance against the approach of the thief. Moros reverse everything. Like all Orientals, they venerate the past and their folklore, myths and legends abound in tales not unlike those of the Arabian Nights entertainment.

They turn to the left of the road, extend the left hand naturally in greeting, and the scribes write from right to left, turning the paper sidewise, as any left-handed man would do.

A witty officer explained that the preference for the left was due to the desire to keep the right hand free in the event a stranger should need something done to him. The "explanation" may not be far from the truth. —Journal of Military Service Institution.

Never Argue.

People waste a tremendous amount of time and energy in trying to argue with one another. They waste a good deal more in trying to make other people agree with them. But to learn how to disagree gracefully does not seem often thought of. Truly, a matter of regret, because if we all learned this lesson the world would be a much pleasanter place to live in.

THE UNION.

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf

SPECIAL OFFER.

The Yellow Jacket, published biweekly at Moravian Falls, N. C., is an extremely bright, readable paper. We will send the UNION and YELLOW JACKET for one year for $1 in advance. This is a combination that ought to get every good man in Chilton county on our list, and is only open for a short time. tf

At the meeting of the populist exeutive committee of Chilton county on March 15, 1904, the following resolution was adopted by the committee:

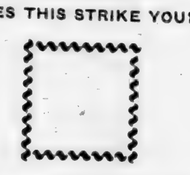
"Be it resolved, That we, the people's party executive committee of Chilton county, do hereby indorse the UNION, a paper published in Clanton, Ala., as our official organ tf

OUR CLUBBING LIST.

The Union and Yellow Jacket, both for one year $1.00
The Union and Weekly Montgomery Advertiser 1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution 1.50
tf

Several hundred subscribers will get this paper with a big red cross on it. It means that you owe us a dollar and we owe it to some other fellows. Some small fellow will make a big kick about this red cross and will stop his paper, and some clever fellows will come in and pay up like a white man always does, and tell us they had just forgotten all about it. tf

DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?



IMPORTANT

THE PEOPLE'S PRIMARY WILL BE HELD ON TUESDAY, JULY 26th, 1904.

S. J. JENNINGS.

This gentleman, who announces in THE UNION this week for probate judge, is well known by a number of our people. The following sketch of his life was handed to us by our esteemed fellow townsman, Mr. J. B. Downs:

S. J. Jennings was born at Gold Branch, Ala., nearly forty-one years ago, and is the youngest son of William and Sarah F. Jennings, who moved from Georgia to Alabama before the war. His father, William Jennings, was a volunteer soldier in the war between the states, he espousing the cause of the soutnern confederacy. Major William Lambert was for a time a captain over the company in which Mr. Jennings' father did valiant service for his country. Major Lambert delights to speak of William Jennings as an unuring fighter and faithful soldier. The subject of this sketch was a baby when his father (trying to reach home on a furlough) died, leaving the widow with six children, the oldest 12 years of age, and Jackson, the baby, only a few months old. Then came the struggle of life for the widow, which lasted until her children grew large enough to earn a livelihood. S. J., the gentleman before you for your suffrage, was always the idol of the household, and the one upon whom the widow could most firmly rely. Mr. Jennings grew up near Gold Branch in Coosa county, and he numbers his friends in Coosa by the hundreds. He worked hard from eight years old to seventeen years of age on a farm to sustain his mother and sisters, but he managed to get a fair knowledge of books in the old field schools, and when he was seventeen taught his first school at the T. A. Duke school house. Then being set on fire for book learning, he taught at intervals and attended high schools and academies until 22, when he attended Oxford college under John L. Dodson as president. After teaching several years he went to the state normal college at Florence, Dr. James K. Powers, president. From Florence college Mr. Jennings came into this county and opened a school at Union, near W. H. Conway's. Here he taught two years, enrolling as high as 135 students. This school was a great success and this community has sought to get Mr. Jennings as a teacher since, and both patrons and pupils look upon him as their best teacher. He also taught three years ago at the Busby school house in the northern part of this county, about six months, with the greatest possible success. While Mr. Jennings taught at Union he was married to Miss Fannie Ida Archer. Mr. Jennings has been noted for his piety from a boy and his freedom from all immoral habits. He joined the church at 16 years of age and has been a model church member ever since. He was licensed to preach 12 years ago, and served Rocky Mount charge in this county while he taught at Union, and was very successful. He served Moody's Cross Roads and other works. At 32 he went to Grant university and took the complete course, and graduated with honors from the theological department at Chattanooga, Tenn. Hon. John H. Race, D. D., president, May 10, 1899. Mr. Jennings is a thorough scholar, a rapid calculator, a trained bookkeeper, a rapid writer, a mature thinker, and what is more, a truly religious man, highly worthy of the confidence of the people. Mr. Jennings voted one democratic ticket when grown. Then the republican party got his support until the alliance came to Alabama. He joined the Farmers' Alliance and was lecturer for one year at Harpersville, teaching there the alliance school in 1890. He has ever since voted the populist-republican ticket as unflinchingly as any man in Alabama. His record at Marble Valley, Talladega Springs, Harpersville and Calera will bear him out in being a hard fighter of organized democracy. He is before the people for probate judge and we prophesy, if elected, he will make a strong and just official

DR. J. P. HAYES.

Dr. Hayes went to New Orleans Wednesday, where he intends to stay about six weeks and take a post graduate course in gynaecology in the Poly-Clinic at the New Orleans Medical college. The doctor has been very successful as a general practitioner, but now intends making a specialty of the diseases of women, which, to a man of his ability, means a great boon to the weaker sex.

UNION SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 51.

Is bounded as follows: Beginning at the northeast corner of section 3, township 23, range 14, running west to Cobb creek, thence up said creek to the northwest corner of section 8; thence south two miles; thence east to Turkey creek; thence down said creek to half mile post on section line between 21 and 22; thence north one-half mile; thence east one mile; thence north to place of beginning.

This description of one of the new school districts in beat 1 is printed at the expense and by request of W H. Conway, who wishes the qualified electors in that community to learn their district so that they will know where to go to vote on the first Saturday in July.—Editor Union.

SECTIONS OF THE NEW LAW AS TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Sec. 6. On the first Saturday in July, 1904, and each fourth year thereafter, the qualified electors of each public school district shall meet at the district public school house and elect from among the free-holders and householders who can read and write, residing in such districts, a local board of three district trustees, whose duty shall be as hereinafter provided. Such district trustees shall hold office for the term of four years from the time of their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

Sec. 7. The trustees provided for in the last preceding section shall, within ten days after their election, meet at the public school district house, or at some place more convenient to all concerned, and shall organize by electing one of their number chairman and another secretary

Sec. 8. The district trustees shall, during the month of August, 1901, and in every even numbered year thereafter, make an enumeration of all the children within school age in their respective districts, in accordance with the requirements of section 3573 of the code of 1896, and report the same as herein provided to the county superintendent of education, who shall, by the 15th day of said month, make a written report of such enumeration by numbered districts to the state superintendent of education, and it shall be the duty or the county superintendent of education to enumerate or cause to be enumerated all the children of school age in any township or townships in his county in which the sixteenth section interest exceeds the amount of per capita apportionment from the general school fund, and report the same to the office of the state superintendent of education.

Sec. 9. It shall be the duty of the said district trustees to care for all school property, employ teachers for their school districts, such employment to be subject to the approval of the county board of education, to visit the schools within their respective districts, observe the management of the same, to make quarterly reports of the condition of such school to the county superintendent of education and to perform such other duties as may be required by the county board of education hereinafter provided for.

Sec. 10. The chairman of the several board of district trustees shall meet at the court house in their respective counties on the second Saturday in August after their election and every four years thereafter, and shall elect four county school trustees, who shall hold office for the term of four years from the date of their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified. Before entering upon the duties of office, they shall take the oath of office prescribed by the constitution of the state. The county superintendent of education and said four county trustees shall constitute the county board of education within their respective counties. The county superintendent of education shall be the chief executive officer of said county, boards of education and shall see that all the rules, regulations and orders of said county boards are enforced; provided, however, that no county trustee shall, during his term of office, be eligible to election as a district trustee.

Sec. 11. That said county board of education shall have entire control of the public schools within their respective counties, unless otherwise provided by law. They shall make rules and regulations for the government of the school, see that teachers perform their duties, and exercise such powers, consistent with the law, as in their judgment will best subserve the cause of education.. The said board shall have the right to acquire, purchase, lease, receive, hold, transmit and convey the title to real and personal property for school purposes. Said board of education shall by and in name of county board of education sue and be sued, contract and be contracted with, all contracts to be made after resolution adopted by said board and spread on its minutes and signed by the president and secretary and all process shall be executed on the secretary of said board tf

JEMISON.

We had a fine rain Monday and crops are looking fine. Jemison and Verbena baseball teams will play here Friday, the 10th. "Old" Wallace Hand, the Jemison sport, and Brother Jeff made a flying trip to Birmingham last Saturday. All of Jemison turned out to an "all day" singing and fish fry at Mr. Mahan's mill, ten miles southeast of Jemison. Every one enjoyed the day hugely, thanks to Mr. Mahan's courtesy. We caught about 100 pounds of fish.

DAGO.

HIGHLAND SCHOOL HOUSE.

Editor Union—Can you find room in THE UNION for a few lines from down here? If you can, I'll say that the health of the people is good and crops are right good, with some complaint of lice on the cotton. The farmers have their fields clear of weeds and grass, so you see they have not been visiting friends so much here as at other places. We had an all-day singing here last Sunday, no book used by "Christian Harmony." The music was good; five leaders, all good ones; lots of grub and to spare. I must say in behalf of the young people down here that I never saw better behavior nowhere. Not a candidate on the hill. May be they haven't had time to get around yet, but I thought that one at least of thirty would have been here. Well, everything is quiet down here; no drunkards or politicians. Miss Ettie Roper will take up the school here soon. She taught here five months last winter and gave the best of satisfaction. Success to the Christian Harmony and THE UNION.

WILEY FOSHEE.

LOMAX.

Farmers are done chopping cotton and have their crops in fine shape. W. F. Aldrich and wife were in our city Sunday. Miss Mary Olsen, of Thorsby visited here Saturday. A number of our people went to Yellow Leaf fishing Saturday, among whom were G. O. Foshee, wife and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Littlejohn, Mrs. John Duncan, Bob Farley, Miss Jullissa Jones, Eugene, Alonzo and Luther Jackson. All report a nice time. Charles Barrett, of Thorsby, visited out town Saturday and Sunday. You can buy bacon for 9c at Jackson & Robinson's store. Mrs. H. A. Wilson visited her daughter, Mrs. Marcus, at Calera Sunday. OBSERVER.

NEW CEDRON.

The people of our community are getting along well with their farm work. In fact and truly speaking, we have the best farming community of the whole county. Of course, cotton and corn are small, but that is the case everywhere. Some are working their corn the last time, and it seems that everything is doing reasonably well, but the whole cry is: Water! Water! Well some time ago there was something said in regard to our Sabbath school celebration. We will have it on the fourth Sunday in June, and everybody is cordially invited to come and bring their dinner and enjoy the day with us. Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Popwell, of Kincheon, visited the family of C. D. Foshee Sunday. M. D. Mims, of Mulberry, was in our community a few days ago to see about his school. We hope he will begin soon and wish him much success. Rev. W. J. Bone went to Montgomery Friday on business.

June, the queen of all the year;
June, the theme of song and story,
June, the bringer of good cheer.

SUNSHINE.

(Communicated.)

ENERGY.

It is right amusing to notice the difference in Judge Adams' letters. He writes one way one time and one way the other time. Behold he is in the fix of the huntsman that was devoured by his own dogs. He rose to supreme eminence, the height which dazzles and confounds so many. He has brought about his own ruin and still refuses to die. His political friends have dropped from him like the leaves from a dying tree, but enough on that line; if we can't say something good of a dead man, it is better to say nothing. Let's discuss the future. We have got a lot of good men out for the different offices. They are all worthy and would honorably discharge their duty, so far as I know; but we can't give them all office. We have a lot of preachers that ask for office, but oh, some one says, "it won't do to give a preacher office, it would ruin him." I don't think that a preacher should be rejected just simply because he is a preacher, neither do I think that he should be elected to office just because he is a preacher; but I do think that every man should be elected on his merits.

We have three able and worthy men who have offered to serve the people as probate judge. Some of the democrats say they "don't care who we elect, just so we don't elect Reynolds." That is what they said in 1898 about Adams, but you see what they done in 1904; they put him at the head of their ticket. Don't you reckon they would like to take Reynolds the same way if they thought they could defeat the people by so doing? Now, as I've said, I think every man should run on his own merits. There has been a time when everything seemed to bow to the democratic party save the elements for fear some vicious legislation would be put on Chilton county, and the question of getting a man to represent Chilton became serious, for there was but few men (in my opinion) this side of the "pearly gates" that were willing to face this mighty crowd and be subjected to the ridicule at their command; but Mr. Reynolds came forward and offered his services and was duly elected to the constitutional convention. There his personality was such that he commanded the respect of his colleagues and was an influential member of the committee on agriculture and banking and insurance. Now we don't claim that Mr. Reynolds did anything more than his duty, but we do say that when a man does his duty well he is worthy of your consideration. In conclusion I want to say that Ben Wells wants to be our next tax collecor. Ben is a self-made man and was one among the first that aligned with the people's party, and I dare say there has not been a more faithful worker for the party, according to his ability than Ben. He is a prosperous farmer and enjoys the confidence and respect of his neighbors, so let me say with due respect to all the candidates that if you haven't got a special friend to vote for, I don't think you could do better than to cast your vote for Ben. Now, gentlemen, some of you may say that the candidates are all able to take care of themselves. We'll admit that, but these are the views of a conservative voter, and trusting that they will be received in the same spirit that they are given, I am yours for business,

X. Y. X.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CONFERENCE.

The second quarterly conference for Clanton circuit, Methodist Protestant church, will be held at Mount Pisgah church, three and a half miles southeast of Clanton, the fourth Sunday in June and Saturday before. Dinner on the grounds.

tf T. F. DAVIS, Pastor.

SUMMER NORMAL SCHOOL.

A summer normal school will open May 16th for the benefit of all who expect to take the state examination in July, and any others who wish to take any special work. From the fact that every teacher will be required to stand an examination on agriculture next January, special attention will be given to that subject. Those who desire can get instructions in expression and physical culture also. Good board can be had with private families at reasonable rates. For further information address

H. T. WALLACE,
Principal High School, Clanton, Ala.
tf

NOTICE.

The committee on arrangements for primary election, also the executive committee of the populist party, are hereby called to meet at Clanton on Friday, the 17th day of June, 1904. All candidates before the PEOPLE'S primary are also requested to meet said committee to arrange the expense of said primary.

W. H. SHAW,
tf Chairman Pop. Ex. Com.

J. B. Downs buys Crossties for cash, also is licensed to buy up Court Certificates. Call on him when you have anything in that line to sell. tf

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. ALEX G. DAKE.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

A. C. MIMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

S. J. JENNINGS.

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

SAM W. COLLINS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

L. A. CALLOWAY.

FOR TREASURER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. WILEY LITTLEJOHN.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ROBERT M. SMITH.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ANDREW J. WILSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. W. C. ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

H. A. J. HARRIS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904. ENOCH H. ADAMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. BICE.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary, July 26, 1904. DANIEL C. GANDY.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th, 1904 GEORGE W. EDWARDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary July 26, 1904. L. B. POUNDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904 T. G. MILLING.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26, 1904.

S. E. WALDRUP.
(Better known as "Squire" Waldrup.)

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26th, 1904. JOSEPH H. THOMAS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

M. F. LETT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN W. G. KICKER.

I hereby annouce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

BENJAMIN H. WELLS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904. W. F. LESHA

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN J. LETCH

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. MOSES A. KILLOU

We, the undersigned friends of J. HUBBARD, do hereby announce him as a candidate for re-election to the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. J. Williams, H. W. Varden, J. Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hugh Hayes, L. Thomas, J. L. Smith.

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. J. W. MOOR

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for commissioner from the fourth district of Chilton county subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

MOSES ROBINSON

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton county subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

R. P. KENDRICK

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the Fourth district of Chilton county subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th ,1904.

WILLIAM T. MAHAN

TAX COLLECTOR'S SALE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.

By virtue of decrees rendered in the probate court at the May term of said court, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder for cash, before the court house door, in Clanton, in said county, within the legal hours of sale on the following described real estate for the taxes and costs due thereon for the year 1903, to-wit:

FRIDAY, JUNE 10TH, 1904,

BEAT NO. 1.

Owner unknown: E 1-2 of ne 1-4 se 1-4, sec 16, tp 23, r 15. Tax and costs $3.73.

H. M. Wilson: E 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, tp 24, r 15. Tax and costs, $4.

BEAT NO. 2

John Shaw or Owner Unknown: 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 24, r 13. Tax and costs, $3.69.

BEAT NO. 4.

J. W. Jones: 1 1-2 acres in ne corner of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 30, t 22, r 16; 17 1-2 acres in nw corner of 1-4 of nw 1-4, sec 36, t 22, r 15; sw of se 1-4 and se 1-4 of sw 1-4 and e of se 1-4, sec 24, t 22, r 15; e 1/2 ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, t r 16; se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of 1-4 and sw 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 18, t r 16; sw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 17, t 22, r 16; s 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 32, t 22, r nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of sw 1-4, sec 30, t r 16; n 1-2 of nw 1-4, sec 32, t 22, r 16; nw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 of 1-4 and sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t r 15; se 1-4 of se 1-4, less 10 acres sec 22, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of sw 1-4 of 1-4 and se 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 2, t 23, 15; n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 27, t 22, r Tax and costs, $62.22.

Magnetic Ore Co.: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4 sec 35, t 23, r 15. Tax and costs, $

BEAT NO. 5.

J. R. McAfee: Nw 1-4 of sw 1-4 sec 12, t 20, r 16. Tax and costs, $4.

BEAT NO. 8.

N. C. Weaver: Se 1-4 of ne 1-4 ne 1-4 of se 1-4, and n 1-2 of nw 1-4 and n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 24, t 20, r Tax and costs, $7.14.

BEAT NO. 9.

J. W. Martin: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4 sec 5, t 23, r 14. Tax and costs, $3.

This 9th day of May, 1904.

T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

FOURTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama (Chilton County Branch).

In the four years ending February 8, 1904, that this association has been in existence in this county, it has levied sixteen assessments to pay losses, viz.: Lightning, 1; wind, 5; fire, 20. The TOTAL of the sixteen assessments was $2.24 3-4 per hundred, being an average YEARLY assessment of 56 1-5 cents on each hundred dollars of insurance, which is a fraction over one-half of one per cent per annum.

ALEX G. DAKE,
President Chilton Co. Branch.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 26th day of February, 1904.

S. M. ADAMS,
Judge of Probate.

TY OFFICIALS

—Judson Strock.
—W. M. Wilson, E. G. Rob
I. Mullins, J. M. Potts.
J. Watts Moore.
—Ed Smitherman.

URTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.

ing Term—1st Monday in April.
ner Term—3rd Monday in July.
Term—1st Monday in Novem

—T. Scott Sayre.
ctor—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
—E. B. Deason, Clanton.

CHANCERY COURT.

ing Term—2nd Monday in March
Term—2nd Monday in Septem

ncellor—Hon. R. B. Kelley, An ister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

COUNTY COURT.

st Monday in each month.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

Monday February, 1st Monday
1st Monday June, 2nd Monday
2nd Monday August, 1st Monday
mber.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

ge of Probate—S. M. Adams.
easurer—Alex G. Dake.
eriff—J. M. Morgan.
licitor—J. O. Middleton.
x Assessor—A. C. Mims.
x Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

rst District—W. H. Conway.
cond District—Alex Glasscock. ird District—W. A. Green.
urth District—R. C. Riggins.

SUPT. OF EDUCATION.

of. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.

n. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.

n. L. H. Reynolds, Jemison.

UNTY CHURCHES

stors and clerks are cordially asked to send the editor any news regard their churches which they would published. Also if there are any rs in these notices please send cor ons.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

pine—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor.
Jones, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
th-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas
C. C. Vinson, clerk, Billingsley. ookson—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor;
W. Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
thany—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday.
Huett, clerk, Verbena.
anton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, ne Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th day. V. J. Gragg, clerk.
ter Hill—Rev J. M. Gothard, r; J. Samons, clerk, Jemison.
cord—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd day. T. N. Parrish, clerk.
llins Chapel—Rev. W. J. Arm g, 1st Sunday. J. W. Littleton, stnut Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand, or; J. W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers. rinth—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd day. W. B. Jones, clerk.
ss Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish, Sunday. J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
rinth—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st day. M. F. Wagoner, clerk. man—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pas W. J. Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
benezer—Rev. P. G. Maness, pas R. H. Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
mison—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; N. Rodgers, clerk, Jemison.
berty Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd day; W. M. Wood, clerk.
acedonia—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd day. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
ars Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, pas H. Z. Barnes, clerk, British.
ulberry—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Veazey, clerk, Randolph.
ount Carmel—Rev. W. J. Rud pastor; W. M. Roebuck, clerk, ns.
ount Zion—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, or; D. H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo. aple Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand, ew; W. H. Wilson, clerk.
acedonia—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd day; George Trawick, clerk.
w Cedron—Rev. J. B. Moore, pas J. W. Billingsley, clerk.
w Salem—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, Sunday; G. W. Hill, clerk.
w Hope—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd day. Henry Smith, clerk.
lgrims' Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason, or; I. M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher. asant Grove—Rev. J. H. Tillman 1st Sunday; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
asant Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, r; W. R. Scott, clerk, Jemison. asant Grove—Rev. G. W. Free pastor; H. C. Latham, clerk, lta. plar Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone, Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.
ovidence—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, Sunday. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemi

ovidence—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, r; Riley Robinson, clerk, Clan lem—Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor; Robinson, clerk, Rushton.

ick—Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd day; W. J. Billingsley, clerk.
ad's—Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sun

...NCEMENTS

I hereby announce myself as a ... didate for the office of tax ... for Chilton county, subject to ... tion of the People's primary July ... 1904. W. F. LEDBETTER.

I hereby announce myself as a ... didate for the office of tax ... for Chilton county, subject to the ... tion of the PEOPLE'S primary ... 26, 1904. JOHN J. LETCHER.

I hereby announce myself as a ... didate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. MOSES A. KILLGORE.

We, the undersigned friends of ... J. HUBBARD, do hereby announce him as a candidate for re-election to the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. ... Williams, H. W. Varden, C. ... clarke, J. W. Varden, Hugh Henry, L. Thomas, J. L. Smith

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. J. W. MOORE.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for commissioner from the Fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. MOSES ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. R. P. KENDRICK.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the Fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th, 1904. WILLIAM T. MAHAN.

TAX COLLECTOR'S SALE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.

By virtue of decrees rendered in the probate court at the May term thereof said court, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder for cash, before the court house door, in Clanton, in said county, within the legal hours of sale on the following described real estate for the taxes and costs due thereon for the year 1903, to-wit:

FRIDAY, JUNE 10TH, 1904,

BEAT NO. 1.

Owner unknown: E 1-2 of ne 1-4, ... e 1-4, sec 16, tp 23, r 15. Tax and costs $3.73.

H. M. Wilson: E 1-2 of se 1-4, ... 9, tp 24, r 15. Tax and costs, $4.47.

BEAT NO. 2

John Shaw or Owner Unknown: ... 1 of ne 1-4, sec 16, t 24, r 13. Tax and costs, $3.69.

BEAT NO. 4.

J. W. Jones: 1 1-2 acres in ne corner of sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 30, t 22, ...; 17 1-2 acres in nw corner of ... 1 of nw 1-4, sec 36, t 22, r 15; sw 1-4 and se 1-4 of sw 1-4 and e ... se 1-4, sec 24, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 ... 1-4 and e 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 30, t ... 16; se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and e 1-2 of ... and sw 1-4 of se 1-4, sec 18, t ... 16; sw 1-4 of sw 1-4, sec 17, t 22, ... s 1-2 of se 1-4, sec 32, t 22, r ... w 1-4 and n 1-2 of sw 1-4, sec 30, t ... 16; n 1-2 of nw 1-4, sec 32, t 22, ... nw 1-4 of ne 1-4 and se 1-4 of ... and sw 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 16, ... 15; se 1-4 of se 1-4, less 10 acres ... 22, t 22, r 15; e 1-2 of sw 1-4 of ... and se 1-4 of ne 1-4, sec 2, t 21, ... n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 27, t 22, r ... x and costs, $62.22.

...agnetic Ore Co.: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4 ... 35, t 23, r 15. Tax and costs, $...

BEAT NO. 5.

... R. McAtee: Nw 1-4 of sw 1-4 ... 12, t 20, r 16. Tax and costs, $4.6...

BEAT NO. 8.

... C. Weaver: Se 1-4 of ne 1-4 and ... 1-4 of se 1-4, and n 1-2 of nw 1-4 ... n 1-2 of ne 1-4, sec 24, t 20, r 15 ... and costs, $7.14.

BEAT NO. 9.

W. Martin: Ne 1-4 of sw 1-4 ... 23, r 14. Tax and costs, $3.23.

This 9th day of May, 1904.

T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

...OURTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

...ners' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama (Chilton County Branch).

... the four years ending February ... 04, that this association has been in existence in this county, it has ... d sixteen assessments to pay ... s, viz.: Lightning, 1; wind, 3; ... 20. The TOTAL of the sixteen ... sments was $2.24 3-4 per hundred being an average YEARLY ... cent of 56 1-5 cents on each hundred dollars of insurance, which is ... on over one-half of one per cent. ...nnum.

ALEX G. DAKE,
President Chilton Co. Branch.

...scribed and sworn to before me ... 8th day of February, 1904.

S. M. ADAMS,
Judge of Probate.

...TY OFFICIALS

...—Judson Strock.
...—W. M. Wilson, E. G. Robinson, J. L. Mullins, J. M. Potts.
...—J. Watts Moore.
...—Ed Smitherman.

...RTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.

...g Term—1st Monday in April.
...ber Term—3rd Monday in July.
... Term—1st Monday in November.
...—T. Scott Sayre.
...itor—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
...—E. B. Deason, Clanton.

CHANCERY COURT.

...g Term—2nd Monday in March.
... Term—2nd Monday in September.
...cellor—Hon. R. B. Kelley, Anniston.
...ister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

COUNTY COURT.

... Monday in each month.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

... Monday February, 1st Monday ... 1st Monday June, 2nd Monday ... 2nd Monday August, 1st Monday ...ber.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...ge of Probate—S. M. Adams.
...asurer—Alex G. Dake.
...iff—J. M. Morgan.
...ditor—J. O. Middleton.
... Assessor—A. C. Mims.
... Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

...st District—W. H. Conway.
...ond District—Alex Glasscock.
...rd District—W. A. Green.
...rth District—R. C. Riggins.

SUPT. OF EDUCATION.

... J. W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.

... W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.

... L. H. Reynolds, Jemison.

...UNTY CHURCHES

...tors and clerks are cordially asked to send the editor any news regarding their churches which they would ... published. Also if there are any ...s in these notices please send corrections.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

...hine—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor.
... Jones, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
...-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor; ... C. Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
...rookson—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor; ... W. Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
...hany—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday. ... Huett, clerk, Verbena.
...anton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st ... 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, ...
...ne Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th ...day. V. J. Gragg, clerk.
...ter Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, ...r; J. Samons, clerk, Jemison.
...cord—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd ...day. T. N. Parrish, clerk.
...lins Chapel—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 1st Sunday. J. ... Littleton, ...
...utnut Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand, ...r; J. W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
...mith—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd ...day. W. B. Jones, clerk.
... Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish, ...Sunday. J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
...mith—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st ...day. M. F. Wagoner, clerk.
...an—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pastor; ... J. Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
...ebezer—Rev. P. G. Maness, pastor; ... H. Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
...mison—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; ... N. Rodgers, clerk, Jemison.
...berty Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd ...day; W. M. Wood, clerk.
...acedonia—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd ...day. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
...ars Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, pastor; ... H. Z. Barnes, clerk, British.
...nberry—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; ... Veazey, clerk, Randolph.
...ount Carmel—Rev. W. J. Rudd, pastor; W. M. Roebuck, clerk, ...
... Zion—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, ...r; D. H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
...le Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand, ...r; W. H. Wilson, clerk.
...acedonia—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd ...day; George Trawick, clerk.
... Cedron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor; ... W. Billingsley, clerk.
... Salem—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd Sunday; G. W. Hill, clerk.
... Hope—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd ...day. Henry Smith, clerk.
...grims' Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason, ...r; I. M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
...asant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...st Sunday; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
...asant Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, ...r; W. R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
...asant Grove—Rev. G. W. Freeman, pastor; H. C. Latham, clerk, ...
...olar Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone, 3rd Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.
...ovidence—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, 3rd Sunday. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemison.
...ovidence—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, ...r; Riley Robinson, clerk, Clanton.
...—Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor; ... R. Robinson, clerk, Rushton.
...ah—Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd ...day; W. J. Billingsley, clerk.
...ls—Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sunday. J. Deason, clerk, Adams.

Thorsby—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Robert Jones, clerk, Thorsby.

Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor; R. S. Chandler, clerk, Jemison.

Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2d Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.

Verbena—Rev. J. W. Partridge, 1st Sunday. T. J. Bland, clerk.

Valley Creek—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; J. W. Mitchell, clerk, Plantersville.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS.

Bethel—Elder J. W. Howell, pastor; Saturday before the second Sunday; J. T. Abernathy, clerk, Verbena.

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Clanton Circuit—Rev. D. B. H. Jeffcoat, Pastor.

Clanton—2nd and 4th Sundays.
Fairview—3rd Sunday.
Isabelle—3rd Sunday, 3 p. m.
Jemison—1st Sunday.
Lime Springs—Saturday before 2nd Sunday.
Mount Moriah—Saturday before 1st Sunday.
New Prospect—Saturday before 3rd Sunday.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

Clanton Circuit, Rev. T. F. Davis, Pastor.

Thorsby—1st Sunday.
Walnut Grove—2nd Sunday, morning.
Unity—2nd Sunday, evening.
Shady Grove—3rd Sunday.
Mount Pisgah—4th Sunday, morning.
Enterprise—4th Sunday, evening.

CONGREGATIONAL.

South Calera—Rev. J. R. Crowson second Sunday. W. L. Shaw, clerk, Calera.

Lomax—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 4th Sunday. F. E. Riggs, clerk, Lomax.

Mountain Springs—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 3rd Sunday. W. J. Headley, clerk, Clanton.

Shady Grove—Rev. A. C. Wells, 1st Sunday. Mrs. A. Baker, clerk, Verbena.

Union—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 1st Sunday. Miss A. Lake, clerk, Lightwood.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Highland School House—Rev. M. F. Lett, 3rd Sunday and Saturday before. T. L. Adams, clerk.

Enterprise—Rev. M. F. Lett, 4th Sunday. T. F. Patterson, clerk.

NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN.

St. Olafs, Thorsby—Rev. H. Engh, pastor. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

Concordia, Thorsby—Rev. J. E. Hedberg. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. Mr. Carroll, pastor, 2d Sunday. Song service every 2d and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

MASONIC.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday, Clanton.

Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 250—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 423—First Saturday, Clanton.

Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 567—First Saturday Billingsley.

Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 411—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.

Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 473—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.

Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

of the

BRITISH AMERICA ASSURANCE CO.

Of Toronto, Canada.

1st January, 1904.

UNITED STATES BRANCH.

Assets.

Government bonds	$223,650.00
State and municipal bonds	511,473.19
Cash on hand and deposit	169,720.71
Stocks and bonds	305,793.00
Premiums in course of col.	204,834.79
Interest due and accrued.	11,833.20
	$1,427,304.89

Liabilities.

Reserve premium fund (N. Y. Standard).	$849,771.77
Reserve for unpaid losses	100,786.14
	$950,557.91
Surplus in United States..	$476,746.98
Total income in United States for 1903.....	$1,547,736.84
Total losses paid in U. S. from 1874 to 1903, inclusive	$14,674,843.26

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Tom Cout, of Jemison, was in Clanton Friday.

W. C. Headley was in town Friday.

W. A. Mims, of Collins Chapel, was in Clanton Friday.

P. F. Mims, of Salem, was in town Friday. He says his daughter, Miss Mamie, who was taken to Birmingham some time ago and operated on for appendicitis, is back home and getting on nicely.

Mrs. A. C. Smith and family spent Saturday and Sunday at R. M. Smith's.

R. M. Smith, candidate for treasurer, says he had corn in the silk last week.

Professor H. A. Harris and C. J. Eiland were in Clanton Saturday. Mr. Eiland says he is going to stay in Chilton now.

E. A. Knight was in town Saturday, looking a little thin after his round of visits.

Chattanooga Plows and Cane Mills for sale at W. I. Mullins'.

T. J. Bates was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

W. F. Littlejohn was a welcome caller Saturday.

Don't forget to see Upchurch when you are in need of spectacles.

J. L. Dupree was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Noah Littlejohn was in Clanton Saturday. He still suffers from his rheumatism.

Robert Littlejohn bought a new buggy Saturday. Looks like he intends giving pleasure to some nice young lady.

The celebrated "James & Mayers'" buggies for sale at W. I. Mullins.

Rev. B. H. Vickers and wife were in Clanton Saturday.

Madison Bean was in town Saturday.

J. H. Lembrick, of Billingsley, and W. F. Lembrick, of Jemison, were pleasant vistors Monday.

Drink "Peptonilla" at Upchurch's soda fount.

J. S. Dennis was in Clanton Tuesday.

Rev. R. R. Ellison will preach at Lime Springs church the third Sunday in June.

Drs. J. P. Hays and P. I. Hopkins started for New Orleans Wednesday to be gone some weeks.

W. H. Strock, of Verbena, visited Clanton Tuesday.

Miss Clara Small, the artistic milliner at P. D. Wilson's, left for her home in Gadsden Tuesday to enjoy a well earned vacation.

Mr. S. B. Horn has moved to Montevallo. She has been living with her son, Dr. A. B. Horn, the dentist, who resides in Clanton.

George Gore, of Calera, was in Clanton Wednesday.

S. W. Ferrell has been appointed postmaster at Rushton, vice Lucian A. Calloway, resigned.

Mrs. Emma Grimes died in Birmingham Friday. Her remains were brought to Clanton Saturday and interred at Beth-Salem Sunday. She was formerly a Miss Padworth.

Munroe Foshee and wife have got a new boarder. The young lady arrived Saturday evening. Mother and child are both doing well.

"Henry Carter, of Jemison, a United States prisoner, charged with perjury, succeeded Monday in making a $200 bond and was released from the Montgomery county jail, after having been confined there forty-one days."—Montgomery Advertiser.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

A. K. Dupree and Miss Nettie Lee Grant.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

At Maple Springs church on the third Sunday in June. Everybody invited. Bring your baskets and let's enjoy ourselves. tf

CONFERENCE OF M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Prattville district conference will meet in session at Clanton on June 23d, 24th, 25th and 26th. tf

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

The board met Monday as a court of errors and insolvencies. Present. Commissioners Glascock, Conway, Riggins and Green. They are still in session and it will take them fully a week to straighten up the tax accounts. As the case stands now, the probability is that the tax for 1905 will be the same as last year—50 cents on the hundred dollars as a general county tax. The taxable valuation for 1904 was about $2,930,905.

CLANTON MASONIC LODGE.

Clanton lodge, No. 423, A. F. and A. M., at their stated communication Saturday night, June 4th, elected the following officers for the ensuing Masonic year: W. T. Aloridge, W. M.; J. W. Moore, S. W.; E. B. Deason, J. W.; W. I. Mullins, treasurer; A. C. Smith, secretary; J. R. Mullins, S. D.; J. Watts Moore, J. D.; W. C. Jones, tyler.

The talk is now that the officers of this lodge as well as those of Amande lodge, No. 250, and Bozeman lodge, No. 534, will be installed at a joint gathering to be held at Cooper's on June 25th and which will be no doubt a very enjoyable affair. Full particulars will be given later.

bor in the service of the drama.

Sir Henry Irving announced at a reception given in his honor in London that he would retire from the stage in 1906. At that time he will have encompassed fifty years of la-

COOPER.

The banner man seems to be continually worrying about THE UNION, or the Birmingham paper, as he calls it. Well, yes, I guess it is touching his pocket. Mr. "bannerman," we prefer a paper printed at Birmingham that stands for the people's rights to one HALF-PRINTED at our doors that we know to be a TRAITOR to its first party and people. Success to THE UNION and the people it represents.

D.

(Communicated.)

Editor Union—I wish to call attention of the voters of Chilton county to the claims of Tom Milling for the office of tax assessor. As deputy assessor with Captain Mims he has the necessary experience to thoroughly fit him for the office. He is a practical farmer and successful business man, knows the value of real estate and personal property, stands six feet in his shoes and covers the ground he stands on, is a high-toned, honorable gentleman, enjoying the full confidence of his neighbors, thoroughly reliable and what more do you want? West Chilton ought to have something, and give us Tom Milling for assessor.

TEACHER.

(Communicated.)

Jemison, Ala., June 7, 1904.

Editor Union—Well, we are to have a meeting of the populist committee June 17th to arrange for the primary, and all the candidates are invited to be present, and it is hoped we will have a good crowd out and some good speakers. Well, some few have tried hard to get the people to go into the democratic party, and just now I expect they would be glad to get out themselves. Now, let me ask, what benefits could a few populists and republicans get out of the democratic party? What have they got to offer? No, the democratic party can never do anything in this county as long as it managed and controlled by a few men. The democrats of Chilton were bargained off two years ago by a few, but they could not "deliver the goods," and so they will have to try something else. See how much difference in the way affairs with the populist and republican organizations; they consult the people, while the democrats consult the bosses. I'm proud of such a campaign as is being conducted by our candidates; no mud slinging; every fellow seems to be hoeing his own row. Well, I could not understand why the democrats wanted to have such an early primary. But I see now; they had several that wanted a job, and they wanted to give them all a chance, and so they are passing the hat around." I reckon after Lige tries it a while some one else will take it up. Say, the democratic executive committee paid the people of Chilton a high tribute in an address they issued just before their primary. They said the people of Chilton did not belong to any political party; that was as much as to say that they thought for themselves. Wouldn't we have a pretty state of affairs in Chilton if the county was managed by a few fellows in Clanton that manage the democratic party? What kind of a county government would we have? What did we have fifteen years ago? Some say the democratic party has reformed. Well, there has always been SOME good democrats—men that wanted to do the right thing. But how in the name or common sense can the right thing be done with the management they have in Chilton? Now they beg the populists to help them. Now, populists, what has become of all populists that have helped them? Look over the battlefield and find their scarred remains. Where is Captain Kolb with all his following and influence? I'll not mention all, but where is Adams and such men as have tried the democracy and failed? What can the ordinary working man expect? Nothing but the privilege of voting the ticket and throwing up his hat on election day. Now all we have to do is to stand together and the victory is ours. Don't let any confusion get among us. Some few fellows will try to stir up strife, but all I've heard of has come from our enemies. Some few have been telling of a "trade ticket," etc. Now there is not a word of truth in it as I know of. The report was not started by our people, but by our enemies. So let's move right on as we have done without the advice of those who would destroy us. I've heard the report that if I was elected certain men would have charge of the office, and there is not a word of truth in it. If I am elected, I'll fill the office myself, and what I don't know I'll get the advice of a lawyer, as all others have had to do to start in with; but I will promise you that I'll boss the job. Now I've not been around to anybody on politics. I know you all know me and the other candidates, and I'm willing for the people to decide who they want to lead this fight, and their choice shall be my choice. So let's continue a smooth, nice canvass, and when the ticket is nominated all get up behind the nominees and give them the biggest majority we have in years. Let everybody that can come to Clanton June 17th, and let's fill the court house. Respectfully,

L. H. REYNOLDS.

PHILADELPHIA UNDERWRITERS,
Composed of Insurance Company of North America and the Fire Association of Philadelphia, Pa.

Cash capital	$ 3,500,000.00
Total assets Jan. 1, 1904.	17,636,517.61
Surplus as to policy holders	6,874,213.35

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

..My Specialty..

SHOES made of Leather.
SHOES that are Reliable.
SHOES made to Wear.
NOT a Cheap Shoddy Shoe.

Dry Goods, Groceries, Flour and Feed Stuffs, Tobacco and Snuff.

Every Department Full and Complete.

J. W. SMITH.

Former Post-office Building. Clanton, Alabama

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.
Thorsby, Alabama.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
2011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE
WALLACE C. EDLER, General Agent, Clanton Alabama.
CHILTON COUNTY BRANCH

PRESIDENT Alex G. Dake, Clanton
SEC.-TREAS. Judson Strock, Clanton

Insure, Farmers Dwellings, outbuildings and contents, and Live stock against Loss by Fire, Wind and Lightning;—the cheapest, safest and most sensible method of Insurance known to man.

AGENTS MUST HAVE A COMMISSION SIGNED BY GENERAL AGENT
Full particulars furnished on application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

Gelder's Restaurant,
Good Meals at Reasonable Prices.
110 North 20th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St, THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.
—Is at The Head of The Procession.—
Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes,
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.
W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton. Alabama

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,
Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.
County and Office Supplies a Specialty.
Ask for Estimates.
2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

PAUL CALAME,
205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.
Practical Watchmaker and Optician
Eyes Correctly Fitted
Mail orders promptly filled

PAPER THAT STOPS BULLETS.

Experiments Made by Swedish Government Are Interesting.

A series of interesting firing trials has been undertaken by the Swedish government. The purpose of these experiments was to examine the effect of shooting against pasteboard. The trials were conducted on the wharves of the Swedish navy in Karlskrona, and the target used was a prepared one of millboard, against which fire from revolvers, rifles, carbines and machine guns was directed. The pasteboard, which was three inches thick, resisted completely the bullets fired from the small arms, but was perforated by the projectiles from the machine guns. The experiments may be said to have given very interesting results. Bullets from the carbines used are able to penetrate wooden planks five inches in thickness, but they could not penetrate the pasteboard, which was only three inches thick.

Stunts for Hindu Youngsters.

Little Hindu boys who don't know how to behave themselves are punished in their own peculiar fashion. Instead of having to stand in corners with their faces to the wall, the bad ones at school may be ordered to stand on one leg and hold their ears for half an hour—a very tiresome pastime, especially when one is not used to it. Or, when they fall asleep over their books, they may have their "scalpknots" tied to the wall in such a way that the drowsy heads cannot droop forward.

KISS THE CAUSE OF DEATH.

Peculiar Fatality Reported from Hanley, England.

A kiss has indirectly caused the death of Sally Rudkin, one of the oldest inhabitants of Hanley, England.

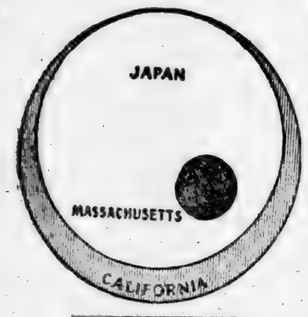
The old woman went to the Gilbert treat, an ancient Hanley institution, at which, after the feast, the old people sing and dance, and those who are adjudged the best receive half a crown each and a kiss from the mayor.

There is keen competition among the women for the mayoral kiss, and Sally Rudkin determined to get one. Entering into the spirit of the thing, the mayor ran away, so she turned to one of the aldermen, and, flinging her arms round his neck, kissed him with ardor.

The astonished alderman started back. Sally Rudkin lost her balance, fell and broke her leg.

She was taken to the infirmary, but the shock to her system had been too great, and she gradually sank and died.

Their Relative Size.



Food of Poorer Italians.

A writer in the London Chronicle says: "A few years ago—it may be the same to-day—the popular markets of the poorer quarters of Rome and even the stalls of the butchers near the Pantheon showed rows and rows of cats hung up for sale, with the skins off but the tails carefully left on, to show that they were not rabbits. For an old-fashioned Italian does not think a rabbit quite fit for human food, nor will any Italian peasant eat the meat of sheep. Anything winged, however, is his favorite food. Like the lady in Boccaccio's story, he eats a parrot when he can get one."

Honoring the New Arrival.

The birth of a child among the working class in Cumberland, England, has been from time immemorial, and is still, celebrated by the making of a mixture called "rum-butter." Its ingredients are butter, sugar, rum and spices, and it is a really palatable compound. Every person entering the house where a birth has taken place is offered a taste for several weeks after the event. It is an insult to the child, and its parents to refuse the proffered dainty, and not to proffer it is considered equally discourteous.

Cookery Lessons for Men.

A course of cookery lessons "for men only" has recently been initiated in Copenhagen under the auspices of an influential committee. It was felt that there were in that city a large number of young unmarried men, such as students and clerks, who were debarred from any real home comforts, and that a knowledge of cookery would aid them towards domesticated habits, to say nothing of benefiting their digestions.

A BULLET-PROOF OINTMENT.

It Commands a High Price Among Russian Soldiers.

A number of reservists from Perm, on entraining at Tcheiabinsk, for the far east, were observed to have in their possession small bottles, of the kind provided by the state for vodka, filled with a curious greenish substance.

A few days later some soldiers were noticed dyed a deep olive green, and an inquiry was held.

Some of the soldiers admitted that before leaving their village a wise woman named Lietkin had sold them, at a rouble a bottle, a holy ointment, the chief ingredient of which was marrow taken from the bones of saints buried at Soloviets monastery, near Archangel.

The ointment rendered anyone smeared with it bullet-proof, and as the soldiers expected that the Japanese might attack their train at any moment they were preparing.

It appeared that the less fortunate soldiers had begged to be allowed to buy some of the ointment, and the further the train got east the higher rose the price.—London Mirror.

Curious Custom.

In Friesland, it seems, there is a custom that the news of a birth or death is announced verbally by a man who calls at every house in the village for that purpose. If he brings the news of a birth he wears white gloves, if of a death they are black. Some days ago a child was born dead in a Friesian village. It was necessary that the usual announcement should be made, but in what colored gloves? The harbinger was a man of resource. He went his rounds wearing one white glove and one black one.

Doctoring an Ostrich.

To relieve his paralyzed legs from his 250 pounds weight, this ostrich was placed in a sling while a mild current of electricity was applied to his legs. The first two days he appeared to receive no benefit from the treatment, but it gradually brought back blood and life, and he is now running around in the London zoological gardens.

A Very Gay Ghost.

"No," said the widow with a sigh, "Mrs. Buttin does not call upon me any more. She called right after I moved in here and was perfectly lovely. She did not know I was a widow and I did not take the trouble to enlighten her. She spied a photograph of the late lamented on the mantel.

"'Your dearly beloved, I presume,' she said with a smirk, and I nodded assent.

"She called again a few days later. After a few common place remarks she glanced at the photograph again and said in a poor-child-how-I-pity-you sort of way:

"'My dear, I don't want to make any trouble, but I saw him at the theater the other night with a big, stout, blonde girl.'

"'Great heavens,' I gasped with affected horror. 'That is strange. I buried him in Woodlawn five years ago. What would you advise me to do?'"—New York Times.

Electric Fan on Light Wire.

Every year brings out some new design in electric fans. What is probably the latest thing in this line is the little contrivance shown here. Compactness and economy are its chief recommendations. The construction is very simple and the cost slight. The fan can be screwed directly into the socket of an ordinary bulb, consuming the same amount of current as a sixteen candle power lamp. The speed of the blades is said to be 1,600 revolutions a minute.

Curious Guam Superstition.

In the Island of Guam a curious superstition is held by the natives. They believe that on a certain night all of the dead come forth from their graves and walk around, having a good time. To facilitate the festive occasion a candle is kept burning on every grave through the night.

Burglars Played Mean Trick.

Even the device of leaving a safe unlocked, with a card inviting burglars to open it, is no longer a protection. A man tried it at Minersville, Penn., and the burglars played him the trick of locking it so he could not open it himself.

ACTOR FEARED A MIX-UP.

Japanese Valet and Russian Wolfhound Not a Good Combination.

William H. Crane, the actor, has as many friends in Washington as an Ohio politician.

The lawmakers have never forgotten his favorite play of some seasons ago, and he is always called Crane recently "Senator." Mr. played in Washington, and was royally received at the White House, the Capitol and the clubs. While at one of the latter a gentleman who had enjoyed the actor's performance remarked:

"Well, Crane, I want to make you a present. I'm going to give you a dog."

"What breed?" asked the actor.

"A Russian wolfhound," was the reply.

"Sorry," said Mr. Crane, "but I can't accept a Russian wolfhound."

"Why?" asked the friend in surprise.

"I have a Japanese valet," answered the actor, "and as for myself, I'm neutral."—New York Times.

Found Gold in a Hen Coop.

Two boys, W. O. and C. P. Danielson of Medford, Ore., in March, 1894, while cleaning out an old chicken house for a family by the name of Roberts, found buried under the surface $7,000 in coin. The Roberts family claimed the money and the boys turned it over to them. Afterwards the boys brought a suit in court to recover the money, on the ground that they had found it and were entitled to it, as against all the world, except the owner. The Roberts family claimed that one of their number had buried the money there, and that in fact the money was not lost. The case is now before the supreme court of Oregon as to who is entitled to the money. The interesting information was developed at the trial that the Roberts family gave to each of the boys five cents, and expressed the hope that the Lord would bless them.

An Illuminating Crab.

One of the marine curiosities fished some time ago from the bottom of the Indian ocean was a mammoth sea crab which continually emitted a bright white light, similar to that seen in the spasmodic flashes of phosphorescent luminosity emitted by the common glow-worm. The crab was captured in the daytime and placed in a large tank containing specimens of fish, nothing peculiar except its immense size being noticeable in the broad glare of the tropical sun. At night, however, when all was pitchy darkness, the crab lit up the tank so that the other creatures in it could be plainly seen.

Whole Alphabet Here.

In this ingenious monogram every letter of the alphabet can be made out.

Small Claims Paid by Government.

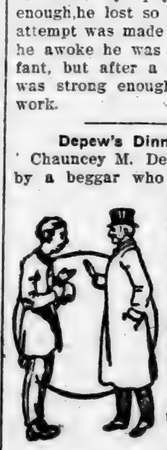
There have been several 1-cent claims against the United States government. One was by the Southern Pacific, which submitted a bill of $5.29 for hauling government freight. It was a bond-aided road, only part of its bills against the government being paid in cash, the rest going to the railroad's credit on the bonds. In this case its credit was $5.28 and its cash 1 cent. Another government obligation of a single cent was in favor of a chemical company, which, for some unexplained reason, agreed in a public competition to supply 16,892 pounds of ethyl ether for 1 cent. The offer was accepted. There were nine signatures, one that of a rear-admiral, on the paper, relating to the establishment of this claim and the warrant for payment had to be signed by several persons.

A Long Sleep.

An agricultural laborer in Russia is reported to have slept for seven months. He "dropped off" while at work in the fields, was carried home, and remained slumbering for the period mentioned, watched from time to time by physicians. Curiously enough, he lost so little flesh that no attempt was made to feed him. When he awoke he was as weak as an infant, but after a fortnight's nursing was strong enough to return to his work.

Depew's Dinner Invitation.

Chauncey M. Depew was accosted by a beggar who had "seen better days." The man wanted five cents. The senator shook his head and passed on. But the man followed him.



"Please give me five cents; I've had no dinner," he persisted.

"Neither have I," replied the senator shortly.

"Very well, then," said the fellow, suddenly assuming an air of patronage, "make it ten, and we'll dine together."—New York Times.

A WAIF'S PICTURE GALLERY.

Record of Good Work Done by New York Philanthropists.

One of the oddest sights in New York is the picture gallery of successful waifs in the rooms of the Children's Aid society, on East 22d street. There is none other like it in the world. Hundreds of faces look out of their simple frames. They are of every nationality, type, age and color. Since 1853 more than twenty thousand waifs and strays have been placed in families by the society, situations have been found for some twenty-five thousand more, and over five thousand runaways and "losts" have been returned to shelters.

Of the rescued, one has become the governor of a state, another the governor of a territory, two members of Congress, two sheriffs, two district attorneys, one city attorney, four members of state legislatures, three county commissioners, twenty-seven bankers, twenty-two merchants, four hundred and sixty clerks, thirty-four lawyers, seventeen physicians, eight postmasters, three railroad officials, thirty-six railroad men, ten real estate agents, fifteen newspaper and literary men, eighty-one teachers, four high school principals, one superintendent of schools, one civil engineer, twenty-one clergymen, and over a thousand have enlisted in the United States army and navy.

GOES BACK TO 1639.

When First Book Printed in America Was Published.

In Cambridge the first book published in America was printed. Over the entrance of the oldest printing establishment in the country, which produced this early book, stands today the date 1639. That was the year printing was begun in the colonies of Great Britain in America.

A PAGE OF THE NEW ENGLAND PRIMER, ABOUT 1790.

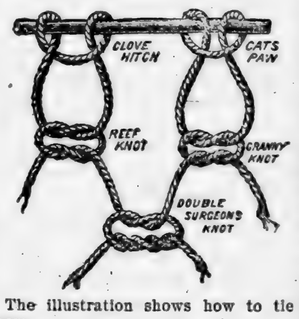
New England's output of books is varied. It includes volumes of all sizes, prices and kinds, from the exquisite little classic in prose or verse, made to fit the vest pocket, by Mosher of Portland, and selling for twenty-five cents at retail, to the richest books ever printed, made of vellum and parchment, bound in levant and selling at $1,000 a volume; from the Old Farmer's Almanac, smallest and most ancient of New England periodic publications, to Webster's dictionary, the largest single volume in general use.

French Alligator Farms.

Several French dealers have recently visited America to purchase stock for an alligator farm which they propose starting in the south of France. Alligator skin has become so highly prized throughout France that the animal dealers believe it will pay well to raise the alligators on this, the first farm of its kind in the world. Not long ago President Loubet received a present of a hunting suit of alligator skin. The skin is said to be growing scarcer each year, and there is always a great demand for it for boots, shoes, handbags, writing pads, portfolios and toilet articles.

Knots.



The illustration shows how to tie them.

Floating Postoffice.

In Lake Wabigoon, Ontario, Canada, at a point where the water is not very deep, a strong wooden stake has been driven into the ground. On the top a box has been securely fastened, and there you have the Lake Wabigoon postoffice. The little steamer from Rat Portage drops the mail here on her outward voyage, and a canoe goes out from the shore and collects it, depositing the outgoing mail at the same time, which is picked up by the steamer on her return trip to Rat Portage next day.

Heavy Family.

Four brothers and four sisters belonging to North Bergen turn the scale at a total weight of 139 stone. They are all over six feet in height and are proportionately built.

CURING GRAIN IN A HOSPITAL.

Sanitarium for Sick Cereals at Port Arthur, Ontario.

Most of us are familiar with hospitals and retreats where life and health may be restored to human beings and animals, but a new and interesting phase is a sanitarium for grain.

Plants and flowers are subject to disease, and as the loss of crops throughout the United States alone has been estimated at some eighteen million dollars, it becomes imperative that an effort should be made to save the diseased grain. Very often farmers lose the whole crop because of being compelled to harvest in wet weather.

Nurse in Wheat Hospital.

To the new hospital, which is located at Port Arthur, Ontario, the farmers may send their grain to be treated and carefully nursed. After passing out of the care of the experts the grain is said to be cleaner and more wholesome than wheat which has not been subjected to this process. Convalescent wheat has been stored away and kept in perfect health for several years.

When the wheat ill unto death arrives, a nurse places it in a bath of pure water, where it is brushed and scoured in machines made for the purpose until the grains are highly polished and in good shape for the mill. It is then placed upon a bed made of screening and subjected to a jamming process, first of hot, then of cold air, until it is perfectly dry.

Again the grain is subjected to another cleaning process, after which it is ready to be returned to the owner, with the guarantee that it is thoroughly cured. Strange to say, when it is weighed it seems to have lost nothing, and being all grain and no chaff it weighs three or four pounds heavier to the bushel.

An Anti-Sea-Sick Vessel.

Lieut. Turc, of the French navy, has after much study devised a plan for a ship the pasengers on which will, as he imagines, be proof against seasicknesses. He has caught the idea from the motion of a swing. As a general rule, vessels are only set rolling from ten to fifteen seconds at a time, and as his would have a regular swing of twenty-two seconds, he calculates that the effect of the waves would thus be counteracted. M. Turc's model ship would be of about 6,000 tons burden, and would sail at a speed of nineteen knots. All the cabins would be well out of the water, as they would be constructed on a deck more than thirty feet above the sea level.

Rarest of All Stamps.

The scarcest stamp of all is the 1c British Guiana of 1856. Of this stamp absolutely only one specimen is known to exist, and for that one specimen M. le Renotiere von Ferrary, of Paris, is said to have once refused £5,000.

Blood the Best Fertilizer.

A superstition dating from olden times exists to the effect that roses and flowers generally attain greater beauty in soil fertilized by blood, especially human blood, than elsewhere. Persons who have visited Newmarket, England, know of the so-called "bloody flower of Newmarket," which is found nowhere else than in the old moat, now filled up, and in which, according to traditions, a very large quantity of human remains are interred. These flowers bloom in June and July and by the bloodlike hue of their blossoms suggest the name which has been given to them.

Musical Ring.

A minister in the north of London possesses the most wonderful ring in the world. In appearance it is an ordinary gold signet ring, but it is, in addition, a perfect little musical box. By touching a tiny spring, and holding the ring close to the ear, one can hear a sweet hymn tune. By placing the ring on a box the charming tones of this unique ring can be heard all over a large room.

Vocation for Squinting Girls.

A tradesman in Berlin has hit upon the plan of engaging squinting girls to serve in his shop. Asked the reason he said, "I am often robbed. Now that the eyes of my girls look in every direction, the customers who steal will never know when they are being watched."

KIWI-KIWI, THE DANCING

One of the Most Remar... ture's Wonde...

In a bird store of the theat... trict a Kiwi-kiwi, or dancing ... cently created a sensation, ... New York Times. She ... brought to the city by an A... sailor, a cast-off from one of ... ships docking in port.

"She's the funniest creature ever put on show," said the ... "for she has neither wings ... and was born so. I found ... her from the Park Curator, ... a real Kiwi. There's only ... other of the kind in New Yo... Barnum got him for his old ... He didn't live long, most likely ... ed himself to death. This K... owner called Carmencita, becau... danced so much. You see, she ... four toes on each foot, and ... them all in her steps. Her nos... just like human ones, and, w... whirls and waltzes they spread ... like a young colt's at a first ra...

"She sleeps all day, and ... her antics at twilight. It's a ... circus when she lets her ... down like a third leg, and st... dance and kick. Then you ... real fandango. She can kick ... her head. The Curator says ... can't do any flying, but they ... pert runners, and if they ... the cage open, they'll get away ... any man, no matter how spry ... The female is larger than the ... and is the most important mem... the family. Carmencita is pret... able. I've had a good offer fo...

Russian "Scare Head."

The present war has produced ... first heading containing more ... single line ever published in ...

СЪ ТЕАТРА ВОЙНЫ.

ПОДРОБНОСТИ БОЯ ПОДЪ ПОРТЪ-АРТУРОМЪ.

ПРИКАЗЪ КОМЕНДАНТА ПОРТЪ-АРТУРСКОЙ КРѢПОСТИ.

ЯПОНЦЫ ОБСТРѢЛИВАЛИ ИЗЪ-ПОДЪ ВОДЫ РУССКІЙ КРЕЙСЕРЪ.

ПЕРЕБЪЯТЪ КОРРЕСПОНДЕНТОМЪ КОРОЛЯ ВСѢМЪ ВЪ СВѢТѢ.

ВЫСАДИВШІЕСЯ У ТАЛИЕНВАНЯ ЯПОНЦЫ ПОЧТИ ВСѢ ПЕРЕБИТЫ РУССКИМИ КАЗАКАМИ.

ПРИБЫЛИ 2.000 РУССКИХЪ ВЪ ПЕРЕВѢСЪ ТЕЧЕНІЮ ДНЯ.

УГРОЗА КИТАЙСКАГО ПРАВИТЕЛЬСТВА ИЗГНАТЬ ИНОСТРАНЦЕВЪ.

...sian newspaper. Previously th... important news had never ... honored and the death of Queen ... toria was announced without ... heading.

Where White Ants Are Use...

A white ant's nest is about t... thing in the world one would ... to be of practical service to ma... yet in Western Australia white ... and their nests are put to a ... of economic uses.

In the first place, the abor... sometimes eat the ants, and the... even a few white residents who ... tasted them, for the sake of ... ence, and say they are not bad ... it is not a habit with the abor... to eat the insects; they prefer ... your the mold out of which th... build their nest.

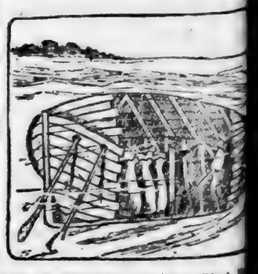
Capital ovens are frequently ... provised by the Australian prosp... out of these white ant mounds. ... make a solid floor, almost li... ment, for the settlers' huts, ... the township of Derby, in W... Australia, they have been turn... profitable use by being rolled i... top layer on the public roads.

Bedrooms in Trees.

A remarkable hotel is in Cali... on the road between Canta Cr... San Jose. California possess... largest trees in the world, ... shrewd hotel-keeper has conce... idea of utilizing as a wayside ho... a group of these mammoths, th... ing himself the cost of build... rent. The hollow trunk of on... whose circumference is about ... two yards, is arranged as a re... room, and the surrounding space ... tered by a thick roof of spr... branches, serves as dining-room ... smoking-room. A number of ... smaller hollow trunks make co... able bedrooms, furnished in the ... approved style, and some trees ... little distance are occupied a... hotel staff.

One of the First Submarin...

It seems rather an absurd ... said a naval captain to the ... although a submarine boat was ... on the Thames nearly three cen... ago, we still have not evolve...



An Illustration of the First ... Submarine Vessel.

...thing like a perfect under-wate... sel. Of course, this submarine ... time of the Stuarts was a very ... tive kind of craft. It was pro... by oars and, I believe, was much ... adept at sinking than at coming ... surface again.—London Tit-Bits.

Faithful Public Servant.

Warren W. Emory of Range ... has served thirty-six con... years as town clerk, thirty-... town treasurer and twenty-five ... as postmaster. He also served ... legislature for two years.

Cotton Gin Machinery

...TT. MUNGER.
...WINSHIP.
...GLE. SMITH.
...make the most most complete line of any ... in the world. We also make
...GINES and BOILERS,
...NTERS for OIL MILLS.
...everything needed about a Cotton Gin.
...rite for Illustrated Catalogue.
...ntinental Gin Co.,
Birmingham, Ala.

DR. WOOLLEY'S
...IUM & WHISKY ANTIDOTE
...are permanently at your own home.
...F. M. Brown, of DeQueen, Ark., says: "Seven years ago I was cured of the ... habit by your medicine, and have con... in the very best of health since."
...W. M. Tunstall, of Lovingston, Va., ... "I am glad to say that I firmly believe ... am entirely and permanently cured of ... ink Habit, as I have never even so much ... ted a drink in any form since I took ... eradicator, now 18 months ago. It was ... best money I ever invested."
...Virginia Townsend, of Shreveport, La., ... "No more opium. I have taken no ... remedy than yours, and I make no mis... when I say that my health is better now ... I ever was in my life, and I owe it to you ... one remedy. It has been twelve years ... I was cured by your treatment."
...Woolley has thousands of such testimon... with permission to use them. A treat... with so many recommendations from ... cians and cured patients must be good.
...Woolley's Antidote has imitators, (as ... od articles have)—perhaps you have tried ... of them, but there is nothing like Wool... It has stood the test of thirty years. No ... or woman who uses opium or whiskey in ... form, or who has friends so afflicted, ... hesitate to write to DR. B. M. WOOLLEY,
...8 North Pryor Street, Atlanta, Ga.,
...s book on those diseases, which he will ... free and confidential.

...OORE & HANDLEY HARDWARE CO.
...IRMINGHAM, ALA.
We are Headquarters for
MACHINERY
OF ALL KINDS
Send for Catalogue and Prices.
...ines, Saw Mills,
...ers, Corn Mills,
...ps, Hose,
...es, Belting,
...ngs, Injectors,
..., Governors.
Wood and Iron Pulleys,
...ales, Ghafting, Shingle Machines,
...ers, Circular Saws, Hay Presses,
... Etc.

...very & Company
SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
...8 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
...ACHINERY
...ble Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

...ST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.
...arge Engines and Boilers supplied ... mptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, ...cular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, ...m Governors, Full line Engines & ... Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

BEST FOR Casca...

...GUARANTEED CURE for all bowel troub... blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, ...ains after eating, liver trouble, sallow skin ...egularly you are sick. Constipation kills m... cure a chronic ailments and long years of suf... CASCARETS today, for you will never get ... right. Take our advice, start with Cascare... money refunded. The genuine tablet stam... booklet free. Address Sterling Remedy Com...

TAL.

Port

ompli-and a bel infor t to ness.

ween
ther ness
ness
ness

A THOUSAND DEPUTIES

Have Been Sworn in in the Cripple Creek Mining District by New Sheriff.

ROPES ON TABBE AT MEETING.

County and City Officials Have Been Forced to Resign—Deportations to Follow.

After a night of terror, comparative peace prevails throughout the gold camp, but conditions are still unsettled and nobody believes that the trouble is ended. Fifteen deaths have resulted from the dynamite outrage at Independence, several of the injured are in a critical condition and two men were killed and eight wounded in the subsequent rioting in Victor.

It is believed the bodies of several others were blown to atoms and that the remains are at the bottom of the hole made by the explosion.

Apart from a few small fights in connection with the rounding up and arresting of union miners, no outbreak has occurred. Two militia companies and a small army of armed deputies under Sheriff Bell are in full control of the camp. Though there has been no turbulence there is undercurrent of feeling which bodes ill.

The first act of Sheriff Bell was to take away the star of Under Sheriff Burton. Then he appointed twenty-five deputies, to which force large additions have been since made, and later he disarmed the union officers who had been appointed by City Marshall O'Connell, of Victor.

There is a minority element that wants to hang N. W. O'Connell, former marshal of Victor, suspended and under arrest, and Alfred Miller, charged with having started the riot which resulted in the killing of Roxie McGee at the mass meeting in Victor, and several other leaders. No hanging will take place, however, in all probability, unless resistance is offered by word or action of the men. It would require but little to have a wholesale hanging.

A posse of 300 deputy sheriffs armed with rifles and revolvers is now scouring the hills of the Cripple Creek district with the object of rounding up every union man and idler in the camp. They will be escorted to the county lines and warned never again to return to Teller county.

The union men are also well armed, and say they will resist any attempt at deportation. Many of them are desperate.

Boys playing in the neighborhood of the hole made by the explosion found a portion of a cheaply made British bulldog revolver. The weapon contained one shell and is regarded as conclusive proof that the dynamite was set off in the fashion similar to the explosion of giant powder in the Vindicator mine. The bloodhounds trailed the assassin who killed the Findley miners to a mile beyond Clyde station, a distance of three miles. There the scent was completely lost. It is believed by the detectives that the assassin took a buggy at the place where the scent was lost and proceeded along the old stage road to Colorado Springs.

Over two hundred men, said to be the leaders of the riot, are now lounging about the hard floor of the armory. There is no telling how much longer they will be kept in confinement.

A well grounded rumor is to the effect that a large number of union miners will be arrested and deported.

Two Estimates.

The Commercial and Financial Chronicle estimates the cotton fields at 32,363,690 acres, as against 28,995,786 acres in 1903, an increase of 11.62 per cent. The department of agriculture, however, says there are 31,730,271 acres planted in cotton, an increase of 9.8 per cent. The Financial Chronicle puts the planting in Alabama this year at 4,341,667 acres, as against 3,911,412 acres last year, a gain of 11 per cent. The government estimates the increase in Alabama at 9 per cent.

Passed Rhodes' Examination.

Those who conducted the Rhodes examination report that 120 candidates have passed from the different states and territories of the union and thus become eligible for selection as Rhodes scholars. They include:

Alabama—James H. Kirkpatrick.
Georgia—R. P. Brooks, T. H. Wade.
Kentucky—Clark E. Tanky.
Louisiana—Ralph C. Many, Amassa K. Read.
Tennessee—John A. Harding, G. C. Scoggin, John T. Tigert.

Montgomery's new toll steel bridge over the Alabama will cost $40,000.

Commercial failures in the United States during the month of May were 997 in number and $9,817,998 in amount of defaulted liabilities, which compares with 942 bankruptcies involving $12,314,206 in the corresponding month last year. Manufacturing failures numbered 245 against 217 a year ago.

Record admissions to the world's fair for the week ending Saturday, June 4th, aggregate 378,146. Last week showed the heaviest attendance of any at the fair.

PORT ARTHUR SUPPLIED.

Material Sent from Vladivostok—Water Poisoned.

It can be stated that Port Arthur is abundantly supplied with provisions and munitions of war. The bulk of the supplies there was sent before communication was cut off.

There is also plenty of everything at Vladivostok except sugar. Kerosene is scarce among the civilians, but the quantity on hand is adequate for the needs of the garrison. A train of ten cars laden with miscellaneous goods is dispatched daily. The railway is open.

Much excitement has been caused by the reported discovery of gold in the vicinity of the mouth of the Amur river. Chinese say that when the Russians abandoned Taku Kao they poisoned the water sources. Admiral Kataoka is investigating the charge.

The Norwegian steamer Aggi from Cardiff with coal, was arrested by the Japanese. Reasons for the action are not stated.

Vice Admiral Togo and Admiral Yamamoto have been promoted to the rank of Kaighun Tasso, the highest rank in the Japanese navy.

A private telegram says that Lewis Eisel, correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, and Ernest Brindle, of the London Daily Mail, were fired upon by Chinese soldiers while in a junk near Erdko. Etsel was killed, but Brindle is believed to be safe. Etsel was a native of Butler, Pa. United States Consul General Miller will make a personal investigation.

Polish papers publish what they claim is the text of the telegram sent by the czar to General Kuropatkin. The honor of Russian arms demands that Port Arthur be held. I order you without delay to concentrate all efforts and repel the enemy's attacks on this stronghold and make it possible for the garrison there to maintain its position victoriously.

While it is true that a very active Russian force is operating on the Liao Yang peninsula for the purpose of impeding the progress of the Japanese army, the number of this force is shrouded in mystery. Figures are freely bandied about, but it is impossible to ascertain the exact facts.

Conservative military officials exhibit much uneasiness over the report of Kuropatkin's advance to the relief of Port Arthur, as General Oku, in command of the second Japanese army stationed at Port Arthur, will have a chance to hold the Russians in check, while General Kuroki, in command of the first Japanese army, will make a flank movement.

Tuesday was the birthday of the czarina.

Cotton Improving.

The department of agriculture bulletin says:

Drouth in the southwest and eastern gulf states has been very generally relieved, although more rain is needed in portions of Florida and in the central and western gulf districts.

Over the western portions of the corn belt the growth has been checked by lack of warmth and sunshine and is much in need of cultivation, while in the central and eastern districts planting and replanting have been delayed by rains. In the southern states the general condition of corn is promising, although rain is needed in the central gulf districts.

As a whole there has been quite a decided improvement in the condition of cotton over nearly the whole belt. The crop has, however, suffered some damage in Oklahoma and Indian Territory from overflow and from insufficient moisture in scattered localities in Louisiana. Rapid growth and a good state of cultivation are generally indicated. Boll weevils are increasing rapidly and doing considerable damage in a number of southwestern and southern central counties in Texas.

Mayor McLane's Will.

The will of Mayor Robert M. McLane, of Baltimore, who killed himself on May 30th, has been admitted to probate. It was made on February 4, 1902, and the largest bequest in it is one of $10,000 to Mrs. Van Bibber, who afterwards became his wife. As the will requested that no bond be required of the executor a nominal one of $500 was given, which affords no indication of the value of the estate. It is said, however, that it amounts to about $12,000.

Killed by Lightning.

A few miles from Statham, Ga., two young women, Miss Mabel Stanagan and Miss America McLoughlin, were instantly killed by a bolt of lightning. They were in a field at work and just in front of them was a young man named Albert Flanagan.

The bolt killed the two girls instantly, and the young man was knocked senseless to the ground, but will recover.

A steel toll bridge is to be erected over the Alabama river at Montgomery.

Murray Declines Kentucky Bishopric.

Rev. John G. Murray, former rector of the Church of the Advent of Birmingham and now rector of St. Michael's and All Angels' church of Baltimore, Md., has declined the bishopric of Kentucky to which he was recently elected by the diocesan council of that state.

Because of bad health Mrs. Stonewall Jackson will not be able to attend the United Confederate Veterans reunion at Nashville.

IS BADLY HURT.

Man Fired on While He had His Baby in His Arms.

John L. Mitchell, of East Florence, is lying critically ill from knife wounds received at the hands of Tom Street, flagman on the branch of the Southern railroad between Tuscumbia and Florence.

Mitchell, who was a passenger on the train which reached East Florence shortly after 6 o'clock, was drunk and disorderly, and after the train arrived at the depot the two men got into a dispute in which Street cut Mitchell. Later as Street, with his baby in his arms and accompanied by his wife, was on his way home Mitchell overtook him and commenced firing at him with a pistol. After Mitchell had fired three times his brother knocked him down to prevent further trouble.

MORGAN WILL INVEST.

Said to Have $20,000,000 in Options in Cleburne County Gold Fields.

It is reported that preliminary papers which call for an investment of $20,000,000 by J. Pierpont Morgan in the Arbacoochie gold fields in Cleburne county, are signed. Options on property for seven miles along the banks of the creek have been secured. The investment is not made on a venture, but is based on the most thorough investigation covering a period of more than four years.

John M'Lane May Lose a Leg.

John McLane was shot through the leg by Oakley Harris, a former deputy United States marshal. The shooting took place in front of the McGee hotel, Huntsville, and was accidental to a certain extent. After a brief quarrel, in which McLane is said to have struck Harris, Harris pulled a pistol and McLane grabbed it. In the scuffle that ensued the gun was discharged and the bullet smashed the bone in McLane's right leg below the knee. The limb will probably be amputated. Harris was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to kill and was placed under bond.

Chicken Thief Did It.

Fire destroyed the residence of Mrs. William J. Irvine near Athens, too far out to be reached by the fire department. The fire was caused by some chicken thief entering the hennery and smoking the chickens with sulphur so as to prevent them making a noise, and as soon as the chickens were sufficiently under the influence of the smoke the thief threw down his torch and gathered in the chickens and left the fire.

Mills Purchased.

The Central Cotton mills at Sylacauga, have been bought by the Avondale Cotton mills. The Sylacauga mills, which were completed two or three years ago, have 11,200 spindles and have been running on hosiery yarns. The plant is up-to-date in its appointments.

The Avondale mills will operate their purchase as soon as the necessary preliminaries have been completed.

Newly Incorporated.

The following incorporations reported by the secretary of state:

Rankin Springs Paint Company, Birmingham, Ala., capital stock $10,000.

Richmond Investment Company, Birmingham, Ala., capital stock, $50,000.

Blount County Fruit Company, Birmingham, Ala., capital stock $20,000.

News comes that Dr. Henry Pearson, of Tuscaloosa, was badly hurt in New York city. He has been the ambulance surgeon for a hospital in that city since completing his medical course and it is thought he was hurt while answering a call.

Caught by a Car.

At Mobile an electric car played the leading role in the capture of a murderer. Just as Thomas Lewis had shot to death a man named Artemus Pope and was in the act of running away an electric car ran over him, crushing his right foot so badly that amputation was found necessary.

John Bowen, a Tuskegee negro, was killed by having his head almost blown off in the county jail. He was killed with a rifle in the hands of Deputy Sheriff George Lamar, but there is more than one account of the manner in which Bowen met death, some saying that he was shot while tussling with the officer for the possession of the rifle.

Robert E. Carter, a white farmer, while plowing in his field near Sardis, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The bolt hit Carter in the top of his head and passed down his back and out of his left foot, from which the shoe was torn off.

Robert B. Fort, member of the Illinois state senate and candidate for lieutenant governor before the present state republican convention, is dead. He came to Springfield a few days prior to the assembling of the state convention and conducted his campaign through the first few days of the convention. Mr. Fort was born in 1867 and was a grandson of Dr. Boal, one of the founders of the republican party.

While it is true that the obligations of the healing art especially expose the physician to infections of every sort, it is due to him that any extra risks should be reduced to the minimum. It is a popular belief that he is singularly proof against contagion of any sort, as if guarded by a special Providence for the good that he can do to others, observes the New York Herald. While this would be a simple act of justice to one who voluntarily is ever ready to take his chances, it is nevertheless the fact that mortality of medical men from strictly contagious diseases is greater than that in any other calling of life. Why even more do not succumb is possibly explained by the extra precautions taken by them in guarding against disease invasion, but above all by their maintenance of that high state of health which throws off disease of any sort.

If facts proving we eat too much accumulate the next ten years as they have in the last two years, say, how long will it be before some man will come along with the proposition that we do not need to eat at all? asks the Boston Transcript editorially. He will be sure to come, and he will have for the basis of his argument the improvement that has even now been noted as resulting from a fast of two or three days in certain illnesses. And there will be many, by the time he arrives, to give him support. Perhaps a belief in him will bring to them the same fate that befell the horse who was taught to do without his daily fare, and perhaps the doctrine will not be promulgated till that dire time, already prophesied, arrives when all the food supplies in the world are exhausted. In that case it will be universally welcomed as a plan of nature to keep her perfect balance.

Some of the warm advocates of college games advocate the foundation of generous endowment funds for boat clubs, baseball organizations, football teams and other athletic associations in American universities. It is unlikely that the students would object to the raising of such an endowment, but a movement among alumni and other well wishers to subscribe sufficient sums to provide for the athletic expenses of the undergraduates is not destined to succeed right away, declares the New York Tribune. The grand stand and gate receipts at the best known and most popular football contests are extremely large every year, and the college baseball nines rejoice over the attendance and applause of multitudes of enthusiastic witnesses. Hosts of excited spectators yell themselves hoarse as the plucky college crews bend to their oars, but the amounts which flow into the treasuries of the boat clubs are small.

There are nine thousand burning lights and signals stretched along the American coasts, forming a perfect link, so that the navigator need never be out of sight of one of the beacons. One thousand of these are located on the Atlantic coast, 1,500 are scattered along the inland rivers and waterways, 500 on the Great Lakes and 200 on the Pacific coast. Of the grand total including light houses of different classes, buoys, beacons and danger signals, 3000 are lighted, giving forth their warnings at night time. Of these a score or more throw a beam of 100,000 candle power. To maintain the light house service a corps of over four thousand men is constantly employed and a fleet of more than fifty vessels. No service in the world exceeds our own in completeness and efficiency.

JUDSON STROCK'S LETTER.

Johnson grass, sorghum, groundpeas, chufas and a general line of seeds.

Baseballs, marbles, corquet sets, also violins, guitars and mandolins. Our balls are guaranteed.

Shoes! Well, our shoes talk for themselves. We handle only one brand, "Red Seal," and our prices are very reasonable.

P. S.—We will be glad to compare prices with any one.

Yours very truly,
JUDSON STROCK,
tf Clanton, Ala.

Jumbo Mill and Gin

(Formerly Maddox's)

Is now fully equipped with good rocks and uses steam power when water is low. From and after July 1st, I am prepared to do good work at my mill, as the flour mill has been completely overhauled and is now in thorough good order.

F. E. GRONQUIST.

The Sak's Store

Birmingham, Alabama

READY-MADE Apparel for M
Women and Children.
Our Mail Order Department is qu efficient and serviceable.

Write for Catalogue

A most complete

Stock of General Mercha
dise, Dress Goods, E

The Millinery Department

Is complete in every detail and is in cha of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara Sm
of St. Louis

P. D. WILSON

CLANTON, ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN POULTRY YAR

WE have as good —
CHICKE
as there are in the coun
Barred Plymouth Rocks
And you may have 15
fresh eggs for 50c. If y want them shipped ple
add 10c for packing.

Give us a trial and we can please

MRS. W. NIX,
Maplesville, Alaba

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AN FERTILIZERS

FOR SALE.

Troy Special & Mule Bran
"Are the Best on Earth"

J. C. JONES,
Clanton, - - - Alabam

We Have Perfected Arrangements Whereby That Practical and Instructive Newspaper

THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER

Known throughout the State of Alabama for the full line of State News contained in each issue, will be furnished in connection with Our Publication at a Remarkably Low Price.

Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Financial Page. Best State News.

For Village, Suburban Residents, and in fact for all actively engaged in agricultural pursuits, or family line, the Weekly Advertiser will be found well nigh indispensable. It is pure, bright and practical all the way through, and meets the requirements of the entire family. It is popular throughout the South, and no one should be without it.

Our Great Special Offer:

The Weekly Union one year - $1.00
Weekly Advertiser one year - $1.00

Both for $1.25.

Mobile's Dry Dock.

The port of Mobile boasts the largest wooden single box dry dock in the United States and possibly in the known world. It was launched Thursday, June 2d.

This dock is the property of the Ollinger Bruce Dry Dock Company. The dimensions are 310 feet by 82, with 11 feet depth and 35 feet side walls. With the pumps in place, the dock can be emptied of its water in thirty minutes, can handle a vessel of 3,200 tons dead weight or a 4,000-ton gross ship of any kind.

The Only One.

A wire fence manufacturing company has made a proposition to locate a $50,000 plant in Birmingham. If it is located here it will be the only one of the kind in the south.

Roasted to Death.

A special from Harrodsburg, Ky., says: A freight collided with a work train on the Southern railway near here, killing two men and injuring six. Engineer John Scanlan was roasted to death under his engine when the work train was burned.

Store
abama
ADE Apparel for Me
Children.
rder Department is quic
serviceable.
ogue complete
f General Merchan
ress Goods, Et y
every detail and is in char
s milliner, Miss Clara Sm
P. D. WILSON
OULTRY YARD
We have as good
CHICKEN
as there are in the count
Barred Plymouth Rocks
And you may have 15 g
fresh eggs for 50c. If y want them shipped plea
add 10c for packing.
Give us a trial and we can please y
MRS. W. NIX,
Maplesville, Alabam
CHANDISE AN LIZERS
SALE.
& Mule Bran
st on Earth"
JONES,
- Alabam
rrangements Whereby nstructive Newspaper
EEKLY TISER
the State of Ala-
line of State News issue, will be fur-on with Our Pub-
rKably Low Price.
s. Best Sporting
rket and Finan-
t State News.
ts, and in fact for all active ursuits, or family like, the nd well nigh indispensable.
l all the way through, and entire family. It is popular one should be without it.
ecial Offer:
ne year - $1.00
ne year - $1.00
- $1.25.

The Only One.

A wire fence manufacturing co y has made a proposition to locate 50,000 plant in Birmingham. If ocated here it will be the only the kind in the south.

Roasted to Death.

special from Harrodsburg, Ky
s: A freight collided with a wo n on the Southern railway nea e, killing two men and injur Engineer John Scanlan was ted to death under his engine a work train was burned.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 16, 1904. NO. 12.

SPEECH OF GEN. LEE

mmander-in-Chief of United Confederate Veterans, at Nashville Tuesday.

PONDED TO THE WELCOME

nded to the Old Soldiers—Draws essons from the War and Speaks of Southern Prosperity.

he welcoming addresses to the federate veterans were responded by Lieutenant General Stephen D. , who is filling the unexpired term the late commander-in-chief Gen- John B. Gordon. General Lee's earance was made the occasion the most remarkable demonstra- of the session. The veterans e as if a body. Hats, handker- fs and coats went into the air l parts of the hall, cheer after er rang out, the gallery joining the applause. The demonstration nued for several minutes. Gen- Lee said:

"It is impossible for me to respond the kindly and cordial welcome so spoken to my comrades who wore gray without thinking of the great ier and orator upon whom this would have fallen if he had not taken from us. It was in his- Nashville, seven years ago, that eloquent voice gave utterance to gratitude of our hearts to the zens of this beautiful city for the pitality for which they are famous, which today has laid us under obligations. It was here that he ed in your hands his commission your chieftain and sought to retire private station. With an out- st of loyal devotion, resistless as whirlwind,' you again called him to your leader, and gave him the mission of your unmeasured love confidence.

He was true to your service to the this noble voice is hushed for- He has answered the great call. He has conquered the last y. He has joined his great com- der in the white hosts of peace. armies of the confederacy have ched to fame's eternal camping und, and we who meet today are the belated stragglers of that ty host who have entered into immortality.

The living are brave and noble, the dead were the bravest of all.'

"As I listened to the eloquent and ring addresses of welcome, it impossible for me not to remem- an occasion now nearly forty rs past when some of us yearned enjoy the hospitality of Nashville. y of her citizens would at that have been glad to see us, but half as much so as we would been to see them. Between us these hospitable homes there ched a wall of fire, and instead your cordial greetings we heard thunder of guns.

This time, however, we have kept r engagements better, and your d will has made us more than con- rors. We have entered into this of great men and great memories have beheld your educational in- tutions, sending light and hope into remotest corners of our beloved d. We have made pilgrimages to graves of your mighty dead—we are been refreshed by your hospitali-

Tennessee's Enlistment.

"The confederate soldier does not get that from the bosom of this commonwealth came 115,000 men follow the banners of Lee and nson, and that more than 31,000 re enlisted in the armies of the nfederacy—Tennesseans believe with ir heart's blood. They did not nt the east when the great ques- n of state or nation had to be set- d with drawn swords. They spent the last drop of blood, the last mite treasure, for the defense of Ten- ssee, their mother and their sover- n.

"We, the witnesses of that great nflict, can never cease to honor nnessee for the blood of her sons, the tears and prayers of her ughters for the indomitable spirit ich rose it the ruined homes, which ewed the blasted fields, which has nched prosperity from field and untain, and has made this wonder- l land, once more a thing of beauty d pride to every southern heart. u have done well, men and women Tennessee. With peaceful hands have won back more than your thers lost.

World is Better and Richer.

"I wonder sometimes whether, when great balances of the universe e poised and the great judgments the Ancient of Days are rendered, whether even when the last human history is written of the war between the states, and the slow verdict of remote posterity is taken, the cause we loved will seem as lost as it once seemed to us. It may be that in the providence of God, and the development of humanity, these fearful sacrifices were necessary for the highest good of this nation and of the world. Truly in human experience without the shedding of blood there is no redemption. Rather let us believe that the world is richer and better, purer and greater for the tragic story of forty years ago, and that the shed blood has brought blessing, honor, glory and power, incorruptible treasures of which a brave and noble people can never be despoiled.

"It is a source of joy to every one of us, as we make our annual pilgrimage to meet together; when we see how prosperous our country has grown. At last I think we all feel that the prosperity of the land is assured. When the savings of all previous generations were consumed in the common disaster, it seemed for a while as if the south had to face the bitterness of poverty for generations to come—statesmanship, literature, art, culture, flowers of leisure and opportunity, were to remain forever withered on the soil once so congenial; nothing was to be left but the hard struggle with adversity till the bitter end.

"I think we are convinced now that the south is fully on its feet again. In material prosperity we have now not only reached, but surpassed, the achievements of our fathers; yet, when I look about me for the men who are to enter into the garden which you, my brave comrades, have made bloom under such hard conditions, I can not but be sensible to the incomparable loss which the south sustained. The tongues which would have commanded the applause of senates were never heard after the cry of battle was over; the genius that might have directed the counsels of nations breathed its last upon some forgotten skirmish line. The very flower and pride of our people perished in the battle front, and the blood of our race lost much of its most magnificent strain when they went to their graves.

South's Peerless Devotion.

"I hold no view of southern degeneracy, but I deplore the irreparable loss to my country and the coming generations when those splendid men, the bravest and best the world has ever held, went down in death. Some one has said that every generation must have its war. If so, in God's name let it not be a real war. The burning houses, the wasted fields, the ravaged cities—I could see them all go until the wilderness was back again, and contain my grief; but I can never bear to think of the strength and beauty, the manly courage, the stubborn nerve, the pure chivalry, the peerless devotion, the unstinted faith and loyalty which went into the battle's deadly front and never returned. It is the loss of men like these that made the south poor indeed, a loss that can never be restored, not in forty years. No, not in forty centuries.

"But, my comrades, it is a great comfort to know that the south had such men to lose. It was a revelation to the world. It was a revelation to ourselves. What a magnificent race of men, what a splendid type of humanity! What courage! What grandeur of spirit! What patriotism! What self-sacrifice! It was sublime. It is wonderful beyond compare. Not all were conquered. Some of these men came back. I see them before me now. God has bountifully prolonged their days, that they may illustrate to the next generation the civic virtues, that they may tell the wondrous story of those days, that they may stir up in the hearts of youth the emulation of virtue, the passion for noble achievements, the spirit of sacrifice.

"As the close of our days draw near, and the work of upbuilding our country passes on into younger and stronger hands, let us make it our mission, comrades, to tell the story. Do not let your children and grandchildren forget the cause for which we suffered. Tell it not in anger—tell it not in grief—tell it not in revenge. Tell it proudly as fits a soldier. There is no shame in all the history. Dwell on the gallant deeds, the pure motives, the unselfish sacrifice. Tell of the hardships endured, the battles fought, the men who bravely lived, the men who nobly died. Your dear comrades shall live again in your words.

Tell of the Heroes.

"The infinite pity and glory of it all will awake the hearts of those who listen and they will never forget. Tell them of Albert Sidney Johnston, of Stonewall Jackson, of Stuart with his waving plume, of Forrest with his scorn of death. Tell them of Wade Hampton and Gordon, the Chevalier Bayards of the south. Tell them of Zollicoffer, of Pat Cleburne and Frank Cheatham, of Pelham, of Ashby. Tell them of the great soldier with the spotless sword and the spotless soul who sleeps at Lexington, in the valley of Virginia. Tell them of the great president who bore upon his sad heart the sorrows of all his people, and upon whom fell all the blows which passed them over.

"This, my comrades, is your last commission. Do this for the dead, that they may be loved and honored still. Do this for the living, that they may also become worthy of love and honor. Do this for your country, that when the time is ripe she may again be rich in heroes and in noble deeds.

"'Shall not the self-same soil bring forth the self-same men?'

"When the great account is taken which page think you, my countrymen, will the south most willingly spare? Will it be the old page torn and ragged, stained with blood and tears, which tells the story of secession and defeat—or will it be the new page of her latest census, with its magnificent figures of wealth and prosperity? Whatever she chooses, give us old soldiers the old page to read and read again. This blood and those tears mean more to us than to all the world. The cause in which they were shed will never be lost to us, and the love we gave it, will not die till the last gray head is buried beneath the sod.

"My comrades, neither do I believe our descendants will ever hesitate to to make the same choice. 'The people of the south would not exchange the story of the Confederacy for the wealth of the world. At their mother's knee, the coming generations shall learn from that tragic history what deeds make men great and nations glorious. A people who do not cherish their past will never have a future worth recording. The time is even now that the whole people of the United States are proud of the unsurpassed heroism, self-sacrifice and faithfulness of the soldiers and people of the confederacy."

General Lee was followed by Rev. Harrison McKim, of Washington, D. C., who made a masterly address entitled "A Vindication of the Motives and Aims of the Soldiers of the South." The orator's defense of the confederacy was supremely eloquent and held the closest attention of his auditors until the end. When he had concluded, he was given rousing cheers

The railroads gave out tonight figures showing that they had brougnt in about 28,000 veterans and their friends.

IN THE FAR EAST

Recent Events in the Russo-Japanese War—England Speaks.

The Nova Vremya has become suspicious of the Chinese amusement of kite flying. These kites, the newspaper avers, are used along the coast as signals for the Japanese torpedo boats, which can thus obtain what information they desire without coming in close proximity to the Vladivostock squadron or shore batteries.

Report says that a great naval battle was fought outside Port Arthur. General Stoessel, who is in command of the Russian troops at the port, was wounded and one of his legs has been amputated at the thigh.

While the Japanese transport Makiho Maru was laying mines at the entrance to Port Arthur harbor one of the mines exploded, killing one officer and eighteen men. The vessel was not injured.

It appears from a question and answer in the house of commons that the fall of Port Arthur will mark the end of the British tenancy of Wei-Hai-Wei, on the Shan Tung promontory. Earl Percy, the under foreign secretary, informed the house that under the Anglo-Chinese convention of 1896, Great Britain's lease of this Chinese port was only valid so long as Port Arthur remained in the occupation of Russia.

According to a captain of one of the Japanese cruisers blocking Port Arthur, the Russian cruiser Novik has been out of the harbor on several occasions hunting Japanese destroyers. The captain thought that obstructions at the mouth of the harbor prevented the exit of the larger Russian vessels.

About a Quarter.

John Jenkins, a white man, was shot and probably fatally wounded by George Jost, an employe in a Birmingham saloon. Jenkins is at the hospital and the physicians do not believe he will recover.

The shooting was the result of trouble over a quarter. It seems that Jenkins and another man had some trouble, and that Jenkins abused the other man, using violent language. Jost, who has charge of the pool games and also acts as bartender at times, passed by and asked what was the matter. Jenkins is said to have replied by cursing him and attempting to cut him. Jost ran behind the bar, got a pistol and shot.

THEY WORE THE GRAY

Doings of the First Day's Session of the Confederate Veterans' Reunion.

ALABAMA WELL REPRESENTED.

Sons of Veterans Meet With Their Sires—30,000 Visitors in Nashville—The Last Drum Corps.

The United Confederate Veterans began their annual convention at Nashville Tuesday noon. It was the fourteenth yearly gathering and for the first time since the organization was formed General John B. Gordon, the beloved commander-in chief, did not preside. The tabernacle was crowded to suffocation with the veterans, sons of veterans and their friends and on the stage were the chief figures of the confederacy.

Among those on the platform were General Stephen D. Lee, acting commander-in-chief; Chaplain J. William Jones, of Richmond, Va.; General A. J. West, commanding the north Georgia brigade of Atlanta; General C. H. Tebeault, chief surgeon C. S. A.; General William E. Mickle, adjutant general; General W. S. Cabell, commanding the trans-Mississippi division; General George W. Gordon, of Memphis, commanding the Tennessee division; General C. I. Walker, department of Virginia, and General Clement A. Evans, department of Tennessee.

The first genuine outburst of enthusiasm occurred when the Kentucky delegation marched in headed by a Louisville band playing "My Old Kentucky Home."

This was quickly turned to "Dixie," occasioning an uproar.

A few minutes later the only surviving drum corps of the confederacy, from North Carolina, escorting the delegation from that state, again aroused the convention. Many enlivening scenes and good music by the Seventh Cavalry band, United States army, stationed at Chattanooga, kept the veterans cheering until the convention was called to order at half-past 12 by General George W. Gordon, of Memphis, commanding the Tennessee division. Chaplain Jones delivered an impressive invocation. Governor J. B. Frazier welcomed the veterans to Tennessee and Mayor A. S. Williams and Hon. Tully Brown spoke for the city of Nashville.

Governor Frazier said:

"When that grand man, that patriot, that noble Christian soldier—General Robert E. Lee—surrendered at Appomattox, he spoke with a heart too full for deceit. In that no southern mother swore her son to bitterness. She swore him to love and honor. All accepted the inevitable finality. When you saw furled for the last time the stars and bars you had followed for four years, when you had made your last final march back to your homes, had bade a final farewell to your comrades and found the sainted mother's grave sleeping in the family cemetery, the beautiful home in ruin and ashes, when you pressed upon your wife's lips a loving kiss, you sealed a solemn pledge that from that day on you would know but one country and but one flag.

"You came back to take up your old work, to build a new civilization; to redeem a land that had almost maliciously been given to the negro. In less than thirty-five years, unaided by anything except a fertile land and energy, you have attained commercial freedom for the south. The south has already snatched from New England the hitherto unchallenged record of cotton manufacturing. The south is destined to become the garden spot in this fair land.

"We welcome you to the warm hospitality and sunshine of the south, and if that is not warm enough, we welcome you to some of our good homes."

The first response was delivered by Thomas M. Owen, of Montgomery, in behalf of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans, and General Stephen D. Lee, of Columbus, Miss., made a response in behalf of the United Confederate Veterans.

General Lee announced the fourteenth annual convention ready for business, and introduced the orator of the day, Rev. Randolph H. McKain, D. D., of Washington, D. C.

The banner representation, outside possibly of Tennessee, has come from Alabama. Hon. Thomas M. Owen, state historian of Alabama, is the comander-in-chief of the Alabama division. Accompanied by his entire staff, all uniformed, he arrived early Monday night and opened headquarters at the Tulane hotel. He was accompanied by Miss Lucy McAdory, sponsor for Alabama; Miss Daisy H. Baker, maid of honor, and Mrs. T. M. Owen, chaperon. About one hundred and fifty Alabama delegates, many with their families, came in on the same train.

Dr. C. J. Owens, division inspector of Alabama, the duties of which office are to organize new camps and build up the older ones, claims the organization record of the year. Dr. Owens is president of the Anniston Young Ladies' seminary, and has organized in the past year four camps in his home county, eighteen being organized in the entire state, more than one-third of the entire number organized in the whole organization.

The usual gossip as to this being the last reunion of the old veterans, which has been heard at all of the reunions for the past five years, is going the rounds today. While the ranks of the old fighters are thinning very rapidly, the spirit of 1861 remains and the older the veteran, the quicker he dismisses the thought that the annual gatherings be discontinued. One gray-haired old soldier put it this way:

"We are going to have these reunions as long as there is a corporal's guard left to attend them."

The Jefferson Davis memorial services, under the auspices of the Southern Confederate Memorial association, were held at Christ church cathedral.

At 2 o'clock Wednesday the laying of the corner stone of the monument to the confederate private soldiers at Centennial park took place under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity. After the ceremonies Hon. Henry Watterson, of Louisville, delivered the address. The parade of veterans will take place Thursday morning.

The Texans want General Cabell for commander-in-chief and one of their arguments is that General Lee is now filling a government position. General Lee is one of the Vicksburg national military park commissioners, but his friends say that this is no objection and they will stand by him to the end. The Texans are here in force and several of them said it was their intention to stampede the convention for Cabell. General Lee's friends are confident, however, and say the veterans will not be swept by oratory. General Lee is making no campaign for the office, but he will accept if elected.

Texas also hopes to secure for New Orleans the honor of either being the permanent meeting place of the confederates or the making of that city the place of holding the gatherings every other year. There is objection by the Virginia and other coast states because of the long journey. The advocates of New Orleans for the permanent meeting place urge that their large population can easily bear the expense of entertaining the veterans annually and that their city is easily accessible.

The convention, making the election of officers the special order for tomorrow at 10 a. m., adjourned until 9 a. m.

The Sons of Veterans met in Watkins hall in the afternoon. The delegates were called to order by Commandant DeWitt of the Joe Johnston camp of Nashville. Colonel DeWitt delivered an address of welcome, to which United States Senator William B. Bate responded. General Bate said the object of the organization were to prepetuate the history of the Confederacy and to see that it remains untarnished. He and the other veterans, the general said, would not be here much longer, and the sons would soon be called upon to preserve history. He made a plea for the preservation of southern songs.

Mrs. Kate Lytton Hickman, of Nashville, welcomed the sons on behalf of the Daughters of the Confederacy. She was followed by Colonel Biscoe Hindman, of Louisville, past commander, who referred to the fact that while so many of the old veterans were crossing the river, it was beautiful to know that they were joining such men as Lee, Stonewall Jackson and "That nature's nobleman, John B. Gordon."

The Jefferson Davis memorial service under the auspices of the Southern Confederacy Memorial Association, held at Christ's church cathedral, was one of the notable meetings of the day. The edifice was beautifully decorated.

Bishop Thomas F. Gailor, of the Episcopal diocese of Tennessee, delivered the memorial address. The association has retained its old officers with the exception of a successor to Vice-President W. R. Garrett, of Nashville, who died several months ago. The officers elected were: General Clement A. Evans, of Atlanta, president; Hon. J. Taylor Ellison, of Richmond, second vice president; the Rev. Dr. J. William Rose, Richmond, secretary.

General Fitzhugh Lee wired his regrets from Richmond in these words: "Love to the old boys. I am very sorry I can not be present to meet and greet them."

The veterans and sons of veterans were received at the capitol tonight by Governor Frazier and staff.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

A. C. Smith. J. O. Middleton.
Smith & Middleton,
Attorneys-at-Law.
Practice in All Courts.
Office 6th St., Opposite Court House
CLANTON.

Physicians.

Dr. V. O. Campbelle,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office over Roper's Store.
CLANTON.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins,
Physician and Surgeon,
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office with Hopkins Drug Co.
CLANTON.

W. F. Middleton, M.D.,
Phsician and Surgeon,
CLANTON.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

Dentists.

Dr. A. B. Horn,
Dentist.
Office over Strock's Store.
CLANTON.
Office Days in the Following Towns.
Jemison—Wednesday and Thursday before the 2nd Sunday.
Thorsby—Wednesday and Thursday before the 3d Sunday Dr. Stabler's Office

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 8 to 12 a. m.
1 to 5 p. m.
CLANTON

Louisville & Nashville
RAILROAD.

THE DIRECT LINE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST, NORTH AND NORTHWEST

In Effect November 1, 1903.

No 9 D'ly Ex't Sday A M	No 3 D'ly P M	Read Down Leave	Read Up Ar.	No. 2 D'ly P M	No 6 D'ly Ex't Sday P M
6 10	3 20	Birmingham	12 10	7 15
6 53	4 19	Helena	11 30	6 34
7 32	5 01	Calera	10 46	5 50
7 56	5 25	Jemison	10 24	5 28
8 05	5 37	Thorsby	10 16	5 15
8 11	5 44	Lomax	10 10	5 08
8 19	5 51	CLANTON	10 02	5 01
8 32	6 05	Cooper	9 45	4 47
8 37	6 11	Verbena	9 39	4 41
8 44	6 19	Mt. Creek	9 30	4 30
9 24	6 51	Elmore	8 51	3 56
9 50	7 25	Montgomery	8 25	3 30

Drawing Room, Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars.

For rates and further information address G. Higgins, agent L. and N. R. R., Clanton, Ala.

Motion Denied.

The supreme court has denied the motion of the board of county commissioners of Jackson county to dismiss the appeal in the Scottsboro court house controversy. The appeal was made by citizens of Jackson county on the ground that the price contracted for the court house was exorbitant.

The residences of J. A. Dearing, G. S. Winfield and W. R. Davis, at Compton station, Birmingham, with a total valuation of about $6,000, were completely destroyed by fire. Insured.

Walter Q. Rawls, of Alabama, has passed his examination for admission to Annapolis.

THE LAUGHING PHILOSOPHER.

There was a great philosopher,
Lived years and years ago;
And such a merry soul was he
They called him Laughing Joe.

For laugh he would throughout the year,
Let things go wrong or right;
Let Fortune smile or Fortune frown,
His heart was ever light.

And little children every day
Would gather round his place
To listen to his hearty laugh
Or see his smiling face.

But gloomy-minded people said
They thought it was a shame
A man should be disposed to laugh
At good and bad the same.

At last they gathered in a crowd
And pulled his dwelling down;
They hustled him around the streets,
And drove him from the town,

To find a home beyond the sea
Upon a foreign strand,
And never dare to set a foot
Upon his native land.

But when they chased him from the realm
These people little knew
What even one good-natured soul
And smiling face can do.

Now children seeking after Joe
Would round the ruins stray,
And grieve because the people drove
Their laughing friend away.

And long before a year went by Those bad-behaving men
Sent messengers across the sea
To coax him back again.

And out they ran with princely gifts
To meet him at the shore,
And begged him there to live and laugh
In peace forevermore.

—Palmer Cox, in St. Nicholas.

A Botanist's Adventure.

By Albert W. Tolman.

THE abandoned Beckwith limerock quarry is a gigantic pit, 200 feet deep, blasted out of the solid rock. Almost the entire bottom is filled with a gulf of greenish-black water, forty or fifty feet in depth, reflecting the steep walls in its dark surface.

Arthur Sedgwick, assistant professor of botany in a Western college, came to New England to study the flora of the limerock region. The farm on which the Beckwith quarry is situated was rich in wild flowers, and the botanist had obtained from its owner full permission to tread down the grass as much as he pleased. After a delightful morning in the field, Sedgwick became curious to look into the deep, rocky gulf. Lying flat, he edged cautiously up to the brink and peered over.

The cliff down which he gazed was so nearly vertical that a plumb-line dropped from its summit would have fallen straight to the water, 200 feet below. He noted the rocky walls of blue and slaty white, darkened here and there by springs that trickled out between the shelly layers. His botanist's eye marked the green tufts of grass and the clusters of white yarrow that decked the little ledges in the course of the waterflow.

Just above the level of the pond, at its eastern end, he saw the heaps of ashes and a circle of bricks on the clinker-strewn terrace where the pump-house had once stood. Up to the top of the sheer wall beside it ran a line of rusty red, broken by a few short iron rods, with scattered chain-links and frayed rope-ends hanging to them, showing where the pipe that drained the quarry had been fastened.

As Sedgwick's eyes followed the water-line along the base of the steep cliffs, his attention was caught by a dash of vivid pink against the dull blue quarry wall. It needed no second glance to tell him what it was. Pink yarrow!

He had known that it existed in the region, but so far had been unable to find any specimens. It was a long way down to that cluster of bloom, but he determined to add it to his herbarium, if there was any possible way of reaching the shelf on which it grew.

Not far away, in the end of the quarry, was the line of ladders and steep stairs which had formerly been used by the workmen. A brief circuit through the thick grass brought the botanist to its top.

The first stage of the descent was a ladder running fifty feet down the face of a perpendicular cliff; from the ledge on which the ladder ended a stairway almost as steep led down forty feet farther to a second ledge; then came another ladder longer than the first; and finally a second stairway landed close to the coveted bloom.

Sedgwick was too sensible to incur actual danger for the sake of gaining the spray of yarrow; on the other hand, he did not propose to be frightened from his purpose by the mere difficulty of the accomplishment.

He scanned the ladder below him. Its rounds appeared perfectly strong. Better still, a wire rope, running through eyes in the end of iron rods, and serving as a hand-rail, was stretched close beside the ladders and stairs clear to the edge of the water. Although the canvas that covered this rope was frayed and its supporting rods were red with rust, it gave promise of security in case the wood should fail.

Sedgwick's arms were strong and his nerves sound. Keeping firm hold of the twisted steel, he cautiously tested the upper rounds of the ladder with his feet. No signs of decay were apparent, and he began the descent.

So careful was his progress that it was fully ten minutes before he stood on the final ledge, only a few inches above the water. A few steps brought him to the spray of yarrow, and presently it lay with the other specimens in the canister slung over his shoulder. Before beginning the ascent he stood for a time looking up.

From the field of blue sky between the cliff summits the unclouded sun sent down a flood of fiery light. No breeze was stirring in the deep pit. It was like a caldron filled with tremulous air, seething in glassy billows in the intense heat. Sedgwick almost wondered that the pond did not boil under the glowing rays. Far above, the wire of the old cableway cut the summer sky, a thread of black. A bird, perched upon it, sent down an occasional inquiring note. It was too hot to stay there long. Sedgwick fanned himself with his straw hat, and then began to ascend.

It was a slow, weary climb beneath the scalding sun; but step by step he won his way upward. Ere long he was at the foot of the last ladder, fifty feet from the top. Round by round he ascended, until he had gone ten feet. Then something gave way above.

The ladder settled slightly, and its top dropped straight out from the cliff. As Sedgwick felt himself falling backward he instinctively let go the rounds and grasped with both hands at the wire rope beside him, swinging himself out of the line of the ladder as he did so.

His presence of mind and quickness of action undoubtedly saved his life. A hundred feet below him there was a heavy plunge in the pond, a suggestion of his own probable fate had he been a second slower.

For a brief space he hung dangling at arm's length against the face of the perpendicular wall, too horrified to do anything but hold on for dear life. His broad-brimmed straw hat had fallen off, and it sealed downward, this way and that, until at last it came to rest on the surface of the water.

But presently the strain began to tell on the botanist's muscles, strong though they were. Two feet above his finger tips the rope ran through the eye of a supporting rod. If he could but raise his body and get up on this bar, he would for the time be comparatively safe.

In a few seconds he stood, hot and breathless, on the slender piece of steel. What should he do next?

He looked up. It was more than thirty feet to the roots of the tall grass-stalks that shook their tufted tops along the edge of the quarry. He turned his glance downward. The top of the first stairway was only five yards below. It would be an easy matter to swing himself down to the safety those wooden steps afforded, while to climb to the level of the field meant several minutes of hard and painful work.

Once at the top, however, he was free to go where he pleased; but if he descended and waited for his plight to be discovered, he might have to remain hours in that rocky pit, hatless under the broiling sun.

Sedgwick's resolution was soon taken. He would scale the summit as soon as his arms could carry him there.

The rods supporting the wire rope were ten feet apart, so the next above the one on which he stood was about a yard and a half over his head. There were only two more between that and the top. Reaching as high as he could, the botanist began to "shin" the cable. He threw up his right hand for another grip. His fingers closed over a spot where the rotting canvas had left the wire strands bare.

The metal was burning hot. Worse than that, several needle-pointed wire-ends studded the otherwise smooth surface, and drew the blood wherever they touched the skin. It was like grasping a metallic stinging nettle. If he took light hold he could not lift his weight, while a firm grasp meant cruel laceration of his hands.

Sedgwick set his teeth and contracted his grip. A man can afford to undergo some physical discomfort when he is swinging over a hundred feet of empty air.

Once, twice, three times he renewed his hold, raising himself until he could get one knee over the bar. When he finally stood upon it the insides of his hands and fingers were bleeding copiously from dozens of minute punctures, and the perspiration stood in big drops on his face. His head throbbed painfully in the hot sun. The veins and arteries seemed full to the point of bursting.

Decidedly, this was more than he had bargained for. But the grass-roots were now barely twenty feet above, and he entertained no thought of turning back.

It was now dead noon and fearfully hot. The hard bluish-white wall swam before the botanist's eyes. If only some cloud would check those terrible fiery arrows the sun was shooting at him!

The light tin canister weighed like lead upon his shoulders. His arms ached as if they would drop off, and he was growing weak and dizzy. What if he were to have a sunstroke before he reached the surface!

The dread of it gave him fresh strength, and before this wore away he had lifted himself ten feet higher and stood on another bar. There was but one more; and after that—safety.

The next few moments were agonizing ones for Sedgwick; moments of dead, painful effort that seemed to drain his system to the very dregs of energy and endurance.

The blood from his torn hands ran down his wrists into his sleeves as he climbed, and now and then a drop spattered upon his face. The pitiless sun-rays seemed to be probing his brain, burning out the power of thought and leaving only the consciousness of suffering.

Yet in spite of all he kept rising. First with one hand, then with the other, he grasped the strands above the bar. The eye through which the rope ran was close to his chin; it touched his chest, his thigh. A second later he got his knee upon it and then his foot. His face was just above the level of the ground, and the warm fragrance of the luxuriant grass was strong in his nostrils.

And now, when deliverance seemed so close, came the most terrible five seconds the botanist ever experienced. As he stood on the six-inch rod of steel, his body was turned sidewise so that it leaned against the cliff. He had yet to raise himself five feet before he would be on solid ground. The wire rope could assist him no longer, for its end was fastened round a spike in a drill-hole level with his chest; and he must get a firm hold a yard higher before he could safely pull himself up.

With bleeding hands he explored the soil among the grass-roots, seeking a place suitable for his purpose. If he tried to reach very far from the edge he could not sink his fingers deeply in the earth, while if he took hold too near the brink the turf might pull through and allow him to fall backward.

At last he found a spot that satisfied him, and worked his hands down into the ground, regardless of the pain. Then, mustering all his strength, he raised himself slightly.

His feet had hardly left the bar when his right handhold tore out; his left followed. He slipped back, clutching wildly at the grass-stalks, until his soles touched again the slender rod of steel. There he stood for a moment, rigid with horror, tottering above the abyss.

Everything depended on the turn his body took in balancing. If it swayed inward, all might yet be well; if outward, there was the rugged cliff-side and the pond far below. A grain of energy might turn the scale in either direction, for life or for death.

With senses sharpened by the imminent peril, Sedgwick made a decisive effort. His body swayed in toward the cliff, and the crisis was past!

But there was no time to waste. He felt that the next attempt must be his last. Taught by experience, he dug his hands so deeply into the soil that there was no possibility of losing his hold again.

A minute later he was lying prone in the tall grass a good ten feet from the brink of the quarry. The spray of pink yarrow is in his herbarium now, and he never turns to the page without remembering the danger he underwent in securing that particular specimen.—Youth's Companion.

Lassoed a Booby.

When the gasolene schooner Eclipse was half way across the channel from Kauai Monday night a large booby bird lighted upon the jibboom. Mr. Hartmann, the first mate, crept out with a lassoo and on the second throwing captured the bird. It was dragged down upon the deck without hurting it. At daylight the species of the captive was recognized, and then, with due respect to the awful consequences of killing the albatross described in "The Ancient Mariner," the bird was restored to liberty.

The booby is distinguished from the gooney in being entirely white, excepting the wing tips, which are jet black. This specimen was a fine one, having a wing spread of six feet. It resented the approach of the sailors with vicious snapping of mandibles and squawking like an angry goose. The bird appeared to be tired out when it rested upon the vessel, and the supposition of the Eclipse officers was that it had been blown away from Laysan Island by a westerly gale.—Honolulu Pacific Commercial Advertiser.

A Remarkable Competition.

One of the most extraordinary competitions which have ever taken place was attempted the other week in Baltimore. Six unhappy creatures were placed on a platform, each of them opposite a grand piano, and a prize was given to the performer who played the longest at a stretch. It was not necessary that the six performers should give the same music, so long as they rendered what the program calls "intelligent music" it was considered satisfactory. The winner played fifty hours. He lost four pounds in weight, and had to be attended by several doctors on the conclusion of the performance. The most striking fact is that five members of the audience sat it out.—Baltimore American.

Highest Waterfall in the World.

The highest known waterfall in the world was the Cerocsla Cascade, in the Alps, having a drop of 2400 feet. But one in the San Cuayatan Canyon, in the State of Durango, Mexico, now claims first place. It was discovered by some prospectors ten years ago in the great barranca district, which is called the Tierras Desconocidas. While searching for the famous lost mine Naranjal, a great roar of water was heard. With much difficulty the party pushed on and up and down the mighty chasm until they beheld the superb fall, which is said to be at least 3000 feet high.—London Tit-Bits.

Simple Fashions

New York City.—No material of the many shown makes more satisfactory blouses than white mercerized madras in its varied designs, and no model suits it better than this one with combined tucks and box pleats. The lines of the back are admirable and give the tapering effect always sought, while the fronts are gracefully full and blouse fashionably over the belt. The sleeves are full and ample, but the shoulder straps and box pleats, that meet at the centre, make the really notable features. The model is unlined and is closed invisibly, the buttons serving only as decoration, but the fitted foundation is always advisable for silk and wool fabrics and the waist can be closed by means of buttons and buttonholes cut through the box pleat whenever desired.

BLOUSE WAIST.

The blouse consists of the lining, fronts and back with the sleeves which are gathered into straight cuffs. The shoulder straps are arranged over the seams and are attached at their pointed ends over the sleeves whose fullness they hold in place. At the neck is a regulation stock.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is five yards twenty-one inches wide, four and one-quarter yards twenty-seven inches wide, or two and three-quarter yards forty-four inches wide.

Wedding Gowns.

White satin is no longer inevitable for a bridal gown, but it has been exchanged for even lovelier materials, foamy chiffon, silvered gauze, or softest silk muslin and lace. Veils of the latter have been superseded by tulle, while even that favored flower of many generations, the orange blossom, is noticeable by its absence, myrtle or white heather taking its place. White heather is looked upon as a wonderfully lucky flower, but like the four-leafed shamrock, its scarcity created its good fortune. Now it is said to be cunningly bleached in order that the supply may cover the demand.

For the Slender Girl.

The up-to-date corset for the too slender maiden is a vision to delight the eye. Its dainty fluffiness is enough to make her fat sister envious. The foundation of the stays is built of the sheerest silk batiste and genuine whalebone. Across the bust is a series of very tiny full pleated frills, edged in some cases with real lace. The same scheme is carried out over the hips, only here the frills are veiled rather loosely with plain batiste, so that the skirts may fit with that exquisite smoothness necessary even in this day of very full skirts. The effect of this corset on a thin body is a glorious transformation.

Skirt of Black Broadcloth.

Nothing could be prettier for the blue-eyed, blond-haired lass than a short-skirt of black broadcloth, cut so as to show the graceful lines of the lithe young figure, and a black knitted jacket. The latter was knitted reverse in a baby blue running the length of the blouse front, and the narrow cuffs and rather wide rolling collar are of the same delicate shade.

Shirt Waist, 1830 Style.

The long, drooping shoulders of the 1830 period have indeed taken the world of fashion by storm and are to be seen on the newest shirt waists, as well as on those of a more elaborate sort. This very attractive model is eminently simple and is suited to almost all waistings, but is shown in white linen lawn with banding of cross stitch embroidery in white and pale blue. Beneath the band at the front is a box pleat which can be left plain when preferred.

The waist consists of the yoke, in two portions, fronts, back and box pleat. The yoke is shaped by means of shoulder seams and the full blouse portion and sleeves are joined to the right front and laps over onto the left and the neck is finished with a regulation stock.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is four and one-quarter yards twenty-one inches wide, three and one-half yards twenty-seven inches wide, or two and one-quarter yards forty-four inches wide, with one

A LATE DESIGN BY MAY MANTON.

SHIRT WAIST, 1830 STYLE.

and three-quarter yards of banding two and one-half inches wide to trim as illustrated.

THE OLD GIG.

Beyond the crumbling stable wall
Here in this sunny afternoon,
Where weaving spiders rise and fall
And crickets chirp their contune,
I spy the outlines of a wheel
And thrashing through the fo[r]
maze,
The clinging brambles soon reveal
The quaint old gig of by-gone [d]

Oh, faithful gig of time ago
Your tires totter and careen;
And through your shafts the [gr]
grow;
Like harness are the bramb[les]
But once again you 're off to [t]
Behind old Lucy's saucy h[eels]
And I (in dream) barefooted [b]
Climb up behind your [s]
wheels.

—Victor A. Hermann, in Puck

JUST FOR FU[N]

She—Does your emplo[yer] the clerk funny stories? [I] we don't dare und[er]give [h] Topics.

He—I was thinking of h[av]e fortune told. She—You n[eed] the trouble. As you hav[e] to me, papa will see all about [it] Judge.

'My husband cares only [for] He has no finer sentiments [than] "No?" "Not one. Why, I can [be] hours without getting a [kick] him."—Judge.

"With your daughter as [a] sir, I can conquer the wo[rld] that isn't the question. Can you [ma]enough money to keep your[self] clothes?"—Life.

Phillie—A poor woman was [found] hanging in a back yard this morning Penn—Did she commit suicide? Phillie—No, she was a washerwoman Philadelphia Telegraph.

Tom—I'm glad I'm not the czar's [ne]et. Dick—Why? Tom—Look what a job he has to keep the Japanese cannon balls combed out of the czar's [fur] overcoats.—Cincinnati Tribune.

Elderly Party (who fancies he's young)—Ah, Mildred, you and I must one day lose our youth and beauty. Mildred—Oh, you mustn't be downhearted. You have worn so wonderfully well!—Puck.

Ernie—Papa asked him if he was aware of the serjousness in sitting in dark parlor. Ida—What did he say? Ernie—He said: "You bet! It's leap year and I don't know when that [he] might propose."—Chicago News

"The train I was on this morning," said little Elsie's papa, "struck a [lame] cow and cut her head right off." "My gracious!" exclaimed the little girl. "I suppose the milk poured right out all over the ground."—Philadelphia Press

"What do you think of that actor who undertook to trounce a dramatic critic who had ridiculed him?" "I think," answered the man who never has a good word for anyone, that in all probability they were both right."—Washington Star.

Aren't you sometimes tempted to complain about the ingratitude of the publics?" "Certainly not," answered Senator Sorghum. "I haven't the slightest hesitancy in declaring that this republic has simply paid me for everything I ever did for it."

"I want you to understand," remarked the indignant young broker, "that I am no ignoramus. I went through college, sir, and have the sheepskins to show for it." "So!" said the senior of the firm; "well, I didn't go through college, but I have taken several sheepskins to show since then—fleece and all. See?"—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Queen Sells Butter.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland has gone into the dairy business, and is now making money by selling milk and butter. Her first step in this direction was when she induced her husband, Prince Henry, to buy several cows, which were placed on the royal lands surrounding the castle of Loo. The cows prospered exceedingly, and the Queen was so well pleased with the success of her experiment that she instructed the managers of her estates to make a tour of the stock farms and purchase the best animals that could be obtained in Holland. This they did, and sent the herd to the castle of Loo. A dairy was established in connection with the royal estate, and now butter and milk are sold in large quantities from the Queen's establishment. She herself devotes considerable time to directing and inspecting the work of the dairy, and it has become her most absorbing hobby. She determined that the dairy should not only be self-supporting but profitable, and she is now realizing a neat little sum for pin money from it every month.

Bells and Thunderstorms.

An instance of the absurdity of some of the notions held by our ancestors was the notion that the ringing of the church bells had a counteracting effect in a thunderstorm. It was supposed that the vibration of the air caused by the movement of the bells resulted in the dissipation of the electric fluid in the air. The belief was so common at one time that the bells were rung as soon as signs of an approaching thunderstorm were seen. Science now holds a contrary opinion. Not only does the sound have no possible effect on the air, but the vibration caused by the sound of a bell on a cloud charged with electricity may cause it to discharge its contents upon the ringer of the bell in the church tower.

THINGS MADE BY ARTISTS.

The Beautiful Specimens of Thirteenth Century Work.

The pictures given are of things made by artists of the anvil during this thirteenth century. Back of the strong and broad chest these true artists and craftsmen had a [mo]tion that was strong both physically and artistically. This [com]bination in handiwork resulted from a [true] mind, elevation of [purpose] strength' and definite[ness] of [pur]pose. These are typical examples of delicate in conception and [effec]tive in execution and stamp their makers as artists. It was this spirit applied to all production which made the thirteenth century second only to the century which produced Phidias. It was this spirit which gave priceless value to the [in]significant of metal, wood, stone or [leather]. It is such a spirit that would give these same raw materials commercial value to-day. Beauty, or art, is the world's most priceless possession both spiritually and commercially.

KIWI IS A QUEER BIRD.

Remarkable Biped Found Only in New Zealand.

In New Zealand is found the most a strange bird of the ostrich family. Ostriches have two toes, but the extinct moas had three toes; so also have the existing emus, cassowaries and rheas or South American ostriches. The kiwi, however, differs from the other struthious birds in having four toes. Further, the kiwi cannot be said to be quite ostrichlike, for in size it is not larger than an ordinary barnyard fowl. It has a small head, with a large and muscular bill, and a long, slender bill, with the nostrils distinguishing feature that the nostrils are placed very close to its tip. The legs are short, but the muscles of the thighs are well developed and the feet are strong and powerful and provided with sharp claws. The kiwi is a bird devoid of any external trace of wings, and there is no trace of tail visible, while it is covered with long, hairlike feathers, and on the head part of the head and sides of the face are straggling hairlike feelers.

CURIOSITY OF HER SEX.

She Chatted with Paderewski Without Asking Stereotyped Question.

Paderewski stood festooned [against] the back of a carved oak chair at [the] evening reception [given] with the purring [effect] of much femininity [and] around him. One [of the] insignificant [fair] woman, after alienating all her friends by snatching a three-minute talk with him, prepared to move away.

"I beg that you will stay, madam," said Paderewski, with the melancholy of Poland's snows and his own personal ennui patent in his voice. "You are the only lady in the room to-night who has not asked me how I feel when I play."—New York Times.

Ancient Highland Custom.

In connection with the burial short time ago of the late Canon [Mac]Coll, Fort Williams, a curious Highland custom was observed. When the interment was completed, the [spade] on which the body had been carried was broken in pieces, so that it could never be used again. The fragments were scattered in all directions never again to be brought together. The custom is akin to that which used to be observed when the bier of the young heir was drunk [from] glass being broken as soon as his health was pledged.

New Rare Stamp Found.

The Paris postal authorities, in looking over a mass of old stamps the other day, discovered some curious specimens of Napoleon III., [dated] 1867.

It is well known that the emperor wore only a mustache and imperial, but by some error these stamps represented him with a full beard, which gave him a worn and aged appearance.

They were never put into circulation, but already eager collectors are trying to get hold of them.—Sketch.

Cats Growing on a Sheep.

Country parsons are often naturalists and close observers. The Rev. W. H. Jenoure, rector of Barwick-in-Elmet, England, describes a novel sight which may be seen in his parish. A farmer has been feeding his sheep with oats, and some of the grain fell upon the back of one of the animals. It has taken root in the wool and sprouted, and the young shoots may be seen growing on its back.

THE OLD GIG.

Beyond the crumbling stable wall
Here in this sunny afternoon,
Where weaving spiders rise and fall
And crickets chirp their ceaseless tune,
I spy the outlines of a wheel
And thrashing through the following
maze,
The clinging brambles soon reveal—
The quaint old gig of by-gone days.

Oh, faithful gig of time ago
Your tires totter and careen;
And through your shafts the grass
grow;
Like harness are the brambles green.
But once again you're off to town
Behind old Lucy's saucy heels,
And I (in dream) barefooted brown Climb up behind your creaking
wheels.

—Walter A. Hermann, in Puck.

JUST FOR FUN

Ask your employer ever tell you a funny story? He—No, but we don't dare ask him.—Town Topics.

He: I was thinking of having my picture taken. She: You needn't go to the trouble. As you have proposed to me, that will see all about that.

Many men go only for money, while a few go for sentiments whatever. Not one. Why, I can cry for a dollar getting a cent out of him.—Life.

Hilda: A poor woman was found hanging in a back yard this morning. Penn: Did she commit suicide? Phillies—No; she was a washerwoman.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Tom—I'm glad I'm not the czar's valet. Dick—Why? Tom—Look what a job he has to keep the Japanese cannon balls combed out of the czar's fur overcoats.—Cincinnati Tribune.

Elderly Party (who fancies herself young)—Ah, Mildred, you and I must one day lose our youth and beauty. Mildred—Oh, you mustn't be downhearted. You have worn so wonderfully well!—Puck.

Ernie: Papa asked him if he was aware of the seriousness in sitting in a dark parlor. Ida—What did he say? Ernie: He said: "You bet! It's leap year and I don't know when that girl might propose."—Chicago News.

"The train I was on this morning," said little Elsie's papa, "struck a poor cow and cut her head right off." "My gracious!" exclaimed the little girl, "I suppose the milk poured right out all over the ground."—Philadelphia Press.

"What do you think of that actor who undertook to trounce a dramatic critic who had ridiculed him?" "I think," answered the man who never has a good word for anyone, that in all probability they were both right."—Washington Star.

Aren't you sometimes tempted to complain about the ingratitude of republics?" "Certainly not," answered Senator Sorghum. "I haven't the slightest hesitancy in declaring that this republic has simply paid me for everything I ever did for it."

"I want you to understand," remarked the indignant young broker, "that I am no ignoramus. I went through college, sir, and have my sheepskins to show for it." "So?" said the senior of the firm; "well, I didn't go through college, but I have taken several sheepskins to show since then—fleece and all. See?"—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Queen Sells Butter.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland has gone into the dairy business, and is now making money by selling milk and butter. Her first step in this direction was when she induced her husband, Prince Henry, to buy several cows, which were placed on the rich lands surrounding the castle of Loo. The cows prospered exceedingly, and the Queen was so well pleased with the success of her experiment that she instructed the managers of her estates to make a tour of the stock farms and purchase the best animals that could be obtained in Holland. This they did and sent the herd to the castle at once. A dairy was established in connection with the royal estate, and now butter and milk are sold in large quantities from the Queen's establishment. She herself devotes considerable time to directing and inspecting the work of the dairy, and it has become her most absorbing hobby. She determined that the dairy should soon be self supporting but profitable, and she is now realizing a neat little sum for pin money from it every month.

Bells and Thunderstorms.

An instance of the absurdity of some of the notions held by our ancestors was the notion that the ringing of the church bells had a counteracting effect in a thunderstorm. It was supposed that the vibration of the air caused by the movement of the bells resulted in the dissipation of the electric fluid in the air. The bells were so common at one time that all bells were rung as soon as signs of an approaching thunderstorm were seen. Science now holds a contrary opinion. Not only does the sound have no positive effect on the air, but the vibration caused by the sound of a bell ought to cause it to discharge its contents on the ringer of the bell in the church tower.

HINGES MADE BY ARTISTS.

Beautiful Specimens of Thirteenth Century Work.

The pictures given are of hinges made by artists of the anvil during the thirteenth century. Back of the strong and broad chest these trained artists and craftsmen had a heart portion that was strong both physically and artistically. This beautiful metal framework resulted from a training of mind, elevation of impulse and strength and deftness of muscle. These are typical examples. They are delicate in conception and sensitive in execution and stamp their makers as artists. It was this spirit applied to all production which made the thirteenth century second only to the century which produced the Parthenon. It was this spirit which gave priceless value to the insignificant bits of metal, wood, stone or leather. It is such a spirit that would give to these same raw materials commercial value today. Beauty, or art, is the world's most priceless possession, both spiritually and commercially.

KIWI IS A QUEER BIRD.

Remarkable Biped Found Only in New Zealand.

In New Zealand is found the kiwi, a strange bird of the ostrich family. Ostriches have two toes, but the extinct moas had three toes; so also have the existing emus, cassowaries and rheas or South American ostriches. The kiwi, however, differs from the other struthious birds in having four toes. Further, the kiwi cannot be said to be quite ostrichlike, for in size it is not larger than an ordinary barnyard fowl. It has a small head, with a large and muscular neck and a long, slender bill, with the distinguishing feature that the nostrils are placed very close to its tip. The legs are short, but the muscles on the thighs are well developed and the feet are strong and powerful and provided with sharp claws. The kiwi is a bird devoid of any external trace of wings, and there is no trace of tail visible, while it is covered with long, narrow, hairlike feathers, and on the fore part of the head and sides of the face are straggling hairlike feelers.

CURIOSITY OF HER SEX.

She Chatted with Paderewski Without Asking Stereotyped Question.

Paderewski stood festooned over the back of a carved oak chair at an evening reception with the purring of much femininity around him. One insignificant woman, after alienating all her friends by snatching a three-minute talk with him, prepared to move away.

"I beg that you will stay, madam," said Paderewski, with the melancholy of Poland's snows and his own personal ennui patent in his voice. "You are the only lady in the room to-night who has not asked me how I feel when I play."—New York Times.

Ancient Highland Custom.

In connection with the burial a short time ago of the late Canon McColl, Fort Williams, a curious old Highland custom was observed. When the interment was completed, the bier on which the body had been carried was broken in pieces, so that it might never be used again. The fragments were scattered in all directions, never again to be brought together. The custom is akin to that which used to be observed when the health of the young heir was drunk, the glass being broken as soon as the health was pledged.

New Rare Stamp Found.

The Paris postal authorities, in looking over a mass of old stamps the other day, discovered some curious specimens of Napoleon III., dated 1870. It is well known that the emperor wore a mustache and imperial. Some error these stamps represent him with a full beard, which gives him a worn and aged appearance. They were never put into circulation, but already eager collectors are trying to get hold of them.—Sketch.

Cats Growing on a Sheep.

Country parsons are often naturalists and close observers. The Rev. W. Lemoure, rector of Barwick, Yeovil, England, describes a novel sight which may be seen in his parish. A farmer has been feeding his sheep on a field some of the grain fell on the back of one of the animals. It has taken root in the wool and sprouted, and the young shoots may be seen growing on its back.

TRIBE OF MASKED AFRICANS.

Traveler Describes Curious People of North Africa.

The masked Tawareks, a North African tribe, have long been an object of curiosity and interest to scholars and travelers, but in spite of the researches into their origin and language, many problems remain to be solved. Mr. Harding King recently spent a good deal of time among them, journeying about 600 miles into their country. One thing is certain about the race, which is that they have made their name a terror among the peoples who live on the borders of their country. They never come near civilized people if they can help it, and only approach caravans belonging to other tribes in order to plunder them and kill their owners. They have one feature which distinguishes them from their neighbors, the men keep their faces covered with a mask and hide their features by these means even from the members of their own family. Mr. King found that these people were filthy dirty, for no true Tawarek ever washes. Such ablutions as are necessary for religious purposes are performed with sand or stone; occasionally, with the view of improving his appearance, he rubs himself with indigo. His hosts all had thick, purring voices, a shifty manner, and large, lustrous, furtive eyes.

OBEYED DOCTOR TOO WELL.

New Yorker Took Queer Measures to Get Rid of Fat.

"It is astonishing how stupid some men are," said Col. 'Abe' Gruber to a party of friends.

"My doctor told me to-day of a very stout patient who came to him for advice about reducing his weight. The doctor drew up a careful dietary, consisting of dry toast, boiled beef, etc.

"At the end of a month the patient called and was so fat he could scarcely walk. The physician was amazed, and asked the man what he had been eating.

"'Just what you prescribed, doctor.'

"'Anything else?' demanded the physician.

"'Why, of course; I ate my regular meals, too. You didn't tell me to omit them.'"—New York Times.

TREE IS WELL NAMED.

Product of Ceylon Deserves Its Sobriquet "Umbrella."

The umbrella tree is found in Ceylon in greater profusion than anywhere else in the world. As a matter of scientific fact, these trees grow to their greatest height and attain to their greatest size in very wet, rainy countries. This growth is due to the fact that the tree requires a great deal of moisture, and not because it is needed to keep off the rain. A remarkably fine specimen of the umbrella tree is shown herewith. As a matter of fact, this tree forms so complete an umbrella that a number of people might take shelter under its spreading branches from the rain. The foliage is, besides, as a rule, so thick that the umbrella tree serves to keep off the rain almost perfectly even in a heavy shower.—New York Herald.

WAYS THAT ARE STRANGE.

Queer Matrimonial Customs Among Eastern Peoples.

It is a queer custom—described in "The Living Race of Mankind"—that the Australian Dobos have of keeping the unmarried women in cages at the top of trees—a custom that makes the ladies eager for matrimony, no matter how unpleasant the husband.

The Samatran Dyas have pleasant social customs. When a young man calls on his girl he climbs in through the roof and the rest of the family pretend not to see him, although they are only sitting behind a little bamboo screen. If she does not care for him she raises a sort of a circular bamboo corset, which hides her head, and then there is nothing for him to do but decamp.

Priceless Writing.

ΚΑΙ ΤΟΤΕ ΔΙΑΒΛΕΨΕΙΣ
ΕΚΒΑΛΕΙΝ ΤΟ ΚΑΡΦΟΣ
ΤΟ ΕΝ ΤΩ ΟΦΘΑΛΜΩ 7
ΤΟΥ ΑΔΕΛΦΟΥ ΣΟΥ ΛΕΓΕΙ
ϛ ΙΣ ΕΑΝ ΜΗ ΝΗΣΤΕΥΣΗ
ΤΑΙ ΤΟΝ ΚΟΣΜΟΝ ΟΥ ΜΗ
ΕΥΡΗΤΑΙ ΤΗΝ ΒΑΣΙΛΕΙ
ΑΝ ΤΟΥ ΘΥ ΚΑΙ ΕΑΝ ΜΗ
ΣΑΒΒΑΤΙΣΗΤΕ ΤΟ ΣΑΒ 7
ΣΟ ΒΑΤΟΝ ΟΥΚ ΟΥΕΣΘΕ ΤΟ

Fac-simile of the text of the newly discovered "sayings of Jesus."

A Relic of Martha Washington.

Only a saucer remains of the porcelain set presented in 1783 to Martha Washington. This is carefully preserved in the Smithsonian institution at Washington. In the center appears the monogram of "M. and W.," for Martha and Washington, and about the edge is the name of every state which was then in the Union.

Eastern Town Has a Boom.

A heap of excitement is reported from Burrville, a hamlet in the town of Torrington, Conn. The first new house that has been erected there in thirty-eight years is about to be built.

USE COSTLY PRAYER BOOKS.

Society Is No Longer Content With Plain Covers.

If one of the fishermen who early accepted the Christian faith and became one of the twelve Apostles could come back to earth he would never guess that the elaborate prayer books so often seen nowadays were the manual of his lowly Master's teachings.

Possibly the fad for using such costly prayer books became prevalent because of the expensive ones which were made for brides to carry in place of the conventional bouquet. At any rate, the plain leather book is out of date and seldom seen. Those of chased or etched silver or carved ivory are the quiet ones for elderly ladies. Others are much more gorgeous. The covers are of curiously wrought gold, set with precious or semi-precious stones. One of the favorite designs shows the Annunciation, with the halo of the angel made of small diamonds and with lilies on the stalks of which are pearls.

Your dress may be as soft and quiet in tone as a "dim religious light," but fashion decrees that the one spot of grandeur and gorgeousness, the high note of your church costume, should be the cover of your prayer book.

CHILD ACTORS OF JAPAN.

Intelligent Little Ones Who Work Hard to Amuse.

At one of the principal theaters of Tokio the plays are played entirely by children who are all, we are sure, perfectly well-fitted for their arduous roles. All these little people are between the ages of eight and thirteen, and they go through their parts, often of the most tragic character, with an intelligence and precision which is quite marvelous. A great deal of the public dancing is done by children also, who, at a very tender age, are compelled to go through a most severe training, including the performances of gymnastics, for acquiring suppleness and agility, whilst their little fingers have to be artificially hardened to enable them to play the tambourine. They are allowed but little sleep, and have early to get accustomed to extremes of temperature. Indeed, the lot of the Japanese child actor is not altogether an enviable one, it is to be feared.

NEW YORK'S FIRST SCHOOL.

Looks Primitive Beside Present Day Palatial Structures.

At the junction of Tryon row and Chambers street, a locality long ago swept away by the changing conformation of the city, there used to stand a little two-story building with a gable roof fronting on the row. It was the first public schoolhouse New York ever had and from it have developed the magnificent structures in which seven-eighths of young New Yorkers are now educated.

A picture of the old building is here presented. In February next New York's public school system will celebrate its one hundredth birthday, and there is to be a great time over the fact.—New York Sun.

Thick Skinned Animals.

The whale may claim to have a skin thicker than any other animal. It has a skin nowhere less than several inches in thickness. The distinction of being the thickest skinned quadruped belongs to the Indian rhinoceros, whose hide has a knotty or granulated surface, and is so impenetrable as to resist the claws of the lion or tiger, and the sword or bullet from old-fashioned smooth-bore muskets. So stiff and hard is this skin that were it not divided by creases or folds the animal imprisoned in its armor could scarcely move. The skin of the hippopotamus runs that of the rhinoceros very closely as regards thickness.

Carried on Locomotive Guard.

An extraordinary story comes from Northamptonshire. While working on the Midland railway, near Irchester station, a short time ago, Ernest Bellamy, of Kempston, was knocked down by a train. In falling he clutched at the lifeguard in front of the engine, clung desperately to it, and was carried about a quarter of a mile before his screams attracted the attention of the driver, who stopped the train. On being released from his perilous position Bellamy collapsed through fright and was removed to a hospital, where he speedily recovered from the shock.

Ox Has Wonderful Escape.

An ox owned by Alonzo Holmes strayed onto the railroad track in front of a train near Citypoint, Me. The animal was thrown more than fifteen feet away from the engine, but strange to relate, escaped with two broken ribs, and a general shaking up.

Relic Given Firemen.

Mrs. Roswell Atkins, widow of the former judge of probate at Bristol, Conn., has given the members of hose company No. 1 the hat that Judge Atkins wore when he was foreman of the company half a century ago.

CAT ALMOST KILLED CHILD.

Rescuers Forced to Risk Life to Save Him.

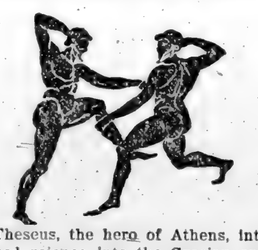
Only by risking the life of little John Hynes by firing repeatedly close to him could men kill a cat that was tearing wildly at the boy's face at Springfield, N. J., the other day. Four times the men shot the cat and still it clawed and bit the boy in a mad frenzy. Only when the fifth bullet lodged in its body did it fall dead beside the injured lad. The men were in a blacksmith shop when they heard the boy's screams in a field nearby. They rushed to him but were unable to grab the cat and had to shoot almost at the boy in order to kill the mad animal. A doctor treated the boy, who was terribly scratched and lacerated. The lad had been playing in the field at the rear of the shop when the cat, with a snarl, jumped upon him.

MADE WELL BY FREEZING.

Swiss Gentleman Cured Himself of Long-Standing Dyspepsia.

Scientific investigation has discovered that that troublesome disease, dyspepsia, can be cured by short intervals of exposure to intense cold, followed by hearty eating. M. Raoul Pictet, a Swiss gentleman, was experimenting with a very low temperature. He had produced an artificial temperature in a sort of pit which caused the thermometer to sink to 140 or 150 degrees below zero. Among other experiments he exposed himself for a brief interval to this temperature by lowering himself into the pit. On emerging he found himself intensely hungry and ate freely. The process was repeated several times, and as a result he found himself cured of chronic indigestion, from which he had suffered for years.

Combined Boxing and Wrestling.



Theseus, the hero of Athens, introduced science into the Grecian sport and combined boxing and wrestling into one.

ROSE CHANGES IN COLOR.

People of the Orient Have Produced Floral Marvel.

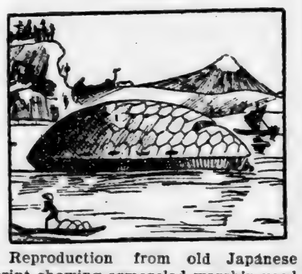
The Chinese, Japanese and Siamese are peculiarly skilful at botanical feats. One of their wonderful achievements is known as the "changeable rose." This bloom is white in the shade and red in the sunlight. After night or in a dark room this curiosity of the rose family is a pure, waxy-white blossom. When transferred to the open air, the transformation immediately steps in, the time of the entire change of the flower from white to red depending on the degree of sunlight and warmth. First the petals take on a kind of washed or faded blue color, and rapidly change to a faint blush of pink. The pink gradually deepens in hue until you find that your lily-white rose of an hour before is as red as the reddest peony that ever bloomed.

WIDOW GETS LUCKY FARTHING.

Enterprising Woman Turns Small Award to Good Account.

The farthing, which the English judges have been making use of frequently of late in awarding damages to litigants, has proved in one case a useful coin. A West Bromwich widow recently obtained a farthing in a brech of promise action she had brought against a faithless lover. She put it in the windows of her tobacco shop with a printed warning to trusting women to beware of mizpah rings and inviting men to come and buy breach of promise cigars and widow's mite cigars. The result was such a big business that the police had to stand by to keep the pavement clear, while nineteen men, mostly widowers, came and offered themselves in marriage.

Armorclad.



Reproduction from old Japanese print showing armorclad warship used by the Japanese in the seventeenth century.

Ducks Show Intelligence.

Some ducks in Rhode Island finding themselves prevented by the ice from enjoying a swim in their favorite pond, rose en masse in the air and came down plump in the middle of the pond, breaking the ice by the force of their united impact, and securing for themselves open water in which to disport.

Mandolin an Ancient Instrument.

The mandolin was an old instrument a couple of centuries ago, having then, after a long series of evolutions, reached its present shape at Naples, which city has always claimed the honor of its origin.

HOBBY HORSE THAT TRAVELS.

Toy Provides New Amusement for Lucky Youngsters.

There has been invented a hobby horse for the use of the enfant terrible, that not only gives the youthful rider a rocking motion, but propels itself with him across the floor. This propulsion is secured through the means of connecting rods between the hind legs of the horse and a crank on the rear axle of the machine, as shown in the cut.

The Motor Horse.

FOOTBALL FOR A HUSBAND.

Matrons and Spinsters Engage in Battle on the Gridiron.

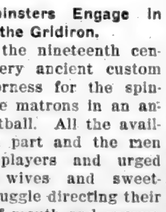
Until early in the nineteenth century it was a very ancient custom practiced at Inverness for the spinsters to meet the matrons in an annual game of football. All the available women took part and the men surrounded the players and urged on their sisters, wives and sweethearts in their struggle directing their efforts by word of mouth and encouraging the exhausted to struggle on and secure the much coveted prize.

The honors of these unusual combats, strange to say, rested more often with the married than the single, for the men selected their wives from those who showed most prowess and endurance on the football field. Hence all the better players were mated and frequently more than a match for the less tough and skilful maidens, though the latter fought like the knights of old for the lady of their choice and to the death. A strange reversal of positions, which doubtless had its compensating advantages when domestic differences arose between a tyrannical husband and his former footballing consort.

STOOD KING ON HIS HEAD.

Remarkable Postage Stamp Will Be Sought by Collectors.

The accompanying picture shows a peculiar Transvaal postage stamp. It is of especial value to collectors, for the reason that it is the first on which King Edward's portrait ever appeared upside down. A sheet of stamps like this was about to be sold at the postoffice in Johannesburg when the error was detected, and it is believed that only two got into circulation.



Queer Old English Barn.

The Tithe Barn, which for generations has stood in Boroughbury, Peterborough, England, has now been acquired by antiquary and is to be re-erected in London. The structure is believed to be 650 years old, and was built to accommodate the tenth part of the produce of the land, which was set apart for the maintenance of the monastery. The interior was divided into arcades, the roof being supported by massive beams of chestnut, which are supposed to have been cut from a neighboring forest. The most singular thing in connection with the whole of the timber work was the entire absence of iron nails. The side supports had been cut out of a solid piece of wood.

Effective Korean Signals.

The Korean war office has a simple and effective way of signaling by means of bonfires. Every night four huge beacon fires are lighted on the summit of a huge hill near Seoul known as the Cock's Comb. This signifies throughout Korea "all's well." An extra fire signifies that an enemy been signaled off some part of the coast. Two extra lights mean that the enemy has landed, three give the information that the enemy are moving inland, and four give the dread news that they are pushing on toward the capital.

Wanted the "Cookies."

A little 3-year-old miss from Somerville, Mass., while en route from Union to Appleton, in Maine, passed a cooper's shop, so common in Knox county, beside which was an immense pile of heading employed in the making of lime casks. The little one was evidently hungry, for as she espied the heading she cried: "Oh, mamma, I like those cookies!"

Eastern Potentate Sends Dolls.

The sultan of Anjouan, in the Comoro islands, has just sent a selection of elegantly dressed dolls to a European museum of toys. They have no heads, the representation of the human face being forbidden by the Mussulman religion.

CAUGHT FISH WORTH $300.

Fifth Known Specimen of Sailfish Taken Off Florida Coast.

The luckiest Cincinnati fisherman this year is Mr. Edward Hart, who last week caught a large "sailfish," a few miles at sea, off Miami, Fla.

This fish is one of the rarest known to science. Previous to the one caught by Mr. Hart there have been but four others captured; three of them are in European museums and one at the Smithsonian institution.

The one caught by the Cincinnatian weighs seventy-five pounds and is a perfect specimen of his kind.

These sailfish are peculiarly constructed. On their backs is a sort of a pocket from which they can put up a fibrous oval fin, which forms a sail for the fish when moving at the surface of the ocean. When the wind is blowing strong these fish can travel at a rapid rate when their sail is set.

On the under part of the fish is a strong fin, which they can draw entirely into the body as they sail.

The long sword protruding from the fish's head makes of this tribe a formidable enemy to the other fishes. They are found only along the Florida coast.

A few days after Mr. Hart caught his specimen, he saw two or three others sailing on top of the water and going at a rapid rate.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

ROYAL PLAYERS OF GOLF.

Game Long a Favorite One With English Rulers.

Members of the English royal family of long ago could put up a game of golf that would have called forth praise on the links. Henry, son of James I., was a noted golfer, even as a boy, and of him the following story is told: "At playing golf, whilst his schoolmaster stood talking with another, and marked not his highness warning him to stand farther off, the prince, thinking he had gone aside, lifted up his golf club to strike the ball. Meantime one standing by said to him: "Beware that you hit not Master Newton;" wherewith he, drawing back his hand, said: "Had I done so, I had but paid my debts."

Charles I Playing Golf, From the Old Print.

A MIRACLE TO ORDER.

Incident Turned Theatrical Tragedy Into Comedy.

In the days of his youth M. Coquelin was ambitious, and the parts he loved best to play were those in which he died in full view of an appreciative audience, for his art. He had one of these roles one evening at the Boulogne theater, and played it splendidly, getting a ringing round of applause as he fell dead upon the stage. Then his troubles started.

The audience's applause woke up a mosquito, which applied itself to M. Coquelin with so much assiduity that the corpse felt it must either scream or scratch. Another actor, who played a general in the corps of which the dead M. Coquelin was a young ensign, was standing near the body, and had to say: "See, then, how sad a thing is war! But now this youth was living. Now he is dead—motionless for all time! Nothing, save a miracle, can give him life again."

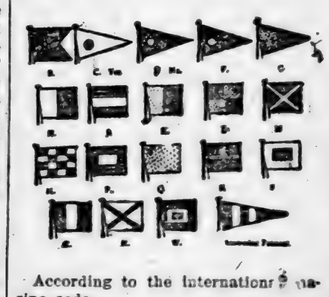
But M. Coquelin could hold out no longer. The mosquito was still biting busily, and Coquelin had to sit up and slap his leg. "The miracle has happened," cried the general, while the audience laughed until it cried at this too lively corpse.

Not Enough "Microbin'."

After all, the men do not have all the best things in life. A few nights ago a young woman in the retiring room of a city theater was asked if she thought the play on view would attract large audiences. She replied in the negative. Whereupon the sable attendant, evidently impressed with the absence of the love interest, volunteered this information:

"Dah! Dat's jes' what Ah said. De trouble wid dis piece is dat dey ain't nuff microbin' in it."

Signals at Sea.



According to the international marine code.

Found Highwayman's Hoard.

What appears to be a genuine highwayman's hoard has lately been found by two farm workers near Bonvilston, Glamorganshire. The coins were unearthed during the banking of a hedge. They are in excellent preservation and include four gold coins about the size of a four-shilling piece, eight guineas, a half guinea, forty-two "sovereigns," twenty-seven shillings, three sixpences, three other large coins and several half-crowns. They are of the reigns of James II., William and Mary, and Queen Anne.

THE UNION.

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf

SPECIAL OFFER.

The Yellow Jacket, published bi-weekly at Moravian Falls, N. C., is an extremely bright, readable paper. We will send the UNION and YELLOW JACKET for one year for $1 in advance. This is a combination that ought to get every good man in Chilton county on our list, and is only open for a short time. tf

At the meeting of the populist executive committee of Chilton county on March 15, 1904, the following resolution was adopted by the committee:

"Be it resolved, That we, the people's party executive committee of Chilton county, do hereby indorse the UNION, a paper published in Clanton, Ala., as our official organ tf

OUR CLUBBING LIST.

The Union and Yellow Jacket, both for one year $1.00
The Union and Weekly Montgomery Advertiser 1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution 1.50
tf

Several hundred subscribers will get this paper with a big red cross on it. It means that you owe us a dollar and we owe it to some other fellows. Some small fellow will make a big kick about this red cross and will stop his paper, and some clever fellows will come in and pay up like a white man always does, and tell us they had just forgotten all about it. tf

DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?

IMPORTANT

THE PEOPLE'S PRIMARY WILL BE HELD ON TUESDAY, JULY 26th, 1904.

THE DEMOCRATIC RALLY.

The democrats had a big day Saturday (for them), and a number of attractions, such as a "rally," "a brass band," "badges," "Congressman Bowie," "a convention" and last, but not least, "a barbecue." It looked like they owned Clanton and we verily believe that some of them thought they owned the county. A stranger within our gates, judging from the "badges" he could see on so many persons, would likely think that the democrats had a show in Chilton, but as some of our people put it in excuse for wearing the things, "Well, they wanted us to wear them so blamed bad, and as we're going to eat their meat, we thought we'd give 'em one happy day, but we just can't vote for them in November, and if any of them think we will, they sure are badly fooled." The court house was filled to hear Hon. S. J. Bowie speak, the seats being almost entirely occupied by women and children, while the males filled all the spaces clear to the doors; you see the leaders had given out that they would go in procession to the barbecue from the court house, and a great many people thought they would have to start with the procession to get a chance at the eatables. Mr. Bowie is a good speaker and made the best possible showing for the subject he had, but "ancient history" does not interest up-to-date Americans, who are looking out for the present, or as "Culpepper" in the Advertiser puts it are looking after "Betty and the baby," and know how much better the two look and feel when they have plenty to eat instead of living on democratic soup. By the way, the convention nominated E. B. Deason to fill the vacant space at the head of the county ticket caused by Adams' retreat. We hear that Mr. Deason had no opposition for the honor?

Moving pictures are now in use as a cure for insanity

REGISTER.

Don't forget to post yourself as to the date the registrars will visit your beat. They only make one visit this year, so if you don't catch them in your beat you'll have to go to Clanton to get on the register.

FIRST TWO BALES OF COTTON.

San Antonio, Tex., June 11.—The first two bales of the new cotton crop today were consigned to a Galveston cotton firm. The cotton was raised in Cameron county, the district being known as the heart of the lower Rio Grande.

POPULIST COMMITTEE CALLED.

State Senator J. A. Hurst, who is chairman of the Etowah county populist executive committee, has called a meeting of his committee to be held in Gadsden on the 18th, at which time action will be taken in reference to putting out a county ticket in opposition to the democrats. The populists claim to believe that they have a good show to win in this county in November.

FRIDAY, JULY 17TH.

Is the day to come to Clanton and meet with the people's committee and the candidates. Chairman Shaw has invited every one who is in favor of "government of the people, for the people and by the people" to come to Clanton on Friday. There will be a band of music, etc., on hand. Come one, come all.

SPLIT IN MARION.

Special to the Birmingham News.

Hamilton, Ala., June 14.—A political dispute which has held sway among the democrats of Marion county since the late primary for county officers held April 11th came to an issue on last Saturday, when a number of them met at the court house and named John W. Holloway, the present county treasurer, as an independent democratic candidate for probate judge against Mack Pearce, the winner in the primary. Mr. Holloway was the next man to Mr. Pearce, who won over him by something like 100.

The democrats polled about 1,100 votes in the primary. Of these Mr. Pearce received something over 400. Mr. Holloway was his leading opponent, receiving over 300 votes. The republicans number about 600 votes, but they will have no candidates for county offices, and will divide, supporting either Pearce or Holloway the race between Mr. Pearce and Mr. Holloway promises to be exceedingly warm and perhaps very personal.

NOTICE!

Registrars' Appointments.

Whereas, By virtue of the provisions of section 6 of "An act to further regulate elections in the state of Alabama," approved October 9, 1903, "the board of registrars in each county shall visit each precinct at least once, and oftener if necessary, between July 1st and October 1st, 1904," to make a complete registration of all persons entitled to register, and shall remain there at least one day, from 8 o'clock in the morning until sunset, and they shall give at least twenty days' notice of the time when and the place in the precinct where they will attend to register applicants for registration, by bills posted at three or more public places in each election precinct and by advertisement once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper, if there be one published in the county. Now, therefore, this is to give notice, as required by said law, that the board of registrars for the county of Chilton will sit at the following places at the time specified for the purpose as aforesaid:

Flint Hill, beat 11, July 11th and 12th.
Mineral Springs, beat 1, July 13th and 14th.
Thorsby, beat 9, July 15th and 16th
Jemison, beat 2, July 18th and 19th.
Providence, beat 2, July 20th and 21st.
Macedonia, beat 3, July 22d and 23d
Benson, beat 3, July 25th and 26th.
Maplesville, beat 7, July 27th and 28th.
Shoults, beat 7, July 29th and 30th
Stanton, beat 8, August 1st and 2d.
Riderville, beat 8, August 3d.
Pletchers, beat 8, August 4th
Kincheon, beat 6, August 5th and 6th.
Verbena, beat 5, August 15th and 16th.
Coopers, beat 10, August 17th and 18th.
Clanton, beat 4, August 19th and 20th.

CLANTON, one week, August 8th to 13th, inclusive, for the purpose of purging the registration list.

CLANTON, one week, August 22d to 27th, inclusive, for the purpose of considering the case of each elector whose name it is proposed to strike from the registration list and determine same.

BOARD OF REGISTRATION FOR CHILTON COUNTY,
R. H. GAINES, Chairman.
tf

PHILADELPHIA UNDERWRITERS,
Composed of Insurance Company of North America and the Fire Association of Philadelphia, Pa.
Cash capital .. ..$ 3,500,000.00
Total assets Jan. 1, 1904. 17,636,517.61
Surplus as to policy holders 6,874,213.35
WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

OUR TAX OFFICERS.

The county commissioners sat as a court of errors and insolvencies last week and went over the tax assessor's and collector's books, and report them all right. The assessor's accounts being greatly improved over the year previous. Mr. Hubbard's accounts with the state were settled last Saturday. He was number 5 on the list, which shows that there are sixty-two tax collectors in the state that are behind him in making a final settlement. This is a great record.

ALABAMA POPULIST CONVENTION

In accordance with a resolution adopted by the last populist state convention, authorizing any three members of the state executive committee to call a state convention when the chairman had failed or refused to do so, we the undersigned members of the state executive committee hereby call a mass convention to meet in Birmingham, Ala., on June 23, 1904, for the purpose of electing fifty-two delegates to the people's party national convention, which meets in Springfield, Ill., on July 4th, 1904, the nomination of an electoral ticket and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention.

All who will support the people's party national ticket, regardless of past political affiliations, are invited to participate. Every old populist in the state is urged to come.

W. L. MIMS, 1st District.
E. A. PHILLIPS, 5th District.
C. H. COOPER, 8th District.
J. P. PEARSON, 4th District.

LONESOME VALLEY.

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say just a few words to the voters of Chilton county. I am personally acquainted with most of the candidates and they are all nice men as far as I know and would discharge their duty with credit to themselves and the county. I'd like to make a few remarks in favor of John W. G. Kicker. I've been acquainted with him for a number of years and have found him to be a man of a high moral and religious character and that enjoys the full confidence of his neighbors, and is well qualified to fill any office in the county. So, if you want a crackerjack for tax collector, cast your vote for John W. G. Kicker. We only regret that he is not out for a higher office. He has always voted with the people's party and we hope to see all the voters turn out on the 26th of July and join in the race.

A SUBSCRIBER.

(Communicated.)

Stanton, Ala., June 12, 1904.

To the Voters in the People's Primary:

I would like to say a few words in behalf of my old friend, J. J. Letcher. Mr. Letcher is an old soldier, who carries the sign of the early sixties in his hand and arm. He is a gentleman worthy of any trust the people may confer on him. He is a member of the Baptist church and also a Mason, and is always on all important committees when the church or Masonic lodge have important business to attend to. He was one of the first alliance men and has been with the people's party since its organization and has been a tax payer in Chilton county as long or longer than any man asking for office.

WILEY HARRIS.

(Communicated.)

Stanton.

Editor Union:

I wish to call attention of the voters of Chilton county in regard to D. C. Gandy for the office of tax assessor. Mr. Gandy has been a citizen of this place for some time, and I have been personally acquainted with him and find him to be a true gentleman in all respects, a man the community is proud of, one worthy of your highest confidence, truthful and honest in all business trainsactions, and besides that, a Christian man, loyal and courteous to all. He has been in the employment of the Gregory Coal and Lumber Co. for the past five or six years, holding the office of clerk, and a better record can be boasted of by no one. He is a man fully worthy of your vote, and highly competent to fill the office. Now, I don't think you could cast a more profitable vote than for D. C. Gandy as assessor. So go to the primary with that determination and we will put the right man in the right place.

A VOTER.

(Communicated.)

Jemison, Ala., June 7, 1904.

Editor Union:

I am not a politician, neither am I in the habit of whooping up candidates through the press, but looking to the interest of our county and being interested also in the success of the people's cause, I desire to say a few words in your valuable paper to the people of our county in behalf of Mr. Enoch H. Adams, candidate for treasurer. I have known Mr. Adams virtually all his life. I knew him while he lived at Randolph, while he lived at Jemison and at Clanton, and I know him to be strictly an honest man. Here is some of the evidence of his honesty. In 1898, when his father was elected to the office he now holds, Mr. Enoch Adams was a ticket marker in the election at Jemison for the populists, and on that day, when ignorant negroes would come to Enoch to have their tickets marked, wanting to vote for one of Judge Adams' opponents, I know he marked them as they requested when he could just as easily have marked them in favor of his father.

"Honor to whom honor is due" I believe is an unwritten tenet of the populist party, and on that ground Mr. Adams is entitled to our support because when Judge Adams left the populist party, what did Enoch do? Go to the democrats? No, but he bravely stood by the people who had placed his father in office, and I am informed he said to his father: "You ought to go to Judge Honeycutt and offer an apology for what you have said about him in the past."

There is no doubt but what Mr. Adams is well qualified to fill the treasurer's office. While I have nothing to say against any of the other candidates, I do think Mr. Adams is entitled to our hearty support, and if he is nominated he will be triumphantly elected.

Success to the Union, the populist party and Enoch Adams.

Very respectfully,
G. W. HODGENS.

SPEAKING — LET EVERYBODY COME.

I wish to say to the people of Chilton county that since I am comparatively a stranger in certain sections in the county. I deem it necessary that I ask you to meet me at the following times and places:

Lime Springs church, Tuesday, June 21, 7:30 p. m.
Union Point church, Wednesday, June 22, 7:30 p. m.
Providence church, beat 10, Thursday, June 22d, 7:30 p. m.
Walnut Creek church, Friday, June 24th, 7:30 p. m.
Mount Pisgah church, Saturday, June 25th, 7:30 p. m.
Shiloh church, beat 6, Monday, June 27th, 7:30 p. m.
Highland school house, Tuesday, June 28th, 7:30 p. m.
Pleasant Grove church, beat 6, Wednesday, June 29th, 7:30 p. m.
Benson, beat 3, Thursday, June 30th, 7:30 p. m.
Isabella church, Friday, July 1st, 7:30 p. m.
Macedonia church, beat 3, Saturday, July 2d, 10 a. m.
Pleasant Grove church, beat 2, Saturday, July 2d, 7:30 p. m.
Coopers, Monday, July 4th, 10 a. m.
Mountain Creek, Monday, July 4th, 7:30 p. m.
Burwell, Tuesday, July 5th, 10 a. m.
Wadsworth's Mill, Tuesday, July 5th, 7:30 p. m.
Salem, beat 10, Thursday, July 7th, 10 a. m.
Cane Creek church, Thursday, July 7th, 7:30 p. m.
Flint Hill, Friday, July 8th, 10 a. m.
Mineral Springs, Saturday, July 9th, 10 a. m.
Union School house, Saturday, July 9th, 7:30 p. m.
Archer's chapel, Monday, July 11th, 10 a. m.
Rocky Mount church, Monday, July 11th, 7:30 p. m.
Shiloh church, beat 2, Tuesday, July 12th, 10 a. m.
Ocampo at church, Tuesday, July 12th, 7:30 p. m.
Jemison school house, Wednesday, July 13th, 7:30 p. m.
Thorsby school house, Wednesday, July 13th, 10 a. m.
Lomax church, Thursday, July 14th, 10 a. m.
Clanton court house, Thursday, July 14th, 7:30 p. m.
Verbena, Monday, July 18th, 10 a. m.
Energy, Monday, July 18th, 7:30 p. m.
Billingsley, Tuesday, July 19th, 10 a. m.
Pletcher, Tuesday, July 19th, 7:30 p. m.
Dixie, Wednesday, July 20th, 10 a. m.
Stanton, Wednesday, July 20th, 7:30 p. m.
Maplesville, Thursday, July 21st, 10 a. m.
Old Maplesville, Thursday, July 21st, 7:30 p. m.
Macedonia, Friday, July 22d, 10 a. m.
Honeycutt's Mill, Friday, July 22d, 7:30 p. m.
Mars Hill, Saturday, July 23d, 10 a. m.
Collins' chapel, Saturday, July 23d, 7:30 p. m.
Clanton court house, Monday, July 25th, 10 a. m.

We hereby respectfully invite all candidates for each and every office to meet with us at these times and places. We will introduce you and try to see that you have time to be heard from.

Sincerely and truly,
S. J. JENNINGS,
Candidate for Probate Judge.
tf adv

TEXAS POPULISTS FAVOR WATSON

Dallas, Tex., June 10.—Populists from the sixteen congressional districts held their state convention yesterday for the election of delegates-at-large and alternates to the national convention of that party at Springfield, Ill.

Delegates were instructed to vote as a unit for nominees, but for no one except an old-line populist. Nearly all individual members of the delegation-at-large favor Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, as head of the ticket.

CONFERENCE OF M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Prattville district conference will meet in session at Clanton on June 23d, 24th, 25th and 26th. tf

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. ALEX G. DAKE.

I hereby announce mysen as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904

A. C. MIMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

S. J. JENNINGS.

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

SAM W. COLLINS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

L. A. CALLOWAY.

FOR TREASURER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. WILEY LITTLEJOHN.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ROBERT M. SMITH.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ANDREW J. WILSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904 W. C. ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. H. A. J. HARRIS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904. ENOCH H. ADAMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. BICE.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary, July 26, 1904. DANIEL C. GANDY.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th, 1904 GEORGE W. EDWARDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary July 26, 1904. L. B. POUNDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904. T. G. MILLENG.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26, 1904.

S. E. WALDRUP.
(Better known as "Squire" Waldrup.)

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26th, 1904. JOSEPH H. THOMAS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. M. F. LETT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN W. G. KICKER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. JOHN [illegible]

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. MOSES A. K[illegible]

We, the undersigned fri[illegible] J. HUBBARD, do hereby [illegible] him as a candidate for re[illegible] the office of tax collector [illegible] county, subject to the ac[illegible] PEOPLE'S primary July 2[illegible] J. Williams, H. W. Va[illegible] Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hen[illegible] L. Thomas, J. L. Smith

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July [illegible] 1904. J. W. MOORE.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for commissioner from the fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

MOSES ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

R. P. KENDRICK

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th ,1904.

WILLIAM T. MAHAN

METHODIST PROTESTANT CONFERENCE.

The second quarterly conference for Clanton circuit, Methodist Protestant church, will be held at Mount Pisgah church, three and a half miles east of Clanton, the fourth Sunday in June and Saturday before. Dinner on the grounds.

tf T. F. DAVIS, Pastor.

SUMMER NORMAL SCHOOL.

A summer normal school will open May 16th for the benefit of all who expect to take the state examination in July, and any others who wish to take any special work. From the fact that every teacher will be required to stand an examination on agriculture next January, special attention will be given to that subject. Those who desire can get instructions in expression and physical culture also. Good board can be had with private families at reasonable rates. For further information address

H. T. WALLACE,
Principal High School, Clanton, Ala
tf

NOTICE.

The committee on arrangements for primary election, also the executive committee of the populist party, are hereby called to meet at Clanton on Friday, the 17th day of June, 1904. All candidates before the PEOPLE'S primary are also requested to meet said committee to arrange the expense of said primary.

W. H. SHAW,
tf Chairman Pop. Ex. Com.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

The next regular state examination for teachers will be held at the high school building at Clanton on the first Monday in July, 1904, beginning at 10 a. m. sharp.

J. W. MOORE,
County Superintendent.
tf

A special school tax election was held in Talladega county and the proposition carried by a vote of about five to one in spite of strong opposition.

Sim Davis, an aged farmer living across the Tennessee river from Decatur, fell into the river from the bridge while walking to the city and was drowned.

The Atlantic Coast Line has ordered 3,000 tons of rails from the Ensley steel mill.

The Trap Shooters' League of North Alabama held its first shoot at Courtland Friday.

Effective Monday, the Southern railway made an increase of a little more than 10 per cent in the wages of all its section laborers on the Memphis division, from Stevenson to Memphis.

Selma boasts a man who lived there three years and had two legal wives, neither of whom suspected the existence of the other, and both of whom were recognized by their liege lord.

Samuel Calvin Cook, member of the legislature from Wilcox county, is dead.

CEMENTS

I hereby announce myself as a can... for the office of tax collector ... Chilton county, subject to the ... of the People's primary July 26, ...
W. F. DESHAZO.

...announce myself as a can... office of tax collector ... subject to the ac... PEOPLE'S primary July ...
JOHN T. LETCHER.

...announce myself as a can... tax collector ... to the ac... PEOPLE'S primary, July ...
MOSES W. KILLGORE.

...the undersigned friends of T. ... HARD, do hereby announce ... for re-election to ... collector for Chilton ... subject to the action of the ... primary July 26, 1904.
R. W. Varden, Hugh Henry, J. ... J. L. Smith

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a can... for re-election to the office of ... superintendent of education for Chil... county, subject to the action of ... PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, ...
J. W. MOORE.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a can... for commissioner from the ... district of Chilton county, sub... to the action of the PEOPLE'S ... July 26, 1904.
MOSES ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a can... for COMMISSIONER from the ... DISTRICT of Chilton county, ... to the action of the PEOPLE'S ... July 26, 1904.
R. P. KENDRICK.

I hereby announce myself as a can... for COMMISSIONER from the ... District of Chilton county, sub... to the action of the PEOPLE'S ... July 26th, 1904.
WILLIAM T. MAHAN.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CONFERENCE.

...quarterly conference for ... Methodist Protestant ... will be held at Mount Pisgah ... three and a half miles south... of Clanton, the fourth Sunday in ... and Saturday before. Dinner on ...

T. F. DAVIS, Pastor.

SUMMER NORMAL SCHOOL.

...mer normal school will open ... for the benefit of all who ... to take the state examination ... and any others who wish to ... any special work. From the fact ... every teacher will be required ... an examination on agricul... January, special attention ... given to that subject. Those ... can get instructions in ... and physical culture also. ... board can be had with private ... at reasonable rates. For fur... information address
H. T. WALLACE.
...al High School, Clanton, Ala.

NOTICE.

...committee on arrangements ... election, also the execu... committee of the populist party, ... called to meet at Clanton ... the 7th day of June, 1904, ... before the PEOPLES ... also requested to meet ... committee to arrange the ex... and primary.
W. H. SHAW,
Chairman Pop. Ex. Com.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

...regular state examination ... will be held at the high ... at Clanton on the first ... 1904, beginning at 10 ...
J. W. MOORE.
County Superintendent.

...rural school tax election was ... Talladega county and the ... carried by a vote of about ... in spite of strong opposi...

...was an aged farmer living ... Tennessee river from Deca... to the river from the bridge ...iking to the city and was ...

...antic Coast Line has ordered ... of rails from the Ensley ...

...p Shooters' League of North ...eld its first shoot at Cour...

...e Monday, the Southern ...ade an increase of a little ... 10 per cent in the wages ... section laborers on the ...division, from Stevenson to ...

...asts a man who lived there ...s and had two legal wives, ... whom suspected the exist... ...other, and both of whom ...nized by their liege lord. ...Calvin Cook, member of the ... from Wilcox county, is ...

...Y OFFICIALS

...—Judson Strock.
...—W. M. Wilson, E. G. Rol...
...I. Mullins, J. M. Potts.
...J. Watts Moore.
...—Ed Smitherman.

...TS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.
...Term—1st Monday in April.
...Term—3rd Monday in July.
...Term—1st Monday in Novem...

...—T. Scott Sayre.
...—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
...—E. B. Deason, Clanton.

CHANCERY COURT.
...Term—2nd Monday in March.
...Term—2nd Monday in Septem...

...—Hon. R. B. Kelley, An...
...—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

COUNTY COURT.
...Monday in each month.

...MISSIONERS' COURT.
...day, February, 1st Monday ... Monday June, 2nd Monday ... Monday August, 1st Monday ...

COUNTY OFFICERS.
...of Probate—S. M. Adams.
...—Alex G. Dake.
...—J. M. Morgan.
...—J. O. Middleton.
...Assessor—A. C. Mims.
...Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

...NTY COMMISSIONERS.
...District—W. H. Conway.
...District—Alex Glasscock.
...District—W. A. Green.
...District—R. C. Riggins.

...PT. OF EDUCATION.
...W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.
...R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.
...H. Reynolds, Jemison.

...NTY CHURCHES

...and clerks are cordially ask... the editor any news regard... churches which they would ...ished. Also if there are any ...ese notices please send cor...

...SSIONARY BAPTISTS.
...—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor. ...Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
...—Rev. J. E. Moore, pas... ...Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
...—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor; ...kins, clerk, Pletcher.
...—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday. ...clerk, Verbena.
...—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st ... Sundays. W. I. Mullins, ...
...Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th ...W. J. Gragg, clerk.
...Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, ...Simmons, clerk, Jemison.
...—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd ...N. Parrish, clerk.
...Chapel—Rev. W. J. Arm... ...Sunday. J. W. Littleton, ...
...Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand, ...W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
...—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd ...W. B. Jones, clerk.
...Woods—Rev. M. J. Parrish, ...J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
...—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st ...F. Wagoner, clerk.
...—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pas... ...clerk, Mt. Creek.
...—Rev. P. G. Maness, pas... ...Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
...—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; ...clerk, Jemison.
...Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd ...M. Wood, clerk.
...—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd ...H. Armstrong, clerk.
...—Rev. S. Smitherman, pas... ...clerk, British.
...—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; ...k, Randolph.
...—Rev. W. J. Rud... ...M. Roebuck, clerk.

...—W. J. Armstrong ...clerk; Jumbo.
...Rev. J. L. Hand ...on, clerk.
...W. J. Parrish, 2nd ...wick, clerk.
...J. E. Moore, pas... ...clerk.
...Hill, clerk.
...W. J. Armstrong.
...A. M. Foshee, 2nd ...clerk.
...—Rev. T. J. Deason. ...Hill, clerk, Pletcher.
...Grove—Rev. J. H. Thom... ...D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
...Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, ...R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
...Grove—Rev. G. W. Free... ...H. C. Latham, clerk.

...Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone, ...J. J. McDowell, clerk.
...—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt. ...W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemi...

...—Rev. W. J. Armstrong ...Robinson, clerk, Clan...
...—Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor; ...clerk, Rushton.
...—Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd ...J. Billingsley, clerk.
...—Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sun... day. J. Deason, clerk, Adams.
Thorsby—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Robert Jones, clerk, Thorsby.
Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor; R. S. Chandler, clerk, Jemison.
Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2d Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.
Verbena—Rev. J. W. Partridge, 1st Sunday. T. J. Bland, clerk.
Valley Creek—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; J. W. Mitchell, clerk, Plantersville.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS.

Bethel—Elder J. W. Howell, pastor; Saturday before the second Sunday; J. T. Abernathy, clerk, Verbena.

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Clanton Circuit—Rev. D. B. H. Jeffcoat, Pastor.
Clanton—2nd and 4th Sundays.
Fairview—3rd Sunday.
Isabelle—3rd Sunday, 3 p. m.
Jemison—1st Sunday.
Lime Springs—Saturday before 2nd Sunday.
Mount Moriah—Saturday before 1st Sunday.
New Prospect—Saturday before 3rd Sunday.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

Clanton Circuit, Rev. T. F. Davis, Pastor.
Thorsby—1st Sunday.
Walnut Grove—2nd Sunday, morning.
Unity—2nd Sunday, evening.
Shady Grove—3rd Sunday.
Mount Pisgah—4th Sunday, morning.
Enterprise—4th Sunday, evening.

CONGREGATIONAL.

South Calera—Rev. J. R. Crowson second Sunday. W. L. Shaw, clerk, Calera.
Lomax—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 4th Sunday. F. E. Riggs, clerk, Lomax.
Mountain Springs—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 3rd Sunday. W. J. Headley, clerk, Clanton.
Shady Grove—Rev. A. C. Wells, 1st Sunday. Mrs. A. Baker, clerk, Verbena.
Union—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 1st Sunday. Miss A. Lake, clerk, Lightwood.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Highland School House—Rev. M. F. Lett, 3rd Sunday and Saturday before. T. L. Adams, clerk.
Enterprise—Rev. M. F. Lett, 4th Sunday. T. F. Patterson, clerk.

NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN.

St. Olafs, Thorsby—Rev. H. Engh, pastor. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

Concordia, Thorsby—Rev. J. E. Hedberg. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. Mr. Carroll, pastor, 2d Sunday. Song service every 2d and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

MASONIC.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday, Clanton.
Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 250—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.
Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No 423—First Saturday, Clanton.
Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No 567—First Saturday Billingsley.
Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.
Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 411—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.
Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 473—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.
Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

of the

BRITISH AMERICA ASSURANCE CO.

Of Toronto, Canada.

1st January, 1904.

UNITED STATES BRANCH.

Assets.

Government bonds . . .	$223,650.00
State and municipal bonds	511,473.19
Cash on hand and deposit	169,720.71
Stocks and bonds	305,793.00
Premiums in course of col.	204,834.79
Interest due and accrued.	11,833.20
	$1,427,304.89

Liabilities.

Reserve premium fund (N. Y. Standard)	$849,771.77
Reserve for unpaid losses	100,786.14
	$950,557.91
Surplus in United States	$476,746.98
Total income in United States for 1903	$1,547,736.84
Total losses paid in U. S. from 1874 to 1903, inclusive	$14,674,843.26

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent, Clanton, Alabama.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

J. M. Grant was in Clanton Friday and ordered THE UNION sent to J. V. Grant, Double Springs, Miss. We are spreading all the time.

R. M. Vines, of Jumbo, was a pleasant visitor Friday.

W. I. Mullins is selling "James and Mayer" buggies to the candidates. H. L. Harris has one, and "there are there."

J. A. Skaggs, of Jemison, was a welcome visitor Saturday.

J. W. G. Kicker and son, G. C., were pleasant visitors Saturday.

Hon. John Garner, of Owenton, was in Clanton Saturday.

L. B. Pounds was in town Saturday.

Ask for "Oxolo" when you go to Upchurch's drug store.

Former Sheriff Lee Hayes was in Clanton Saturday.

J. J. Maddox was in Clanton Saturday.

B. F. and Henry Robinson, of beat 1, were in town Saturday.

Professor R. A. Rasco and W. A. Mims, of Collins' chapel, were in Clanton Saturday.

Chattanooga Plows and Cane Mills for sale at W. I. Mullins'.

J. H. Lundy was in town Saturday.

J. A. Culp, Jr., visited Clanton Saturday.

Scott Caverno, of Thorsby, was in town Saturday.

W. C. Robinson was in Clanton Saturday.

If you are in need of spectacles call on Upchurch.

W. J. Headley was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

E. M. Giles was a welcome caller Saturday.

H. J. Groom was in Clanton Saturday.

W. R. Jackson was in town Monday.

T. K. Littleton was in Clanton Tuesday.

T. J. Hubbard and A. G. Dake went to Montgomery Saturday.

J. D. Wright and Misses Irene Wright and Selma Patton visited Clanton Saturday.

John W. Foshee left Tuesday to attend the reunion at Nashville.

J. D. Hand, of New Mexico, was a visitor to Colonel W. A. Collier Monday. On Tuesday the two gentlemen took in the capital city.

W. I. Mullins went to Deatsville Wednesday.

Bishop Wilson, of Baltimore, Md., will preach in the Methodist church at Clanton during the conference to be held next week. Come and hear him.

Elder William Lively, of Birmingham, will preach at the Baptist church in Clanton on Monday night after the third Sunday. Everybody invited.

Rev. R. R. Ellison held the regular second Sunday services at the Methodist church. Good congregations both morning and night. His sermon in the morning, showing the difference between character and reputation, received very favorable comment.

J. B. Downs, Jr., arrived in Clanton Monday evening and has taken up his residence with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Downs, Sr. Mother and child are doing well.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

H. B. Hines and Miss Lula M. Gray.

COLORED.

James Hill and Esther Callens. Henry Thomas and Maggie Kirkland. George Wade and Fannie Snack.

LOMAX.

Everything here is going well. The farmers are up with their work and looking for rain. Parson A. C. Wells filled his regular appointment here Saturday and Sunday. Lee Vickers was with us Sunday. Those who till the soil, and till it well, have naught to buy, but lots to sell; while those who sit, and will not toil, for fear their hands with dirt would soil, will find at last, when 'tis too late, they have no place among the great. W. F. Littlejohn visited R. W. Littlejohn, of this place, Sunday. We are all populists and republicans here, and the reason why we are so is because the prosperity of our country is dear to us. We can't be democrats because when they are in power prosperity falls flat.

OBSERVER.

JEMISON.

J. D. Hand, of Las Vegas, New Mexico, is visiting home folks and friends here this week. W. T. Hand, W. R. Jackson and Charles Reynolds, a noted checker player, made a flying visit to Clanton Monday. Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hilliard, of Fenwood, were the guests of W. R. Jackson and family at Kalona last Sunday. Wallace Hand, Sebe Shaw, Henry Shaw, Ira Whittaker, W. A. Reynolds, Frank Anderson, Misses Reesa Adams, Lelia Reynolds, Silsby Bristow, Bertha Durham, Mattie Ware and Mattie Patton and other young folks spent a pleasant day recently at Concord Lake "picnicking." The party was chaperoned by Mrs. W. R. Jackson. Miss Quint Henry, our obliging postmistress, and Miss Mollie Ware spent Sunday seeing the sights and friends on "Dry Valley." Never in the history of Jemison was there such an exciting game as was played here last Friday, when the "married men" crossed bats with the "single men." The youngsters had it their own way up to the third inning. Then the "daddies" began to find where the ball was, and they put the wood to it fast and heavy, beating it all over the lot. All the business houses closed and people that never countenanced such a thing as a ball game turned out and brought their wives and children with them to help "root" for their favorites. They all hallowed till they were too hoarse to say more. After the hard fought battle was over and the dust and smoke had cleared away, and Dr. Johnson, who was keeping score, could be found amid the turmoil, the footing showed 15 to 11 in favor of the "old folks." The feature of the game was the heavy batting of Fate Langston and Charlie Reynolds. A fine cake cooked by Miss Mattie Patton, one of Jemison's sweetest girls, and Jemison has many, was the prize to the winners, and the way the papas ate showed they were good judges of well cooked viands, and the boys looked on with mouths watering. J. D. Hand came all the way from New Mexico to witness the game and pronounced it the most exciting he had ever seen. W. R. Jackson, of Kalona, a noted baseball "fan," did the umpiring to a finish. He got off with licking Dr. McNeill, Wallace Hand and Len Langston, which was a light task. Next game will be played on the same grounds at Langston park June 24th. Everybody invited.

"DAGO."

Thorsby, Ala., June 14, '04.

Well, we were a spectator last Saturday at the demmies' blow out when the robe of Samuel, the unprofitable was transferred to Elijah, the innocent. It seems that the demmies have a way of reversing things among themselves, for, according to Scripture, it was Elijah's robe that fell on Elisha, but in this instance Elijah becomes the recipient and again they selected the old ram for the sacrificial altar on next November, but just in order for a change and to satisfy their aesthetic taste for the novelty of the thing, they have removed the ram and placed upon the altar their most innocent little Lamb, and when it comes to meeting the issues he will be dumb before his shearers and open not his mouth, but instead Colonel Bowie and Colonel Tip and Colonel Billy Collier, and if needs be a whole regiment of colonels will storm the ramparts and even the very citadels of the populist strongholds in search for votes, but it is a foregone conclusion that they will retire from the fray all shattered and torn, for I was told that three good life-long demmies were heard to say that Bowie's harangue had fully convinced them that the demmies had played out, for they still had nothing to howl about but white supremacy, and that any man knew he told a lie when he said they disfranchised no white man. By the way, I asked one fellow what they put those rooster tags on the boys for, and he said it was to keep the pops and republicans from getting them, and one "gillhooly" claimed that there was 500 in their procession when they marched over to the grove to eat their beef, and another "mullet head" said they were all going to "vote 'er straight." But one old timer who seems to have kept his head right said that all that was needed to give the people's ticket the biggest majority it had ever had was to send Bill Collier and Sam Adams out over the county with a music band and the day was won for the pops and republicans, without firing a gun, and so it is all such roosters only arouse our boys and will cause them to line up like Jackson's brigade as solid as a stone wall.

X-RAY.

DUPREE-GRANT.

Miss Mattie Lee Grant was married to A. K. Dupree on June 5, 1904, at the residence of the bride's father, R. T. Grant, near Cooper. Esquire J. J. McDowell officiated and tied the knot in good style. Only the nearest relatives of the couple were present. The groom is a young man in the employ of the Middleton & Kicker saw mill and is highly esteemed by all who know him. The bride is a very charming young lady, and THE UNION extends its heartiest congratulations to the happy pair.

SINGING.

Singing at Oak Grove (near Jemison) at 2 o'clock p. m. on the third Sunday in June. Professor J. B. Northcutt will lead. Come and be with us.

COOPER.

The banner man seems to be continually worrying about THE UNION, or the Birmingham paper, as he calls it. Well, yes, I guess it is touching his pocket. Mr. "bannerman," we prefer a paper printed at Birmingham that stands for the people's rights to one HALF-PRINTED at our doors that we know to be a TRAITOR to its first party and people. Success to THE UNION and the people it represents.

D.

ROCKY MOUNT SCHOOL DISTRICT. NO. 57,

Bounded as follows: Beginning at the n. w. corner of Sec. 32, T. 24, R. 14, running s. 1 mile; thence w. to Cobb creek; thence down said creek to the n. e. corner of Sec. 7, T. 23, R. 14; thence s. 2 miles; thence w. 1 1-2 miles; thence n. 3 miles; thence e. to point of beginning. tf

CHILDREN'S DAY.

At Maple Springs church on the third Sunday in June. Everybody invited. Bring your baskets and let's enjoy ourselves. tf

..My Specialty..

SHOES made of Leather.
SHOES that are Reliable.
SHOES made to Wear.
NOT a Cheap Shoddy Shoe.

Dry Goods, Groceries, Flour and Feed Stuffs, Tobacco and Snuff.

Every Department Full and Complete.

J. W. SMITH.

Former Post-office Building. Clanton, Alabama

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made.
Estimates given. Address
I. E. SARBER CO,
Thorsby, Alabama.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

2011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE

WALLACE C. EDLER, General Agent, Clanton Alabama.

CHILTON COUNTY BRANCH

PRESIDENT — Alex G. Dake, Clanton
SEC.-TREAS. — Judson Strock, Clanton

Insure, Farmers Dwellings, outbuildings and contents, and Live stock against Loss by Fire, Wind and Lightning;—the cheapest, safest and most sensible method of Insurance known to man.

AGENTS MUST HAVE A COMMISSION SIGNED BY GENERAL AGENT. Full particulars furnished on application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

Gelder's Restaurant,

Good Meals at Reasonable Prices.

110 North 20th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St, THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St,

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes, FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. . . Alabama

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,

Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.
County and Office Supplies a Specialty.
Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

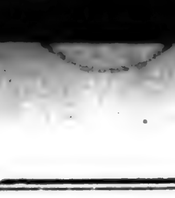
Mail orders promptly filled

Panama

Here the oceans twain have waited
All the ages to be mated—
Waited long and waited vainly,
Though the script was written plainly:
"This, the portal of the sea,
Open for him who holds the key;
Here the empire of the earth
Waits in patience for its birth."
Who shall hold that magic key
But the child of destiny,
In whose veins has mingled long
All the best blood of the strong?
Sentinel of duty, here
Must he guard a hemisphere.

Let the old world keep its ways;
Naught to him its blame or praise;
Naught its greed, or hate, or fear;
For all swords be sheathed here.

Yea, the gateway shall be free
Unto all, from sea to sea;
And no fratricidal slaughter
Shall defile its sacred water;
But the hand that oped the gate
Shall forever hold the key!
—James Jeffrey Roche in Scribner's



OCULAR DEMONSTRATION

BY EPES W. SARGENT

Annice Wheatley strolled to the window and gazed idly out. This was strictly in accordance with the instructions conveyed in the little blue covered book of typewriting which read:

"—and I will explain it all to you. (Gertrude walks to window R and gazes idly out.)"

Considering that this was the 217th time she had done this the view from the window had lost somewhat of its novelty.

She knew exactly what she would see there. At her right would be a huge electric calcium pouring its green rays upon her white dress. It had been decided that green would be better than blue. The moon had been green ever since the night when the stage manager had arrived at this decision.

There were also a couple of stage braces holding up the scenery, and sometimes a couple of stage hands in very dirty shirt sleeves lent animation to the view.

To-night the men were absent and Annice was able to give her whole attention to the floor, on which some one had chalked "I love you," in a clear print.

She wondered idly who might have done this. Some stage hand, probably considering it a good joke. Surely no one would make such an open confession and expect to be taken seriously.

She was still wondering when she heard the cue which was her signal to turn with a cry of horror to perceive Lady Gwendolin prostrate upon the floor, struck down by Hugh de Maltravers, who in private life was a most unvillain-like villain.

After that it was a busy time until the fall of the curtain, when she had to run for the dressing room for a change for the third-act costume. She gave the chalk marks no further thought until the following evening.

There, again, were the eloquent words, neatly chalked for her inspection. She was the only one required to use the window. She could not suppose that the message was meant for any one else.

Gradually the legend began to annoy her. Every evening the same words appeared, only to disappear before it came time to make the change for the next act.

She complained to the stage manager, but that official could offer no practical suggestion. He was certain it was none of the stage boys and that was all the satisfaction she could obtain.

The matter both annoyed and interested her. It takes but little to make talk in a company, and she wisely held her peace; but she kept a sharp eye out in the hope of discovering the offender.

She even made a practice of running to the window the moment the curtain fell in the hope of discovering the writer erasing the lines, but by that time the marks had been obscured and she could only wait for time to unravel the mystery.

Gazes idly out.

On the 250th performance Agnes Carleton celebrated the event by introducing a new gown. In place of the white satin, which was beginning to show the marks of wear and tear, she appeared in a handsome black satin, which caused every woman in the audience a pang of jealously and incidentally got her several newspaper items.

As usual, Annice stood by the window, wondering who her unknown admirer might be. Lady Gwendolin gave her customary shriek and Annice turned with a scream of terror to behold the villain's wicked work.

To-night she supplemented her stage horror with a cry more natural. Lady Gwendolin fell with her face to the audience that they might marvel at the play of her facial expression as she slowly died from the effects of Maltraver's cruel blow. There on the back of the black satin

"Believe me," he said, earnestly, "it was no prank."

were the marks of a man's fingers clearly outlined in white.

In a flash it all came to her. Hugh Cameron, who played Maltravers, was the only person who left the stage. He made his exit from the very window out of which she had been looking. All of the other characters were supposed to enter from the castle on the opposite side of the stage.

It was an easy matter to chalk the legend while she was having her scene with Miss Carleton. Then when he fled from the consequence of his murderous assault he could rub out the chalk marks.

Only the black satin dress had been out of his calculations. When he had grappled with Lady Gwendolin, the chalk from his imperfectly cleaned fingers had left their mark. On the old white dress they had not been noticeable.

All through the last act the incident kept running through her head. She liked Cameron very much, better than anyone else in the company. He had been so kind to her in many little ways, so deferential, she could not believe that he had sought to insult her. She could not even imagine him doing such a thing even for a joke. He was not that sort of a man.

It hurt her to think that he had a hand in this joke. Just as the curtain fell at the close of the act she turned to Cameron.

"I should like to speak to you after you have changed," she said simply.

He bowed, but it was with no easy heart that he awaited her coming on the dark stage.

She broached the subject directly. "Mr. Cameron," she demanded, "Why do you annoy me by chalking such absurd sentiments underneath the window in the second act?"

"How did you know?" he countered.

"You left chalk marks on Miss Carleton's black dress this evening," she explained. "Now I want to know why you played such an absurd prank?"

He colored like a guilty schoolboy.

"Believe me," he said earnestly, "it was no prank. I meant it, every word. One night I stood by the window. The stage hands were all busy with a card game at the rear and I knew no one would see it before I came off after the murder. I picked a piece of chalk off the call board and wrote the words. You see while I play villain on the stage, I am anything but a bold man off. Just as I was going to sign them I heard the cue that brought you to the window and I had just time to whisk around the corner. I have been trying every night since then to get the courage to sign my name, but if it hadn't been for that blessed dress I never should have done so. I mean it, every word of it, Miss Wheatley. Won't you believe me?"

By special request Miss Carleton will wear her black dress at the wedding.

READY FOR HIS "SUB."

President Cleveland Was Prepared for the Usual "Touch."

When Grover Cleveland was elected president the first time, he was sitting in his office one day when Gen. Alfred Orendorff of Illinois was ushered in to see him.

"Well, Mr. President," said the general, "I suppose you have seen about every democrat in the country by this time?"

"All but my substitute, I think," replied the president. "I am looking for him every minute. He made a tight bargain and got all the money I had when he went to the civil war. I never saw him again until I was elected mayor of Buffalo. He ambled into my office there soon after I was elected. I told him I supposed he was killed in battle, but he said he had pulled out of the war with his life, was hard up and wanted $10. I gave it to him and heard nothing more of him until I became governor of New York. He 'showed up' promptly in Albany and borrowed another $10. Now I am president, and between callers I have been watching the door all day. I'm really a little disappointed. Here I am, ready for him." And the president drew from a capacious pocket a crumpled ten dollar bill and tossed it on the table in front of him.—New York Herald.

EASY FOR HIM TO TELL.

Youngster Escaped a Thrashing and Had Smile Coming.

Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw told this story the other day apropos of a discussion as to the propriety of extending clemency to violators of the customs law who furnish evidence against their associates.

It was at a school in Mr. Shaw's native state of Iowa, and one of the boys in a class had committed some grave infraction of discipline. The teacher announced that he would thrash the whole class if some one did not tell him who had committed the offense. All were silent, and he began with the first boy and thrashed every one in the class until finally he reached the last one. Then he said:

"Now, if you will tell me who did this, I won't thrash you."

"All right, sir. I did it," was the reply.—New York Times.

Must Be Natural Affinity.

A curious correlation between the ages of husband and wife appears to have been established in the course of the recent investigation of the inheritance of physical qualities by Prof. Karl Pearson. Prof. Pearson's results, published in Biometrika, may be briefly summarized: "These data have shown that there is a very definite correlation between the degrees of longevity of husband and wife. Things take place as if men destined to live to old age, while short-lived men generally marry shortlived women. There has been an unconscious selection from the point of view of general vitality. This follows clearly from the study of the age of decease of a great number of couples, taken from graveyard inscriptions." The influence of grief upon the longevity of the surviving partner is not taken into account.

Better Than a Lawyer.

Congressman Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas tells of an old negro who was charged with having stolen a hog. The facts were all against him. He had no counsel, and when the judge asked him if he wanted a lawyer assigned to defend him, he declared that he did not.

"But you are entitled to a lawyer," the court explained, "and you might as well have the benefit of his services."

"Yoah Honor would jes gimme some cheap white trash lawyer," the old darkey replied, "and he wouldn't do me no good. If it's jes de same to Yoah Honor, I'd ruther depen' on de ign'rance ob de court."—New York Times.

What One Woman Obersves.

"If children could be sent to a chewing school as they are sent to a kindergarten," says a common sense physician, "there would be a marked improvement in the race."

Many women are wandering restlessly in search of happiness with their hands full of materials of which the truest happiness is made.

Each is called on to do only her part—and that part is never impossible.

When a man is really hungry, his wife is apt to be a good cook.—Philadelphia North American.

A Dream of Happiness.

Sun's a-climbin' highah in de sky above mah head,
Watahmilyun time's sho' comin'!
Sets mah blood afiah when Ah dreams o' milyuns red,
Watahmilyun time's sho' comin'!

When de cotton blossoms drap by de side o' de row—
Milyuns gettin' ripe by de scoah—
Den dis dahky jis' ag'wine to t'row 'way his hoe
An' eat tell he doan' want no mo'!

Sun's a-climbin' highah in de sky above mah head,
Watahmilyun time's sho' comin'!
Sets mah blood afiah when Ah dreams o' milyuns red,
Watahmilyun time's sho' comin'!
—S. M. Scruggs, Mobile, Ala.

WORKING BY THE DAY.

Scotch Farmer of Experience Recognized the Symptoms.

John D. Rocketeller Jr., was talking to his Sunday school class about industry.

"Our industry," he said, with a faint smile, "should not be of such a nature that the remark once applied to a certain Scot could ever be applied to us.

"I'll tell you what the remark I allude to was.

"Two old farmers were walking down a road near Dunfermline when one of them pointed to a distant field and said, shading his eyes from the sun:

"'That figure over there—I wonder if it's a scarecrow.'

"He stopped and regarded the figure very attentively for a space. Then he concluded, in a satisfied tone:

"'Yes, it's not moving. It must be a scarecrow.'

"But the other farmer had sharper eyes and a better understanding, maybe, of certain types of human nature.

"'No,' he said, dryly; 'no, it's not a scarecrow. It's a man working by the day.'

UTILIZING THE SUN'S RAYS.

Cheap Fuel Used by Residents of Southern California.

The residents of Southern California have gone into partnership with the sun. There the sun is more plentiful than coal, and so they put the former to work, utilizing the heat rays for many purposes, one of which is known as the "solar water heater."

By the plan they have adopted they make the sun heat the water in the kitchens and bathrooms in the houses and for other domestic purposes. In California and other states where the sun may be depended on the item of fuel is entirely eliminated, and however cheap fuel may be, no fuel is cheaper than the sun.

The domestic arrangement for keeping water hot at all hours of the day or night is effected by inserting in the roof a solar heater, consisting of a number of mirrors reflecting the sun's rays, so that the heat is concentrated upon the water in metallic troughs, which absorb the heat rays and soon bring the water to a nearly boiling temperature.

Value of Eggs as Food.

The more thoroughly an egg has been cooked the more severe is the labor demanded of the stomach. If we would get from this article of food its utmost value it should be eaten either raw or underdone. Hard-boiled eggs are suggestive of picnics and dyspepsia. Raw eggs is a splendid stimulant when one is exhausted from any cause whatever. It is by no means unpalatable when eaten with salt, pepper and a dash of vinegar. For weakly children raw eggs beaten with milk make a first class food. The mixture may be sweetened with sugar, and it is best to give it in small quantities at short intervals. The flavor is improved by adding port wine. One tablespoonful of wine will suffice for one pint of the mixture. The formula would run: Two raw eggs, one tablespoonful of wine and sufficient milk to make one pint.

And One Had Love.

One man had riches for his gift and knew
The emptiness thereof;
Another, where Fame's topmost summits lift
All pigmy peaks above,
Felt the keen pangs of lofty loneliness;
And one had love!

Down in the lowly valley-paths of life
His years were spent,
Where, far removed from moiling din and strife,
Brook-song and bird-song blent
Babbled of quiet things, of restful peace,
And deep content.

Yet there was something in his cup of days
Ineffably more sweet
Than e'er he knew who in the giddy maze
Of fortune set his feet
Or quaffed Fame's goblet, wreathed with rue and bays,
And found it incomplete!
—Milton R. Greer in National Magazine.

Neatly Answered.

"Exactly how old are you, anyway?" asked a friend of Lillian Russell.

"I have a friend," replied the actress, with apparent irrelevance, "who was born in mid-ocean on an ocean steamer. After she and her mother had landed, the steamer, on its return trip, blew up. So practically she has no birthplace. My age is like that," she added, after a pause.—New York Times.

X-Rays Remove Smallpox Scars.

It is alleged that applications of the X-rays will remove the marks left on the skin by smallpox. Not only are we told that experiments have been successful with patients just recovering, but there is also reason to believe that pitting of many years' standing may be removed. The old scars of burns and tuberculosis are also removed by the X-rays.

Beggars in Spain.

There are 190,227 professional beggars in Spain, of whom 51,948 are women. In some of the cities beggars are licensed to carry on their trade. Seeking alms is recognizedd as a legitimate business, and the municipality demands a percentage upon the collections. Seville is the only city in the kingdom which forbids begging in the streets.

Plan to Honor Great Preacher.

Several projects are on foot in England for honoring the memory of the late Charles H. Spurgeon, the great Baptist preacher. One of the most interesting is the plan for buying the large and beautiful estate of Westwood and converting it into a home of rest for ministers and missionaries.

Gotham's Former Mayors.

New York has seven surviving ex-mayors—Gilroy, Ely, Grant, Van Wyck, Cooper, Edson, and Low.

Steam to Preserve Meat

"Keeping meats sweet and pure in a refrigerator by means of steam sounds a bit queer, doesn't it?" I was asked by George L. Cameron, superintendent of a meat-packing establishment, who continued in explanation without awaiting my answer, says a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. "Yet that is a method now in vogue on the big steamers which carry meats from this country and from Australia to Europe. Meat placed in refrigerators where the atmosphere is kept continually at an average temperature from 36 to 40 degrees will remain fresh, but not entirely untainted, for an indefinite period.

"I think the Australians solved the problem first. They worried over the matter for a long, long time, and adopted expedient after expedient, tried experiment after experiment, but all without avail, until someone thought of using steam to volatilize the gases which caused these annoying conditions and draw them [illegible] steam pipe was placed in a [illegible] duct at the bottom of a [illegible] chamber stored with [illegible] of this kind are low[illegible] duct led directly to [illegible] This experiment occ[illegible] and for eighty-nine [illegible] ter compartment was [illegible] the end of which to[illegible] the meat drawn forth [illegible] thoroughly tested. It [illegible] and pure, without th[illegible] gestion of bone odor [illegible] the day it was packed [illegible] been volatilized by th[illegible] off by the wooden duct [illegible] noxious condition [illegible] brine tanks. With th[illegible] frigeration process, I [illegible] taken that the temp[illegible] falls below freezing [illegible] sionally, so that the m[illegible] come frozen, meat [illegible] kept for years, and be [illegible] when taken forth for [illegible]

Sold Cannon for Gin

It was in the days of the kingdom. Some one of the court of the dusky islanders conceived the idea that Hawaii should be graced by a navy. This was particularly desired because King Kalakaua had a row on hand with his brother monarch at Samoa. So a navy was acquired.

The navy consisted of a converted teakwood trading schooner fitted with a third mast and full rigged. The Hawaiian admiralty provided the navy with a lot of old brass cannons, enlisted a crew of natives and forthwith sent them out to battle with the obstreperous Samoans.

Away sailed the navy to the southward, bent on an errand that should sustain the honor of the Hawaiian flag and the prowess of the Hawaiian bluejacket—if he wore a jacket.

A month passed and the month wore into two months, with not a word from the seat of war. An anxious monarch scanned the blue horizon with weary eyes for a [illegible] fleet.

Not a sign, until alone [illegible] eleventh week came a [illegible] the navy was in distr[illegible] planations followed [illegible]

Everything had gone [illegible] few days until the cr[illegible] ed all of the gin it had [illegible] when the cruise began. [illegible] not fight without gin, and [illegible] the brave tars were [illegible] sacrifice.

So they put into Hilo. [illegible] the brass cannons for [illegible] for eleven weeks held [illegible] worse a foe than the [illegible] ed strong waters from [illegible]

The navy returned in [illegible] admiralty went out of [illegible] the flag was lowered on the [illegible] in the navy. For many years [illegible] mialoha was a hulk in [illegible] harbor, the last and the [illegible] war the royal family ever [illegible] San Francisco Call.

Not Alone the Text

She regarded her husband with disapproval as she stood putting on her gloves. He was reclining in an easy chair, knee deep in the Sunday papers.

"A pretty way to spend Sunday!" she remarked severely. "What would your mother say if she knew you never went to church?" and she swept out of the house with a swish of silken petticoats and an air of conscious rectitude.

She was late, but fortunately not too late for the opening quartet. She was glad she had not missed that, for the twenty-thousand-dallar-a-year choir was considered the finest in the city. After the organ interlude from "Parsifal" she cast her eyes around the church and promptly fell into a reverie something on this order:

"Why, there's Mrs. Smith—and with her husband, too! So that report wasn't true, after all. And she's made her lace handkerchief into a yoke for her dress. Good idea for my [illegible] etamine. I wonder who [illegible] is in mourning for. I shou[illegible] supposed that broadcloth [illegible] so well without ripping. I [illegible] my white—dear, dear, full [illegible] coming in since tha[illegible] of Mrs. Blank's has one. I [illegible] to have that remnant ma[illegible] then."

By the time the benedi[illegible] pronounced she had pl[illegible] whole spring wardrobe.

"What was the text?" [illegible] her renegade husband on [illegible]

"The text? Oh—ah—um—[illegible]

"Aha, what would your [illegible] if she knew you'd been to [illegible] couldn't repeat the text?" [illegible] imitating her tone of right[illegible] nation.

"Well—the text isn't ever[illegible] goes to church for," she re[illegible] is for—for the beautiful th[illegible] come to one during the [illegible] New York Press.

Joke on Tom Sharkey

"Stories on Tom Sharkey are always abundant," says an eastern sport now in Chicago, "and the best of it is that they are nearly always true. Tom is a rich mine for good stories, and never a week passes that he does not do something original and hilarious.

"Tom was living happily at Sheepshead bay last summer, and one pleasant night was honored by a visit from Patsy Corrigan, one of the most fiendish practical jokers in the east. During the evening Corrigan looked at Tom's great bulk and massive thews, and then shook his head sorrowfully.

"'And what's the matter wit' ye, Patsy?' demanded Tom.

"'Why, Tom,' said Patsy, 'I was feeling blue when I looked at you, and realized that you haven't long for this world.'

"'And why so, Patsy?'

"'Why?' replied Patsy. 'Well, Tom, it's easy to see. Your [illegible] developed large enough to [illegible] chest of yours, and you [illegible] to die of consumption unless [illegible] prompt measures to [illegible] lungs.'

"'Wirra, wirra,' moaned [illegible] 'And how can I enlarge my [illegible]

"'Oh, that's a cinch, Tom. [illegible] every morning about 4 o'cl[illegible] in the open air, and shout [illegible] your might for half an [illegible] roar "Ha, ha, uh, uh, uh," [illegible] you can, and it will be [illegible] see the way your lungs will [illegible]

"And at 4 o'clock the next [illegible] the quiet of that peaceful [illegible] hood was shattered beyond [illegible] a brawny man, who, taking [illegible] tion right in the middle of a [illegible] block, bellowed, 'Uh, uh, [illegible] voice like seven bulls. [illegible] police force woke up and [illegible] ing after him."

Song of the Torpedo

By seven tall consorts circled round
The careless cruiser lay,
Watched by the dwarfish forts that crowned
The hills above the Bay—
The great guns frowning from the height;
The stately ships below—
And still toward them in the night
Came on the hidden foe.

For through the salt, sweet dark I crept,
Nigher and even nigher;
Tho' round the restless searchlight swept
Its shifting fan of fire.
The sentries stared from ship and land;
Their eyes were strong and keen—
Too late the treacherous wave they scanned,
Where I had passed unseen.

Till, with a sudden awful roar,
Beneath their armored keel,
As one may rend a scroll, I tore
That wall of tempered steel.
Steel plate and oaken beam were cleft
By one fierce bolt of flame;
And through the gaping wound it left
The invading billow came.

And the great warship [illegible]
Even as the bison springs
When to his throat with [illegible]
The thirsty leopard clings.
So did my noble quarry [illegible]
Upon the seething wave—
Then headlong in the clover [illegible]
Plunged to her ocean grave.

The sea closed o'er her [illegible]
And not a bubbling breath
Told of the hundred souls that [illegible]
The cup of bitter death.
The outer waters were not [illegible]
Where crouched beside his [illegible]
The foe that far off thunder [illegible]
And knew my task was done.

For to one cunning master [illegible]
I serve and never tire.
Man's fingers made me, [illegible]
The bidding of my sire.
He speeds me o'er the [illegible]
And on that path untrod
The slave of his more [illegible]
I work the will of God.
—Edward Sidney Tyler in Spectator.

CATARRH [illegible]
OF MOST [illegible]
PE-RU-[illegible]

[illegible] R. Spreckel, Jun[illegible] Bankle C[illegible]
[illegible] O. O. F., 200 New High St., Los [illegible] came here a few years ago suffering [illegible] of the kidneys, in search of health [illegible] mate would cure me, but found [illegible] But what the climate could not [illegible] and did do. Seven weeks' treat[illegible] at I had the right medicine, and [illegible] man. I know of at least twenty [illegible] bers of the lodge in which I belong [illegible] cured of catarrh, bladder and kid[illegible] by the use of Peruna, and it is [illegible] in this city."—SAMUEL R. SP[illegible]

[illegible] of the Kidneys a Common Dis[illegible]—Kidney Trouble Often Fails to [illegible] Regarded as Catarrh by Physi[illegible]

[illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Preserve Meat

ing conditions and draw them steam pipe was placed in a duct at the bottom of a re chamber stored with meat;
of this kind are low lying,
duct led directly to the brine
The experiment occurred at and for eighty-nine days the ter compartment was kept the end of which time it was the meat drawn forth and ever thoroughly tested. It was and tasted without the slightes trace of bone odor or mold the day it was packed. The be volatilized by the steam,
off by the wooden duct and th process its condition purified brine tanks. With this aid to freezing process provided taken that the temperature falls below freezing point, as sionally, so that the meat will come frozen, meat may kept for years, and be perfect
when taken forth for consum

nnon for Gin

you with weary eyes for a sig fleet.

Not a sign, until along ab
eleventh week came a messa
the navy was in distress off planations followed soon af
Everything had gone well few days until the crew had of all of the gin it had taken when the cruise began. The not relish without gin, and t
the brave tars were ready sacrifice.

So they put into Hilo. They the brass cannons for more for eleven weeks held out ag worse a foe than the seductive of strong waters from Holla
The navy returned in disgra eventually went out of busin the flag was lowered on the
in the navy. For many years Honolulu was a hulk in the harbor, the last and the only war the royal family ever
San Francisco Call.

ne the Text

dis- etamine. I wonder who Mr her is in mourning for. I should ers supposed that broadcloth w so well without ripping. I my white—dear, dear, full coming in since tha import of Mrs. Blank's has one. I to have that remnant made then."

By the time the benedic pronounced she had plan
whole spring wardrobe.

"What was the text?"
her renegade husband on h

"The text? Oh—ah—um—

"Aha, what would your m
if she knew you'd been to c couldn't repeat the text?"
imitating her tone of righte nation.

"Well—the text isn't every goes to church for," she retor
"it's for the beautiful thou come to one during the s
New York Press.

Tom Sharkey

"It's easy to see. Your lungs developed large enough to a chest of yours," and you are to die of consumption unless prompt measures to enlar lungs."

"'Wirra, wirra,' mdaned t
And how can I enlarge me l

"'Oh, that's a cinch, Tom.
every morning about 4 o'cloc
in the open air, and shout your might for half an h roar "Ha, ha, uh, uh, uh," as you can, and it will be wo see the way your lungs will

"And at 4 o'clock the next the quiet of that peaceful hood was shattered beyond a brawny man, who, taking tion right in the middle of block, bellowed, 'Uh, uh, voice like seven bulls till police force woke up and c ing after him."

the Torpedo

And the great warship shudder convulsion as the bison springs.
Writhing in his throat with claw
The thirsty leopard clings,
And my noble quarry leap
Down the seething wave—
To a heritage in the clover
Plunged to her ocean grave.

The sea closed o'er her where
And not a bubbling breath
Told of the hundred souls that
The cup of bitter death.
The outer waters were not so Where crouched beside his Low lies that far off thunder
And knew my task was done.

For to one cunning master
I serve and never tire.
Man's fingers made me, and
The bidding of my sire.
He speeds me o'er the mid
And on that path untrod
The slave of his more mighty
I work the will of God.
—Edward Sidney Tyler in Spectator.

CATARRH IS THE CAUSE OF MOST KIDNEY DISEASES.

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH.

E. Sprecher, Junior Beadle Court Angelina of C. of J., 205 New High St., Los Angeles, Cal.,

...me here a few years ago suffering with ca... of the kidneys, in search of health. I thought ...mate would cure me, but found I was mis... But what the climate could not do Peruna ...and did do. Seven weeks' trial convinced ...t had the right medicine, and I was then ...man. I know of at least twenty friends and ...rs of the lodge to which I belong who have ...ured of catarrh, bladder and kidney trouble ...h the use of Peruna, and it has a host of ...in this city."—SAMUEL R. SPRECHER.

...h of the Kidneys a Common Dis... Kidney Trouble Often Fails to ...Regarded as Catarrh by Physi...

...h of the kidneys is very common ...e say this fact is not better ...to the physicians as well as the ...kidney disease. They take ...coming to get better. They ...of catarrh. Kidney dis... are seldom associated in ...people, and, alas, it is ...associated in the minds of ...Too few physicians recog... the address. They doctor ...rise. They try this remedy and that remedy. The trouble may be catarrh all the time. A few bottles of Peruna would cure them.

Pe-ru-na Removes the Cause of the Kidney Trouble.

Peruna strikes at the very centre of the difficulty, by eradicating the catarrh from the kidneys. Catarrh is the cause of kidney difficulty. Remove the cause and you remove the effect. With unerring accuracy Peruna goes right to the spot. The kidneys are soon doing their work with perfect regularity.

Thousands of Testimonials.

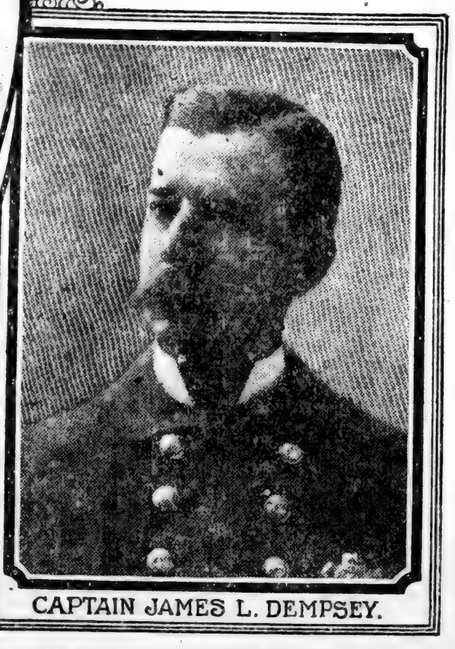
Thousands of testimonials from people who have had kidney disease which had gone beyond the control of the physician are received by Dr. Hartman every year, giving Peruna the whole praise for marvelous cures.

Pe-ru-na Cures Kidney Disease.

Peruna cures kidney disease. The reason it cures kidney disease is because it cures catarrh. Catarrh of the kidneys is the cause of most kidney disease. Peruna cures catarrh wherever it happens to be located. It rarely fails.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.



CAPTAIN JAMES L. DEMPSEY.

Captain James L. Dempsey, Captain 2nd Precinct Troy Police Force, writes from 198 Ferry St., Troy, N. Y., as follows.

"From my personal experience with Peruna I am satisfied it is a very fine remedy for catarrhal affections, whether of the head, lungs, stomach or pelvic organs. It cures colds quickly, and a few doses taken after unaue exposure prevents illness.

"Some of the patrolmen under me have also found great relief from Peruna. It has cured chronic cases of kidney and bladder troubles, restored men suffering from indigestion and rheumatism, and I am fully persuaded that it is an honest, reliable medicine, hence, I fully endorse and recommend it."

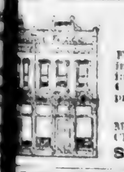
—JAMES L. DEMPSEY.

Officer A. C. Swanson writes from 607 Harrison St., Council Bluffs, Ia., as follows:

"As my duties compelled me to be out in all kinds of weather I contracted a severe cold from time to time, which settled in the kidneys, causing severe pains and trouble in the pelvic organs.

"I am now like a new man, am in splendid health and give all praise to Peruna."—A. C. Swanson.

STORE FRONTS



For all kinds and sizes of Store Buildings. We furnish all material entering into the construction of Store Fronts. Write us about your proposed building, its estate dimensions and style of front and we will send you, FREE OF CHARGE, an elegant Blue Print Plan, and quote you an extremely low price on one of our popular

Beautiful, Everlasting

Modern Store Fronts. We give you all the style of an elegant New York or Chicago store at moderate cost. Send for Catalogue.

SOUTHERN FOUNDRY CO., Owensboro, Kentucky

AD BREATH

...ad had great trouble with my stomach ...kinds of medicines. My tongue has ...as green as grass, my breath having ... Two weeks ago a friend recommended ...tried after using them I can willingly and ...that they have entirely cured me. I ...let you know that I shall recommend ...one suffering from such troubles."
...Kaspar, 100 Rivington St., New York, N.Y.

Best for The Bowels
Cascarets
CANDY CATHARTIC
THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

...t Palatable. Potent. Taste Good. Do Good. ...ver Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c. 25c. 50c. Never ...sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped CCC. ...ed to cure or your money back.
...ling Remedy Co., Chicago or N.Y. 596

...AL SALE, TEN MILLION BOXES

EE to WOMEN

...arge Trial Box and book of in... ...ions absolutely Free and Post... ...enough to prove the value of ...tine Toilet Antiseptic

Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water — non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution — lasts longer — goes further — has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.

...rmula of a noted Boston physician, ...ed with great success as a Vaginal ...for Leucorrhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal ..., Sore Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, ...soreness of mucus membrane.

...al treatment of female ills Paxtine is ...ble. Used as a Vaginal Wash we ...ge the world to produce its equal for ...ctiveness. It is a revelation in cleansing ...ealing power; it kills all germs which ...flammation and discharges.

...ding druggists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. ...if your does not, send to us for it. Don't ...substitute—there is nothing like Paxtine.

...for the Free Box of Paxtine to-day.

...TON CO., 7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

Because of the achievements in aerial navigation of Santos Dumont, the Brazilian commission has placed a large picture of the inventor in the Brazilian section of the palace of fine arts at the world's fair.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila. Pa.

During some recent explorations at Pompeii an ancient kitchen was unearthed.

Ask Your Dealer For Allen's Foot-Ease

A powder. It rests the feet. Cures Corns, Bunions, Swollen, Sore, Hot, Tired Aching Sweating Feet and Ingrowing Nails. Allen's Foot-Ease makes new or tight shoes easy. At all Druggists and Shoe stores, 25 cents. Accept no substitute. Sample mailed FREE, Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

The gray wolf is very destructive to cattle in Montana.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle

In Dundee, Scotland, the trolley system is used to clean and sprinkle the streets.

Piso's Cure is the best medicine we ever used for all affections of throat and lungs.—WM. O. ENDSLEY, Vanburen, Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

A floating electric crane is used for the loading and unloading of ships at Kiel.

BOTANIC
B.B.B. BLOOD BALM
The Great Tested Remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers, Eczema, Sores, Eruptions, Weakness, Nervousness, and all
BLOOD AND SKIN DISEASES.
It is by far the best building up Tonic and Blood Purifier ever offered to the world. It makes new, rich blood, imparts renewed vitality, and possesses almost miraculous healing properties. Write for Book of Wonderful Cures, sent free on application.
If not kept by your local druggist, send $1.00 for a large bottle, or $5.00 for six bottles, and medicine will be sent, freight paid, by BLOOD BALM CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Dropsy CURED
Gives Quick Relief.
Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Am. 29, 1904.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

One of the flat housetops of Morocco girls may often be seen flying kites which they believe will give an augury of their fortune. If the kite remains unbroken good fortune is in store for them; it mishap befall it evil days will be their portion. Their faith in the oracle is so great that mishap to the kite plunges them in dejection.

A new cavern, rivaling in beauty the one at Luray, and Weir's cave and the Cave of Fountains, at Shenduh, Va., has been discovered in Shenandoah county, Virginia, near Woodstock. As yet the cavern has not been explored, but the portion that has been visited is filled with the most beautiful lime stone formations and contains large chambers.

According to Export, a German geographical paper, there are 7,642,650 Chinese living out of China—as many as the total populaton of iSweden and Norway. America has comparatively few of them—only 272,829, a few less than the little British island od Hongkong alone boasts. The Philippines, where the Chinese are already a problem, have only 80,000 of them.

Native Frenchmen drink very little wine. One small glass of claret suffices for a meal. Native Germans will hover over a stein of beer a whole evening, whereas an Englishman or American will guzzle twenty steins.

Government Pays Low Wages.

The British Government continues to be denounced by the workers' union for the low wages paid at Government work shops, shipyards, arsenals and gun factories, but all denunciations and resolutions seem to have no effect.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Swiss Law Little Observed.

The killing of birds is forbidden in the Swiss Canton of Tessin, and last year the rural police confiscated over 20,000 traps and nets. Nevertheless, the birds are offered for sale in the markets with impunity.

AFTER INLAND RECRUITS

NAVAL TRAINING STATION TO BE ESTABLISHED ON GREAT LAKES.

Best Men from the Interior—To Be Given a Regular Schooling Before Being Assigned to a Berth on the Salty Ocean—May Cost a Quarter of a Million.

The United States government is preparing to spend a quarter of a million dollars on the establishment of a training school on the Great Lakes, announces the Philadelphia Record. Strange would it be were there not the makings of many a tiptop bluejacket among the young men who reside in the eight states which border on the Great Lakes. They grow up under the progressive influence of this remarkable marine highway, 1000 miles in length and holding one-third of the fresh water on the globe, and past their doors, so to speak, sails the greatest fleet flying the American flag and carrying a commerce several times as great as that which passes through the Suez canal, and bigger than the combined traffic of the ports of New York and London. Fascinated by such a glimpse of joys on the wave, the strong, intangible magnetism of work before the mast each year lures many a boy to the berth of a fresh water sailor, and small wonder, therefore, that when Uncle Sam held out to these restless, red-blooded young Yankees the prospect of actually seeing the world, mid all the spectacular pomp of our navy, they flocked to his standard with enthusiasm.

When the officers of the United States navy found that these clear-eyed, strong-limbed giants from the interior, many of them country boys wha had never seen salt water, made the best recruits the service had ever known, they speedily conceived the idea of establishing a naval training station on the unsalted seas. A new incubator for jackies had to be established somewhere to meet the growing demands of the navy, and what better place than this mid-continent maritime realm, with its traditions of Perry's victory, and so it is planned to expend the sum of $250,000 in providing on the Great Lakes a naval training station that will be equal in every respect, if not superior, to those at Newport, R. I., and San Francisco, Cal.

With the new naval preparatory school in full swing attention will perforce be turned to the provision of training ships on the Great Lakes, for ultimately it is desired to turn out at this lake station bluejackets with so full and practical a knowledge of seamanship assigned direct to cruising men-of-war, ocean-going vessels. To be sure it will under such circumstances require a short time for these newcomers to get their "sea legs," for be it known ability to ride the short, choppy waves of the Great Lakes is no guarantee against seasickness under the influence of the long, rolling swell of the ocean, but this inconvenience will be minor and temporary.

Inasmuch as there is a treaty between the United States and Great Britain which prohibits either nation from maintaining more than one war vessel on the Great Lakes, it is probable that the embryo jackies will have to put up for the time being with the antiquated old gunboat Michigan, which is now the sole representative of Uncle Sam's naval sovereignty on the inland seas. The Michigan, which is an iron and wooden craft, is one of the oldest steam vessels in the United States government. She is a schooner-rigged vessel, 163 feet in length, 27 feet breadth, draws 9 feet of water, and displaces 685 tons. Her engines have only 365 horse power, and her best gait is little better than 11 miles an hour. She carries a crew of 90 men, and has an armament consisting of six 6-pounder guns, two one-pounders, and two Gatling guns.

The problem of floating training grounds may also be solved by calling into requisition several of the converted yachts now in the navy, such as the Hawk, which is now stationed on Lake Erie for the use of the Ohio naval militia. However, in the case of such vessels the batteries would have to be removed, which would prevent instruction in gunnery being given. In the end probably the treaty will be modified so that Uncle Sam may increase his fresh water naval fleet, or else the Michigan will be replaced by an up-to-date cruiser. The latter is the more probable now that Canada is building for lake service a fast steel cruiser which will be capable of steaming at a speed of more than 18 miles an hour, and will carry several powerful rapid-fire guns.

The principal product of the new naval training station on the lakes will be what are known in the navy as landsmen. In all probability there will also be classes for apprentices, as the more exclusive and more highly specialized recruits are termed, but most of the graduates from the fresh water institution will be landsmen. This is in accordance with the needs of the navy where the landsmen outnumber the apprentices two to one, making it necessary to replenish the supply in like proportion. In order to distinguish between the two classes of recruits it may be pointed out that apprentices are accepted only between the ages of 14 and 17 years, and in most instances are bound over to the service of the government during minority, agreements to that effect being signed by parents or guardians. Landsmen, on the other hand, may be minors at the time of enlistment, but there is no such imperative necessity for the qualification of youth since they are accepted when over 18 years of age.

Just here it may be noted that the curriculum at the new lake station will show less difference between the courses of instruction for landsmen and apprentices than has heretofore been manifest in our navy. Prior to the Spanish-American war Uncle Sam's naval officers scarcely thought it worth while to give landsmen any preliminary instruction prior to plunging them into the duties of life on our floating strongholds, but since the conflict with Spain awoke the nation to its naval needs there has been followed a plan whereby each landsman receives three months' schooling at a station and a like amount on a training vessel. The apprentices have been receiving six months' practical training on the shore and six months afloat, and it is planned to have landsmen at the new lake station have the benefit of a like amount.

The boy who enters upon a career at Uncle Sam's fresh water headquarters for the making of naval seamen will have a mighty busy time of it from the minute he takes up his new vocation. He will be furnished upon arrival with a uniform and equipment of bedding, and will be expected to learn to care for himself and keep his clothing in the pink of condition. Almost from the start he will have a chance to familiarize himself with the small arms drill, and will be taught to load and aim a four or five-inch gun. Then they will make trips in tugs or yachts, upon which they will be taught to steer, to heave the lead, to get under way, and to anchor.

At the lake station there will be a continuance in the fullest degree of Uncle Sam's policy of making the enlisted men of the American navy take rank as the best paid, best clothed and best fed naval sailors in the world. The meals which will be served will be made up of such wholesome dishes as roast beef, potatoes, stewed corn, bread, milk, coffee and ginger snaps. In order, too, that the boys shall have no possible ground for dissatisfaction, it has been arranged to give each one o fthem 15 days' leave of absence at the close of the training period in order that he may visit his home and in the full glory of his spick and span new naval toggery lord it over his envious and less fortunate chums ere he takes up his new duties on one of the nation's cruising men-of-war.

THE ANGORA IN MISSOURI.

How It Has Made Blue Grass Meadow Out of "No 'Count" Lands.

"Many counties in southwestern Missouri are rapidly changing from largely brush wastes into good grazing lands, and if I am not badly mistaken a few years more will see the last of the 'no 'count' lands of that part of the state," says G. A. Keener, who recently made a comprehensive trip through the different counties of the southwestern part of Missouri, and knows whereof he speaks, according to Wool Markets and Sheep.

"A traveler who has not been over the ground down there for three or four years will will not be able to recognize the country now. The vast tracts of idle land formerly covered with nothing but brush and dead stubble are now mostly covered with the finest kind of blue grass and supporting cattle and other forms of live stock where a few years ago animal life could find absolutely no sustenance. This has all come about through the efforts of the farmers, who during the past two years have been purchasing goats in other sections of the country and have placed them on the brush lands, trusting the little workers would economically clear the ground of the accumulation of twigs and other dead vegetation. Now goats are perhaps the most numerous class of live stock in that part of the country, and they have done the work expected of them, for thousands upon thousands of acres of land have been redeemed and are now covered by magnificent grasses and inhabited by cattle and swine. I saw one tract of 2600 acres that had been cleared off during the past year. To save my life I could not have told the land from a Kentucky blue grass farm. Several thousand goats were required to accomplish the work of clearing this immense farm. Most of the cleared tracts are of smaller size, ranging from 100 acres to a quarter or half section. In the aggregate, however, they form thousands of acres, all of which will doubtless be devoted to cattle growing in the years to come.

"This transformation in so short a time is almost miraculous and will mean a great deal for the southwest as it throws open section after section of good grass lands for the grazing and breeding of cattle and will result in a strong impetus being given the cattle industry in that part of the country. Farmers who have heretofore not been able to handle cattle for the reason that they have had no feed to spare for such a purpose and no grazing lands will now be in a position to keep on hand from one to two or three car loads, and the owners of bigger tracts will as easily handle several hundred where formerly they had not engaged in the catle business at all. The success of the goat brush cleaning experiments in Dade, Barton, Jasper and other counties will result in landowners throughout the whole southern part of the state and clear down into Arkansas endeavoring to do away with the old brush fields and to convert the lands into grass tracts for the grazing of cattle."

Comfort.

Mr. Grotrox—What! Would take my daughter from me? Why, she is all I have to comfort me in my old age!

Lord Notasent—Gad! I thought you had two million dollars!—Puck.

TOLD IN CALIFORNIA.

Helping the kidneys is helping the whole body, for it is the kidneys that remove the poisons and waste from the body. Learning this simple lesson has made many sick men and women well.

Judge A. J. Felter, of 318 So. E St., San Bernardino, Calif., says: "For 18 years my kidneys were not performing their functions properly. There was some backache, and the kidney secretions were profuse, containing also considerable sediment. Finally the doctors said I had diabetes. Doan's Kidney Pills wrought a great change in my condition, and now I sleep and feel well again."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Judge Felter will be mailed to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price 50 cents per box.

A French scientist has made some observations as to the behavior of different wild animals at sea, says the Westminster Gazette. The polar bear, he says, is the only one that takes to the sea, and is quite jolly when aboard ship. All others resent a trip on water and vociferously give vent to their feelings until sea-sickness brings silence. The tiger suffers most of all. He whines, his eyes water continually and he rubs his stomach with his paws. Horses are very bad sailors and often perish on a sea voyage. Oxen are heroic in their attempts not to give way to sickness. Elephants do not like the sea, but they are amenable to medical treatment.

The engineers who have studied the effects of fire in tall buildings in Baltimore seem to agree that iron and steel should not be intermingled in the frame of a building. Cast iron after heating and cooling shows a permanent expansion, while under similar conditions steel will return to its original dimensions. Baltimore's steel skeleton buildings resisted the fire, while cast iron buildings lay in shattered ruins. One towering steel building, although gutted from top to bottom, was found to be plumb and the skeleton in such perfect condition that the building could be refinished and occupied again.

The czar has given a commission in the Daghestan cavalry to Prince Napoleon Murat, great grandson of Napoleon's marshal, the stable boy whom Napoleon made king of Naples. He resigned, to accept this place, a lieutenancy in the Ninth Cuirassiers of the French army, in which service he won great honor in Madagascar. His grandmother was Caroline Fraser, of Philadelphia, who was governess in the family of Joseph Bonaparte when he lived in Bordentown, N. J., and afterwards married Lucien Murat. His mother, the wife of Achille Murat, was a Mingrelian princess.

At Huntsville a warrant charging forgery has been sworn out against Lena Johnson, alias Nellie Smith, a young woman of attractive appearance, who claims to be from Knoxville. The woman tried to borrow a sum of money from a bank on a forged note. She has disappeared since, leaving no trace behind her.

The Liberty Bell is at St. Louis.

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did."—MISS GUILA GANNON, 359 Jones St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary Amateur Art Association.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

When one considers that Miss Gannon's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all.

DEATH LIST INCREASES

Slocum Casualties Will Reach More Than 500. Divers Still Finding Bodies.

435 BODIES ARE RECOVERED.

Overturned Hot Grease Caused the Fire—Hospitals and Morgues are Crowded With Victims.

Six hundred men, women and children, at a conservative estimate, met death Wednesday by the burning, beaching and sinking of the big three-decker excursion boat General Slocum, which took fire in the East river, near the entrance to Long Island sound, while on her way to a sound resort with more than a thousand excursionists, the Sunday school pupils of St. Mark's German Lutheran church, their relatives and friends.

According to a statement issued by Coroner O'Gorman, 485 bodies have been recovered from the destroyed vessel, burned to death or drowned, and found on the shores to which they had been washed, or picked up in the river where they had jumped or fallen from the burning vessel.

Great preparations had been made for the seventeenth annual excursion of the Sunday school of St. Mark's German Lutheran church, and the General Slocum had been chartered to carry the excursionists to Locust Grove, one of the resorts on Long Island sound. It is variously estimated that there was between 1,500 and 2,500 persons on board the General Slocum when she left the pier, though the company which owns the Slocum officially states that the number of passengers was 873, that being only one-third of the vessel's capacity. It is thought, however, that there were several hundred children in arms, for whom fares are not usually charged.

At 134th street, there are several lumber yards and oil tanks, and as Captain VanSchaik, in command of the General Slocum, started to turn his vessel toward the shore there he was warned not to set fire to the lumber and oil, so he changed his course for North Brothers Island, one of the twin islands near the entrance to the sound, some half a mile away, where the boat partially burned was beached.

She sank near this place two hours and twenty-five minutes after the fire was first discovered.

In the meantime the passengers had become panic-stricken and those who were not caught by the flames rushed to the rear of the vessel and hundreds jumped overboard. It is alleged that the life preservers were too securely fastened to their holdings to be available and stories are told of frantic efforts made by strong men to cut them loose; but even if they could have been torn down, they were too high up for the children to reach. It is also alleged that no attempt was made to get out the fire apparatus at the first cry of fire, though Captain VanShaik says that he immediately rang the bells for getting out the apparatus. According to several statements, no attempt was made to lower boats or life rafts.

The scenes on the deck of the steamer as she proceeded up the East river were those of merry-making, customary on such occasions. The bands were playing, and the children were singing, dancing and waving handkerchiefs in answer to the salutations of those on shore or from passing steamers.

Before leaving North Brother island Coroner Darlington said there were probably hundreds of corpses still in the wreck of the hull of the General Slocum.

An eye-witness said that the greatest loss of life was due to the collapsing of the heavy upper deck. It fell soon after the fire started, crushing hundreds of persons who had gathered on the lower deck. It was then that the great panic ensued amid the stream of persons going over the rail into the water.

So far as known only one of the crew of the Slocum lost his life. This was Michael McGrath, stewart of the steamer, whose body has been recovered. When he jumped overboard he had with him, according to Captain VanSchaik, three or four hundred dollars. The money could not be found when the clothing was searched.

Divers were still busy taking bodies from the hold of the vessel, which they say is choked with the remains of human beings, while the bodies of others who leaped or were thrown into the river have not been recovered.

The fire is said to have broken out in a lunch room through the overturning of a pot of grease. The wind was high and all efforts to subdue the fire were futile.

A peculiar accident occurred on the Louisville and Nashville line between Tennessee and Alabama, and by which an aged white woman met her death. The train struck the woman on the Tennessee side of the line and knocked her over the line into Alabama.

Both the Southern and the Seaboard are seeking the shortest route between Birmingham and Atlanta.

Several new buildings are going up in Pratt City.

A MOSQUITO BRIGADE

Is Part of the Panama Medical Staff Arrangements.

Dr. W. C. Gorgas, chief sanitary officer of the Panama canal commission, will sail from New York June 21st for the isthmus and establish quarters in the canal zone. Dr. Gorgas has selected all his principal assistants and they will accompany him.

Dr. Henry R. Carter, of the public health and marine hospital service, will be in charge of marine sanitation, which comes under the care of the commission for the ports of Colon and Panama. This includes quarantine arrangements, etc.

Dr. John W. Ross, medical director of the navy, will have charge of the hospital controlled by the commission. There will be at least twenty-five of these, it being the intention to establish a small building devoted to this purpose at each village along the route of the canal.

Dr. Louis A. Lagarde, U. S. A., will be in charge of the general hospital at Panama, which was established by the French company and is considered a model institution of its kind The French had eight hundred beds in this hospital, but under American interests better sanitation will reduce this number to about six hundred.

Joseph A. LePrince, who is in charge of similar work at Havana, will be in charge of the mosquito brigade in the canal zone.

FORTY THOUSAND ACRES

Of Winston County Lands Bought by Eastern Syndicate.

It is learned that a party of eastern capitalists has purchased 40,000 acres of land in Winston county. Much of the land contains coal, iron and timber and this they expect to develop, and it is likely that they will build a railroad to this property either from New Decatur or some other point. The lands which contain no minerals will be colonized.

Much of Winston county is practically undeveloped from the lack of railroads. The county contains virgin forests of the finest of oak, poplar, chestnut and other timbers while her fields of coal and iron are the richest in the country. But few mines have ever been opened up in Winston county from the fact that railroads do not reach the fields.

Two Sloss Fires.

The commissary of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company at Flat Top mines was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning. A good-sized stock of goods was carried. N. J. Harrison, one of the clerks, was asleep in the place at the time of the fire and was gotten out before being suffocated to death. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss is estimated at $5,000, covered by insurance Fire also damaged one of the ore washers of the Sloss-Sheffield company at Russellville, doing about $2,000 worth of damages. Insured.

Attempt to Blow Up Church.

It became known that an attempt by some unknown person was recently made to blow up with dynamite the church of St. Anthony, St. Louis, which is in charge of the Franciscans. The explosive was a stick of dynamite discovered under the altar, attached to a fuse running to one of the candles. Inability of an attendant to light this particular candle led to the discovery of the fuse and dynamite.

Frank Barker, the young white man who was convicted of the murder of a Jew peddler in St. Clair county, was removed to Birmingham and placed in the county jail for safe keeping.

Bolling Property Bought.

W. C. Shackleford, of Birmingham, has closed a trade for all the Milner, Caldwell & Fowler lands in Butler county, known as the Bolling property, situated nine miles south of Greenville. It will be remembered that this tract of land, embracing in the neighborhood of 30,000 acres, was purchased about two years ago by a syndicate. Because of failure to make payments, the lands were sold under mortgage and became again the property of the original owners.

Killed His Brother-in-Law.

Montezuma Goodwin, a white farmer, who lived near Trussville, was shot and killed Sunday afternoon by James Sims, his brother-in-law. Sims is under arrest.

It is said that the trouble resulted from a family feud; that the deceased went to Sims' house Saturday night with a knife and threatened to kill Sims.

During the latter part of July a party of Huntsville, Florence and Decatur people will make a trip on a steamboat from Riverton, Ala., to St. Louis. They will provide themselves with every comfort and take their time going and coming. In St. Louis they will not be worried in the hunt for hotels, but will use their boat as a hotel.

7,000 Russians in Retreat.

A dispatch from Tokio, dated June 15th, says news has been received there, but has not yet been officially published, of a great Japanese victory near Fuchou, on the railway seventy miles north of Port Arthur.

The Russians, it is added, were overwhelmed, lost a thousand men, left all their guns on the field and retreated in disorder.

Russians to the number of 7,000 men are now in full flight toward Tshi Chaino and Kai Chow.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT ROCKY MOUNT.

The Sabbath school of Rocky Mount church held their annual festival on Sunday, June 12th. Mr. Charles L. Glasscock, the very able superintendent of the school, had charge of the exercises throughout the day and carried them to a successful conclusion. There were numbers of folks there from neighboring communities, many more than could find room inside the church. All brought their baskets, except a few unfortunate ones, but they were hospitably cared for and plenty to spare. Though the attendance was so large, the conduct of all was exceptionally good, and not a discordant note marred the harmony of the day. The following programme was carried out by the members of the school. Songs of praise were sung by the entire school at intervals during the programme, Miss Laura Bean, of Jemison presiding at the organ:

Opening prayer, Mr. C. M. Northcutt; greeting to all, Mr. Charles Harps; welcome, Misses Clora Green and Blanche Dyson; "When the Summer Twilight Falls," Grady Headley; "The Judge," Master Dewey Northcutt; "Corner Work," Lafayette Glasscock; "A Child's Prayer," Wilson Collum; "When Papa Was a Little Boy," Willie Martin; "Children's Home," Maud Northcutt; "He Knoweth Best," Daisy Robinson; "What Can a Child Do?" Maggie Martin; "Back to Grandpa's," Austin Barnett; "A King," Annie Matthews; "The Boy for Me," Tommy Robinson; "A Boy's Plea," Martin Northcutt; "Step by Step," Simpson Glasscock; "Up in Heaven," Ida Branch; "Somebody," Myrtle Northcutt; "A Gentle Boy," Earle Green; "A Little Maid's Sermon," Ida Collum; "The Golden Band," Misses Carrie Northcutt, Fay Mathews, Ida Branch, Wilda Collum, Leila Collum and Clora Green; "I am Great, and You are Small," Clifton Green; "Mother's Advice," Leila Collum; "Song of the Burden Bearer," Laura Robinson; "Some Day," Luther Glasscock; "Jesus on the Cross," Minnie Martin; "Before It Is Too Late, Cassie Northcutt; "Pilgrim's Progress" and "Little Orphan," Emma Lowery; "Flowers for the Dead," Fay Matthews; "I Will Come Again," Perry Thomas; "Be Careful What You Say," Houston Harrell; "Johnnie's Quandary," Charlie Thames; "Evening Prayer," Maggie Martin; "Our Lambs," Laura Robinson; "Beautiful Hands," Fay Matthews; "A Drunkard's Wife," Nettie Matthews; "An Infinite Giver," Mamie Branch; "Through the Dark Valley," Leila Collum; "Memories of the Old Kitchen, Ida Collum; "Little Pilgrims," Cassie Northcutt; "Prodigal Son," Minnie Martin; "The Everlasting Memorial," Emma Lowery; "The Children's Friend," Pinkney Collum; "The Gift of God to Fallen Man," Clifton Green.

SECTIONS OF THE NEW LAW AS TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Sec. 6. On the first Saturday in July, 1904, and each fourth year thereafter, the qualified electors of each public school district shall meet at the district public school house and elect from among the free-holders and householders who can read and write, residing in such districts, a local board of three district trustees, whose duty shall be as hereinafter provided. Such district trustees shall hold office for the term of four years from the time of their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

Sec. 7. The trustees provided for in the last preceding section shall, within ten days after their election, meet at the public school district house, or at some place more convenient to all concerned, and shall organize by electing one of their number chairman and another secretary

Sec. 8. The district trustees shall, during the month of August, 1901, and in every even numbered year thereafter, make an enumeration of all the children within school age in their respective districts, in accordance with the requirements of section 3573 of the code of 1896, and report the same as herein provided to the county superintendent of education, who shall, by the 15th day of said month, make a written report of such enumeration by numbered districts to the state superintendent of education, and it shall be the duty of the county superintendent of education to enumerate or cause to be enumerated all the children of school age in any township or townships in his county in which the sixteenth section interest exceeds the amount of per capita apportionment from the general school fund, and report the same to the office of the state superintendent of education.

Sec. 9. It shall be the duty of the said district trustees to care for all school property, employ teachers for their school districts, such employment to be subject to the approval of the county board of education, to visit the schools within their respective districts, observe the management of the same, to make quarterly reports of the condition of such school to the county superintendent of education and to perform such other duties as may be required by the county board of education hereinafter provided for.

Sec. 10. The chairman of the several board of district trustees shall meet at the court house in their respective counties on the second Saturday in August after their election and every four years thereafter, and shall elect four county school trustees, who shall hold office for the term of four years from the date of their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified. Before entering upon the duties of office, they shall take the oath of office prescribed by the constitution of the state. The county superintendent of education and said four county trustees shall constitute the county board of education within their respective counties. The county superintendent of education shall be the chief executive officer of said county, boards of education and shall see that all the rules, regulations and orders of said county boards are enforced; provided, however, that no county trustee shall, during his term of office, be eligible to election as a district trustee.

Sec. 11. That said county board of education shall have entire control of the public schools within their respective counties, unless otherwise provided by law. They shall make rules and regulations for the government of the school, see that teachers perform their duties, and exercise such powers, consistent with the law as in their judgment will best subserve the cause of education.. The said board shall have the right to acquire, purchase, lease, receive, hold, transmit and convey the title to real and personal property for school purposes. Said board of education shall by and in name of county board of education sue and be sued, contract and be contracted with; all contracts to be made after resolution adopted by said board and spread on its minutes and signed by the president and secretary and all process shall be executed on the secretary of said board. tf

GIVES EIGHT FOR ONE.

What the Sandwich Islands are Worth to the United States.

"In the six years since annexation the net profits from Hawaii to the federal treasury have aggregated $2,259,090," is the statement of George R. Carter, governor of the Hawaiian islands. Continuing, he said:

"Uncle Sam took away from Hawaii fully one-third of its annual revenue by transferring to Washington the entire receipts from import duties. The islands have presented into the treasury of the United States over $8 for every man, woman and child living on them, getting back but little more than $1 per capita. We have by reason of this loss of revenue been forced to cut down our expenses about 33 1-3 per cent and this retrenchment has caused no small hurt and inconvenience.

"The great disadvantage we labor under is that there has been no recognition by the United States congress of our exceptional situation and special needs. We need money for improvement of our harbors, but not one cent has been forthcoming."

WILLIAM LOGAN CAPTURED.

Is Charged With Murder Committed About Three Years Ago.

William Logan, who has been wanted for about two years, has been captured and is now in the county jail at Tuscaloosa to answer the charge of murder. He was found in Louisiana.

Logan is charged with the killing of Lewis Beavers, which occurred north of Tuscaloosa, two years ago. It is said that the two men got into some difficulty when Logan struck his adversary with an ax and afterwards shot him. The government offered $100 reward for his arrest.

Six Ships There.

Rear Admiral Barker expects to leave Lisbon on June 16th for Gibraltar, where the squadron will remain until the Morocco incident is settled. On the arrival there of the Illinois and the Missouri the squadron will consist of six of the most modern battleships, besides the two squadrons of cruisers and gunboats now at Tangier.

They have an equipment of about 2,400 men, a large landing force if necessary.

It is also foreseen that the claim for an indemnity against Morocco may have to be settled before the Perdicaris incident is closed, this indemnity covering redress for the indignity to the prisoners and the heavy expense involved in sending ships to Tangier.

To Increase the Fund.

The society of the alumni of the University of Alabama has determined to increase the educational fund of that institution from $2,500 to $5,000 before 1906 and active steps are now being taken to raise money.

At present the education fund is only $2,500, which is not deemed sufficient by those who have the welfare of the university at heart. The fund is loaned to needy students who are unable to pay their way through college. They give their notes for the amounts they borrow, which are to be paid back at the end of six years and bear 6 per cent interest.

Special Term Called.

A special term of the supreme court of Alabama called for July 5th to hear the charges against Probate Judge J. C. Wood, of Lowndes county. The court will meet on that day for a public hearing and investigation of the charges. Testimony will be heard by the court as to whether Judge Wood bought votes in the April primary, whether he is addicted to the uuse of intoxicating liquors so as to unfit him for his duties, and whether he failed in certain specified instances to discharge the duty of probate judge.

Moody to Succeed Knox.

It is learned from a high source that Attorney General Knox will resign from the cabinet in a few days and will be succeeded by Mr. Moody, the present secretary of the navy. Mr. Knox has been appointed United States senator to succeed the late M. S. Quay.

The twenty-third annual meeting of the Alabama Educational association is in session at Tuscaloosa.

Geneva county's books are reported in good condition.

$1,000,000 Verdict.

A verdict for $1,000,000, ... terest for one year and seven ... making a total of $1,100,000 ... turned by a jury before Justice ... cer, of the supreme court ... lyn, in the suit of M... against General Louis F... services rendered in bringing ... the sale of the Western ... railroad to a syndicate.

George Gould and other ... capitalists appeared as ...

Judge Spencer denied ... a new trial, but granted a ... stay.

The Sak's Store

Birmingham, Alabama

READY-MADE Apparel for M... Women and Children.

Our Mail Order Department is qu... efficient and serviceable.

Write for Catalogue

A most complete

Stock of General Merch... dise, Dress Goods, E...

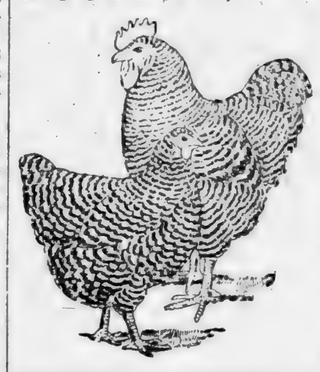
The Millinery Department

Is complete in every detail and is in ch... of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara S... of St. Louis

P. D. WILSO...

CLANTON, ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN POULTRY YA...



WE have as good CHICKE... as there are in the cou...

Barred Plymouth Roc...

And you may have 15... fresh eggs for 50c. I... want them shipped p... add 10c for packing.

Give us a trial and we can plea...

MRS. W. NIX...

Maplesville, Alab...

GEN. R L MERCHANDISE A... FERTILIZERS

FOR SALE.

Troy Special & Mule Bra...

"Are the Best on Earth"

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, - - - Alaba...

We Have Perfected Arrangements Whereby That Practical and Instructive Newspaper

THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER

Known throughout the State of Al... bama for the full line of State Ne... contained in each issue, will be fu... nished in connection with Our Pub... lication at a Remarkably Low Pric...

Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Financial Page. Best State News.

For Village, Suburban Residents, and in fact for all actively engaged in agricultural pursuits, or family live... Weekly Advertiser will be found well nigh indispensable... It is pure, bright and practical all the way through, and... meets the requirements of the entire family. It is popular throughout the South, and no one should be without...

Our Great Special Offer:

The Weekly Union one year - $1.0...
Weekly Advertiser one year - $1.0...

Both for $1.25.

T...

VOL. II.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS

No. 1, "Valley Creek ... the N. E. corner of Se... runn... W. 2 miles to Little Oak... ... thence down the creek to the S... corner of Sec. 29, ... county line, thence S. ... line, thence E. 4 miles ... miles to point of begin... in T. 20, R. 11

No. 2, "Oden ... N. E. corner of S... miles to county line ... county line 5 miles ... tle Oakmulgee creek, thence up ... creek, to the N. E. corner of S... thence E. 2 miles to the N. E. ... of Sec. 22, thence N. ... of beginning, all in ... 11.

No. 3, "Elders... ... lows: Beginning at the S. W. ... of Sec. 25, in T. 20, R. ... run... N. 2 1-2 miles, thence E. ... Big M... berry creek, thence down said cr... to county line, thence W. ... beginning

No. 4, "Stanton" Beginning at 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 14 and ... in T. 20, R. 11, running N. 2 1-2 mi... to township line dividing T. 20, R. ... and T. 21, R. 11, thence E. ... the S. W. corner of Sec. 36, T. 21, ... 11, thence N. E. to the N. E. cor... of Sec. 36, T. 21, R. 11 ... Big Mulberry creek, thence down ... creek to where it crosses section ... between 33 and 34, thence S. to the ... E. corner Sec. 9, T. 20, R. 12, thence ... to Big Mulberry creek, thence ... said creek to the 1-2 mile line in S... 17, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 5, "Alpine:" Beginning at ... N. E. corner of Sec. 24, T. 20, R. ... running S. along range line 2 ... miles, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence ... 1-2 mile to county line, thence ... along county line to Big Mulb... creek, thence up said creek to w... it crosses section line between S. ... 17, T. 20, R. 12, thence E. to the ... E. corner Sec. 16, thence S. 1 ... thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 6, "Adams:" Beginning at ... E. corner Sec. 26, T. 21, R. 12, ... ning S. to S. E. corner of Sec. 1... 20, R. 12, thence W. to S. W. corner ... Sec. 15, thence N. to Mulberry cr... thence up said ... crosses section line between 27 ... 34, T. 21, R. 12, thence ... beginning

No. 7, "Weaver Field:" Begin... at N. W. corner of Sec. 18, T. 2... 13, running E. to Little Mulb... creek, thence down said ... ty line, thence W. a... to the 1-2 mile stob at S... R. 12, thence N. 1-2 ... 1-2 mile to range line, thence N. ... point of beginning

No. 8, "Wayside:" Beginning ... the S. W. corner Sec. 7, T. 20, R. ... running N. 2 1-2 miles to 1-2 m... stake, Sec. 31, T. 21, R. 12, thence ... to Little Mulberry Creek, thence do... said creek to where it crosses the ... line of 9 and 10, T. 20, R. 12, the... west to point of beginning.

No. 9, "Center Point:" Begin... at the S. E. corner Sec. 26, T. 20, ... 12, running W. along county line ... Little Mulberry creek, thence up ... creek to a point 1 mile S. of to... ship line in T. 20, R. 12, thence E. ... Swift creek, thence down said cr... to county line, thence W. along co... ty line to S. E. corner of Sec... thence S. to point of beginning.

No. 10, "Popwell:" Beginning a... point 1 mile S. of township line ... Little Mulberry creek, T. 20, R. ... running up said creek to a point ... mile N. of township line in T. 21, ... 12, thence E. to Swift creek, the... down Swift creek to a point 1 m... S. of township line in T. 20, R. ... thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 11, "Beth Salem:" Begin... at the N. E. corner Sec. 2, T. 20, ... 14, running S. 1 mile, thence E. ... mile, thence S. to ... W. along county line to Swift cr... thence up said creek to where it for... thence up E. prong of ... township line dividing T. 20, R. ... and T. 21, R. 14, thence E. to ... beginning.

No. 12, "Billingsley:" Beginning ... the N. E. corner Sec. 34, T. 21, ... 14, running S. 1 mile, thence W. ... E. prong of Swift creek, thence do... said creek to the fork, thence up w... prong of Swift creek to 1-2 mile st... between Sec. 29 and 30, T. 21, R. ... thence E. to the 1-2 mile stake ... tween Sec. 27 and 28, T. 21, R. ... thence S. 1-2 mile, thence E. to p... of beginning.

No. 13, "Enterprise:" Beginning ... the S. E. corner Sec. 18, T. 20, R. ... running N. to 1-2 mile stake betw... Sec. 31 and 32, T. 21, R. 15, the... W. to 1-2 mile stake between Sec ... and 35, T. 21, R. 14, thence S. 1 ... miles, thence 1-2 mile E., thence ... 2 miles to county line, thence E. ... point of beginning.

No. 14, "Evergreen:" Beginning ... the N. W. corner Sec. 5, T. 20, R. ... running E. 2 miles, thence N. to So... Prong creek, thence E. 1 mile al... said creek, thence S. to township l... dividing T. 21, R. 15 and T. 20, R. ... thence E. 3-4 mile, thence S. to cou... line, thence W. 3 3-4 miles; thence ... to point of beginning.

Succeed Knox.

from a high source
eral Knox will rebinet in a few days
by Mr. Moody, of the navy
ed States
ood the late M

$1,000,000 Verdict.

A verdict for $1,000,000, terest for one year and seven making a total of $1,100,000, turned by a jury before Judge cer, of the supreme court, in ton, in the suit of Morris against General Louis Fitzgera services rendered in bringing the sale of the Western Ma railroad to a syndicate.

George Gould and other pro capitalists appeared as witnesse

Judge Spencer denied a moti a new trial, but granted a 60 stay

Sak's Store
ham, Alabama
EADY-MADE Apparel for M omen and Children.
r Mail Order Department is qui cient and serviceable.
Catalogue

ost complete
Stock of General Mercha
dise, Dress Goods, E
illinery
ment
s complete in every detail and is in cha f a first-class milliner, Miss Clara Sm
f St. Louis
P. D. WILSON
ABAMA.

POULTRY YAR
WE have as good
CHICKEN
as there are in the coun
Barred Plymouth Rock
And you may have 15
fresh eggs for 50c. If want them shipped pl
add 10c for packing.
Give us a trial and we can please
MRS. W. NIX
Maplesville, Alab

L MERCHANDISE AN FERTILIZERS
FOR SALE.
pecial & Mule Bran
e the Best on Earth"
C. JONES,
Alaban

Perfected Arrangements Whereby tical and Instructive Newspaper
HE WEEKLY
DVERTISER
roughout the State of Ala
the full line of State New in each issue, will be fur connection with Our Pub
t a Remarkably Low Price County News. Best Sporting
Best Market and Finan
Page. Best State News.
urban Residents, and in fact for all active agricultural pursuits, or family like, th is paper will be found well nigh indispensable ht and practical all the way through, an rements of the entire family. It is popular South, and no one should be without Great Special Offer:
ly Union one year - $1.0 ivertiser one year - $1.0
oth for $1.25.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 23, 1904. NO. 13.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS.

No. 1, "Valley Creek:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 22, running W. 2 miles to Little Oakmulgee creek, thence down the creek to the S. W. corner of Sec. 29, thence W. 1 mile to county line, thence S. 1 mile to county line, thence E. 4 miles, thence N. 3 miles to point of beginning, all lying in T. 20, R. 11.

No. 2, "Oden:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 3, running W. 4 miles to county line, thence S. along county line 5 miles, thence E. to Little Oakmulgee creek, thence up said creek to the N. E. corner of Sec. 20, thence E. 2 miles to the N. E. corner of Sec. 22, thence N. 3 miles to point of beginning, all situated in T. 20, R. 11.

No. 3, "Riderville:" Bounded as follows: Beginning at the S. W. corner of Sec. 35, in T. 20, R. 11, running N. 3 1-2 miles, thence E. to Big Mulberry creek, thence down said creek to county line, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 4, "Stanton:" Beginning at the 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 14 and 15 in T. 20, R. 11, running N. 2 1-2 miles to township line dividing T. 20, R. 11, and T. 21, R. 11, thence E. 1 mile to the S. W. corner of Sec. 36, T. 21, R. 11, thence N. E. to the N. E. corner of Sec. 36, T. 21, R. 11, thence E. to Big Mulberry creek, thence down said creek to where it crosses section line between 33 and 34, thence S to the S. E. corner Sec. 9, T. 20, R. 12, thence W to Big Mulberry creek, thence down said creek to the 1-2 mile line in Sec. 17, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 5, "Alpine:" Beginning at the S. E. corner of Sec. 24, T. 20, R. 12, running S. along range line 2 1-2 miles, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile to county line, thence W. along county line to Big Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses section line between 8 and 17, T. 20, R. 12, thence E. to the N. E. corner Sec. 16, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 6, "Adams:" Beginning at N. E. corner Sec. 26, T. 21, R. 12, running S. to S. E. corner of Sec. 12, T. 20, R. 12, thence W. to S. W. corner Sec. 15, thence N. to Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses section line between 27 and 34, T. 21, R. 12, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 7, "Weaver Field:" Beginning at N. W. corner of Sec. 18, T. 20, R. 13, running E. to Little Mulberry creek, thence down said creek to county line, thence W. along county line to the 1-2 mile stob of Sec. 36, T. 20, R. 13, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile to range line, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 8, "Wayside:" Beginning at the S. W. corner Sec. 7, T. 20, R. 13, running N. 2 1-2 miles to 1-2 mile stake, Sec. 31, T. 21, R. 13, thence E. to Little Mulberry Creek, thence down said creek to where it crosses the S. line of 9 and 10, T. 20, R. 13, thence west to point of beginning.

No. 9, "Center Point:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 36, T. 20, R. 13, running W. along county line to Little Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to a point 1 mile S. of township line in T. 20, R. 13, thence E. to Swift creek, thence down said creek to county line, thence W. along county line to S. E. corner of Sec. 13, thence S. to point of beginning.

No. 10, "Popwell:" Beginning at a point 1 mile S. of township line on Little Mulberry creek, T. 20, R. 13, running up said creek to a point 1-2 mile N. of township line in T. 21, R. 13, thence E. to Swift creek, thence down Swift creek to a point 1 mile S. of township line in T. 20, R. 14, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 11, "Beth Salem:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 3, T. 20, R. 14, running S. 1 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence S. to county line, thence W. along county line to Swift creek, thence up said creek to where it forks, thence up E. prong of said creek to township line dividing T. 20, R. 14 and T. 21, R. 14, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 12, "Billingsley:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 34, T. 21, R. 14, running S. 1 mile, thence W. to E. prong of Swift creek, thence down said creek to the fork, thence up west prong of Swift creek to 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 29 and 30, T. 21, R. 14, thence E. to the 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 27 and 28, T. 21, R. 14, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 13, "Enterprise:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 18, T. 20, R. 15, running N. to 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 31 and 32, T. 21, R. 15, thence W. to 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 31 and 35, T. 21, R. 14, thence S 1 1-2 miles, thence 1-2 mile E., thence S. 2 miles to county line, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 14, "Evergreen:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 5, T. 20, R. 15, running E. 2 miles, thence N. to South Prong creek, thence E. 1 mile along said creek, thence S. to township line dividing T. 21, R. 15 and T. 20, R. 15, thence E. 3-4 mile, thence S. to county line, thence W. 3 3-4 miles, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 15, "Verbena:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 13, T. 20, R. 15, running N. to Sandy creek, thence down said creek to Chestnut creek, thence N. along section lines to the N. E. corner, Sec. 30, T. 21, R. 16, thence W. 1 1-2 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. to county line, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 16, "McDonald:" Beginning at the S. W. corner Sec. 18, T. 20, R. 16, running N. to Sandy creek, thence down said creek to Chestnut creek, thence down Chestnut creek to Coosa river, thence down Coosa river to the county line, thence W. along county line to point of beginning.

No. 17, "Bethel:" Beginning at the S. E. corner, Sec. 33, T. 21, R. 15, running N. 1 mile, thence E. 1-4 mile, thence N. to Chestnut creek, thence up said creek to a point 1-4 mile S. of the south line of Sec. 16, thence west to range line, thence S. along range line 2 1-4 miles, thence E. 1 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 18, "Cooper:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 35, T. 21, R. 15, running N. 1 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence N. 1 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence W. to Chestnut creek, thence down said creek to a point 1-4 mile E. of section line between 27 and 28, thence S. to section line, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. to South Prong creek, thence E. along said creek 1 mile, thence S. to township line, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 19, "Corinth:" Beginning at the mouth of Chestnut creek, running up said creek to section line between 31 and 32, T. 21, R. 16, thence N. 2 miles, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. to Blue creek, thence down Blue creek to Coosa river, thence down said river to point of beginning.

No. 20, "Ingram:" Beginning at the S. W. corner Sec. 31, T. 21, R. 11, running E. 5 miles, thence N. E. to the N. E. corner Sec. 36, thence N. 2 miles, thence W. 5 miles to Big Oakmulgee creek, thence down said creek to the county line, thence down said county line to point of beginning.

No. 21, "County Line:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 6, T. 21, R. 11, running E. 2 miles, thence S. to Big Oakmulgee creek, thence down said creek to the county line, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 22, "Shoults:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 4, T. 21, R. 11, running E. 4 miles, thence S. 3 miles, thence W. to Big Oakmulgee creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses the section line between 8 and 9, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 23, "Maplesville:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 6, T. 21, R. 12, running S. 5 miles, thence E. to Big Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to range line, thence N. to the N. E. corner Sec. 13, thence W. 2 miles, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. 2 miles, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. to point of beginning.

N. 24, "Golden Ridge:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 28, T. 22, R. 12, running S. 3 miles to the S. W. corner Sec. 4, T. 21, R. 12, thence E. 2 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. 2 miles to range line, thence N. 4 miles to the N. E. corner Sec. 25, T. 22, R. 12 ,thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 25, "Sardis:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 20, T. 21, R. 13, running W. 2 miles, thence S. to Mulberry creek, thence down said creek to where it crosses section line between 27 and 34, thence E. to range line, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence E. 2 1-2 miles, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 26, "Culp:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 12, T. 21, R. 13, running W. 2 miles, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 3-4 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence S. 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 1 1-2 miles, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence N. to Little Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to range line, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 27, "Bynum:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 7, T. 21, R. 14, running S. 2 miles, thence E. to Swift creek, thence down said creek to 1-2 mile line, crossing section 32, thence W. to 1-2 mile stake on section line between 34 and 35, T. 21, R. 13, thence N. 1-2 miles, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence N. to Little Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to the range line, thence N. to the N. W. corner Sec. 7, T. 21, R. 14, thence E. to the point of beginning.

No. 28, "Highlands:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 8, T. 21, R. 14, running E. 3 miles, thence S. 4 miles, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence W. to Swift creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses section line between 17 and 20, thence W. to the S. W. corner of Sec. 17, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 29, "Aldridge:" Beginning at 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 31 and 36 on range line dividing T. 21, R. 14 and T. 21, R. 15, running N. along range line to Walnut creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses the section line between 2 and 3 in T. 21, R. 14, thence S. to the 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 34 and 35, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 30, "Maple Springs:" Beginning at the 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 3 and 4, T. 21, R. 15, running west 3 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. 3 miles, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 31, "Cross Roads:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 12, T. 21, R. 15, running W. 3 miles, thence S. 2 1-4 miles, thence W. to Chestnut creek, thence down said creek to the 1-2 mile line of Sec. 21, thence E. to range line, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 32, "Walnut Creek:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 16, T. 22, R. 15, running S. to Hog Creek, thence down said creek to 1-2 mile line in Sec. 22, thence S. to the south line of Sec. 3, T. 21, R. 15, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence W. 3 miles, thence N. to Walnut creek, thence down said creek to point of beginning.

No. 33, "Providence:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 1, T. 21, R. 15, running N. 1 mile, thence E. 500 yards, thence N. to Walnut creek, thence up said creek to Hog creek, thence up said creek to the 1-2 mile line of Sec. 22, T. 22, R. 15, thence S. to the south line of Sec. 3, T. 21, R. 15, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 34, "Pleasant Cherry:" Beginning at the mouth of Walnut creek, running down Coosa river to the mouth of Blue creek, thence up said creek to the range line between T. 21, R 15 and T. 21, R. 16, thence N. to the N. E. corner Sec. 1, T. 21, R. 15, thence E. 500 yards, thence N. to Walnut creek, thence down said creek to point of beginning.

No. 35, "Macedonia:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 1, T. 22, R. 12, running S. 2 miles, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. 2 miles, thence W. to county line, thence N. 4 miles, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 36, "Mullins' Hill:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 15, T. 22 R. 13, running S. 1 mile thence W. to Gail creek, thence down said creek to the south line of Sec. 29, thence W. to the range line, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence N. 2 miles, thence E. 1-4 mile, thence N. 1 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence S. 1-4 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence S. 3-4 mile, then E. to point of beginning.

No. 37, "Isabella:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 28, T. 22, R. 13, running S. 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence S. 2 miles, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 2 miles, thence N. 4 miles, thence E. to Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to the south line of Sec. 20, thence E. to the point of beginning.

No. 38, "Pine Oak:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 28, T. 22, R. 13, running S. 3 miles, thence W. 2 miles, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. 2 miles, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. 2 1-2 miles, thence E. 1 1-2 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 39, "Unity:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 3, T. 21, R. 14, running W. to the range line, thence N. 3 1-4 miles, thence E. 3 miles, thence S. to Skull Bone branch, thence down said branch to Goose Pond creek, thence down said creek to section line between 34 and 35, thence S. to the point of beginning.

No. 40, "Lomax:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 14, T. 22, R. 14, running W. 1 mile, thence N. to Yellow Leaf creek, thence up said creek to Gum swamp, thence up said swamp to the N. W. corner of Sec. 21, thence S. 3-4 mile, thence E. 1 mile, thence S. to Skull Bone branch, thence down said branch to Goose Pond creek, thence down said creek to the S. E. corner Sec. 26, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 41, "Cedar Grove:" Beginning at the S. W. corner Sec. 14, T. 22, R. 13, running N. 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 5 miles, thence S. to Yellow Leaf creek, thence up said creek to Gum swamp, thence up Gum swamp to the S. W. corner Sec. 16, T. 22, R. 14, thence S. 3-4 mile, thence W. 2 miles, thence S. 1-4 miles, thence W. 1 1-2 miles, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 42, "Smiths:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 13, T, 24, R. 14, running S. to Blue Gut creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses section lines between 2 and 3 in T. 23, R. 14, thence N. to Buzzard Roost branch, thence down said branch to Stumps creek, thence down said creek to county line to point of beginning.

No. 43, "Cane Creek:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 4, T. 22, R. 15, running W. 3 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 2 miles, thence N. to Yellow Leaf creek, thence down said creek to the range line, thence S. along range line to the N. W. corner Sec. 6, thence E. 3 miles, thence S. to point of beginning.

No. 44, "Union Point:" Beginning at the mouth of Walnut creek, running up said creek to the mouth of Hog creek, thence up Hog creek to section line between Sec. 21 and 22, T. 22, R. 15, thence N. to 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 3 and 4, thence E. to Coosa river, thence down said river to point of beginning.

No. 45, "Pleasant Grove:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 10, T. 22, R. 13, running W. 3 miles, thence N. 3-4 mile, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. 1-4 mile, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. 2 1-2 miles, thence E. 4 miles, thence S. to point of beginning.

No. 47, "Mineral Springs:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 25, T. 22, R. 14, running W. 2 miles, thence N. W. to the N. W. corner of Sec. 27, thence N. 1 mile, thence E. 1 mile, thence N. to Blue Gut creek, thence down said creek to range line, thence S. along range line to point of beginning.

No. 49, "Flint Hill:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 22, T. 23, R. 15, running E. to the Coosa river, thence down said river to 1-2 line in Sec. 6, T. 22, R. 16, thence W. to 1-2 mile stake on section line between 3 and 4, T. 22, R. 15, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 50, "Marcus:" Beginning at the S. W. corner Sec. 15, T. 23, R. 15, running N. to Waxahatchee creek, thence down said creek to Coosa river, thence down said river to the S. E. corner Sec. 13, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 52, "Freeman:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 21, T. 23, R. 12, running E. 2 3-4 miles, thence S 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 1 1-4 miles, thence S. 1 1-2 miles, thence W. 4 miles, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 53, "Moore's Spring:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 4, T. 23, R. 12, running E. 3 miles, thence S 1 mile, thence E. 1 mile, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 1 1-4 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 2 3-4 miles, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 54, "Mars Hill:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 18, T. 23, R. 13, running W. 2 1-4 miles, thence S. 2 1-2 miles, thence E. 3 1-4 miles, thence N. 2 miles, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 55, "Center Hill:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 15, T. 23, R. 13, running W 1 1-4 miles, thence N 1 mile, thence W. 1 1-4 miles, thence S. W. to the S. W. corner Sec. 8, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence E. 1 mile, thence S. 2 miles, thence E. 2 miles, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 56, "Oak Grove:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 2, T. 23, R. 13, running W. 2 3-4 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence E 1-2 mile, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. 1 1-4 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. 1 1-2 miles, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 57, "Rocky Mount:" Beginning at the n. w. corner of Sec. 32, T. 24, R. 14, running s. 1 mile; thence w. to Cobb creek; thence down said creek to the n. e. corner of Sec. 7, T. 23, R. 14; thence s. 2 miles; thence w. 1 1-2 miles; thence n. 3 miles; thence e. to point of beginning. tf

No. 58, "Providence:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 28, T. 24, R. 13, running S. 2 miles, thence W. 3-4 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 3-4 mile, thence S. W. to the S. W. corner Sec. 8, T. 23, R. 13, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence N 1 mile, thence E. 1 mile, thence N 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 2 miles, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 59, "Concord." Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 17, T. 24, R. 13, running S. 2 1-2 miles, thence W. 2 miles, thence S. 1 1-2 miles, thence W. 4 miles, thence N. 4 miles, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 60, "Ocampo:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 25, T. 24, R. 13, running S. 1 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 2 miles, thence N. 1 3-4 miles, thence E. 1 mile, thence N. 1-4 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 61, "South Calera:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 13, running S. 2 miles, thence W. 2 miles, thence S. 1-4 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. 1-4 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. 2 miles, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 62, "Cedar Springs:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 18, T. 24, R. 14, running S. 3 miles, thence E. 1 mile, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. 3 miles, thence N. 1 mile to Buzzard Roost branch, thence down said branch to Stumps creek, thence down said creek to county line, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 63, "Smiths:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 13, T, 24, R. 14, running S. to Blue Gut creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses section lines between 2 and 3 in T. 23, R. 14, thence N. to Buzzard Roost branch, thence down said branch to Stumps creek, thence down said creek to county line to point of beginning.

No. 64, "Vanderslice:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 18, T. 24, R. 15, on county line, running S. 4 miles, thence E. 3 miles, thence N. to Waxahatchee creek, thence up said creek to county line, thence W. to point of beginning.

Readers will notice that in the description of the outline of district No. 26, "Culp," there is an error. A direction is omitted. We print, however, verbatim from the record on file in the office of the probate judge. tf

SECTIONS OF THE NEW LAW AS TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Sec. 6. On the first Saturday in July, 1904, and each fourth year thereafter, the qualified electors of each public school district shall meet at the district public school house and elect from among the free-holders and householders who can read and write, residing in such districts, a local board of three district trustees, whose duty shall be as hereinafter provided. Such district trustees shall hold office for the term of four years from the time of their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

Sec. 7. The trustees provided for in the last preceding section shall, within ten days after their election, meet at the public school district house, or at some place more convenient to all concerned, and shall organize by electing one of their number chairman and another secretary.

Sec. 8. The district trustees shall, during the month of August, 1901, and in every even numbered year thereafter, make an enumeration of all the children within school age in their respective districts, in accordance with the requirements of section 3573 of the code of 1896, and report the same as herein provided to the county superintendent of education, who shall, by the 15th day of said month, make a written report of such enumeration by numbered districts to the state superintendent of education, and it shall be the duty of the county superintendent of education to enumerate or cause to be enumerated all the children of school age in any township or townships in his county in which the sixteenth section interest exceeds the amount of per capita apportionment from the general school fund, and report the same to the office of the state superintendent of education.

Sec. 9. It shall be the duty of the said district trustees to care for all school property, employ teachers for their school districts, such employment to be subject to the approval of the county board of education, to visit the schools within their respective districts, observe the management of the same, to make quarterly reports of the condition of such school to the county superintendent of education and to perform such other duties as may be required by the county board of education hereinafter provided for.

Sec. 10. The chairman of the several board of district trustees shall meet at the court house in their respective counties on the second Saturday in August after their election and every four years thereafter, and shall elect four county school trustees, who shall hold office for the term of four years from the date of their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified. Before entering upon the duties of office, they shall take the oath of office prescribed by the constitution of the state. The county superintendent of education and said four county trustees shall constitute the county board of education within their respective counties. The county superintendent of education shall be the chief executive officer of said county, boards of education and shall see that all the rules, regulations and orders of said county boards are enforced; provided, however, that no county trustee shall, during his term of office, be eligible to election as a district trustee.

Sec. 11. That said county board of education shall have entire control of the public schools within their respective counties, unless otherwise provided by law. They shall make rules and regulations for the government of the school, see that teachers perform their duties, and exercise such powers, consistent with the law, as in their judgment will best subserve the cause of education. The said board shall have the right to acquire, purchase, lease, receive, hold, transmit and convey the title to real and personal property for school purposes. Said board of education shall by and in name of county board of education sue and be sued, contract and be contracted with, all contracts to be made after resolution adopted by said board and spread on its minutes and signed by the president and secretary and all process shall be executed on the secretary of said board tf

---

The annual convention of the National Association of Managers of Newspaper Circulation, which has been in session in St. Louis, has selected Toronto as the place in which to hold the next meeting, in 1905.

Florida committees have canvassed the vote in the last primary. The vote was officially announced as follows: For senator: J. P. Taliaferro, 24,956; J. N. C. Stockton, 20,695. Taliaferro's majority, 3,361. For governor, N. B. Broward, 22,979; R. W. Davis, 22,265; Broward's majority, 714.

It is predicted that within a few generations the race of native Hawaiians will become extinct. The main causes are intermarriage and the poor state of health of the pure bloods. Their total number has been reduced from 70,000 in 1853 to less than 30,000 in 1900.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

A. C. Smith. J. O. Middleton.
Smith & Middleton,
Attorneys-at-Law.
Practice in All Courts.
Office 4th St., Opposite Court House,
CLANTON.

Physicians.

Dr. V. O. Campbelle,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office over Roper's Store.
CLANTON.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins,
Physician and Surgeon,
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office with Hopkins Drug Co.
CLANTON.

W. F. Middleton, M.D.,
Phsician and Surgeon,
CLANTON.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

Dentists.

Dr. A. B. Horn,
Dentist.
Office over Strock's Store.
CLANTON.
Office Days in the Following Towns.
Jemison—Wednesday and Thursday before the 2nd Sunday.
Thorsby—Wednesday and Thursday before the 3d Sunday Dr. Stabler's Office

DR. E. G. HYMAN,
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 8 to 12 a. m.
1 to 5 p. m. CLANTON

Louisville & Nashville
RAILROAD.

THE DIRECT LINE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST, NORTH AND NORTHWEST.

In Effect November 1, 1903.

No. 9 Daily Ex't Sunday A M	No. 3 Daily P M	Read Down Leave	Read Up Ar.	No. 2 Daily P M	No. 10 Daily Ex't Sunday P M
6 10	3 40	Birmingham	12 10	7 15
6 53	4 19	Helena	11 30	6 34
7 32	5 01	Calera	10 46	5 50
7 56	5 25	Jemison	10 24	5 28
8 05	5 37	Thorsby	10 16	5 15
8 11	5 44	Lomax	10 10	5 08
8 19	5 51	CLANTON	10 02	5 01
8 32	6 05	Cooper	9 45	4 47
8 37	6 11	Verbena	9 39	4 41
8 44	6 19	Mt. Creek	9 30	4 30
9 24	6 51	Elmore	8 51	3 56
9 50	7 25	Montgomery	8 25	3 30

Drawing Room, Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars.

For rates and further information address G. Higgins, agent L. and N. R. R., Clanton, Ala.

Empress Augusta received members of the International Council of the Women's Congress in Berlin, and several Americans made addresses at the sessions.

The French Chamber of Deputies appointed a committee to investigate the charges of bribery in connection with the Carthusian Order.

King Carlos of Portugal was entertained at breakfast by Rear Admiral Barker on board the United States flagship Kearsage.

Disgusted with his reception in London, John Alexander Dowie has gone to France, with his wife and son.

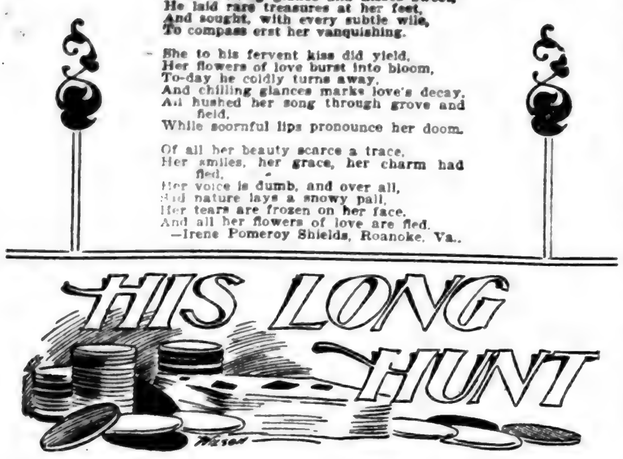
Norway's coast line—17,000 miles in a straight line—becomes 1,200 miles if followed around the fjords. In these fjords are over 150,000 islands.

Deserted Spring.

But yesterday, with tender smile,
Gay, fickle April wooed fair spring.
With burning glance and kisses sweet,
He laid rare treasures at her feet,
And sought, with every subtle wile,
To compass erst her vanquishing.

She to his fervent kiss did yield,
Her flowers of love burst into bloom,
To-day he coldly turns away,
And chilling glances marks love's decay,
All hushed her song through grove and field,
While scornful lips pronounce her doom.

Of all her beauty scarce a trace,
Her smiles, her grace, her charm had fled,
Her voice is dumb, and over all,
Did nature lays a snowy pall,
Her tears are frozen on her face,
And all her flowers of love are fled.
—Irene Pomeroy Shields, Roanoke, Va.



"It cert'nly is monstrous queer how a man'll go lookin' all over the world for a thing he hankers a'ter—most amazin'—an' pass by it, mebbe a dozen times, an' then, when he's give up, plumb discouraged, an' sot down, tired out, have it drop in his lap," said Caleb Mix, the veteran bartender on the Mississippi river packet City of Natches. "There is one thing, that if a man is built that-a way an' once gets his mind sot onto it, he ain't never goin' to give up while he has stren'th to draw his breath an' a gun.

"I reckon the longest chase o' that kind that was ever followed up an' down the river was the time Jim Fleming follered up Al Dennett.

"Jim had a store at Cape Girardeau an' a fair trade, an' a good home an' money in the bank. An' he had a wife he thought a heap of, and he an' she an' his old mother, that wa'n't so old then, they lived together as happy as most folks is, I reckon, till Al Dennett come to Cape Girardeau.

"Al were a gambler. You couldn't make no more mistake, sizin' him up, 'n you could lookin' at a mule. 'Peared like luck was with him that trip, for he hadn't been in the place twenty-four hours before he set into a good game that the fellers found excitin' enough to keep goin' for nigh a week. They played every night at the tavern, an' every night Dennett was a good winner.

"They wa'n't all the other losers, for there was some tol'able good players in town an' twa'n't nothin' out o' usual for a game to be goin' on there; but it happened the last night he played that Jim Fleming went broke in the game. An' when I say he went broke, I mean he lost, not on'y the ready money he had, but all he c'd borrow on top o' that, an' that were enough to wipe out all he had an' some over.

"But when Jim Fleming got home that night, after the last sittin' in that long game o' draw poker, he found there was other things for him to think of besides settlin' up the money he owed. He wa'n't in no condition to realize just what it all meant, f'r he'd took in considerable more red liquor 'n was good for him, 'count o' being all broke up over his losses; but what he did not know was 't his wife wa'n't to home, an' his old mother was cryin' to break her heart.

"She seen how 'twas with Jim, though, an' having sense, she didn't try to tell him nothin' just then, but got him to bed the best she could, an' waited till mornin'. Then he learned the whole story, part f'm his mother, an' part f'm others that might have told him afore, but didn't.

"The old lady hadn't knowed it in time, an' the others wouldn't butt in, bein' as 'twa'n't their business. But Dennett had been a-nosin' 'round town right smart, while he'd been there, an' bein' a good lookin feller enough, the way women reckons a man's looks, he'd struck up a flirtation with Jim's wife that was the scandal o' the town.

"Jim bein' busy in his store day times hadn't heard or seen nothin' of it, an' bein' the husband in the case was just naturally the last one to learn anything. The old lady hadn't

"Al were a gambler."

knowed nothin' till at the last, but everybody else knowed all about it.

"Then when they was playin' that last night, 'pears a boat tied up at the levee that was goin' down the river, an' Dennett managed some way to send word to Jim's wife an' she went aboard. Then he jumped the game just in time to get aboard with her about three minutes afore the lines was cast off. An Jim never seen his wife again.

"So Jim, he started down the river on the next boat lookin' for 'em. When he'd had a little time to think, he seen that there was things for him to do at home. So he went back an' settled down to work. It must ha' took him something like three year to square everything up at home an' get a little wad together to travel on, but he tackled to like a man an' done it.

"An' all that time, they say he never missed a boat that stopped at Cape Girardeau. No matter what was doin' he'd drop everything an' go to the levee an' ask somebody on the boat for news o' Dennett an' his wife.

"That was for the first two year. He used to come to me, for I were on the old Creole Belle, them times, an' we al'ays stopped there.

"Bein' interested, I made it my business to find out about Dennett, an' used to tell him where he was. But just about the time Dennett throwed the woman, Jim stopped askin' about her.

"I reckon it was just about then somebody must ha' told him she was dead. So he didn't ask no more about her, an' I didn't have to lie to him.

"Then there come a time when he were ready to start out. He come aboard the Creole Belle one night an'

"'Do you remember the man and woman you ruined seven year' ago?'"

asked me about Dennett, as usual, an' I told him Dennett was still in Memphis the last I knowed, an' Jim says he thinks he'll go to Memphis his own self.

"But when Jim got to Memphis, Dennett wa'n't there. He'd gone down the river on one o' his reg'lar trips, the day afore Jim arrove. 'Peared like there was some sort of a hoodoo about it. O' course there wa'n't no tellin' where Dennett'd be, or how long he'd be gone, an' Jim had the sense to see it wa'n't no good for him to go chasin' 'round at random. More especially as he didn't have no money to spend. So he just settled down in Memphis to wait for Dennett to come back.

"Well, he waited there for over two years till it were almost six since Dennett had won his money, foul or fair, an' run away with his wife, an' he hadn't never set eyes on him all that time. He kep' waitin' though, an' he'd come down to see me, every time the Creole Belle stopped at Memphis.

"But Dennett didn't go back to Memphis. So Jim made up his mind that he'd have to go after Dennett, an' he took a boat to Baton Rouge, an' there he heer'd fr'm somebody that Dennett was in New Orleans, so he got on the next boat, which happened to be the Creole Belle.

"An' then a queer thing happened. It were near midnight when he come aboard an' I didn't see him at first, for I was in the saloon watchin' a game o' poker.

"There were a tall chap f'm Texas that had plenty good money in his wad, an' too much red liquor on board, an' there was two friends o' hisn that had ought for to knowed better, bein' as they was sober, an' all three of 'em was playin' poker with Dennett.

"Now, I've saw a good many games o' crooked poker in my time, an' I've saw men take chances that didn't look half sensible, but I never seen anybody play the way Dennett was playin' that night. 'Peared like he must be plumb crazy to do the stunts he was doin,' but I c'd see he was countin' on the tall man bein' drunk an' the other two bein' foolish, which they sure was. Anyhow he were just a-rakin' in their money by the handful when I seen Jim Fleming come in the door.

"Fleming walked up to the table as cool as you please, an' asked if he c'd have a hand in the game. They all looked up an' I c'd see Dennett didn't know him.

"Anyway they said he c'd play, an' he sat down an' bought twenty dollars' worth o' chips. It was all he had in the world, we found out afterward.

"Then he played a hand or two, till it came to Dennett's deal, an' after the cards was served he reached over an' grabbed Dennett's five out of his hand an' looked at 'em.

"He didn't say nothin', an' he acted so cool that the others was just astonished, an' nobody got mad on the instant, but Dennett said, 'Well, what the ——' an' one or two others said, 'What did you do that for?'

"Then Fleming said, still as cool as a frost. 'This man is a swindler, an' I just wanted to see what he dealt hisself.'

"Well, o' course, it come then, but Fleming's gun was out first. Pokin' the muzzle of it square in Dennett's face he said:

"'I've got you at last. Do you remember the man and the woman you ruined seven years ago?'

"An' with that he fired. I kind o' wish that was the end o' the story, but 'tain't. Dennett got his gun out, too, in just the little time that it took Jim to say what he did, an' he fired at the same moment. Jim lived a day or two, but he never come to enough to know what he'd done."—New York Sun.

NOTHING TO WORK ON.

Good Reason Why Brother Did Not Hold Family Prayer.

It was at a certain church meeting, and the good Bishop was calling for reports. He had a rather stern, sharp manner which sometimes jarred a little on the nerves of the more timid. By and by he came to Brother B., a lay delegate.

"Brother B. what is the spiritual condition of your church?" demanded the Bishop briskly.

"I consider it good," said the brother.

"What makes you think it is good?" went on the Bishop.

"Well, the people are religious. That's what makes me think so."

"What do you call religious? Do they have family prayer?"

"Some of them do and some do not."

"Do you mean to say that a man may be a Christian and not hold family prayer?"

"Yes, sir; I think so."

"Do you hold family prayer?"

"Yes, sir," returned the brother quietly.

"And yet you think a man may be a Christian and not hold family prayer."

"I have a brother who is a better man than I am who does not hold family prayer."

"What makes you think he is a better man than you are?"

"Everybody says so, and I know he is."

"Why does not your brother, if he is such a good man, hold family prayer?" thundered the Bishop.

"He has no family," meekly answered the brother.—Harper's Magazine.

The Tide River.

Clear and cool, clear and cool,
By laughing, shallow and dreaming pool;
Cool and clear, cool and clear,
By shining shingle and foaming wear;
Under the crag where the ouzel sings,
And the ivied wall where the church-bell rings,
Undefiled for the undefiled;
Play by me, bathe in me, mother and child.

Dank and foul, dank and foul,
By the smoky town in its murky cowl;
Foul and dank, foul and dank,
By wharf and sewer and slimy bank;
Darker and darker the further I go,
Baser and baser the richer I grow;
Who dare sport with the sin-defiled?
Shrink from me, turn from me, mother and child.

Strong and free, strong and free,
The flood-gates are open away to the sea;
Free and strong, free and strong,
Cleansing my streams as I hurry along
To the golden sands and the leaping bar,
And the taintless tide that awaits me afar,
As I lose myself in the infinite main,
Like a soul that has sinned and is pardoned again,
Undefiled for the undefiled,
Play by me, bathe in me, mother and child.

—Charles Kingsley.

Turn About Is Fair Play.

James McNeil Whistler had a French poodle of which he was extravagantly fond. This poodle was seized with an affection of the throat, and Whistler had the audacity to send for the great throat specialist, Mackenzie.

Sir Morell, when he saw that he had been called in to treat a dog, didn't like it much, it was plain. But he said nothing. He prescribed, pocketed a big fee and drove away.

The next day he sent post haste for Whistler. And Whistler, thinking he was summoned on some matter connected with his beloved dog, dropped his work and rushed like the wind to Mackenzie's.

On his arrival, Sir Morell said gravely: "How do you do, Mr. Whistler? I wanted to see you about having my front door painted."—Collier's Weekly.

No Doubt He Would.

The German professor at Smith college tried in vain to explain a difficult construction to one of the girls of his class. Finally he decided to devote no more of the recitation hour to this one point, but, wishing to clear it up for the young woman later, he said:

"We'll let this go now, Miss M—, and I would like to hold you for a few minutes after class."

Then he blushed to his temples at the torrent of giggles which the girls were unable to restrain.—New York Times.

Indian Chief Friend of Whites.

Chilkoot Jack, a stanch friend of the whites, has been elected chief of the Chilkat tribe of Indians in Alaska, to succeed Donowoka, the aged warrior who died last March. The new chief has a wide reputation as an intrepid guide and brave warrior and belongs to the most influential family in his tribe.

JOKE OF "RUBY BOB'S."

Pugilist's Odd Reason for Making Present to Friend.

Robert Fitzsimmons is not a habitual wit, but he has the faculty of arousing laughter with a quip once in six months. There is no one better known in the collegiate and amateur athletic circles of Philadelphia than George Brooke.

He is a squash champion—which, Homer Davenport to the contrary notwithstanding, does not mean a champion judge of squashes.

He made the acquaintance of Robert Fitzsimmons, and Freckle Faced Bob highly approved of him.

So much so that he gazed at him long and earnestly, and said:

"Squash champion, are you? Right? Oh, well, Mr. Brooke, 'ere's a little present I'm a-going to give you.

"I got two howls over to Bensonhurst, and I'm goin' to give you one."

"One what?"

"One howl. A bloomin' fat bird that sleeps all day."

"Oh!" said Mr. Brooke, "an owl, yes!"

"You shall 'ave it to-morrow."

"But look here, Mr. Fitzsimmons, why the deuce are you going to give me an owl?"

Bob's little eyes glinted and his thin lips compressed.

"So you can smack 'im on the eye with you bloomin' squash bat an' 'ear the beggar 'oot!"—Boston Post.

TORPEDOES ARE NOT NEW.

Chinese Used the Explosive More Six Hundred Years Ago.

The torpedo is not a modern invention, as the majority of people suppose. It, like many other devices of which civilized nations boast, is hoary with age. The invention of gunpowder by the Chinese seven centuries ago, commonly attributed to the Confucians, has been disputed, and the credit for the discovery has been given by various authorities to the Greeks or Romans.

Combustibles like naphtha, to which class Greek fire belongs, were in use in the armies of the Califs, and were confounded with explosives. Marcus Graecus seems to have had a recipe for making gunpowder from saltpeter, coal and sulphur, and his career has been placed as early as the ninth century; but it would be more correct to place his life in the middle of the thirteenth. A critical sifting of the whole evidence leads to the conclusion that saltpeter was first known in China, but not before the middle of the twelfth century.

In the successful defense of the Chinese city Piauking against the Mongols, explosives, blasting bodies and rockets were employed against the enemy, and some diagrams exist which show the form in which these explosives were used.

Preposterous.

Several well known gentlemen, including Senator Mason, were sitting about in a Washington club room discussing the unusual cold of the present winter. "I saw it so cold," said one of the party, "about twelve years ago that there was no ice. It got so cold that the ice all cracked up into hard snow."

"I remember back in 1840," said another, "that it was so cold the electricity liquefied and dropped off the wires. Several people bottled it up to cure their spring rheumatism."

"It wasn't much more than ten years ago," said Senator Mason, "since I saw it so cold that the messenger boys actually ran to keep warm."

That broke up the conversation.

Not in the Same Class.

Verestchagin, the famous painter of war scenes, who lost his life on the battleship Petropavlovsk, had many curious experiences in this country. One day at an exhibition of his paintings a rich broker said to him:

"What is the lowest price you will take for that picture?"

"Not a penny less than $5,000," replied the Russian artist.

"Oh, I say, Mr. V.," protested the broker, "you can't expect to get so much for your pictures as if you had been dead for several centuries, like Michael Angelo and that class of canvas decorators!"—New York Times.

A Poem.

Must poems always be a yard
Or less of words strung on a page?
Do rhyme and meter make a bard,
With just a pinch of wisdom sage?
A fig for verse like that, say I,
When Helen gayly passes by!
What swinging rhythm in her walk!
What symphony of eye and hair!
One glimpse and Pegasus would balk,
Refuse to budge, to soar in air!
No pleasure now for him to fly,
And Helen smiles while passing by.

Let bookworms scan the printed page
And over "first editions" sigh;
Let poets fall into a rage
Because their wares I will not cry—
The very soul of poetry
Thrills me when Helen passes by!
—C. F. Weeks in Boston Transcript.

Denmark's Monarch Popular.

The king of Denmark is likely to live until a descendant of his has been a queen or a king in almost every country of Europe. His face is familiar enough in old age as one of the gentlest, but somehow or other, despite his many years, he has missed the good luck of being painted into immortality, as all the portraits of him extant are photographs.

Old Forty-Niner Dead.

L. D. Sunderland, known over a great part of Iowa as "Uncle Dow," is dead at Harlan, aged 79. Mr. Sunderland went to Shelby county from Ohio in 1852. Previous to that time he had crossed the plains to the Pacific coast and on his return via Panama is said to have been the first man to bring California gold to New York.

Hard Task for Russia

The Russians in carrying on war on the Pacific coast, more than 4,000 miles from their supplies of men and materials, all of which must be forwarded over one single-track railroad, have a problem unique in the history of war, and their success or failure in it deserves, and doubtless will receive, the attention of all students in the art of war. Before the completion of the Siberian railroad, in the face of an enemy as powerful as Japan is now, for the moment superior at sea, it could have made practically no defense. Even if a sufficient army could have been placed in Manchuria, it could not have been supplied.

Some two years ago, before war was seriously thought of, it was determined to replace the 51-pound rails with 65-pound rails west of Lake Baikal, and otherwise to strengthen the road; the wide intervals between stations, which limited the number of trains, could be remedied by the laying of sidings and passing tracks within a few weeks, if material is accessible, though not easily in a Siberian winter; and the Russians have the construction forces available which have just built the great railroad. The transportation of troops over so long a line in Siberian weather requires provisions not heretofore [illegible] country. Russian [illegible] those of other continents [illegible] are all labeled with [illegible] horses which [illegible] them in military service [illegible] men or 10 horses. But [illegible] able for a journey of [illegible] in weather not [illegible] may be entirely unsuitable [illegible] two weeks of mercury [illegible] above 50 degrees. The men must [illegible]

To provide for this, [illegible] for carrying stoves were [illegible] felt or [illegible] paper, [illegible] were set in the sides [illegible] stove set up in each [illegible] were made so that they [illegible] transformed into bunks, [illegible] every alternate station [illegible] provided for [illegible] each [illegible] every train one [illegible] was [illegible] kitchen and supplied [illegible] rations of meat and pota[illegible] else were carried, so that [illegible] snow blockade the men [illegible] train out. A surgeon and [illegible] steward accompanied each [illegible] several stations on the [illegible] were established where [illegible] ed a day, with facilities [illegible] etc., while the cars were [illegible] cleansed.—Railroad Gazette.

Made Change in Tune

"This talk that has been going on in the house about lynchings," said "Col." Bill Sterrett, who drifted into Washington from Texas, "reminds me of a thing that happened down in my state a few years ago. Jim Hodges, a local orator, was just coming into his house when his boy rushed out and yelled: 'Pop, they're goin' to lynch a nigger over by the clearing!'

"Jim jumped on his horse and rode like mad for the scene of trouble. They had the nigger on a platform and were just getting ready for the final act when Jim burst into the clearing and checked his foam-flecked horse. 'Stop!' he yelled, with an imperious wave of his hand.

"Everything came to a dead stop and Jim, springing upon the platform began a speech that promised to break all oratorical records.

"'My friends, he cried, 'think what you are about to do. To take into your own hands will [illegible] fair name of this country with a perishable blot. To the remotest of time, so long as the memory remains, the deed you are about will cause your names to be covered by posterity with [illegible] shame.'

"There was a restless [illegible] in the crowd at this point; [illegible] body growled: 'Shoot the [illegible] gun.' Half a dozen revolvers [illegible] covering Jim in half a second, stopped the coming tragedy [illegible] ing: 'But as I was saying—'

"The revolvers were [illegible] and Jim went on: 'But, as I [illegible] ing, my fellow citizens, if [illegible] must be done, if it seems [illegible] necessary, as no doubt it is, I [illegible] you to proceed with it in [illegible] and decorous manner!'"—P[illegible] Ledger.

French a Polite People

During the past summer, which I spent exclusively among French people in a hotel at Saint-Germain, I estimated that I lost quite twenty-four hours out of each week saying "Good morning" and "Good evening" to the men, women, little children and dogs about me. If you encounter the same person twenty-five times in the same day you must each time smile rapturously, pause, at least shake hands, if you do not kiss, ceremoniously inquire how he or she is "going" and ceremoniously bid him or her "au revoir" at parting.

Not only every man and woman expects this, but all the little children toddle up to you, shake hands, and exact the same amount of ceremony. Then every well regulated French family has a dog who more than likely occupies a chair and eats [illegible] plate beside you at the table, [illegible] it is considered churlish if you [illegible] also stop and tell the dog "[illegible] a dozen times a day, pausing [illegible] the paw which he is prettily [illegible] extend to you.

When the washerwoman [illegible] home your linen there are [illegible] five minutes spent in ceremonious greeting and parting from her. [illegible] operation of receiving and [illegible] linen you exchange "mercis" and [illegible] dons" not fewer than ten times. [illegible] other serving person or trades[illegible] who comes to do business with [illegible] throughout the day you similarly [illegible] ceive with "Bon jour, monsieur" [illegible] "Au revoir," and you thank him [illegible] beg his pardon as often as you possibly get the words into the [illegible] of his story.—Harper's Bazar.

How Light Should Fall

It is almost universally believed that the best form of reading lamp is one which, by means of an effective shade, concentrates the greater portion of the light upon the reading matter. Furthermore, the lamp is usually one of the "drop-light" sort, which brings the flame near and below the reader's eyes. The result sought after is, that much light be precipitated on the page, and on the page only, while the surrounding parts of the room be weakly illuminated, even to gloominess.

If this condition be obtained an ideal state of affairs is presumed to exist, and, at first, it looks very plausible, indeed, that it is usually accepted as a positive fact not to be said. But it must be refuted. custom, though of long standing of almost unquestioned correctness a bad one, and doubly harmful cause of the strong hold it has the public mind.

The best method of lighting [illegible] ficially when the source of light bright one, is to place the light siderably above the head, holding reading matter in such a position to be illuminated as much by [illegible] flected light from the surrounding surfaces as from the direct rays the flame, thus creating an more nearly resembling "day conditions.—Jewelers' Weekly [illegible] lar.

Fight the Good Fight

When, oh when, thou goest out to battle Against thine enemies—long since one said,
The glory of the mount still round his way—
A people more than thou, be not afraid,
For the Lord thy God is with thee in that day.

Thinkest that thou goest now to battle
Scythes of chariots, and horse, and spears,
Panoply of armored legions? Nay;
Concern thyself with no remembered fears,
The Lord thy God is with thee in this day!

Nay, the squadrons thou shalt go to battle
With great power beside thee are not those Flashing-sabered, clothed in war's array,
Things invisible are these thy foes—
But the Lord thy God is with thee in this day!

Things unguessed thou goest out to battle—
Subtle envyings and pleasant [illegible]
Laughing malice with his swift [illegible] play.
Fighting though the sun be [illegible] eyes,
Know the Lord thy God is with [illegible] this day!

Swarming sins thou goest out to [illegible]
Formless clouds of languorous [illegible] rust, Bickerings, slanderings and love of [illegible]
Love of treasure, too, and [illegible] trust—
May the Lord thy God be with [illegible] that day!

Mortal sins thou goest out to battle
Monsters shapen out of things [illegible] breath,
Traitorous senses—oh, the very clay [illegible]
Thou art made of! Fight them [illegible] death,
For the Lord thy God is with [illegible] this day!

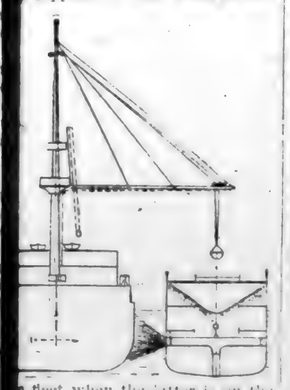
—The [illegible]

Japanese Battery Asc

aling Warships at Sea.

w Projection For Facilitating Operations in Rough Weather.

NAVAL authorities are agreed in wishing that a more satisfactory method could be found for loading warships with coal than [illegible] port for that purpose. Small [illegible] vessels, whose special duty it is to [illegible] supplies of fuel, often accom-



[illegible] fleet when the latter is on the [illegible] to a point where it is to establish [illegible] blockade or watch for a foe. In fine [illegible] weather these colliers can come alongside with safety, to permit a transfer [illegible] their cargoes. In rough weather [illegible] is danger to both vessels in contact of bumping sideways. Two [illegible] must be considered. The coal [illegible] be hoisted by derricks, on the [illegible] or the warship, from the hold [illegible] vessel and swung around where [illegible] be lowered into the other. Several systems of performing the work [illegible] been proposed. A more unique [illegible] of the business is the prevention [illegible] eral collision.

[illegible] this second purpose an interesting suggestion has been made by A. C. [illegible] ngham, a civil engineer of the [illegible] States Navy, in co-operation [illegible] William Seaton. Their idea is [illegible] ploy pumps, on either side the [illegible] or the warship, to drive out jets [illegible] ter from holes in the vessel's [illegible] the direction of the other craft.

REAR-ADMIRAL JO

The President of the Isthm

[illegible] recent appointment of the Isthm[illegible] of which Rear Admiral Walker [illegible] ng of work on the Isthmus by the [illegible] mission is now engaged in studying [illegible] ma. Before work can be really [illegible] must be drained and supplied wi[illegible] edged, healthful quarters for the [illegible] be built, and the problem of proper [illegible] ave to supervise all this preliminar[illegible] tant of all.

rd Task for Russia provisions not heretofore made country. Russian freight car of other continental labeled with the num

letters which may be in a military service—men or 40 horses. But what for a journey of 200 or 300 to make accessible for oc
two weeks or more, with the 50 degrees below
must eat and sleep
provide for this, the car for carrying soldiers were lined for the paper, little glass w were set in the sides, and a stove set up in each. The be were made so that they co transformed into bunks at nigh every alternate station hot wate provided for making tea. In every train one car was fitted kitchen and supplied the men wi rations of meat and porridge.
else were carried, so that in ca snow blockade the men could train out. A surgeon and ho steward accompanied each train several stations on the line were established where the men ed a day, with facilities for wa etc., while the cars were inspect cleansed.—Railroad Gazette.

de Change in Tune

you are about to do. To take the into your own hands will stain fair name of this country with an perishable blot. To the remotest of time, so long as the memory of remains, the deed you are about t will cause your names to be re hered by posterity with shudde shame."

"There was a restless move in the crowd at this point and s body growled: 'Shoot the son gun.' Half a dozen revolvers covering Jim in half a second, bu stopped the coming tragedy by me. But as I was saying—'

"The revolvers were half low and Jim went on: 'But, as I was ing, my fellow citizens, if this must be done, if it seems wise necessary, as no doubt it is, I imp you to proceed with it in an or and decorous manner!'"—Philade Ledger.

ch a Polite People

ly occupies a chair and eats plate beside you at the table, so d is considered churlish if you do also step and tell the dog, "bon a dozen times a day, pausing to the paw which he is prettily taug extend to you.

When the washerwoman br home your linen there are at five minutes spent in ceremoni greeting and parting from her. I operation of receiving and payi linen you exchange "mercis" and dons" not fewer than ten times.
other serving person or trade who comes to do business with throughout the day you similarly ceive with "Bon jour, monsieur,"
"Au revoir," and you thank him beg his pardon as often as you possibly get the words into the l of his story.—Harper's Bazar.

Light Should Fall

said. But it must be refuted.
custom, though of long standing, of almost unquestioned correctness a bad one, and doubly harmful cause of the strong hold it has the public mind.

The best method of lighting
ficially when the source of light bright one, is to place the light siderably above the head, holding reading matter in such a positio to be illuminated as much by the flected light from the surrou surfaces as from the direct rays the flame, thus creating an more nearly resembling "day conditions.—Jewelers' Weekly

the Good Fight

Things unguessed thou goest out to life.
Subtle envyings and pleasant lies,
Laughing malice with his swift poison,
Fighting though the sun be in
eyes,
Know the Lord thy God is with
this day!

Swarming sins thou goest out to Formless clouds of languorous rust,
Bickerings, slanderings and love
Love of treasure, too, and trust—
May the Lord thy God be with that day!

Mortal sins thou goest out to Monsters shapen out of things breath,
Traitorous senses—oh, the very Thou art made of! Fight them
death,
For the Lord thy God is with
this day!

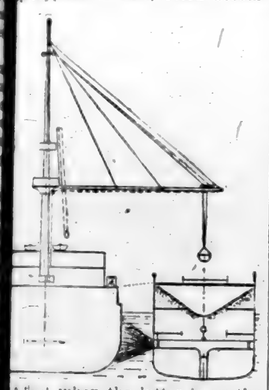
—The Outl

Japanese Battery Ascending Heights Back of Kinchow After Landing.

oaling Warships at Sea.

ew Projection For Facilitating Operations in Rough Weather.

AVAL authorities are agreed in wishing that a more satisfactory method could be found for loading warships with coal than ...sport for that purpose. Small-sels, whose special duty it is to ...y supplies of fuel, often accom-



...t fleet when the latter is on the ...a point where it is to establish ...ade or watch for a foe. In fine ...ese colliers can come along-...ith safety, to permit a transfer ...r cargoes. In rough weather ...s danger to both vessels in con-...ce of bumping sideways. Two ...st be considered. The coal ...be hoisted by derricks, on the ...r the warship, from the hold ...ssed and swung around where ...be lowered into the other. Sev-...ns of performing the work ...been proposed. A more unique ...of the business is the prevention ...r collision.

...this second purpose an interest-...gestion has been made by A. C. ...ingham, a civil engineer of the ...d States Navy, in co-operation ...William Seaton. Their idea is ...ploy pumps, on either side the ...or the warship, to drive out jets ...ter from holes in the vessel's ...in the direction of the other craft.

In the drawing which is here copied from Engineering News, a jet is represented as issuing from the collier. The other arrangement would work equally well, of course, though it may be questioned whether naval constructors would favor making this apparatus a feature of either a cruiser or a battleship. Mr. Cunningham says:

The author has designed an apparatus for use in coaling ships at sea by means of which vessels may safely lie alongside each other for the purpose. The general principles of the apparatus are illustrated in the accompanying cut. In the illustration the jet apparatus is shown as a separate installation and fitted to the collier. The circulating and bilge pumps may, however, be used to produce the jet, and the latter may be fitted to the warship, instead of to the collier.

With the apparatus projected the ships are kept from touching each other, and are maintained at the required distance apart by means of water jets, which are the equivalent of elastic struts. The required distance between the vessels is secured by lines passed between the ships, for there are no rigid connections of any kind. It is not intended with this apparatus that any appreciable lateral speed should be produced; a tendency to separate the vessels sufficient to keep the connecting lines taut is all that is desired or necessary.

THREE MEN TO ONE SPADE.

Korea is away behind the age, is, in fact, several centuries behind. This picture shows the extraordinary backwardness of their agricultural methods. The three men are working one spade. The spade has a handle about eight feet long. The wooden bowl is tipped with iron, and has two straw ropes fastened to it. The man manipulating the handle pushes the spade into the ground. Then those holding the ropes throw an insignificantly small amount of earth a distance of about two feet. In the Korean fields one may often see nine men thus employed on one spade.

GOYAZ, CHIEF OF THE CAYAPO INDIANS.

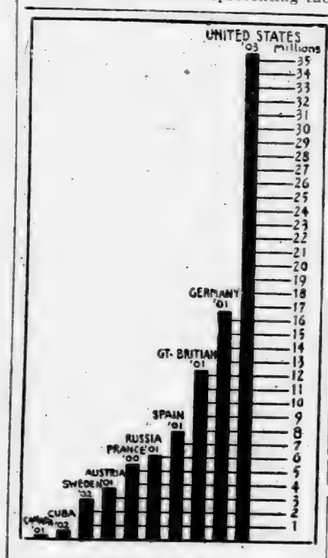
The great army of outdoor people everywhere will be glad to know that Caspar Whitney, the distinguished editor of Outing, has arrived home from his adventurous trip through South America. His journey lay through the interior of Brazil, where he was the guest of Chief Goyaz; through Paraguay, the Argentine Republic, Patagonia, Bolivia, and across the highest

CHIEF GOYAZ.

Andes to Chile. Mr. Whitney reports exciting encounters with jaguars, revolutions, plagues and yellow fever, all of which will add interest to future vigorous articles in Outing. This trip completes Mr. Whitney's world wanderings.

THE NATIONS' ORE PRODUCT.

The accompanying diagram represents the ore product of the nations of the world in a very comprehensive manner. The column representing the

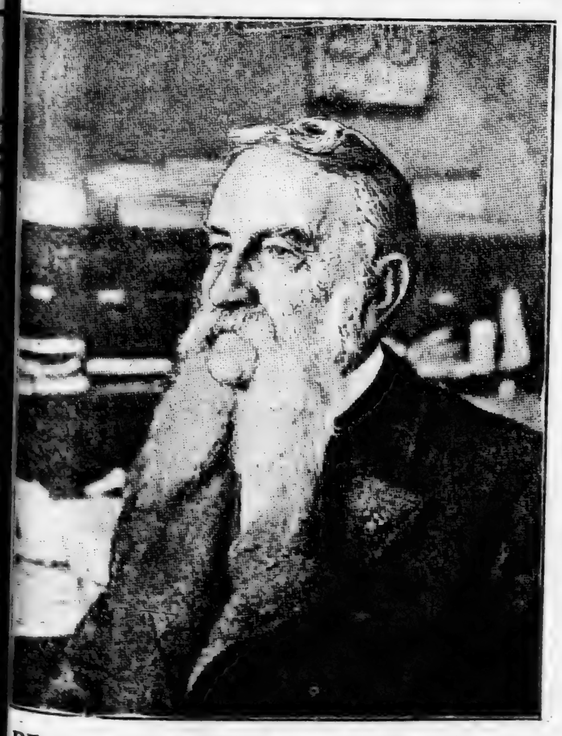


THE ORE PRODUCT OF THE NATIONS.

United States towers above the others like the chimney over a mill, and yet our nearest neighbor, Canada, occupies the place at the foot.

Criminals Kept in Suspense.

In France, when a convict is sentenced to death by the guillotine, the day of his execution is not named in his presence, and he knows not when he is to be led forth until within fifteen minutes of the fatal moment.



REAR-ADMIRAL JOHN G. WALKER,

The President of the Isthmian Canal Commission.

The recent appointment of the Isthmian Canal Commission of Engi... of which Rear Admiral Walker is Chairman, marked the real be... of work on the Isthmus by the United States Government. The ...mission is now engaged in studying the sanitary condition of the ...mus. Before work can be really begun, the towns of Panama and ...n must be drained and supplied with water, the harbor at Colon must ...redged, healthful quarters for the workmen and cold storage plants ...e built, and the problem of proper food solved. Rear Admiral Walker ...have to supervise all this preliminary work, which is, indeed, the most ...rtant of all.

A SERMON FOR SUNDAY

AN ELOQUENT DISCOURSE ENTITLED, "CHRIST'S GIFT OF LIFE."

The Rev. George R. Lunn Preaches From a Text Which He Declares Shows in Compact Form the Predominate Aim of Jesus—The Larger Life.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Sunday night, in the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church, the Rev. George R. Lunn, assistant pastor, preached on "Christ's Gift of Life." The text was taken from John x:10: "I am come that they might have life." Mr. Lunn said:

I am sure that I do not exaggerate when I say that no words of our Lord are more profoundly significant than these words of the text. We have in a compact form a statement of the purpose of Jesus Christ. All else is subordinated to this great and predominate aim. Jesus Christ has come into the world to give that life in ever increasing abundance. This is not a conclusion of mine worked out after special investigation; it is the simple and clear and forceful statement of our Lord Himself. I rest upon His word as a finality. And I find in this verse a fuller and richer expression of the purpose of Christ than is found anywhere else in Scripture.

What, then, is the life which Christ seeks to give? It is the life of fellowship with God, the Father; a fellowship begun on earth and continued throughout the ages of eternity. It is the life of spiritual oneness with God, united to Him in thought, in purpose, in all our varying activities. It is the larger life which comprehends our present life, enriching it with all the holy purposes of God, our Saviour, lifting us by its power into the purified atmosphere of noble deeds, done for His sake. In other words, it is the life of which our Master spoke when He said that to lose it was a calamity, even though a man should gain the whole world.

I think I am right in saying that a great many people interpret the words and work of our Lord as applying chiefly to the other world, not altogether, but chiefly. They regard the religion of Christ as an insurance of safety for the next world, rather than a definite program of activity for the present. They think more of the saving of the soul after death than of saving the life before death. No stronger illustration of this thought can be found than the large numbers of men who delay their decision in reference to Christ to some more convenient season. They say, not now, but at some future time, I will settle the great question of my soul's relation to God. You cannot find a man who will not express some wish to lead a better life; but in nearly every case they see no need of an immediate decision. In my pastoral work I have come in contact with this experience time and again. And as I have endeavored to understand what is the underlying cause of so much indecision regarding religious things, I find that most of it can be traced to this fundamental misinterpretation of the words and work of Jesus Christ our Lord. You may express this in many ways, but at heart the point is this—the saving of the soul after death, instead of saving the life right here and now; the gaining of heaven hereafter, rather than entering into heaven now. And because of this interpretation men feel no immediate necessity of getting right with God. So long as they are reasonably sure of life here, they are willing to delay the great decision of the soul.

Against this view of religion allow me to bring the message of the Saviour, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." You cannot read the gospels without coming into contact with this purpose of Christ at every turn. Repeatedly do you find the word life. We are struck with the fact how constantly the word life was on the lips of Jesus. It is a word which gives us the very heart of Jesus' teaching. He was always praising, always promising life. "If thou wilt enter into life keep My commandments," "He that believeth on Me hath life," "As the Father hath life in Himself, so hath He given to the Son to have life in Himself," "Because I live ye shall live also." "Ye will not come unto Me that ye might have life." Everywhere we find this same eager pleading with men to enter into life, and we further find that Jesus identified life with goodness. To Jesus life consisted in goodness. Wickedness is death. "The soul that sinneth, it shall die" is not so much a threat as the statement of a great truth. For the sinning soul dies by reason of the very fact of its sinning. There is no life for the human soul but in righteousness. Jesus, therefore, uses language which we may justly call violent when He referred to the possibility of a man's losing his higher life. Better to cut off the offending hand or foot if it hinders the aspiring soul. Better to pluck out the eye which causes stumbling if by that means the real life of God may be gained. I have called this language violent, and such it is. Not that Jesus anticipated any literal interpretation and literal following. The forceful illustration is used to emphasize a terrible and an eternal truth. The very possibility of a man's failing to enter into the life of fellowship with God, was a thought which brought strong tears to the eyes of the Saviour of men. I tell you that in these days we are harboring in our hearts a sentimental sympathy which overlooks sin and condones iniquity and seeks to apologize for the stern words of the Saviour. There was no doubt a ringing doom against sin. But it was not the doom of a threat. Jesus never threatened. He revealed what sin is; its very nature is death. The open door of life in God is before men. To pass by that door does not mean that God will arbitrarily punish, but that the very passing it by is death. The issue of sin is doom, exile into the night, the eclipse of desolation and abandonment.

Does there move in your hearts the suspicion that such a doom is exaggerated and overdone? When that suspicion comes to me, and it often comes, I remember the words of a sainted preacher: "When I am tempted to think that the doom is overdone, I must remember that the Son of God, my Saviour, with an infinite insight into all things, superlatively sensitive, knowing the inmost heart of life, He, our Saviour, pronounced the doom to be just. This Christ, who gave Himself for us, who loved us, told us in words—I venture to say loving words, of appalling terror—that for the deliberately sinful, and for the deliberately unjust, there is no place but the night, no place but the outer darkness, no place but ultimate separateness, no place but ultimate forsakenness and abandonment. These are my Master's words, and against them I will rear no petty imagination of my own; I will rather silence my own unillumined suspicion and humbly and quietly take my place with Him. The wages of sin is the night." It is the night now; it is the night hereafter. The essence of sin is death; it is exile; it is abandonment. Jesus' words were violent, but He was not seeking to produce fear, but to reveal fact.

Now to all of us who feel this fact so keenly Jesus brings His evangel of forgiveness and peace. The words spoken so long ago have their greatest significance now, for we can see, as those Jews could not see, their fuller and more profound meaning. As He spoke of the Father in such intimate terms, bitter resentment arose in their hearts. As He told them of His willingness to lay down His life for His sheep, they retorted: "He hath a demon and is mad; why hear ye Him?" Possibly we would have spoken likewise had we been living then. But now in the light of the centuries past, we look upon that lonely, forsaken, crucified Christ and recognize in His face the glory of the living, suffering God. For the "sufferings of Christ were the true representative symbol and proclamation of what goes on perpetually in God. From them God wishes the world to learn that sin is put away only through the redemptive suffering of holy love, which He Himself is gladly bearing, and which Christ, His representative and expression, endured before the eyes of men."

It is this truth which gives to the words of the text their power. He who said, "I am come that ye might have life" is Himself the life which He seeks to impart. He and the Father are one. The words which the historic Christ spoke to those Jews then are being repeated now to us by the indwelling, immanent Christ. I like that word immanent. It is a theological word, but it is a splendid word, pregnant with meaning. His name shall be called Immanuel, God with us, the inside God, the immanent God. It is He who says "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." It is He who says, "I am come that ye might have life and that ye might have it more abundantly." It is He who speaks to us in our sorrow and says, "Come with your sin and shame, come with your sadness and disappointment, come with your heavy trial and discouragement and I will give you peace." God with us! now to give us the victory. God with us, now, to forgive our sins. God with us! now, to give us heaven in our consecrated labor for Him.

I would that these words of Jesus which we are considering might live in your heart, as I try to have them live in my heart, as words spoken now, to-night, by the ever-living, ever-loving Father! How common it is for us to think of God our Father as far removed! It may be because of our training, but however we may account for it, the fact remains that many of us fail to realize that God is dealing with us now just as intimately and just as graciously as He dealt with the great prophets of old. How many of us carry about with us the sense of God? Do we have the conviction of God's abiding nearness wherever we are? If not, the greatest blessing of life has been missed. There is nothing more needed to-day than a truer, larger, more Scriptural idea of God. We need to realize His abiding nearness. But we need to forget the old idea of an unapproachable God. I recall the words of Henry Drummond, that great teacher, who, during his short life, won so many men to Christ. "I remember very well," he says, "the awful conception of God I got when I was a boy. I was given a book of Watts' hymns, which was illustrated, and, among other hymns there was one about God, and it represented a great black, scowling thunder cloud, and in the midst of that cloud there was a piercing eye. That was placed before my young imagination as God, and I got the idea that God was a great detective, playing the spy upon my actions and, as the hymn says, writing now the story of what little children do. That was a bad lesson. It has taken years to obliterate it." And I fear most of us have had to go through a similar experience before we have been rid of the terrible God of childhood, the faraway God of childhood, and come into the spiritual conception of the everywhere present God of the Bible.

Now it is this everywhere-present God, our Father, who seeks our life to save it. He wants our life now, for without God life is a living death. With God, life is growth, development — heaven now and heaven hereafter. Without God it is deterioration, atrophy, death. Here are two facts which our own experience confirms as true. We need to realize, therefore, that there is never a time when God the Father is not near us to lead us into His life. In the hour when you feel the stir of divinity within you, in the hour when conscience speaks and says, be a nobler man, a purer man, a truer man, in that hour "it is God which worketh in you." Possibly it was but yesterday that you spoke the unkind word that wounded a devoted heart, or gained your point in business by ruining your fellow man, or committed a sin that leaves a blot on the scutcheon, but afterward, unless your heart is already dead, you heard a still small voice pleading with you to repent your evil way and live a better, higher life. It was "God which worketh in you."

Multiplied are the experiences in which God is speaking to our souls, and many of us have never heard the voice. Ears have we but we hear not. We have eyes but we fail to see. There are great crowds who trample upon the beautiful violet, never thinking that they have one of God's sweetest thoughts under their heel. There are myriads of stolid eyes which look upward to the stars but see not God's glory in the robed beauty of the sky. There are multitudes who stand beneath the magnificent blue vault of heaven, gazing upon some gorgeous sunset, never dreaming that God lighted the fire. And beyond number are they who fail to feel the presence of God in the ordinary experiences of life. My friends, God wants our life. Do something with your life. Let your energy, your talent, your service be for God your Father. Be not so concerned to save your soul as to save your life. Give God your life and He will sanctify your soul.

God's Service.

I thought within those cherished days of old—
Oh, days that knew the tinge of morning sky—
When night's blue star veil vanishes on high
And flares the first wild radiance of gold
Along the hazy lengths of field and wold,
That my chief services to Him must lie
In rapt devotion thro' the inner eye
Of meditation, opening toward the fold.
But, lo! the vast is gray, and I have learned Long gone — ah, how the truth has pierced me through!
That His approval is the fullest earned
By worship in the kindly deeds we do;
God's service is as broad as needs that cry,
God's service knits man to eternity!
—L. W. L. Jennings, in Religious Herald.

The True and the Artificial.

It is not difficult to distinguish between the true and the artificial. The moral test is the sure one. When conscience is sensitive and the will submissive, and the life consistent, there is no doubt about one's spirituality. When the soul sings: "I delight to do Thy will, O, God," and then does delight to do God's will, or does the will of God from firm resolve, there can be no doubt. When one loathes sin and tries to leave it—all sin, all kinds of sin—sin against the body, sin against the soul, sin against the neighbor, sin again Christ and the Father—there is no difficulty in reaching a decision as to the genuineness of Christian character. It is no mirage. The garden of the Lord is there.—Bishop John H. Vincent.

Making Your Temper Over.

If you were not born with a good temper, make your temper over. If cheeriness and patience and amiability are not natural, cultivate them as a second nature. No one can be really happy who is irritable and fault-finding, and what is worse, he renders his nearest and dearest equally unhappy. Determination can conquer these faults, and a disposition as full of pricks as a bramble bush can be rendered sweet and tranquil and lovable. Don't imagine you must accept the nature you inherited without any attempt at change or alteration. If it is not what you want, make it over.

Optimism of Jesus.

You remember the famous line of Robert Browning, "God's in His heaven, all's right with the world?" That was the one source of the optimism of Browning, but the optimism of Jesus went a great deal deeper. It was the fact that God was in His earth, so that the ravens were fed and the lilies were adorned, and so that the very hairs of a man's head are numbered—it was that which gave a radiant quietude to Christ.—G. H. Morrison.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JUNE 26.

Review of the Second Quarter — Read Isaiah lvii., 1-10—Golden Text, Phil. ii., 9—Topic: Closing Scenes in Christ's Earthly Life.

Introduction.—The lessons of the quarter begin with the visit of Christ and His apostles to the borders of Phoenicia, in the early summer of A. D. 29, and close with the resurrection. They have been full of interest and very profitable. The great truths in connection with Christ's mission on earth have been brought out and discussed.

Summary.—Lesson I. Topic: Christ healing the afflicted. Place: On the borders of Phoenicia. Sermons on bread of life and pollution just delivered; the people plot against Him; Jesus and His disciples go to the borders of Phoenicia; a Gentile woman beseeches Him to cast the devil out of her daughter; Jesus replies that it is not proper to give the children's bread to dogs; she asks for the crumbs; "for this saying" the devil was cast out—her request granted.

II. Topic: Christ and His true followers. Place: Near Caesarea Philippi. Jesus asked His disciples who men said He was; some said John the Baptist, and others Elijah, Jeremiah, or one of the prophets. Whom do you say I am? Peter answers, The Christ. Jesus blessed Peter; man had not revealed it, but the Father had; the foundation rock; gates of hades shall not prevail against it; the keys of the kingdom of heaven given; Christ's death; Peter rebukes him; get behind me Satan; saving and losing the life.

III. Topic: Christ's present glory and future sufferings. Place: Probably Mount Hermon. Peter, James and John go with Jesus into the mount to pray. As Jesus prays He is transfigured; Moses and Elijah appear; converse regarding His departure from the world; the disciples see Jesus and the two men in their glory; enter into a cloud; hear a voice; Jesus is commended; alone with Jesus; tell no man; wondered what the rising of the dead meant; asked question about Elias.

IV. Topic: Christ directing the affairs of His kingdom. Place: Probably in Perea. The seventy appointed; sent forth; two and two; whither He Himself would come; the harvest plenteous; requests disciples to pray for laborers; Go, as lambs among wolves; hasten; ask that peace may rest upon the house; heal and preach; woe pronounced on Chorazin and Bethsaida; Capernaum should be thrust down to hell.

V. Topic: Importunate prayer. Place: In Perea. Christ prayed often; His disciples asked that they might be taught to pray; the value of the Lord's prayer; meaning of kingdom; God's will should be done on earth as in heaven; daily bread to be given; sins to be pardoned; parable of the importunate borrower, which should teach us to be persistent in prayer; a glorious promise; parents give good gifts to children; our heavenly Father is more willing to give the Holy Spirit to them that ask Him.

VI. Topic: The importance of being ready at the time of Christ's coming. Place: In Perea. Let loins be girded and lights burning—be ready and waiting for the coming of Christ as servants wait for the return of their master from the wedding. Christ will come as a thief, suddenly, when we least expect Him; the faithful, wise, just steward was promoted; the riotous and drunken servant perished; the one who knew his lord's will and failed to do should be beaten with many stripes; the one who knew not and failed to do should be beaten with few stripes.

VII. Topic: Man's folly and God's compassion. Place: In Perea. A certain man had two sons. The younger called for his portion of the inheritance; took all his goods; went into a far country; wasted his substance with harlots; a great famine; in want; feeding swine; decides to return home; is seen and met by his father; the boy is clothed; a feast is made; there is great rejoicing.

VIII. Topic: True greatness. Place: Perea. Christ and His disciples journeying toward Jerusalem; near the close of His earthly mission; James and John ask that they may sit, one on His right hand and the other on His left, in His glory; Jesus told them they knew not what they asked; asked them if they could suffer with Him; the exalted position they asked would be given to those for whom it was prepared; the ten much displeased; they were not to exercise authority as the Gentiles; principles of Christ's kingdom; Son of Man came to minister.

IX. Topic: Christ our Passover. Place: Jerusalem. It was Thursday; Jesus sent Peter and John to Jerusalem to prepare the Passover supper; they found a large upper room where they made ready; in the evening Jesus sat at the table with His disciples; He told them that one of them should betray Him; they were sorrowful and every one asked, "Lord, is it I?" Jesus said it would have been better for that man had he never been born; He then told Judas that he was the one; Judas left; Jesus eats His last supper with the remaining eleven.

X. Topic: The demand of the Jews for Christ's death. Place: Pilate's judgment hall. Jesus is taken to Pilate, the Governor, who investigates the charges and finds them false; Jesus is sent to Herod, who finds no fault with Christ; Pilate calls the people together and desires to release Christ; they demand that He be crucified; three times Pilate urges His release; they demand the release of Barabbas, a murderer; Pilate yields; washes his hands; orders Jesus to be scourged; delivers Him to be crucified.

XI. Topic: Closing scenes in Christ's earthly life. Place: Mount Calvary. Christ on the cross; mocked by the soldiers; vinegar offered; the superscription; the two thieves crucified with Christ; one railed on Jesus; the other confessed his sins and asked to be remembered in Christ's kingdom; the prayer answered; darkness from 12 till 3 o'clock; Jesus cried with a loud voice and died; the centurion's testimony.

XII. Topic: The events of the resurrection morning. Place: Garden near Calvary. Christ was crucified on Friday, April 7; rose early Sunday morning, April 9; several women were early at the tomb; the stone was rolled away; the women entered the sepulchre; Christ was not there; two angels appeared; their faces were like lightning and their garments were dazzling; the women were afraid; the angels told them Christ had risen; He was to go before them into Galilee; the women ran to take the disciples word; Jesus met them; the Roman guard bribed.

The work on the Girls' Home at Boaz is progressing. The building, when completed, will have about 90 rooms for boarding girls to attend the seminary. It will cost about $10,000 and it will be completed about the first of September.

Commissioner of Agriculture Poole, in a crop statement, reports the cotton crop in Alabama in a good condition, with fine prospects for a large yield. The statement says that the crop is on a whole in much better condition than it was this time last year. Corn is reported almost without exception as being good. All fruits are doing well.

THE UNION.

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf

SPECIAL OFFER.

The Yellow Jacket, published bi-weekly at Moravian Falls, N. C., is an extremely bright, readable paper. We will send the UNION and YELLOW JACKET for one year for $1 in advance. This is a combination that ought to get every good man in Chilton county on our list, and is only open for a short time. tf

At the meeting of the populist executive committee of Chilton county on March 15, 1904, the following resolution was adopted by the committee:

"Be it resolved, That we, the people's party executive committee of Chilton county, do hereby indorse the UNION, a paper published in Clanton, Ala., as our official organ. tf

OUR CLUBBING LIST.

The Union and Yellow Jacket, both for one year $1.00
The Union and Weekly Montgomery Advertiser 1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution 1.50
tf

Several hundred subscribers will get this paper with a big red cross on it. It means that you owe us a dollar and we owe it to some other fellows. Some small fellow will make a big kick about this red cross and will stop his paper, and some clever fellows will come in and pay up like a white man always does, and tell us they had just forgotten all about it. tf

DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?

IMPORTANT

THE PEOPLE'S PRIMARY WILL BE HELD ON TUESDAY, JULY 26th, 1904.

NEW SCHOOL DISTRICTS.

We give our readers today the entire list of new school districts as recorded in the judge of probate's office. We wanted to set this list before our readers some time ago, but the expense held us back. You see we won't get any advertising jobs from the court house until after the election in November, and it is pretty hard pulling some times. Be sure and read the school law as to the election of trustees, etc.; if you don't elect trustees on the first Saturday in July and follow out the other provisions of the law, you are liable to miss the public money for your school. All the sections of the law necessary for your guidance are in this paper. READ AND HEED.

CULPEPPER IS A GENIUS.

We do not know Mr. "J. Culpepper," who writes for the Montgomery Sunday Advertiser, but we know he is one of the most entertaining, logical and humorous "penners" in Alabama today or any other day. His humor is logic and his logic is humor. He puts sunshine instead of puling sentiment into the serious phases of life, and any of the great papers would make an effective feature of his articles, as they are in every respect superior to much of the full-page illustrated feature stuff that appears in the Sunday papers.—Sheffield Reaper.

We know Culpepper and heartily indorse the above and wish that every man in Alabama would read his letters. It would take the kinks out of the dispositions of some of them.

"THE PEOPLE WILL RULE THIS COUNTY."

The joint meeting of the people's party committee and our candidates was also attended by numbers of populists and republican voters, and was throughly harmonious. The meeting was a decided contrast to the democratic gathering the previous Saturday that was all froth, fuss and feathers; by the way, did you see the end of that rooster? The people's eagle has him fast in its claws, and will swallow that gamecock on November 8th, and don't you forget it. Well, our meeting was strictly business. The following article from the Montgomery Journal covers the ground pretty well:

"Clanton, Ala., June 18.—The people's party executive committee had a called meeting here yesterday. All candidates for county offices, thirty in all, were all invited to be present.

"A number of populists and republicans were in attendance, making a gathering of over 400 voters, who held a meeting in the court house from 10 o'clock to 4 in the afternoon, with an hour's intermission for dinner.

"Every candidate addressed the assembly and a brass band in attendance played between the speeches.

"The people's candidates will be nominated at a primary to be held July 26th and all indications point to their election in November by a vote of 8 to 1, as many democrats are dissatisfied with their own party leadership in this county and will either vote for the people's party nominees or stay at home. L. H. Reynolds, candidate for probate judge, made a particularly strong address which was cheered to the echo at the meeting here yesterday."

COMMITTEE MEETING.

The people's party county executive committee, at their meeting on the 17th inst., passed the following resolutions in regard to the primary of July 26, 1904, and defines who is eligible to participate in the same:

"Resolved, That our primary is open to ALL who are opposed to organized democracy and ring rule,' but we rule that such voters as participated in the democratic primary on April 11, 1904, have thereby shown that they do not oppose democracy, and are therefore not eligible to vote in the people's party primary.

"2. That as it has come to our knowledge that many voters who hitherto have been opposed to us are now desirous of co-operating with us, that we will heartily welcome them to our ranks on November 8, 1904, and that we are grateful to them for their co-operation in behalf of the rule of the PEOPLE."

J. D. Collins was elected secretary of the county executive committee. The sub-committee having in charge the conduct, etc., of the primary consists of W. H. Shaw, T. J. Dorming and J. D. Collins. Any candidate who has not paid his assessment for primary expenses can send it to W. H. Shaw, Jemison, or leave the amount at the Union office, as will best suit his convenience. Mr. Shaw has authorized the editor of THE UNION to receipt for such moneys as are left with him.

NOTICE OF PRIMARY ELECTION.

Notice is hereby given that a PEOPLE'S party primary election will be held in Chilton county, Alabama, on the 26th day of July, 1904, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the several county offices to be filled at the general election to be held November 8, 1904. Said primary election will be held under the primary election law and the rules adopted by the county executive committee of the PEOPLE'S party of Chilton county, for the regulation of said primary. This 22d day of June, 1904.

W. H. SHAW, Chairman.
J. D. COLLINS, Secretary.

TO THE PEOPLE.

Dear Friends:

It has been said that Professor J. W. Moore did not do his duty in regard to the public money at Thorsby. Read article No. 263 of the new constitution of Alabama, as follows: "No money raised for the support of the public schools shall be appropriated to or used for the support of any sectarian or denominational school."

Respectfully,
J. D. COLLINS.

EDITOR VS. LAWYER.

A lawyer in a court room may call a man a liar, scoundrel, villain or thief, and no one makes a complaint when court has adjourned. If a newspaper prints such reflections on a man's character there is a libel suit or a dead editor. And this is owing to the fact that people believe what an editor says; what a lawyer says cuts no figure.—Routt County, Colo., Courier.

BETHEL.

Rev. William Lively, of Birmingham, preached an interesting sermon to a good congregation Saturday. We wish he would visit us as often as possible. Mrs. Foshee, of Mulberry, visited B. L. Dennis' Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Shirley are visiting in this community. Misses Annabel and Mollie Yeargan, of Enterprise, went to Maple Springs Sunday.

COMMUNICATIONS.

We call attention of our correspondents to the fact that we will not publish letters, etc., without they are signed for our information only.

ORDINATION SERVICES.

On the Saturday before the second Sunday in July at 11 a. m. two deacons will be ordained at New Hope church. Rev. A. M. Foshee will preach the ordination sermon. Dinner on the ground. At 2:30 p. m. communion and washing of feet. tf

(Communicated.)

RIDERVILLE.

June 20, 1904.

Editor Union—I wish to say a few words in regard to one of our candidates for tax assessor, Mr. T. G. Milling, whom I have known almost from his youth up. He was raised an orphan, got his education by hard licks—and got a reasonably good one—and has made the tax assessor's office a study, and for the last eight years has proven his competency for the office by correcting errors for people in his community. Mr. Milling was doing deputy work for the present assessor and we found he was useful in the community in which he resides, and decided he would be more useful in the county and asked him to make the race for assessor, which he has done. We hope to see Mr. Milling elected, and I want every one to consider this as a personal matter and vote for their best interests. Success to THE UNION.

S. R. LETCHER.

(Communicated.)

BEAT ONE.

Mr. Editor:

Please allow me space in your paper, as it is the first time, I am a democrat, and as along in the spring some of my brother democratic candidates had read of camels being good to travel on, so he started on one to get there on but failed; he had rode the single hump camel. But old Father Dake has got on the double hump camel and he will sure get there, you bet. My brother democrat has tried to get another hump on his camel, but he can't make the hump fit. Old Father Dake is all right; he don't have to spur up to beat the single hump camel. I am sorry for the poor fellow with one hump, but can't cry for laughing to think he would try to beat out on a single hump, but that is the way of some people; they have to put themselves before the people to find out the difference between the single hump and the double hump camel. Now, boys, a few words to you all; don't fail to go to the primary and cast your vote for Father Dake, and "he'll get there, Eli." Good luck to THE UNION and its readers. Little thieves run from the sheriff, but big thieves run for office. Candidates do the hand shaking, the voter does the hard thinking. We have a friend who lives in town, never shakes hand until canvass comes round. So we watch the thing all around; see him color when we come to town.

STUMP HILL BOY.

(Communicated.)

Thorsby, Ala., June 21, '04.

Editor Union:

We, the undersigned citizens and voters of beat 9, request the privilege through THE UNION to dispute some malicious falsehoods which are being circulated against our friend and neighbor, Mr. L. B. Pounds, to the effect that he is lazy, will not work and if elected tax assessor that he would not attend to the duties of the office, etc. Now, we are well acquainted with Mr. Pounds, and we know him to be an industrious, hard-working man, a high-toned gentleman in every sense of the word, and one of the best qualified men in the county for any position in the gift of the people. At the same time he is not afraid nor ashamed to do hard labor in support of a large family composed partly of an aged step-mother and two invalid children. Long and protracted sickness and other misfortunes have placed him at a financial disadvantage, but notwithstanding all these discouragements Mr. Pounds is battling bravely on to a better day, and while it may be said of others that they are and have been true to the cause and interests of the laboring class, Pounds has ever been to the front, never faltering, never flinching. He never trades or compromises with the enemy, and no doubt these furnish the reason why his enemies are circulating these falsehoods. They would rejoice to silence his tongue and pen, but this only makes us the more determined to stand by him. He will undoubtedly carry this section of the county almost solid and the indorsement of the undersigned will be supplemented by nearly every populist and republican voter in this part of the county on July 26th. Not that the other gentlemen offering for the same place are not good men, but that Pounds needs the office, and we need Pounds, the people can't afford to turn down their best man simply because our enemies, the democrats, circulate some base falsehoods against them. So we earnestly insist that our people stand fearlessly by those who have proven their fidelity, courage and fitness and who have borne the brunt of the battle so long and yet stand true.

J. H. Benson, Stephen Pate, H. Benson, J. M. Mims, A. L. Stagner, J. W. Collins, B. N. Martin, B. G. Burnett, L. W. Robinson, William Murrah, J. R. Martin, J. D. Collins, W. F. Martin and A. Z. Bean.

FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

The Chilton County Farmers' Alliance will meet with Poplar Springs Alliance in beat 10 on Wednesday and Thursday, July 20th and 21st, 1904, at 10 a. m. The secretaries are requested to send me their reports as early as possible after their last meeting in June or forepart of July. This will be an interesting and beneficial meeting.

ALEX G. DAKE,
Sec. C. C. F. A.

Clanton, Ala., June 20, 1904.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT MAPLE SPRINGS.

The Sunday school celebration last Sunday at Maple Springs was an unqualified success. The day was perfect; the shower that fell Saturday evening had laid the dust, and the members of the two Sabbath schools (Concord having joined hands with Mable Springs) looked so bright and happy that it was a genuine pleasure to look at them, and the throngs of visitors from Clanton, Verbena and other communities made a pretty sight. There were about 800 in all on the grounds and the church could only accommodate a small part of the crowd, so they scattered in all directions under the trees and at the spring. The conduct of all was of the best and in full accord with the day. When the dinner hour arrived Rev. W. J. Armstrong mounted a stump and his voice echoed far and wide as he gave all a hospitable welcome to the long tables filled with good things provided by the good ladies of the two congregations. Rev. W. Jones asked a blessing on the repast and all were well fed. The little folks acquitted themselves beautifully in speaking their different pieces. The program was a varied one, as shown below:

9:30 a. m., devotional exercises conducted by Superintendent J. P. Parrish, of Concord. 10 a. m., march by schools in colors, Concord in pink, Maple Springs in blue. Concord was led by Misses Halie Wyatt and Minnie Mims as flag bearers, and Miss Lettie Dupree as cross bearer, with the motto "In God we Trust." Maple Springs was headed by Misses Maggie Calloway and Dora Kicker as flag bearers and Miss Elsie Harris cross bearer, with the motto, "Christ is our Leader." After forming in line of march, Rev. W. W. Robinson gave a lecture on purpose of march, mottoes, etc. 10:30 a. m., singing led by E. H. Mims. 11:00 a. m., collection for Bible fund. Adjournment for dinner till 1:30, when singing led by W. H. Robinson was had. 2:00 p. m., recitations by the little folks, viz, "Welcome," Lulu Cleckler; "Our Gifts," Bonnie Roberts; "Boys," Ocie Devaughan; "Children's Day," Winston and Chester Mims; "Our Field is the World," Reuben Wyatt and Maggie Mims; "The Lilies," Jean Wyatt and Roberta Driver; "The Harvest," Bessie Devaughan and Cecil Harris; "The Lord of the Harvest," Clahence Norrell and Alonzo Wilson; "Love's Call," Mack Wyatt and Martha Jane Mims; "Lesson from the Flowers," Gussie Calloway, Dora Maddox, Dollie Harris, Dora Parrish, Bertha Devaughan and Bertha Maddox; "Everybody's Business," James D. Armstrong and Ephraim Wilson. The exercises concluded with addresses on Sunday school work by Revs. Willie Jones and W. J. Armstrong. THE UNION wishes to thank the able secretary, H. A. Harris, for courtesies as to program, etc.

COMFORTING WORDS.

On the death of Benjamin Franklin June 18, 1904. Comfort for bereaved relatives. A loving member has been called by the merciful God from this world of suffering to dwell with the angels in the Gloryland, where suffering never can enter. So, dear father, mother, sisters and brothers, do not weep for this dear departed one; for he has filled his mission here. He was the idol of your home, but you could not wish him back, for you know that rest is his in tha sweet place where he has gone. He was the first that was called and he will welcome you all, if you will only strive to gain the promised prize.

—Submitted by Friends.

CONFERENCE OF M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Prattville district conference will meet in session at Clanton on June 23d, 24th, 25th and 26th. tf

COOPER.

The banner man seems to be continually worrying about THE UNION, or the Birmingham paper, as he calls it. Well, yes, I guess it is touching his pocket. Mr. "bannerman," we prefer a paper printed at Birmingham that stands for the people's rights to one HALF-PRINTED at our doors that we know to be a TRAITOR to its first party and people. Success to THE UNION and the people it represents.

D.

Murder or Accident?

The body of John Culburn, a miner, was found beside the railroad tracks at Brookside. From the position of the body and its condition many believe that the miner was not killed by the train, but that he was murdered and his body placed on the track to cover the deed.

The man's arm was cut off, and his knee was broken. Internal injuries were also in evidence, and there were a number of bruises.

An eye-witness said that great loss of life was due to the collapsing of the upper deck. It fell soon after the fire started, crushing hundreds who had gathered on the lower deck. It was then that the great panic ensued amid the stream of persons going over the rail.

There is in the coroner's possession a standpipe taken from the submerged wreck. The valve of the pipe is closed tight, showing that no effort was made to open this pipe.

It was stated by divers that there are many bodies still under the entanglement of timbers and paddle wheels, and that it would be necessary to dynamite and talk or raise it before they could be reached.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. ALEX G. DAKE.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

A. C. MIMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

S. J. JENNINGS.

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

SAM W. COLLINS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

L. A. CALLOWAY.

FOR TREASURER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. WILEY LITTLEJOHN.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ROBERT M. SMITH.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ANDREW J. WILSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. W. C. ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

H. A. J. HARRIS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904.

ENOCH H. ADAMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. BICE.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary, July 26, 1904. DANIEL C. GANDY.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th, 1904 GEORGE W. EDWARDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary July 26, 1904. L. B. POUNDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904 T. G. MILLING.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26, 1904.

S. E. WALDRUP,
(Better known as "Squire" Waldrup.)

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary on July 26th, 1904. JOSEPH H. THOMAS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. M. F. LETT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN W. G. KICKER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

BENJAMIN H. WELLS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904. W. F. DESHAZO.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN J. LETCHER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. MOSES A. KILLGORE.

We, the undersigned friends of J. HUBBARD, do hereby announce him as a candidate for re-election to the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904: J. Williams, H. W. Varden, C. L. Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hugh Henry, L. Thomas, J. L. Smith.

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. J. W. MOORE.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for commissioner from the fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

MOSES ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

R. P. KENDRICK.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the Fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th ,1904.

WILLIAM T. MAHAN.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CONFERENCE.

The second quarterly conference for Clanton circuit, Methodist Protestant church, will be held at Mount Pisgah church, three and a half miles southeast of Clanton, the fourth Sunday in June and Saturday before. Dinner on the grounds.

tf T. F. DAVIS, Pastor.

NOTICE!

Registrars' Appointments.

Whereas, By virtue of the provisions of section 6 of "An act to further regulate elections in the state of Alabama," approved October 9, 1903, "the board of registrars in each county shall visit each precinct at least once, and oftener if necessary, between July 1st and October 1st, 1904," to make a complete registration of all persons entitled to register, and shall remain there at least one day, from 8 o'clock in the morning until sunset, and they shall give at least twenty days' notice of the time when and the place in the precinct where they will attend to register applicants for registration, by bills posted at three or more public places in each election precinct and by advertisement once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper, if there be one published in the county. Now, therefore, this is to give notice, as required by said act, that the board of registrars for the county of Chilton will sit at the following places at the time specified for the purpose as aforesaid:

Flint Hill, beat 11, July 11th and 12th.

Mineral Springs, beat 1, July 13th and 14th.

Thorsby, beat 9, July 15th and 16th.

Jemison, beat 2, July 18th and 19th.

Providence, beat 2, July 20th and 21st.

Macedonia, beat 3, July 22d and 23d

Benson, beat 3, July 25th and 26th.

Maplesville, beat 7, July 27th and 28th.

Shoults, beat 7, July 29th and 30th.

Stanton, beat 8, August 1st and 2d.

Riderville, beat 8, August 3d.

Pletchers, beat 8, August 4th

Kincheon, beat 6, August 5th and 6th.

Verbena, beat 5, August 15th and 16th.

Coopers, beat 10, August 17th and 18th.

Clanton, beat 4, August 19th and 20th.

CLANTON, one week, August 8th to 13th, inclusive, for the purpose of purging the registration list.

CLANTON, one week, August 22d to 27th, inclusive, for the purpose of considering the case of each elector whose name it is proposed to strike from the registration list and determine same.

BOARD OF REGISTRATION FOR CHILTON COUNTY.
R. H. GAINES, Chairman.
tf

R. M. Davis, of Louisville, is the lowest bidder at $4,994 on the contract for the low pressure steam heating in the new Montgomery Post building.

OUNCEMENTS

PROBATE
yself as a can
f judge of pro
subject to the
S primary July
EX G. DAKE.

yself as a can
f judge of pro
subject to the
S primary July

REYNOLDS.

yself as a can
f judge of pro
subject to the
primary July

C. MIMS.

myself as a
of judge of
subject to the LE'S primary

JENNINGS.

T COURT.
self as a can clerk of the county, sub peoples pri

COLLINS

elf as a can clerk of the county, sub peoples pri

LLOWAY

ER.
elf as a can treasurer for
the action
July 26th,

REYNOLDS.
If as a can
treasurer for
the action
July 26th,

WILSON.
If as a can
treasurer for
the action
July 26,

OBINSON.
If as a can treasurer of the action
July 26,

HARRIS.
f as a can easurer for
the action
July 26, 1904.

ADAMS.
f as a can easurer of the action
July 26,

J. BICE.

OR.
as a can assessor of
the action
July 26,

GANDY.
as a can assessor of
the action
July 26th,

WARDS.
as a can assessor of
to the ac
July 26,

OUNDS.
as a can assessor
to the ac
July 26,

LLING.

OR.
as a can collector
the ac
July 26,

OBINSON.
as a can collector
to the ary July

CKER.
s a can collector
to the ary July

ELLS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904.

W. F. DESHAZO.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN J. LETCHER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

MOSES A. KILLGORE.

We, the undersigned friends of T. J. HUBBARD, do hereby announce him as a candidate for re-election to the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904; J. Williams, H. W. Varden, C. L. Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hugh Henry, L. Thomas, J. L. Smith.

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904.

J. W. MOORE.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for commissioner from the fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

MOSES ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

R. P. KENDRICK.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the First district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th ,1904.

WILLIAM T. MAHAN.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CONFERENCE.

The second quarterly conference for Clanton circuit, Methodist Protestant church, will be held at Mount Pisgah church, three and a half miles southeast of Clanton, the fourth Sunday in June and Saturday before. Dinner on the grounds.

tf T. F. DAVIS, Pastor.

NOTICE!

Registrars' Appointments.

Whereas, By virtue of the provisions of section 6 of "An act to further regulate elections in the state of Alabama," approved October 9, 1903, "the board of registrars in each county shall visit each precinct at least once, and oftener if necessary, between July 1st and October 1st, 1904," to make a complete registration of all persons entitled to register, and shall remain there at least one day, from 8 o'clock in the morning until sunset, and they shall give at least twenty days' notice of the time when and the place in the precinct where they will attend to register applicants for registration, by bills posted at three or more public places in each election precinct and by advertisement once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper, if there be one published in the county. Now, therefore, this is to give notice, as required by said law, that the board of registrars for the county of Chilton will sit at the following places at the time specified for the purpose as aforesaid:

Flint Hill, beat 11, July 11th and 12th.

Mineral Springs, beat 1, July 13th and 14th.

Thorsby, beat 9, July 15th and 16th.

Jemison, beat 2, July 18th and 19th.

Providence, beat 2, July 20th and 21st.

Maccedonia, beat 3, July 22d and 23d.

Benson, beat 3, July 25th and 26th.

Maplesville, beat 7, July 27th and 28th.

Shoults, beat 7, July 29th and 30th.

Stanton, beat 8, August 1st and 2d.

Riderville, beat 8, August 3d.

Pletchers, beat 8, August 4th.

Kincheon, beat 6, August 5th and 6th.

Verbena, beat 5, August 15th and 16th.

Coopers, beat 10, August 17th and 18th.

Clanton, beat 4, August 19th and 20th.

CLANTON, one week, August 8th to 13th, inclusive, for the purpose of purging the registration list.

CLANTON, one week, August 22d to 27th, inclusive, for the purpose of considering the case of each elector whose name it is proposed to strike from the registration list and determine same.

BOARD OF REGISTRATION FOR CHILTON COUNTY.
R. H. GAINES, Chairman.

tf

B. M. Davis, of Louisville, is the lowest bidder at $4,894 on the contract for the low pressure steam heating in the new Montgomery Public building.

CITY OFFICIALS

Judson Strock.
W. M. Wilson, E. G. Robinson, W. I. Mullins, J. M. Potts.
J. Watts Moore.
Ed Smitherman.

COURTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.

Spring Term—1st Monday in April.
Summer Term—3rd Monday in July.
Fall Term—1st Monday in November.
Judge—T. Scott Sayre.
Solicitor—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
Clerk—E. B. Deason, Clanton.

CHANCERY COURT.

Spring Term—2nd Monday in March.
Fall Term—2nd Monday in September.
Chancellor—Hon. R. B. Kelley, Anniston.
Register—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

COUNTY COURT.

First Monday in each month.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

2nd Monday February, 1st Monday April, 1st Monday June, 2nd Monday July, 2nd Monday August, 1st Monday September.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

Judge of Probate—S. M. Adams.
Treasurer—Alex G. Dake.
Sheriff—J. M. Morgan.
Solicitor—J. O. Middleton.
Tax Assessor—A. C. Mims.
Tax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—Alex Glasscock.
Third District—W. A. Green.
Fourth District—R. C. Riggins.

SUPT. OF EDUCATION.

Prof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.

Hon. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.

Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Jemison.

COUNTY CHURCHES

Pastors and clerks are cordially asked to send the editor any news regarding their churches which they would like published. Also if there are any errors in these notices please send corrections.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

Alpine—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor. T. Jones, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
Beth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor; C. C. Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
Brookson—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor; W. W. Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
Bethany—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday. B. Huett, clerk, Verbena.
Clanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st and 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.
Cane Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th Sunday. V. J. Gragg, clerk.
Center Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, pastor; J. Samons, clerk, Jemison.
Concord—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd Sunday. T. N. Parrish, clerk.
Collins Chapel—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 1st Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.
Chestnut Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand, pastor; J. W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
Corinth—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd Sunday. W. B. Jones, clerk.
Cross Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 4th Sunday. J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
Corinth—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st Sunday. M. K. Wagoner, clerk.
Canaan—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pastor; W. J. Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
Ebenezer—Rev. P. G. Manese, pastor; R. H. Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
Jemison—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; N. Rodgers, clerk, Jemison.
Liberty Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.
Macedonia—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd Sunday H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
Mars Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, pastor; H. Z. Barnes, clerk, British.
Mulberry—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; C. Veazey, clerk, Randolph.
Mount Carmel—Rev. W. J. Ruddick, pastor; W. M. Roebuck, clerk, Adams.
Mount Zion—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, pastor; D. H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
Maple Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand, pastor; W. H. Wilson, clerk.
Macedonia—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd Sunday; George Trawick, clerk.
New Cedron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor; J. W. Billingsley, clerk.
New Salem—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 4th Sunday; G. W. Hill, clerk.
New Hope—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd Sunday. Henry Smith, clerk.
Pilgrims' Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason, pastor; I. M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st Sunday; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
Pleasant Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, pastor; W. R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
Pleasant Grove—Rev. G. W. Freeman, pastor; H. C. Latham, clerk, Monits.
Poplar Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone, 3rd Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.
Providence—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt. 1st Sunday. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemison.
Providence—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, pastor; Riley Robinson, clerk, Clanton.
Salem—Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor; R. Robinson, clerk, Rushton.
Shiloh—Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd Sunday; W. J. Billingsley, clerk.
Hardie—Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sunday. J. Deason, clerk, Adams.
Thorsby—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; Robert Jones, clerk, Thorsby.
Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor; R. S. Chandler, clerk, Jemison.
Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2d Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.
Verbena—Rev. J. W. Partridge, 1st Sunday. T. J. Bland, clerk.
Valley Creek—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; J. W. Mitchell, clerk, Plantersville.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS.

Bethel—Elder J. W. Howell, pastor; Saturday before the second Sunday; J. T. Abernathy, clerk, Verbena.

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Clanton Circuit—Rev. D. B. H. Jeffcoat, Pastor.
Clanton—2nd and 4th Sundays.
Fairview—3rd Sunday.
Isabelle—3rd Sunday, 3 p. m.
Jemison—1st Sunday.
Lime Springs—Saturday before 2nd Sunday.
Mount Moriah—Saturday before 1st Sunday.
New Prospect—Saturday before 3rd Sunday.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

Clanton Circuit, Rev. T. F. Davis, Pastor.
Thorsby—1st Sunday.
Walnut Grove—2nd Sunday, morning.
Unity—2nd Sunday, evening.
Shady Grove—3rd Sunday.
Mount Pisgah—4th Sunday, morning.
Enterprise—4th Sunday, evening.

CONGREGATIONAL.

South Calera—Rev. J. R. Crowson second Sunday. W. L. Shaw, clerk, Calera.
Lomax—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 4th Sunday. F. E. Riggs, clerk, Lomax.
Mountain Springs—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 3rd Sunday. W. J. Headley, clerk, Clanton.
Shady Grove—Rev. A. C. Wells, 1st Sunday. Mrs. A. Baker, clerk, Verbena.
Union—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 1st Sunday. Miss A. Lake, clerk, Lightwood.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Highland School House—Rev. M. F. Lett, 3rd Sunday and Saturday before. T. L. Adams, clerk.
Enterprise—Rev. M. F. Lett, 4th Sunday. T. F. Patterson, clerk.

NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN.

St. Olafs, Thorsby—Rev. H. Engh, pastor. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

Concordia, Thorsby—Rev. J. E. Hedberg. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. Mr. Carroll, pastor, 2d Sunday. Song service every 2d and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

MASONIC.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday, Clanton.
Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 250—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.
Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 423—First Saturday, Clanton.
Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 567—First Saturday Billingsley.
Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.
Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 411—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.
Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 473—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.
Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

of the

BRITISH AMERICA ASSURANCE CO.

Of Toronto, Canada.

1st January, 1904.

UNITED STATES BRANCH.

Assets.

Government bonds	$223,650.00
State and municipal bonds	511,473.19
Cash on hand and deposit	169,720.71
Stocks and bonds	305,793.00
Premiums in course of col.	204,834.79
Interest due and accrued.	11,833.20
	$1,427,304.89

Liabilities.

Reserve premium fund (N. Y. Standard)	$849,771.77
Reserve for unpaid losses	100,786.24
	$950,557.91
Surplus in United States	$476,746.98
Total income in United States for 1903	$1,547,736.84
Total losses paid in U. S. from 1874 to 1903, inclusive	$14,674,843.26

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

PERSONAL AND LOCAL.

J. N. Dennis was in Clanton Thursday.

J. A. Mims was a pleasant visitor Friday.

L. Moore was a welcome caller Friday.

If you want to succeed buy a "James and Mayer" buggy from W. I. Mullins.

T. L. Robinson was a pleasant visitor Friday.

Mrs. J. N. Dennis, of beat 10, is visiting friends and relatives in Autauga county this week.

Try "Oxolo," for sale at Upchurch's drug store.

W. J. Watson was a welcome visitor Saturday, and left a subscription for THE UNION to be sent to G. B. Watson at Dublin, Tex. How we do spread.

J. Monroe Burnett, of Thorsby, was in Clanton Friday. He has just closed his school at Jackson's Gap, in Tallapoosa.

Chattanooga Cane Mills and Plows at W. I. Mullins'.

D. C. Gandy, of Stanton, candidate for assessor, was a welcome visitor Friday.

W. H. Bean was a pleasant visitor Friday.

J. H. Carter was a welcome caller Friday.

If you are in need of spectacles you should call on Upchurch.

J. J. Maddox was a pleasant visitor Friday.

C. C. Bowles, of Billingsley, was a welcome caller Saturday.

J. E. McDowell was in Clanton on Tuesday.

A. C. Mims was in town Tuesday.

C. D. Foshee was in Clanton Tuesday.

A. W. Powell was a pleasant visitor Tuesday.

Jasper N. Dennis, of beat 10, favored the Union man with some very fine Japanese plums the other day. Come again, Bro. Dennis.

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Mullins went to Montgomery Wednesday.

Abe Kanter returned from his Canadian trip Tuesday.

Judge H. A. Wilson was in Clanton Tuesday.

There will be speaking at Davis' school house at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, June 25th. Messrs. Reynolds, Bice and Pounds and maybe others will be on hand.

The news from Washington is that our Joe Headley has been issued a patent on his truss bridge.

J. W. Kicker was in Clanton Saturday, and the best of it is Joe had some fine side meat of his own raising to sell. He don't have to buy western meat.

Dr. and Mrs. Curry left Tuesday for home, having spent several days visiting their son, T. A. Curry, whose wife has been very ill, but is on the mend now. We are always glad to greet the doctor.

Rev. A. C. Swindall filled his third Sunday appointment in Clanton, preaching both morning and evening. Bro. Swindall helped conduct a very successful protracted meeting at Good Water last week.

There will be a joint public installation of the newly elected officers of the Jemison Masons and Odd Fellows on Friday, June 24th. Good speakers will be there. Come early, bring your basket and stay all day.

Clanton chapter, R. A. M., held their annual election Saturday night and chose the following officers for the ensuing Masonic year: High priest, J. P. Vanderveer; king, Guy Higgins; scribe, W. H. Sartor; treasurer, W. I. Mullins; secretary, A. C. Smith; captain of host, W. T. Aldridge; principal sojourner, E. A. Matthews; royal arch captain, J. R. Mullins;; master of third vail, E. B. Deason; master of second vail, J. Watts Moore; master of first vail, E. G. Hyman; sentinel, E. A. Knight.

Candidates J. Bice and Sam W. Collins were in Clanton Tuesday, both seemingly in good spirits.

Bob Farley and Miss Melissa Jones were married at Wiley Littlejohn's house Sunday by Judge Adams. The happy couple will reside at Mountain Creek, where Mr. Farley is working at present.

Mrs. W. T. Callen has returned from her trip to the "Land of the Skies" and was much pleased with her trip.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

M. J. Farley and Miss Julissa Jones. Arman Wagner and Miss Lena Downing. J. S. Dawson and Miss Mattie Tidwell.

WAGNER-DOWNING.

Miss Lena Downing was married to Mr. Arman Wagner on June 20, 1904, at the residence of Justice of the Peace J. J. McDowell, who performed the ceremony. The young couple hail from near Jumbo, and are highly esteemed in their community. May they have a full measure of health and prosperity is the sincere wish of THE UNION.

LIBERTY HILL.

June 20, 1904.

Editor Union:

I've been reading your paper for some time, and have seen letters in it from all parts except from Liberty Hill. It is not because it is not known for there isn't a church in the county better known. Of the many gatherings that have been held here, that of last Sunday will long be remembered by those who were there. As we got near the church and saw the crowd of people, and heard the sweet music rendered by our two singers, T. J. and E. A. Littlejohn, it was inspiring. There were about 350 people present at the preaching of a memorable sermon from our pastor, Rev. A. L. Foshee, who has been laboring with us for about eight months. He is a good, Christian-hearted man and loved by all who know him. I don't think I've ever heard a more impressive sermon. It applied to all and the closing portion on the duties of parents to their children was very impressive. I certainly wish we could have more sermons on this line to arouse the people and put them to thinking about their duty. If we would take his advice it might save some boy from the gambling hell or some innocent girl from the brothel. Do we give it the thought we should? No, the most of us wait too long, and when it is too late we wake up and see where a little correction would have done good. I've heard people say they couldn't stop their children from going as they do. Maybe not now, but if you had begun sooner it might have been done When you hear mothers cry out in distress and wish they had raised their children different. Yet, with all the fair examples before us, with the advice given, we see boys and girls going to destruction. Some of us fall far short of our duty. Do you know where they will end? I leave it to you to answer this question. I don't mean all of us are guilty, but some of us are, and I do hope we will get aroused along this line and do our duty. How many members of Liberty Hill church are thinking of the advice given us yesterday? Take it home with you, brothers and sisters, and pray over it.

A CHURCH MEMBER.

Cooper, Ala., June 17, 1904.

Crops are in very good condition at present, but are needing rain very much. Owing to the small rainfall, crops have been cultivated better than usual. Now is the time to plant cow peas after oats. Farmers are realizing more and more the importance of planting all available land in cow peas. Besides improving the land, they furnish an abundance of good feed. Many farmers use their oat fields as pastures after harvesting the oats. The writer thinks the better plan is to pasture such fields for one or two weeks, after which plant cow peas. If green fodder is needed to take the place of pasture, plant part of field in Early Amber or Early Orange sorghum. Planting of above named sorghums and pearl millet may be done safely as late as August 1st, provided seasons are good.

FARMER BOY.

PUBLIC MASONIC INSTALLATION.

There will be a meeting of three Masonic lodges and public installation of their officers on June 25, 1904, at Coopers. We will meet at the hall of Amand lodge, No. 250, at 10 o'clock a. m. where we expect Clanton lodge, No. 423, and Bozeman lodge, No. 534, will meet with us and open the lodge and march to Chestnut Creek church, one-quarter mile distant. At 11 o'clock Brothers J. Alex Moore and J. H. Thomas will address the audience on the principles and practice of Freemasonry. At 12 to 12:30 dinner. At 1:30 the installation of officers will take place, when if prudent the master of each lodge will be introduced to the installing officer, Bro. J. Alex Moore and so on until all of the officers of these three lodges are duly installed. All Masons and lovers of the same are invited to come and bring your baskets and let's all have a good time.

J. L. DUPREE,
Secretary Amand Lodge, No. 250.

(Published by Request.)

REPUBLICANS AND POPULISTS, TOO.

The populists, the populists, and republicans, too,
This meeting is non-democratic, and no barbecue;
We are all here today—populists and republicans, too,
And we are not going to have any populist or republican stew;
That's what suits honest, sensible men like me and you.

It was good for Sam Adams and Lige Deason, too,
When they used to ride Harris and Aldrich's republican canoe;
The populist party, they say it is dead,
And they've got nigger-scared, and to the democrats have fled.

Deason may sing and Adams may pray,
But the populists and republicans are here to stay.

W. F. DE SHAZO.

Clanton, Ala., June 17, 1904.

As read at the people's meeting at Clanton on June 17, 1904, by the author.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

The next regular state examination for teachers will be held at the high school building at Clanton on the first Monday in July, 1904, beginning at 10 a. m. sharp.

J. W. MOORE.
County Superintendent.

tf

PHILADELPHIA UNDERWRITERS, Composed of Insurance Company of North America and the Fire Association of Philadelphia, Pa.

Cash capital	$ 3,500,000.00
Total assets Jan. 1, 1904.	17,636,517.61
Surplus as to policy holders	6,874,312.89

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

..My Specialty..

SHOES made of Leather.
SHOES that are Reliable.
SHOES made to Wear.
NOT a Cheap Shoddy Shoe.

Dry Goods, Groceries, Flour and Feed Stuffs, Tobacco and Snuff.

Every Department Full and Complete.

J. W. SMITH.

Former Post-office Building. Clanton, Alabama

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.
Thorsby, Alabama.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
1011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE
WALLACE C. EDLER, General Agent, Clanton Alabama.
CHILTON COUNTY BRANCH

PRESIDENT: ALEX G. DAKE, Clanton. SEC.-TREAS: JUDSON STROCK, Clanton.

Insure, Farmers Dwellings, outbuildings and contents, and Live stock against Loss by Fire, Wind and Lightning;—the cheapest, safest and most sensible method of Insurance known to man.

AGENTS MUST HAVE A COMMISSION SIGNED BY GENERAL AGENT
Full particulars furnished on application to
WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

Gelder's Restaurant,
Good Meals at Reasonable Prices.
110 North 20th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St, THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St,
—Is at The Head of The Procession.—
Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes, FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.
W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton. Alabama

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,
Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.
County and Office Supplies a Specialty.
Ask for Estimates.
2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

PAUL CALAME,
205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.
Practical Watchmaker and Optician
Eyes Correctly Fitted
Mail orders promptly filled

FARM AND GARDEN

THE DUST SPRAY.

The paper on orcharding by L. A. Goodman treated of spraying as follows, as reported by the Gem State Rural: "In spraying apple orchards, when they begin to bear we must still experiment, to know just when and how and with what, but spray we must, is the almost universal verdict of all our best apple growers in the West. Many of us have been testing, and are still testing, the merits of the dust spray, and although I cannot say that it is better or equal to the liquid, still we find it is so much cheaper of application that I have used it together on about four hundred acres of our bearing orchard. The only question now is the dust and when to use it, and then thoroughness is the most important feature. Dust is safer, more easily applied, costs less, takes less time, saves hauling large loads of water, so that I have concluded to use the dust process altogether. I use lime, twenty pounds; Paris green, one pound; dry Bordeaux, one pound; sulphur, one pound; concentrated lye pulverized, one pound, and I find that results justify its use in instances where the work was well done." This treatment on spraying, coming from one of the largest orchardists of America, who has for several years thoroughly tried both the liquid and dust sprays in his own orchard, was a revelation to many, and will prove of great value to a large number who are trying to find the best means of protecting their fruit, and many will no doubt profit by his experience.

SETTING FENCE POSTS.

How to set fence posts so that they will endure service for the greatest length of time possible is a problem I have never yet seen satisfactorily solved, says a writer in Epitomist. Some say that they will last longer if set the reverse of their growth, with the top end in the ground, and in case of round posts there is something about this to consider. It certainly prevents water so readily entering knotholes or any open spaces they may contain, thus keeping them drier than if set with the butt end in the ground. When split, however, it is preferable to have the best and toughest end always down in the ground as it grew in the tree; in proof whereof a post from the first cut of a burr oak tree large enough to make three post cuts will, if set with the butt end in the ground, last twice as long as one from the top cut, set in the same way. The nature of the soil in which they stand also has an effect on posts, wet and not dry land being favorable for their durability. To last the longest, oak posts should be cut in the fall and winter months, and, as near as I can ascertain, set while they are still green.

FEEDING HOGS SUNSHINE.

There are as many different ideas about how a hog house should be constructed as there are hog owners, but any plan, no matter how elaborate it may be, which does not provide for an arrangement which will supply an abundance of sunshine, is faulty. Sun is as necessary for the hog house as for the stable, and the houses can be built to provide a fair amount of sun if one is careful in planning them. Another thing, in planning for the new hog houses or the remodeling of the old ones, see that the feeding arrangements are on the outside of the house if the winter climate is not too severe, or if too cold, place the feeding troughs where it will be impossible for the hogs to slop over into the material composing their bedding. This can be done with a little care and the outdoor arrangement can be had as well, so that the hogs may be fed outdoors as often as the weather will permit. During the summer see that the hog has access to grass, even though the space given them for a run be small. Then supply plenty of water for them to drink, but none to wallow in. In short, treat the hogs a little more along the same line that you treat other stock, and you'll get better returns from them.

COWS ON PASTURE.

It is hard for the dairyman who has spent most of his substance for feed during the winter to feel that there will be any advantage in feeding grain during the portion of the year his cows are on the pasture. It would be unsafe to lay down the hard and fast rule that this plan must be followed in order to obtain the greatest measure of success, but on the other hand there can be no objection to one's trying the experiment and ascertaining what there is in it. As to the ration, this must be, in quantity at least, what is deemed best by the feeder. If the experiment promises to be too costly select a single cow and feed her grain during the time she is on pasture; keep a careful record of results according to the milk-pail both as to quantity and quality of milk, and you'll know what to do a second year. Make the test a fair one by selecting for the experiment an average cow, neither a poor milker nor a heavy one. Make the grain ration, say, about one-quarter of the feed during the winter. The cost will be small and the results interesting, and, likely, profitable.

It is not thought by some good judges that overfeeding and forcing make for wholesome meat. A distinguished veterinarian who has investigated the subject holds that "under the present system the public have no guarantee, and are not insured the best, if, indeed, the cheapest, food. The bulky withers of a fat bullock are no guarantee of health, for his fat, tubular back may conceal the revolting ravages of disease. All this can alone be discovered by an inspection of the animal's interior after death. The flesh of animals which have been produced by organs themselves diseased, is itself also necessarily deteriorated, and ought not to be regarded as prime for human food. These facts will be best understood by pathologists, but they also come home to the understanding and the stomachs of all classes."—Home and Farm.

GREASE ON FOWLS.

Much difficulty would be saved if a few drops of lard, not kerosene, were applied to the heads and legs of the fowls once a month. It is a tedious and troublesome job, but it would prevent scabby legs, and would debar the large gray body lice from breeding on the hens. No fowls are partial to grease. They do not like to have it applied to their bodies in any shape, nor should it be placed anywhere on their bodies except head, neck, legs and vents, but still grease is an excellent remedy for the two difficulties mentioned. A mixture of a teacupful of lard, to which a tablespoonful of crude petroleum and twenty drops of carbolic acid have added, is excellent to have on hand for the purpose.

STICK TO ONE BREED.

It is bad policy to change year after year from one breed to another. Of course, if we are positively convinced that the breed we have is not the one suited to our needs, then change; but consider well before you discard any breed. It is also folly to try to keep several breeds and make them pay, unless we confine ourselves exclusively to the fancy side of poultry and wish to be able to supply all wants; and even then the specialist who centers all his efforts in one breed is most likely to succeed. Select one good breed and pin your faith to it, and do not allow any one to persuade you that there is some other that is better.—Home and Farm.

SAVE THE BODY.

It is time lost, and broken backs, to undertake the sowing of garden seeds by hand. Use a drill, which puts the seeds in regularly, evenly, marks the rows and covers them at the right depth. There are many handy little implements suitable for the garden that are not in frequent use. Even a trowel does excellent service in transplanting, and a weeder will tear out the weeds much quicker than can be done by hand. Hand implements are being improved—even the hoes and rakes—and their use is economical and convenient.

PULLETS NOT LAYING.

If a pullet goes on the nest to lay, and comes off without depositing an egg within the nest, it is a sure indication that she is too fat. Overfeeding is usually the cause of the pullets being backward in laying, and this happens mostly when they are confined in the poultry house. As soon as they can have an opportunity to forage and exercise, their allowance of food should be reduced to half its quantity, and they will soon begin to lay and you will have good results.

COLIC IN HORSES.

Use sifted ashes burned from green hickory wood mixed with salt (one fourth ashes and three fourths salt). Keep in the manger where horses can help themselves every day in the year.

Hay Pays Better Than Gold.

A good hay farm in the Yukon Valley is a better paying proposition than an ordinary gold mine. This fact has been demonstrated by a Dawson freighter, who is farming a large tract of native hay at Gravel Lake, on the trail between Dawson and the Duncan district, Stewart River. Last fall this man put in an immense quantity of fine hay, enabling him to bale more than 600 tons this winter. Besides wintering his own large herd of stock, he has considerable feed for sale, receiving $140 a ton. At this price his crop was worth $84,000. He clears a profit of at least 100 per cent. Winter weather has not yet prevented continuous work. A crew of ten men has been employed and two six-mule teams to collect the bales and carry them to market. His entire crop was cut with scythes and handled in a primitive manner. Next season he will replace these methods with modern farming implements, greatly reducing the cost of handling the crop.—New York Commercial.

Treasure hunters are now digging for gold and other valuables among the ruins caused by the eruption of Mont Pelee.

DEATH-BEARING RAYS.

Destruction to Be Accomplished by Electricity Sent from a Searchlight.

Again science is vindicating the fictionist. In his thrilling story, "The War of the World," Mr. H. G. Wells described how the inhabitants of Mars invaded the earth and spread destruction with a marvelous heat ray. It was like a huge searchlight, except that it set fire to everything upon which it played, reducing woods and towns to tinder, and blowing up the ammunition of the terrestrial artillery.

Almost as terrible as this imaginary heat ray of the Martians, is an invention which has just been produced by a Hungarian scientist.

He is said to have devised a method of sending electric waves along the rays of a searchlight, which will destroy anything in their path.

To some extent the principle of the X-rays is employed in creating the new light. It has almost the same power under water that the searchlight has in throwing its beams through the clearer medium of the air.

If you look carefully at a searchlight in action you will see an especially brilliant concentration of its brightness just at the point where the rays leave the projector. A long stream of rather faint light marks the rest of its course until it strikes full against the solid hull of the ship toward which it is directed.

Upon that surface the flood of light seems to concentrate itself again with nearly the same intensity that it manifested on leaving the projector. White and clear in every detail, the object pointed at stands out as though the sun itself were shining straight down upon it.

Now, far down beneath the surface of the ocean this wonderful newly-discovered light behaves in very much the same fashion. Indeed, it differs in but one particular. The rays are practically invisible, except at the point upon which they are directed. A wonderful step in the game of war is the development of this new submarine searchlight, and yet it is only half of what the ingenious British inventors expect to accomplish.

Torpedoes or submarines could be detected by the new light, but to destroy them would be a more difficult matter. Something better than steel shells must be found to sink a lively little craft running along 20 or 30 feet under the surface of the water.

This better plan has been hit on by following up the experiments of experts who have studied the possibility of sending electric currents along the track made by rays of light. Already they have succeeded in telephoning for a limited distance over a light-ray of great intensity. The rays have developed one unquestioned property—they are as useful as wires for the transmission of several currents at a time.

The current used in these experiments is of a peculiar nature. The secret of its production has been very carefully guarded. Naval officers, when they vouchsafe to give any information at all on the subject, say that it is not so much an alternating as a cumulative current, and works somewhat as follows: The projectors from which the light issues are located in the battleships a little below the water line. The operator in charge of each sweeps the sea beneath the waves until he discovers the attacking submarine or torpedo.

He then turns on the special current, and this is what happens:

A stream of electric pulsations flows outward along the light ray, and the intervals of pulsation lessen gradually, at the same time gathering strength and increasing in intensity until they become powerful blows approaching detonations in character.

The shock of these electric blows—strokes of lightning they might be called—is sufficient to set off any explosive contained in the hull of the approaching submarine.

In proof of this fact, the officers conducting a recent test blew off the head of a torpedo at a distance of 300 feet, the torepdo being 30 feet under water at the moment of the explosion.

In other similar tests the pulsating current acted on the fuse or trigger of the torpedo, setting it off just as effectively as would sudden contact with the side of a ship's hull.—London Express.

Zealously Guarded His Prerogative.

James Smith of Boston was telling of the experiences of the famous old theatrical manager, Stetson, who was one of the wealthiest men in Boston at the time of his death. He said:

"Old Stetson was dictatorial in his manner and overbearing with his employes, demanding absolute obedience and brooking no interference with his orders. He was especially jealous of any interference with what he deemed his especial privileges. One day the company was playing in a small town, and a sign had been put out in front of the theatre advertising the matinee. It read: 'Matinee today, 2.30 p. m. sharp.' There was a painter with the show, named Sharp, and as soon as Stetson saw the sign in front of the theatre door he began to rage at the unatuhorized impudence and interference of Sharp. He had the sign changed to read: 'Matinee today, 2.30 p. m. Stetson.'"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Exception.

Sharpe—There goes old Closeman. No one never saw him close his eyes at money.

Whealton—I have.

Sharpe—When was it?

Whealton—When the collection box passed him.—Chicago News.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Skepticism may take the place of salvation when it can heal our sorrows.

Many a man thinks he is on the lookout for evil when he is only looking at evil.

In proportion as wickedness is common the commonwealth is turned to common use.

There is always hope for a man so long as he can look at things with the eyes of a child.

It's a queer kind of humility that leads a man to hide his light when the lost are seeking it.

The really busy man always has more time than the man who only thinks he is busy.

Let a man learn that everything in nature goes by law, and not by luck, and that what he sows he reaps.—Emerson.

As a man travels on in the journey of life, his objects of wonder daily diminish, and he is continually finding out some very simple cause for some great matter of marvel.—Washington Irving.

The power of faith is in the simplicity of faith. When a man believes in God with all his heart, he has no more fear for anything but his own disobedience. Today, tomorrow and all the endless days are his. Life becomes a plan of God, and the heart rests in the power that shall fulfill it. —I. O. R.

ANTIQUITY OF CIVILIZATION.

The Long March of Time From Flint Implements to Ivory Statuettes.

So far as the question of time is concerned, it deserves notice that not merely geology, but almost every form of inquiry into the past, throws further back the limits usually assigned.

Egypt, for instance, is continually furnishing fresh proofs of the antiquity of civilization. Prof. Flinders Perie expounded at Owens college, Manchester, England, a few days ago the results of a recent exploration at Abydos, in Upper Egypt, from which it appears that the ruins at that one spot tell a continuous story that carries us back 5000 B. C. Abydos was the first capital of Egypt, and remained for 45 centuries the religious centre, the Canterbury of the land; and the the Egyptian Exploration Fund has unearthed the remains of "ten successive temples, one over the other." From the age of the first temple a group of about 200 objects has been found, which throws surprising light on the civilization of the First Dynasty. A part of the large glazed pottery was of Mena, the first king of the First Dynasty, about 4709 B. C., showed "that even then they were making glaze on a considerable scale, and also inlaying it with a second floor. The ivory carving was astonishingly fine, a figure of a king showing a subtlety and power of expression as good as any work of later ages."

At about 4000 B. C. an ivory statuette of Cheops, the builder of the great pyramid, was found, the only known portrait of him. Making every possible allowance for the marvellous rapidity of art development, must not many thousands of years have rolled over between the pristine dwellers in the Nile valley and the men who carved ivory statuettes and manufactured glazed work inlaid with second colors? It is a long, long march from flint implements to the solemn temple ivory statuettes and human portraits. —London Telegraph.

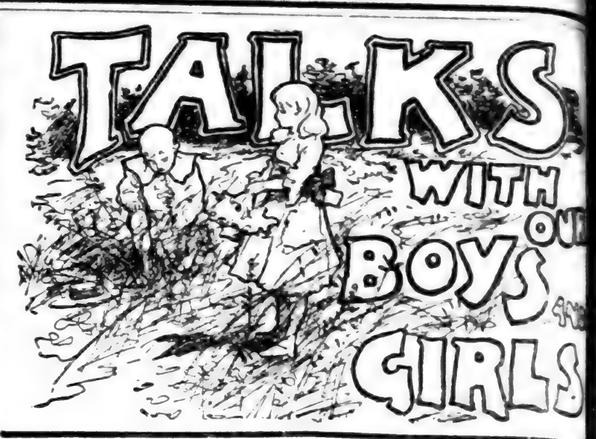
A Siwash Strike.

The Siwashes who hunt for market about Sitka, Alaska, have taken a notion to have a hand in the matter of game protection themselves. They say if the government won't let them kill deer to sell any time they want to, then they will not kill deer at all except for their own use. Sitka wondered at the scarcity of venison soon after September 1, last year. There was only the smallest quantity on sale, and at fabulous prices. Sitka began to ask questions, and it developed that the Indian hunters had formed a "union" among themselves and agreed to kill no deer for market in the open season unless they could do the same in the closed season. Sitka argued, then protested, then got down on her knees and offered bright new silver for fresh venison, but the silent Siwash didn't hear, and went on eating clams under his banner, "Kill now, kill all the time." Sitka wept and coaxed, but it did no good. At last accounts she was eating salt salmon, "canned truck," and tough beef shipped in on the hoof from the states. The placid Siwash said never a word and bided his time, feasting on clams.—Field and Stream.

A Frank Comment.

Housekeepers will appreciate this little story of Dean Stanley: During a visit to America, not long before his death, he was invited to dine with a certain college president in a southern town. Early in the meal the Dean inquired of his hostess: "Mrs. G.——, would it be impertinent to ask what is this gumbo soup?" "Perhaps I can best answer," was the amused reply, "by telling you Lady A——'s comment on the dish when she dined with us once on a time. She leaned across the table and called to her husband: 'You would better try the soup. It's not nearly so nasty as it looks!'" "Ah!" said the Dean, smiling, "that was exactly like Lady A——. She is a cousin of mine!"—Harper's Bazar.

The question of the use of the Whitehead torpedoes as part of the fixed mine defense, fired from tubes on shore, is now under consideration by the general army staff.



THE ORPHAN'S SONG.

I had a little bird,
I took it from the nest;
I press it and bless it
And nurst it in my breast.

I set it on the ground,
Danced round and round,
And sang about it so cheerily
With "Hey, my little bird.
And ho! my little bird.
And ho! but I love thee dearly!"

I make a little feast
Of food soft and sweet
I hold it in my breast,
And coax it to eat;

I pit, and I pat,
I call this and that,
And I sing about so cheerly,
With "Hey, my little bird,
And ho! my little bird,
And ho! but I love thee dearly!"

KITTY FAST ASLEEP.

Little folks who have read the lives of famous men and women know that people do not usually win fame in their sleep. They get it only by hard work, but with the lower animals it is probably 'different, for down in the Aquarium at New York City is a big fish which has become famous simply by sleeping. Kitty, as it has been nicknamed, is a Mississippi catfish, and it has been sleeping since last July. They call it hibernating in the scientic books, from a Latin word, "hibernate," which means to pass the winter.

A great many animals hibernate. It is nature's way of enabling them to live through the winter. They have no houses or fires to keep them warm, so they just crawl into a sheltered corner and go to sleep. Frogs bury themselves in the mud at the bottom of ponds; bats suspend themselves, head downward, in their caves, and snakes cluster in masses of a dozen or more in hollow trees or under stones. Even human beings sometimes hibernate. Esquimaux do little but eat and sleep during their coldest season, and in some parts of Russia the peasants save food and fuel by sleeping a great part of the time.

So there is nothing remarkable about the fact that Kitty should have slept through the winter. The strange thing is that she mistook the beginning of July for the beginning of winter and calmly slept through the hottest weather, when all the other fishes were having their liveliest times. She is also sleeping later into the spring than any of her companions. The black bears have awakened and gone to fighting; the little hellbenders and mud puppies have begun to eat, though they are not very wide awake as yet, but still Kitty sleeps. By the end of April Kitty had slept nearly ten months. She would never have done this in her native Mississippi, but the truth is that she is getting a little bored, like a good many other big fish, in her glass box at the Aquarium, with its clear water. She had mud when she was at home, but they couldn't give her mud at the Aquarium, because then the people would not be able to see her, and that is what the Aquarium is for. So Kitty, who would not be very active even in her native haunts, probably thinks that it is not worth while to keep awake in such a world, and when she is awake she will not even eat, unless the eel steaks, on which she is fed, are put right into her mouth.

Animals never eat when they are hibernating, and Kitty has not eaten for nearly ten months. Yet she looks just as she did when she went to sleep. This is because she takes no exercise, lying perfectly motionless on the bottom of her tank, and all the organs of her body have nearly stopped working. Thus, the supplies which she had on hand when she went to sleep last a long time, and she does not have to eat. Some animals do not breathe at all when they are hibernating. The hellbender, for instance, does not breathe for months, for it has lungs just like human beings, and it cannot get air out of the water like animals that have gills. The mud puppy, though it is not a fish, has gills, and keeps them waving slowly while it is hibernating, which shows that it is breathing.—New York Tribune.

A TEST OF HONESTY.

The straightforward, honest man or boy feels insulted when his integrity is questioned, and with good reason. He is slow to distrust others and does not like to be distrusted. Here is a pretty amusing story in illustration.

"Paper, sir? Evenin' paper?"

The gentleman looked down curiously on the mite of humanity—the two-foot newsboy, and said with a slight smile:

"Can you change a quarter?"

"I can get it changed," was the prompt paper do you want?"

"Sure," said the gentleman, "but how do I know you will get the change?" he added.

"You don't know, but I'm a little fellow, sah."

"Then I must trust you, eh?"

"That's about the size of it. Hold on! Here's a penny. There's thirty-four papers in the bundle. Ketch on to 'em?"

Before the gentleman could demonstrate the boy had pocketed the quarter of newspapers in his arms and was off like a flash.

The boy was gone probably five minutes, but during that time the gentleman was rendered completely miserable. A half dozen of his acquaintances stopped to inquire if he had gone into the newspaper business, and how it paid, while the newsboys gathered around and looked on under the impression that he was an interloper. So he gave a great sigh of relief when the boy returned and put twenty-four cents in his hand.

"I didn't run away, did I?" the boy said with a grin.

"No," answered the man with a groan; "but if you hadn't returned in another minute, I would have run away."

"And cheated me out of ten cents," demanded the boy, indignantly.

But the gentleman did not stop to explain.—Our Junior Citizen.

THE HAPPIEST LITTLE BOY.

"Guess who was the happiest boy I saw to-day?" asked papa, taking his own two little boys on his knee.

"Oh, who, papa?"

"But you must guess."

"Well," said Jim, slowly, "I guess it was a very wich little boy, with lots and lots of candy and cakes."

"No," said papa. "He wasn't a bit of it, for he had no candy and no cakes. Who do you guess, Jue?"

"I guess he was a pretty big boy," said Joe, who was always willing to help. He was not such a little boy, "an' I guess he was riding a big, high bicycle."

"No," said papa. "He wasn't riding a bicycle. You have lost your guesses, and I'll have to tell you. There was a flock of sheep crossing the city bridge, and they must have come a long way, for they were so dusty and tired and thirsty. The poor things. The drover took them up to the fountain and lolling out their tongues, stood by the great pump in Hamilton Court to get water them. But one poor old sheep was too tired to get to the trough, and fell down on the hot, dusty stones. Then I saw my little boy, with his ragged and dirty and tousled head, come out from the crowd of urchins who were watching the drove, fill his hat with water and carry it—one, two, three, or as many as six times!—to the poor, suffering animal, until the creature was able to get up and go on with the rest."

Did the sheep say, 'Thank you' papa?" asked Jim, gravely.

"I didn't hear it," answered papa. "But the little boy's face was shining like the sun; and I'm sure you know what a blessed thing it is to help one who needs helping."—Christian Intelligencer.

PENS AND SWORDS.

Nations founded by the sword, sustained by the sword, pass away and are forgotten. But the written words, the words of "men entirely great," outlive the very civilization amid which they were penned. Who can reckon on account, even to-day, the work of Homer, Virgil, Dante, Shakespeare, Molliere, Cervantes, Goethe? Every day every thinking man must feel knowledge their sway, must live in the kingdoms of thought these men have founded. Let us, then, look among the relics of the past, the tools of their government—and what do us hold precious the pens and inkstands that have outlasted and overcome the swords of conquerors, the sceptres of the kings.—St. Nicholas.

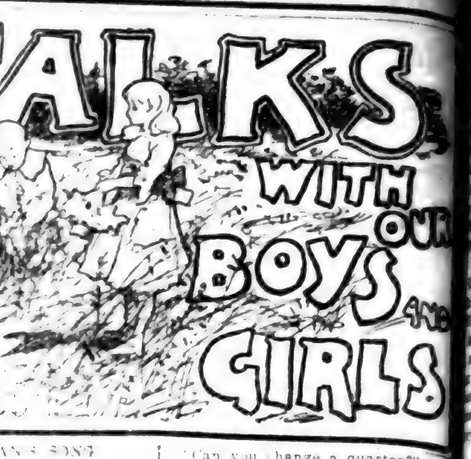
Big Japanese Noses.

In Japan the nose is the only feature which attracts attention. The nose determines the beauty or ugliness of the face, according as it is large or small. This is probably due to the fact that difference in noses constitute about the only distinction between one Japanese face and another.

The eyes are invariably black, the cheekbones high and the chin receding.

In Japan a woman who has a big proboscis is always a great beauty and a reigning belle. There are few large noses among the natives. How lucky he or she who possesses one!

Richard Miller, a coast guard, who has just died at South Shields, England, has taken part in saving 200 lives.



...ANK'S SONG.

"Can you change a quarter?"

"I can get it changed, mister," was the prompt reply. "What paper do you want?"

"Start," said the gentleman. "But how do I know you will bring back the change?" he added hesitatingly.

"You don't know it," replied the little fellow, snarply.

"Then I must trust to your honor."

"That's about the size of it; only hold on! Here's your security. There's thirty-four papers in the bundle. Ketch on to it."

Before the gentleman could remonstrate the boy had placed the bundle of newspapers in his arms and was off like a flash.

The boy was gone probably three minutes but during that time the gentleman was rendered completely helpless. A half dozen of his acquaintances stopped to inquire if he had gone into the newspaper business and how it paid, while the newspaper boys gathered around and jeered him, under the impression that he was an interviewer. So he gave a great sigh of relief when the boy returned and put twenty-four cents in his hand.

"I didn't run away, did I?" the boy said with a grin.

"No," answered the man with a groan, "but if you hadn't returned in another minute, I would have run away."

"And cheated me out of ten cents," demanded the boy, indignantly.

But the gentleman did not stop to explain.—Our Junior Citizen.

THE HAPPIEST LITTLE BOY.

"Guess who was the happiest child I saw today?" asked papa, taking his own two little boys on his knees.

"Oh, who, papa?"

"But you must guess."

"Well," said Jim, slowly, "I guess it was a very wich little boy, wif lots and lots of candy and cakes."

"No," said papa. "He wasn't rich and had no candy and no cakes. Who do you guess, Joe?"

"I guess he was a pretty big boy," said Joe, who was always wishing he was no such a little boy, "and I guess he was riding a big, high bicycle."

"No," said papa. "He wasn't big and of course he wasn't riding a bicycle. You have lost your guesses, and I have to tell you. There was a flock of sheep crossing the city to-day, and they must have come a long way, for they were so dusty and tired and thirsty that they. The drover took them up, bleating and lolling out their tongues, to the great pump in Hamilton Court to water them. But one poor old ewe was too tired to get to the trough and fell down on the hot, dusty stones. Then I saw my little man, ragged and dirty and tousled, spring out from the crowd of urchins who were watching the drove, fill his hat and carry it—one, two, three, oh, I don't know how many as six times!—to the poor, suffering animal, until the creature was able to get up and go on with the rest."

Did the sheep say, 'Tant you,' papa?" asked Jim, gravely.

"I didn't hear it," answered papa. "But the little boy's face was shining like the sun; and I'm sure he knew what a blessed thing it is to help what needs helping."—Christian Observer.

PENS AND SWORDS.

—Nations founded by the sword, ... ruled by the sword, pass and are forgotten. But the written words, the ... of "men entirely great," outlive the very civilization amid which they ... Who can leave out of account, even to-day, the work of Homer, Virgil, Dante, Shakespeare, Milton, Cervantes, Goethe? Even to-day every thinking man must ... knowledge their sway, must live ... the kingdoms of thought these ... have founded. Let us, then, ... among the relics of the great ... tools of their government—and ... us hold precious the pens and ... stands that have outlasted and ... the swords of conquerors, ... sceptres of the kings.—St. Nicholas.

Big Japanese Noses.

In Japan the nose is the only ... face which attracts attention. ... nose determines the beauty or ugliness of the face, according as it is big or small. This is probably due to the fact that difference in noses constitute about the only distinction between one Japanese face and another.

The eyes are invariably black, the cheekbones high and the chin receding.

In Japan a woman who has a ... professors is always a great beauty and a reigning belle. There are few large noses among the natives, and lucky is he or she who possesses one.

Richard Miller, a coast guard, who has just died at South Shields, ... has taken part in saving 200 lives.

Miss Helen Miller Gould probably receives more requests for her photograph than any other woman in America, but never responds favorably. She was sent for her picture two or three times, always with the strict understanding that no one gets one of the photographs without her consent. As an additional precaution, she buys the original plates. Miss Gould is a brunette, with brown hair and eyes.

History says that in 1302-4 the ... Loire and Seine ran dry. In ... the thermometer rose to 118.

A Baltimore court has decided that a baby is born to a couple residing in a flat where the "no baby" clause is in effect it will not be necessary for them to move away if they can get rid of the baby.

... the plans of the Chihuahua and ... railroad are not impossible of ... by reason of the rugged... of the country from the Sierra ... to the Pacific coast, the road ... be extended to the west coast, ... the direction northeast from Guer..., Chihuahua and crossing the ... divide at Temosachic.

... Gwydyr, who has just entered ... ninety-fifth year, is one of the ... few men who can remember ... IV's memorable visit to Ire... He was five years old when ... of the fighting at Water...

The quarto of Shakespeare's "Henry the Fourth," sold for $5,175 at ... in London on Shakespeare's ... is now the property of Dodd, ... & Co. It is far the highest ... ever paid for a quarto.

The city council has accepted estimates for a system of electric street ... in and around St. Petersburg ... miles in length. The cost will ... exclusive of the right ...

Some ten years ago Hatfield threw ... 411 feet, and he still holds ... record. A Vassar college girl last ... threw a baseball 195 feet and ... the record for women.

The head of Oliver Cromwell forms ... of a private collection in Eng... The spear upon which it is ... is still intact, although very ...

The oldest German actor is Louis ...

FREE to WOMEN

A Large Trial Box and book of instructions absolutely Free and Postpaid, enough to prove the value of Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic

Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water — non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution — lasts longer — goes further — has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.

The formula of a noted Boston physician, ... used with great success as a Vaginal ... for Leucorrhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal ... Catarrh, Sore Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, ... all soreness of mucus membrane.

... local treatment of female ills Paxtine is ... valuable. Used as a Vaginal Wash we ... challenge the world to produce its equal for ... cleanliness. It is a revelation in cleansing ... healing power; it kills all germs which ... cause inflammation and discharges.

... leading druggists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. ... if yours does not, send to us for it. Don't ... accept a substitute — there is nothing like Paxtine.

... Write for the Free Box of Paxtine to-day.

... PAXTON CO., 7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.

Avery & Company

SUCCESSORS TO

AVERY & McMILLAN,

... South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

—ALL KINDS OF—

MACHINERY

... Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes, Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.

... Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, ... Governors, Full line Engines & ... Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 10 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

... advertise the best book-keeping, business ... and shorthand while attending SUMMER SCHOOL OF THE SOUTH, June 28 to Aug. 6. ... will be given tuition and supplies for Five ... or less. Clip and keep this—it will not appear ... McALLEN'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, ... Bay & Church Streets, Knoxville, Tenn.

AGENTS WANTED to handle our LATEST ... catalogue free. Address Republic ... Co., Box 36, Station B, Atlanta, Ga.

Sore Blind Horses For Specific Ophthalmia ... Moon Blindness & other ... Barry Co., Iowa City, Ia., have a sure cure

Am. 26, 1904.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

FORBES' PIANO SALE -THE FITE STOCK- STILL GOING ON

Stock Constitutes the Biggest Purchase Ever Made by a Southern House and Contains

FINEST INSTRUMENTS NOW ON THE MARKET

If You Wish a Piano, Organ or Music Box at a Low Figure and on the Most Reasonable Terms See or Write Us.

The E. E. Forbes Piano Co.'s sale of the Frank G. Fite stock continues, for it is no ordinary sale; it represents the biggest purchase of pianos made by any southern house, and as the instruments represent the very best makes of pianos the big cut in prices has been the result of making hundreds of homes happy that have long wished in vain for a piano, but had not until the present opportunity been able to purchase one on account of the high price. Any person in the south can buy one of these pianos and save $100 after paying freight; besides that they can make the payment in an easy way, for they are only required to pay a small part down and the rest you pay next fall or next spring, after the crops have been turned into cash. Another thing about this piano sale is that ever piano is plainly marked, so if there is a man in any part of the state that wants to buy a piano for a birthday or wedding present or as a gift for next Christmas he can send to us and buy just as well without seeing the piano, because every piano is marked and there's only one price to all.

There are also a number of organs and piano players in this sale, and we will be pleased to furnish any and all information or to explain anything about our long-time payment system, which is so easy to meet, and which so many people throughout Alabama and the other southern states are now availing themselves of.

E. E. FORBES PIANO CO.

Birmingham - - Alabama

WITH STORES AT

Mobile, Montgomery and Anniston

The laws of Russia pertaining to bankruptcy are very severe. A merchant in Russia can be declared bankrupt if his liabilities exceed $772 and he has not the ready cash to meet them. He can be arrested, and his retention depends on the good will of his creditors.

Immense Circular Saw.

The largest circular saw in the world has just been made in Philadelphia. It is seven feet four inches in diameter, and will be used to cut pine stumps into shingle bolts.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

No Milk While in Mourning.

When an Arabian woman is in mourning for a near relative she refuses to drink milk for a period of eight days, on the principle that the color of the liquid does not harmonize with her mental gloom.

Feet Hurt,

Sweat, itch, blister? ROYAL FOOT WARM cures them. Removes odors of feet, armpits, etc.; stops chafing. If not at druggists send 25c to EATON DRUG CO., Atlanta, Ga., for full size, postpaid; sample for 2c stamp. One application proves its merit. Money back if not satisfied.

FOR SUMMER JOURNEYS.

The traveling costume and wrap are of great importance in the summer outfit. Fashion demands modes that are distinct and in keeping with the occasion upon which they are to be worn. The last year's second best gown will not be accepted as "good enough for traveling this year," but there must be provided a dress, and possibly a wrap, that is designed for this particular purpose, and there are many modes from which to select. Dark, substantial colors or medium tones are preferred to the lighter shades, and the materials that possess dust shedding qualities, mohair, canvas veiling, pongee, taffeta and the lightweight worsted suitings, are the best selections. There are attractive colorings in all of these materials, and the traveling dress may be both becoming and modish; but there must be a certain severity about it, a simplicity that adapts it to hard wear. Mixed materials and the many shepherd plaids in blue and white, black and white, brown and white and green and white, make attractive frocks for traveling, and a simple shirtwaist costume in taffeta or louisine silk, in one of these checks, would be a charming mode. Narrow braid and buttons would provide smart trimming, and a little linen collar, worn with a soft satin tie in a color to match the braid or dark check in the material, and a crushed leather belt would add distinguishing notes. A long, loose wrap of pongee, shantung or taffeta would be useful with a costume of this sort. A shirtwaist costume of shantung in natural color, or in dark blue, steel gray, brown or black, would be an excellent suggestion for the traveling frock, especially for very warm weather, as shantung is delightfully cool and light. For the packet and skirt costume intended for service there is no material possessing more admirable qualities than mohair, and this season it is by no means confined to the plain, solid colors, but is shown in a wide range of fancy effects, plaids, stripes and dots, all of which are indistinct and in something of a two-toned effect. Any of these, when trimmed with braid, stitched bands of silk or cloth and buttons, will be stylish and serviceable.—The Delineator.

A GIRL'S IDEA OF USEFULNESS.

Sometimes a girl's plans of usefulness begin when she is very young. They appear to her at a great distance, as if she were looking through the small end of a telescope. "The thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts," and the girl's idea of usefulness is to nurse the sick and wounded in war time; to go out as a missionary among the heathen; to write books with great thoughts in them; to do noble deeds of tremendous self-sacrifice; to take up some great life work, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. She looks so afar afield that she cannot she the little home duties staring her in the face, in the performance of which lies her best training for great and worthy deeds. Many a girl who dreams of emulating such an ideal as Florence Nightingale shrieks and runs out of the room when the little brother cuts his hand with the bread knife. What a scared, helpless creature she would be in a hospital. Another maid pictures herself a heroine of self-denial, giving up all for some unworthy creature, yet she is too lazy to run upstairr to fetch her mother's gloves. Though she is not "faithful in small things," she fully expects to excel in great. The ideal daughter is the unselfish, active, intelligent and good tempered girl, who thinks out what she can do to help her mother, to make life pleasanter for her father and home happier for her brothers. Doing for others when we would rather be doing something for ourselves is the highest form of self-culture, particularly if the acts of self abnegation be performed with a cheerfulness. One's heart goes out to the dispenser of sunshine, and many a heavy spirit has been lightened of its burden by an encouraging word or gentle touch.

POMANDER HAS RETURNED.

The pomander, which was so highly esteemed by our great-grandmothers, has again come into fashion. It consists of a ball of sweet-smelling herbs well pounded and inclosed in a perforated gold or silver case, and may be worn on one of the pretty jewelled chains which nowadays no self-respecting woman would be without, or depending from a chatelaine or bracelet. In the days of the plague pomanders were made of special herbs, which the doctors considered disinfectant, such as feverfew, mugwort and hayweed. These were steeped in stale ale. For typhus cinnamon and oil of valerian were recommended to be worn against the skin. In old world gardens every variety of herb was to be found, many of them for medicinal use; also plants from which perfumes could be distilled. An especial favorite was the red bergamot, a whiff of which takes us back to the days of hoops and powder and sacques and clouded canes, when fine ladies and even finer gentlemen shook out their lace-trimmed, bergamot-scented handkerchiefs, the graceful performance of which act was regarded as almost as great an art as taking a pinch of snuff with due elegance. Woodruffe, with its smell of new-mown hay, is a preventive against moth and mice and is still largely used for that purpose in country places where it grows.

WOMEN SUICIDES.

Women who are driven to suicide presumably lose most of their ambition before taking the fatal plunge, but there is one feminine trait that they retain to the end, namely, pride in clothes. "Seldom," says a doctor whose position has required him to perform post mortem services for many of these unfortunates, "have I seen a woman who did not go to her death as well dressed as her circumstances would allow. The published reports of these tragedies confirm my observation. Read in the papers the account of a suicide and nine times out of ten it will wind up by saying 'the woman was well dressed,' or, at the least, 'her clothing was neat and clean.' Unless these women belong to the dregs they are found dressed in the silk skirt and silk waist which have become the inevitable garb of the suicide of moderate means. At the last the true feminine instinct seems to assert itself, and, although the woman will not be here to read the account of the tragedy, she wants to die in the blessed satisfaction that she will be written up as a well dressed member of society."—Chicago Tribune.

PRIZE OFFERED TO WOMEN.

The Naples Table Association, which has for its object the promotion of scientific research by women, has announced the offer of a prize of $1,000, to be awarded in April, 1907, for the best thesis submitted by a woman on a scientific subject involving laboratory research. This is the third prize to be offered by the association. The first prize was awarded in April, 1903, to Dr. Florence Sabine, of Johns Hopkins Medical School, for a research on the origin of the lymphatic glands. Mrs. Ellen H. Richardson, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is chairman of the prize committee.

A GOOD PROTECTOR.

Many girls borrow the dress-shirt protectors of their brothers for their own use, or indeed, if the brothers are wanting, go boldly to the men's furnishing counter and provide for themselves. Their protection over a lace or chiffon bodice front is very grateful and they button in even under a tight-fitting jacket with ease. In this department has been recommended, too, the use of the short, quilted Japanese jacket for wear under an evening coat. These are so light that they go over the most delicate trimmings without crushing them.

A PRETTY PARASOL.

An extremely pretty idea introduced in parasols is a small shepherd's check in taffetas, the favorite colors being blue or black or brown and white; silver or gold tips finish the ribs, and the handles are similar to umbrella handles. Lace medallion decorations are still in evidence, although they are certainly not so smart as those which are woven into the material, and which are about the size of a silver dollar. Shaded ruchings are very effective, while inside trimming is the distinctive feature of the season.

LACE IN VOGUE.

There never were such lovely lace pieces far various purposes sent over to us before. The wide, round collars to be worn sans choker are to be no end popular, with simple cloth and thin gowns, and another shape that is lovely and for dressier occasions is a wide stole, the end becoming still wider and falling quite to the knees, and that may be prettily held at the waist by a loose jeweled girdle, buckling low in front.

DRESSMAKING HINTS.

The pongee parasol has it all its own way.

A new style shows a large gold ring in the handle to be slipped over the arm for convenience in carrying.

These pongee sunshades are trimmed with dots, with oriental embroidery or with tiny and numberless ruffles.

Short sleeves are to be much worn, but the lady-with-bones had better forego their doubtful seductions.

With these will be worn long silk or the economical, pretty and washable suede lisle.

Most of the graduating gowns will boast a transparent stock.

Hemstitched seams are new upon the more elaborate underwear.

Hand embroidery upon lingerie has reached a degree of perfection this season that has not been seen for many years.

The ruffles and jabots in vogue for nightgowns several years ago are no longer used. The embroidery is on the garment itself.

Nightgowns are made longer and fuller and with larger sleeves, resembling the simple bedroom wrappers.

A New York fly paper firm shipped two car loads of the commodity to Butte, Mont., where it will be used in copper mines to catch flies. The consignment comprised 1,100,000 sheets and cost a little over $8,000. As each sheet—they are blanket sheets—will catch 5,000 flies, the total number trapped when the supply is used up will be about 5,500,000,000 insects—several tons of pests.

Up to ten years ago flies were unheard of in the mines. They seemed to dislike the sulphur gases. Horses began to be used under ground, and with them came the flies.

They have become blind by long confinement in the dark subterranean passages.

It is estimated that 2,000,000 boxes of matches are used each day by the people of the United States, and that amounts to about five matches per person. In 1900, $156,705 worth of matches were imported into this country, and $95,422 worth exported from it. The lucifer match was invented in 1827. Safety matches were put upon the market in 1855. In Great Britain, Norway, Sweden and Germany the match-making industry has assumed enormous proportions. In France it is a government monopoly. In the United States it is controlled by a single corporation.

"Suit dismissed with costs for the plaintiff," was the verdict of the court in the suit which Kubelik, the violinist, brought against Dr. Gehrmann, the music critic of the Frankfurter Zeitung, for which the violinist deemed insulting personalities in criticisms of his concerts. Dr. Gehrmann described Kubelik as "a stupid looking man of superfine effeminine appearance" and spoke of him also as a "specialist and miracle worker who produces but tones."

"Uncle John" Butler was born in Lenawee county, Michigan, eighty-three years ago, and though he has continued to live in the same house, on the same spot, he has resided in the states of Michigan and Ohio, the counties of Lenawee, Lucas and Fulton, and the townships of Seneca, Gorham and Chesterfield, without ever having moved off his farm.

The kindergarten idea was developed and given its name by Frederick Frobel, a German educator, only about 50 years ago. Frobel had tried his hand at almost everything and failed in all. Indeed, his own kindergarten was all but a failure, though the idea since his death has become immensely popular.

So far as known the first campaign emblem was a finger ring of copper. It was worn by the adherents of John Quincy Adams in 1825, when he ran for president, and was inscribed "John Quincy Adams, 1825." Tintypes and medallions were among the insignia of the 1860 campaign.

The marvelous memory and aptitude for learning possessed by Russians is shown by the rapidity with which they acquire languages. It is said that a Russian will learn Chinese in six months. As for English, they acquire it with ease in a few weeks.

General Grant served eight years and one day as president.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The first electrical railway was that of Siemens, at Berlin, in 1879.

Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

It is the only cure for Swollen, Smarting, Tired, Aching, Hot, Sweating Feet, Corns and Bunions. Ask for Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder to be shaken into the shoes. Cures while you walk. At all Druggists and Shoe Stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. Sample sent FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N.Y.

British India now employs over 1,000,000 people in its cotton industries.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle

Of American animals the moose, elk and caribou are natural trotters.

Piso's Cure cannot be too highly spoken of as a cough cure. —J. W. O'BRIEN, 322 Third Avenue, N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

Ten-elevenths of the world's people are north of the equator.

HOT WEATHER, NERVOUS WOMEN.

BLANCHE GREY.

MISS BLANCHE GREY, a prominent young society woman of Memphis, Tenn., in a recent letter from 174 Alabama street, says:

"To a society woman whose nervous force is often taxed to the utmost from lack of rest and irregular meals, I know of nothing which is of so much benefit as Peruna. I took it a few months ago when I felt my strength giving way, and it soon made itself manifest in giving me new strength and health."—Blanche Grey.

Peruna is without an equal as a nerve tonic and vital invigorator.

Buy a bottle of Peruna. If you do not receive all the benefits from Peruna that you expected, write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O.

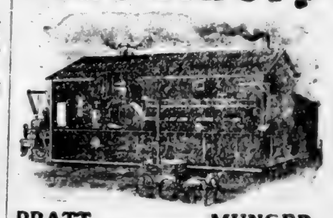
A manufacturer of pyrotechnics in Nagasaki, Japan, makes a rocket from which, when it explodes in the air, there flies away a large bird. It is said the secret has remained with the oldest son of the family for 400 years.

B.B.B. BOTANIC BLOOD BALM

A Household Remedy Cures SCROFULA, ULCERS, SALT RHEUM, ECZEMA, every form of malignant SKIN ERUPTION, besides being efficacious in toning up the system and restoring the constitution, when impaired from any cause. It is a fine Tonic, and its almost supernatural healing properties justify us in guaranteeing a cure of all blood diseases, if directions are followed. Price, $1 per Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS.

SENT FREE BOOK OF WONDERFUL CURES, together with valuable information. BLOOD BALM CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Cotton Gin Machinery



PRATT. MUNGER. WINSHIP. EAGLE. SMITH.

We make the most most complete line of any concern in the world. We also make

ENGINES and BOILERS, LINTERS for OIL MILLS.

We sell everything needed about a Cotton Gin.

Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Continental Gin Co., Birmingham, Ala.

Positions Guaranteed BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT

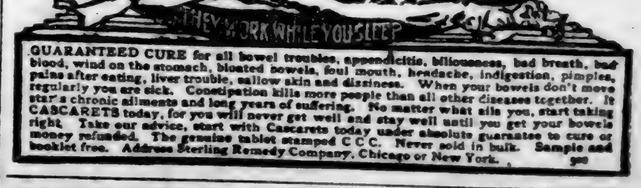
LIMITED MEANS OR EDUCATION NO HINDRANCE. ALL OUR 6,000 GRADUATES AT WORK.

R. R. FARE PAID. BOARD AT $8.00. 500 Free Courses.

WRITE TODAY TO GA.-ALA. BUS. COLLEGE, Macon Ga.

Cascarets BEST FOR THE BOWELS

CANDY CATHARTIC



GUARANTEED CURE for all bowel troubles, appendicitis, biliousness, bad breath, bad blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pimples, pains after eating, liver trouble, sallow skin and dizziness. When your bowels don't move regularly you are sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It starts chronic ailments and long years of suffering. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS today, for you will never get well and stay well until you get your bowels right. Take our advice, start with Cascarets today under absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Never sold in bulk. Sample and booklet free. Address Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago or New York. 500

SOUTHERN DENTAL COLLEGE, ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

If you are interested in obtaining a dental education, write for free catalogue of full instruction.

DR. S. W. FOSTER, DEAN. 100 NORTH BUTLER STREET, ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

CAPTURED INNER FORT

Reports Say Japanese Have Possessed Themselves of Port Arthur Defense.

LOST 1,000 MEN IN THE FIGHT.

Russian Squadron Has Completed Its Raid After Damaging the Japanese Fleet.

There is current a Chinese rumor that the Japanese have captured one of the inner forts at Port Arthur, losing one thousand men in the engagement. It can not, however, be confirmed.

The agitation among the Mongols inhabiting the Altai region is increasing over the appearance of the god Airol, who they believe will deliver them from a foreign yoke and create an independent kingdom. The Mongols are gathering in thousands to answer to the summons of men who are proclaimng themselves to be the apostles of the god Airol. These men are inspiring awe among the ignorant nomads by means of an alleged miracle carried out with the aid of electrical and pyrotechnical devices. They warn the Mongols to abstain from wearing white or red clothing, these being Russian national colors, and to wear only blue and yellow, the national colors of Japan, and urge them to worship the sun and moon. They also warn the inhabitants to discard all agricultural implements, and to keep their arms hidden in the mountains and elsewhere.

The raid of the Russian Vladivostock squadron is over. The squadron disappeared off Cape Henashi, steering to the north, and it has not been reported since. It is assumed to be returning to Vladivostock. Whether or not a portion of Vice Admiral Kamimura's squadron is awaiting the Russians off Vladivostock is a carefully guarded secret.

The weather has been foggy, and thus conditions have been against the Japanese. It is said that the raiding Russians captured a British steamer laden with coal, bound south from the island of Yezo, and sent her to Vladivostock with a prize crew. Japan had thirteen transports in and near the strait of Korea the morning the Sado and the Hitachi were caught. She was fortunate that only three ships were overtaken.

There had not been a fresh attack on Port Arthur by land or sea up to June 14th, though the Japanese had made a fourth unsuccessful attempt to block the entrance to the harbor, using four fireships, two of which were immediately sunk by shots from the batteries, the other two withdrawing.

The raid of the Vladivostock squadron has brought criticism upon Vice Admiral Kamimura from the Japanese, and his failure to catch the Russians in the firing off Gen San, off the coast of Korea, when the Japanese transport Kinshui was sunk on April 26th, with a loss of about two hundred men.

Some of these even declare that if Vice Admiral Kamimura fails to catch the Russian vessels before they reach Vladivostock he should either resign from the navy or commit suicide.

The popular demand for his replacement is growing.

The commandant at Vladivostock has recommended to the inhabitants that they place their families in villages along the railroad as a measure of economy. It is announced that when winter comes, families having property but no children will be allowed to remain in Vladivostock, but that other families must be prepared to leave town on short notice.

The British torpedo boat destroyer Sparrow Hawk struck an unchartered rock off Saddle islands near Hang Chow bay and is a total loss. The guns from the vessel were saved and no lives lost in the disaster.

The Japanese transport Idzumi, which was reported missing a few days ago, was sunk by the Vladivostock fleet off Oshima island last Wednesday morning.

In addition to the transports Hitachi and Sado the Russians sank the Idzumi, a transport homeward bound, carrying a few sick soldiers. Three boats from the Idzumi reached shore. The losses are not known.

$5,000,000 MORTGAGE.

Its Recording Means a Railroad Extension.

A deed of trust for five million dollars given to the Colonial Trust company of New York by the Mississippi Central Railroad company was recorded Saturday. The money will be used for the extension of the lines to Natchez and Pascagoula.

A fight over a county registrar in Cullman county was ended by the appointment by the state board of registrars of William Self to the vacancy which had existed on the Cullman county board. Mr. Self was appointed to succeed S. H. Herring, deceased. The state board also appointed B. L. Jones, a member of the Chilton county board, to succeed Wiley Ramsay, resigned.

Tuesday was the longest day in the year.

TYNER THREATENS SUIT.

Will Ask $100,000 Damages for Defamation of Character.

General James N. Tyner, once assistant attorney general for the postoffice department, will institute suit against Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, if the latter should ignore his letter of June 11th asking the retraction of the president's criticism of his conduct.

The allegation will be defamation of character and the damages will be set at $100,000. The law is being now carefully investigated by General Tyner's attorneys and unless the word from the white house is soon received the case will be filed.

It is pointed out that Tyner was acquitted on May 25th and that he waited until June 11th for some word to come from the executive mansion recalling the accusations. Finally the general wrote a letter to President Roosevelt, and after waiting a sufficient time for it to reach him gave a copy to the papers.

Drowned with Her Fortune.

Some $200,000 in valuables were found upon the bodies of the victims of the Slocum.

There is one package for which no claim has yet been established. It was found on the body of a woman at first supposed to be that of Eva Kruger, but not yet identified.

The property consists of eight bank books, showing deposits of nearly $25,000; two or three life insurance policies amounting in all to about $10,000 or $15,000; deeds to property in New York and elsewhere, and a considerable amount in bank notes.

The deeds, insurance policies and the bank books are all in the name of a person who it would seem is quite different from Eva Kruger, but the coroner is keeping the name secret for the present.

TO AVENGE BROTHER'S DEATH

Jesse Calhoun Shoots the Crouch Brothers, His Brother's Slayers

Reports of the killing of Ike and Tom Crouch at Crouch's Landing, La., on Black river, Miss., have reached here.

The report says that Jesse Calhoun, aged about 23 years, was standing on the steamer Columbia when the Crouch brothers, aged respectively, 30 and 26 years, were about to board the boat. Calhoun fired three shots from a Winchester rifle, killing the two brothers instantly and slightly wounding a negro.

Three months ago the Crouches shot and killed Calhoun's brother about a negro laborer, and the double murder is the outgrowth of that affair.

Tennessee Business Boom.

There are reported from Tennessee the following new enterprises:

Memphis, $100,000 land company; brick works; $70,000 candy factory; $8,000 vehicle factory; handle factory.

Pulaski—$30,009 building company.

Covington—Chair factory.

Chattanooga—$50,000 plow factory.

Hall's—$10,000 flouring mill.

Decherd—Electric light plant; water works.

Huntington—$10,000 tobacco factory.

Greystone—Telephone company.

Tazewell—$30,000 coal and coke company.

Knoxville—$10,000 medicine factory.

Large Fire Losses.

According to the records of Insurance Commissioner Cole, of Mississippi, the losses by fire in Mississippi during the month of May were the largest ever known in the history of the state, those of Yazoo City alone reaching $1,800,000 and the total loss being nearly $2,500,000. This was about one-seventh of the fire losses in the United States during that month.

Georgia's New Industries.

Savannah—$5,000 excelsior factory; 30-ton cold storage plant.

Columbus—Bottling works.

Thomson—Electric light plant.

Waynesboro—Oil mill.

Helena—Stave factory.

Cartersville—Laundry.

Dublin—Tile factory.

"Dixie" Prevents Horror.

At Americus, Ga., a catastrophe that might have been terrible was narrowly averted. The Americus theater was packed beyond its capacity. Twelve hundred people, principally ladies and children, filled the building when an alarm of fire was given from without.

Hundreds rushed for the single entrance, twenty feet above the pavement, and reached by a single wooden stairway. The orchestra, with wonderful inspiration, struck up "Dixie."

This served to restore quiet. In the stampede on the outer stairway several women fainted.

The Cathcart Lumber Company, of New Decatur, is building a new steamboat to use on the Tennessee river for their own business. Two other steamers of large size are also building and will be employed in the local trade. All of these steamers will be completed within the next few weeks.

The Portland mine, Cripple Creek, Colo., has resumed.

Birmingham's postoffice is allowed five more clerks.

FORTY-ONE MORE BODIES

Recovered From the Slocum Disaster Sunday.

Sunday's harvest of dead from the steamer Slocum numbered forty-one, bringing the total number of bodies so far recovered up to 624. Of these 559 have been identified. Men with grapple drew up a section of the rail of the upper deck of the Slocum, about thirty feet in length. The bodies of four women were clinging to the rail, the fingers gripping the interlaced wire roping. This is part of the rail which gave way just before the steamer was beached, precipitating one hundred persons into the water.

During the day, two women whose arms were locked around a life ring, were recovered. These rings were made of canvas filled with cork and are supposed to float four persons. The ring was not cut open tonight, so that it is not known with what it is filled, but when it was thrown on the water it sank immediately. The ring was recovered by the police and will be turned over to the coroner.

Secretary Cortelyou, of the department of commerce and labor, visited the scene.

Guatemalan Ant.

The Guatemalan red ant that attacks the cotton boll weevil is a large, reddish brown ant, provided with mandibles large enough to grasp the boll weevil (a kind of beetle) around the waist, as it were, and strong enough to pry apart the joint between the beetle's thorax and abdomen. Not content with this dismemberment, the ant at the same time bends its long, flexible body around its victim, and inserts its sting at the point where the beetle's shell armor opens. The poison of the sting takes effect instantly, and the weevil never recovers.

Wherever the ant is found in Guatemala the Indians raise cotton successfully, in spite of their ignorance of all the conditions of proper cultivation.

The question has been raised whether this Guatemalan ant, being of tropical origin, could live in our southern states. The boll weevil itself is of tropical origin and has learned to hibernate in Texas. Moreover, the ant excavates a nest three feet in the ground, where it would be entirely safe against any frost that visits our southern states.

A single pair of boll weevils will multiply into millions in a single season, whereas the ant is propagated, as bees are, by queens.

Panama's Money.

The commission charged with the preparation of the currency system for Panama reached an agreement which established a coin equivalent in fineness and weight to the dollar of the United States as the standard, and which also makes the United States dollar legal tender in Panama. Under the terms of the agreement, the Panama government will re-coin or convert the Colombian silver into coins of the size of the silver dollar. This amount of silver is now estimated at $1,500,000.

At the request of Secretary Taft it was agreed to coin as much more silver as necessary until a total of $6,000,000 is reached. In order to maintain a parity with gold, there will be deposited 15 per cent of the amount coined, and in addition there will be deposited all the seigniorage which Panama will make in the coinage to meet the American government's requirements.

Summer School.

The summer school at the University of Alabama has begun. President Abercrombie expresses himself as being greatly pleased, the number of matriculates going far beyond his expectations.

Anniston's Glass Factory.

The machinery for the glass factory to be built in Anniston will be shipped from Anderson, Ind., within the next thirty days and installed as rapidly as possible. A number of the buildings at Anderson will be moved. The company has already commenced work at the Dixie Tile and Pottery company, which it has leased, and the brick for the new glass factory will be manufactured right away.

Canadian cotton companies have agreed to close down all their mills for the first two weeks in July, and there is every probability that some of them will remain closed much longer. The shut down is caused by the condition of the raw cotton market, and by lack of protection due to the British preference which takes off one-third of the duty of 35 per cent.

At Jacksonville, Fla., Charles McCoy, attorney with offices in Chicago, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor in a bath tub at a hotel. McCoy, it is said, in the last few days had lost $10,000 by speculating in stock on Wall street.

Will Make Radium Cheap.

Dr. George F. Lee, a chemist, of Philadelphia, claims that he has discovered an electro-chemical process of manufacturing radium for less than $500,000 a pound. At present it is valued at $16,000,000 a pound.

Corbin to the Philippines.

Major-General Corbin has been ordered to command the division of the Philippines, succeeding Major-General Wade, the order to take effect in October.

SPEAKING — LET EVERYBODY COME.

I wish to say to the people of Chilton county that since I am comparatively a stranger in certain sections in the county. I deem it necessary that I ask you to meet me at the following times and places:

Lime Springs church, Tuesday, June 21, 7:30 p. m.

Union Point church, Wednesday, June 22, 7:30 p. m.

Providence church, beat 10, Thursday, June 22d, 7:30 p. m.

Walnut Creek church, Friday, June 24th, 7:30 p. m.

Mount Pisgah church, Saturday, June 25th, 7:30 p. m.

Shiloh church, beat 6, Monday, June 27th, 7:30 p. m.

Highland school house, Tuesday, June 28th, 7:30 p. m.

Pleasant Grove church, beat 6, Wednesday, June 29th, 7:30 p. m.

Benson, beat 3, Thursday, June 30th, 7:30 p. m.

Isabella church, Friday, July 1st, 7:30 p. m.

Macedonia church, beat 3, Saturday, July 2d, 10 a. m.

Pleasant Grove church, beat 2, Saturday, July 2d, 7:30 p. m.

Coopers, Monday, July 4th, 10 a. m.

Mountain Creek, Monday, July 4th, 7:30 p. m.

Burwell, Tuesday, July 5th, 10 a. m.

Wadsworth's Mill, Tuesday, July 5th, 7:30 p. m.

Salem, beat 10, Thursday, July 7th, 10 a. m.

Cane Creek church, Thursday, July 7th, 7:30 p. m.

Flint Hill, Friday, July 8th, 10 a. m.

Mineral Springs, Saturday, July 9th, 10 a. m.

Union School house, Saturday, July 9th, 7:30 p. m.

Archer's chapel, Monday, July 11th, 10 a. m.

Rocky Mount church, Monday, July 11th, 7:30 p. m.

Shiloh church, beat 2, Tuesday, July 12th, 10 a. m.

Ocampo at church, Tuesday, July 12th, 7:30 p. m.

Jemison school house, Wednesday, July 13th, 7:30 p. m.

Thorsby school house, Wednesday, July 13th, 10 a. m.

Lomax church, Thursday, July 14th, 10 a. m.

Clanton court house, Thursday, July 14th, 7:30 p. m.

Verbena, Monday, July 18th, 10 a. m.

Energy, Monday, July 18th, 7:30 p. m.

Billingsley, Tuesday, July 19th, 10 a. m.

Pletcher, Tuesday, July 19th, 7:30 p. m.

Dixie, Wednesday, July 20th, 10 a. m.

Stanton, Wednesday, July 20th, 7:30 p. m.

Maplesville, Thursday, July 21st, 10 a. m.

Old Maplesville, Thursday, July 21st, 7:30 p. m.

Macedonia, Friday, July 22d, 10 a. m.

Honeycutt's Mill, Friday, July 22d, 7:30 p. m.

Mars Hill, Saturday, July 23d, 10 a. m.

Collins' chapel, Saturday, July 23d, 7:30 p. m.

Clanton court house, Monday, July 25th, 10 a. m.

We hereby respectfully invite all candidates for each and every office to meet with us at these times and places. We will introduce you and try to see that you have time to be heard from.

Sincerely and truly,
S. J. JENNINGS,
Candidate for Probate Judge.
tf adv

So far as known only one of the crew of the Slocum lost his life. This was Michael McGrath, steward of the steamer, whose body has been recovered. When he jumped overboard he had with him, according to Captain VanSchaik, three or four hundred dollars. The money could not be found when the clothing was searched.

Attorney General Knox said Friday that he would retire from the cabinet some time this month, perhaps the first of July.

Jacksonville, Fla., bank clearings increased 153 per cent last week.

Santos Dumont, has arrived from France on his way to St. Louis to compete for the $100,000 prize which has been offered by the exposition authorities. The date of his attempt to navigate the air depends, he says, upon how quickly the express company can send along his airship. Seven days will be required to put the machine together.

The sixth and new furnace of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company at Ensley is nearing completion.

New Cotton Bug in Dallas.

A kind of cotton bug not known to any farmer or cotton man has been found near Selma and specimens of the pest have been sent to New Orleans. The new bug is not related so far as known to any of the weevil families.

It is very small, but masses in such quantities that it seems like a blight. It is prevalent all over the country, and has already done much damage. It kills every leaf and branch it attacks, and it is said to have alarmed some planters.

Cremation establishments, under the control of the government, are to be found in the chief cities of Japan.

Merchant Kills Doctor.

News comes of a shooting at Marvin, Ala., which terminated with fatal results. Dr. Fred McCall, of Choctaw county, was the victim of the difficulty and a prominent merchant of Marvin, Clarke county, is said to be his slayer. The details are meager, but according to the information it appears that they became involved in a difficulty in front of the merchant's place of business. He turned and left Dr. McCall and walked into his store and McCall followed. As he entered the merchant shot him dead.

Governor General of Finland

General Bobrikoff, governor [illegible] of Finland, who was shot [illegible] morning at the entrance to the [illegible] ate by a son of Senator Schau[illegible] is dead. The people are calm, there is no excitement.

The assassination has stirred a sensation and is temporarily [illegible] sorbing interest from the war. [illegible] papers are filled with extended [illegible] raphies of the deceased, details [illegible] difficulties of his office, editorial [illegible] nunciatory of the crime and [illegible] ments on the conditions in Fin[illegible]

The Sak's Store
Birmingham, Alabama

READY-MADE Apparel for M[illegible] Women and Children.
Our Mail Order Department is qu[illegible] efficient and serviceable.

Write for Catalogue

A most complete
Stock of General Merch[illegible] dise, Dress Goods, F[illegible]

The Millinery Department
is complete in every detail and is in ch[illegible] of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara S[illegible] of St. Louis

P. D. WILSON
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN POULTRY YAR[illegible]

WE have as good
CHICKEN
as there are in the cou[illegible]
Barred Plymouth Roc[illegible]
And you may have 15 [illegible] fresh eggs for 50c. If [illegible] want them shipped pl[illegible] add 10c for packing.
Give us a trial and we can plea[illegible]
MRS. W. NIX
Maplesville, Alab[illegible]

GENERAL MERCHANDISE A[illegible]
FERTILIZERS
FOR SALE.
Troy Special & Mule Bra[illegible]
"Are the Best on Earth"
J. C. JONES,
Clanton, - - - Alaba[illegible]

We Have Perfected Arrangements Whereby That Practical and Instructive Newspaper
THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER
Known throughout the State of Ala[illegible] bama for the full line of State New[illegible] contained in each issue, will be fur[illegible] nished in connection with Our Pub[illegible] lication at a Remarkably Low Price
Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Financial Page. Best State News.
For Village, Suburban Residents, and in fact for all actively engaged in agricultural pursuits, or family like[illegible] Weekly Advertiser will be found well nigh indispensable. It is pure, bright and practical all the way through, a[illegible] meets the requirements of the entire family. It is popular throughout the South, and no one should be without[illegible]
Our Great Special Offer:
The Weekly Union one year - $1.0[illegible]
Weekly Advertiser one year - $1.0[illegible]
Both for $1.25.

Kills Doctor.

f a shooting at Mar- erminated with fatal l McCall, of Choctaw ictim of the difficulty merchant of Marvin, said to be his slayer. nager, but according it appears that they in a difficulty in hant's place of busi- and left Dr. McCall his store and McCall ntered the merchant

Governor General of Finland

General Bobrikoff, governor of Finland, who was shot Thu morning at the entrance to ate by a son of Senator Schau is dead. The people are exc there is no excitement.

The assassination has stirred a sensation and is temporarily sorbing interest from the wor papers are filled with extended raphies of the deceased, detailing difficulties of his office, editorials nunciatory of the crime and ments on the conditions in Fin

Sak's Store

ham, Alabama

EADY-MADE Apparel for M omen and Children.

r Mail Order Department is quic cient and serviceable.

r Catalogue

ost complete

Stock of General Mercha dise, Dress Goods, F illinery tment

s complete in every detail and is in cha f a first-class milliner, Miss Clara Sm f St. Louis

P. D. WILSON

LABAMA.

AWN POULTRY YARD

WE have as good CHICKEN as there are in the coun Barred Plymouth Rock And you may have 15 g fresh eggs for 50c. If want them shipped pl add 10c for packing.

Give us a trial and we can pleas

MRS. W. NIX

Maplesville, Alab

AL MERCHANDISE AN FERTILIZERS FOR SALE.

pecial & Mule Bran e the Best on Earth"

C. JONES,

- - - Alaban

Perfected Arrangements Whereby ctical and Instructive Newspaper

HE WEEKLY DVERTISER

hroughout the State of Ala the full line of State New in each issue, will be fur n connection with Our Pub at a Remarkably Low Price

County News. Best Sporting s. Best Market and Finan- Page. Best State News.

burban Residents, and in fact for all acti agricultural pursuits, or family like, th rtiser will be found well nigh indispensab ght and practical all the way through. a irements of the entire family. It is possi he South, and no one should be without

Great Special Offer:

kly Union one year - $1.0 dvertiser one year - $1.0

Both for $1.25.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 30, 1904. NO. 14.

A MASONIC GATHERING.

nd lodge, No. 250, A. F. and A. held its stated communication at m. Saturday, June 25th, at Coop- The visitors were J. Alex Moore, umpka, P. M. of Central lodge, and a thirty-second degree Ma- L. H. Reynolds, W. M. of Jemison 41; Past Masters G. Higgins, of ton, M. D. Pinson, of Bozeman, J. A. Skaggs, of Jemison; Crafts- A. C. Smith, R. M. Smith, M. L. A. D. Massey, B. F. Williams, H. Foshee, E. T. Gullahorn, J. W. e, W. C. Jones, E. A. Knight and Edlin, of Clanton lodge, No. 423; rge Jones, J. W. Arant and E. L. ning, of Bozeman lodge No. 534; Clarke, E. H. Jones and E. L. of Proctor No. 571; G. B. ley, of Gibson No. 354; J. D. La- of Beatsville No. 475; Dave Nor- of Irondale No. 506; P. W. Faulk, bins on Springs No. 67, and J. M. y, of Weogufka No. 378. After ing in due form the lodge ad- ned, and falling in line outside, ched to Chestnut Creek church, re an audience of over 400 people e awaiting them. Brother J. A. acted as marshal and Brother Hicklin introduced the speakers, were Brethren J. Alex Moore, J. Thomas and L. H. Reynolds, in the er named. Extracts from the differ- speeches will be found below. At the meeting adjourned to par- of a bountiful dinner provided by ladies of Cooper and vicinity. re was plenty for all the 500 peo- assembled and to spare. About 2 all gathered in the church to wit- the public installation of the of- s of Amand lodge for the ensuing ome year. Brother J. Alex Moore installing officer and as Marshal Skaggs presented the new incum- s for lodge honors he delivered to his "working tool" and obliga- in a very impressive manner. e installed were J. S. Jones, W. P. M. Jones, S. W.; J. M. Curlee, J. M. Robinson, treasurer; J. Simpson, secretary; J. W. Dennis, G. W. Jones, J. D.; E. F. Greer, r. The ceremony over the lodge d and marched back to the room and closed in an acceptа- manner. The following resolution, ks for itself, was passed.

Resolved, That we, members sitors of Amand lodge, No. 250, most heartily thank the people and vicinity for their kind ity so freely extended to us to- Also a vote of thanks to Brother Alex Moore for his helpful visit.

What Masonry is and What It Has Done for the Human Family.

By J. Alex Moore, 32d Degree.

It is a great honor to be present and participate in the festivities of this day. In the month of June we have the beginning and ending of a Mason- year. The Masonic fraternity, the most ancient and honored secular in- tion known to mankind, extending to prehistoric times, regards the th of June the most sacred day the Masonic year. Those who have clothed with the robe of official rank and participated in the an- ual return their regalia and the jewel, power and the purple of the ntle were placed upon other shoul-

Sir, I am a man of many du- and have but little time that is my own. I find no time for preparing for meeting any engagement outside of my regular work. I trust, therefore, may in a measure explain to you the disappointment that awaits you this hour. It is my purpose to say something of what Masonry has done and what it has done for the world.

Masonry has witnessed the obliteration of pagan deities and mytho- ies from the face of the earth. It has seen the rise and fall of many republics and nations, philoso- hies and creeds and sects, some unknown to the present age, and is today pre-eminent in its splendor and unrivaled throughout the world.

Even the Chinese philosopher, Confucius, taught people to apply the square and rule to their lives. Within the ancient pyramids are found sym- bols of masonry, and thus we see that in the ages traces of the mys-

Masonry is a moral science, whose object is the dissemination of those principles of faith, hope, char- ity, peace and brotherly love, a kingdom composed of all nations and creeds, whose sole and supreme law of love to country and to mankind. Ma- sonry forbids every crime in the world and approves every virtue in the heart. It is a reliable guide in faith and life and when ad- versity, sickness and death overcome us in the sad chamber and the pathway to the grave, and our remains have been consign- ed to mother earth, administers comfort to the bereaved surviving

Many men distinguished in history have enriched and honored our order. Isaac Newton, the philosopher and mathematician; Lord Byron, the sweet bard of England, and Frederick the Great were familiar with our ritual. Franklin was grand master of Penn- sylvania Masons. Lafayette officiated at the laying of the corner stone of the Bunker Hill monument. Washing- ton laid the corner stone of the first capitol. Henry Clay was a devoted Mason. King Edward VII of England has presided as grand master of his empire, and as such distributed more charity than any Mason in Masonic history. The immortal McKinley was a distinguished Mason. Quitman, the soldier, statesman and patriot, whose life illustrated all that is noble, grand and heroic in southern manhood, was a prominent Mason.

Masons as exemplary citizens at all times, in peace and war, have shown themselves equal to every emergency. On every field of battle our craftsmen have carried aloft the banner of free- dom. They followed Wolf on the dizzy, bloody heights of Quebec, whose victory changed the destiny of man- kind. They were with Gates at Sara- toga and stood by Washington at Yorktown, giving to this country a free republic. They were slaughtered by the thousands with their General Brooksdale, at Gettysburg. They split their blood with Johnson at Shiloh and marched through storm and shell, blood and misery, starvation and death from Manassas to Appomattox. But "Peace has her victories no less re- nowned than war," and we Masons are here today as loyal citizens of a great republic, let us renew our love for truth and principle and dedicate our lives anew to the rich heritage which came to us through the stain- less honor of our fathers.

Brethren, let us so demean our- selves that our country may be ben- efited by our lives. It is the mission of Masonry to elevate mankind, to put them upon a higher plane of thought and action. Our work is up- on mortal minds, and if we imbue them with proper principles, our work is more lasting than if we erected monuments of brass and stone; more enduring than the very hills them- selves, for

"Yonder sun is but a spark of fire,
A flaming meteor of the sky;
But the soul immortal as its Sire,
Can never, no never, die."

It has been said "forty centuries look down upon you," and more is ex- pected than was ever expected of the Masons of any age. With the onrush- ing years more opportunities have come to you than have come to the people of all the past and the obliga- tions are correspondingly increased. And while Masonry has done much for the world and humanity in the past, more is to be done in the future. The mind of man has harnessed al- most all the forces of nature, and they are doing its bidding. Steam bears his burdens across the continent and over the ocean with incredible speed. Electricity bears his messages to the most distant portions of the earth in the twinkling of an eye. Time and space have almost been annihilated, and the whole world has been brought together, and all the people of the nations have been made our neigh- bors. And our opportunity for doing good has been increased because we have the teeming millions at our very door as our neighbors, and we can reach and relieve more suffering and sorrow and heartache and pain. We can lift up more people who are op- pressed. In a word, we can dispense "more Masonic light" at this time than in all the ages of the world com- bined. The world is now ready to re- ceive it, and God has placed the means in our power to give it. There is noth- ing that the world more needs than "more Masonic light."

I trust that it will not be out of place for me in closing to say some- thing of the duties of Masons. It ought to be the fixed determination of every Mason to discover the way in which he can be of most service to his fellowman, and studiously apply himself to that duty. We should labor to find the right way, the pure way, the clean way, the honest way, and then we should try our utmost to get the courage to follow in this way be- cause it is the right way. You may think this is an easy task; in this you are mistaken. It is life's hardest les- son. It is not an easy matter for a man to stand up for truth, for right, for justice, when the whole community is against him. It requires the most exalted courage. But without this de- votion to right no one was ever truly great or really useful. No man has the right kind of courage who is not ready to suffer defeat, or even death, in the discharge of his duty. As a reward for all this we have nothing to offer, no pledge to make. We beg you to do right simply because it is right; to do your duty because it is your duty. Let us labor not for the hope of fee or reward.

The greatest need of this country is men of personal worth and stability, who will not be swayed from truth and right, and who will see to it that justice is not perverted.

"God give us men; a time like this de- mands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands.
Men whom the lust of office does not kill,
Men whom the spoils of office can not buy.
Men who will obey the people's will,
Men who have honor—men who will not lie.
Men who can stand before a dema- gogue
And down his treacherous flatteries without winking.
Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private think- ing."

Extracts from J. H. Thomas' ad- dress: "Free Masonry teaches men what their duties are toward one an- other, and to regard the whole human race as one family, the high and the low, the rich and the poor, created by one Almighty Parent, and to aid, sup- port and protect each other. Masonry unites men of every country, sect and opinion, and promotes true friendship among those who might otherwise live at a distance from each other. To relieve the distressed is a duty in- cumbent on all men, but particularly on Masons. Love is of God, God is love, love is the foundation upon which God built the universe, and love prompted him to enact a code of laws for the government of the world. Brotherly love is the divine element that advances society; it is the solar ray that vitalizes and quickens all the germs of life. Masonry is brotherly love, the path of Masonic life is an illumined track and every Mason is possessed with a moral map to guide his steps. May God bless you and make you all more efficient in the per- formance of your duties toward each other, and so spread the cement of love from heart to heart."

L. H. Reynolds addressed his re- marks to the mothers, wives and young people present, telling them in his own peculiar terse sentences some of the good the order had done them all in the past, and what it promised to do for them in the future. The hu- mor running through his remarks put every one in good shape for the dinner that followed.

NOTICE!

Registrars' Appointments.

Whereas, By virtue of the provi- sions of section 6 of "An act to fur- ther regulate elections in the state of Alabama," approved October 9, 1903, "the board of registrars in each coun- ty shall visit each precinct at least once, and oftener if necessary, be- between July 1st and October 1st, 1904," to make a complete registra- tion of all persons entitled to regis- ter, and shall remain there at least one day, from 8 o'clock in the morn- ing until sunset, and they shall give at least twenty days' notice of the time when and the place in the pre- cinct where they will attend to regis- ter applicants for registration, by bills posted at three or more public places in each election precinct and by advertisement once a week for three successive weeks in a newspa- per, if there be one published in the county. Now, therefore, this is to give notice, as required by said law, that the board of registrars for the county of Chilton will sit at the fol- lowing places at the time specified for the purpose as aforesaid:

Flint Hill, beat 11, July 11th and 12th.
Mineral Springs, beat 1, July 13th and 14th.
Thorsby, beat 9, July 15th and 16th.
Jemison, beat 2, July 18th and 19th.
Providence, beat 2, July 20th and 21st.
Macedonia, beat 3, July 22d and 23d
Benson, beat 3, July 25th and 26th.
Maplesville, beat 7, July 27th and 28th.
Shoults, beat 7, July 29th and 30th.
Stanton, beat 8, August 1st and 2d.
Riderville, beat 8, August 3d.
Pletchers, beat 8, August 4th
Kincheon, beat 6, August 5th and 6th.
Verbena, beat 5, August 15th and 16th.
Coopers, beat 10, August 17th and 18th.
Clanton, beat 4, August 19th and 20th.
CLANTON, one week, August 8th to 13th, inclusive, for the purpose of purging the registration list.
CLANTON, one week, August 22d to 27th, inclusive, for the purpose of considering the case of each elector whose name it is proposed to strike from the registration list and deter- mine same.

BOARD OF REGISTRATION FOR CHILTON COUNTY.
R. H. GAINES, Chairman.
tf

Somebody asks the New York Tri- bune: "What is a billion?" and the Tribune does not take advantage of the opportunity to answer: "Some- thing that most of us will never get."

SECTIONS OF THE NEW LAW AS TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Sec. 6. On the first Saturday in July, 1904, and each fourth year there after, the qualified electors of each public school district shall meet at the district public school house and elect from among the free-holders and householders who can read and write, residing in such districts, a local board of three district trustees, whose duty shall be as hereinafter provided. Such district trustees shall hold office for the term of four years from the time of their election, and until their suc- cessors are elected and qualified.

Sec. 7. The trustees provided for in the last preceding section shall, within ten days after their election, meet at the public school district house, or at some place more conve- nient to all concerned, and shall or- ganize by electing one of their num- ber chairman and another secretary.

Sec. 8. The district trustees shall, during the month of August, 1901, and in every even numbered year there- after, make an enumeration of all the children within school age in their respective districts, in accordance with the requirements of section 3572 of the code of 1896, and report the same as herein provided to the county su- perintendent of education, who shall, by the 15th day of said month, make a written report of such enumeration by numbered districts to the state superintendent of education, and it shall be the duty of the county super- intendent of education to enumerate or cause to be enumerated all the chil- dren of school age in any township or townships in his county in which the sixteenth section interest exceeds the amount of per capita apportion- ment from the general school fund, and report the same to the office of the state superintendent of education.

Sec. 9. It shall be the duty of the said district trustees to care for all school property, employ teachers for their school districts, such employ- ment to be subject to the approval of the county board of education, to visit the schools within their respective districts, observe the management of the same, to make quarterly reports of the condition of such school to the county superintendent of education and to perform such other duties as may be required by the county board of education hereinafter provided for.

Sec. 10. The chairman of the sev- eral board of district trustees shall meet at the court house in their re- spective counties on the second Satur- day in August after their election and every four years thereafter, and shall elect four county school trustees, who shall hold office for the term of four years from the date of their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified. Before entering upon the duties of office, they shall take the oath of office prescribed by the constitution of the state. The county superintendent of education and said four county trustees shall constitute the county board of education within their respective counties. The county superintendent of education shall be the chief executive officer of said county, boards of education and shall see that all the rules, regulations and orders of said county boards are en- forced; provided, however, that no county trustee shall, during his term of office, be eligible to election as a district trustee.

Sec. 11. That said county board of education shall have entire control of the public schools within their re- spective counties, unless otherwise provided by law. They shall make rules and regulations for the govern- ment of the school, see that teachers perform their duties, and exercise such powers, consistent with the law, as in their judgment will best sub- serve the cause of education. The said board shall have the right to ac- quire, purchase, lease, receive, hold, transmit and convey the title to real and personal property for school pur- poses. Said board of education shall by and in name of county board of ed- ucation sue and be sued, contract and be contracted with, all contracts to be made after resolution adopted by said board and spread on its minutes and signed by the president and sec- retary and all process shall be exe- cuted on the secretary of said board tf

Emil L. Johnson, a miner who was deported from Cripple Creek by the militia, committed suicide. He was despondent because his wife and two children were left destitute in Crip- ple Creek.

Reports from Texas say the boll weevil is playing sad havoc with cot- ton.

Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens) will sail for New York on June 28.

Freer inquiry for southern pig iron is reported.

A new $5 counterfeit bill has been found.

It used to be said that the man who had got together his first $1000 was bound to be rich. Nowadays a man isn't sure of being rich even after he has got together his first $1,000,000.

A new $5 counterfeit bill has been found.

BREVITIES BY WIRE.

The old Tuscumbia and Courtland railway was the third railway con- structed in the United States. In 1833 the road was first begun and consisted of a piece of track laid from what was then known as Tuscumbia landing to the village of Tuscumbia, about four miles. It was built for the purpose of bringing to Tuscumbia the freight which was discharged by the boats at the landing mentioned and intended for Tuscumbia. This line was extend- ed to Decatur.

In the office of N. K. White, law agent for the Southern railway for the Mem- phis division at Huntsville, is perhaps the oldest piece of office furniture in the state of Alabama. It is a direc- tor's table and was made for the old Tuscumbia and Courtland railway. The table is of walnut and ravages of time seem to have had no effect on it. It is of a semi-circular shape, with a place which seemed to have been cut out for the seat of the presiding offi- cer.

Montgomery shows a great spurt along building lines, the amount of this business as shown by permits issued being $385,555 from October 1, 1903. This is an increase over the entire twelve months ending October 1st of last year of $41,616. The city is spend- ing $73,318 in building school houses. The United States is putting $46,352 into an addition to the postoffice and an oil mill is taking up $12,478.

The Butler-Kyser Oil company has awarded contracts for the erection of its buildings in Huntsville and ex- pects to have them finished and all machinery installed by the opening of the cotton season. The company will have one of the largest cotton oil mills in north Alabama and in connec- tion with the industry will operate a ginnery, soap factory and fertilizer works.

Miss Helen Keller, the gifted deaf, dumb and blind student at Radcliffe college, has broken down and is re- ported to be on the verge of nervous prostration. She began to fail two months ago and was ordered by her physician to abstain from college work. It is believed she will get a degree with the class of 1904 in spite of her inability to fill the require- ments.

The steamer Wagnon is unable to make her regular trips on the Coosa, as the river is the lowest known in years. A smaller boat is now making the trips. Leota, the government boat, with the dredge, will clean out the channel above Gadsden so the boats can be operated. Two more large boats are now under construction to ply the Coosa.

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, has just celebrated his 80th birthday. The venerable senator is spending the sum- mer at Bailey Springs, Ala. The jun- ior senator from Alabama, Judge Pet- tus, will celebrate his 83d birthday an- niversary on July 6th, the day the na- tional democratic convention meets in St. Louis.

The extension of the Seaboard Air Line is making a new town in Cal- houn county, some twelve miles east of Gadsden. The shortening of the route to Birmingham leaves Duke and Hebron off from the road some three miles and the people of these towns are moving to Wellington, the new town.

The safe in the private office of Emil Lesser, in the Metropolitan an- nex, Birmingham, was broken open and $462.25 in cash was stolen. As yet no clew has been discovered which would lead to the arrest of any one.

Walter A. Humphrey, of Alabama, has been selected as a member of the board of control, beneficiary degree, of the Junior Order of American Mechan- ics. The next annual meeting will be held at Nashville, Tenn.

R. J. Jones and J. A. Woodward, tax collectors of Bibb and Talladega coun- ties, respectively, have made settle- ment with the state auditor.

General William W. Brandon, adju- tant general of the Alabama national guard, has been named a reading clerk of the national democratic con- vention which convenes at St. Louis July 6.

Ensley's rod mill is using the first steel billets turned out by the new steel plant of the Alabama Steel and Wire company.

W. R. Barro nhas been appointed a member of the board of pension ex- aminers of Perry county by Governor Cunningham.

Jefferson county voted 1544 majori- ty for local taxation for schools and 48 majority for court house bond is- sue.

Lucien C. Brown has been elected captain of the Birmingham Rifles.

The American yacht, Ingomar, won the race at Kiel, Germany.

George C. Arnols has been appoint- ed postmaster at Mizelle.

Nine postmasters were appointed. As soon as it is possible to do so, registered letters and money order of- fices will be established.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law.
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

A. C. Smith. J. O. Middleton.
Smith & Middleton,
Attorneys-at-Law.
Practice in All Courts.
Office 6th St., Opposite Court House,
CLANTON.

Physicians.

Dr. V. O. Campbelle,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office over Roper's Store.
CLANTON.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins,
Physician and Surgeon,
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office with Hopkins Drug Co.
CLANTON.

W. F. Middleton, M.D.,
Phsician and Surgeon,
CLANTON.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

Dentists.

Dr. A. B. Horn,
Dentist.
Office over Strock's Store.
CLANTON.
Office Days in the Following Towns.
Jemison—Wednesday and Thursday before the 2nd Sun- day.
Thorsby—Wednesday and Thursday before the 3d Sun- day Dr. Stabler's Office

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 8 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m. CLANTON

Louisville & Nashville RAILROAD.

THE DIRECT LINE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST, NORTH AND NORTHWEST.

In Effect November 1, 1903.

No. 9 D'ly Ex't S'dy A M	No. 3 D'ly P M	Read Down Leave	Read Up Ar.	No. 2 D'ly P M	No. 10 D'ly Ex't S'dy P M
6 10	3 20	Birmingham	12 10	7 15
6 53	4 19	Helena	11 30	6 34
7 32	5 01	Calera	10 46	5 50
7 56	5 28	Jemison	10 24	5 28
8 05	5 37	Thorsby	10 16	5 15
8 11	5 44	Lomax	10 10	5 08
8 19	5 51	CLANTON	10 02	5 01
8 32	6 05	Cooper	9 45	4 47
8 37	6 11	Verbena	9 39	4 41
8 44	6 19	Mt. Creek	9 30	4 30
9 24	6 51	Elmore	8 51	3 56
9 50	7 25	Montgomery	8 25	3 30

Drawing Room, Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars.

For rates and further information address G. Higgins, agent L. and N. R. R., Clanton, Ala.

The Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company has filed notice with the secretary of state of an increase in its bonded debt from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000.

The Citizens' Light, Heat and Pow- er Company of Montgomery has noti- fied the secretary of state that it has increased its capital stock from $30,000 to $50,000.

Business men of Clayton and Mt. An- drew are urging the Seaboard Air Line to extend its road from Union Springs through Mt. Andrew to Clay- ton.

Rural free delivery service has been ordered established August 1st at Brockton, Taylor and Veto.

When We Celebrated The Fourth

ONE hundred years ago, when the citizens of this land assembled to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of American independence, traces were still visible of that universal sorrow in which the country had been plunged by the death of Washington, in December, 1799. Among the toasts at several banquets was one, repeated from July 4, 1800, and worthily called sublime by the editors of several newspapers: "Washington, our late file leader: May we follow him in slow time to the permanent cantonment, and be all found near his headquarters at the final roll call."

In the death of Washington the citizens mourned the loss of one who stood out most prominently as the chief exponent of all that the day meant to them. True, Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, and many other eminent patriots were never forgotten by the diners who, toward the close of the day invariably sat down to a sumptuous feast, and drank as many toasts as there were States in the Union. All were held in grateful memory, but Washington, their gallant General of the Revolution and the hero of many battles, was truly "first in the hearts of his countrymen."

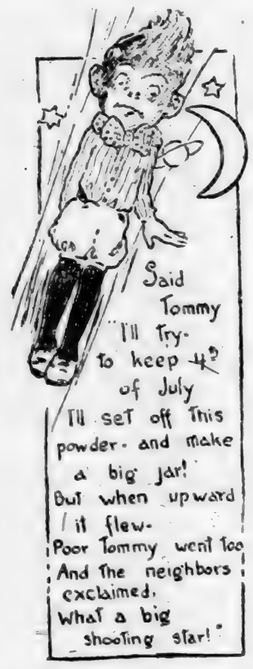
"The memory of George Washington. When we forget to speak of his virtues may our tongues cleave to the roof of our mouths," was one of the toasts at Portland, Me., and it was responded to in silence and with bowed heads, all the company rising from their seats.

Following the death of Washington the seat of Government had been moved from Philadelphia to its permanent home, named to perpetuate more clearly the memory of the founder of the Nation's line of Presidents. Just 103 years ago the first inauguration of a President took place in the town and the small population prevented the National holiday from being so joyous or jubilant in character as was the custom in the larger seaboard cities. President Jefferson, however, gave, as the newspapers stated, "a grand levee which for splendor and brilliancy has not been exceeded since the removal of the Government to this place." As the Government had been domiciled there less than two years, it was not difficult to exceed former splendors.

It is interesting to notice, in studying this memorable day, that its importance was recognized at once, and the people honored it accordingly, without waiting for future results. "The people are now convinced of what we ought long since to have known, that our enemies have left us no middle way between perfect freedom and abject slavery," was the fearless comment of the New Jersey Gazette as soon as news came that the Declaration of Independence had been signed.

The temper of the country was ably expressed in a letter written from Philadelphia by John Adams on July 5, 1776, and this letter was frequently published in succeeding years by those editors who were warm admirers of the second President. The more patriotic sentiments of the letter are:

"Yesterday the greatest question was debated which was ever debated in America, and a greater, perhaps, never was or will be decided among men. A resolution was passed without one dissenting colony, 'That these colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent States.' The day is past. The Fourth of July, 1776, will be a memorable epoch in the history of America. I am led to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to Almighty God. It ought to be solemnized with pomp, shows, games, sports, ringing of bells, bonfires, and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other, for this time forward and forever. You will think me translated with enthusiasm, but I am not. I am well aware of the toil and blood treasure that it will cost us to maintain this declaration, and support and defend these States. Yet, through all the gloom I can see the rays of light and glory. I can see that the end is worth more than all the means, and that posterity will triumph."



The first Fourth of July, therefore, while greeted with shouts of joy, was also a very serious one for those who looked beneath the surface. But the petty oppressions and clamorings for freedom of ten years had trained the people to a realization of the responsibilities they were taking upon themselves, and they accepted their Declaration of Independence with unflinching approval. The sacrifice was to be great. The enthusiastic patriots of Philadelphia, who rang their church bells so merrily on the 5th of July, 1776, were soon to see their homes occupied and ransacked by the enemy, while in less than two months New York was to be in possession of the British troops.

In that first year of independence, the Declaration was celebrated at various times according to the rapidity with which news could travel. The young men of New York, aided, as we may infer, by many of their enthusiastic elders, made the first Fourth memorable by tearing from its pedestal the equestrian statue of George III., which had been placed in Bowling Green six years before. George Washington was in the city at that time, having lately arrived from the camp at Boston, and the Declaration was read to each brigade of soldiers, being received "with loud huzzas and the utmost demonstration of joy." This was on Wednesday, July 10, and a newspaper account of the demolition says:

"The same evening the equestrian statue of George III., which Tory pride and folly raised in the year 1770, was, by the Sons of Freedom, laid prostrate in the dirt, the just desert of an ungrateful tyrant. The lead wherewith the monument was made is to be run into bullets to assimilate with the brain of our infatuated adversaries, who, to gain pepper-corn, have lost an empire."

At Princeton the famous Nassau Hall, which then comprised all there was of Princeton University, was brilliantly illuminated, and the Declaration was read to the accompaniment of volleys of musketry and loud acclamations for the prosperity of the newly formed Republic. Throughout the thirteen Colonies the Declaration of Independence was greeted with the ringing of bells, firing of guns, and earnest exhortations to maintain the principles of equal rights at all hazards. One very beneficial effect was in making the people feel that they were banded together more closely in a common cause.

In 1781 the ladies of Princeton decorated their houses with flowers and greens, and the inhabitants held a jollification meeting in the village tavern, when, to quote the Jersey Gazette: "After a draught of punch they repaired to a tree in front of Mr. Beckman's house, from the top of which a Union flag was displayed." Later in the day there was a banquet, and among the toasts was this one:

"If there are British officers who treat a traitor as he deserves, let their enemies esteem them; but perpetual infamy on the wretches who are not ashamed to consult with or to serve under Benedict Arnold."

The Fourth of July, 1789, was of exceptional importance, not only to the country at large, as it was the first to be celebrated under a stable form of Government, but to New York City in particular, because less than three months before George Washington had been inaugurated President, and was then a resident of the city. The Society of the Cincinnati held its customary meeting in the morning and elected Baron Steuben President and Alexander Hamilton Vice-President. The society appointed a committee to wait upon the President, bearing the best wishes of the day, and Baron Steuben acted as spokesman on this memorable occasion. His remarks were:

"The Society of the Cincinnati of the State of New York have directed this delegation to present to you, Sir, their sentiment of profound respect. In common with all good citizens of the United States of America they join their ardent wishes for the preservation of your life, health and prosperity. In particular they feel the highest satisfaction in contemplating the illustrious Chief of our armies, by a unanimous vote of an independent people elected to the highest station that a dignified and enlightened country can bestow. Under your conduct, Sir, this band of soldiers was led to glory and conquest, and we feel ourselves confident that under your administration our country will speedily arrive at an enviable state of prosperity and happiness."

George Washington said in reply:

"I beg you, gentlemen, to return my most affectionate regard to the Society of the Cincinnati, and assure them that I receive their congratulations on this auspicious day with a mind constantly anxious for the honor and welfare of our country, and can only say that the force of my abilities, aided by an integrity of heart, shall be studiously pointed to the support of its dignity and the promotion of its prosperity and happiness."

Later in the day public exercises were held in St. Paul's Church, where the Declaration of Independence was read and Alexander Hamilton delivered "an elegant eulogium" on Major-General Nathaniel Greene, who died in 1786.

The early newspapers abound in interesting incidents on parades, dinners, church services and other ways of celebrating the Fourth during the years prior to 1800. They reveal very strongly the habits of the people on their joyous occasions, and although we, in this rapidly progressive age, may be forced to smile occasionally both at the description and at the incidents themselves, there was, on the other hand, no lack of the deepest patriotism. The love for their young country rang out clear and true in every oration and after-dinner tost. A toast given by the merchants of New York City in 1795 at the Tontine Coffee House may be cited as a sample of many which the day always called forth:

"The auspicious day that rescued our country from the hated yoke of foreign tyranny and gave us honorable rank among the nations of the earth. May its glorious events never be effaced from our memories; may the blessings it has conferred be as lasting as the globe we inhabit, and may each revolving year find us more united, more happy and more free."

The celebration of the glorious Fourth in Boston 103 years ago is thus described in a local paper:

"The morning sun advanced to the music of the artillery of this town, of Fort Independence, and of all the neighboring towns. The bells immediately took up the signal of march; care, dullness and business had furloughs for the day, and all classes and all ages shook slumber from their eyes, arrayed themselves in their best attire, and repaired to the festive scenes of Independence. Heaven was pleased to bestow a day as temperate and invigorating as the Government, and laws which a wise people must feel they enjoy."

In New York there were parades and church services during the day and theatrical performances at night. The militia, with members from the Tammany and Mechanics' Societies, formed in line of march at the Battery and paraded through Beaver, Broad, Wall, Pearl and Beekman streets to Broadway, and then to St. Paul's Church, where a service of oratory commemorative of the day was held. In the two popular gardens, Mt. Vernon and Vauxhall, there were firework displays in the evening, combined with exhibits of military scenes. The usual dinners were eaten with toasts equal to the number of States in the Union which brought the twenty-fifth anniversary of American independence to a close.—New York Times.

A RELIC OF BUNKER HILL.

Drum Captured in the Famous Revolutionary Battle.

One of the most interesting of Revolutionary relics is an English snare drum, now the property of Richard A. Pierce Post, G. A. R., of New Bedford, Mass. It is probably the only drum in existence which is associated with the Battle of Bunker Hill. Several American societies have long tried to secure possession of it, but the Post has refused to part with it.

A RELIC OF BUNKER HILL.

ONE JULY DAY

BY EDMOND W. PALMER.

THE War of 1812 had just been concluded, and the settlers on our Western frontier were still fearful lest the Indians should again become restless and attack their dwellings.

Only a short time before the Indians had attacked the frontier village of Sandersville, but the settlers, after a hard struggle, had beaten them off. The Brown family, who lived about two miles from Sandersville, and had no near neighbors, were naturally in fear of a fresh outbreak. When July came, however, and all was quiet, their fears began to subside.

The hot July sun beat down unmercifully on the heads of Mr. Brown and his two sons as they worked in the small clearing in front of their rude log cabin. Inside Mrs. Brown and her little daughter Amelia were scarcely less comfortable, and all were glad when evening at last came and they walked to the woods to enjoy the cool air beneath the trees.

Amelia, of course, went with them, and while the others sat beneath the trees she wandered off through the wood, until, at last, when it was quite dark, she arrived at the edge of the wood, and was but a mile from Sandersville. She was a small girl but seven years old, and had heard, of course, the many tales of how the Indians burned villages and massacred the people. All these tales had been traveling through her mind as she walked through the woods. Now, on looking toward Sandersville, she saw a red glare in the sky. She thought little of this, however, until, on the clear night air, she heard the crack of a pistol.

"The Indians!" she thought. "The Indians have attacked Sandersville." For a moment she stood still, unable to move; then she turned and sped through the woods in the direction of home. She stumbled and tripped continually in her haste. Never had the distance seemed so long before. At last, however, she reached the place where her father and mother sat.

"Oh, father," she panted, "the Indians have attacked Sandersville! I heard shots and saw the fire."

While she was thus speaking an alarmed expression crept over her father's face, which, however, changed to a smile as she finished.

"Tut, tut, child!" he exclaimed; "'tis the Fourth of July. They are celebrating the day in Sandersville."—St. Nicholas.

The Fourth.

The windows burst with candles, rockets.
And bombs and crackers, small and great;
While many an urchin's bulging pockets
Proclaim his zeal to celebrate.
Oh, golden age! Thy name saluting,
I fain would turn again, in truth,
The well-thumbed pages constituting
The dusty almanac of youth.

Behold here feats of early rising,
An hour before the laggard sun,
A wrathful neighborhood advising
Its day of torment had begun;
The salvos rapid, each a rouser,
Till high and low had left their beds;
The flight dismayed of Puss and Towser
To hide their stunned, affrighted heads.

The cook's shrill protest at volley Delivered through her careless door;
My swift repentance o'er the folly
Of smudging so her kitchen floor;
The mild torpedoes of my sister,
Provoking lofty jeer and scoff;
My braggart strutting—and the blister
I promptly got in "showing off."

My clothing sundry times ignited;
The glowing sink on which I sat;
The package prematurely lighted—
The war dance which ensued thereat!
A sudden brilliant, boyish notion—
A pigeon chase! The barn afire,
The garden hose, and wild commotion—
And then my father's stinging ire.
The sulph'rous shades of eve descending,
A final baptism of sparks
From pin-wheel and from candle ending
This gorgeous carnival of larks.
With lard and vaseline anointed
Between the sheets I lie at last—
To waken stiff, and disappointed
That now another Fourth is past.
—Edwin L. Sabin, in Lippincott's.

CAPTAIN NATHAN HALE

Stars lighten round your lifted head,
Suns linger here to kiss your name,
My young immortal of the dead!—
A spy! whose very shame is fame.

And thus it was you dared your fate—
Proud of your pinioned arms, and fit
To die upon the tree! you wait,
And leave a glory over it.

Yea, more enduring, in your place,
Than bronze, here, changed to bronze, you stand.
Oh, beautiful! in tragic grace,
To give your life for this, your land.

You!—who had but one life to give Your country (such your last regret)—
You gave ten thousand lives that live
In giving one, to love her yet.

Hark! at her bugle's call they start!
They fall and from their ashes rise,
With armed hand and beating heart!
They light the world with morning eyes.

You live again in each. You stood
On Lookout Mountain with your peers,
You sowed old Shiloh with your blood—
The warmer for its hundred years.

See! Washington, alone with all
His captains round, in bitterest need,
Sits in still council, loth to call
The one man for the perilous deed.

The one man who must dare—nor doubt—
His way to yonder camp to make,
And wring the British secret out
Before the sleeping lion wake.

Then come the men of Congress' own—
What man of these is doomed to go?
To cross the lonely sound alone,
While wind and water mutter low?

He knows his guerdon may be death.
What wonder if his cheek were pale?
Who is he? Each one holds his breath,
Then—"I will go," says Captain Hale.

Oh, dark the sky and deep the sea,
And one who loves him, with her prayer Keeps God awake all night!—Will he Think of his mother's long despair?

Ah, Captain Hale, your time is brief.
How shadow-still! He walks on air!
What if the whisper of a leaf
Should warn that sentinel! "Who goes there?"

He knows all that his chief would know;
He moves with phantom silence back
To tell his tale. He starts, and, lo!
The enemy is on his track!

Somewhere a Tory bloodhound bayed—
The hunt is up! An alien king
Can take, dishonored and betrayed,
The young man in his flower of spring.

The young man? Let us reverence less
The hero with his head of snows
Than him who does not fear to press
The grave-dust with a cheek of rose.
—Sarah Piatt, in the Youth's Companion.

"Now, Mabel, you mustn't scream like you did when I fired the last one. You made so much noise I couldn't hear the firecracker."—New York Journal.

THE NATION'S BIRTHDAY

SIGNING OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.
—From the famous historical painting by Dumaresq.

A SCHOOL FOR THIE

BOYS AND GIRLS TAUG STEAL BY MODERN FA

London Criminal Classes Hesitate to Instruct The In What They Fear to Themselves—Train ng Bo

Daring crimes are by children in London, a Yard is aware Youthful offenders in the act of offenses, or if they Policeman is more clined to look with mischief that in would mean immedi ing the ears of the letting him go.

The recent remarka housebreaking cases field district, in which an errand boy was years' penal servitude 14-year-old son to com shows conclusively that classes do not hesit dren to do what they themselves.

The Scotland Yard that many criminals, to commit various crimes wi to all intents and purpos and become respectable the community. They open and then in a very quiet classes of pupils eager learning the secrets

The first thing the master to examine the would-be hands. The "thief's mark" up strongly upon both, or girl is not worth the risk ing. Even if the child has fingered parents, and the mark" is absent from its trainer will have nothing to the case. He does not be child inheriting its parents pensities.

Girls are mostly taught po ing and how to steal trifles show cases. Members of bo are well drilled in the art of ingly telling lies. They daily "hold-ups" by imaginary The trainer, of course, acts role, and instructs the young to invent plausible excuses ond's notice.

The girls are the sharpes game, and very seldom get A trainer will never have more to do with a child that entered a reformatory. Th man there has generally work youthful conscience, and ev fits of repentance must be c to occur at inopportune mom

Boy burglars are trained simple manner. It is argued people living in villas pay deal of attention to the bolts on their ground floors, but if any to those on the first.

Accordingly the juvenile is provided in the early da training with a 10-foot sil tied in knots a foot apart. at the end is a strong but hook. The boy is required with this rope, throwing it the same way as a lasso wo to a window sill six or more him, so that the hook lo stone.

When the lassoing is a the trainer's satisfaction, next required to shin up th out dislodging the hook fro This requires a great deal and many are the falls en the height is seldom mor feet, and prior to this sta has been taught how to slight bruises result.

The children in their fir tions are always taken and house that is to be entered time, and instructed as methods of entry to the

Then late at night the takes the little lad to the from a convenient spot wa pupil disappear according tions. The presence of an a boy of tender years la disarms any suspicion an man might have if the boy walking through a street

Once at the back of the boy, quite at his leisure, ma spection of every window ground floor. If one op he enters by it, if not he s tier, and in nine cases out covers that the bathroom partly open. That is suffic a side pocket he draws silken rope, and a couple later is standing inside the

The juvenile burglar is to make his entry by a wherever possible becaus always a risk in villadom every room being occupied room, and a window open sleeper in the room would ways insure an alarm being

Not long ago a romance happened at a villa on Be When the people awakened morning the house was in der; every window was fastened, every door was every one's pocket had every article of jewelry ha en away during the night and her boxes were search en she was minus her mon paid the day before.

The police were communi On examination tiny finger found on the bathroom w traces of a hook were pla on the window sill. A burglar had paid the villa was never caught, for he the way he had come, taki only valuables that could unobserved in his pocket News.

OOSEVELT AND

the Ticket as No Republican Natio tion at Chicago

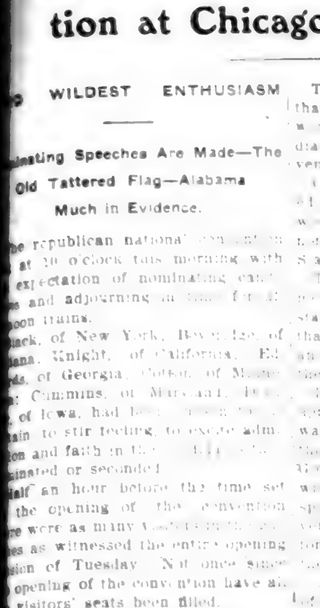
WILDEST ENTHUSIASM

Blasting Speeches Are Made—The Old Tattered Flag—Alabama Much in Evidence.

The republican national convention was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning with a full expectation of nominating candidates and adjourning in time for the noon trains.

Chairman Cannon, of New York, Boyd, of Nebraska, Knight, of California, Ellis, of Georgia, Foster, of Missouri, Cummins, of Maryland, Dolliver, of Iowa, had been named as vice presidents to stir feeling, to excite admiration and faith in the party, but they were nominated or seconded.

Half an hour before the time set for the opening of the convention speakers were as many visitors as witnessed the entire opening session of Tuesday. Not once since the opening of the convention have all the visitors' seats been filled.



PRESIDENT THEOD

Republican Nominee for Presid

A few moments before the assemblage there was a hurried conference by the managers which resulted in an agreement that Alabama, the first state on the roll, would yield to New York to nominate Roosevelt.

It was also agreed that Alabama, which was the first state to instruct for Fairbanks, would yield to Iowa to place the senator's name in nomination for the vice presidency.

Secretary Cortelyou arrived at 10 o'clock and was escorted to a seat on the platform. He received a very cordial greeting, the members of the national committee crowding around to shake his hand.

Cheers greeted the arrival of Chairman Cannon upon the stage and the band struck up the national hymn. This was the signal for the convention to rise, and the New York delegation was conspicuous, each of its members waving an American flag.

Senator Fairbanks did not attend the session of the convention.

It was exactly at 10 o'clock when Chairman Cannon called the convention to order. "The convention will be opened with prayer," he announced.

The Rev. Thaddeus A. Snively, rector of St. Chrysostom's church, was presented. At the conclusion of the prayer Chairman Cannon presented the following announcements through the reading clerk:

"On the sixth day of July at Jackson, Mich., there will be celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of the republican party." (Applause.) The time and place where it received its name. Secretary Hay will deliver the principal address. Senator Fairbanks and others will address the meeting.

After the Cup.

Gossip among yachtsmen is to the effect that two challenges may be expected in the near future from England and that there will be a race for the America's cup next year. If the New York Yacht Club will accept the challenge. Two British yachtsmen are ready to build boats, and they are now at work on plans to capture the trophy.

In Montgomery the Alabama State Epworth League is in session.

NATHAN HALE

A SCHOOL FOR THIEV

BOYS AND GIRLS TAUGH STEAL BY MODERN FAG

London Criminal Classes D Hesitate to Instruct Their C in What They Fear to P Themselves—Training Boy B

Daring crimes are often com by children in London, and only Yard is aware of the fact.

Youthful offenders are rarely in the act of committing even offenses, or if they are a police man is more often than not ordered to look with lenient eye it is assumed that in an older would mean immediate arrest, ing the case of the tiny culp letting him go.

The recent remarkable ... house breaking cases in the field district, in which the ... an errand boy was sentenced years' penal servitude for teach 14-year-old son to commit bur shows conclusively that the c classes do not hesitate to tea dren to do what they fear to themselves.

The Scotland Yard authoritie that many criminals, too old commit various crimes with im to all intents and purposes and become respectable mem the community. They open smal and then in a very quiet w classes of pupils eager to learning the secrets of the "cr

The first thing the 'master' to examine the would-be probat hands. The "thief's mark" mus up strongly upon both, or the girl is not worth the risk of ing. Even if the child has clever fingered parents, and the mark" is absent from its han trainer will have nothing to do the case. He does not believe child inheriting its parents' cr pensities.

Girls are mostly taught pocke ing and how to steal trifles fro show cases. Members of both are well drilled in the art of m fingly telling lies. They daily re "hold-ups" by imaginary poli The trainer, of course, acts the role, and instructs the young l to invent plausible excuses a com's notice.

The girls are the sharpest game, and very seldom get A trainer will never have a more to do with a child that h entered a reformatory. The man there has generally worked youthful conscience, and eve fits of repentance must be co to occur at inopportune momen

Boy burglars are trained in simple manner. It is argued th people living in villas pay deal of attention to the bolts a on their ground floors, but ve it any to those on the first.

Accordingly the juvenile Bi is provided in the early days training with a 10-foot silk tied in knots a foot apart. F at the end is a strong but lig hook. The boy is required to with this rope, throwing it the same way as a lasso woul to a window sill six or more fe him, so that the hook holds stone.

When the lassoing is acq the trainer's satisfaction, the next required to shin up the r out dislodging the hook from This requires a great deal of and many are the falls endu the height is seldom more feet, and prior to this stage has been taught how to f slight bruises result.

The children in their first tions are always taken and a house that is to be entered in time, and instructed as to methods of entry to the ba

Then late at night the i takes the little lad to the "c from a convenient spot wat pupil disappear according to tions. The presence of an a a boy of tender years late disarms any suspicion an alar man might have if the boy walking through a street al

Once at the back of the h boy, quite at his leisure, mak spection of every window ground floor. If one opens he enters by it, if not he carr tier, and in nine cases out of covers that the bathroom w partly open. That is sufficie a side pocket he draws the silken rope, and a couple of later is standing inside the h

The juvenile burglar is ... to make his entry by a ... wherever possible because always a risk in villadom ... every room being occupied ... room, and a window opening sleeper in the room would ways insure an alarm being

Not long ago a remarka happened at a villa on Brig When the people awakened morning the house was in p der: every window was o fastened, every door was b every one's pocket had b every article of jewelry had en away during the night. and her boxes were searched on she was minus her month paid the day before.

The police were communic On examination tiny finger found on the bathroom w traces of a book were plain on the window sill. A c burglar had paid the villa a was never caught, for he d the way he had come, taking only valuables that could unobserved in his pocket n mustn't scream fired the last one. noise I couldn't"—New York Jour-

OSEVELT AND FAIRBANKS

the Ticket as Nominated by the Republican National Convention at Chicago Thursday.

WILDEST ENTHUSIASM

sting Speeches Are Made—The Old Tattered Flag—Alabama Much in Evidence.

e republican national convention at 10 o'clock this morning with expectation of nominating candi- and adjourning in time for af- oon trains.

ck, of New York; Beveridge, of na; Knight, of California; Ed- s, of Georgia; Cotton, of Minne- Cummins, of Maryland; Dolli- of Iowa, had been chosen to en- m to stir feeling, to excite admi- n and faith in the candidates they nated or seconded.

alf an hour before the time set the opening of the convention e were as many visitors in the gal- as witnessed the entire opening on of Tuesday. Not once since opening of the convention have all visitors' seats been filled.

Then following an announcement that the recently elected committee would meet in the Coliseum immediately on the adjournment of the convention.

Chairman Cannon at once announced that the next order of business would be a roll call of states for the nomination of president of the United States.

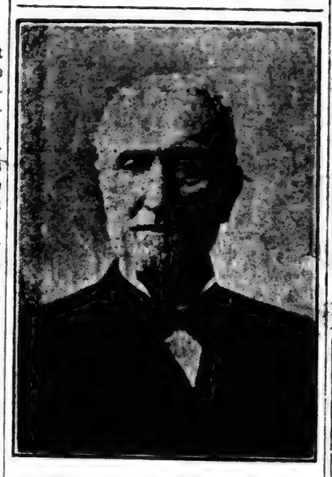
The clerk called "Alabama," and immediately Oscar R. Hundley, of that state, mounted a chair and announced that Alabama requested the honor and privilege of yielding its place on the roll to the state of New York.

Instantly the convention was in an uproar. The New York delegation was on its feet like one man waving their flags and shouting wildly. Ex-Governor Frank Black, of New York, who was to deliver the nominating speech in behalf of President Roosevelt, immediately started for the platform amid the wildest enthusiasm on the part of the delegates.

As Governor Black reached the desk of Chairman Cannon he was warmly greeted by that gentleman and escorted to the front of the platform. Here Chairman Cannon introduced him to the convention. There was a succession of shouts from the convention and a chorus of shrieks from the New York delegation, a paroxysm of tossing flags, then silence and Mr. Black commenced his speech in behalf of President Roosevelt.

Governor Black pronounced the nominating words at just 11:06. As he did so he retired quickly from the platform. But the words "Theodore Roosevelt" had not left his lips when there was a shout. The convention was on its feet.

Chairman Cannon unfurled a tattered silk flag and advanced to the extreme edge of the platform and began to wave it. The flag is the property of the Lincoln-McKinley association of Missouri and it made its first appearance at a republican convention in 1860 when Lincoln was nominated. It was then carried by the Missouri delegation and was waved over the platform on that occasion as on this.



SPEAKER JOSEPH G. CANNON.
Permanent Chairman of the Republican National Convention.

The front of the platform was next occupied by an immense crayon bust portrait of President Roosevelt.

The Indiana delegation sprung open umbrellas of red, white and blue bearing the portraits of Roosevelt and Fairbanks, the Alaskan eagles were held aloft and thousands of flags waved.

The New York delegation, occupying a place immediately in front, started out on a marching tour of the hall.

The applause continued for twenty-five minutes.

When Chairman Cannon had secured order the secretary read a history of the flag which Mr. Cannon had been waving. Grasping the flag and waving it over his head Mr. Cannon said: "It prophesied victory in 1860; its life has been baptized on many a battlefield since, and it is safe in the hands of President Roosevelt."

Cheers followed and were increased when Mr. Cannon recognized Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, whom he introduced.

Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, seconded the nomination of Roosevelt and was followed by George A. Knight, of California; Harry Stillwell Edwards, Georgia; ex-Gov. W. O. Bradley, of Kentucky, Joseph B. Cotton, of Minnesota, and Harry S. Cummings, a colored delegate from Maryland. Mr. Cannon introduced him as an "American citizen, whose people were brought from slavery forty years ago and who have made more progress in one generation than any race ever made."

Chairman Cannon then announced the roll call for nomination for president.

The clerk began calling the roll by states. When Alabama responded with her entire vote for Roosevelt there was a cheer.

Chairman Cannon announced at the conclusion of the roll call that Theodore Roosevelt had received the entire vote of the convention, 994, and it only remained for him to announce his nomination for the presidency by the republican party.

Mr. Cannon then announced: "The clerk will call the roll for the presentation of candidates for vice president."

"Alabama," called the clerk.

Mr. Hundley, of Alabama, as before on the presidential roll call, announced that his state desired to waive its right in favor of the state of Iowa.

This meant Senator Dolliver, who was to deliver the first nominating speech in favor of Senator Fairbanks, of Indiana.

The first mention of Senator Fairbanks' name was the signal for cheers which were renewed when he formally presented the name of the Indiana senator.

When the applause subsided Mr. Cannon recognized Senator Depew, whose appearance on the platform with Chairman Cannon grasping his hand, was the inspiration for an outburst of applause.

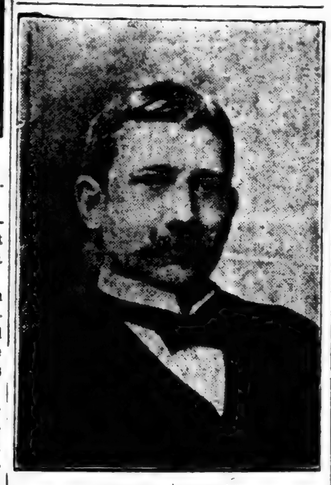
"I introduce, although it is not necessary," began Mr. Cannon, "not Senator, but Chauncey Depew, of New York."

His speech was in seconding the nomination of Senator Fairbanks.

Seconding speeches were made by Senator Foraker, of Ohio; Governor Pennypacker, of Pennsylvania, and Senator Carter, of Montana.

The names of Representatives Hitt, George W. Webster and ex-Mayor Walbridge were withdrawn and Speaker Cannon declared Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, the candidate of the republican party for vice president of the United States.

The convention adjourned sine die at 2:25 p. m.



ELIHU ROOT.
Temporary Chairman.

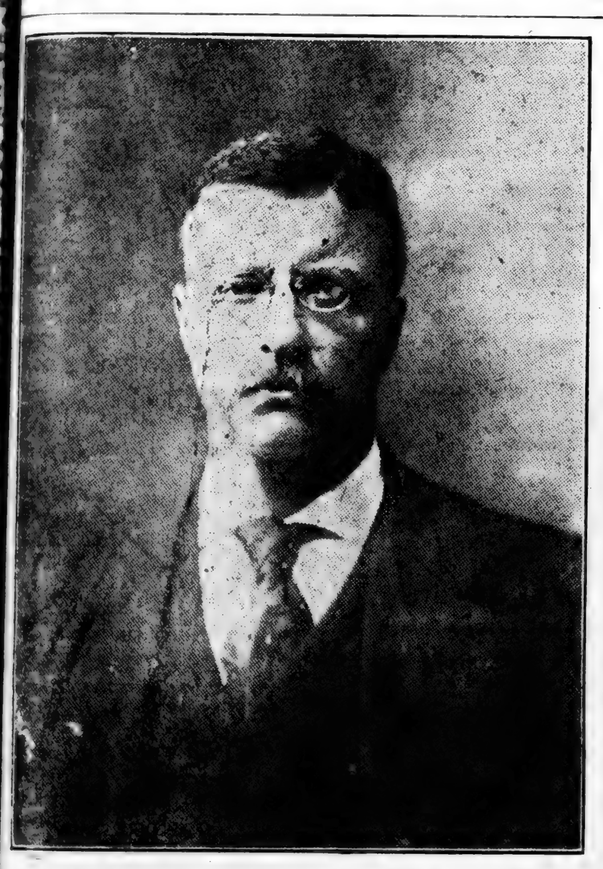
A resolution was passed naming Joseph G. Cannon chairman of the committee to notify Theodore Roosevelt of his nomination on July 27th and Elihu Root chairman of the committee to notify Senator Fairbanks of his nomination for vice president on August 23d.

Senator Beveridge cast the vote of Indiana for Fairbanks for vice president, with the exception of Fairbanks' own vote.

Senators Depew, Collum and Spooner had their gold badges, worth about $25, taken from their coats while in the crowds at the hotels, and four robberies of other delegates or visitors have been reported.

William J. Vickory, now in charge of the Chicago division of postoffice inspectors, was appointed chief postoffice inspector to succeed William E. Cochran recently appointed to the newly created office of general purchasing agent of the postal service.

That the ill-fated steamer General Slocum had no life preservers aboard less than nine years old, was admitted by counsel of the Knickerbocker Steamship company at the inquest.



PRESIDENT THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
Republican Nominee for President of the United States.

A few moments before the assemble there was a hurried conference of the managers which resulted in an agreement that Alabama, the first state on the roll, would yield to New York to nominate Roosevelt.

It was also agreed that Alabama, which was the first state to instruct for Fairbanks, would yield to Iowa to place the senator's name in nomination for the vice presidency.

Secretary Cortelyou arrived at 10 o'clock and was escorted to a seat on the platform. He received a very cordial greeting, the members of the national committee crowding around to shake his hand.

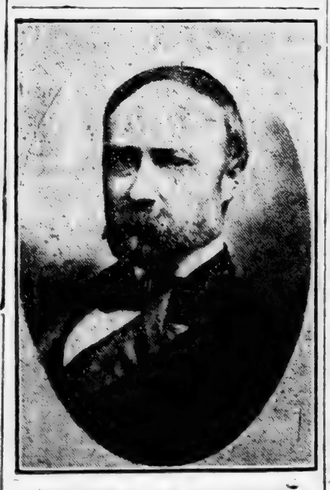
Cheers greeted the arrival of Chairman Cannon upon the stage and the band struck up the national hymn. This was the signal for the convention to rise, and the New York delegation was conspicuous, each of its members waving an American flag.

Senator Fairbanks did not attend the session of the convention.

It was exactly at 10:30 when Chairman Cannon called the convention to order. "The convention will be opened with prayer," he announced.

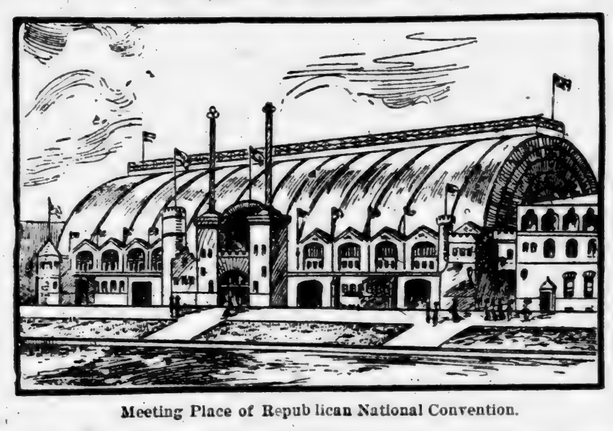
The Rev. Thaddeus A. Snively, rector of St. Chrysostom's church, was presented. At the conclusion of the prayer Chairman Cannon presented the following announcements through the reading clerk.

"On the sixth day of July at Jackson, Mich., there will be celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of the republican party. (Applause.) The time and place where it received its name. Secretary Hay will deliver the principal address. Senator Fairbanks and others will address the meeting."



SENATOR C. W. FAIRBANKS.
Nominated by the Republicans for the Vice Presidency.

CHICAGO COLISEUM.



Meeting Place of Republican National Convention.

ENORMOUS WEALTH OF ANCIENT JEWS

Riches Under the Old Dispensation Far Greater Than Any Accumulated Now.

[From the Menorah.]

BEFORE the Christian era, if we believe the Argadic history of the Talmud, there were richer men than now.

Joseph accumulated numberless bushels of corn "as the sand of the sea," and virtually cornered the production of the world until the people confessed that all their money was gone and were forced to transfer their property to Joseph, acting for Pharoah. Tradition says that this immense liquidation was by order of Joseph, hidden underground in three distant parts of the world. One treasure was unearthed by Korah. To form an idea of his fortune, we are informed that it required no less than 300 "white" mules to carry the keys of his storehouses, and those keys were not made of heavy metal, but of light leather strips (Pesahim, page 119a). Averaging five "leathern" keys to the pound, and the carrying capacity of each mule to 200 pounds, there would be a total of 300,000 keys. Figure so many storehouses, each valued at at least $10,000, and they equal $3,000,000,000, or thrice the amount credited to Rockefeller. No wonder that Korah, being so rich, thought he had a "pull" to influence the people against Moses and Aaron.

King Solomon had 40,000 stable horses and 4000 stables for 1400 chariots, with 12,000 horsemen. Every horse was worth 150 shekels, and every chariot 600 shekels (I. Kings, v., 6; x., 29; II. Chronicles i. 4). The following items might have made up his stable inventory:

40,000 horses, at 150 shekels	6,000,000
1,400 chariots, at 600 shekels	840,000
4,000 stalls, at about 1000 shekels	4,000,000
12,000 horsemen, at 30 shekels	360,000
Total shekels	11,200,000

A shekel is worth about fifty cents American money, giving a total of $5,600,000. But when we consider the high purchasing value of a shekel at that time, from the standard value of a slave at 30 shekels, or $15, in comparison to the value of the slaves in the South before the Civil War, which averaged $1000, at this rate the price of the stable, multiplied by about sixty-six, would bring the total to $369,600,000 at the present low purchasing value of money. Without counting the cost of saddles, harness, livery outfits and food for the horses and men.

Voltaire calculates that the gift of Queen Sheba to Solomon was worth 4,200,000 German thalers, and sarcastically remarks that as Solomon was a gallant king, he must have reciprocated in double kind, which Voltaire considers highly exaggerated a sum for the Jewish kinglet. And yet this is a mere bagatelle with the cost of his luxurious stable equipment.

The estimate of the amount expended in erecting Solomon's Temple, at approximately present day value of metal and labor, is as follows:

8,000 talents of gold, at $24,000	$192,000,000
17,000 talents of silver, at $660	11,220,000
18,000 talents of brass, at $12.50	225,000
100,000 talents of iron, at $5	500,000
150,000 laborers, 7 years, at $250 per year	37,500,000
36,600 overseers, 7 years, at $5000 per year	1,800,000
10,000 drams, at $5	50,000
To Hiram, King of Tyre: 14,000 kor of wheat, 4,480,000 bushels, 90 cents	4,032,000
14,000 kor of barley, 4,480,000 bushels, at 35 cents	1,568,000
14,000 bath wine, 980,000 gallons, at 50 cents	490,000
14,000 bath oil, 980,000 gallons, at 50 cents	490,000
Total	$249,875,000

Besides, probably an equal amount for precious stones, marble and other building materials, making a grand total of about $500,000,000. The above figures are based on the account given in I. Kings, v., and I. Chronicles, xxiv., of David's preparations for the Temple, together with the donations by the leaders of Israel.

Herod's temple was even superior in beauty and more costly. "It was built of intersecting bevelled-edge alabaster and marble, that resembled the waves of the sea."

But even Herod was out-Heroded by the magnificent labyrinth in the dual metropolis of Alexandria, Egypt, controlled by the Hellenistic Jewish population which R. Judah estimates as twice 600,000, the number of Jews in the Egyptian exodus. The labyrinth contained seventy-one cathedrals for the seventy-one Sanhedrin of the Great Assembly. Every cathedral cost no less than 210,00 talents of gold. This item alone, seventy-one times 210,000 times $24,000, foots up $357,840,000,000.

When Jerusalem was besieged before the second destruction, there were three rich Jews named, respectively, Nikodemon Ben Glorien, Ben Kalba-Sabua and Ben Tzitzithka-kesath. They resolved, rather than to surrender to the enemy, to feed all the twenty-one years if necessary. One of inhabitants of Jerusalem during them stipulated to furnish wheat and barley, another to furnish wine and oil, and another firewood. Assuming that the population was 1,000,000 (by actual census at the Passover festival in the year 66, or three years before the destruction), and allowing but $100 a year for the maintenance of a person, the sum would be $2,100,000,000.

It is interesting to note that the daughter of Nikodemon was allowed by the Jewish court of Beth-din, a daily sum of 400 gold denarim for her cosmetics (a Roman copper denarim was worth about seventeen cents, and there were twenty-five copper pieces in one gold denarim, $425), and multiplied by 365 days equals $62,050,000, without taking into account various sums for her headgear, dressmakers' bills, ornaments and pin money, which in ordinary cases exceeds 100 times, at least, the value of cosmetics. That would swell the total to $124,100,000,000, outside of other household expenses. And yet Miss Nikodemon appears to have been dissatisfied with the "small" appropriation for her cosmetics, as she sneeringly "thanked" the rabbi Judges for their "liberality," and wished their own daughters to fare no better. The rabbis, however, accepted the "curse" with grace and answered "Amen."

R. Johanan Ben Zakkai witnessed the Kethuba (marriage jointure) of Miss Nikodemon, wherein was recorded her dowry of 1,000,000 gold denarim, $425,000,000, besides the dowry of her father-in-law. Nikodemon himself is reported to have stepped on silks all the way from his house to the Beth Hamidrash, daily, and every time the silks were allowed to be picked up by the poor.

Among other rich celebrities are R. Elleber ben Azariah, who contributed an annual tithe of 12,000 sheep, on an income of 120,000 sheep, or at $10 apiece, $1,200,000 per annum, and R. Judah b'Nasi I., whose stablemaster was richer than King Shabur.

As a rule the Agadic stories are intended only as moral lessons. Nevertheless, like a good historical novel, they have some basis in the underground. And no doubt there existed immense riches in those times, more than the average modern historian cares to admit.

Radium and Blindness.

Radium rays will not at present furnish a cure for blindness, reports Professor Greeff, of Berlin, in a published account of an official investigation of the optical properties of radium. This research was largely undertaken as the result of a paper by Professor London, of St. Petersburg, in which he claimed that there was hope for the blind in radium. According to Professor Greeff the rays given off by a fluorescent surface excited by radium rays are simply those of ordinary light, and as such cannot affect a blind eye. The actual radium rays, however, are sent out in all directions, penetrating all structures, and the effect, a sort of sea-green radiance, is the same whether the radium is held in front of the eye or at the side of the head. It has been asserted that fluorescence actually occurs in the eye and that rays of ordinary light are accordingly emitted, but this view is opposed by Professor Greeff, and the fact is cited that the radium rays do not bleach the visual purple of the retina. He also states that when the function of the rods and cones which transmit visual concepts from the retina to the nerve centres is destroyed the eye is unable to provide for the sensation of sight.—Harper's Weekly.

Recognized His Genius.

A writer whose stories of Southern life have made him famous, while on his way across the country a few years ago, stopped for a day or two in one of the large cities. The reporters for the daily papers heard of his presence in town, and began flocking to the hotel. He sent word to them that he had no desire to be interviewed, but he would see them all together in his room, if they desired.

They came trooping in, and he entertained them an hour or more with stories and reminiscences, told in his best style.

They listened with great interest, and when he had come to the end of them one of the reporters, a young man who had just begun his newspaper career, said with the utmost earnestness:

"Mr. C., why don't you write up some of those things and have them printed? They'd go like hot cakes!"

Senator Quay's Indian Ancestry.

Senator Quay is preparing some interesting souvenirs and heirlooms for his friends and family. They are sketches of his connection with the Delaware Indian tribe, through far distant ancestry, and photographs of himself in the costume of a Delaware chieftain. Senator Quay has a strain of Indian blood in him. Long before the Revolutionary War an ancestor was stolen by the Indians, raised by a tribe of the Delawares and afterward married an Indian woman of that tribe, noted for her great virtues and heroic qualities. From that far removed ancestor Senator Quay inherits five per cent. of Indian blood. In other words, he is one-twentieth Indian.—Philadelphia Press.

An Extraordinary Memory.

At the Giessen Congress on Psychology Professor Mueller, of Goettingin, told of a certain Dr. K., who, within a few seconds, was able to work out the square of any number of five figures given to him. He was also able to learn by heart and repeat a row of figures 204 in number within twelve and a half minutes. Professor Mueller asserted that no such memory for figures had ever been known, the record having been 204 figures in seventy-five minutes.

Yellow Jack Disappears.

There has been no yellow fever in the United States for three years, excepting the development on the Mexican border of Texas. Some cases of yellow fever have come into Cuba from Mexico in the last three years, but in no instance was the disease communicative to others.

After the Cup.

Gossip among yachtsmen is to the effect that two challenges may be expected in the near future from England and that there will be a race for the America's cup next year. If the New York Yacht Club will accept the challenge. Two British yachtsmen are ready to build boats, and they are now at work on plans to capture the trophy.

In Montgomery the Alabama State Epworth League is in session.

ALABAMA LEAGUERS

Will Provide Funds for a Church in Cuba.

The feature of the second day's conference of the Alabama Epworth League in Montgomery was the talk of Bishop W. A. Candler and the subscription of $1,015 for the building of a church at Coralfoso, Cuba. This church is to be built by the Alabama leaguers.

It is understood that Paul Morton, of Nebraska and Chicago, vice president of the Santa Fe system, is shy about accepting the offer of the naval portfolio, and that the president will now try to induce him to take that of the department of commerce and labor. Representative Victor F. Metcalf, of California, who is slated for the latter position, would just as lief be secretary of the navy.

It is said that George J Gould is about to enter politics, and that he will try at the forthcoming election for a seat in the house of representatives from the district in New Jersey which embraces Lakewood, where he has his country seat. Mr. Gould is a stanch republican. His private fortune is now estimated to be not less than seventy millions of dollars.

A noted New York autograph dealer says that Mr. Roosevelt's autographs are in constant demand in Europe. Of all the presidential autographs, except George Washington's alone, his brings the highest price in the foreign market.

The death list of the General Slocum has reached a total of 907.

Major General Keesler, of Mississippi, will receive an order from Governor Vardaman for the summer encampment of the Mississippi national guard, to be held at Biloxi, beginning on August 15th.

The resignations of Lieutenant Colonel A. L. Chapman, of the Third regiment, Mississippi infantry, and John N. Settle, second lieutenant of company B, Second regiment, have been received.

THE UNION.

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf

SPECIAL OFFER.

The Yellow Jacket, published biweekly at Moravian Falls, N. C., is an extremely bright, readable paper. We will send the UNION and YELLOW JACKET for one year for $1 in advance. This is a combination that ought to get every good man in Chilton county on our list, and is only open for a short time. tf

At the meeting of the populist exeutive committee of Chilton county on March 15, 1904, the following resolution was adopted by the committee:

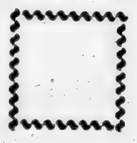
"Be it resolved, That we, the people's party executive committee of Chilton county, do hereby indorse the UNION, a paper published in Clanton, Ala., as our official organ. tf

OUR CLUBBING LIST.

The Union and Yellow Jacket, both for one year $1.00
The Union and Weekly Montgomery Advertiser 1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution 1.50
tf

Several hundred subscribers will get this paper with a big red cross on it. It means that you owe us a dollar and we owe it to some other fellows. Some small fellow will make a big kick about this red cross and will stop his paper, and some clever fellows will come in and pay up like a white man always does, and tell us they had just forgotten all about it.
tf

DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?



IMPORTANT

THE PEOPLE'S PRIMARY WILL BE HELD ON TUESDAY, JULY 26th, 1904.

EDITORIAL.

W. A. GREEN.

This gentleman, who announces in this issue of THE UNION for re-election as county commissioner from the Third District, is well known to our people, having served them four years in this honorable and important office. The election of good commissioners is of vital importance to the welfare of our county, as much, if not more so, than any other office in the county. The commissioners hold the purse, and if they LOOSEN or PULL the strings with good judgment the county will prosper, and not otherwise.

THE SCHOOL DISTRICTS.

We are grateful for the numerous thanks we have received for our publication of the new school districts and law. It is satisfying to have our efforts for the general good of our people so well appreciated. Now don't forget to gather yourselves together the first Saturday in July at your different school houses and then and there elect your trustees. Take THE UNION with you; it has the law in it for your guidance. Elect good men who will look after the best interests of the children—those who are to take our places.

JEMISON MASONS.

Jemison lodge, No. 411, A. F. and A. M., had a public installation of officers on Friday, June 24th, with a basket dinner attachment. About a thousand people were on the grounds and everybody had a royal good time. The Odd Fellows installed their officers after the Masons were through. Addresses were made by Rev. J. H. Thomas, Hon. L. H. Reynolds and others. Everybody enjoyed the occasion, though it rained heavily in the afternoon, but none grumbled, not even the ladies when their white dresses were mussed, for all knew how badly the rain was needed in the country. We would have liked to give our readers the names of the new officers, but Secretary Langston has not fulfilled his promise of sending them in. Hon. L. H. Reynolds was installed W. M., having been re-elected. Past Master J. P. Vanderveer, of Clanton, officiated as installing officer and performed his part in a highly satisfactory manner. There were a number of Masons from Clanton and other lodges. The ball game between Clanton and Jemison clubs was called off on account of the storm. Altogether it was a great day for Jemison, and "she done herself proud."

Thorsby, Ala., June 27, 1904.

Editor Union—There is an old adage which says: "Beware of friends, pretended friends; but heed their ways and watch their ends, for they come with smooth dissimulation, skilled to grace, a devil's purpose with an angel's face." Now this may serve as a preface to the condition that we are just now confronted with, for, as has all along been expected, our good friends, the demies, will try every trick to introduce discord and dissension into our primary campaign by prejudicing our candidates against each other, and they are already at work on that line. They are telling some of our candidates that there is a trade ticket in the field; that certain populists and republicans, by holding side caucuses have selected certain men for the various places, and will concentrate their influence to those fellows, and thus to nominate them, knowing that among so many that several are bound to be disappointed. They hope in this way to make every defeated candidate believe that they were the victims of a foul conspiracy, so that by this means they hope to stampede our forces, demoralize the people and thereby elect their ticket, and they are already busy at this very job right now. There is a little nest of them in this community who for the want of better sense have let the cat out of the bag. One fellow who wears a derby hat (said to be Sam Adams' old hat) and who lately donned a red rooster badge, has approached one of our candidates along this line; but like the fools that they are, they have begun the job a little too soon, for, bless your life, we have been confronted by democratic tricks so long that we are getting up to snuff a little.

Now, so far, our candidates have been conducting themselves like gentlemen toward each other, unless perhaps it be the man with the doughface on, who seems to have been born out of due season; but it is said that freaks and fools are sometimes born unto the best of families. But I will just stop to tell you that the man or men who have not sense enough to put themselves before the people and risk chances on their own merits, but try to pull themselves up by pulling others down, will find that the good people will sit down on them so hard that if they should live they would never look like anything. No, gentlemen, your little trick is already known—it has been expected and looked for, and not only this particular trick, but any and all tricks that you are able to employ from now on to the November election, and even after, and I reckon you should not be blamed too severely, as this is your main stock in trade, and you have been at it so long that it seems you can't help but keep it up among yourselves.

Now just a few words concerning that little nest of ex-pop-demmies up this way: They have been trying their poke stalk, pop-guns on X-Ray for some time, and have been so badly thrashed that they have been going around gritting their teeth and popping their fists at me from behind the barn, and found they could not scare anybody, that they have at last sicked a goody goody little Sunday school boy on us, and you see, they took the bigest dunce, the biggest liar and no accountest little snotty-nosed fool to do me and Reynolds up a job. But he is like a gnat on a bull's horn. if he had not buzzed around we would never known the little puke was about, and he "mought a-stole something." So thanks to you, poor little chap.

X-RAY.

Clanton, June 27, 1904.

Editor Union:

I see a letter in last week's banner from "Sunday School Boy," of Collins' chapel. God bless the Sunday school boy. I love Sunday school boys and girls, and feel a great interest in them, so I wish to say a few words to the boy (?) that wrote the banner piece. Buddie, you stated in your letter that you counted the people at the republican rally (as you call it) and that there wasn't but half as many as at the democratic rally. Sonnie, we never had any republican rally. I presume from your letter that you are a democrat, so a word of caution, buddie, don't do like some of your party and misrepresent things, for if you recollect there was no public call for any to attend that meeting you refer to but the committee and candidates. If there had been as great an effort to get a crowd out as the dems made that court house would not have held the voters. Buddie, if that is your first letter and you can't do any better than that, let it be your last one. Study your Sunday school lesson rather than trying to create prejudice in neighbors. Buddie, if I was a betting man, I'd bet you a chew of tobacco against a 100 dollar bill that you are an ex-populist, and that you followed Judge Adams into the democratic party to get to vote for him for judge again, and now you have to leave him and follow Elijah a while. I tell you, buddie, you can follow Lige till the 8th day of November, when you will come to the "fall off," when you find him will fall so far down that neither of you can be resurrected again. Sorry for you, buddie, but I can't help it. Buddie, my father and mother taught me not to say anything about the dead without it could be something good, so I want to tell you, buddie, I've nothing to say about you democrats. Now, to the public: Gentlemen, the dems stand no more show in this campaign than a hairless, one-eyed Mexican dog would at a beauty show. Let the nominees be who they may, we will elect them by a handsome majority.

Very truly yours,
MOSES A. KILLGORE.

(Communicated.)

Clanton, Ala., June 27, 1904.

Editor Union—I have met four appointments in the last week. At two the attendance was small, but I secured the co-operation and help of all so far as I could tell. At two appointments the crowd was larger, about 60 to 65 at one of these. Every one so far is highly pleased with my putting of my claims for the place sought. Everything has gone my way so far, and we feel sure of the nomination on July 26th. I kindly ask every candidate to meet with me in all the appointments now ahead of us. Why not all go together? and we will all put our claims before the people and not trouble them by so many calls. The house to house canvass by all the numerous candidates will consume more of the people's time and evidently worry them more. Sincerely yours;

S. J. JENNINGS,
Candidate for Probate Judge.

(Communicated.)

Editor Union—I wish to say that I atended speaking at Mount Pisgah church last Saturday night by Rev. S. J. Jennings. He delivered an able speech to about sixty-five persons, speaking one hour and thirty minutes, and it was a strong speech. I want to say it will be of great interest to all the voters of this county to attend upon his appointments, and hear him on the political issues now before the people. He will more than meet your highest expectations, and you will be highly rewarded for your trip. Now let all candidates meet him.

A VOTER.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

The district conference of Prattville district M. E. church, south, convened in the Methodist church at Clanton June 23d and was in session till Sunday night. Ministers and delegates from all parts of the district were present and the business of the church was carried to a successful conclusion. Rev. H. F. Andrews was elected secretary and Revs. H. C. Threadgill and J. C. Harrison assistant secretaries. Bishop A. W. Wilson, of Baltimore, Md., preached two very effective sermons during the session.

Committees were elected as follows:

Examination of applicants for license to preach: Revs. J. W. Shores and B. E. Feagin.

Examination of applicants for admission trial into the annual conference: Revs. L. P. Lathram, H. C. Threadgill, J. B. Nelson.

Ordination: Revs. J. H. James and R. C. Williams.

Spiritual state of the church: R. C. Williams, J. N. Fox, D. N. Smith, M. T. Cox, W. F. Stuart.

Sunday schools and education generally: H. H. McNeill, H. T. Wallace, J. O. Middleton, Orman T. Headley.

Bible course: B. E. Feagin, P. D. Wilson, I. O Rutherford, W. M. Lawrence.

Missions within the district: J. H. James, R. F. Yeargin, W. F. Collins, W. W. Chavers W. C. Roper, William M. Nixon, J. A. Collie.

Finances and condition of church and parsonage property: H. C. Threadgill, B. W. Mason, W. H. Barnes, Henry Howard, W. J. L. Welch, J. D. DeRamus, Jr.

Quarterly conference journals: J. W. Shores, J. A. Wilkinson, J. Robert DeRamus, George B. Ried, W. A. Middleton, F. M. Howard.

Epworth Leagues: H. M. Andrews, L. P. Lathran, F. J. McNeel, G. Higgins, J. C. Harrison.

Woman's work: H. H. McNeill, H. C. Threadgill.

Charges were then called on for reports and the pastors reported in the following order:

Verbena: R. C. Williams, preacher in charge.

Fort Deposit: L. P. Lathram, preacher in charge.

Lowndesboro: H. C. Threadgill, preacher in charge.

Plantersville: J. B. Nelson, preacher in charge.

Randolph: J. C. Harrison, preacher in charge.

Prattville: H. H. McNeill, preacher in charge.

Wetumpka: J. H. James, preacher in charge.

Clanton: R. R. Ellison, preacher in charge.

Pine Apple report was sent up by mail, the pastor, Rev. G. K. Roberts, being unable to attend the conference. The report was read by the presiding elder.

The writen report of Camden church was read by the presiding elder, Rev. G. K. Williams, the pastor being unable on account of sickness in his family to attend the session of the conference.

Rev. J. W. Henson, pastor of Bells Landing charge, wrote his report and did not attend the conference.

Elmore: J. A. Scott, preacher in charge.

Harmony: H. E. Jones, preacher in charge.

Billingsley-Salem: Henry M. Andrews, preacher in charge.

Rev. J. T. Eckford, of Pleasant Hill is also absent from the conference owing to sickness.

The conference passed upon the character and renewed the license of the following local preachers, reviewing their work for the past year: H. E. Jones, Buyck; Robert R. Ellison, Clanton; W. F. Stuart, Randolh; C. Herbert Wright, Wetumpka; Eiza B. Paul, Autaugaville; John C. James, Wetumpka; J. J. Turnipseed, Harmony. R. R. Ellison, H. E. Jones and W. F. Stuart were recommended to the annual conference for admission on trial into the traveling connection.

Rev. J. S. Frazer, D. D., presiding elder of the Montgomery district; Rev. J. A. Rice, D. D., pastor of the Court Street church; Rev. J. D. Simpson, D. D., presiding elder of the Birmingham district; Rev. S. M. Hosmer, president of the Southern university, Greensboro, and Rev. S. P. West, of Birmingham, were introduced by Bishop Wilson to the conference.

Mrs. Julia A. Pratt, of Prattville, district secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, was introduced to the conference and read an encouraging report of the work accomplished by the society during the past year.

J. W. Mahan, B. W. Mason, R. O. Simpson and W. L. Lancaster were elected as lay delegates to the annual conference. W. A. Middleton and C. E. Thomas, alternates.

Prattville was selected as the place for holding the next session of the conference.

SPEAKING — LET EVERYBODY COME.

I wish to say to the people of Chilton county that since I am comparatively a stranger in certain sections in the county. I deem it necessary that I ask you to meet me at the following times and places:

Lime Springs church, Tuesday, June 21, 7:30 p. m.

Union Point church, Wednesday, June 22, 7:30 p. m.

Providence church, beat 10, Thursday, June 22d, 7:30 p. m.

Walnut Creek church, Friday, June 24th, 7:30 p. m.

Mount Pisgah church, Saturday, June 25th, 7:30 p. m.

Shiloh church, beat 6, Monday, June 27th, 7:30 p. m.

Highland school house, Tuesday, June 28th, 7:30 p. m.

Pleasant Grove church, beat 6, Wednesday, June 29th, 7:30 p. m.

Isabella, beat 3, Thursday, June 30th, 7:30 p. m.

Cox's Chapel, Friday, July 1st.

Macedonia church, beat 3, Saturday, July 2d, 10 a. m.

Providence church, beat 2, Saturday, July 2d, 7:30 p. m.

Coopers, Monday, July 4th, 10 a. m.

Mountain Creek, Monday, July 4th, 7:30 p. m.

Burwell, Tuesday, July 5th, 10 a. m.

Wadsworth's Mill, Tuesday, July 5th, 7:30 p. m.

Salem, beat 10, Thursday, July 7th, 10 a. m.

Cane Creek church, Thursday, July 7th, 7:30 p. m.

Flint Hill, Friday, July 8th, 10 a. m.

Mineral Springs, Saturday, July 9th, 10 a. m.

Union School house, Saturday, July 9th, 7:30 p. m.

Archer's chapel, Monday, July 11th, 10 a. m.

Rocky Mount church, Monday, July 11th, 7:30 p. m.

Shiloh church, beat 2, Tuesday, July 12th, 10 a. m.

Ocampo at church, Tuesday, July 12th, 7:30 p. m.

Jemison school house, Wednesday, July 13th, 7:30 p. m.

Thorsby school house, Wednesday, July 13th, 10 a. m.

Lomax church, Thursday, July 14th, 10 a. m.

Clanton court house, Thursday, July 14th, 7:30 p. m.

Verbena, Monday, July 18th, 10 a. m.

Energy, Monday, July 18th, 7:30 p. m.

New Cedar, Tuesday, July 10th, 10 a. m.

Pletcher, Tuesday, July 19th, 7:30 p. m.

Dixie, Wednesday, July 20th, 10 a. m.

Stanton, Wednesday, July 20th, 7:30 p. m.

Maplesville, Thursday, July 21st, 10 a. m.

Old Maplesville, Thursday, July 21st, 7:30 p. m.

Macedonia, Friday, July 22d, 10 a. m.

Honeycutt's Mill, Friday, July 22d, 7:30 p. m.

Mars Hill, Saturday, July 23d, 10 a. m.

Collins' chapel, Saturday, July 23d, 7:30 p. m.

Clanton court house, Monday, July 25th, 10 a. m.

We hereby respectfully invite all candidates for each and every office to meet with us at these times and places. We will introduce you and try to see that you have time to be heard from.

Sincerely and truly,
S. J. JENNINGS,
Candidate for Probate Judge.
tf adv

Reports from Texas say the boll weevil is playing sad havoc with cotton.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. ALEX G. DAKE.

I hereby announce mysen as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

A. C. MIMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of judge of probate of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

S. J. JENNINGS.

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

SAM W. COLLINS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904.

L. A. CALLOWAY.

FOR TREASURER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. WILEY LITTLEJOHN.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ROBERT M. SMITH.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary, July 26th, 1904. ANDREW J. WILSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action 1904. W. C. ROBINSON.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

H. A. J. HARRIS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904. ENOCH H. ADAMS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904. J. BICE.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary, July 26, 1904. DANIEL C. GANDY.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th, 1904 GEORGE W. EDWARDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary July 26, 1904. L. B. POUNDS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax assessor for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904 T. G. MILLING.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26, 1904.

S. E. WALDRUP,
(Better known as "Squire" Waldrup.)

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people's primary on July 26th, 1904. JOSEPH H. THOMAS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. M. F. LETT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN W. G. KICKER.

I hereby annouce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

BENJAMIN H. WELLS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the People's primary July 26, 1904.

W. F. DESH

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

JOHN J. LETC

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of tax collector for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. MOSES A. KI

We, the undersigned friends of J. HUBBARD, do hereby announce him as a candidate for re-election to the office of tax collector of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

J. Williams, H. W. Varden, [illegible] Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hugh Hen[illegible] L. Thomas, J. L. Smith

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of superintendent of education for Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904. J. W. MOOR

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for commissioner from the fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904.

MOSES ROBINSON

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26, 1904.

R. P. KENDRICK

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for COMMISSIONER from the Fourth district of Chilton county, subject to the action of the PEOPLE'S primary, July 26th ,1904.

WILLIAM T. MAHA

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of COMMISSIONER from the Third district of Chilton county, subject to action of the PEOPLE'S primary July 26th, 1904. W. A. GREEN

FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

The Chilton County Farmers' Alliance will meet with Poplar Springs Alliance in beat 10 on Wednesday, Thursday, July 20th and 21st, 1904, 10 a. m. The secretaries are requested to send me their reports as soon as possible after their last meeting in June or forepart of July. This will be an interesting and beneficial meeting.

ALEX G. DAKE,
tf Sec. C. C. F. A.

Coming Event

BARBECUE.

On the second Saturday in July there will be a barbecue at T. J. [illegible] ner's, near Sardis church, in beat [illegible] Everybody is invited, and especially the candidates of both parties.

ALL-DAY SINGING.

There will be an all-day singing at Liberty Hill on the second Sunday in July. The book used will be "Singing for Joy." Everybody is invited. Bring your basket and stay all day.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

The following is a list of appointments for public speaking by democratic and republican candidates for the various offices. The people have requested them to hold these meetings and all the candidates are heartily invited to attend except those who may be disposed to introduce discord by misrepresenting, slandering and abusing their opponents, as these meetings are intended for the purpose of discussing political issues with the people and allow the candidates to introduce themselves, and not to fight each other:

Burwell, July 11, 11 a. m.
Salem, July 11, 7:30 p. m.
Providence, July 12, 11 a. m.
Cane Creek, July 12, 7:30 p. m.
Corinth, July 13, 11 a. m.
Mineral Springs, July 13, 7:30 p. m.
Archer's chapel, July 14, 11 a. m.
Rocky Mount, July 14, 7:30 p. m.
Lomax, July 15, 7:30 p. m.
Energy, July 18, 11 a. m.
Highland school, July 18, 7:30 p. m.
Sardis, July 19, 11 a. m.
Stanton, July 19, 7:30 p. m.
Ingram school, July 20, 11 a. m.
Shoults, July 20, 7:30 p. m.
Maplesville, July 21, 11 a. m.
Macedonia, July 21, 7:30 p. m.

Dear Editor:

The majority of our candidates had a meeting at Jemison last Friday and elected me as secretary, and asked me to have the above appointments published in your paper.

Yours truly.
SAM W. COLLINS.

Daily papers are now published in [illegible]

CITY OFFICIALS

Mayor—Judson Strock.
Council—W. M. Wilson, E. G. Robertson, W. I. Mullins, J. M. Potts.
Clerk—J. Watts Moore.
Marshal—Ed Smitherman.

COURTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.

Spring Term—1st Monday in April.
Summer Term—3rd Monday in July.
Fall Term—1st Monday in November.

Judge—T. Scott Sayre.
Solicitor—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
Clerk—E. B. Deason, Clanton.

CHANCERY COURT.

Spring Term—2nd Monday in March
Fall Term—2nd Monday in September.

Chancellor—Hon. R. B. Kelley, Anniston.
Register—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

COUNTY COURT.

First Monday in each month.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

2nd Monday February, 1st Monday April, 1st Monday June, 2nd Monday July, 2nd Monday August, 1st Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

Judge of Probate—S. M. Adams.
Treasurer—Alex G. Dake.
Sheriff—J. M. Morgan.
Solicitor—J. O. Middleton.
Tax Assessor—A. C. Mims.
Tax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—Alex Glasscock.
Third District—W. A. Green.
Fourth District—R. C. Riggins.

SUPT. OF EDUCATION.

Prof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.

Hon. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.

Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Jemison.

COUNTY CHURCHES

Pastors and clerks are cordially asked to send the editor any news regarding their churches which they would wish published. Also if there are any errors in these notices please send corrections.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

Alpine—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor. J. T. Jones, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
Beth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor; C. C. Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
Brookson—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor; W. W. Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
Bethany—Rev. J. Bice, 1st Sunday. E. B. Huett, clerk, Verbena.
Clanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st and 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.
Cane Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th Sunday. V. J. Gragg, clerk.
Center Hill—Rev J. M. Gothard, pastor; J. Samons, clerk, Jemison.
Concord—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd Sunday. T. N. Parrish, clerk.
Collins Chapel—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 1st Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.
Chestnut Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand, pastor; J. W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
Corinth—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd Sunday. W. B. Jones, clerk.
Cross Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 3rd Sunday. J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
Corinth—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st Sunday. M. F. Wagoner, clerk.
Canaan—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pastor; W. J. Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
Ebenezer—Rev. P. G. Maness, pastor; R. H. Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
Jemison—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; W. N. Rodgers, clerk, Jemison.
Liberty Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd Sunday; W. M. Wood, clerk.
Macedonia—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
Mars Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, pastor; H. Z. Barnes, clerk, British.
Mulberry—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; C. Veazey, clerk, Randolph.
Mount Carmel—Rev. W. J. Ruddick, pastor; W. M. Roebuck, clerk, Adams.
Mount Zion—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, pastor; D. H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
Maple Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand, pastor; W. H. Wilson, clerk.
Macedonia—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd Sunday; George Trawick, clerk.
New Cedron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor; J. W. Billingsley, clerk.
New Salem—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 4th Sunday; G. W. Hill, clerk.
New Hope—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd Sunday. Henry Smith, clerk
Pilgrims' Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason, pastor; I. M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
Pleasant Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, pastor; W. R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
Pleasant Grove—Rev. G. W. Freeman, pastor; H. C. Latham, clerk, Shoults.
Poplar Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone, 2nd Sunday. J. J. McDowell clerk.
Providence—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt 1st Sunday. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemison.
Providence—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, pastor; Riley Robinson, clerk, Clanton.
Salem—Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor; S. Robinson, clerk, Rushton.
Shiloh—Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd Sunday; W. J. Billingsley, clerk.
Sardis—Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sun

NOUNCEMENTS

OF PROBATE.

nce myself as a can-ice of judge of pro-
unty subject to the
PLE'S primary July
ALEX G. DAKE.

ce myself as a can-
ce of judge of pro-
unty subject to the
PLE'S primary July
H REYNOLDS.

ce myself as a can-
ce of judge of pro-
unty subject to the
PLE'S primary July
A. C MIMS.

myself as a
office of judge of county subject to PEOPLE'S primary
S. J. JENNINGS

RCUIT COURT.

myself as a cane of clerk of the
ilton county, sub-
of the people's pri-04
M. W. COLLINS.

myself as a cane of clerk of the
ilton county, sub-
the people's pri-
04
A. CALLOWAY.

ASURER.

e myself as a cane of treasurer of
ject to the action
primary, July 26,
LITTLEJOHN.

myself as a can-
of treasurer for
ject to the action
mary, July 26th,
RT M. SMITH.

myself as a can-
of treasurer for
ject to the action
mary, July 26th,
W J. WILSON.

myself as a can-
of treasurer for
ect to the action
C. ROBINSON.

myself as a can-
of treasurer of
ect to the action
rimary, July 26,
J. BICE.

SSESSOR.

myself as a can-
of tax assessor
ubject to the ac-
primary, July 26,
EL C. GANDY.

myself as a can-
f tax assessor of ct to the action
mary, July 26th,
W. EDWARDS.

myself as a can-
of tax assessor
ubject to the ac-
primary July 26,
B. POUNDS.

myself as a can-
of tax assessor
ubject to the ac-
primary July 26,
G. MILLING.

LECTOR.

myself as a can-
of tax collector
ect to the ac-
rimary on July
WALDRUP.
ire" Waldrup.)

myself a candi-
tax collector of t to the action
y on July 26th,
H. THOMAS.

myself as a can-
of tax collector
bject to the ac-
primary July 26,
M. F. LETT.

myself as a can-
of tax collector
bject to the ac-
S primary July
G. KICKER.

yself as a can-
of tax collector
subject to the
S primary July
H. WELLS.

I hereby announce myself as a c
didate for the office of tax colle
for Chilton county, subject to the tion of the People's primary July 1904. W. F. DESHAZ

I hereby announce myself as a c
didate for the office of tax colle
for Chilton county, subject to the tion of the PEOPLE'S primary 26, 1904.
JOHN J. LETCHE

I hereby announce myself as a c
didate for the office of tax colle
for Chilton county, subject to the
tion of the PEOPLE'S primary
26, 1904. MOSES A. KILLGOR

We, the undersigned friends of J. HUBBARD, do hereby announ him as a candidate for re-election the office of tax collector for Chi county, subject to the action of
PEOPLE'S primary July 26, 1904
J. Williams, H. W. Varden, C.
Hayes, J. W. Varden, Hugh Henry
L. Thomas, J. L. Smith

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION.

I hereby announce myself as a c
didate for re-election to the office
superintendent of education for C ton county, subject to the action
the PEOPLE'S primary July 2
1904. J. W. MOORE

FOR COMMISSIONER.

I hereby announce myself as a c
didate for commissioner from
fourth district of Chilton county,
ject to the action of the PEOPL
primary July 26, 1904.
MOSES ROBINSON

I hereby announce myself as a c
didate for COMMISSIONER from THIRD DISTRICT of Chilton coun subject to the action of the PEOPL
primary, July 26, 1904.
R. P. KENDRICK

I hereby announce myself as a c
didate for COMMISSIONER from
Fourth district of Chilton county,
ject to the action of the PEOPL
primary, July 26th ,1904.
WILLIAM T. MAHA

I hereby announce myself as a c
didate for re-election to the office
COMMISSIONER from the Third D trict of Chilton county, subject to action of the PEOPLE'S primary J
26th, 1904. W. A. GREEN

FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

The Chilton County Farmers'
ance will meet with Poplar Spri
Alliance in beat 10 on Wednesday
Thursday, July 20th and 21st, 1904
10 a. m. The secretaries are requ ed to send me their reports as e
as possible after their last meeting June or forepart of July. This wil an interesting and beneficial meet
ALEX G. DAKE,
tf Sec. C. C. F. A

Coming Events

BARBECUE.

On the second Saturday in J
there will be a barbecue at T. J. K ner's, near Sardis church, in bea Everybody is invited, and especi
the candidates of both parties.

ALL-DAY SINGING.

There will be an all-day singing
Liberty Hill on the second Sunday July. The book used will be "Sa ing for Joy." Everybody is invi Bring your basket and stay all day

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

The following is a list of app
ments for public speaking by popu and republican candidates for the rious offices. The people have ask ed them to hold these meetings,
all the candidates are heartily inv to attend except those who may disposed to introduce discord by representing, slandering and abu their opponents, as these meet are intended for the purpose of cussing political issues with the p and allow the candidates to introd themselves, and not to fight other:

Burwell, July 11, 11 a. m.
Salem, July 11, 7:30 p. m.
Providence, July 12, 11 a. m.
Cane Creek, July 12, 7:30 p. m.
Corinth, July 13, 11 a. m.
Mineral Springs, July 13, 7:30 p.
Archer's chapel, July 14, 11 a.
Rocky Mount, July 14, 7:30 p.
Lomax, July 15, 7:30 p. m.
Energy, July 18, 11 a. m.
Highland school, July 18, 7:30 p.
Sardis, July 19, 11 a. m.
Stanton, July 19, 7:30 p. m.
Ingram school, July 20, 11 a.
Shoults, July 20, 7:30 p. m.
Maplesville, July 21, 11 a. m.
Macedonia, July 21, 7:30 p. m.

Dear Editor:

The majority of our candidates h a meeting at Jemison last Friday elected me as secretary, and asked to have the above appointments p lished in your paper.

Yours truly.
SAM W. COLLINS

Daily papers are now published ton.

CITY OFFICIALS

Mayor—Judson Strock.
Council—W. M. Wilson, E. G. Rei
W. I. Mullins, J. M. Potts.
Clerk—J. Watts Moore.
Marshal—Ed Smitherman.

COURTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

CIRCUIT COURT.

Spring Term—1st Monday in April.
Summer Term—3rd Monday in July.
Fall Term—1st Monday in Novem-

Judge—T. Scott Sayre.
Solicitor—F. Loyd Tate, Wetumpka.
Clerk—E. B. Deason, Clanton.

CHANCERY COURT.

Spring Term—2nd Monday in March.
Fall Term—2nd Monday in Septem-

Chancellor—Hon. R. B. Kelley, An-Register—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan-

COUNTY COURT.

First Monday in each month.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

2nd Monday February, 1st Monday
April, 1st Monday June, 2nd Monday
July, 2nd Monday August, 1st Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

Judge of Probate—S. M. Adams.
Treasurer—Alex G. Dake.
Sheriff—J. M. Morgan.
Solicitor—J. O. Middleton.
Tax Assessor—A. C. Mims.
Tax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—Alex Glasscock.
Third District—W. A. Green.
Fourth District—R. C. Riggins.

SUPT. OF EDUCATION.
Prof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

STATE SENATOR.
Hon. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

REPRESENTATIVE.
Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Jemison.

COUNTY CHURCHES

Pastors and clerks are cordially asked to send the editor any news regarding their churches which they would wish published. Also if there are any errors in these notices please send corrections.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

Alpine—Rev. W. H. Connell, pastor.
J. T. Jones, Jr., clerk, Plantersville.
Beth Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor; C. C. Vinson, clerk, Billingsley.
Brookson—Rev. W. J. Bone, pastor;
F. W. Wilkins, clerk, Pletcher.
Bethany—Rev. I. Bice, 1st Sunday.
C. B. Huett, clerk, Verbena.
Clanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st and 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.
Cane Creek—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 4th
Sunday. V. J. Gragg, clerk.
Center Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, pastor; J. Samons, clerk, Jemison.
Concord—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 3rd
Sunday. T. N. Parrish, clerk.
Collins Chapel—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, 1st Sunday. J. W. Littleton,
clerk.
Chestnut Creek—Rev. J. L. Hand,
pastor; J. W. Dennis, clerk, Coopers.
Corinth—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 2nd
Sunday. W. B. Jones, clerk.
Cross Roads—Rev. M. J. Parrish, 3d Sunday. J. M. Huckabee, clerk.
Corinth—Rev. C. H. Lowery, 1st
Sunday. M. F. Wagoner, clerk.
Canaan—Rev. S. B. Culpepper, pastor; W. J. Roy, clerk, Mt. Creek.
Ebenezer—Rev. P. G. Maness, pastor; R. H. Nelson, clerk, Stanton.
Jemison—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
W. N. Rodgers, clerk, Jemison.
Liberty Hill—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd
Sunday; W. M. Wood, clerk.
Macedonia—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd
Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
Mars Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, pastor; H. Z. Barnes, clerk, British.
Mulberry—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
J. C. Veazey, clerk, Randolph.
Mount Carmel—Rev. W. J. Ruddick, pastor; W. M. Roebuck, clerk,
Adams.
Mount Zion—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
pastor; D. H. Mullins, clerk, Jumbo.
Maple Springs—Rev. J. L. Hand,
pastor; W. H. Wilson, clerk.
Macedonia—Rev. W. J. Parrish, 2nd
Sunday; George Trawick, clerk.
New Cedron—Rev. J. E. Moore, pastor; J. W. Billingsley, clerk.
New Salem—Rev. W. J. Armstrong,
4th Sunday; G. W. Hill, clerk.
New Hope—Rev. A. M. Foshee, 2nd
Sunday. Henry Smith, clerk.
Pilgrims' Rest—Rev. T. J. Deason, pastor; I. M. Tidwell, clerk, Pletcher.
Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st Sunday; D. H. Hodgins, clerk.
Pleasant Hill—Rev. J. M. Gothard, pastor; W. R. Scott, clerk, Jemison.
Pleasant Grove—Rev. G. W. Freeman, pastor; H. C. Latham, clerk, Shoults.
Poplar Springs—Rev. W. J. Bone,
2nd Sunday. J. J. McDowell clerk.
Providence—Rev. R. M. Honeycutt
1st Sunday. W. H. Shaw, clerk, Jemi-
son.
Providence—Rev. W. J. Armstrong, pastor; Riley Robinson, clerk, Clanton.
Salem—Rev. J. D. Hughes, pastor;
D. S. Robinson, clerk, Rushton.
Shiloh—Rev. T. J. Deason, 2nd
Sunday; W. J. Billingsley, clerk.
Sardis—Rev. T. J. Deason, 4th Sun-
day. J. Deason, clerk, Adams.
Thorsby—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor;
Robert Jones, clerk, Thorsby.
Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor; R. S. Chandler, clerk, Jemi-
son.
Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2d
Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.
Verbena—Rev. J. W. Partridge, 1st
Sunday. T. J. Bland, clerk.
Valley Creek—Rev. I. Windsor, pastor; J. W. Mitchell, clerk, Planters-
ville.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS.

Bethel—Elder J. W. Howell, pastor;
Saturday before the second Sunday;
J. T. Abernathy, clerk, Verbena.

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Clanton Circuit—Rev. D. B. H. Jeff-coat, Pastor.
Clanton—2nd and 4th Sundays.
Fairview—3rd Sunday.
Isabelle—3rd Sunday, 3 p. m.
Jemison—1st Sunday.
Lime Springs—Saturday before 2nd
Sunday.
Mount Moriah—Saturday before 1st
Sunday.
New Prospect—Saturday before 3rd
Sunday.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

Clanton Circuit, Rev. T. F. Davis, Pastor.
Thorsby—1st Sunday.
Walnut Grove—2nd Sunday, morning.
Unity—2nd Sunday, evening.
Shady Grove—3rd Sunday.
Mount Pisgah—4th Sunday, morning.
Enterprise—4th Sunday, evening.

CONGREGATIONAL.

South Calera—Rev. J. R. Crowson
second Sunday. W. L. Shaw, clerk,
Calera.
Lomax—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 4th
Sunday. F. E. Riggs, clerk, Lomax.
Mountain Springs—Rev. C. A. Mil-stead, 3rd Sunday. W. J. Headley, clerk, Clanton.
Shady Grove—Rev. A. C. Wells, 1st
Sunday. Mrs. A. Baker, clerk, Verbena.
Union—Rev. C. A. Milstead, 1st Sunday. Miss A. Lake, clerk, Light-wood.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Highland School House—Rev. M. F.
Lett, 3rd Sunday and Saturday before.
T. L. Adams, clerk.
Enterprise—Rev. M. F. Lett, 4th
Sunday. T. F. Patterson, clerk.

NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN.

St. Olafs, Thorsby—Rev. H. Engh, pastor. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

Concordia, Thorsby—Rev. J. E. Hed-berg. Every Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev.
Mr. Carroll, pastor, 2d Sunday. Song service every 2d and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

MASONIC.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—
Third Saturday. Clanton.
Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
250—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.
Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
423—First Saturday, Clanton.
Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
567—First Saturday Billingsley.
Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.
Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
411—Saturday on or before full moon,
Jemison.
Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
473—Tuesday on or before full moon,
Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.
Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

of the

BRITISH AMERICA ASSURANCE CO.

Of Toronto, Canada.

1st January, 1904.

UNITED STATES BRANCH.

Assets.

Government bonds	$223,650.00
State and municipal bonds	511,473.19
Cash on hand and deposit	169,720.71
Stocks and bonds	305,793.00
Premiums in course of col.	204,834.79
Interest due and accrued.	11,833.20
	$1,427,304.89

Liabilities.

Reserve premium fund (N. Y. Standard)	$849,771.77
Reserve for unpaid losses	100,786.14
	$950,557.91
Surplus in United States	$476,746.98
Total income in United States for 1903	$1,547,736.84
Total losses paid in U. S. from 1874 to 1903, inclusive	$14,674,843.36

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

A meeting to consider the School question in Clanton is called by W. I. Mullins to meet at the Court House at 8 o'clock p. m. on Tuesday, July 5th. Everybody is asked to come, especially the ladies.

T. W. Robbins was a pleasant visitor Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dennis, who live between Lomax and Collins' chapel, have a two-months-old baby that weighs twenty pounds.

"James and Mayer" buggies for sale at W. I. Mullins'.

C. B. Lockhart was a welcome caller Monday.

Wiley Bice was in Clanton Monday.

J. A. Mims was a pleasant visitor Tuesday.

Try "Oxolo" for sale at Upchurch's drug store.

M. A. Kilgore was in Clanton Tuesday; said it it was too wet to plough.

W. F. Deshazo was in town Tuesday.

Chattanooga Cane Mills and Plows at W. I. Mullins'.

J. W. G. Kicker was in Clanton Tuesday. He brought some subscriptions to THE UNION.

Plenty of cotton blooms in beat 1.

W. E. Vinzant had plenty of them last week.

If you are in need of spectacles you should call on Upchurch.

P. C. Dennis has been appointed a member of the board of pension examiners for Chilton by Governor Cunningham.

Squire John Garner, of Birmingham, spent several days in Clanton last week.

Deputy Sheriff Hayes was in Clanton Monday. He captured the thieves last week that held up and robbed Dr. Walker, of Plantersville on the road near Maplesville on the 18th inst. In the preliminary trial before Squire Fuller, two were discharged, but Tom Klinner was held and in default of bail is now in jail at Clanton. One of the robbers, Ocie Holman, has evaded capture so far. Tom Klinner is not related to the Klinner family of beat 8.

In a quarrel over a mule swap near Highlands Sunday Doc Coggins cut Gus Calhoun, colored. It took thirty stitches to close the wound.

Ben Wells was in Clanton Tuesday.

The L. and N. train killed a fine Jersey heifer about a year old in the cut in the north end of town Wednesday morning.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

J. C. Whitfield and Miss Jessie Glazener, J. N. Atkinson and Miss Carrie Gray, S. E. Gantt and Miss Sammie B. Nelson, J. M. Nix and Miss Emma Potts.

Colored.

George James and Maggie Mitchell, Henry Johnson and Ella McMorris, Douglas Cobb and Birdie Davis, General Barbour and Belle Atcherson, Lias Thompson and Mattie Lou Mitchell.

MARRIED.

At the residence of the bride on June 28th, 1904, by Judge Adams, J. M. Nix and Miss Emma Potts.

MARS HILL.

Just a few lines from this place. We had a good rain the 26th and crops are looking fine and growing fast. Most of us have laid by corn and have good prospects for cotton and watermelons. We celebrated our children's day last Sunday with a good programme well carried out under the auspices of our very able superintendent, G. W. Gotherd. There were about 500 people present, including visitors from ten different churches. We all had a good dinner and a good time, and a fine lecture by Hon. L. H. Reynolds, who spoke of the good the Sabbath school did to young men and girls, learning them to be honorable men and women in this life. After dinner we had a fine singing led by Professors Robert Durnam and C. L. Glasscock, and then were dismissed by Rev. J. M. Gothard. Through somebody's carelessness Mr. C. W. Langston's cedar bucket with black handled glass dipper has disappeared and he would like to get word of where it is. Politics are quiet in this neck of the woods. Mr. Editor, we are sure glad to see you print all the school districts of Chilton in your valuable paper. Mrs. J. D. Terry has been very sick for several days, but is better at this writing. While we were all at the church last Sunday some one broke into the store of J. N. Scott. Sam Gentry, Lee Martin and some more boys went seining on the creek Saturday evening and report a fine catch of 108 fish. Arthur Bledsoe and Sam Gentry are deaf and dumb. They were out here Sunday and it sure was a sight to see them talk to each other with their hands. No more at present.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLAR.

LOMAX.

All quiet here. No fighting with General Green on account of dry weather. Crops need rain. Old corn is about spent. A light shower Friday helped cotton some. J. Bice and Sam Collins were in our town one day last week. Elder John Dykes, of Shelby county, preached here Saturday and Sunday. The patrons of Lomax school will meet at 2 p. m. next Saturday, July 2d, at the school house to elect three district trustees. We hope to see all present. That chap in the paper last week who signs "Sunday School Boy" must have just started to school and hasn't learned much yet, for he says the only thing the republican party can give a southern man is association with the "black African negro." He does not seem to know that the democrats give that and even more, to judge from the number of mulattoes here in the south. There has been a great deal of equalization TION of the whites with the African, and as the democrats are in such a majority, it must be them that are responsible for this condition of things. There has been a time when the negro made a good scare crow, but that time is past, never to come again.

OBSERVER.

COOPER.

Editor Union—I wish to air some of my views and say that the boys are lining up for the People's primary. They say they are going to show that Englishman that publishes that paper at Clanton that the people paid for, and he has turned his back on; him nor none of that ring at Clanton can't fool them with their sugar tongues. They say that the banner man got instructions from his bosses not to publish any of their names in his paper, and I've been looking to see if it is so, and I believe it, for I see no populist that visits Clanton, but we go there just the same. Well, boys, they have Elijah the second on earth; he is so meek the dems won't talk about him. All of them that I've talked to except a beat boss or two and a few bootlicks concede the dems' defeat this fall. Say, boys, wasn't that speech of Reynolds' at Clanton the other day a knockerout to the democrats? The banner man says our meeting was a complete victory for the democrats. Well, if that is a victory for them, it makes sure of the people's ticket being elected this fall. Cryton knows that the dems stand no more chance of electing their ticket than an armless man would at a climbing match, but he keeps gassing to keep up the ring's courage. Ha, ha, boys, I heard that Bill Collier got foamy at X-Ray. Why, Bill, you know "that a hit dog always hollers," so I guess there was some truth in what X-Ray said. We know you, Billy, and we are fixed for you when you go out to explain about negroes sitting on the juries in Dallas county. I see one A. J. Penton has written a piece for the banner explaining democracy. He hollers nigger. Now, Penton, which had you rather do, go to a convention where there are negro delegates that have no show whatever, or sit on a jury where they can make you do as they say or make a mistrial? But these darkies down in the black belt are kin to the democratic party by blood and color. Well, boys, all we have got to do is to go to the primary on the 26th of July and you'll hear no more from that crowd that killed Judge Adams. These are the views of an old line, conservative populist.

A VOTER.

NOTICE OF PRIMARY ELECTION.

Notice is hereby given that a PEOPLE'S primary election will be held in Chilton county, Alabama, on the 26th day of July, 1904, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the several county offices to be filled at the general election to be held November 8th, 1904. Said primary election will be held under the primary election law and the rules adopted by the county executive committee of the PEOPLE'S party of Chilton county, for the regulation of said primary. This 22d day of June, 1904.

W. H. SHAW, Chairman.
tf

CONFERENCE OF M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Prattville district conference will meet in session at Clanton on June 23d, 24th, 25th and 26th. tf

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

The next regular state examination for teachers will be held at the high school building at Clanton on the first Monday in July, 1904, beginning at 10 a. m. sharp.

J. W. MOORE.
County Superintendent.
tf

METHODIST PROTESTANT CONFERENCE.

The second quarterly conference for Clanton circuit, Methodist Protestant church, will be held at Mount Pisgah church, three and a half miles southeast of Clanton, the fourth Sunday in June and Saturday before. Dinner on the grounds.

tf T. F. DAVIS, Pastor.

ORDINATION SERVICES.

On the Saturday before the second Sunday in July at 11 a. m. two deacons will be ordained at New Hope church. Rev. A. M. Foshee will preach the ordination sermon. Dinner on the ground. At 1:30 p. m. communion and washing of feet.
tf

PHILADELPHIA UNDERWRITERS,
Composed of Insurance Company of North America and the Fire Association of Philadelphia, Pa.

Cash capital	$ 3,500,000.00
Total assets Jan. 1, 1904:	17,636,517.61
Surplus as to policy holders	6,874,213.35

WALLACE C. EDLER, Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

England is showing some disappointment at the failure of prosperity to come on South Africa as early as was expected.

..My Specialty..

SHOES made of Leather.
SHOES that are Reliable.
SHOES made to Wear.
NOT a Cheap Shoddy Shoe.

Dry Goods, Groceries, Flour and Feed Stuffs, Tobacco and Snuff.

Every Department Full and Complete.

J. W. SMITH.

Former Post-office Building. Clanton, Alabama

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alabama.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
1011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE

WALLACE C. EDLER, General Agent, Clanton Alabama.

CHILTON COUNTY BRANCH

PRESIDENT Alex G. Dake, Clanton
SEC.-TREAS. Judson Strock, Clanton

Insure, Farmers Dwellings, outbuildings and contents, and Live stock against Loss by Fire, Wind and Lightning;—the cheapest, safest and most sensible method of Insurance known to man.

AGENTS MUST HAVE A COMMISSION SIGNED BY GENERAL AGENT. Full particulars furnished on application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

Gelder's Restaurant,
Good Meals at Reasonable Prices.
110 North 20th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes, FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. Alabama

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,

Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.
County and Office Supplies a Specialty.
Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave, BIRMINGHAM, ALA

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician
Eyes Correctly Fitted
Mail orders promptly filled

THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

The platform of the republican party as presented to the national convention is as follows:

Fifty years ago the republican party came into existence, dedicated, among other purposes, to the great task of arresting the extension of human slavery. In 1860 it elected its first president. During twenty-four of the forty-four years which have elapsed since the election of Lincoln the republican party has held complete control through the possession of one or two branches of the government, while the democratic party during the same period has had complete control for only two terms. This long tenure of power by the republican party is not due to chance. It is a demonstration that the republican party has commanded the confidence of the American people for nearly two generations to a degree never equaled in our history, and has displayed a high capacity for rule and government which has been made even more conspicuous by the incapacity and infirmity of purpose shown by its opponents.

Record of Party.

The republican party entered upon its present period of complete supremacy in 1897. We have every right to congratulate ourselves upon the work since then accomplished, for it has added luster even to the traditions of the party which carried the government through the storms of the civil war.

We then found the country after four years democratic rule in evil plight, oppressed with misfortune and doubtful of the future.

Public credit had been lowered, the revenues were declining, the debt was growing, the attitude toward Spain was feeble and mortifying, the standard of values was threatened and uncertain, labor was unemployed, business was sunk in the depression which had succeeded the panic of 1893; hope was faint and confidence was gone. We met these unhappy conditions vigorously, effectively and at once.

The Tariff.

We replaced a democratic tariff law based on free trade principles and garnished with protection by a consistent protective tariff, and by industry, freed from oppression and stimulated by the encouragement of wise laws, has expanded to a degree never before known; has conquered new markets and has created a volume of exports which has surpassed imagination. Under the Dingley tariff labor has been fully employed. Wages have risen and all industries have revived and prospered.

We firmly established the gold standard, which was then menaced with destruction. Confidence returned to business and with confidence came an unexampled prosperity.

Public Credit.

For deficient revenues supplemented by improvident issues of bonds, we gave the country an income which produced a large surplus and which enabled us only four years after the Spanish war had closed to remove our one hundred millions of annual war tax, reduce the public debt and lower the interest charges of the government.

The public credit which had been so lowered that in time of peace a democratic administration made large loans at extravagant rates of interest in order to pay current expenditures rose under republican administration to its highest point and enabled us to borrow at 2 per cent even in time of war.

We refused to palter longer with the miseries of Cuba. We fought a quick and victorious war with Spain; we set Cuba free, governed the island for three years, and then gave it to the Cuban people with order restored, with ample revenues, with education and public health established, free from debt and connected with the United States by wise provisions for our mutual interests.

We have organized the government of Porto Rico and its people now enjoy peace, freedom, order and prosperity.

The Philippines.

In the Philippines we have suppressed insurrection, established order and given life and property a security never known there before. We have organized civil government, made it effective and strong in administration, and have conferred upon the people of those islands the largest civil liberty they have ever enjoyed.

By our possession of the Philippines we were enabled to take prompt and effective action in the relief of the legations at Pekin and a decisive part in preventing the partition and the preserving of the integrity of China.

Panama Canal.

The possession of a route for an isthmian canal, so long the dream of American statesmanship, is now an accomplished fact. The great work of connecting the Pacific and Atlantic oceans is at last begun, and it is due to the republican party. We have passed laws which will bring the arid lands of the United States within the area of cultivation.

We have reorganized the party and put it in the highest state of efficiency.

We have passed laws for the improvement and support of the militia.

We have pushed forward the building of the navy, the defense and the protection of our honor and our interest.

Our administration of the great departments of the government has been honest and efficient and wherever wrongdoing has been discovered the republican administration has not hesitated to probe the evil and bring offenders to justice without regard to party or political ties.

The Trusts.

Laws enacted by the republican party which the democratic party failed to enforce and which were intended for the protection of the public against the unjust discrimination or the illegal encroachment of vast aggregations of capital, have been fearlessly enforced by a republican president, and new laws insuring reasonable publicity as to the operations of great corporations and providing additional remedies for the prevention of discrimination in freight rates have been passed by a republican congress.

To Continue Policies.

In this record of achievement during the past eight years may be read the pledges which the republican party has fulfilled. We propose to continue these policies and we declare our present adherence to the following principles:

Protection which guards and develops our industries is a cardinal policy of the republican party. The measure of protection should always at least equal the difference in the cost of the production at home and abroad. We insist upon the maintenance of the principles of protection and therefore rates of duty should be readjusted only when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands their alteration, but this work can not safely be committed to any other hands than those of the republican party. To entrust it to the democratic party is to invite disaster. Whether, as in 1852, the democratic party declared the protection tariff unconstitutional or whether it demands tariff reform or tariff revision, its real object is always the destruction of the protective system. However specious the name the purpose is ever the same. A democratic tariff has always been followed by business adversities, a republican tariff by business prosperity. To a republican congress and a republican president this great question can be safely entrusted. When the only free trade country among the great nations agitates a return to protection, the chief protective country should not falter in maintaining it.

Foreign Markets.

We have extended widely our foreign markets and we believe in the adoption of all practicable methods for their further extension including commercial reciprocity wherever reciprocal arrangements can be effected consistent with the principles of protection and without injury to American agriculture, American labor or un-American industry.

We believe it to be the duty of the republican party to uphold the gold standard and the integrity and value of our national currency. The maintenance of the gold standard established by the republican party can not safely be committed to the democratic party, which resisted its adoption and has never given any proof since that time of belief in it or fidelity to it.

Merchant Marine.

While every other industry has prospered under the fostering aid of republican legislation, American shipping engaged in foreign trade in competition with the low cost of construction, low wages and heavy subsidies of foreign governments has not for many years received from the government of the United States adequate encouragement of any kind. We therefore favor legislation which will encourage and build up the American merchant marine and we cordially approve the legislation of the last congress which created the merchant marine commission to investigate and report upon this subject.

Wants Big Navy.

A navy powerful enough to defend the United States against any attack, to uphold the Monroe doctrine and watch over our commerce is essential to the safety and the welfare of the American people. To maintain such a navy is the fixed policy of the republican party.

We cordially approve the attitude of President Roosevelt and congress in regard to the exclusion of Chinese labor and promise a continuance of the republican policy in that direction.

The civil service law was placed on the statute books by the republican party, which has always sustained it, and we renew our former declarations that it shall be thoroughly and honestly enforced.

Pensions.

We are always mindful of the country's debt to the soldiers and sailors of the United States, and we believe in making ample provision for them and in the liberality of the pension law.

We favor the peaceful settlement of international differences by arbitration.

We recommend the vigorous efforts made by the administration to protect American citizens in foreign lands and pledge ourselves to insist upon just and equal protection of all our citizens abroad. It is the unquestioned duty of our government to provide for all our citizens without distinction the right of travel and sojourn in friendly countries and we declare ourselves in favor of all proper efforts tending to that end. Our great interests and our growing commerce in the Orient render the condition of China of high importance to the United States. We cordially commend the policy pursued in that direction by the administrations of President McKinley and President Roosevelt.

Representation.

We favor such congressional action as shall determine whether by special discriminations the elective franchise in any state has been unconstitutionally limited, and if such is the case we demand that representation in congress and in the electoral colleges shall be proportionately reduced as directed by the constitution of the United States.

Combinations of capital and labor are the results of the economic movement of the age, but neither must be permitted to infringe upon rights and interests of the people. Such combinations when lawfully formed for lawful purposes are alike entitled to the protection of the law, but both are subject to the laws and neither can be permitted to break them.

McKinley and Roosevelt.

The great statesman and patriotic American, William McKinley, who was re-elected by the republican party to the presidency four years ago, was assassinated just at the threshold of his second term. The entire nation mourned his untimely death and did that justice to his great qualities of mind and character which history will confirm and repeat.

The American people were fortunate in his successor, to whom they turned with a trust and confidence which have been fully justified. President Roosevelt brought to the great responsibilities thus sadly forced upon him a clear head, a brave heart, an earnest patriotism and high ideals of public duty and public service. Through the principles of the republican party and to the policies which that party had declared he has shown himself ready for every emergency and has met new and vital questions with ability and with success.

The confidence of the people in his justice inspired by his public career enabled him to render personally an inestimable service to the country, bringing about a settlement of the coal strike which threatened such disastrous results in the winter of 1902.

Our foreign policy under his administration has not only been able, vigorous and dignified, but in the highest questions which arose in Venezuela were dealt with in such a way by President Roosevelt that the Monroe doctrine was signally vindicated and the cause of peace and arbitration greatly advanced.

His prompt and vigorous action in Panama, which we commend in the highest terms, not only secured to us the canal route, but avoided foreign complications, which might have been of a very serious character.

He has continued the policy of President McKinley in the Orient and our position in China signalized by our recent commercial treaty with the empire, has never been so high.

He secured the tribunal by which the vexed and perilous question of Alaskan boundry was finally settled.

Whenever crimes against humanity have been perpetrated, which have shocked our people, his protest has been made and our good offices have been tendered, but always with due regard to international obligations.

Under his guidance we find ourselves at peace with all the world, and never were we more respected nor our wishes more regarded by foreign nations.

Pre-eminently successful in regard to our foreign relations he has been equally fortunate in dealing with domestic questions. The country has known that public credit and the national currency were absolutely safe in the hands of his administration. In the enforcement of the laws he has not only shown courage, but the wisdom which understands that to permit the laws to be violated or disregarded opens the door to anarchy, while the just enforcement of the law is the soundest conservatism. He has held firmly to the fundamental American doctrine that all men must obey the law, that there must be no discrimination between rich and poor, between strong and weak, but that justice and equal protection under the law must be secured to every citizen without regard to race, creed or condition.

His administration has been throughout vigorous and honest, high-minded and patriotic. We commend it without reservation to the considerate judgment of the American people.

Adjutant General Brandon addressed a letter to the secretary of war at Washington today asking him to assign a company of infantry and a company of cavalry to the brigade encampment to be held in Alabama the last ten days in July. This is desired by way of instruction to the state soldiers, who get great benefit from the work of the men in the regular army.

Killed by Lightning.

At Atlanta during a heavy rain and electrical storm Mrs. Ora Bradley, wife of W. B. Bradley, a street car conductor, was killed by being struck by a bolt of lightning. In another part of the city lightning struck the home of T. O. Jones, and both Mr. and Mrs. Jones were rendered unconscious for some time. The street car system was rendered ineffectual for about half an hour during the storm.

Lightning Sets off Blast.

As a result of lightning during a thunder shower at the quarry of the Toccoa Rock Crushing Company, one man is dead, another is dying, four are seriously and several slightly injured. The men had just prepared to set off twenty-four blasts, which is done by electricity, when lightning struck the wires and before they could get away fragments of rocks were showered upon them.

The navy needs the new cruiser Galveston, now under construction at the navy yard in Norfolk, and orders have reached the officers at the yard to rush work on the vessel.

At a meeting of Lafollette Coal, Iron and Railway Company at Lafollette appropriations were made for the erection of a second blast furnace and for greatly enlarging the coking plants. The new furnace will be erected at once, and will be a counterpart of the present furnace at Lafollette.

The highest recorded temperature in the United States is 113 degrees for Yuma, Ariz.; the lowest is 63 degrees below zero at Poplar River, Mont. Havre, Mo., is a close second with 55 degrees below.

Colored Masons of the Alabama grand lodge are in session in Birmingham.

Four Birmingham men will start for the world's fair July 1st in an auto.

Work on Dam.

It is learned that the dam at Jackson Shoals, on Choccolocco creek, near Talladega, is being rapidly constructed. The contractors have about fifty laborers employed in the work, and with the exceptional low water for the season rapid headway in construction is expected. The dam is to be one of stone construction, thoroughly cemented, and is to be completed by September, when the dynamos will be placed. By this plant it is estimated that 3,000 horsepower will be developed.

Fire did $5,000 damage to the Selma Y. M. C. A. building Wednesday.

American Support to Turkey.

A rumor is in circulation that America has notified the porte of its willingness to give some degree of support to Turkey against the pressure of the powers looking to the application of reforms in Macedonia. This support will be given provided Turkey gives certain concessions to America. The rumor is not confirmed.

The postmaster at Jackson, Miss., has been notified that his office is now of the first class, and that hereafter his salary will be $3,000 instead of $1,800.

Military men of Alabama are interested in the coming army maneuvers at Manassas, and will urge that the state send a goodly number there in September.

It is reported that Governor Jelks will return to Alabama late in October.

Reversed and Dismissed.

William Hunt, who was arrested for an alleged fraud on an insurance company in Texas, and who was taken to that state, tried, convicted and sentenced to five years, is a free man. The following telegram tells the story:

"Dallas, Texas, June 22.—Hunter cases reversed and dismissed. Shake."

The arrest of Hunter caused a sensation at the time. He lived in Brookside, but while in Birmingham attracted the attention of a former agent of the insurance company, who caused his arrest.

School Tax Favored.

The people of Jefferson county have voted overwhelmingly for a tax of 10 cents on the $100 for local school purposes.

Representative Victor H. Metcalf, of the Third California district, will succeed George B. Cortelyou as the head of the department of commerce and labor.

Mr. M. G. Wood, of Woodlawn, recently celebrated his seventy-fourth birthday, and weighed on that day just seventy-four pounds. He is in good health.

The Georgia building, which is a reproduction of the home of the late General John B. Gordon, was opened Wednesday.

George Washington Bradley, of Houston, Tex., is claimed to be the oldest confederate veteran. He is 97.

RED RIVER RISING.

Many Plantations Are Under Water. Considerable Alarm.

High water in the Red river has reached the threatening stage and considerable alarm is felt over the situation. Already there has been much damage, and if the river continues to rise the rate it's now rising the loss will be great.

Reports received from along the river above the Arkansas line all the way to within a few miles of Shreveport indicate that a large area of fine farm lands is under water.

THE ARMS OF WOMEN.

Almost any sculpor or painter is willing the stake his artistic reputation on the statement that it is difficult to find a woman with merely good arms, to say nothing of beautiful ones. To make one perfect pair of arms for his Aphrodite, George Wade, the English sculptor, had five models securing the best points in the arms of each.

The possession of a beautiful face by no means implies the possession of pretty arms. It is generally the reverse. Plain women often have ravishing arms and working women usually have more gracefully rounded ones than their idle sisters. The reason of course is daily exercise. An arm that is admirable almost beyond criticism belongs to the French woman. It has the proper artistic proportions, the correct artistic curve, with a slender wrist and a well-rounded elbow.

The young ladies of Morocco are wont to declare a woman charming by looking at her arm and hand; the face they seldom see, as it is guarded by the robe which covers the head like a hood. With one hand the Moorish maiden, who is well versed in the arts of coquetry, holds the folds of her robe before her face, ostensibly to conceal her features, but taking great care to reveal her hand and arm. She well knows that in such a display lie immense powers of fascinations, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

With the arm and hand we gesticulate most freely, therefore it is important that there be a superabundance of firmness and strength in the upper arm, while in the lower, suppleness and grace should be the main features. How interesting to know just what constitutes a really beautiful arm! Judging from ancient statues, it should be long from the shoulder to a well-rounded elbow, and tapering to a wrist small and shapely.

I have frequently noticed plump arms that many declare to be comely, but they seem to lack refinement. With them usually go large hands and elbows, where force rather than firmness delares itself in the articulation of the elbows.

We have the fat arm, ham-like in its proportion, the possessors of which are to be pitied rather than laughed at, for unlike their slender sisters, they may not resort to the wiles of Madame Mode to conceal their too evident bulkiness.

But to them and the owners of the attenuated form we suggest a mad rush to the gymnasium, where they may tone down and build up the vagaries of nature.

A COUNTESS'S ROMANCE.

London Truth tells how the Countess of Waldersee first met her first husband, Prince Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein-Augustenburg and so forth, in 1864, at one of those amusing dances of the Empress Eugenie.

The Empress got them up to be able to invite secessionist beauties, who at them would be in no danger of running against Northerners. She and the Slidells, Masons and McGruders found a society godmother in a New Orleans lady of considerable standing at court, the Marquise de Chasseloup-Laubat, whose husband held the marines portfolio. Prince Frederick, who had come to Paris to explain to the emperor the Schleswig-Holstein tangle, received an invitation to one of the dances, and felt so dazzled at the show of youth, beauty innocence and free yet maidenly manners, that he forgot all about his mission. He at first fell in love with all the Southern belles, but as France is not Turkey, he had to make a choice, and he chose Miss Esther Lee, as, it seemed to him, the flower of the bevy, and proposed to her and had the happiness after some delay to be accepted. She has attained the "sensible" age of twenty-seven. Prince Frederick laid his case of a love-stricken elderly prince before the Emperor Francis Joseph, and stated that his imperial majesty would greatly facilitate his suit, if he promised to confer on Miss Lee, in the event of her accepting him, the title of Princess of Noer, Noer being a village in Schleswig. Francis Joseph sympathized with Frederick, as he has since done with divers members of his own family under like circumstances. The courtship began in the early spring of 1865, and the wedding took place in Paris on November 3 of the same year. Prince Frederick died at Bairreuth in 1865, and the widow still beautiful and interesting married Count Waldersee, at Lautenbach, in Wurtemberg, on April 14, 1874.—Indianapolis News.

FASHIONS THAT REIGN.

Pale blue and pale pink mercerized lawns are being made into most attractive and dainty gowns for mid-summer wear.

Gray voile costume is becoming more and more a favorite with the well-dressed woman, both for a walking gown and with a trained skirt.

Gun metal neck chains, relieved by small jewels, are still popular.

A Spanish mantilla drapery veil for dressy hats is among the new showings.

English embroidery or lace is almost exclusively used to adorn summer bodices.

The new golden-hued brown, onion, is becoming quite a fad very effective both for hom street wear.

A number of fine shades of green are among the advance ings of samples of the supe weight broadcloth to be the autumn.

The taffeta 1830 blouse newer and more exclusive shirt-waist kind. It is with or without an under

A novelty in lingeries white muslin or linen, with lar ored spots embroidered in stitch.

Three shades of ribbon of color is one of the season's hat garnitures.

Large Dolly Varden pr printed batistes make harm inexpensive midsummer gow

All shades of kid shoes are tainable in order to carry monotone costume idea.

The millinery fad of Paris is yellow for trimming the delicate tint of the Ma rose to citron maize, orange and even a deeper tinge, know burnt sulphur.

Washable duck belts are son embroidered in most designs and combinations ings.

WHY SHE IS BEAUTIFUL.

An authority on girls, says t York Globe, avers that the girl par excellence is the Irish who "has six remarkable charac tics which are red in the brought out in the flesh."

She is full of that quality for lack of a better designation be called spirits.

She has a marvelous bounding a walk which never tires.

She has an appetite of which not ashamed.

Her cosmetics are dew and sun flowers.

In spite of exposure she never or tans or gets yellow.

Her freckles are of the pale sort, not the disagreeable deep ones.

Her voice is fresh, and she tal day long in a tone which has called a thrill.

She has wit, which comes superabundance of animal These are the things which ma Irish girl of summer. The diet for the summer is the diet which the Irish girl lives. T a diet of cereals or grains, thoroughly; a diet of vegetab cluding the Irish potato; and a fresh fruits and hot bread pretty society girls of Dublin their glowing cheeks and perfe plexions, live upon hot breads grains, and upon fruits and tables. They get little meat. all the world, if you ask the he will tell you that there girls as glowing as those of I

WOMAN'S AVERSION TO INDE

"Talk about the inclination the envelope to discover the instead of opening the letter trait of womanhood," said a Br man the other day, "it isn't in a woman's aversion to indexes a woman a book of poems, like of Burns, for instance, and turn the pages for twenty or more to find the piece she rather than look in the index gest the index to her and she 'Oh, I'll find it in a second,' and she'll go, turning the pages aza

"The other night by actual it took my wife twenty two to find 'Mary in Heaven' in a Burns, for not only did ual time turning the pag she'd come to anything she such as 'Holy Willie's Pray 'Polly Steward,' she'd daily ov a while. Rarely do men The first thing they go for is dex.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN ENG

Many persons were doubtless led by the news from Engla the House of Commons has ju in favor of granting full Par ary suffrage to women by a whelming majority—182 to 6 not a great surprise, however, to who have kept track of the growth of the equal rights m in Great Britian.

In 1869, municipal suffrag granted to the single women a ows of England. It apparently satisfactory, for in 1881 the right was extended to the wo Scotland. In 1898 the women land, both married and single empowered to vote for all offi cept members of Parliament.

Belle of Ancient India.

The belle of ancient India w hair tied by a jeweled band three inches back of her h then braided into an enormo two-thirds the size of her head.

More than 4,000 Japanese vessels were, before the war, their trade in Korean waters the coast of eastern Siberia.

Miss Hapgood t
of Fallopian and O
and escaped an awf
Lydia E. Pinkham's

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I su doctors called Salpingitis (inflamm ritis, which are most distressing a surrounding parts, undermining t forces. If you had seen me a year Pinkham's Vegetable Compoun sallow complexion, and general em person with me as I am today, n wonder that I feel thankful to which restored me to new life and from an awful operation."—Miss Windsor, Ont.

Ovaritis or inflammation of the ov ovaries may result from sudden stopp tion of the womb, and many other ca with the ovaries, indicated by dull by heat and shooting pains, should cl cure itself, and a hospital operation, w neglect.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I c my life, and I cannot express m

"Before I wrote to you telling two years steadily and spent lots of failed to do me any good. My me

I suf faint hear it wa as di of L pain Lies

"I will always recommend yo these, few lines may lead other remedies."—Mrs. T. C. WILLIA

Such unquestionable testimony ham's Vegetable Compound Women should remember Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., a

SOUTHERN DEN
If you are interested in obt for free catalogue of full in Address DR. S. W. FOSTER, DEAN, 100 N

Well Worth Seeing.

One of the most interesting ex among the many of all kinds at the L iana Purchase Exposition in St. L that of the Winchester Repeating Arm Company, of New Haven, Conn., manufacturers of repeating rifles and and all kinds of ammunition. The was in readiness and was opened on first day of the fair, a fact that illustrates the enterprise and up methods of the company behind the aim of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company to show at their the high development which they reached in the making of guns and ammunition, and one needs only to see the exhibit to realize how near to perfection that development has come. There can be seen the new automatic repeating rifles, all kinds of shotguns, the modern smokeless powder shotgun shells and rifle cartridges; in fact everything that can interest the devotees of hunting and trap and target shooting. Don't fail to see the exhibit at the Manufacturers and Fish and Game Buildings. It's well worth your while.

Municipal pawnshops are projected in London.

It is said that Professor Markwald has discovered minute quantities of a new radio-active substance in pitchblende which is associated with tellurium. On account of its associations he has named it radiotellurium. The professor says the new substance is even more difficult to extract than radium.

B.B.B. BOTANIC BLOOD BALM
The Great Tested Remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers, Eczema, Sores, Eruptions, Weakness, Nervousness, and all
BLOOD AND SKIN DISEASES.
It is by far the best building up Tonic and Blood Purifier ever offered to the world. It makes new, rich blood, imparts renewed vitality, and possesses almost miraculous healing properties. Write for Book of Wonderful Cures, sent free on application.
If not kept by your local druggist, send $1.00 for a large bottle, or $5.00 for six bottles, and medicine will be sent, freight paid, by BLOOD BALM CO., Atlanta, Ga.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

WOMAN'S WORLD

OF WOMEN.

...or or painter is ...s artistic reputa... that it is diffi... man with merely ...othing of beauti... one perfect pair ...phrodite, George ...ptor, had five ... best points in ...

... a beautiful face ... the possession of ... only the fe... offer... more pay... ing women as ...acefully rounded ... ers. The rea... ...ly ex... An ... almost beyond ... French wom... r artistic propor... with a ...

of Morocco are ... woman charming ...n and hand; the ... as it is guarded ... covers the head ... one hand the ... is well versed ... holds the folds ... her face, obscu... features, but ... reveal her hand ... shows that in ... the powers of ... Philadelphia In...

hand we gesti... herefore it is im... e a superabund... strength in the ... the lower, supple... ld be the main ...esting to know ... a really beau... rom ancient stat... from the shoul... elbow, and tap... l and shapely ... notioed plump... re to be comely, ...ack refinement ... large hands and ...ather than firm... the articulation ...

...rm, handlike in ...ssors of which ... than laughed ... slender sisters; ...to the wiles of ...ocial their too ...

...owners of the ...suggest a mad ...m, where they ...ould up the va...

ROMANCE.

...how the Count... t not her first ...erick of S...slos... burg and so ... of those amus... mpress Eugenie ... them up to be ...ional beauties. ...e in no danger ...orthcomers. She ...ns and McGrud... godmo her in a ... of considerable ...e Marquise de ...hose husband ...rtfolio Prince ...me to Paris to ...r the Schwig... ved an invita... ances, and felt ...of youth, beauty ... maiden's man... l about its mis... in five weeks it ... but as I saw ... ad to make a ... I—Elmer Lee, ... the flower of ... i to her and ... some delay to ... s assured her ... twenty-seven ... his case of a ... me before the ...ph, and stated ...ty would great... if so promised ..., in the great ... the title of ... being a village ... Joseph Sampa... as he has since ...ers of his own ...ns.—The ... early spring of ... took place in ... of the same ... died at Bair... idow still bear... married Comm... ca, in Washing... —Indianapolis ...

T REIGN

...ink mercerized ...nto most attrac... s for mid-sum...

... is becoming ...ops with the ...th for a walk... rained skirt ...ns, relieved by ... popular. ...rapery veil for ... the new show... ...or lace is al...

Miss Hapgood tells how she was cured of Fallopian and Ovarian Inflammation—and escaped an awful operation by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for four years with what the doctors called Salpingitis (inflammation of the fallopian tubes) and ovaritis, which are most distressing and painful ailments, affecting all the surrounding parts, undermining the constitution, and sapping the life forces. If you had seen me a year ago, before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and had noticed the sunken eyes, sallow complexion, and general emaciated condition, and compared that person with me as I am today, robust, hearty and well, you would not wonder that I feel thankful to you and your wonderful medicine, which restored me to new life and health in five months, and saved me from an awful operation."—MISS IRENE HAPGOOD, 1022 Sandwich St., Windsor, Ont.

Ovaritis or inflammation of the ovaries or fallopian tubes which adjoin the ovaries may result from sudden stopping of the monthly flow, from inflammation of the womb, and many other causes. The slightest indication of trouble with the ovaries, indicated by dull throbbing pain in the side, accompanied by heat and shooting pains, should claim your instant attention. It will not cure itself, and a hospital operation, with all its terrors, may easily result from neglect.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words.

"Before I wrote to you telling how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady and spent lots of money in medicine besides, but it all failed to do me any good. My menses did not appear in that time, and I suffered much pain. I would daily have fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing down pain, and was so weak that it was hard for me to do my work.

"I used your medicine and treatment as directed, and after taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, menses appeared, my womb troubles left me, and I have been regular ever since. I used fourteen bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier together, and am now restored to perfect health. Had it not been for you, I would have been in my grave.

"I will always recommend your wonderful remedies, and hope that these few lines may lead others who suffer as I did to try your remedies."—MRS. T. C. WILLADSEN, R. R. No. 1, Manning, Iowa.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women.

Women should remember that they are privileged to consult Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., about their illness, entirely free.

SOUTHERN DENTAL COLLEGE, ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

If you are interested in obtaining a dental education, write for free catalogue of full instruction.

ADDRESS DR. S. W. FOSTER, DEAN, 100 NORTH BUTLER STREET, ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

Well Worth Seeing.

One of the most interesting exhibits among the many of all kinds at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis is that of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, of New Haven, Conn., manufacturers of repeating rifles and shotguns and all kinds of ammunition. The exhibit was in readiness and was opened on the first day of the fair, a fact that clearly illustrates the enterprise and up-to-date methods of the company behind it. It is the aim of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company to show at their exhibit the high development which they have reached in the making of guns and ammunition, and one needs only to see the exhibit to realize how near to perfection that development has come. There can be seen the new automatic repeating rifle, all kinds of shotguns, the modern smokeless powder shotgun shells and rifle cartridges; in fact everything that can interest the devotees of hunting and trap and target shooting. Don't fail to see the exhibit at the Manufacturers and Fish and Game Buildings. It's well worth your while.

Municipal pawnshops are projected in London.

It is said that Professor Markwald has discovered minute quantities of a new radio-active substance in pitchblende which is associated with tellurium. On account of its associations he has named it radiotellurium. The professor says the new substance is even more difficult to extract than radium.

BOTANIC B.B.B. BLOOD BALM

The Great Tested Remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers, Eczema, Sores, Eruptions, Weakness, Nervousness, and all

BLOOD AND SKIN DISEASES.

It is by far the best building up Tonic and Blood Purifier ever offered to the world. It makes new, rich blood, imparts renewed vitality, and possesses almost miraculous healing properties. Write for Book of Wonderful Cures, sent free on application.

If not kept by your local druggist, send $1.00 for a large bottle, or $5.00 for six bottles, and medicine will be sent, freight paid, by

BLOOD BALM CO., Atlanta, Ga.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

In a recent report, Professor Green, principal of the eye hospital attached to the Berlin university, says that in some cases blind persons are able to distinguish certain objects illuminated by radium rays. He also found that those whose optic nerve had not been destroyed could see objects in front of a screen made fluorescent by radium. He concludes by saying, however, that the blind cannot expect for some time to get any relief from this new element.

A locomotive has recently been turned out for the Baltimore and Ohio railway which weighs three hundred and twenty thousand pounds, has six pairs of driving wheels, and a boiler thirty-eight feet in length and seven feet in diameter. It is estimated that this locomotive will be fifty per cent more powerful than any other ever put together.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

Every year 5000 tons of Congo rubber are sold in the market of Antwerp.

Ladies Can Wear Shoes

One size smaller after using Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder. It makes tight or new shoes easy. Cures swollen, hot, sweating, aching feet, ingrowing nails, corns and bunions. At all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. Trial package FREE by mail. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N.Y.

Lidium, made of compressed cork, is used for making furniture, etc.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

Saxony has seven schools for training locksmiths and blacksmiths.

I do not believe Piso's Cure for Consumption has an equal for coughs and colds.—JOHN F. BOYER, Trinity Springs, Ind., Feb. 15, 1900.

Russia has almost three times the population of Japan.

We take pleasure in calling attention to the advertisement of the Southern Dental College, Atlanta, Ga. It is recommended as one of the best dental colleges in the country. Thoroughly equipped in every way.

AN OBSERVATION HIVE.

WATCHING BEES AS AN AMUSEMENT FOR INVALIDS.

The Stately Progress of the Queen as She Carefully Inspects Each Cell Before Depositing an Egg in It—Cost of Hive Moderate.

"An observation hive is invaluable in the nursery, the kindergarten, a children's hospital or a convalescents' home. In fact, it is an ideal diversion for 'shut-ins' of whatever age or degree of bondage," says a writer in Country Life in America. "I speak from experience, and my enthusiasm reaches fever heat and almost takes away my power of expression as I realize the futility of mere words to describe the harm which holds one spellbound while watching the almost endless variety of work going on in the hive. The stately progress of the queen as she carefully inspects each cell before depositing an egg in it, closely attended by a band of workers who feed her and wait upon her assiduously, is very interesting. Some of the bees hang for hours in long string (reminding one of rope portieres) making wax. Others are diligently shaping cells from the bright colored kinds of pollen and pack it away in the cells. Some bring in the nectar and others evaporate it until it is of the right consistency for sealing up in the form of honey. The ventilation and temperature of the hive also receive much attention from the workers.

"As I live on the fourth floor, and am permanently unable to sit up at all, or to have a pillow under my head, unable to see even the tree tops except as reflected in mirrors arranged to give me that pleasure, you can see how limited must be my range of occupations, and how eager I am that others similarly circumstanced may have this added to their possibilities.

"A hive takes up but little space. Mine had a bottom board, or floor, about four inches wide and two feet long. The sides were glass, about ten inches high and some eighteen inches long, just far enough apart to give room for one sheet of honeycomb, with space enough for the bees to work on both sides of it—i.e., perhaps one and one-half inches clear on the inside. The ends and top were of wood. A board similar to the 'bottom board' above referred to, with an opening of sufficient size for the projecting end of the bottom to pass through, was fitted across the windowsill and screwed down. When the window was closed it rested on this board, the hive was held securely in place, and there as no opening for the bees to get into the room. The entrance to the hive is a hole in the floor so arranged that one end is inside the hive and the other end outside the window.

"The cost is moderate, as little material is required, and almost any man who has a few simple tools and moderate skill in using them can make one in a short time. Then a sheet of comb with the necessary bees—the workers and a queen—which can readily be procured from any practical beekeeper, completes the outfit.

"If one knows nothing about bees it might be desirable to have an apiarist inspect the hive occasionally, to see that all is well. But I had mine an entire summer without requiring expert attention. It is delightful to have a bee book, to which you can refer for the corroboration of your 'discoveries.' With such an opportunity to observe the interior life of the hive even a helpless person feels some of the joy of original research. One soon learns to interpret the various movements, though occasionally some are decidedly perplexing.

"One especial charm of this hive as an 'invalid's pastime' is that, notwithstanding the varied and active life, so near that it can be closely observed without the least physical effort, there is absolutely no fear of being one's self molested; neither is there any noise or confusion. Simply closing one's eyes leaves one with no reminder of an outside presence."

HEAT WITHOUT FIRE.

Soldiers' Rations Now Warmed by Water Application.

The United States government, while exercising great care in equipping its army, has been equally as considerate in supplying the most modern foodstuffs for its consumption. The serious problem to be contended with is the furnishing of materials that have large nutritive constituents and at the same time can be conveniently carried. Commissary General Weston a few days ago said that one of the best concentrated rations yet found is a mixture of fresh beef and fresh vegetables; a food that is healthful and palatable, and which can be supplied to the troops wherever they go. This preparation, says the Chicago Chronicle, is put up in hermetically sealed cans, which preserves its freshness for an indefinite period. Only the best parts of the animal are used, and the vegetables compounded are onions and potatoes. Experiments are now being made with this new food, and so far it has been found very satisfactory.

The War Department has recently been making some experiments with self-heated canned goods which are a new invention. They come in double-jacket cans, the space between the two jackets being occupied by unslacked lime. All that has to be done to heat these is to punch a hole in the bottom at the proper place and pour in a little water. An intense heat is generated immediately, and within a few moments the contents are ready to serve. This process is especially adaptable for heating coffee. Candy is another material not supplied as a regular ration, but is furnished to the soldiers at cost. Certain things are found not to be absolutely requisite as necessaries, but nevertheless are deemed essential for the comfort of the men.

Another difficulty encountered by this department has been the supplying of rations satisfactory for emergency purposes, for the use of soldiers who have been detached from their commands. Under such circumstances they are obliged to carry with them in their haversacks their supply of food. A ration which has been finally decided upon for this purpose has the form of a sort of cartridge packed in boxes and weighing a trifle over a pound. Each one of these boxes contains enough food for a day, which is divided up in oiled paper. These packets contain a yellowish meallike stuff which can be converted into soup. This preparation is composed of two parts parched wheat and one-third evaporated beef. Eggs concentrated by evaporation are also now being used in enormous quantities.

WOMAN'S CURIOSITY.

Leads to Discovery of Only Turquoise Mine in Mexico.

Perhaps the first mine in all the world that has been discovered because of a woman's insatiable curiosity has been developed in the State of Zacatecas in the Santa Rosa district, near Bonanza. From time immemorial it has been an adage among miners that the best mines have been located by accident. Prospectors have been known to discover a lode through the kicking of a piece of metal from an unknown ledge by their mules' hoofs. Cripple Creek was discovered by the merest accident by Stratton; but it remained for a woman, Mrs. V. M. Clement, to discover a rich deposit of turquoise, reputed to be the only one in Mexico, in the Santa Rosa mine, while searching for pretty stones on the dump of the Prospect.

The mine was then being worked by V. D. Williamson and some associates as a lead silver prospect. They had never even suspected the existence of turquoise. Telling the story, Manager Williamson said:

"Mrs. Clement was a large stockholder in the company. She lived at Bonanza and it had been the joke of the other members that she was always prowling around the dump picking up pieces of ore and claiming they were all sorts of things, other than what they were. One day about thirteen months ago she went out to the dump and picked up a pretty, light blue stone, which was very hard and shiny. She thought it would do for her collection, so she took it home.

"Upon her arrival she compared it with a piece of turquoise she had bought in the United States and come to the conclusion that it was turquoise. The other members of the company laughed, thinking it was another joke on Mrs. Clement. We had been mining the property for lead and silver. Mrs. Clement was so persistent that we sent the specimen to Mexico City and had it analyzed. The report came back that it was pure phosphate of aluminum, or turquoise.

"After this report was made other samples were taken, and the company became satisfied that the stone was turquoise. Now the mine is being worked solely for the gem.—Mexican Herald.

How Mr. Frog's Wit Saved Him.

One day a jolly old pelican was walking on the shore of a pond when he came across Mr. Bullfrog. "Hello," said he, "you're just the fellow I was looking for. My stomach reminds me that it is about dinner time, and there is no one that I should rather have present at my meals than you, sir." And he chuckled to himself.

"You don't intend to eat me, do you?" asked the frog anxiously.

"Well, that was the calculation I was figuring on," replied the pelican.

"But I'm green,' said the frog.

"Good joke.' laughed the pelican, "but I feel sure you're ripe." And, putting his long neck down quickly, Mr. Pelican scooped up Mr. Frog.

As he reached the pelican's great pouch the frog cried out, "Oh, Mr. Pelican, let me ask you a riddle."

"Go on," said he.

"Why are you like a cough drop?" asked the frog.

"Give it up to save time," said the pelican.

"Because you've got a frog in your throat," answered the frog.

That was more than Mr. Pelican could stand. He opened his mouth and laughed enough to kill himself.

Mr. Bullfrog, seeing the chance he wanted, made good his escape.

There are times when it is a good thing to know a joke or two.—Chattanooga Times.

Gives Wedding Fees to Charity.

Mayor Henry M. Doremus, of Newark, N. J., gave $260 to the home for crippled children of that city. When he took office at the beginning of the year he found that a considerable sum came in from marriage fees. He is a wealthy man, and while he did not want to establish a free marriage bureau, he was unwilling to take the fees for his own use. He decided therefore to turn them over to a worthy local charity.

WHY HOT WEATHER MAKES WOMEN NERVOUS.

A Well Known Canadian Lady Sends Letter of Endorsement to Pe-ru-na.

Suggestions by Dr. Hartman—How to Combat the Nervous Depression Incident to Warm Weather.

Nervousness is very common among women. This condition is due to anaemic nerve centers. The nerve centers are the reservoir for nerve vitality. These centers become bloodless for the want of proper nutrition.

This condition is especially noticeable during the warm season. Every summer an army of invalids are produced as a direct result of weak nervous systems.

This could easily be overcome by the use of Peruna. Peruna strikes at the root of the trouble by correcting the digestion. Perfect digestion furnishes increased nutrition for the nerve centres. Perfectly digested food gives these reservoirs of life a vitality which creates strong, steady nerves, and in this manner fortifies and nourishes life.

Miss Blanche Grey, a prominent young society woman of Memphis, Tenn., in a recent letter from 174 Alabama street, writes: "To a society woman whose nervous force is often taxed to the utmost from lack of rest and irregular meals, I know of nothing which is of so much benefit as Peruna. I took it a few months ago when I felt my strength giving way, and it soon made itself manifest in giving me new strength and health."—Miss Blanche Grey.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peruna does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

At this season of the year we are peculiarly liable to inflammations of the stomach and bowels. It is the part of wisdom to learn how to treat them short and in the easiest and quickest manner. Peruna does this by its peculiar power over all forms of catarrhal troubles.

Narrow Streets in Japan.

Most of the Japanese cities are very old and their streets are too narrow for street railways. To rebuild the streets for the use of the street railways is not an easy matter.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY make oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A.D., 1886. SEAL. A.W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

American Shoes in Denmark.

The American-made shoe is popular in Denmark. Two of the foremost shoe stores in Copenhagen use the American shoe for a "leader" in their splendid show window exhibits.

Feet Hurt,

Sweat, itch, blister? ROYAL FOOT WASH cures them. Removes odors of feet, armpits, etc.; stops chafing. If not at druggists send 25c to EATON DRUG CO., Atlanta, Ga., for full size, postpaid; sample for 2c stamp. One application proves its merit. Money back if not satisfied.

The authentic history of hymn tunes begins with Hilary of Poitiers, who died in 368. St. Ambrose, the Great, who died in 604, gave hymn making an impetus that made it secure. The chorale was introduced by Luther. The oldest known hymn book was published in 1621 and was called "The Whole Book of Psalms." The hymns of Watts marked the beginning of the popular epoch and those of Wesley its high water mark. It has been estimated that there are now at least 400,000 hymns in all languages, of which the greatest number are in German and the next greatest number are in English.

A new acid has been discovered by Dr. William Foster of Princeton university, which he has named the trisulphoxyarsenic acid.

A REASON FOR SICKNESS.

Healthy kidneys take from the blood every twenty-four hours 500 grains of impure, poisonous matter—more than enough to cause death. Weakened kidneys leaves this waste in the blood, and you are soon sick. To get well, cure the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills, the great kidney specific.

Mrs. J. H. Bowles, Durham, N. C., says: "I was sick and bedfast for over nine months, and the doctor who attended me said unless I submitted to an operation for gravel I would never be well. I would not consent to that and so continued to suffer. My back was so weak I could not stand or walk, and it ached constantly. The first day after I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I felt relief, and in a short time I was up and around the same as ever, free from backache."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Bowles will be mailed to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers, price fifty cents per box.

A Rich Gold Strike.

One of the strikes of gold quartz lately made in British Columbia consists of a veritable network of ore. The United States consul at Rossland says that when a sample as large as a cocoanut is broken up the fragments are held together by the network of gold running through the rock. The prospectors who found this vein broke off a piece of rock from a ledge on Poplar creek and the gold held the particles together as in a chain. The ore is very rich, some of it yielding thousands of dollars to the ton.

In Tartary no father will surrender his daughter unless he gets a goodly quantity of butter in return, and in certain parts of India no girl can marry until her father has been pacified by a present of rice and a few rupees.

INSOMNIA

"I have been using Cascarets for Insomnia, with which I have been afflicted for over twenty years, and I confess that Cascarets have given me more relief than any other remedy I have ever tried. I shall certainly recommend them to my friends as being all they are represented."
Thos. Gillard, Elgin, Ill.

Best For The Bowels Cascarets CANDY CATHARTIC

THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

Pleasant. Palatable. Potent. Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back.
Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or N.Y. 307

ANNUAL SALE, TEN MILLION BOXES

FREE to WOMEN

A Large Trial Box and book of instructions absolutely Free and Postpaid, enough to prove the value of

Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic

Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water—non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution—lasts longer—goes further—has many uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.

The formula of a noted Boston physician, and used with great success as a Vaginal Wash, for Leucorrhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal Catarrh, Sore Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, and all soreness of mucus membrane.

In local treatment of female ills Paxtine is invaluable. Used as a Vaginal Wash we challenge the world to produce its equal for thoroughness. It is a revelation in cleansing and healing power; it kills all germs which cause inflammation and discharges.

All leading druggists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. a box; if yours does not, send to us for it. Don't take a substitute—there is nothing like Paxtine.

Write for the Free Box of Paxtine to-day.
R. PAXTON CO., 7 Pope Bldg., Boston, Mass.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 10 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

RIPANS TABULES are the best dyspepsia medicine ever made. A hundred millions of them have been sold in a single year. Constipation, heartburn, sick headache, dizziness, bad breath, sore throat and every illness arising from a disordered stomach are relieved or cured by Ripans Tabules. One will generally give relief within twenty minutes. The five cent package is enough for an ordinary occasion. All druggists sell them.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

SCHOOL DISTRICTS.

No. 1, "Valley Creek:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 22, running W. 2 miles to Little Oakmulgee creek, thence down the creek to the S. W. corner of Sec. 29, thence W. 1 mile to county line, thence S. 1 mile to county line, thence E. 4 miles, thence N. 3 miles to point of beginning, all lying in T. 20, R. 11.

No. 2, "Oden:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 3, running W. 4 miles to county line, thence S. along county line 5 miles, thence E. to Little Oakmulgee creek, thence up said creek to the N. E. corner of Sec. 20, thence E. 2 miles to the N. E. corner of Sec. 22, thence N. 3 miles to point of beginning, all situated in T. 20, R. 11.

No. 3, "Riderville:" Bounded as follows: Beginning at the S. W. corner of Sec. 35, in T. 20, R. 11, running N. 3 1-2 miles, thence E. to Big Mulberry creek, thence down said creek to county line, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 4, "Stanton:" Beginning at the 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 14 and 15 in T. 20, R 11, running N. 2 1-2 miles to township line dividing T. 20, R. 11, and T. 21, R. 11, thence E. 1 mile to the S. W corner of Sec. 36, T. 21, R. 11, thence N. E. to the N. E. corner of Sec. 36, T. 21, R. 11, thence E. to Big Mulberry creek, thence down said creek to where it crosses section line between 33 and 34, thence S to the S. E. corner Sec. 9, T. 20, R 12, thence W to Big Mulberry creek, thence down said creek to the 1-2 mile line in Sec. 17, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 5, "Alpine:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 24, T. 20, R. 12, running S. along range line 2 1-2 miles, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile to county line, thence W. along county line to Big Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses section line between 8 and 17, T. 20, R. 12, thence E. to the N. E. corner Sec. 16, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 6, "Adams:" Beginning at N. E. corner Sec. 36, T. 21, R. 12, running S. to S. E. corner of Sec. 13, T. 20, R. 12, thence W. to S. W. corner Sec. 15, thence N. to Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses section line between 27 and 34, T. 21, R. 12, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 7, "Weaver Field:" Beginning at N. W. corner of Sec. 18, T. 20, R. 13, running E. to Little Mulberry creek, thence down said creek to county line, thence W. along county line to the 1-2 mile stob of Sec. 36, T. 20, R. 13, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile to range line, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 8, "Wayside:" Beginning at the S. W. corner Sec. 7, T. 20, R. 13, running N. 2 1-3 miles to 1-2 mile stake, Sec. 31, T. 21, R. 13, thence E. to Little Mulberry Creek, thence down said creek to where it crosses the S. line of 9 and 10, T. 20, R. 13, thence west to point of beginning.

No. 9, "Center Point:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 36, T. 20, R. 13, running W. along county line to Little Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to a point 1 mile S. of township line in T. 20, R. 13, thence E. to Swift creek, thence down said creek to county line, thence W. along county line to S. E. corner of Sec. 13, thence S. to point of beginning.

No. 10, "Popwell:" Beginning at a point 1 mile S. of township line on Little Mulberry creek, T. 20, R. 13, running up said creek to a point 1-2 mile N. of township line in T. 21, R. 13, thence E. to Swift creek, thence down Swift creek to a point 1 mile S. of township line in T. 20, R. 14, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 11, "Beth Salem:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 3, T 20, R. 14, running S. 1 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence S. to county line, thence W. along county line to Swift creek, thence up said creek to where it forks, thence up E. prong of said creek to township line dividing T. 20, R. 14 and T. 21, R. 14, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 12, "Billingsley:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 34, T. 21, R. 14, running S. 1 mile, thence W. to E. prong of Swift creek, thence down said creek to the fork, thence up west prong of Swift creek to 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 29 and 30, T. 21, R. 14, thence E. to the 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 27 and 28, T. 21, R. 14, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 13, "Enterprise:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 18, T. 20, R. 15, running N. to 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 31 and 32, T. 21, R. 15, thence W. to 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 31 and 35, T. 21, R. 14, thence S 1 1-2 miles, thence 1-2 mile E., thence S. 2 miles to county line, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 14, "Evergreen:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 5, T. 20, R. 15, running E. 3 miles, thence N. to South Prong creek, thence E. 1 mile along said creek, thence S. to township line dividing T. 21, R. 15 and T. 20, R. 15, thence E. 3-4 mile, thence S. to county line, thence W. 3 3-4 miles, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 15, "Verbena:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 13, T. 20, R. 15, running N. to Sandy creek, thence down said creek to Chestnut creek, thence N. along section lines to the N. E. corner, Sec. 30, T. 21, R. 16, thence W. 1 1-2 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. to county line, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 16, "McDonald:" Beginning at the S. W. corner Sec. 18, T. 20, R. 16, running N. to Sandy creek, thence down said creek to Chestnut creek, thence down Chestnut creek to Coosa river, thence down Coosa river to the county line, thence W. along county line to point of beginning.

No. 17, "Bethel:" Beginning at the S. E. corner, Sec. 33, T. 21, R. 15, running N. 1 mile, thence E. 1-4 mile, thence N. to Chestnut creek, thence up said creek to a point 1-4 mile S. of the south line of Sec. 16, thence west to range line, thence S. along range line 2 1-4 miles, thence E. 1 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 18, "Cooper:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 35, T. 21, R. 15, running N. 1 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence N. 1 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence W. to Chestnut creek, thence down said creek to a point 1-4 mile E. of section line between 27 and 28, thence S. to section line, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. to South Prong creek, thence E. along said creek 1 mile, thence S. to township line, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 19, "Corinth:" Beginning at the mouth of Chestnut creek, running up said creek to section line between 31 and 32, T. 21, R. 16, thence N. 2 miles, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. to Blue creek, thence down Blue creek to Coosa river, thence down said river to point of beginning.

No. 20, "Ingram:" Beginning at the S. W. corner Sec. 31, T. 21, R. 11, running E. 5 miles, thence N. E. to the N. E. corner Sec. 36, thence N. 2 miles, thence W. 5 miles to Big Oakmulgee creek, thence down said creek to the county line, thence down said county line to point of beginning.

No. 21, "County Line:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 6, T. 21, R. 11, running E. 2 miles, thence S. to Big Oakmulgee creek, thence down said creek to the county line, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 22, "Shoults:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 4, T. 21, R. 11, running E. 4 miles, thence S. 3 miles, thence W. to Big Oakmulgee creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses the section line between 8 and 9, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 23, "Maplesville:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 6, T. 21, R. 12, running S. 5 miles, thence E. to Big Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to range line, thence N. to the N. E. corner Sec. 13, thence W. 2 miles, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. 2 miles, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. to point of beginning.

N. 24, "Golden Ridge:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 28, T. 22, R. 12, running S. 3 miles to the S. W. corner Sec. 4, T. 21, R. 12, thence E. 2 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. 2 miles to range line, thence N. 4 miles to the N. E. corner Sec. 25, T. 22, R. 12 ,thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 25, "Sardis:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 20, T. 21, R. 13, running W. 2 miles, thence S. to Mulberry creek, thence down said creek to where it crosses section line between 27 and 34, thence E. to range line, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence E. 2 1-2 miles, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 26, "Culp:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 12, T. 21, R. 13, running W. 2 miles, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 3-4 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence S. 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 1 1-2 miles, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence N. to Little Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to range line, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 27, "Bynum:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 7, T. 21, R. 14, running S. 2 miles, thence E. to Swift creek, thence down said creek to 1-2 mile line, crossing section 32, thence W. to 1-2 mile stake on section line between 34 and 35, T. 21, R. 13, thence N. 1-2 miles, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence N. to Little Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to the range line, thence N. to the N. W. corner Sec. 7, T. 21, R. 14, thence E. to the point of beginning.

No. 28, "Highlands:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 8, T. 21, R. 14, running E. 3 miles, thence S. 4 miles, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence W. to Swift creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses section line between 17 and 20, thence W. to the S. W. corner of Sec. 17, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 29, "Aldridge:" Beginning at 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 31 and 36 on range line dividing T. 21, R. 14 and T. 21, R. 15, running N. along range line to Walnut creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses the section line between 2 and 3 in T. 21, R. 14, thence S. to the 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 34 and 35, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 30, "Maple Springs:" Beginning at the 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 3 and 4, T. 21, R. 15, running west 3 miles, thence S. 2 3-4 miles, thence E. 3 miles, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 31, "Cross Roads:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 12, T. 21, R. 15, running W. 3 miles, thence S. 2 1-4 miles, thence W. to Chestnut creek, thence down said creek to the 1-2 mile line of Sec. 21, thence E. to range line, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 32, "Walnut Creek:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 16, T. 22, R. 15, running S. to Hog Creek, thence down said creek to 1-2 mile line in Sec. 22, thence S. to the south line of Sec. 3, T. 21, R. 15, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence W. 3 miles, thence N. to Walnut creek, thence down said creek to point of beginning.

No. 33, "Providence:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 1, T. 21, R. 15, running N. 1 mile, thence E. 500 yards, thence N. to Walnut creek, thence up said creek to Hog creek, thence up said creek to the 1-2 mile line of Sec. 22, T. 22, R. 15, thence S. to the south line of Sec. 3, T. 21, R. 15, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 34, "Pleasant Cherry:" Beginning at the mouth of Walnut creek, running down Coosa river to the mouth of Blue creek, thence up said creek to the range line between T. 21, R 15 and T. 21, R. 16, thence N. to the N. E. corner Sec. 1, T. 21, R. 15, thence E. 500 yards, thence N. to Walnut creek, thence down said creek to point of beginning.

No. 35, "Macedonia:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 1, T. 22, R. 12, running S. 2 miles, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. 2 miles, thence W. to county line, thence N. 4 miles, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 36, "Mullins' Hill:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 15, T. 22 R. 13, running S. 1 mile thence W. to Gail creek, thence down said creek to the south line of Sec. 29, thence W. to the range line, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence N. 2 miles, thence E. 1-4 mile, thence N. 1 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence S. 1-4 mile, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence S. 3-4 mile, then E. to point of beginning.

No. 37, "Isabella:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 28, T. 22, R. 13, running S. 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 1-2 mile, thence S. 2 miles, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 1-4 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 2 miles, thence N. 4 miles, thence E. to Mulberry creek, thence up said creek to the south line of Sec. 20, thence E. to the point of beginning.

No. 38, "Pine Oak:" Beginning at the N. E. corner of Sec. 28, T. 22, R. 13, running S. 3 miles, thence W. 2 miles, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. 2 miles, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. 2 1-2 miles, thence E. 1 1-2 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 39, "Unity:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 3, T. 21, R. 14, running W. to the range line, thence N. 3 1-4 miles, thence E. 3 miles, thence S. to Skull Bone branch, thence down said branch to Goose Pond creek, thence down said creek to section line between 34 and 35, thence S. to the point of beginning.

No. 40, "Lomax:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 14, T. 22, R. 14, running W. 1 mile, thence N. to Yellow Leaf creek, thence up said creek to Gum swamp, thence up said swamp to the N. W. corner of Sec. 21, thence S. 3-4 mile, thence E. 1 mile, thence S. to Skull Bone branch, thence down said branch to Goose Pond creek, thence down said creek to the S. E. corner Sec. 26, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 41, "Cedar Grove:" Beginning at the S. W. corner Sec. 14, T. 22, R. 13, running N. 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 5 miles, thence S. to Yellow Leaf creek, thence up said creek to Gum swamp, thence up Gum swamp to the S. W. corner Sec. 16, T. 22, R. 14, thence S. 3-4 mile, thence W. 2 miles, thence S. 1-4 miles, thence W. 1 1-2 miles, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. to point of beginning.

43, "Cane Creek:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 4, T. 22, R. 15, running W. 3 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 2 miles, thence N. to Yellow Leaf creek, thence down said creek to the range line, thence S. along range line to the N. W. corner Sec. 6, thence E. 3 miles, thence S. to point of beginning.

No. 44, "Union Point:" Beginning at the mouth of Walnut creek, running up said creek to the mouth of Hog creek, thence up Hog creek to section line between Sec. 21 and 22, T. 22, R. 15, thence N. to 1-2 mile stake between Sec. 3 and 4, thence E. to Coosa river, thence down said river to point of beginning.

No. 45, "Pleasant Grove:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 10, T. 22, R. 13, running W. 3 miles, thence N. 3-4 mile, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. 1-4 mile, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. 2 1-2 miles, thence E. 4 miles, thence S. to point of beginning.

No. 47, "Mineral Springs:" Beginning at the S. E. corner Sec. 25, T. 22, R. 14, running W. 2 miles, thence N. W. to the N. W. corner of Sec. 27, thence N. 1 mile, thence E. 1 mile, thence N. to Blue Gut creek, thence down said creek to range line, thence S. along range line to point of beginning.

No. 49, "Flint Hill:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 22, T. 23, R. 15, running E. to the Coosa river, thence down said river to 1-2 line in Sec. 6, T. 22, R. 16, thence W. to 1-2 mile stake on section line between 3 and 4, T. 22, R. 15, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 50, "Marcus:" Beginning at the S. W. corner Sec. 15, T. 23, R. 15, running N. to Waxahatchee creek, thence down said creek to Coosa river, thence down said river to the S. E. corner Sec. 13, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 52, "Freeman:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 21, T. 23, R. 12, running E. 2 3-4 miles, thence S 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 1 1-4 miles, thence S. 1 1-2 miles, thence W. 4 miles, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 53, "Moore's Spring:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 4, T. 23, R. 12, running E. 3 miles, thence S 1 mile, thence E. 1 mile, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 1 1-4 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 2 3-4 miles, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 54, "Mars Hill:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 18, T. 23, R. 13, running W. 2 1-4 miles, thence S. 2 1-2 miles, thence E. 3 1-4 miles, thence N. 2 miles, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 55, "Center Hill:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 15, T. 23, R. 13, running W 1 1-4 miles, thence N 1 mile, thence W. 1 1-4 miles, thence S. W. to the S. W. corner Sec. 8, thence S. 1-2 mile, thence E. 1 mile, thence S. 2 miles, thence E. 2 miles, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 56, "Oak Grove:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 2, T. 23, R. 13, running W. 2 3-4 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence E 1-2 mile, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. 1 1-4 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. 1 1-2 miles, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. 1-2 mile, thence N. to point of beginning.

No. 57, "Rocky Mount:" Beginning at the n. w. corner of Sec. 32, T. 24, R. 14, running s. 1 mile; thence w. to Cobb creek; thence down said creek to the n. e. corner of Sec. 7, T. 23, R. 14; thence s. 2 miles; thence w. 1 1-2 miles; thence n. 3 miles; thence e. to point of beginning. tf

No. 58, "Providence:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 28, T. 24, R. 13, running S. 2 miles, thence W. 3-4 miles, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 3-4 mile, thence S. W. to the S. W. corner Sec. 8, T. 23, R. 13, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. 1 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence N 1 mile, thence E. 1 mile, thence N 1 1-2 miles, thence E. 2 miles, thence N. 1-2 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 59, "Concord." Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 17, T. 24, R. 13, running S. 2 1-2 miles, thence W. 2 miles, thence S. 1 1-2 miles, thence W. 4 miles, thence N. 4 miles, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 60, "Ocampo:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 23, T. 24, R. 13, running S. 1 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence S. 1 mile, thence W. 2 miles, thence N. 1 3-4 miles, thence E. 1 mile, thence N. 1-4 mile, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 61, "South Calera:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 13, running S. 2 miles, thence W. 2 miles, thence S. 1-4 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. 1-4 mile, thence W. 1 mile, thence N. 2 miles, thence E. to point of beginning.

No. 62, "Cedar Springs:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 18, T. 24, R. 14, running S. 3 miles, thence E. 1 mile, thence S. 1 mile, thence E. 3 miles, thence N. 1 mile to Buzzard Roost branch, thence down said branch to Stumps creek, thence down said creek to county line, thence W. to point of beginning.

No. 63, "Smiths:" Beginning at the N. E. corner Sec. 13, T. 24, R. 14, running S. to Blue Gut creek, thence up said creek to where it crosses section lines between 2 and 3 in T. 23, R. 14, thence N. to Buzzard Roost branch, thence down said branch to Stumps creek, thence down said creek to county line to point of beginning.

No. 64, "Vandersllce:" Beginning at the N. W. corner Sec. 18, T. 24, R. 15, on county line, running S. 4 miles, thence E. 3 miles, thence N. to Waxahatchee creek, thence up said creek to county line, thence W. to point of beginning.

Readers will notice that in the description of the outline of district No. 26, "Culp," there is an error. A direction is omitted. We print, however, verbatim from the record on file in the office of the probate judge. tf

LABOR WORLD.

The Brotherhood of Painters is over 75,000 strong.

The average Hindoo workingman in India gets about $9 a year.

A branch of the American Federation of Labor has been organized at Biloxi, Miss.

Troubles of the Nickel Plate Railroad boilermakers have been amicably settled.

Bricklayers in Glasgow, Scotland, to the number of 1800, have suffered a decrease in wages.

All the Jewish bakers are striking for in London is a twelve-hour day and nine cents an hour.

The Bay City (Mich.) Street Railway Company has voluntarily increased the wages of its employes.

Demanding semi-monthly pay days, 200 men went on strike at the Royal Paper Mill, in Montreal.

Machinists on the northeast coast of England have made a demand for an increase in wages of two shillings a week.

The union plumbers of Atlanta, Ga., struck for an increase of pay from $3.50 to $4 per day and a decrease of hours from nine to eight.

Delegates from the building trades seceded from the Central Federated Union because socialists were allowed to speak on the Colorado mine troubles.

A new labor union has been formed at San Francisco, Cal., to be known as Stone Sawyers' Union. It has applied to the Building Trades Council for affiliation.

Five hundred miners in Sullivan County, Ind., will return to work at once, having been allowed eighty-five cents a ton for screened coal, a compromise on the amount asked.

The Toronto Trades Council has provided for the purchase of a $30,000 labor temple, to be managed by trustees representing the wage-earning stockholders in the various trades unions.

Hong Kong, China, machinists and boilermakers in shipbuilding and repair plants get from $1 to $1.20 a day, laborers from forty to sixty cents a day and apprentices from thirty to sixty cents a day.

Something Free.

The California delegation combined business with politics. When they arrived they brought with them $10,000 worth of wines and fruits to be distributed free at the convention.

The Talladega company, the corporation erecting the power electrical plant at Jackson's shoals, has invited the leading business men to inspect the plant, and enjoy a barbecue at the shoals on July 4th. When completed the plant can furnish electrical power to all nearby towns like Oxford, Sylacauga, Anniston and Ironaton.

James Lee, of Birmingham, and Herman Alford, son of a farmer near Riverside, were drowned in the Coosa river Friday. They were little boys and were in swimming.

In Alabama these new industr reported: Atmore, mill and ch pany; Birmingham, land co Canton Bend, cotton gin; Fort P iron mines (near); Bangor, coa

The forty-third annual conven the National Educational Asso will be held at the world's fair g this week.

The national prohibition party in Indianapolis this week.

California's fruit crop this y reported very poor.

Albany, Ga., is to have a tel exchange.

The Sak's Store

Birmingham, Alabama

READY-MADE Apparel for M Women and Children.

Our Mail Order Department is qu efficient and serviceable.

Write for Catalogue

A most complete

Stock of General Merch dise, Dress Goods, F

The Millinery Department

Is complete in every detail and is in ch of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara S of St. Louis

P. D. WILSO

CLANTON, ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN POULTRY YAR

WE have as good CHICKE as there are in the cou

Barred Plymouth Roc

And you may have 15 fresh eggs for 50c. I want them shipped p add 10c for packing.

Give us a trial and we can plea

MRS. W. NI

Maplesville, Ala

GENERAL MERCHANDISE A FERTILIZERS

FOR SALE.

Troy Special & Mule Bra

"Are the Best on Earth"

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, - - - Alab

We Have Perfected Arrangements Wherek That Practical and Instructive Newspape

THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER

Known throughout the State of A bama for the full line of State Ne contained in each issue, will be f nished in connection with Our Pu lication at a Remarkably Low Pri

Best County News. Best Sporting News. Best Market and Finan cial Page. Best State News.

For Village, Suburban Residents, and in fact for all ac ly engaged in agricultural pursuits, or family lin Weekly Advertiser will be found well nigh indispens It is pure, bright and practical all the way through. meets the requirements of the entire family. It is pop throughout the South, and no one should be with

Our Great Special Offer:

The Weekly Union one year - $1. Weekly Advertiser one year - $1.

Both for $1.25.

T

VOL II.

ABOUT REGISTERING.

tracts from the general of Alabama.

ection 2. The following p ll be disqualified both fr g and voting. All p persons; those who were in of conviction of crime in voting at the time of tion of the constitution on N 28, 1901; those who ha ce November 28, 1901 convicted of treason, m embezzlement, malfeasance larceny, receiving stolen pro taining money under false p ses, perjury, subornation y, robbery, assault with in , burglary, forgery, bribery, assaul battery on wife, bigamy, living in ultery, sodomy, incest, rape, mi tion, crime against nature, or any me punishable by imprisonment in ntentiary, or for any infamous mes or crime involving moral turpi e; also, any person who has been ce November 28, 1901, or who shall convicted as a vagrant or tramp of selling or offering to sell his e or the vote of another, or of mak or offering to make false returns any election by the people or in y primary election to procure the mination or election of any person any office, or of suborning any wit ss or registrar to secure the regis tion of any person as an elector, ovided that any person who is dis alified from voting by reason of con tion of any of the offenses men ned in this section, except treason, ether the conviction was had in a te or federal court, has been par ned, may be restored to his citi ship with right to vote by the vernor, approved by the board of rdons and specially expressed in the rdon.

Sec. 7 1-2. The following persons l no others, who, if their place of idence shall remain unchanged, ll have, at the date of the next gen al election, the qualifications as to idence prescribed by section 1 of s act, shall be qualified to register electors, provided they shall not disqualified under section 2 of this :

1st. Those who can read and write y article of the constitution of the ited States in the English language who are physically unable to k; and those who can read and ite any article of the constitution the United States in the English nguage, and who have worked or en regularly engaged in some lawful ployment, business or occupation ade or calling for the greater part of e twelve months next preceding the me they offer to register, and those ho are unable to read and write. If ch inability is due solely to physical sability; or,

2d. The owner in good faith in his n right, or the husband of a woman ho is the owner in good faith in r own right, of forty acres of land tuate in this state, upon which they side; or the owner in good faith in s own right, or the husband of any oman who is the owner in good faith her own right, of real estate sit ate in this state, assessed for taxa n at the value of three hundred ollars or more or the owner in good ith, in his own right, or the husband a woman who is the owner in good ith, in her own right, of personal roperty in this state assessed for axation for three hundred dollars or ore; provided, that the taxes due pon such real or personal property r the year next preceding the year which he offers to register shall ave been paid, unless the assessment hall have been legally contested and undetermined.

Sec. 15. Any elector who registered rior to January 1, 1903, who has hanged the county of his residence hall be registered on application on roduction of his certificate, unless he as since become disqualified

Sec. 16. When the certificate of any lector who was duly registered has een lost, mutilated or destroyed, on pplication stating that the certificate as been lost, mutilated or destroyed, nd verified by affidavit, and it ap ears of record that such applicant as been registered, the judge of pro ate of the county of registration or he secretary of state shall issue to he applicant a certificate that he as duly registered as an elector. uch certificate shall be issued free f charge to the elector. The secre ary of state shall at the expense of he state furnish the judge of probate lank certificates for use as provided n this section.

The certificate of the registrars or he judge of probate or of the secre ary of state shall be sufficient to stablish the fact of such registra ion.

Be sure and register when the regis rars are in your beat, as the only xcuse for not doing so is by reason f sickness of yourself or in your amily, or by absence from the coun y. Everybody can register this sum mer who will be qualified by residence r age by the 8th day of November.

company, the corpo- the power electrical 's shoals, has invited iness men to inspect joy a barbecue at the ith. When completed urnish electrical pow- y towns like Oxford, ton and Ironaton. Birmingham, and Her- of a farmer near Riv- wned in the Coosa riv- were little boys and ng

In Alabama these new industr reported: Atmore, mill and gin pany; Birmingham, land co Canton Bend, cotton gin; Fort P iron mines (near); Bangor, cotto

The forty-third annual conve the National Educational Asso will be held at the world's fair g this week.

The national prohibition party in Indianapolis this week.

California's fruit crop this y reported very poor.

Albany, Ga., is to have a telep exchange.

Sak's Store

gham, Alabama

EADY-MADE Apparel for M Vomen and Children.

ur Mail Order Department is qui ficient and serviceable.

or Catalogue

ost complete

Stock of General Mercha dise, Dress Goods, F Millinery tment

Is complete in every detail and is in ch of a first-class milliner, Miss Clara Sm of St. Louis

P. D. WILSO

ALABAMA.

LAWN POULTRY YAR

WE have as good CHICKE as there are in the coun Barred Plymouth Rock And you may have 15 fresh eggs for 50c. If want them shipped pl add 10c for packing.

Give us a trial and we can pleas

MRS. W. NIX

Maplesville, Alab

AL MERCHANDISE A FERTILIZERS

FOR SALE.

Special & Mule Bra Are the Best on Earth"

C. JONES,

Alaba

e Perfected Arrangements Whereby ractical and Instructive Newspaper

HE WEEKLY ADVERTISER

throughout the State of Al or the full line of State New ed in each issue, will be fu in connection with Our Pub at a Remarkably Low Pric est County News. Best Sporting ews. Best Market and Finan- al Page. Best State News.

Suburban Residents, and in fact for all as in agricultural pursuits, or family lite, vertiser will be found well nigh indispensab bright and practical all the way through. equirements of the entire family. It is peer the South; and no one should be witho

ur Great Special Offer:

eekly Union one year - $1.0 Advertiser one year - $1.0

Both for $1.25.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA., JULY 7, 1904. NO. 15.

ABOUT REGISTERING.

...tracts from the general election ...of Alabama:

...ection 2. The following persons ...ll be disqualified both from regis- ...ng and voting: All idiots and in- ...e persons; those who were by rea- ...of conviction of crime disqualified ...voting at the time of the ratifi- ...tion of the constitution on Novem- ...28, 1901; those who have been ...e November 28, 1901, or who shall ...convicted of treason, murder, ar- ...embezzlement, malfeasance in of- ...larceny, receiving stolen property, ...ining money under false pre- ...es, perjury, subornation of per- ...robbery, assault with intent to ...burglary, forgery, bribery, assault ...battery on wife, bigamy, living in ...ltery, sodomy, incest, rape, miscege- ...tion, crime against nature, or any ...e punishable by imprisonment in ...itentiary, or for any infamous ...mes or crime involving moral turpi- ...; also, any person who has been ...e November 28, 1901, or who shall ...convicted as a vagrant or tramp, ...of selling or offering to sell his ...e or the vote of another, or of mak- ...or offering to make false returns ...any election by the people or in ...r primary election to procure the ...mination or election of any person ...any office, or of suborning any wit- ...s or registrar to secure the regis- ...ation of any person as an elector, ...vided that any person who is dis- ...alified from voting by reason of con- ...tion of any of the offenses men- ...ned in this section, except treason, ...ether the conviction was had in a ...te or federal court, has been par- ...ned, may be restored to his citi- ...ship with right to vote by the ...ernor, approved by the board of ...rdons and specially expressed in the ...der.

...Sec. 7 1-2. The following persons ...d no others, who, if their place of ...sidence shall remain unchanged, ...ll have, at the date of the next gen- ...al election, the qualifications as to ...sidence prescribed by section 1 of ...is act, shall be qualified to register ...s electors, provided they shall not ...e disqualified under section 2 of this ...ct:

...1. Those who can read and write ...y article of the constitution of the ...ited States in the English language, ...d who are physically unable to ..., and those who can read and ...te any article of the constitution ...the United States in the English ...nguage, and who have worked or ...e regularly engaged in some lawful ...ployment, business or occupation, ...ade or calling for the greater part of ...e twelve months next preceding the ...me they offer to register, and those ...o are unable to read and write, if ...eir inability is due solely to physical ...sability; or,

...2. The owner in good faith in his ...wn right, or the husband of a woman ...ho is the owner in good faith in ...r own right, of forty acres of land ...ore in this state, upon which they ...side or the owner in good faith in ...s own right, or the husband of any ...oman who is the owner in good faith ...a her own right, of real estate sit- ...ate in this state, assessed for taxa- ...on at the value of three hundred ...ollars or more or the owner in good ...ith in his own right, or the husband ...f a woman who is the owner in good ...ith in her own right, of personal ...roperty in this state assessed for ...axation for three hundred dollars or ...more, provided, that the taxes due ...pon such real or personal property ...for the year next preceding the year ...in which he offers to register shall ...have been paid, unless the assessment ...shall have been legally contested and ...is undetermined.

...Sec. 8. Any elector who registered ...prior to January 1, 1903, who has ...changed the county of his residence ...shall be registered on application on ...production of his certificate, unless he ...has since become disqualified.

...Sec. 10. When the certificate of any ...elector who was duly registered has ...been lost, mutilated or destroyed, on ...application stating that the certificate ...has been lost, mutilated or destroyed, ...and verified by affidavit, and it ap- ...pears of record that such applicant ...has been registered, the judge of pro- ...bate of the county of registration or ...the secretary of state shall issue to ...the applicant a certificate that he ...was duly registered as an elector. ...Such certificate shall be issued free ...of charge to the elector. The secre- ...tary of state shall at the expense of ...the state furnish the judge of probate ...blank certificates for use as provided ...in this section.

...The certificate of the registrars or ...the judge of probate or of the secre- ...tary of state shall be sufficient to ...establish the fact of such registra- ...tion.

...Be sure and register when the regis- ...trars are in your beat, as the only ...excuse for not doing so is by reason ...of sickness of yourself or in your ...family, or by absence from the coun- ...ty. Everybody can register this sum- ...mer who will be qualified by residence ...or age by the 8th day of November.

Poll tax paying has nothing to do with registration; you can register now and pay your poll tax afterwards, but you can not vote unless you are both registered and have paid your poll tax (if any is due). The period of residence necessary to register is two years in the state, one year in the county, and three months in the beat. If you have moved from one beat to another in the county less than three months before election day, you can vote in your old beat, so you don't lose your vote by changing beats. Any one who desires to register on property qualification should take with him his last assessment sheet and tax collector's receipt to show to the registrars as proof that you are possessed of such property, and pay taxes on it. You can register under ANY of the following heads:

1. If you own 40 acres or more land in this state, and reside upon it.

2. If your wife owns 40 acres or more land in this state, upon which you reside.

3. If you own real estate in this state that is assessed for taxation at $300 or more.

4. If your wife owns real estate in this state assessed for taxation at $300 or more.

5. If you own personal property in this state assessed for taxation for $300 or more.

6. If your wife owns personal property in this state assessed for taxation for $300 or more.

7. If you can read and write any section of the constitution of the United States.

Don't give up your life certificate that you got in 1902; you only have to show it to the registrars in case you have moved to this county from some other county.

THE UNION will furnish any one information on any special points that they may be in doubt upon, and stands ready to help any one to get all the rights he is entitled to under the laws of Alabama. If you think you are entitled to register and the registrars should refuse you, take a couple of good men with you so you can have witnesses as to such refusal and the reasons given by the registrars, and thereby be enabled to take your case up to higher authority. tf

STATION AGENTS CHANGED.

Clanton people will be sorry to hear that we lose the station agent today that has served us for seven years. Mr. Guy Higgins will be missed by many of the patrons whom he has obliged in the past, but he is compelled to give up the agency so as to devote his entire time to his personal affairs, which are large now and constantly increasing. His successor, Mr. A. F. Stinson, of Blount Springs, is, from all we can gather, one whom we will like and will be a welcome addition to the ranks of Clanton's first-class citizens. He has a wife and several children and altogether comes well recommended.

FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

The Chilton County Farmers' Alliance will meet with Poplar Springs Alliance in beat 10 on Wednesday and Thursday, July 20th and 21st, 1904, at 10 a. m. The secretaries are requested to send me their reports as early as possible after their last meeting in June or forepart of July. This will be an interesting and beneficial meeting.

ALEX G. DAKE,
tf Sec. C. C. F. A.

The executive order placing the Panama Canal under the command of the War Department and the appointment of Gen. George W. Davis, retired, as Governor, bring a new and picturesque figure into world-wide prominence, muses the New York World. Six months before the Spanish war broke out Gen. Davis was an army major, the one hundred and fourth upon the official list. Like so many other "regulars" of that day, he had grown gray in the slow advancement of the service and was approaching his sixtieth year with the prospect of speedy retirement as a major or lieutenant-colonel at the most. The war brought Gen. Davis a commission as brigadier-general of volunteers. The increase of the regular army after the war gave him promotion therein, he became Judge Advocate-General of the army and retired as a major-general. Seven years have transformed him from an unheard of major into the executive head of the greatest engineering exploit of the new century. In an "age of young men," as it is called, Gen. Davis came to his real career at sixty He begins at sixty-six his crowning achievement, the "life work" which if he lives to succeed in it will win enduring fame.

Japan can boast of the scarcity of paupers now, but the war will be likely to produce a crop of them.

GLORIOUS FOURTH

Numerous Fatal Accidents and Serious Injuries Reported from Every Section.

A STORE FULL OF FIREWORKS

Caused Panic in Massachusetts—One Badly Injured—Report from Indiana—Birmingham Escaped.

Accidentally stepping on a large toy torpedo, a clerk in a Worcester, Mass., store started a fire which caused the explosion of $700 worth of fireworks and cut off forty customers and clerks who were in the store from the only exit. Women and children were injured and suffocated from smoke and were rescued from the cellar where they had fled to avoid the flames. Manuel Oviminian was caught under a freight elevator as it was descending with twenty-five women and was probably fatally hurt. Twenty-five women and children received minor injuries. One little boy who had been locked up in a room directly under where the fire started on the charge of stealing candy in the store was rescued by the firemen.

Louisville, Ky., dealers in explosives were warned by the board of safety not to sell fireworks.

R. Lee Suter, a member of the board of public safety, an attorney and for several years an important figure in democratic politics, was shot and killed by Sanford Vaughn, Jr., the son of a wealthy contractor. Vaughn, who admits that he fired the shot, says he was celebrating the Fourth.

Suter was asleep on a cot and the bullet passed through his breast, severing an artery and producing a wound similar to that received by William Goebel. Vaughn was driving, and according to the statements of three young men with him, was shooting from side to side, one of the bullets finding its way to the river bank where Suter's tent was pitched. Vaughn was arrested.

A sail boat containing seven pleasure seekers was capsized in Muskegon, Mich., lake and four of the occupants were drowned in view of the hundreds of spectators.

No Fourth of July casualties are reported from Alabama.

In Indiana one fatality and 87 injured is the total of the celebration accidents. At Elkhart a 10-year-old boy was killed and a number of companions severely injured by an explosion of dynamite caused by concussion of exploding fireworks.

At Great Falls, Mont., Margaret Fink is dying of a wound inflicted during a Fourth of July celebration by Arthur Gies, 40 years of age, who discharged a shotgun in the girl's face, blowing off part of her head.

William H. Jones and Miss Myrtle Harper, while bathing in the Oconee river a few miles below Oconee Springs, Ga., were drowned.

Cloudburst in Utah.

A cloudburst leading into the Wasatch range from the bench lands northwest of Salt Lake City sent a wall of water six to ten feet high down Dry Creek canyon causing much damage. A fan-shaped cloud swept over the northeast portion of the city with a roar that could be heard several miles. Streets were converted into rivers.

Trees, sidewalks and streets were torn up. Several costly residences were damaged and only saved from destruction by their high retaining walls. The power houses at Ogden, Bear River and Murray were struck by lightning — the latter being destroyed.

Bishops Appeal.

Secretary of State Hay received the following telegram from Persia:

"Turkish barbarians massacreing thousands. Armenians humbly solicit United States government in the name of Christianity and humanity to save innocent lives.

"ARMENIAN BISHOPS IN PERSIA."

Ensley Mill Busy.

The steel rail mill at Ensley, belonging to the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, is furnishing steel rails to the Harriman system of railroads, quite a quantity having already been delivered to the Southern Pacific railroad, a branch of that system.

The statement is made that the management of the Harriman system of railroads is making extensive improvements, and among other things 60,000 tons of steel rails weighing eighty pounds to the yard, to cost in the neighborhood of $28 a ton, or a total of $1,680,000, will be purchased.

SUNDAY'S STORM

Did Considerable Damage in Various Parts of the State.

The worst storm in years swept over Scottsboro and vicinity. The rain fell in torrents and the lightning was terrific. Great damage was done to land, the hillsides which had been recently plowed washing away. Several fine and valuable horses were killed by the lightning. A number of fine milch cows were also killed.

The fine barn of W. W. Howard was torn to pieces by the wind. The lightning took the top off a large tree near the Harris hotel and struck the handsome residence of Mrs. W. J. Robinson. Dozens of trees were struck and literally torn into fragments in the town. Several persons made narrow escapes.

For the past few days the section about Gadsden has been visited with severe rains and hail storms in widely separated sections and a great deal of damage has been done to growing crops. In Coats Bend a 50-acre cotton field belonging to W. H. Hood was almost ruined, all the leaves and limbs being stripped from the plant and leaving only the stalk. In Little Wills valley Wednesday a heavy rain fell and a 25-acre field of corn was submerged for more than an hour and badly damaged.

In Whorton's bend, some eight miles below Gadsden, a hail storm wrecked cotton and corn for several miles and did other damage to crops, especially to peach trees.

Hail in Birmingham broke windows and punctured awnings.

POOR WILL PROFIT

By New Revenue Laws in the Philippine Islands.

The internal revenue law for the Philippine Islands prepared by Governor Wright has been passed by the commission after an extensive public discussion. It estimates the revenue at five million gold, one-quarter of which will revert to the provinces and municipalities, and three-quarters to the insular government. The articles taxed include alcoholic productions, beer, tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, matches and some licenses and occupations.

The law repeals many taxes imposed on the poor people under the existing Spanish law. It is believed that the new law ultimately will furnish the basis for substantial and complete support of the government.

SHOT THROUGH THE HEART.

Martin Ragland Commits Suicide Near Warrior.

John Ragland, a young white man about twenty-one years old, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart.

With some others he had a keg of beer and had previously engaged in a beer drinking, and it is said that in a fit of despondency after a war of words with his mother, he took up his coat and told her he would never come into the house, and the fatal shot was soon fired.

Foreign Corporations in Mississippi.

Within the next few days a ruling from the state revenue agent's office is expected to the effect that the foreign corporations doing business in the state without having filed their charters for record with the secretary of state have no legal standing in the commonwealth and can not enforce the collection of their debts.

Such a ruling will have a sweeping effect, as at least 90 per cent of the corporations that send traveling men in the state to take orders have not filed their charters for record, and if persons not overscrupulous are inclined to take advantage of this method of settling their debts with these firms they will find it a very easy matter.

Three Killed.

A special from Texarkana says:

Miss Sybil Pugh, aged 15; Maud Pillow, aged 14, and Birdie Bell Pillow, aged 4, were killed and four others injured. The party were in a surrey when the horse ran away, overturning the surrey, dragging it directly in front of a rapidly moving street car, which plowed through it.

Held Without Bail.

At Selma, Calvin Kimball, a negro, was assaulted with a pistol and Josh Sills and Walter Davis, white men, are in jail for the offense. From evidence obtained Davis was guilty of the assault, striking the negro on the head with the weapon and then shooting him in the leg as he ran.

According to the statement of Kimball, one of the men ran against him and when he remonstrated, cursed him and struck him on the right temple with a pistol. Kimball turned and ran and the holder of the weapon fired two shots at him.

BREVITIES BY WIRE.

But one accident is reported as a result of the celebration of the Fourth of July at Bessemer, but that will result fatally. The excursion train on the Woodward Iron company's line was carrying passengers backward and forward to the picnic at Brighton, and a youth, P. J. McGuire, of Brighton, was riding on the cars when he stuck his head too far out of the window, coming in contact with another car and inflicting a wound on the head that causes grave apprehension as to his recovery.

A bad wreck occurred on the Southern railway three miles west of York, Ala., in which fortunately no one was hurt, but an engine was smashed to pieces and the track torn up for a hundred yards, delaying traffic seven or eight hours. The wreck was caused by a wind storm which blew a tree across the joint track of the Southern and Queen and Crescent.

The contract for the erection of the new school building in Ward 5, Anniston, has been awarded to Wolsoncroft & Scarbrough. The building proper will cost $6457, and the furniture about $2000 more. The contract calls for the completion of the building by September 13, shortly before the opening of the schools.

The Woodward Iron company has signed a scale agreement with the United Mine Workers with conditions similar to those made by this company in previous years. It continues operations at its mines at the old scale, and later on will pay whatever wages the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company may sign.

The election for trustees was held at Compton Saturday. A. R. Morrow, Dr. J. L. Sandefur and Harvy Spurrier were elected. The trustees immediately organized and elected Professor J. S. Burgin principal and Miss Edith M. Howard assistant as teachers for the scholastic year beginning September, 1904.

The directors of Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron company have sent a circular to preferred stockholders, offering for exchange and purchase $1,500,000 of the $3,500,000 5 percent, thirty-year bonds, authorized January 27, 1903, to preferred stockholders of record July 9, 1904.

W. Hugh McEniry, of Bessemer, who graduated at Auburn, second in his class the past session, has gone to Ashland, Ala., where he has secured the position of transitman on the Alabama Northern railroad, a new line being constructed from Pyriton to Ashland. Mr. McEniry is only twenty.

Owing, it is said, to the negligence of a negro employe, a switch engine of the Southern railway dashed into a train of freight cars in Selma and after demolishing three cars toppled from the rails and was rendered a useless mass of iron ond steel. No person was injured.

Official information has been given out that the Lowe Manufacturing company at Huntsville, will at once double the capacity of their mill, thereby adding 15,000 spindles. The company is securing estimates of cost now, and work will begin within a very short while.

Miss Willie C. Bacon, of Gadsden, has sued the Pullman Car company for $5,000 for the loss of a satchel containing some medicine. She has a heart trouble and the medicine was to correct this. Besides the medicine the satchel contained $700 worth of jewelry.

Judge S. E. Green signed Tuesday morning the minutes of his seventeenth year as judge of the criminal court of Jefferson county. During the seventeen years that Judge Green has been on the bench there have been but two reversals on his decisions.

Cordova's new city officers are: Mayor, J. M. Miller; aldermen, A. M. Konkle, W. W. Staggs, G. W. Alexander, W. W. Key and Marion Harper.

Alabama's railroad commission met at noon Tuesday to take up a number of routine matters on the docket. The most important question before the commission is the appeal of Mobile to compel the railroads entering that city to build a union passenger station.

Lightning struck the court house in Brewton, doing $1,000 damage.

Rev. C. A. Webb and Tom Ed Morgan, together with their two little boys, took refuge in a barn near Langston during a storm. The barn was struck by lightning, setting it afire and killing a horse and shocking the men, but did not otherwise hurt them.

The Alabama Bar Association, in closing its annual gathering, will picnic at Jackson Lake, out of Montgomery, next Friday. A special train will be operated for the benefit of themselves and their families and friends.

At Scottsboro James Shelton is in jail on a warrant sworn out by members of the Odd Fellows lodge charging him with having stolen the books of the lodge. He was subsequently released on a bond of $1,000.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

A. C. Smith. J. O. Middleton.
Smith & Middleton,
Attorneys-at-Law.
Practice in All Courts.
Office 4th St., Opposite Court House,
CLANTON.

Physicians.

Dr. V. O. Campbelle,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office over Roper's Store.
CLANTON.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins,
Physician and Surgeon,
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.
Office with Hopkins Drug Co.
CLANTON.

W. F. Middleton, M.D.,
Phsician and Surgeon,
CLANTON.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

Dentists.

Dr. A. B. Horn,
Dentist.
Office over Streck's Store.
CLANTON.
Office Days in the Following Towns.
Jemison—Wednesday and Thursday before the 2nd Sunday.
Thorsby—Wednesday and Thursday before the 3d Sunday Dr. Stabler's Office

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 8 to 12 a. m.
1 to 5 p. m. CLANTON

Louisville & Nashville RAILROAD.

THE DIRECT LINE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST, NORTH AND NORTHWEST.

In Effect November 1, 1903.

No. 9 D'ly Ex't S'dy A M	No. 3 D'ly P M	Read Down Leave	Read Up Ar.	No. 2 D'ly P M	No. 10 D'ly Ex't S'dy P M
6 10	3 20	Birmingham	12 10	7 15
6 53	4 19	Helena	11 30	6 34
7 32	5 01	Calera	10 46	5 50
7 56	5 28	Jemison	10 24	5 28
8 05	5 37	Thorsby	10 16	5 15
8 11	5 44	Lomax	10 10	5 08
8 19	5 51	CLANTON	10 02	5 01
8 32	6 05	Cooper	9 45	4 47
8 37	6 11	Verbena	9 39	4 43
8 44	6 19	Mt. Creek	9 30	4 30
9 24	6 51	Elmore	8 51	3 56
9 50	7 25	Montgomery	8 25	3 30

Drawing Room, Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars.

For rates and further information address G. Higgins, agent L. and N. R. R., Clanton, Ala.

NEGRO SHOT FROM AMBUSH

And Riddled Tom Higginbotham, White, at Patton Junction.

Tom Higginbotham, white, was shot from ambush at Patton Junction by Dellar Black, a negro.

Higginbotham was driving in his buggy when the negro fired with a double barreled shotgun filled with buckshot, striking him in the chin and body. He fired the other barrel at his back, completely riddling him. The shooting is the outcome of some trouble the men had Sunday. Both are miners. Black was arrested soon after the shooting. Higginbotham will recover.

VIRTUE'S REWARDS.

The baby that's good lies all day long,
  Toying away with his toes,
And no one lingers to croon him a song
  Or lessen his little woes;
The baby that's good neglected lies
Where the sun shines into his blinking eyes
  And the flies trot over his nose.

The baby that squalls all day, all night,
  Is "mother's sweet, precious pet;"
She fondles and rocks him with all her might,
  And leaves everything else upset;
The baby that only knows how to squall
Is dawdled and pampered and always gets all
  The care that there is to get.

The man who quietly toils away,
  With never a plaint nor sigh,
Just doing his best day after day,
  With hopes of the by-and-by,
Who merely accepts what the world accords,
Receives but few of the sweet rewards
  For which the successful try.

The man who demands the best there is,
  Who asks—as the poorest may—
Though others have stronger claims than his,
  Takes the fairest gifts away;
The man who asks may have little worth
But he gets the best that there is on earth
  For saying his little say.

—S. E. Kiser.

: Perversity Cured :

By Alice Thorp

"ALICE," said Chris, "I don't like to see you take up with that fellow Littleton. I don't like him, and I don't trust him."

"Oh, dear me, Chris," I answered, "you make yourself a perfect worry and torment to me. I am sure I would like you much better if you would throw off that sorry look and let me have a little peace. You positively spoil all my pleasure!"

And I put my handkerchief to my face, and with infinite difficulty, squeezed a tear from my left eyelid.

I was more inclined to laugh when I saw the woe-begone expression on the frank, honest face before me.

I knew that of all things Chris most feared making me unhappy; for that very reason, I suppose, I employed the dangerous talent all women possess of making a man feel that he has been cruel and inconsiderate.

Chris sat down beside me, and taking my hand, said, with a voice which love, allied to natural courtesy, made more gentle and tender than any woman's:

"Alice, dear, forgive me if I spoke hastily to you. I trust you most fully, knowing how good and true to me you are, and I never doubt you for one instant. So we'll say no more about him, my love."

And he advanced his face to give me the kiss which usually sealed the reconciliation of our little quarrels.

But I was not satisfied with my triumph. I liked to hector it a little over my lover; moreover, I felt that I was in the wrong, which, of course, made me spiteful. So I turned away my face, and replied coldly

"Mr. Littleton is my uncle's guest, and I could not avoid him, even if I wished to. He is excellent company, and is everything that a gentleman should be, in spite of your jealous distrust of him."

Chris' face flushed, but he controlled himself and gazed into my eyes with a look of tender reproach.

I tried to return his gaze with one of defiance, but failed utterly, and had to content myself with a small-sized sneer.

"Good morning, Miss Lyman. Good morning, Mr. Thorp!" said a mellow voice at this moment, and Mr. Stuart Littleton stood before us.

He was handsome—tall, and with that slight stoop which gives an indescribable air of gentility to some men, as if their constant occupation is to bow to ladies.

"Your uncle and I," he added, "have sworn a truce to business for the rest of the day, and he refers me to you as the most accomplished person in the house in the art of pastime. Your uncle says your resources for making amusement are boundless; so oblige us by giving us the benefit of your most sage counsels."

I was angry at myself; and so, womanlike, I resolved to take my revenge on Chris, whose look of reproach haunted me. I was in one of those moods of unhappy recklessness which up to that time I had often indulged, but to which since that day I have never abandoned myself.

I felt that I deserved much more than the mild censure I had received, for I had neglected Chris most shamefully; but I determined to deserve his reproach still further, and if he chose to be jealous, to give him something to be jealous about.

In this amiable frame of mind, I summoned all my suppleness of wit, and entered heartily into schemes of amusement. Mr. Littleton and I absorbed all the conversation.

Chris could converse well and fluently, but I purposely chose such topics as he was unfamiliar with, and gave the conversation a tone of flippancy which he disliked.

Whenever he offered a remark, I either ignored it, or crushed it with some stupid sarcasm, at which Mr. Littleton would be very much amused. It was evident to me that the latter saw my purpose, and entered into it, and I am ashamed to say I welcomed his alliance.

Poor Chris proposed several games which would give him a chance of seeing me alone, but I scornfully rejected one and all without even condescending to give a reason.

Now, a word about the parties to this little drama. My parents had died while I was young, leaving me to the care of my kind uncle, Mr. Headley, in whose rambling, old country house I spent many happy years.

They had been wealthy, and I was much sought after as an heiress; but I had grown up together with Christopher Thorp, a neighbor's son. We had been lovers from an early age, and had been formally engaged for over a year.

Mr. Littleton was on a visit to my uncle as agent for a mining company, in which the latter had large interests. They were often closeted together, and my uncle had a high opinion of the visitor's capacity, and understood him to come from an immensely wealthy family.

Throughout all that morning I treated Chris outrageously, and flirted desperately with Mr. Littleton. At dinner I contrived to give him the seat next to me, and had the bitter pleasure of seeing the white face of my lover opposite to me. His behavior during the day was admirable. He never lost his temper once, and I had to acknowledge to myself that he had much more of the true gentleman about him than my new admirer.

After dinner, in spite of all my precautions to the contrary, Chris found me alone for a few minutes in the garden. His face was pale and troubled, but his manner quiet and collected.

"I want to come to an understanding," he said. "Have I been mistaken in you? I thought you loved me."

"It seems you have been mistaken," was all I replied.

"Then you wish this engagement broken off?" he asked.

"As you choose," I answered.

"Give me your hand, then, please."

With trembling fingers—but, oh, so gently!—he drew the betrothal ring off, and kissing my hand, said:

"Good-by!"

He then threw the ring on the ground, and placing his heel upon it, crushed it, and lifting his hat without looking at me, walked quietly away.

The agony of that moment I never wish to experience again. I would have cried to him, but I felt suffocated and could not speak. I would have flung myself at his feet and bathed them with tears, but that my limbs refused to move. I heard a slight cough behind me, and turning saw Mr. Littleton's servant, Parsons, standing not far from me. He looked away again instantly; but I knew that he must have beheld the whole scene between me and my lover.

That afternoon I was dazed with my misery, my punishment was so well deserved, but seemed so hard to bear. I went through the various amusements mechanically, looking always for Chris; but he never appeared. If he had, I would have begged him to forgive me before all the company.

They were a merry party of young folks, and game succeeded game. Mr. Littleton was always at my side, making love to me in many ways, and for a while his assiduous attention and respectful, though fervent, manner overpowered my listlessness.

At length somebody proposed a game of "hide-and-seek." It fell to my turn to hide, and I was glad of it, for I had become sick of my gayety, and wished to be alone. I knew of a place where few were likely to seek me.

At the top of the house was an observatory, in which was a very large chest. For what purpose it had been used I do not know, but it was perforated with numerous apertures and the boards had shrunken apart, so that any one could easily lie concealed in it without inconvenience from lack of air. I hastened up to this observatory, and seating myself on the top of the chest lid, abandoned myself to my misery.

I cannot remember how long I remained there, when I heard footsteps coming up the narrow stairway that led to the observatory. I hastily concealed myself in the chest, and heard two persons enter, one of whom sat down on the lid above me.

"Bob," said a voice, which I instantly recognized that of Mr. Littleton's, "we can neither be seen nor heard here, so we can have a little talk. By George, Bob! wouldn't it be a spec if I, Tom Simply, whose phiz adorns the rogues' galleries of almost every country in Europe, was to capture this pretty little heiress, with her cool million, hey?"

The other, whose voice I recognized as Parsons', replied:

"You'd better be quick, though. Those forged letters of the mining company may be discovered any day. And if you do marry this girl, how long do you expect to remain with her? Your 'physog.' is pretty well known, I tell you."

"My dear fellow, I will stay just until I get my hand on the money bags—the way I did with that old French woman. All the women trust me," and he gave a sinister laugh.

I will detail no more of their conversation. It is sufficient that I learned from it that they were a pair of distinguished scoundrels; that their first object had been to swindle my uncle out of a large sum of money by means of their false representations and forged letters; but the possibility of securing my affections had only flashed across the mind of the more accomplished villian when he saw that I was disposed to quarrel with my lover.

It was with a mixture of terror and relief that I heard these unconscious self-betrayals. The gulf to the edge of which my heedless temper had driven me was appalling, and, cowering in the old chest, I made the most solemn resolution of my life—one that I have faithfully adhered to since—to check the perverse spirit which urged me to indulge my pride at the expense of my best feelings.

After this precious pair had gone downstairs, I waited until they were beyond hearing, and then stretched out my arms to lift up the lid of the chest.

Horror! it was locked. The heavy lid had closed with a spring, and I was cooped up in a chest, in a lonely part of the old building, that was not visited once a month.

My situation was most terrible. I shrieked again and again for help. There was a rush of feet along the passage beneath, and up the stairs. The lid was wrenched open, and I was drawn from the chest by the loving arms of my loyal Chris. I could only murmur:

"Chris, my love, my darling! forgive me!" and I fainted on his bosom.

There is little more to be told. When Chris left me he accidentally received some information which led him to suspect that Mr. Littleton was an imposter.

Avoiding me, Chris had followed the villain about, and at length saw him and his servant go up to the observatory. Chris followed them as far as the floor directly beneath the observatory, and waited their coming down, hid under the stairway.

He was about to go down after them, when he heard my screams, and wild with fear, dashed up to my rescue.

The two conspirators were arrested, and sent to prison on many charges.

Chris and I are now happily married, but in all my felicity I shudder when I think of my narrow escape from the convicted felon, and how nearly I had realized the fate of the unfortunate Ginevra.—New York Weekly.

Economy in Small Things.

The man who saves something every year is on the road to prosperity. It may not be possible to save much; if not, save a little. Don't think a dollar or a dime is too small a sum to lay by. Everybody knows how little expenditures get away with large sums. But few seem to know that the rule is one that works both ways. If a dime spent here and a dollar there soon makes a large hole in a man's income, so those dimes and dollars soon become a visible and respectable accumulation. In this country, any man make himself independent, or keep himself under the harrow for life, according as he wastes or spends small change. How many things do individuals and families buy that they do not need or cannot afford! Think twice before you spend that small coin. Don't be stingy or mean, but also don't be foolishly self-indulgent. The self-indulgent person is far more likely to be ungenerous than the self-denying one. The money wasted on hurtful things alone—the drugs and medicines we mingle with our diet in the form of tea, tobacco, alcohol and the like—stand on the very threshold of prosperity, and bar the way of thousands to a home in their old age. Don't forget—"Economy is the road to wealth."

Titanic Patience.

An elephant in Calcutta had a disease in his eye. For three days he had been completely blind. The owner, an engineer officer, asked the doctor if he could do anything to relieve the poor animal. The doctor said he would try nitrate of silver, which was a remedy commonly applied to a similar disease in the human eye. The large animal was ordered to lie down, and at first, on the application of the remedy, raised a most extraordinary roar at the acute pain which it occasioned. The effect, however, was wonderful. The eye was in a manner restored, and the animal could partially see. The next day, when he was brought and heard the doctor's voice, he lay down of himself, placed his enormous head on one side, curled up his trunk, drew in his breath, just like a man about to endure an operation, gave a sigh of relief when it was over, and then by trunk and gesture evidently wished to express his gratitude.

Muscle Rays.

There would appear to be no longer any doubt that rays are given off by active muscle and nerves. Dr. Hugh Walsham and Mr. Leslie Miller point out that experiments are remarkably easy to perform, and are absolutely convincing as to the actual existence of the rays. The fluorescent screens are prepared with hexagonal zinc blende, which is placed in the form of a very thin film on thin paper, gold-beater's skin or thin celluloid. The screen is excited and the fluorescent light allowed to die away until it has reached the steady stage. At this point if a muscle in a state of contraction be placed underneath the fluorescent screen it will be seen to brighten perceptibly.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Few Hopes of Marriage.

One of the ladies who wear what is called with a sad pathos "the rational costume" has confessed that the fashion has one drawback. Ladies who wear it, she says, must expect to put matrimony out of their thoughts, for men do not appear to be drawn toward this particular form of progress. This is probably true of the ordinary man, but there is always the vegetarian as a last resource.

Cruelty to Animals Unknown in China.

Many years ago we suggested at Paris to Mr. Burlingame our then Minister to China, the starting of a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals in China. His reply was: "Cruelty to animals is unknown in China."—Our Dumb Animals.

LITTLE AND SWEET.

So many things there be
  Little and sweet!
Hark what I sing to thee,
See what I bring to thee—
Little wild strawberry
  Dainty to eat,
Nicest of all berries,
  Little and sweet!

Hush—outside, a song,
  "Twee-wee-wee-weet!"
Hiding the grass among,
Shaking his silver tongue,
Flits the sparrow along.
  Hear him repeat,
Oh, such a little song,
  Little and sweet!

Tell me what this one is—
  'Tis n't to eat!
Better than berries
Or birdies or cherries!
Dimpled and pink from his Head to his feet,
Ah, Mama's baby, ah,
  Little and sweet!

—Ann Brewster, in Little Folks.

THE LITTLE WHITE LAMB.

The baby, Wee Boy Geordie, was very sick, and all the other children had been sent out of the house to stay until he was better. Only a few of his favorite toys had been taken out of the nursery, and nobody played there at all.

It was very sad; and the worst of it was that the little White Lamb, the best loved of all his playthings, could not be found, though they had hunted high and low. The baby called incessantly for him.

"Where's White Lambie? Geordie want to play wiv him," he said over and over.

In vain did they offer other toys.

"No, no! want White Lambie!" he said in his weak little voice.

The kind old doctor held the hot hands in his and shook his head.

"This won't do at all," he said, gravely. And he looked very worried.

So did mamma and papa and the nurse.

"Where, oh, where, can little White Lambie be?" they said to each other.

Now, the walls have ears, and they hear, you know. They talk sometimes too. Have you never heard them say "Cr-r-ah" at night when you are alone? So the news of it came to the Nursery People.

"Oh, if only the Captain of the Tin Soldiers were here!" they said sadly. "For who among us can go to find White Lambie?" And they looked at each other in distress. "Who can go?" they repeated.

Not Jack-in-the-Box, though he could he, when he could only move up and down in his box? Not the toy Noah from the ark, he was too small. Not the Top; he could only move when somebody set him a-spinning. Not the little Cuckoo, she could not leave the clock.

Then up spoke the little Black Dog with the curly tail:

"I—I will find White Lambie and bring him home to Wee Boy Geordie this very night."

And all the Nursery People clapped their hands in joy; for who could go better than the little Black Dog? So, when the stars twinked in the west and the slim new Moon leaned low in her silvery chariot, he pushed open the door and trotted out into the hall.

White Lambie was not on the window sill, nor yet in the dark corners of the hall. So he pattered down the stairway where, months before, the captain marched his soldiers. At the foot was the heavy door, locked and barred for the night.

"Bow-wow!" said the Little Dog, pushing against it with all his might. "Let me out, you surly old door! How dare you stop me!"

Then slowly, very slowly, it turned on its hinges and let him out. Once outside he paused, as if he hardly knew where to look first. He laid his nose to the ground and smelled just as a real dog would do. Had White Lambie strayed down the street? Barking fiercely, he went to see; but no little woolly lamb did he spy.

He turned and circled the house, peering into all the places where the children might have dropped him, still no lambie. Then he went out to the stable where the patient horses stood in their stalls.

"Have you seen White Lambie?" he asked, standing on his hind legs in his excitement.

"Not we," they answered with a friendly neigh. And the little Black Dog turned sadly away.

Then, as he scampered over the grass, he saw the print of a tiny hoof.

"Oho!" laughed he; "now I know where White Lambie is."

And he ran as fast as his feet could carry him to the garden. There, fast asleep in a bed of snowdrops, lay White Lambie.

"Wake up! wake up!" said the Little Dog. "The baby is sick, and he's calling for you."

"What baby?" said the Lamb, rubbing his eyes.

"Why, our baby, of course—Wee Boy Geordie! Run, White Lambie, run, or I will bite your heels," scolded the Little Dog.

Soon the Nursery People heard the pattering of their feet upon the stairs, and they said to one another:—

"The little Black Dog has found the Lambie, and is driving him to the door of the baby's room."

And, sure enough, when nurse opened the door there was the little lost lamb; but the black doggie had scampered away to the nursery. "Well, of all things in this world," said she, "if here isn't the lamb that blessed child's crying for. But how did it ever get here?"

Then she picked him up and laid him on the coverlet where the thin white hands could reach him. The baby seized him eagerly, and with a long sigh of content he laid his cheek upon the lamb's back, and snuggled down to sleep. When the doctor came in the morning Wee Boy Geordie was out of danger. But only the Nursery People know how the little Black Dog found the lamb asleep and drove him home, and not one of them will ever tell.—Pearl Howard Campbell, in Sunday.

FRIENDLY PETS.

"Uncle Harry," just back from California, was talking to the family one evening about deer and dogs often being such great friends.

"In the town of Oroville, Cal., where I live," he said, "I very recently saw a fawn, still in its spots, rambling about the main street; dogs that were in nowise accustomed to it went up and passed on. The fawn was perfectly unconcerned.

"Two years ago there was another deer, over half grown, in the same town, which had as its companion and safeguard a large Newfoundland. These animals were often seen playing together and went downtown together at their own desire. On these trips the Newfoundland seemed, by instinct, to know that the deer was at the mercy of other dogs, and saw to it that no dog molested the deer. The family owning these two attractive animals has moved from Oroville, taking their interesting friends.

"Another nearly grown doe I saw last year (adjoining the same town) standing in a little creek with some cattle. I was told that it came and went to pasturage and to milking (of course the deer was not milked) daily with the cows. In 1897 I was at Eden Valley ranch for a month. A wild, rough country in Mendocino county, California, surrounds this ranch. Big and small game is abundant there. The wild cattle in the 'roughs' are the most interesting features there.

"The cattle dogs, wild hog dogs, bear dogs and deer dogs are taught to attack and pursue tirelessly. The most exciting chase and fight I ever witnessed was between these dogs and a great wild bear that succeeded in ripping two out of six of the largest and best trained dogs. The bear was finally secured alive and dragged into the corral at the tail of a riata, snubbed to the horn of the saddle of the chief vaquero.

"For a month I saw a male and female fawn move with perfect unconcern among these dogs, and all lap milk from the same trough (the fawn does not lap, but drinks like a pig and drinks milk like a starved pig). It was laughable to see them pushing each other while gulping milk. These dogs that ran off the mother doe were the first to discover her young, but did not seize them as they would have done the doe. When strange dogs passing this ranch house on the road espied the fawns in the orchard or the meadow, they naturally 'went for' the fawns. I expressed apprehension, but I was told by the wife of the proprietor that the home dogs kept a sharp outlook for strange dogs and always protected the fawns. I saw evidences there of this.

"I know a gentleman in Virginia whose shepherd dog chased a tame deer all about the grounds at top speed to the infinite delight of both animals. After the race deer and dog would come up to their master."

CRUSOE'S ISLAND.

In writing "Robinson Crusoe," Defoe, with a story teller's license, took many liberties with the original narrative. One of these changes has been to tell us that Crusoe's island was situated on the east coast of South America, near the mouth of the Orinoco River. There can be no doubt, however, that the Island of Juan Fernandez, with its cave and its lookout, was the island which Defoe has described; nor that the adventures of Alexander Selkirk have been faithfully reproduced, with an added charm, in the story of "Robinson Crusoe."—St. Nicholas.

A JAPANESE PANDO

O Hana San's Husband Wa sian With Secrets Which Discovered.

The Japanese have never l Russians personally. Russ dents of Japan were often thought of. The Russian dor, Baron Rosen, enjoyed th of all classes, and at the Inte club was a favorite of many friends.

The sudden rupture of p lations between the two brought grief to many a friends, and even caused th tion of man and wife, sa Transcript. There come case of one Russian mar anese, and living at Y spoke Japanese almost and was in almost every affectionate husband. T may be called O Hana S fond of her husband, and a until late in January, whe most sanguine had aband peace.

For some time before, th O Hana San had noticed band, though frank and things, attached great in a sort of despatch box, wh allowed to leave his side stant. Even under normal stances this fact would have her curiosity, both as a woma Japanese at that, but as a the vernacular press she aware that were such beings sian spies in existence, and though her husband was teacher, she really knew his antecedents.

The husband had been triot. But patriotism is the grand passion of the Ja In feudal days it took the form alty to a lord, and no true would hesitate for a moment tween the claims of a blood and those of his chiefs. To emperor is the great over-lord Hana San, though she loved eign husband, could not doub where her duty lay. A Japane verb has it, "Chushin ji kun kaezu." "A faithful servant serve two masters," and acting belief O Hana San determined possession of the despatch see what it contained. So on ing she took advantage of a Russian weakness and made eign husband frightfully drunk seizing the box hurried to the police station. Here she to story, and the inspector com her for her patriotic action.

The box was broken open a enough contained numerous plans of Japanese fortificatio naval ports, besides several Russian documents bearing up enemy's military and naval O Hana San was praised mo ever. She smiled. The police were jubilant. Glory would fected on them when, with portance they should hand this to the high authorities. They one another's backs. O Hana S no difficulty in walking away ticed in their preoccupation husband waked from his stup time. Finding despatch box both gone, he drew his conc and promptly left the country. O Hana San, she was never again. She had turned a cor was gone.

Tame Humming Birds.

Of all the birds, the humming especially when young, seem play the least fear, says a w Country Life in America. It ficult matter to train a young bird to follow one about the or to come when called, yet had several humming birds were perfectly domesticated, more thoroughly tame than bird I have ever seen. Two ming birds that grew up with given a small place in a c our sleeping apartment. At approach of daylight they out into the room, the door bein and directly to the bed, hoverin my face, their loud humming awakening me at once. There mistaking that the birds wished breakfast, and they could not en away. At times I would not to see them and they would ly alight on the bed, utter quaint little sound, now pe protest, then would hover face, so near that the wind rapidly moving wings, was qu ficient to arouse me. When I my finger one or both would on it and gaze at me in a which spoke volumes to any aginative enough to think they stood the language of birds w are hungry.

Their food consisted of su water, which was fed to them a chop-stick-like straw. Imm upon seeing it they would the air and lick the drop on until they were satisfied. Oc asally they would poise be big red flowers printed on t tains. They recognized the of flowers on sight and endea press their bills into them. ficial flowers were approached same way. In a word, thes helpless, the smallest of all h quired no education, no trainin parents; it was all instinctive.

Billville Spring Item.

"Ef I'm not mistaken," m neighbor, "a alligator has p swallered yer boy, Jimmy."

"Shouldn't wonder," said t man, calmly knocking his ash his clay pipe, "his mammy a that he wuz sweet enough to Atlanta Constitution.

Niche-like Decorations of Walls,

ADOBE RUINED

Ruins of the Ancient Inca Empire

By Walter L. Beasley

IT is said that the Inca to be did not commence to be conquerors until they had first shown themselves to be statesmen and wise and went administrators. Having ed a fairly advanced civilization, y began gradually to overawe and rporate the territory of less ful ed tribes of the coast and slopes the Andes, who slowly absorbed th the religion and superior hands ft of their conquerors. These con ests extended over a period of seve l centuries. The permanence a ament of Inca power is attributed their having secured the good graces their new subjects, and to their l al treatment and policy of conc h, than to force of arms. This ex ued until the limits of Inca rule ex ded from the central portion of Bo ia to the western coast of Peru, rth to Ecuador, and south to north Chile. The inhabitants of this ter ory embrace many different tribes th local rulers, living in different ges of enlightenment.

Under Inca sway and influence, both chitecture and the various industrial ts reached their highest degree of ficiency. Few, if any, countries of odern times have equaled the ex me and skillful utilization of land at was practised during the time the ca Empire flourished. In many lo alities they built their dwellings mong rough rocks, on arid slopes of lls, in order to use the limited area soil for agriculture. They terraced every hill and mountainside until t a single spare foot of surface was ft unimproved. They likewise con ructed aqueducts for irrigation pur ses, and also a series of magnificent ads, from twenty-five to fifty feet in idth, paved with blocks of stone, hich connected their royal capital at uzco with the various provinces part of the way these were cut out of solid stone, and often ascended precip itous heights by a series of stone stair ways. Traces of these roads still ex ist in many localities.

ALTAR IN HEART OF ARTIFICIA

One of the most noteworthy of the coast ruins investigated by Mr. Bandelier, who was sent out under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History, were those of Chan-Chan, commonly called Chimu, near the present city of Truxillo, typical views of which are here reproduced. The ruins extend for a distance of three miles, and are one and a half miles in width. Nothing remains of the original appearance and former grandeur

KS WITH OUR OYS AND RLS

baby is sick, and he's said the Lamb, rub-aby, of course—Wee Run. White Lamble, e your heels," scolded ery People heard the r feet upon the stairs, one another — k Dog has found the dr ving him to the s room" go when nurse open- e was the little lost k dog e had scam- nursery. "Well, of orld" said she, "if h that blessed child's how did it ever get ked him up and laid ast where the thin d reach him. The eagerly, and with a nt he laid his cheek back, and snuggled hen the doctor came ee Boy Geordie was t only the Nursery the little Black Dog deep and drove him s of them will ever d Campbell, in Sun-

...Y PETS.

just back from Cal- g to the family one and dogs often be- nds. Oroville, Cal., where very greatly saw its spots, rambling ee; dogs that were ed to it went up he fawn was per-there was another own. In the same its companion and e Newfoundland. e often seen play- rent downtown to- desire. On these dland seemed, by f the deer was at dogs, and saw to ted the deer. The e two attractive rom Oroville, tak- friends. rown doe I saw the same town) creek with some that it came and nd to milking (of not milked) daily 97 I was at Eden mouth. A wild, endocino county, this ranch. Big abundant there. "coughs" are the ures there. wild hog dogs, dogs are taught tirelessly. The and fight I ever een these dogs r that succeeded six of the larg- dogs. The bear live and dragged e tail of a riata, of the saddle of a male and fe- perfect uncon- gs, and all lap ouch (the fawn s like a pig and arved pig). It them pushing ng milk. These nother doe were her young, but hey would have strange dogs ise on the road orchard or the y 'went for' the hension, but of the proprie- kept a sharp gs and always saw evidences an in Virginia chased a tame unds at top delight of both e deer and dog master."

...AND.

e Crusoe," De- s ... took e original nar- ...ge has been island was sit- ast of South th of the Ori- be no doubt, d of Juan Fer- nd its lookout. Defoe has de- adventures of e been faith- h an added of "Robinson

A JAPANESE PANDO...

O Hana San's Husband Was ... sian With Secrets Which ... Discovered.

The Japanese have never ... Russians personally. Russia... dents of Japan were often ... thought of. The Russian ... dor, Baron Rosen, enjoyed the ... of all classes, and at the Inter... club was a favorite of many J... friends.

The sudden rupture of peace... lations between the two ... brought grief to many a ... friends, and even caused the ... tion of man and wife, says the ... Transcript. There comes to ... case of one Russian married to ... anese, and living at Yokoha... spoke Japanese almost like a ... and was in almost every resp... affectionate husband. The wife ... may be called O Hana San, ... fond of her husband, and all went ... until late in January, when ... most sanguine had abandoned ... peace.

For some time before this, ... O Hana San had noticed that her ... band, though frank and open in ... things, attached great importa... a sort of despatch box, which he ... allowed to leave his side for a ... stant. Even under normal cir... stances this fact would have ... her curiosity, both as a woman ... Japanese at that, but as a reader ... the vernacular press she was ... aware that were such beings as ... sian spies in existence, and that ... though her husband was ostensi... teacher, she really knew nothing ... his antecedents.

The husband had been only a ... triot. But patriotism is admir... the grand passion of the Japa... In feudal days it took the form of ... alty to a lord, and no true Sa... would hesitate for a moment be... tween the claims of a blood rel... and those of his chiefs. Today ... emperor is the great over-lord, ... Hana San, though she loved her ... eign husband, could not doubt ... where her duty lay. A Japanese ... verb has it, "Chushin ji kun ni ... kaezu." "A faithful servant will ... serve two masters," and acting in ... belief O Hana San determined to ... possession of the despatch box ... see what it contained. So one ... ing she took advantage of a co... Russian weakness and made her ... eign husband frightfully drunk, ... seizing the box hurried to the ne... police station. Here she told ... story, and the inspector comme... her for her patriotic action.

The box was broken open and ... enough contained numerous maps ... plans of Japanese fortifications ... naval ports, besides several val... Russian documents bearing upon ... enemy's military and naval sche... O Hana San was praised more ... ever. She smiled. The police of... were jubilant. Glory would be ... flected on them when, with great ... portance they should hand this b... to the high authorities. They p... one another's backs. O Hana San ... no difficulty in walking away u... ticed in their preoccupation. ... husband waked from his stupor ... time. Finding despatch box and ... both gone, he drew his conclu... and promptly left the country. A... O Hana San, she was never ... again. She had turned a corner ... was gone.

Tame Humming Birds.

Of all the birds, the humming ... especially when young, seem to ... play the least fear, says a writ... Country Life in America. It is a ... ficult matter to train a young ... bird to follow one about the h... or to come when called, yet we ... had several humming birds ... were perfectly domesticated, ... more thoroughly tame than ... bird I have ever seen. Two ... ming birds that grew up with us ... given a small place in a clos... our sleeping apartment. At the ... approach of daylight they would ... out into the room, the door being ... and directly to the bed, hovering ... my face, their loud humming ... awakening me at once. There was ... mistaking that the birds wished ... breakfast, and they could not be ... en away. At times I would pr... not to see them and they would ... ly alight on the bed, uttering ... quaint little sound, now perhaps ... protest, then would hover over ... face, so near that the wind from ... rapidly moving wings, was quite ... ficient to arouse me. When I held ... my finger one or both would ... on it and gaze at me in a m... which spoke volumes to any one ... aginative enough to think they u... stood the language of birds when ... are hungry.

Their food consisted of sugar ... water, which was fed to them ... a chop-stick-like straw. Immedi... upon seeing it they would poise ... the air and lick the drop on the ... until they were satisfied. Occ... ally they would poise before ... big red flowers printed on the ... tains. They recognized the pic... of flowers on sight and endeavor... press their bills into them. ... ficial flowers were approached in ... same way. In a word, these ... helpless, the smallest of all birds ... quired no education, no training ... parents; it was all instinctive.

Billville Spring Item.

"Ef I'm not mistaken," said ... neighbor, "a alligator has ... swallered yer boy, Jimmy."

"Shouldn't wonder," said the ... man, calmly knocking his ashes ... his clay pipe, "his mammy allus ... that he wus sweet enough to eat." ... Atlanta Constitution.

Ruins of the Ancient Inca Empire

By Walter L. Beasley

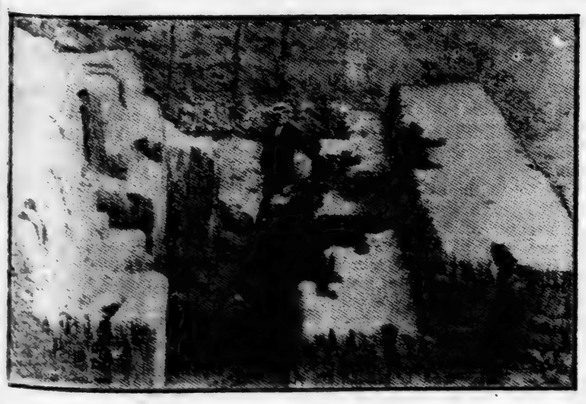
IT is said that the Inca tribe did not commence to be conquerors until they had first shown themselves to be statesmen and wise and ... ent administrators. Having ob... ed a fairly advanced civilization, ... began gradually to overawe and ... ...gregate the territory of less cul... ...al tribes of the coast and slopes ... the Andes, who slowly absorbed ... the religion and superior handi... ...ft of their conquerors. These con... ...ests extended over a period of sev... ...l centuries. The permanent estab... ...ment of Inca power is attributed ... ...ave serving secured the good graces ... their new subjects, and to their lib... ...l treatment and policy of concilia... ...n, than to force of arms. This con... ...ued until the limits of Inca rule ex... ...ded from the central plateau of Bo... ...ia to the western coast of Peru, ...k to Ecuador, and south to north... ...n Chile. The inhabitants of this ter... ...ory embrace many different tribes ... ...m to all rulers, living in different ... ...ges of enlightenment.

Under Inca sway and influence, both ... ...chitecture and the various industrial ... ...s reached their highest degree of ... ...ency. Few, if any, countries of ... ...olden times have equaled the ex... ...me and skillful utilization of land ... ...at was practised during the time the ... ...ca Empire flourished. In many lo... ...lities they built their dwellings ... ...mong rough rocks, on arid slopes of ... ...ills in order to use the limited area ... ...f soil for agriculture. They terraced ... ...every hill and mountainside until ... ...not a single spare foot of surface was ... ...left unimproved. They likewise con... ...structed aqueducts for irrigation pur... ...poses, and also a series of magnificent ... ...roads, from twenty-five to fifty feet in ... ...width, paved with blocks of stone, ...which connected their royal capital at ... ...Cuzco with the various provinces. ... ...Part of the way these were cut out of ... ...solid stone, and often ascended precip... ...itous heights by a series of stone stair... ...ways. Traces of these roads still ex... ...ist in many localities.

Of the most noteworthy of the ... ...ruins investigated by Mr. Bande... ...lier, who was sent out under the aus... ...pices of the American Museum of Nat... ...ural History, were those of Chan-Chan, ...commonly called Chimu, near the pres... ...ent city of Truxillo, typical views of ... ...which are here reproduced. The ru... ...ins extend for a distance of three miles, ...and are one and a half miles in ... ...width. Nothing remains of the orig... ...inal appearance and former grandeur of the buildings, except well-laid foundations, massive and peculiarly ornamented walls and groups of single-story, gable-roofed houses and courtyards. Mr. Bandelier estimates that some 40,000 persons occupied the place. The architectural plan of Chan-Chan comprised a series of about twenty open squares of courtyards intersecting one another. On certain sides facing these were erected a number of palaces or religious edifices. Each square was surrounded by an exterior wall of adobe blocks twenty-five feet in height. The larger buildings contained innumerable chambers and corridors, traversed by narrow passageways. Many treasures of gold and silver are said to have been found in these chambers and apartments. Around one of the great public squares were arranged some of the one-story adobe dwellings of the inhabitants. These are to-day graphically outlined, and preserve their original appearance, showing sharply-pitched gable roofs. There are no traces of windows. Light and ventilation seem to have been furnished by the door alone. It is supposed that some of the great squares and inclosures were occupied by the various craftsmen and industrial workers in pottery, weavers and dyers of fabrics, and fashioners of metal ornaments for the use of the ruler, his household and his priests. One of the curiosities discovered by Mr. Bandelier was an altar some fifty feet below the surface, which formed the heart of a great artificial mound, and which evidently occupied the central place in tastefully decorated with a network of frescoes in a series of duplicated designs of a conventionalized bird. These walls are surrounded by a mass of fallen debris, and nothing is left to throw any light upon their ancient splendor. Probably the most monumental and puzzling of all of the Inca ruins is the great pyramid on the banks of the Moche River. Sphinx-like, this majestic artificial mound rises upward in the air 150 feet, crowned by a series of terraces. It is 800 feet in length. The massive and imposing mound, reared by ancient builders, has marvelously defied time and vandalism, and still holds fast the secret of its creation, for it remains to-day a veritable enchanting riddle to the archeologist. The best preserved architectural ruins, and those showing to striking advantage the extraordinary skill of the Incas in handling, polishing, and setting massive stone blocks, are the Chulpas or burial towers. A celebrated and typical group is found at Sillistani, near Puna, built on a promontory 200 feet high. These peculiar and sumptuous sepulchres are termed by the late E. G. Squier, an authority on Peruvian culture, "the most elaborate and architecturally the most wonderful works of aboriginal Americans." The one here pictured is twenty-five feet high, twenty-seven feet in circumference on the top, and twenty-two at the base. The majority are round; others are square in shape. In these the bodies were interred with great pomp and ceremony, together with rich offerings of gold, silver and choice pottery. The interiors of the Chulpas vary in size and construction; some have a single vaulted chamber, others two, arched over by stone. A few have niches. The entrance is gained through a small opening at the bottom, hardly large enough to admit the body of a man. This was closed by a stone slab.—Scientific American.

ADOBE RUINED HOUSES IN COURTYARD, CHAN-CHAN.

Burial Tower, Sillustani, Peru.



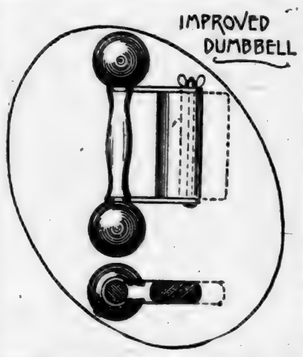
ALTAR IN HEART OF ARTIFICIAL MOUND, RUINS OF CHAN-CHAN.

Ruins of Chan-Chan, Chan-Chan.

DUMBBELL OR INDIAN CLUB.

An Excellent Feature in an Exercising Apparatus.

An entirely new design of dumbbell has recently been patented which permits of its use in much the same movements in which Indian clubs are employed. The original feature of the device is in the addition of a supplementary adjustable handle. The weights are of the usual spherical form, and are joined by the usual shaped handle. Projecting radially from the ends of this handle are two parallel arms. Between those arms is disposed a second handle, pivoted in such a manner as to extend the reach or grasp of the fingers and thumb. The practical effect of this construction is to give a firmer and more vigorous grasp, resulting in a better development of the muscles of the hand and forearm. A minor detail in the design is the provision for the adjustment of this auxiliary handle so as to make the span of the grasp longer or shorter as desired.



Sanctuary in Korea.

In Korea the rooms of a wife or mother are the sanctuary of any man who breaks the law. Unless for treason or for one other crime, he cannot be forced to leave those rooms, and so long as he remains under the protection of his wife's apartments he is secure from the officers of the law.

NEW IDEAS in TOILETTES

New York City.—Combinations of muslin and lace always are charming, but never have been more effective than at this present time, when both are offered in an unprecedented variety. The dainty waist shown is made of sheer white Persian lawn, with the yoke and frills of Valenciennes lace, applique of embroidery and belt of messaline satin, but the list of equally satisfactory materials is almost limitless. The model is an admirable one and can be made, as is this one, unlined, or over the fitted foundation, when it becomes suited to the many soft silks and wools of the season. The deep, scalloped yoke is eminently becoming, and the fall of lace below makes a most graceful finish at the same time that it adds to the breadth of the shoulders.

YOKE WAIST.

The waist consists of the lining, which is smoothly fitted, front, backs and yoke. Both front and backs are gathered at upper and lower edges and droop over the full belt. The yoke is separate and arranged over the whole and the sleeves are soft and full, with groups of tucks above the wrists which provide additional fulness for the drooping puffs.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is four yards twenty-one inches wide, three yards twenty-seven inches wide, or one and seven-eighth yards forty-four inches wide, with five-eighth yards of all-over lace, five and one-half yards of lace, two and one-half yards of applique and one-half yard of silk for belt to make as illustrated.

Colors For Hats.

Shades of blue, shades of Bordeaux, shades of green, shades of pink, are all favorite ideas for the entirely straw toque. It seems agreed that costume and hat shall make a compact as to color, and on these lines one notices that the new sleeve frills are of chiffon, matching the fabric of the frock or the coat and skirt in question. And this will be a very pretty fashion, of which a charming variation may be found in having the chiffon flowered, although the groundwork matches the material of the frock. For instance, with a black frock, frills or rose-patterned black chiffon, with a dark blue, frills of white and pinky-flowered blue chiffon, and then lace and chiffon may be blended.

The Coin Spot of Green.

The coin spot of green is now in evidence on crash or organdy, and on the useful foulard and also on the newer mohairs. It looks best on a white or a black ground. Fortunately the coin spots are set at proper intervals, not too close together. An ecru grass cloth patterned with coin spots of cool willow green, set at intervals never closer than five inches apart, is one of the successes of the season. A gown of this sort requires but little trimming, usually bands of the plain material, not using the spotted parts, finished with double row of shoemaker's stitching.

Put on Smart Jackets.

A good deal of braiding in gold and silver is being put on smart jackets, vests and gowns. It is said that all sorts of silver chains, belts, buckles and ornaments are to be worn with the white summer gowns.

Shirrings.

Shirrings are still so much in vogue in Paris, both for skirt and bodice embellishment, that they bid fair to stay in fashion here for some time to come.

Fancy Blouse Waist.

Fancy waists made with deep berthas and shallow yokes are conspicuous favorites of the season and are most charming made of the dainty thin materials so much in vogue. This one combines silk mull, all-over lace and inserted tucking, with trimming of narrow Valenciennes frills and is unlined, but the design suits soft silks and wools equally well and can be made over the fitted foundation whenever preferred. The horizontal tucks in waist and sleeves are among the notable features of the latest designs, and in addition to being effective, serve the practical end of giving needed body to thin fabrics. The belt is one of the new draped ones, and the waist blouses over it most becomingly.

The waist consists of the lining, the full front and backs and the deep scalloped bertha. The shallow yoke is formed by facing the lining to required depth and can be made transparent by cutting the foundation away beneath, whenever such effect is desired. The sleeves are simply full, shirred to form frills at their lower edges.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is six and three-fourth yards twenty-one inches wide, five and one-half yards twenty-seven inches wide, or three yards forty-four inches wide, with five-eighth yards of all-over lace for bertha, one-half yard of inserted tucking for yoke and twenty-one yards of narrow lace to make as illustrated.

FANCY BLOUSE WAIST.

A LATE DESIGN BY MAY MANTON.

A FABLE.

BY M'LANDBURGH WILSON.

There was a very learned man
Who had a foolish wish;
He set a mouse-trap on a bank
In hopes of catching fish.

He then went home and all day long
He sat around the house;
With rod and reel and wriggling worm
He tried to catch a mouse.

The moral of his enterprise
The world of life will match;
You always should adapt your bait
To what you want to catch.
—Colbert's Weekly.

FLASHES OF FUN.

The Instalment Collector—"Are you sure your mistress isn't in?" The New Maid—"I hope you don't doubt her word, sir."—Chicago Journal.

Nellie—"Gracious! How did you manage to knit so much in so short a time?" Ninette—"Every time I do ten rows I give myself a chocolate cream."

When with the stomach ache you moan,
Small boy, let this allay distress—
'Twould cost, if you were fully grown,
A thousand dollars, more or less.
—Washington Star.

Buxnbuz—"Whatband seems to be taking quite an interest in old Gotit's daughter." S. T. Udent—"No, it's only the principal he's after."—Princeton Tiger.

J. Axon Bond—"Would you have loved me had I been poor?" She—"Certainly, my love; but I'd have kept you in blissful ignorance of the fact."—Smart Set.

"Did Alkali Ike make that tenderfoot eat his words?" "No; the tenderfoot turned out to be one of those fellows who would rather fight than eat."—Chicago Journal.

Agent—"Madam, could I sell you this book of fairy tales?" Mrs. Muchwed—"No; I've been married four times, and fairy tales are a chestnut with me."—New Yorker.

"Just give me time," the culprit cried,
"And I will mend my ways."
"Oh, very well," the Judge replied,
"I'll give you ninety days."
—Philadelphia Ledger.

He (during the quarrel)—"Well, I don't seem to cut any ice in this world." She—"Well, it's a safe bet that you'll not be in the kind of climate where you will be able to cut any in the next."—Yonkers Statesman.

Mrs. Newlyriche—"Well, of all the impudence!" Mr. Newlyriche—"What is it, Hannah?" Mrs. Newlyriche—"Those poor first cousins of yours have gone and got themselves the same identical ancestors that you've got!"—Puck.

"Oh, George!" exclaimed the young wife, "it was nearly midnight before you got home last night." "Well, well!" exclaimed the husband, "you women are so inconsistent. Before we were married you didn't care how late I got home."—Sioux Falls Press.

Naggsby—"Was Bragsby surprised when he was nominated for the Governorship?" Waggsby — "Surprised? I should say so. Why, he was so taken aback that he almost forgot the speech of acceptance he had prepared in advance."—Baltimore American.

Betty—"So Maud is engaged? Well, I'm sorry for the man. She doesn't know the first thing about keeping house." Bessie—"Oh, yes, she does." Betty—"I'd like to know what." Bessie—"The first thing is to get a man to keep house for."—Harper's Bazar.

Ethel—"So Bob and Edith are engaged? Can he support her in the style to which she is accustomed?" Jack—"Support her? Why, he can't even support himself any longer in the style to which she has been accustomed to seeing him while courting her."—Judge.

The Teacher—"Now, Johnny, can you tell me what Joan of Arc did?" Johnny—"Which one do you mean, the Irish Joan of Arc, the Bricklayers' Joan of Arc, the Japanese Joan of Arc, or the Joan of Arc what led the messenger boys to victory last summer?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

The papers incorporating the Carnegie library of Selma are filed for record.

A new species of rubber tree has been discovered in Mexico.

EXCURSION RATES VIA THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

Atlantic City, N. J.

Meeting of the Imperial Council Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. Tickets on sale July 11, 12, with final limit returning to leave Atlantic City not later than July 23, 1904, at rate of one fare plus $1 for the round trip.

Knoxville, Tenn.

Summer School of the South. Tickets on sale July 5, 6, 11, 12, 18, 25, with final limit fifteen days from date of sale, with privilege of extension until September 30th by depositing with joint agent and paying 50 cents, at the rate of one fare plus 25 cents.

Cincinnati, O.

Grand Lodge B. P. O. E. Tickets on sale July 16, 17, with final limit returning July 25, 1904, with privilege of extension until August 25, by depositing with joint agent at Cincinnati and paying 50 cents, at the rate of one fare plus 25 cents for the round trip.

By paying a little higher rate tickets may be purchased to Cincinnati and return via St. Louis, Mo., with a ten-day stop-over at that point.

For further information apply to any Southern railway agent, or write to J. N. Harrison, district passenger agent; R. B. Creagh, traveling passenger agent, Birmingham, Ala.

july1-tf

VIRTUE'S REWARDS.

The baby that's good lies all day long,
Toying away with his toes,
And no one lingers to croon him a song
Or lessen his little woes;
The baby that's good neglected lies
Where the sun shines into his blinking eyes
And the flies trot over his nose.

The baby that squalls all day, all night,
Is "mother's sweet, precious pet;"
She fondles and rocks him with all her might,
And leaves everything else upset;
The baby that only knows how to squall
Is dawdled and pampered and always gets all
The care that there is to get.

The man who quietly toils away,
With never a plaint nor sigh,
Just doing his best day after day,
With hopes of the by-and-by,
Who merely accepts what the world accords,
Receives but few of the sweet rewards
For which the successful try.

The man who demands the best there is,
Who asks—as the poorest may—
Though others have stronger claims than his,
Takes the fairest gifts away;
The man who asks may have little worth
But he gets the best that there is on earth
For saying his little say.

—S. E. Kiser.

: Perversity Cured :

By Alice Thorp

"ALICE," said Chris, "I don't like to see you take up with that fellow Littleton. I don't like him, and I don't trust him."

"Oh, dear me, Chris," I answered, "you make yourself a perfect worry and torment to me. I am sure I would like you much better if you would throw off that sorry look and let me have a little peace. You positively spoil all my pleasure!"

And I put my handkerchief to my face, and with infinite difficulty, squeezed a tear from my left eyelid.

I was more inclined to laugh when I saw the woe-begone expression on the frank, honest face before me.

I knew that of all things Chris most feared making me unhappy; for that very reason, I suppose, I employed the dangerous talent all women possess of making a man feel that he has been cruel and inconsiderate.

Chris sat down beside me, and taking my hand, said, with a voice which love, allied to natural courtesy, made more gentle and tender than any woman's:

"Alice, dear, forgive me if I spoke hastily to you. I trust you most fully, knowing how good and true to me you are, and I never doubt you for one instant. So we'll say no more about him, my love."

And he advanced his face to give me the kiss which usually sealed the reconciliation of our little quarrels.

But I was not satisfied with my triumph. I liked to hector it a little over my lover; moreover, I felt that I was in the wrong, which, of course, made me spiteful. So I turned away my face, and replied coldly

"Mr. Littleton is my uncle's guest, and I could not avoid him, even if I wished to. He is excellent company, and is everything that a gentleman should be, in spite of your jealous distrust of him."

Chris' face flushed, but he controlled himself and gazed into my eyes with a look of tender reproach.

I tried to return his gaze with one of defiance, but failed utterly, and had to content myself with a small-sized sneer.

"Good morning, Miss Lyman. Good morning, Mr. Thorp!" said a mellow voice at this moment, and Mr. Stuart Littleton stood before us.

He was handsome—tall, and with that slight stoop which gives an indescribable air of gentility to some men, as if their constant occupation is bow to ladies.

"Your uncle and I," he added, "have sworn a truce to business for the rest of the day, and he refers me to you as the most accomplished person in the house in the art of pastime. Your uncle says your resources for making amusement are boundless; so oblige us by giving us the benefit of your most sage counsels."

I was angry at myself; and so, womanlike, I resolved to take my revenge on Chris, whose look of reproach haunted me. I was in one of those moods of unhappy recklessness which up to that time I had often indulged, but to which since that day I have never abandoned myself.

I felt that I deserved much more than the mild censure I had received, for I had neglected Chris most shamefully: but I determined to deserve his reproach still further, and if he chose to be jealous, to give him something to be jealous about.

In this amiable frame of mind, I summoned all my suppleness of wit, and entered heartily into schemes of amusement. Mr. Littleton and I absorbed all the conversation.

Chris could converse well and fluently, but I purposely chose such topics as he was unfamiliar with, and gave the conversation a tone of flippancy which he disliked.

Whenever he offered a remark, I either ignored it, or crushed it with some stupid sarcasm, at which Mr. Littleton would be very much amused. It was evident to me that the latter saw my purpose, and entered into it, and I am ashamed to say I welcomed his alliance.

Poor Chris proposed several games which would give him a chance of seeing me alone, but I scornfully rejected one and all without even condescending to give a reason.

Now, a word about the parties to this little drama. My parents had died while I was young, leaving me to the care of my kind uncle, Mr. Headley, in whose rambling, old country house I spent many happy years.

They had been wealthy, and I was much sought after as an heiress; but I had grown up together with Christopher Thorp, a neighbor's son. We had been lovers from an early age, and had been formally engaged for over a year.

Mr. Littleton was on a visit to my uncle as agent for a mining company, in which the latter had large interests. They were often closeted together, and my uncle had a high opinion of the visitor's capacity, and understood him to come from an immensely wealthy family.

Throughout all that morning I treated Chris outrageously, and flirted desperately with Mr. Littleton. At dinner I contrived to give him the seat next to me, and had the bitter pleasure of seeing the white face of my lover opposite to me. His behavior during the day was admirable. He never lost his temper once, and I had to acknowledge to myself that he had much more of the true gentleman about him than my new admirer.

After dinner, in spite of all my precautions to the contrary, Chris found me alone for a few minutes in the garden. His face was pale and troubled, but his manner quiet and collected.

"I want to come to an understanding," he said. "Have I been mistaken in you? I thought you loved me."

"It seems you have been mistaken," was all I replied.

"Then you wish this engagement broken off?" he asked.

"As you choose," I answered.

"Give me your hand, then, please."

With trembling fingers—but, oh, so gently!—he drew the betrothal ring off, and kissing my hand, said:

"Good-by!"

He then threw the ring on the ground, and placing his heel upon it, crushed it, and lifting his hat without looking at me, walked quietly away.

The agony of that moment I never wish to experience again. I would have cried to him, but I felt suffocated and could not speak. I would have flung myself at his feet and bathed them with tears, but that my limbs refused to move. I heard a slight cough behind me, and turning saw Mr. Littleton's servant, Parsons, standing not far from me. He looked away again instantly; but I knew that he must have beheld the whole scene between me and my lover.

That afternoon I was dazed with my misery, my punishment was so well deserved, but seemed so hard to bear. I went through the various amusements mechanically, looking always for Chris; but he never appeared. If he had, I would have begged him to forgive me before all the company.

They were a merry party of young folks, and game succeeded game. Mr. Littleton was always at my side, making love to me in many ways, and for a while his assiduous attention and respectful, though fervent, manner overpowered my listlessness.

At length somebody proposed a game of "hide-and-seek." It fell to my turn to hide, and I was glad of it, for I had become sick of my gayety, and wished to be alone. I knew of a place where few were likely to seek me.

At the top of the house was an observatory, in which was a very large chest. For what purpose it had been used I do not know, but it was perforated with numerous apertures and the boards had shrunken apart, so that any one could easily lie concealed in it without inconvenience from lack of air. I hastened up to this observatory, and seating myself on the top of the chest lid, abandoned myself to my misery.

I cannot remember how long I remained there, when I heard footsteps coming up the narrow stairway that led to the observatory. I hastily concealed myself in the chest, and heard two persons enter, one of whom sat down on the lid above me.

"Bob," said a voice, which I instantly recognized that of Mr. Littleton's, "we can neither be seen nor heard here, so we can have a little talk. By George, Bob! wouldn't it be a spec if I, Tom Limply, whose phiz adorns the rogues' galleries of almost every country in Europe, was to capture this pretty little heiress, with her cool million, hey?"

The other, whose voice I recognized as Parsons', replied:

"You'd better be quick, though. Those forged letters of the mining company may be discovered any day. And if you do marry this girl, how long do you expect to remain with her? Your 'physiog,' is pretty well known, I tell you."

"My dear fellow, I will stay just until I get my hand on the money bags—the way I did with that old French woman. All the women trust me," and he gave a sinister laugh.

I will detail no more of their conversation. It is sufficient that I learned from it that they were a pair of distinguished scoundrels; that their first object had been to swindle my uncle out of a large sum of money by means of their false representations and forged letters; but the possibility of securing my affections had only flashed across the mind of the mere accomplished villian when he saw that I was disposed to quarrel with my lover.

It was with a mixture of terror and relief that I heard these unconscious self-betrayals. The gulf to the edge of which my heedless temper had driven me was appalling, and, cowering in the old chest, I made the most solemn resolution of my life—one that I have faithfully adhered to since—to check the perverse spirit which urged me to indulge my pride at the expense of my best feelings.

After this precious pair had gone downstairs, I waited until they were beyond hearing, and then stretched out my arms to lift up the lid of the chest.

Horror! it was locked. The heavy lid had closed with a spring, and I was cooped up in a chest, in a lonely part of the old building, that was not visited once a month.

My situation was most terrible. I shrieked again and again for help. There was a rush of feet along the passage beneath, and up the stairs. The lid was wrenched open, and I was drawn from the chest by the loving arms of my loyal Chris. I could only murmur:

"Chris, my love, my darling! forgive me!" and I fainted on his bosom.

There is little more to be told. When Chris left me he accidentally received some information which led him to suspect that Mr. Littleton was an imposter.

Avoiding me, Chris had followed the villain about, and at length saw him and his servant go up to the observatory. Chris followed them as far as the floor directly beneath the observatory, and waited their coming down, hid under the stairway.

He was about to go down after them, when he heard my screams, and wild with fear, dashed up to my rescue.

The two conspirators were arrested, and sent to prison on many charges.

Chris and I are now happily married, but in all my felicity I shudder when I think of my narrow escape from the convicted felon, and how nearly I had realized the fate of the unfortunate Ginevra.—New York Weekly.

Economy in Small Things.

The man who saves something every year is on the road to prosperity. It may not be possible to save much; if not, save a little. Don't think a dollar or a dime is too small a sum to lay by. Everybody knows how little expenditures get away with large sums. But few seem to know that the rule is one that works both ways. If a dime spent here and a dollar there soon makes a large hole in a man's income, so those dimes and dollars soon become a visible and respectable accumulation. In this country, any man make himself independent, or keep himself under the harrow for life, according as he wastes or spends small change. How many things do individuals and families buy that they do not need or cannot afford! Think twice before you spend that small coin. Don't be stingy or mean, but also don't be foolishly self-indulgent. The self-indulgent person is far more likely to be ungenerous than the self-denying one. The money wasted on hurtful things alone—the drugs and medicines we mingle with our diet in the form of tea, tobacco, alcohol and the like—stand on the very threshold of prosperity, and bar the way of thousands to a home in their old age. Don't forget—"Economy is the road to wealth."

Titanic Patience.

